Some of the students are predicting many new wonders for the next century. They predict that motion will be run by electricity, planes will be furnished points from the ground, and that electricity will be used to stamp out Dr. Morris Fishbein not only preclude the conquest of disease but also predict that most of human beings may be rendered immortal.

The general opinion throughout the country was responsible for the admission of Wisconsin at the annual National Farm Fair. A large additional area has been made available and is being occupied by the farmers because of a great advancement. Seventy-five per cent of last year's industrial exhibitors renewed their contract and others are taking the places of those who did not renew.

After much delay the Senate Agriculture Committee has finally reported in favor of the nomination of R. O. Tugwell as undersecretary of Agriculture. The Senate took action on June 12 and passed the nomination, which was adopted by the House of Representatives.

Chairman Smith of South Carolina and Senator Hatfield of West Virginia opposed the appointment.

Secretary Morgenthau reports a heavier demand for small coins. The demand for pennies, nickels, dimes, quarters and half-dollars has almost exhausted the supplies in the Federal Reserve Banks, the Treasury, and the Mint.

Chairman Warren of the House Committee on Finance has charged back to congressmen personal telegrams which have been sent to them. The amount of telegrams jumped from 50,000 last year to 812,000 this year.

Premier Mussolini and Chancellor Hitler held a conference last Thursday to discuss plans of bringing Germany back into the League of Nations and for closer German-Italian relations.

COUNTY GROUPS OF STUDENTS ARE ORGANIZED HERE

Last Friday, June 15, the students organized into county groups. The purpose of the organization is that of drawing students from the various counties closer together and interested in them to know other people from their home county. F F A and other social activities were planned by several of the groups. It is also planned for each county group to have charge of the assembly program before the close of school.

The members of the faculty were appointed by President Daugte to assist the student members of the county planning in the assembly programs and also to act as supers when social events are held.

HIGHLIGHTS OF WORLD NEWS

The fourth tally of the Literary Digest poll to test the opinion of prospective presidential candidates shows that the majority of people in 28 out of 30 states and in favor of Roosevelt's policies. Maine and Vermont are the only two states that are voting against the New Deal. The vote now stands for the New Deal 370,600, and for Hoover 256,400. Many normal Republican states show a decided opinion in favor of the policies of Roosevelt.

Political conditions seem to be unstable in Cuba as they formerly were in Mexico. Jefferson Caffery, United States Ambassador to Cuba, has been chartered and gunnies in his residence. The Cubans generally resent the Platt Amendment which gives the United States the right to intervene in Cuba affairs.

The situation is now furnish- ing a challenge to the neutrals. The United States and seven foreign countries are choosing men and apparatus to expel the region about us: Mexico, Haiti, and Panama; and Captain Stevens expects to reach the nearly fifteen miles above sea level this week.

LOYALTY TO THE COLLEGE

More than one hundred people received two-year diplomas and degrees from the School of Education and Social Service. The majority of them are already in their second or third years of teaching. Some of them remember their Alaka Maitai; others do not. Those who are extremely loyal to the school from which they graduated will return to the campus. Those who are no longer students will receive little benefit from it. Everybody likes a loyal person. If he is loyal to the school and talks for it this loyalty will be rewarded in other ways as well.

The School of Education and Social Service is a part of the entire country. The more you go to some of the public schools, the more your ideas about the public school system are going to be the same as those of the people you are trying to help.

The LEADERSHIP OF TEACHERS

In many communities throughout the state the teacher is the only person who has had the opportunities of a high school education and some work in college. In such cases the teacher should be the most outstanding person in the entire community. He should be able to take the lead in all things. His social and educational ability should be such that he can organize and conduct a Sunday School. He should be able to provide at community meetings where the parents are called together to discuss the affairs of the school as well as community problems.

Every teacher should be expected to do the above mentioned things and one who wishes to be outstanding should be better informed about the problems of the other person in the community. If the teacher can find such a place in the community he will be of direct and indirect service to people in the right direction. By having such ability the people will seek his advice on the selection of their public officials and the settlement of all important questions of the community. When this condition has been reached by improving members of the teaching profession we may expect great improvements in society throughout the entire country.

THE CHANGING CONCEPT OF EDUCATION

As our civilization advances our social, political, economic, and industrial affairs naturally become more complicated. If we are to continue to maintain our former systems of society we must be able to meet the complex problems that will arise. A more assembling of facts of past happenings will not suffice but people must be able to solve new problems.

One sadly neglected part of our education is that of current problems. The people need to know more about the problems of the present. The only practical sources of distributing this knowledge are through the schools and through the newspapers. We need to be informed about what the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) is doing and the like. A more intelligently trained group of teachers will mean a more intelligent citizenship for the future. Every teacher should be a regular reader of the current events in the newspapers.

These problems should be discussed in the class rooms. More attention should be given to teaching the children and less to the adults. The junior and senior classes' chief objective should be that of preparing the pupils for citizenship.

Steel leaders who discussed the strike situation with the President during the time it was in the newspapers failed to keep one thing very strong position they com- bined that it protected their individual financial interest and the strong- arm of men who wanted to work. They went on strike to affect a strike operation... This was borne out in a poll of the Wist plant where only 14 took the vote for the strike.

body, and I think it is the best State Teachers College in Alabama. Melvin Talia—I sought to prepare myself to teach school. I believe that J. E. T. C. was the best teacher-school in the training of teachers. Second, I came here because it is the most economical school; and thirdly, I came here because it has the name of having the friendliest student body of any school I have heard of. Wmia Kervin—To be better prepared to teach.

Verta Day—To learn new ideas and methods so that I may be able to teach them. I have been at school ever since I could see and understand the instruction. In my school home town, I could not anywhere else.

Wm. A. Claxton—The training you have received here is the best found in any State. The fees are very reasonable and you feel that you accomplish as much for the small cost, the instructors are so congenial making you feel you are just a member of the big family.

Rudolph Wright—Several of my home town returned Jacksonville very highly and I know that they have made a success at teaching.

J. C. Dawkins—The personal touch between our President and all the students, the faculty and students, and the students themselves. Any appreciative student is glad when he is recognized by a member of the faculty or by a fellow student when that person calls him by his name.

The peach and pear crop in Alabama for this year is the best in recent years but the apple crop is not as good, reports P. W. Out, state and federal statistician.

IT CAN BE DONE!

Note—This is the second of a series of true accounts of young people who have performed an education. Other similar ac-

... currently under study. It was about the middle of July when the sun was beginning to go down hotter than it had yet during the winter months when a representative of the State Teachers College. The young student walked across plowed gulls a distance of approximately half a mile to the ocean. He had bright looking young man who apologized for his being late. He was dressed as usual and a shirt and broad brimmed hat. He was ready to turn his route around, when someone had left him about plans for the future.

His father was a tenant farmer and was very little ready cash for the education of his children. The boy brothers and sisters were able to follow the grades in the little school nearly and considered themself fortunate and was of the children of the problems of life and went in search of work. He had arranged with the teacher a letter of introduction.

George felt that perhaps he might find work on the farm, but the brothers and sisters as he did not see a chance of his continuing his education, for they had to work at the farm school to receive their education.

He was employed with much natural ability and was eventually taught in a small school and was able to make his own way to school.

At the beginning of the spring quarter George took an active part in the work of the P.T.A. Club, Literary Societies and all other activities of the school. He was also diligent in his work and succeeded in making good grades during each quarter.

At the end of the first year George received the principal of a two-teacher school in his home county and the work left during that period to pay back all of the money that he had borrowed in order to attend school in Jacksonville.

The school closed in time for him to return to him the beginning of the spring quarter and by borrowing a small amount of money, George was able to continue his studies through the summer, getting in six months of schooling during that year and receiving a certificate of six months of study.

George has continued teaching during the summer and attending the teachers' school last summer when he now holds a college degree and is principal of a large consolidated school.

George often used his experiences in the education of the different fields which he had to face in getting started toward securing his education. He felt many times that his education could not be done but he new way to all other young men in similar circum-

tances IT CAN BE DONE!
