HIGHLIGHTS OF WORLD NEWS

The fourth tally of the Literary Digest poll to test the opinion of people concerning the New Deal shows that the majority of people in 23 out of 25 states are in favor of Roosevelt's policies. Maine and Vermont are the only two states of the 25 showing a majority vote against the New Deal. The vote now stands for the New Deal 370,491; against the New Deal 255,429. Many normal Republican states show a decided opinion in favor of the policies of Roosevelt.

Political conditions seem to be as uncertain in Cuba as they formerly were in Mexico. Jefferson Caffery, United States Ambassador to Cuba, has been threatened and gunmen shot at his residence. The Cubans generally resent the Platt Amendment which gives the United States the right to intervene in Cuban affairs.

The stratosphere is now furnishing a challenge to air adventurers. The United States and several foreign countries are choosing men and apparatus to explore the regions above us. Major William E. Kepner and Captain Stevens expect to rise nearly fifteen miles above sea level early in the summer.

Some of the scientists are predicting many new wonders for the next century. They predict that motors will be run by sunlight, planes will be furnished power from the ground, and infectious diseases will be stamped out. Dr. Morris Fishbein not only predicts the conquest of disease but also predicts that sizes of human beings may be regulated.

The general optimism throughout the country was responsible for another year of the Chicago World's Fair. A large additional area has been made available and is being occupied by a series of new attractions. Seventy-five per cent of last year's industrial exhibitors renewed their contracts and others are taking the places of those who did not renew.

After much delay the Senate Agriculture Committee voted 16 to 2 in favor of the nomination of Rexford G. Tugwell as undersecretary of Agriculture. The committee took action on June 12 and passed the nomination on to the senate. Chairman Smith of South Carolina and Senator Hatfield of West Virginia opposed the approval.

Secretary Morgenthau reports a heavier demand for small coins. The demand for pennies, nickels, dimes, quarters and half-dollars has almost exhausted the supplies in the Federal Reserve Banks, the Treasury, and the Mints.

Chairman Warren of the House Committee, United States Congress, has charged back to congressmen personal telegrams which have been sent. The telegraph bill for congressmen jumped from $50,000 last year to $113,000 this year.

Premier Mussolini and Chancellor Hitler held a conference last Thursday to discuss plans of bringing Germany back into the League of Nations and for closer German-Italian relations.

Dr. Hoole Speaks To History Club On Wednesday

To those few who may have erroneously had the idea that Dr. Hoole is only interested in verbs, synonyms, and Shakespeare, the members of the History Club can say that he is also interested and well informed in history.

His lecture to the club Wednesday night was an illumination of his knowledge of the history of South Carolina and events of the Civil War. He began by briefly telling the history of Charleston, S. C., showing a very early map of the city and pictures of important historical buildings. Then he passed around a collection of old papers, magazines and land grants, one of them dated 1776, and closed with an account of a Civil War battle in which his grandfather was killed. To have been able to see and handle these documents and papers made the history more real to those present.

The following officers were elected for the quarter: President, Arnold Gilbert; vice president, Leroy Brown; secretary, Estelle Hubbard.

OUR NEXT GOVERNOR

COL. BIBB GRAVES

COL. BIBB GRAVES ELECTED GOVERNOR

Colonel Bibb Graves broke the precedent and was the first to be elected Governor of Alabama a second term since the adoption of the Constitution in 1901. Colonel Graves won by a margin of over 20,000 votes and should be well fitted through training and experience to make Alabama a good governor.

The rural schools were given a full term of seven months and high schools and colleges were improved during the Graves administration. Much progress was also made in public health work. People, generally, are now expecting Alabama to make much progress during the next four years under a man who already knows the responsibilities of occupying the governor's chair.

THE TEACOLA WINS PRAISE FROM PRESS ASSOCIATION OFFICIAL

A. C. Shelton, faculty advisor of The Teacola, has received several communications from newspaper editors commending the school publication. The following message was received from E. C. Hall, Editor of the Alexander City Outlook and Secretary of the Alabama Press Association: "Just a word of thanks for sending me copies of your Teacola. I enjoy it very much and think it a fine piece of work. Please extend my thanks to your co-workers."

SUMMER STUDENTS ENJOY ACTIVITIES

Much interest is being shown by the summer school students in outside activities. Approximately a dozen tennis courts are in use at all hours of the day. Golf has become very popular since the completion of the golf course on the campus and many students are learning the game. Volley ball and many other games are coming in for their share of the interest. During the past few days the swimming pool has perhaps been the most popular spot on the campus with regular hours designated for different groups.

OUR STUDENTS PRAISE MERITS OF COLLEGE

Several Pupils Give Reasons For Choosing This School

The Jacksonville State Teachers College has experienced a steady growth during the past several years and it is interesting to know some of the reasons for the growth. Things don't just happen without a reason and it was decided that there must be some attractive features about this particular college to attract students. Blank pieces of paper were handed to a limited number of students recently with the request that they express briefly their reasons for selecting this particular college. The students were not a selected group but were the first ones to be seen in the hall. The following statements were given as their reasons for coming to Jacksonville:

Jasper Buckner—I had heard of the friendship that existed among the students and faculty. Everyone enjoys this type of student body and faculty.

Virginia Sue Munson—The scholastic rating of Jacksonville as a school and its reputation of putting out "Jim Dandy" teachers.

Evelyn Little—I wanted to be a teacher, Jacksonville State Teachers College rates high among the colleges of Alabama.

Briggs Hodgens—Because of the efficient training it offers in the profession of teaching, and at the same time enjoy an atmosphere of friendliness.

Margaret Sue Caffee—I chose Jacksonville because of the record it has, its reputation, and its favorable location.

Kathleen Franklin—To be prepared to fill my place as a most efficient citizen.

Mary Willie Elliott—My parents thought it to be the best State Teachers College and my father passes through Jacksonville every month.

Douglas Pool—It has the reputation of turning out the best teachers of any State Teachers College in the state.

Laurene Hinson—I liked the friendly attitude of the students, the teachers, and the townspeople.

Robert Mason—More convenient, more economical, and offers the kind of course I preferred.

Iris McGriff—I heard what a friendly school it was. I liked it, so I'm still here.

Grace Mackey—Because of the friendly attitude of the student.

MORGAN SOCIETY HAS FIRST MEETING OF SUMMER TERM

The Morgan Literary Society for Girls met in the parlor of Weatherly Hall, Tuesday night, June 5. The following program was rendered:

Devotional, Pauline Allen; piano solo, Mary Frances Geer; readings, Lottie Lowery; instrumental selections, Mary Gardner.

Several new members were enrolled and plans for a joint meeting were discussed.

The officers for the summer are as follows: president, Daisy Atkins; vice president, Valista McCracken; secretary, Iris McGriff; program committee, Sue Caffee, Ellen Church and Verna Sizemore.

REGRETS

We, the members of the staff now, wish to express our sincere regret for the loss of our former members. Also we wish to say to them that we are going to do our very best to succeed in our work on the paper and to keep up the good work that they started. Also we are not the only ones who miss you and wish you well, the school as a whole appreciates what you have done not only for the paper, but in other fields as well. We all wish you great success in any undertaking and are sure that you will have it.

MILDRED HOWELL,
Editor-in-Chief.

County Groups Of Students Are Organized Here

Last Friday, June 15, the students here organized into county groups. The purpose of the organization is that of drawing the students from the various counties closer together, and helping them to know other people from their home county. Picnics and other social activities were planned by several of the groups. It is also planned for each county group to have charge of the assembly program before the close of school.

Members of the faculty were appointed by President Daugette to assist members of the county organizations in planning the assembly programs and also to act as chaperons when social events are held.

Junior Class Have Dance

Members of the Junior Class enjoyed a Program Dance Friday evening, June 15, at Bibb Graves Hall. The hours for the dance were from 8 to 10:30.

LOYALTY TO THE COLLEGE

More than one hundred people received two-year diplomas and degrees from the State Teachers College each year. These people scatter in every direction. Some of them remember their Alma Mater; others do not. Those who are extremely loyal to the school from which they graduate will be greatly benefited by the school; those who are disloyal will receive little benefit from it. Everybody likes a loyal person. If he is loyal to his school and talks for it this loyalty will be rewarded in other directions. If every graduate who leaves the Jacksonville Teachers College should go out as a booster in a few years this school would be one of the most outstanding institutions of its kind in the entire country. Such progress would add to the prestige of the institution and would give prestige to the graduates. There should be a resolution adopted by every person attending the school to go out and spread praises for this institution. High school graduates should be urged to come here. Efforts should be made to place those who are receiving diplomas and degrees in good positions, and the school should be defended against all criticism and unfair attacks by the enemies of education. If this spirit can be carried out by every student now in attendance we may expect a bigger and better institution in the future.

THE LEADERSHIP OF TEACHERS

In many communities throughout the state the teacher is the only person who has had the opportunities of a high school education and some work in college. In such cases the teacher should be the most outstanding person in the entire community. He should be able to take the lead in all things. His training and education should be such that he can organize and conduct a Sunday School. He should be able to preside at community meetings where the parents are called together to discuss the affairs of the school as well as community problems.

Every teacher should be expected to do the above mentioned things and one who wishes to be outstanding should be better informed about the affairs throughout the state and nation than any other person in the community. If the teacher can fill such a place in the community he should be able to mould the opinions of all the people in the right direction. By having such ability the people will seek his advice on the selection of their public officials and the settlement of all important questions. Such a goal should be the aim of all teachers. When this condition has been reached, by improving members of the teaching profession we may expect great improvements in society throughout the entire country.

THE CHANGING CONCEPT OF EDUCATION

As our civilization advances our social, political, economic, and industrial affairs naturally become more complicated. If we are to continue to make progress our people must be better educated to meet the complex problems that will arise. A mere assembling of facts of past happenings will not suffice but people must be able to solve new problems.

One sadly neglected part of our education is that of current problems. The people need to know more of what is happening in the world today and how to solve the problems. The only practical sources of distributing this knowledge are through the schools and through the newspapers. There should be closer cooperation between these two agencies.

A more intelligently trained group of teachers will mean a more intelligent citizenship for the future. Every teacher should be a regular reader of newspapers and magazines. The outstanding social and political problems should be discussed in the class rooms. More attention should be given to teaching the children and less to the dry facts of the text-books. Our chief objective should be that of preparing the pupils for citizenship.

Steel leaders who discussed the strike situation with the President during the time it was in the threatening stage had one particularly strong position . . . they contended that if protection were provided against rioting and strong-arming of men who wanted to work that there would not be enough men go out on strike to affect operation . . . this was borne out in a poll of the Weir plant where only a handful voted for the strike.

More than 1,500 executives representing billions of dollars in annual business, attending the convention of the National Association of Credit Men in Los Angeles Tuesday were urged by a University of California professor "not to give way to fears concerning the future of America. Even in a depression we are living better than we did during good times 100 years ago. For all our insecurity, look back and get that contrast. Our greatest trouble is fear."

Letter To Editor

Dear Editor:

Here it is the eleventh hour, The Teacola almost ready to go to the press without a letter from me, imagine- Oh, the disappointment of the many students who read my letters regularly and who have no doubt said many things about me to the new students, who are looking forward to getting their Teacola.

It is with a feeling of sadness that we look around over the campus, missing the class of May. Their great joy in completing their work is as nothing compared with our "misery in giving them up." We could always look up to them, lean upon them and depend at all times upon their tasks assigned to the Senior Class. I say it with all due respect and reverence.

Reflecting over all of this has handicapped me to a very great extent and I have heard so many people remark (and in my presence) that I have lost some of my loquaciousness in the last few issues. Well, R. C. W. cannot say that about me anymore and not hear from me.

I rather enjoyed R. C. W.'s letter and I am sure others will while it is not as good as most of my letters, it is better than some. It seems that R. C. W. has decided that I belong to the female sex. If I were he I shouldn't count too much on that. You may see a nice looking young gentleman with Mr. Arnold and a few others in front of the building and lo! it is a girl ready to go on a field trip. Are you positive as to my sex, R. C. W.?

I want to insist that all students who are capable writers hand in articles suitable for the Teacola. They will all be used, I am sure, if they are as interesting as they should be and as mine are.

One of my loftiest ambitions is to be Editor-in-Chief of the Teacola and my motto is: "If at first you don't succeed, try, try again!"

Yours very truly,

A. H.

WITH the ALUMNI

Miss Lucile Arnold is spending the summer with her sister in Asheville, North Carolina. She will teach in the Profile school again next year.

Mrs. Lonette Stephens Ryan is attending school at Auburn this summer and is doing work toward the M. A. degree. Mr. Ryan is studying law at Cumberland University in Lebanon, Tennessee.

Mr. W. Taft Porter, Mr. Leamon Camp, Miss Irene Teal, Mr. Bonard Hamric, and Mr. James B. McClendon are doing work toward the M. A. degree at Peabody College in Nashville, Tennessee, this summer.

Mr. Alvis Hamric is doing work toward the M. A. degree at Auburn this summer.

Mr. James E. Casey will be principal of the school at Spring Garden in Cherokee county again next year.

Miss Naomi Adderhold and Miss Hildegard Ledbetter will teach at Cedar Bluff next year.

Mr. Horace Lee Stevenson will teach physical education and direct athletics at Five Points next year.

Gordon Dabbs will teach in Union Hill High School in Chambers county next year.

E. L. Stewart is head of the vocational department of Milltown High School in Chambers county.

The swimming pool is now open, and, believe it or not, it is very popular, even more so than the class room.

Here and There

With LEON O. WIGINTON

Isn't it wonderful how much good a week's vacation can do to a person sometimes? I found the old home town just as I left it with only a few minor changes. Some of my old pals were married while others were out of town on a vacation. The trip home caused me to appreciate the people of J. S. T. C. more than I have ever done before. I really didn't know that I would miss all of you like I have. I was ready to come back the day after I arrived home.

I understand the salary schedule for next year will be fixed according to the amount of college work a person has had. This is probably one reason we have so many in summer school. I would like to take this opportunity to join in with the Teacola staff in welcoming all the new students as well as the old. We want you to feel that the Teacola is a part of you. Read it, contribute to it, and offer any constructive criticism you have.

I don't know why but I have grown to love J. S. T. C. I feel out of place when I am away from here. Sometimes when I get to thinking of having only six more months to stay here, I begin to wonder where I will be then and what I will be doing. I came here to like it and I did. I'm hoping my life's work will be as enjoyable as these months I have spent here. This, I know, sounds like a farewell, but I write just as I think, and I am thinking like this now.

School seems to be a bit different from what it did last quarter as there are so many new students. Bruner and I went over to Daugette Hall Sunday night and I heard one girl say "Yes there is a man coming to Daugette Hall too, believe it or not." I'll bet she has a "honey" back home that she happened to be wishing for about that time. Don't worry about him because it will do you good to stay away from him a while.

I often think of the motto of Hackleburg High School "H. V. H. S. is what we make it." Life is the same way, for if we live fully we will be proud of it some day. I am getting old enough to realize the importance of my time while in school. Let me leave this thought with you. Your time in college will stand high above all the rest, so make the best of it. These good old days will long be remembered so its up to you to make them fond remembrances or merely just a year of frolic and good time.

If I get to stay in school all summer, it will be through sacrifice not only on my part but of others as well.

I had a funny dream the other night. I dreamed I was rich, and that I was having the best time of my life, but when I awoke to find it was only a dream I almost wished I had not dreamed at all, but dreams sometimes give you an inspiration which make you have something to look forward to in life. I never shall forget what Prof. Shotts once told me: "A person who does not build aircastles, and dream day dreams is not, and will never, be worth anything." If a person is content with himself, he either has ego double plus or he just doesn't care to advance. He is perfectly contented to stay in the same old rut day after day, and live in the same old way. A thing of this nature becomes monotonous to me. I like a change now and then, even in girls. I may never amount to much but you can't make me believe it now. I have my ambitious just the same as anyone else, and believe it or not I intend to realize them some day. Like the author of the "Campus Oracle" said "I may not become another Valle, but I'm not content to dilly-dally."

Y. M. C. A. Reorganizes

Y. M. C. A. activities were resumed Wednesday in room 17. There have been no meetings for the past two weeks, because of the fact that the old officers have gone home for the summer. A large group of members and potential members met with Mr. McCluer, the faculty adviser, Wednesday and discussed plans for the summer.

New officers will be elected next Wednesday. The Y. M. C. A. is optimistic over its future, and great things are expected of it.

Prentice Thomas, regular term president, and state Y. M. C. A. president, is now attending a Y. M. C. A. meeting in North Carolina.

DR. DAUGETTE SPEAKS AT ASSEMBLY JUNE 11

President Daugette spoke to the student body at assembly Monday, June 11, on the value of an aim in life. Dr. Daugette urged the students to strive for higher things and urged the students to forget about their handicaps and prepare themselves to go out in the world to make a reputation which will reflect credit on themselves and the school from which they graduate.

Hon. Harry Herzfeld of Alexander City, prominent farmer, banker, and businessman, has donated a strip of land near Lake Martin and will construct a club house for home demonstration women, 4-H club girls, and girl scouts.

body, and I think it is the best State Teachers College in Alabama.

Melvin Yates—I wanted to prepare myself to teach school. I believed that J. S. T. C. was the best teacher-training school in the state.

Vera Martin—My friends and parents thought it was a good place for me to be. I liked it at the beginning and that's one big reason I'm still here.

Hershel York—I came to Jacksonville because I thought it the place best fitted in Alabama for the training of teachers. Second, I came here because it is the most economical school; and thirdly, I came here because it has the name of having the friendliest student body of any school I've heard of.

Wilma Everette—To be better prepared to teach.

Vertis Day—To learn new ideas and the best methods of teaching so that I may be able to apply them in my school room next year.

Gladys Simpson—To learn newer and better methods of teaching so that I will be a better teacher and a better citizen.

Dorothy Burnham—Living in Jacksonville I felt as though I could get practically the same instructions, in my home town college, as I could anywhere else.

Wilma M. Claxton—The training received here is the best found in the state. The fees are very reasonable and you feel that you accomplish so much for the small cost, the instructors are so congenial making you feel you are just a member of the "big family."

Helen Wright—Several from my home town recommended Jacksonville very highly and I know that they have made a success at teaching.

J. C. Davidson—The personal touch between our President and all the students, the faculty and students, and the students themselves. Any appreciative student is glad when he is recognized by a member of the faculty or by a fellow student when that person calls him by his name.

The peach and pear crop in Alabama for this year is the best in recent years but the apple crop is not so good, reports F. W. Gist, state and federal statistician.

Calhouns Meet

The Calhoun Literary Society for Women is an active organization this summer. They are having their usual weekly meetings.

The program for June 14 was as follows:

Song: Juanita; Scripture: Connie Lee; reading: Mary Wheeler; vocal solo: Leon Wiginton; vocal solo: Margaret Sue Caffee.

Everyone is invited to attend these weekly meetings.

Square Dance Held

The Physical Education 302 class of the college enjoyed an evening of our native square dancing last Friday evening at Kilby Hall.

Fifty couples were divided into two groups. The first dance was "Right hand across" followed by "Lady around the lady."

Music was furnished by the school string band. Fruit punch was served throughout the evening.

Holland-Shores

An announcement has been received of the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Holland to Mr. Lucius Glenn Shores at the home of the bride in Lineville on Saturday morning, June 9. Miss Holland is a former Jacksonville student and has been principal of one of the schools in Gadsden during the past few years. Mr. and Mrs. Shores will make their home in Gadsden.

Kidd-Newell Wedding

Miss Velma Kidd was recently married to Mr. Howie Newell at the home of the bride in Anniston. Mr. and Mrs. Newell are both former Jacksonville students and both have been teaching in Cleburne county during the past few years. They were popular students while here and have many friends throughout this section of the state.

Leath-Dabbs Wedding

An event of much interest to friends throughout Alabama and Georgia was the marriage of Miss Katherine Leath of Jacksonville, Alabama, and Mr. Gordon Dabbs of Dadeville, Alabama, which was solemnized at the bride's home Thursday, June 14, at 10 a. m. Only members of the family and a few friends were present. Both Mr. Dabbs and Miss Leath are graduates of the State Teachers College.

IT CAN BE DONE!

Note—This is the second of a series of true accounts of young people's experiences in getting an education. Other similar accounts will be given in later issues.

It was about the middle of July when the sun perhaps was bearing down hotter than on any other day during that month when a representative of the State Teachers College accompanied by a former student walked across plowed ground a distance of approximately one-half a mile and hailed a very bright looking young man who apologized for his dust-covered overalls, blue shirt and broad brimmed hat. He was ready to turn his mule around to plow another furrow which extended several hundred feet across the field. He was called to the shade and asked a few questions about his plans for the future.

His father was a tenant farmer and had very little ready cash for the education of his children. The older brothers and sisters had gone through the grades in the little school nearby and considered themselves well enough educated to meet the problems of life and went in search of jobs or contented themselves at becoming tenant farmers. George felt that he perhaps might follow the example set by the older brothers and sisters as he did not see a chance of his continuing his education even though he had driven a school bus to the nearest high school and had received a high school diploma. He was endowed with much natural ability and was extremely ambitious to develop himself into a useful citizen. He had received and read carefully college bulletins and each time laid them aside with a sigh and felt that there was not a chance of his continuing his education.

When the representative of the State Teachers College was introduced to him by the former student who was one of George's best friends he naturally felt complimented that this representative should feel enough interested in him to endure the hot sun to walk the distance that he had walked from his car to talk to him about opportunities which were available for him. George insisted that there was not a possibility of his getting a college education as he had no money and did not know where it could be gotten. As he sat on the ground with his arms folded around his knees there was a look of sadness on his face and out of his down-cast appearance there was also a look of determination. He listened attentively to everything that was said by the college representative. He learned that other boys and girls in his same financial condition had gotten an education at Jacksonville. After a time the college representative and the former student walked away with a feeling that there was a very bright and promising young student who needed financial assistance but probably would not be able to secure it.

As George went about his plowing he thought of all that had been said to him. He could picture himself in some higher position and each time the thought of his financial condition came back to him to say "It can not be done."

When George had eaten his supper that evening he sat on the front porch of his home in the cool of the night. His thoughts wandered about from one person to another who might be induced to lend him a small amount of money. He talked the matter over with his parents. They reminded him of the fact that he was needed on the farm and they were not able to hire people to do the work. They also reminded him of the debts which had to be paid in the fall and doubted his being able to borrow the money but finally ly agreed that the work on the farm could be handled if he could arrange his financial affairs.

George continued to wonder if some way would not be found for him to secure the necessary money to go to college. He finally decided to talk to the local banker who was a man of high ideals and one who believed in giving young people an opportunity. Mr. Jones, the banker, assured George that he would lend him enough money to complete one year at the State Teachers College provided it did not take more than it had been estimated to cost.

When school opened in September George was one of the first young men to present himself for registration. He had brought with him to Jacksonville enough dried fruits and vegetables to last until time to go home for the Christmas holidays. He had rented a room near the campus for light housekeeping at a cost of $3.00 a month.

Throughout the year George took an active part in the work of the Y. M. C. A., Literary Societies and all other activities of the school. He was also diligent in his work and succeeded in making excellent grades during each quarter.

At the end of the first year George secured a position as principal of a two-teacher school in his home county and he was also able during that year to pay back all of the money that he had borrowed in going to school nine months at Jacksonville. The school closed in time for him to re-enter at the beginning of the spring quarter and by borrowing a small amount of money he was able to continue on through the summer, getting in six months of schooling during that year and also teaching a term of six months.

George has continued teaching during the winter and attending school in the summer until he now holds a college degree and is principal of a large consolidated school.

George often recalls in talking of his experiences the difficult problems which he had to face in getting started toward securing his education. He felt many times that it could not be done but he now says to all other young men in similar circumstances "IT CAN BE DONE!"

JUNIOR HIGH GIVES CHAPEL PROGRAM

Fendley-Irby Wedding

Miss Virginia Fendley and Mr. Frances Irby were married on Sunday, June 10, at the home of the bride in Selma. Miss Fendley was a popular student here during the past four years and received the B. S. degree in May. Mr. Irby is a popular young business man of Jacksonville.

MANY STUDENTS TAKE COMMERCIAL SUBJECTS

Miss Willie Thompson, teacher of Commercial subjects in the Jacksonville high school, has organized classes in shorthand and typing for college students who are interested in that type of work. Miss Thompson reports an enrollment of forty students. Thirty-two are taking typing and eight others are taking both shorthand and typing.

History Club Is Doing Good Work

(By Bela Fordham)

During the spring quarter of 1933 many of the students in the history classes felt that there was a need in the college for more study of political and economic problems, both past and present. Realizing this need, the students of the History Department dedicated themselves to the task of meeting this need, by organizing the History Club to discuss the needs of the present, the mistakes and successes of the past, and the potentialities of the future.

The first executive committee was composed of Woodrow Hinds, President; Thomas Childres, Vice President; and Neil Jones, Secretary. The executive committee serves for three months, and no committee member may succeed himself. Therefore, many members receive training in leadership.

Mr. R. P. Felgar, head of the History Department, is faculty advisor. Mr. Leon McCluer and Mrs. Mary Etta Stephenson, of the History Department are also members.

All members of the History Club must be students or Alumni of the Jacksonville State Teachers College. All applicants, including charter members, are required to have an average of B in history before being admitted to membership. Applicants for membership must apply to the executive committee at least one week before the regular meeting time. The chairman of the executive committee appoints other necessary committees. All appointments must have the approval of the whole executive committee.

The History Club meets on the second Wednesday evening of each calendar month, at Bibb Graves Hall. Papers on historical subjects are discussed from historical sources such as: "The Early Ancestry of Jefferson," "The Accomplishments of Jefferson," "Battles That Took Place in United States' Wars in May," and "The Life of Stonewall Jackson." A most interesting review of the National Democratic Convention in Chicago was given in two periods.

The members of the History Club are not so collegiate as to care nothing for social activities. Those who attended the Revolutionary party remember it as one of the liveliest social affairs of the spring quarter. A picnic has been scheduled for the summer quarter. Plans for the picnic were made at the last meeting, June 13. Students of the college are invited to attend the meetings of the club. New students are most cordially invited and each member is urged to attend.

'BLACK-EYED SUSAN' WILL BE PRESENTED ON FRIDAY, JUNE 22

"Black-Eyed Susan," a three-act musical comedy will be presented in Kilby auditorium on Friday night June 22, at 8:30 o'clock by the Episcopal Guild of Jacksonville. The play is one of Wayne P. Sewell's latest productions and is said to be one of the prettiest and funniest plays that has ever appeared in this section. The promoters state that all who see the play will enjoy some clean wholesome fun as "there is a laugh in every line."

The cast is composed of forty of the leading citizens of Jacksonville. A small admission charge will be made which will go to some good cause.

The cast is as follows: Suzanne Van Cort, Mildred Varnon; Phil Langdon, Latelle McCormick; Miss Letty Pennyfeather, Mary Edna
