Last week a bill to establish legislative salaries at $6 again instead of the depression $4 was defeated and an anti-sedition bill was introduced. Newspaper publishers are fighting the sedition bill with a complaint that it would nullify freedom of the press.

The United States Supreme Court by unanimous vote ruled the code-making authority granted the administration in the NRA unconstitutional Monday. The judges reasoned that Congress had exceeded its authority in delegating to the executive branch power to promulgate codes of fair competition have the force of law because it did not set up standards to guide the executive, and that the government has no power to regulate hours and wages in transactions affecting interstate commerce.

This decision brings to an end the months of increasing tension as the attention of the nation came to focus on the court for an end to dispute over constitutionality.

Prospects are Bright For Fall Enrollment

Already the prospect list for fall quarter indicates that a new record for enrollment will be established next fall. The enrollment for the past year shows the largest in the history of the school and the 1935-36 enrollment likely will be considerably larger. Many people who have recently graduated from high schools are writing for information concerning the expenses. The Jacksonville State Teachers College today has perhaps third to the largest enrollment of the colleges in the state, being surpassed only by Auburn and the University of Alabama. Hundreds of young men and young women are finding it possible to come to Jacksonville where otherwise their chances of attending college would be uncertain. The regular session will begin on September 16.

Summer School Enrollment is Largest in Years

The summer school enrollment has broken another record for the State Teachers College with the largest number registered in years. Many former students have returned and a large number of people have transferred from other institutions.

Registration for the full quarter of work closed Monday. Many others are expected to enroll for the last six weeks of the summer quarter on July 6. Several new teachers have been employed to take care of the over-flow enrollment.

The Residence Enrollment is 73 per cent Over Enrollment Last Year

The fifty-first regular session of the State Teachers College closed last week with the largest number of students enrolled in the history of the institution. 1070 students were enrolled in residence and 673 others were enrolled in the extension division. The residence enrollment is 73 per cent over the enrollment for last year. In addition to the above numbers the college also had 335 children enrolled during the year in the training school and 295 enrolled in the high school. Thirty-eight counties and four states are represented in the increased enrollment with large numbers of people coming from the counties of northeast Alabama. More than 75 per cent of the students live within a two hour drive of the institution.

Dr. Charles A. Brown, Associate Superintendent of the Birmingham City Schools delivered the Baccalaureate address on Monday, May 27 at which time nine students received B. Church South.

Mutterings In My Sleep

By
ARTHUR ALLEN

My room is dark.
I see no light
Save that of stars
Which twinkle through the night.
The crickets chirp,
And in the wall
A death watch ticks,
And that is all.
I lie so quiet
And I count sheep
My room-mate says
I mutter in my sleep.
I wish that I
Were like the ape
I think I'll glue
My mouth with tape.

GAME DEPARTMENT WARNS FISHERMEN

This is the season of the year, the State Department of Game and Fisheries cautions, when many people are poisoned by coming in contact with poison ivy, poison sumac and poison oak while on outdoor excursions.

The department is particularly anxious for fishermen, who frequent the banks of fresh water streams, to keep this in mind and take precautions against these skin irritations.

As an aid to anglers, picnickers and others making outdoor trips this summer, it suggests that they equip themselves with lotions or other medicines which may be locally applied at the time of contact. Among those suggested are the Calamine, Saola and Poison ivy lotions which may be obtained at any drug store.

These are recommended where the infection is slight and may be treated in its early stages. For the more serious cases a poison ivy serum is available and if given before the poison has an opportunity to spread, its healing powers usually are very effective.

In addition to these medical remedies, the department urges all outdoorsmen to remember:

"Berries red, have no dread!
Berries white, poisonous sight!
Leaves three, quickly flee!"

HOBBY—WHAT IS YOURS?

By PANSY THORNTON

What is your hobby? Is it a source of education and inspiration? Does it make or break you? What does it mean to you in material or educational value? Hobby forming is habit forming, and good hobbies develop good habits. The world's greatest men, sometime in their lives, had hobbies in which they spent their idle moments; in which their future was probably realized in vocational characterization, if not in action and discipline.

There are hundreds of different and interesting hobbies which are a source of pleasure as well as fun and education. Some collect stamps, foreign money, butterflies, sea-shells, magazines, etc. But nowhere have we found a hobby, a collection of any material that cost the collector anything and yet nets him dividends and education.

In deciding upon a hobby for school students, that costs nothing and yet returns educational value as well as dividends, is "a collection of thoughts," says one of America's famous writers, "is the foremost educator of the time." In collecting thoughts one is developing his memory and is developing his intellect to the power of concentration in subjugation of the education.

While going to school, one should form habits to improve his mind, and in doing so improve his education. If you have a bad memory, start a collection of thoughts, copy your ideas in a notebook and compare with metaphysical facts. Thought collecting alone as a brain exercise is worth lots of one's education, a part of your time should be spent in thinking, whether on problems of life or imaginations: it pays in educational value.

What will I do with "a thought collection?" you will ask. What did all our great men do with them? "Proper concentration on worthwhile problems is the force of, and to success."

A large percent of the world's progress is credited to common thoughts and common thinkers, who later assembled then common thoughts into machines and labor-saving devices, and put their ideas into power, and other beneficial necessities. Today, those thinkers have a place in the world's history.

THE IDEAL TEACHER

Many people who are preparing to enter the teaching profession are thinking in terms of the type of certificate which can be secured and the salary which will be received. These things are very important, but they are not the most important by any means. The welfare of the child and the building of the future citizenship of our country should be the most important thoughts in the minds of persons preparing to teach. We are asking that all "would be teachers" take stock of themselves and see how nearly they can measure up to the ideal.

If we were to set up an ideal for all teachers, it would be a person who possesses a thorough knowledge of the subject matter to be taught, but one who, also, possesses those characteristics which many parents would be willing to accept as a model for their children to follow. Such a person must develop a pleasing personality so as to win the love and admiration of his pupils. He should be reasonable, pleasant, and fair in all of his dealings. He should not be sarcastic, but should practice the golden rule in every way. He should be honest and sincere and should never make an untrue statement or break a promise. He should be prompt in the payment of his just obligations. He should be neat and clean at all times and a total abstainer from the use of tobacco and strong drinks. He should be optimistic and attempt to point the way of all of his students to the art of better living, giving them a living example of true citizenship so that it will be reflected in their lives.

Educational Opportunities for All

It is gratifying to know that Alabama boys and girls who have only a limited amount of money may get a college education.

Many of the Jacksonville students have found it possible to remain in college a period of nine months on as little as $125 to $150 by doing light housekeeping. Even in the boarding club where all modern conveniences are enjoyed, room and board cost the students only $10.00 to $11.00 a month.

Even though living expenses are so low for the students the instruction is of the highest type, the qualifications of the teachers are as high as can be found in any university or college. More than half the regular college teachers hold Ph. D. degrees or the equivalent and all hold the Master's Degree.

Much praise is due Dr. C. W. Dugette for the excellent work which is being done by this institution and its work should be better known over the state.

BRAINSTORMS

Lo, the poor student whose untutored mind

Allows his classwork to get behind.
He'll sweat, and he'll cram
When tests come around
And he'll say he won't do it again.
But once tests are over
He's walking in clover,
And boisterousness he can't restrain.

His money he'll blow
He is off to the show
His work again he'll neglect,
And the first thing he knows
He's seen all the shows
And tests are on his neck.
He studies awhile
Then says with a smile,
"I'll let 'em go, by heck!"

I'm really worried about "Slim" Nelson. In case you didn't know it, he has offered himself as a candidate for president of the "Ash Haulers" club in 1936. I've been his campaign manager for quite awhile. Now school is out, and all of his cabinet members are quitting. If any of you students who are here for the summer would like a job, see Mr. Nelson.

IT CAN BE DONE

Those young people who feel that a college education is within reach of only the privileged few should take a lesson from the experiences of Olen Wiginton of Hamilton, Alabama. Wiginton finished the agricultural school at Hamilton in 1928. He did not think as much of getting a college education at that time as he did two years later when he was married to Miss Essie Hight also of Hamilton. Through her encouragement he continued thinking of the possibility of receiving a college education and better preparing himself for the problems of life. Each year it seemed almost impossible to make ends meet much less go to college, however, last September the final decision was made.

Mr. and Mrs. Wiginton and two children arrived at the Jacksonville State Teachers College with the total amount of $13.00 in money. They took up their abode on the school farm which is two miles from town where he and his wife served meals to other students who were rooming there for the sake of economy. Later they moved to another farm which was also 2 miles from town where they continued to keep boarders and Olen began delevering two different news papers each day. During one quarter he reached town on his bicycle which he used as a means of transportation by five o'clock in the morning and fired a furnace. This enabled him to pay his fees for that quarter.

Finding many opportunities for employment where others failed Mr. Wiginton found it more convenient to live in town where he could pick up more odd jobs. His work has included such things as general household repairs, clock repairs, automobile repairs, gardening, painting, screen hanging, janitor work at the Episcopal Church, bicycle repairs, milking, and driving an ice truck when not doing some of the other things mentioned. Mr. Wiginton has received from outside sources other than his labors the total amount of $66, reports that he has earned more money

THE TEMPLE BUILDER

(Author Unknown)

A builder built a temple,
He wrought it with grace and skill;

Pillars and groins and arches
All fashioned to work his will.
Men said as they saw its beauty,
"It shall never know decay,
Great is thy skill, O builder,
Thy fame shall endure for aye."

A teacher built a temple
With loving and infinite care.
Planning each arch with patience
Laying each stone with prayer.
None praised her unceasing efforts,
None knew of her wonderous plan,
For the temple the teacher builded
Was unseen by the eyes of man.

Gone is the builder's temple,
Crumbled into the dust;
Low lies each stately pillow.
Food for consuming rust.
But the temple the teacher builded
Will last while the ages roll,
For that beautiful unseen temple
Is a child's immortal soul.

during the nine months that he has attended college than during the nine months previous. His grades have been as good as the average student's and no grade has been lower than a C. He has pursued a full course during the nine months. Mr. Wiginton states that he is happy in his work and has time to play with his two children, Margaret Ann, three and a half, and Fay, one and a half. He expects to continue his school work for at least another year before entering the teaching profession

"SO I HEAR"

Someone has said: "Politeness is like the air in an automobile tire. It doesn't cost anything, but it helps us get over the rough places."

Recently I was eating lunch at a restaurant in a nearby town. Just across from my table sat two boys eating soup. One was eating with a good deal of noise. He said to his friend near him: "This soup is good."
"So I hear", came the reply.

Making music over the soup spoon, I suppose, is a kind of a gross of caution, for one does not like to be burned or scorched with hot soup. But at any rate none is ever bothered with music of his type while eating in some boarding houses.

I noticed that some swimming pools have reduced the maximum height one may have, and be admitted for 10c, from 65 to 60 inches. Now, I wonder how much it is going to cost "Shortie" Scott to swim this year.

Westbrook picked up a small onion and grasped it firmly in his hand. "Guess what I have in my hand?" he said to Yates.
Melvin guessed and guessed, then finally gave up. Seeing that he would guess no more Westbrook asked:

"What is it your sister won't eat when she has a date?"
Melvin looked a little bewildered. "Oh, that's not a bean, is it?"

I noticed the following in the paper: "Setters Wanted." Now, Porch, there's your chance.

Senior Class Play Draws Large Crowd

The Senior Class of the Jacksonville State Teachers College presented "Kempy" as the class play Saturday evening May 25 at Kilby Hall. As a light comedy, filled with humor and romance, the play was a great success; acclaimed by many as the best and most successful play given by the college.

The characters portrayed unusual ability in the parts they played. Jasper Buckner in the role of "Dad" Bence made a typical "dad." Mary Spoling, playing the part of Mrs. Bence, knew just how to prescribe for aches and pains. Connie Lee, the "little sister" of the family, knew the real meaning of loyalty and love. Mildred Varnon proved her natural ability for acting in the part of a devoted wife. Girls, Clyde Brown dropped his assumed shyness while he was Ben Wade. Bernard Ross made a typical "Duke", and proved that he "could take it" when he lost Ruth to Kempy. Mrs. Shotts as Ruth Bence played her part in a charming manner. G. C. Weldon, Jr., was splendid as a shy plumber, but he proved that he could use authority when necessary and make the family "step."

Credit is due Mr. Hendrix, head of the English Department, for the big success of the play. Mr. Hendrix is an excellent coach.

Prof. Leon McCluer's Mother Dies at Her Home in Mississippi

Prof. Leon McCluer was called to the family home at Jackson, Mississippi, during the commencement season by the illness and subsequent death of his mother. The following is taken from notices which appeared in the Jackson daily papers at the time of Mrs. McCluer's death:

"Prominent Jackson Woman
Dies Sunday;
Burial in Lakewood.

"Mrs. Elizabeth Parrill McCluer, 75, passed away at her home yesterday evening at 4:45 o'clock after an illness of several weeks. A member of a prominent Hinds County family, Mrs. McCluer had long been active in community and church affairs. She made her home in Hinds County for the past 39 years and left many friends to mourn her passing.

"Born at Wykoff, Minnesota, she early removed with her parents to Marion County, Illinois. She was educated in the public schools and at the University of Illinois, at Champaign. In 1885 she married George W. McCluer who was a member of the department of horticulture at the University. The family removed to Jackson from Champaign about 39 years ago. Her husband preceded her in death by several years, passing away in July, 1929.

"Well known throughout Mississippi, and particularly in Hinds County, Mrs. McCluer took an active part in 4-H club work. She was deeply interested in the work of various organizations, and took an especial interest in all school activities of the county.

"She is survived by one daughter and six sons."

Morgan Banquet is Brilliant Social Event of Year

The most outstanding social function of the year for the Morgan Society is the annual banquet given in honor of the Morgan speakers. The banquet was given this year at Weatherly Hall on March 22. The banquet hall and the parlors were appropriately decorated in the society colors, blue and gold. Flowers were attractively arranged in the rooms.

The banquet was led by B. T. Cantrell, Toastmaster, a former Morgan speaker. Henry Apperson, President of the Morgans, introduced the Toastmaster. Many former members of the society were asked to say a few words of encouragement to the speakers. Among the members present were: Martha Wood, Opie Ashmore, Myrtle Nixon and Malcolm Brewer. The speakers for the debate were called on to address the group, and their flower 'girls' were given the same privilege.

The speakers for the Morgans were: Foster Oliver, D. T. Shipp and Odis Claborn. The flower girls were: Lucy Williams, Rowena McCracken and Lillian Solly.

An entertaining program was given throughout the evening. Mr. Bill Haines and Paul Sewell gave several musical selections accompanied by Miss Mary Frances Geer. Miss Billy Mae Jewell of Anniston gave a Spanish waltz. Miss Catherine Ashmore entertained with a reading. Little Jane Self and Betty Crowe did a chicken dance and Margaret Sue Caffee followed with a vocal solo. Several novelty dance numbers were given by Mrs. McClendon's dancing class of Anniston.

Bus Schedules Are Being Arranged

A. C. Shelton, Director of Extension has announced that through a plan worked out with the bus companies the schedules from nearby places will be so arranged that many students will be given an opportunity to attend school and remain at their homes at night. The Service Stage Lines have now arranged a schedule leaving Anniston at 7:30 a. m. and arriving at the college at 8 a. m.; returning to Anniston at 3:30 p. m. Rates of $1.00 a week are given to the students.

A bus schedule is being worked out from Gadsden so that students from Attalla, Alabama City and Gadsden may have daily accommodations.

This work is confined to those people who are finishing the two-year course and the four-year course. Several new supervisors will be added to take care of the overflow classes.

MEDICAL SOCIETIES PROTEST CUTS IN MONEY FOR HEALTH WORK

County medical societies throughout the State have gone on record voicing strong a protest against drastic cuts in appropriations for public health work proposed in the appropriation bill now pending in the legislature.

Information reaching the State Board of Health—official group of the Medical Association of the State of Alabama charged with the duties of protecting the public against disease and with promoting health knowledge—indicates that doctors are "very much disturbed" over the prospect of such activities being further curtailed, according to the State Health Department.

Soon after it was learned that the appropriations measure provides only $275,000 annually for all health activities including the amounts given the organized health units, a cut of about 60 per cent of former appropriations, Dr. Charles A. Thigpen, President of the State Medical Association, issued a statement in which he deplored this reduction and called upon physicians of the entire State for support.

Typical of the many resolutions already adopted by county associations was that by the Montgomery County Medical Society, composed of 78 practicing physicians. It said, in part:

"That the members of this society, numbering 78 active physicians, deplore any effort on the part of the present legislature to further reduce the appropriation of the State Health Department which has been already reduced by 42 per cent of the 1932 appropriation.

"That it is the deliberate opinion of this body that any further curtailment of appropriations to health work would react disastrously upon the health of the people of the entire State and virtually destroy the efficiency and usefulness of one of the most important arms of State Government."

HISTORY CLUB ENJOYED OUTING AT NESBIT LAKE

The History Club voted for an outing to Nesbit Lake as their social event for the Spring Quarter. The members went in a truck amid much merriment and fun. Dr. Van Hook made the evening very enjoyable with his funny jokes and puns.

The History Club is one of the most active clubs in the college. It meets bi-monthly and the members of the club must have a high standard in History to be given membership in the club.

The members of the executive committee for the spring quarter were: Gordon Coheley, Piedmont, President; Glyn Nelson, Jacksonville, Vice - President; Ellen Church, Bristol, Va., Secretary and Treasurer. The History Club voted to continue their meetings through the summer term.

The Sports Review

The Eagle Owls started the athletic schedule for the year out right by winning over Marion Institute. They sold themselves to their public in a quick decisive manner and they won their first game under the able management of Coach Tom Shotts and Ben Compton.

Volley ball has come in for its share of popularity among the students and several important inter-collegiate games have been played. The Morgan girls vs. the Calhoun girls proved to be an exciting game of much interest to the student body.

The game of horseshoe pitching has gained rapidly in the interests of many students. Some girls even gave up dancing for a game of "pitching."

Shuffleboard made its appearance upon the campus this year and many of the faculty members are excellent players. Croquet, too, is very popular with the faculty.

Basketball, for long a favorite sport in high schools, gives to college many strong players. The team this year was one of the strongest in the history of the college.

Baseball, termed the national game by sport writers, has been very popular here this spring. Much of the success of the season was due to the enthusiasm of Dr. Van Hook, an ardent supporter of baseball and student social activities. The four inter-collegiate teams have afforded an outlet for much energy and friendly rivalry.

Badminton, played on the campus for the first time this year, is gaining in popularity. An outdoor court has been made behind Weatherly Hall and the matches played between Dr. Dugette, Mrs. Talbert, Dr. Wood and Miss Sellers are viewed by many spectators.

Let us not forget tennis; for many years a sport enjoyed by a minority, has increased greatly in the number of players on the State Teachers College campus. A match can be arranged with only a short notice. There are numerous courts arranged in the most convenient places over the campus. Tournaments are held for both boys and girls. Several trips have been made to other schools by the tennis team. Dr. Dugette, an excellent player, has cooperated in every possible way with the tennis players.

JOEL GAINES SERIOUSLY ILL

Joel Gaines, who was a student here during the past nine months is reported to be in a serious condition at a Gadsden Hospital. Mr. Gaines underwent a serious operation on May 24 and doctors state that there is little hope for his recovery. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Gaines of Sardis community, near Boaz. While in Jacksonville he boarded at the home of Dr. James Williams. His many friends regret to hear of his serious illness and wish for him a speedy recovery.

SUMMER BASEBALL CLUBS ORGANIZED

Four clubs have been organized for college students in baseball for the summer term. The games are to be played Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday. They will play Regular League Play-ground Baseball. The League has already been formed and the by-laws, regulations, and constitution drawn up.

The four clubs are: The Red Head Club, The Dormitory Club, The Teachers Club, and Town College Club.

These clubs were organized by Coach Stephenson, for the purpose of bringing the students closer together and furnishing amusement for those taking part in the game and those looking on. Those who saw the smash hit in the baseball game between the faculty members and girls' varsity will wonder who will take Dr. Van Hook's place in advertising the games in chapel and pulling interesting capers on the field.

The college is fortunate in having league ball games, and much praise is due Coach "Steve" for organizing these clubs.

"We are thinking we are thinking,
Of the time when we must part,
Of course there'll be some sighing,
But not in this heart!"

Ladies and Gentlemen, and people from North Alabama, too:

It is my pleasure to inform you that the Spring quarter is no more. It has been a rather eventful period, what with sundry incidents, some mentionable, some otherwise, and quite enjoyable. I've come to appreciate Jacksonville and its people more in the past quarter than in the first two; so much, indeed, that I'll be back again next fall, barring accidents and landslides. But still, I'm not sighing for the interim.

I'm going to carry a special pad to Dr. Calvert's "American Lit." and catch some of the intentional or otherwise wit emanating therefrom. For instance, Dr. Calvert asks some egotist: "Would you like to be a genius?" and the person answers: "No, I like me like I am." All this with a dead pan and in a monotone, so Dr. Calvert won't remember.

As I received some rather disparaging comment from the already-initiated, Mr. Herndon in particular, on the occasion of my debut as a columnist, perhaps we should not neglect to pass the billet to Mr. Eugene Crowe (pronounce the "e"—Crowey). By the way, "Crowey" is a rat, boys—for two more quarters, so don't spare the bat. Say, Herndon, how's that for rime? It'll be busting in on your poetry racket yet! Rat, bat; rat, bat; rat, bat—

I'd like to take this opportunity to state my appreciation of Dr. J. O. Van Hook. He has been with us less than a year, but he has earned for himself a place in the hearts of all who took history under him. I think Dr. Van Hook
