

Seniors Entertained At Borden Springs

Members of the Senior Class and faculty members were entertained on a week-end house party at Borden Springs June 26 by Dr. C. W. Dauge, President of J. S. T. C.

Those attending were entertained by baseball, horseshoes, cards, swimming, wading, and fishing, to say nothing of the chief entertainment—eating.

The guests were: Margaret Stewart, Ruby Roberts, Maude Yarborough, Ethel Craddock, Lilah Wann, Lois Collier, Nellie Brown, Margaret Rhodes, Catharyn Cayley, Robert Felgar, Paul Sewell, Harold Carpenter, Edward Sewell, Jerry Merritt, Leon Shelnett, Marjorie Christian, Gladys Vickery, Betty Francis Vickery, Sara Jordan, James Kemp, Doris Ledbetter, Cora Lee Mintz, Arnold Caldwell, Pauline Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Beasley, Mr. and Mrs. James Porch, Elizabeth Porch, Alton Powell, and Jonnie Chamblin.

Chaperones were: Dr. Dauge, Dr. Clara Weishaupt, Miss Ferrell Bolton and Miss Christine Graham.

SHOCCO SPRINGS ASSEMBLY

Many students and active B. T. U. Workers of the Jacksonville Baptist Church enjoyed a very helpful and inspiring meeting on Sunday and Sunday night at Shocco Springs.

The distinguished speaker of the day was Prof. Chester Swor, Clinton, Mississippi. He challenged the young people to dream noble dreams and began at once to sail in a ship (which is our character) to attain the heights of our ambitions.

Those attending from Weatherly Hall were: Misses Opal Faye Williams, Thelma Williams, Jewell Smith, Louise Smith, Francis Emerson, and Christine Gosline.

Others attending were: Eleanor Attichison, Bertha Karr, Irene King, Armon Tidmore, Bulah Woody, Sidney Griffin, Bro. Edwards and Miss Bush.

Dean Wood Going To Peabody

Dean C. R. Wood is leaving Jacksonville in mid-summer quarter to attend a conference at Peabody for a study of the school curriculum revision of Elementary schools.

The faculty, staff, and student body, wish him a most happy stay while there. When his work has been completed at the end of the summer, they will extend to him a most hearty welcome back to Jacksonville where he will continue his work at the college.

Lawrence Leads In Studies

MAKES A's ALL AROUND

Millard Lawrence, a junior who's working his way through college, made the highest grades of any student during the first term of summer school, the college records show.

Coming to college without a dime, Lawrence has made the junior class proud of him by his hard work and by his brilliant work, as shown by his leading the school in scholarship. Yippee, wahoo, and hooray, say the juniors, for their smart classmate.

Several girls from Dauge Hall attended the Presbyterian picnic Thursday night.

Jefferson Davis Tea

The General John H. Forney Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy sponsored a delightful tea on Tuesday, June 29, at the handsome ante-bellum residence of Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Dauge on North Pelham Road.

Guests were received on the lawn by Mrs. Sarah McDonald, President of the General John H. Forney Chapter; and Mrs. C. W. Dauge, Division President. Assisting them were Misses Minnie Sellers, Helen Easley and Sarah Jordan; Messrs. Shelley McClenon, William J. Calvert, Charles M. Gary, Robert Gilbert and Costa Barker; and members of the local U. D. C. Chapter.

Many of the hostesses and guests wore the charming costumes of the 1860's. The atmosphere of the Old South was further enhanced by a program of dance and song. The colorful minuet and Virginia Reel were danced, in costume, by students from the College: Mrs. Margaret Stewart, Misses Helen Wright, Juanita Robertson, Lucille Gaither, and Messrs. Bennie Garmon, Ernest King, Johnnie Hall, and Azel Carter. Old Southern melodies were sung by a male quartet: Clyde Westbrook, Defore Carter, Pink Love, and Dusty Carter; and by a High School chorus: Louise Weaver, Jane Felgar, and Constance Mock. The College orchestra played other Southern airs throughout the afternoon. An added feature was dances by Miss Jane Self and Miss Jeffie Landers. The program was under the direction of Mrs. Pink Love, Mrs. Tom Shotts, and Miss Christine Graham.

The girls of the high school chorus served a delicious punch.

Many guests from the College, Jacksonville, and surrounding communities enjoyed the afternoon with its beautiful reminiscences of a day long gone but never to be forgotten.

Picture Opportunities In J. S. T. C.

The great and trying day is close at hand. Many of the Jacksonville students are going to have a chance of a life time. They are going to get to face the cameraman. Those who take the screen test will live in watchful and hopeful waiting until they hear from Hollywood. Each one will be expecting to take a leading role in some picture like the one that Jean Harlow had started. Just a limited number will have the honor of taking part in this picture of the activities of the college campus; so the competition is exceedingly keen.

Coach Stephenson has been making campfires for some time. He has not decided just where he will have his camp scene, but he favors the dent in the hillside east of Dauge Hall. The ashes are many inches deep at this place; so anyone that knows Coach will agree that the shaded dent in the hillside east of Dauge Hall will be the place for the camp scene.

Coach Stephenson's swimming class is having much competition as to who the performers shall be. At present the line-up stands as follows:

1. Jonny Hall, Waldrip and Clyde "Stumpy" Lusk will give the fancy diving. Which will include such dives as the jack-knife, the swan, the cannon-ball, the side dive, the toe-drag, the flip, and spanking the baby.

2. The speed demands in the swimming will be Sardis Shaddix, Boyse Johnston, and Foster Oliver. The remainder of the class, will have to pose on the banks of the pool. Will this schedule change before the final day comes? It may, for Mr. Glasscock and Mr. Hollingworth are getting "fancy" with their dives and Fray Goggins is still scrapping for a place in the lineup. Who will wield the magic sceptre on the final day? We shall have to wait and see. Coach Stephenson is thinking about getting a suit and entering the race.

We are going to get a picture of every active sport on the campus; so be prepared, students, for you know not when you will be asked to take your tryout for the screen.

Many students are neglecting their studies and refusing to go home in order to stay in good condition for their first picture on the screen.

The physical education classes are crowded, and these large classes will give us a chance to get the best talent in school. Miss Sellers and Miss Graham are picking the most skilful people from each class; so be careful, boys, and girls as to what you say and do, and be especially careful in acting and conducting yourself around these two. If you students play the role well before the picture is made, you will play one of the leading roles in the picture.

We are hoping to have a scene of each of the following sports: swimming, camping, golf, croquet, tennis, softball, baseball, hand-ball, speed ball, soccer ball, volley-ball, schuffle board, horse-back riding, social dancing, and folk dancing. These types of sports will give greater opportunity to get the best talent in each field for the picture. If you think that you are good in any of these sports, do not hesitate to let one of the physical education teachers know it, for they want the best to do the performing.

We have had one picture made in the past, but it is out of date now. We hope to make a much better picture this time. Indications are pointing to a far superior picture this time. If we make this picture what it should be it will most probably be shown in the world news.

Everyone is trying to make this picture show the decided advancement that our school has made in the last few years. If nothing goes wrong and all of the successful drying forces keep functioning, this picture will be a land maker in showing the rapid rate of progress at which we are advancing. We are hoping to increase our progress in the future, but we are going to show the public the rate that we are traveling now.

We urge you once more to do your best, for it may mean a successful future for you.

Dr. Cayley Speaks At Sylvania

Dr. Cayley attended the annual Fourth of July celebration at Sylvania, Alabama, in DeKalb County. He delivered a splendid address which was enjoyed by a large crowd.

DR. HANNA SPEAK

While in Auburn during the holidays Mrs. Sara McDonald, supervisor in the training school, attended a conference led by Dr. Paul V. Hanna of Stanford University. Dr. Hanna came to Auburn at the invitation of Dean Tebulon Judd to discuss the curriculum revision program, which is the foremost discussion topic among educational forces in Alabama today. According to Mrs. McDonald, Dr. Hanna said "the philosophies of Dr. Dewey and Dr. Kilpatrick have been misinterpreted in so many ways that one has to go back to the original viewpoints of both men in order to get the real truths in regard to their teachings. The child should be the center of the school in every way—However, the child does not have the innate tendencies to know what should be learned. There must be some definite learnings set up by adults." Dr. Hanna told of several actual events and experiments to illustrate his viewpoint. There were four conferences scheduled for the two days. After leaving Auburn Dr. Hanna went to Peabody for a series of conferences there.

2 J. S. T. C. Girls Narrowly Escape Death In Blast

BULLETIN

G. E. Tutton confessed setting off the explosion and fire Thursday morning. He was charged with arson and bond fixed at $1,500.

Two girls of Jacksonville State Teachers' College miraculously and narrowly escaped death Monday night, July 5, when a terrific explosion, followed by fire, wrecked the Tutton five-and-ten-cent store in Jacksonville, as the girls sat in a car about ten steps from the wrecked building. The two were Miss Sarah Jordan and Miss Pauline Allen, who works in the office of Registrar A. C. Shelton.

Miss Allen and Miss Jordan, a student, were sitting in Miss Allen's car, parked at the curb on the town square, near Crowe's drugstore, where they had ordered drinks, and near the dime store, when the baffling blast roared out and blew glass into their car. The wrecked building immediately caught fire and was destroyed, but thanks to the city's new fire truck, the flames were brought under control in less than an hour, and adjoining buildings were saved.

Miss Allen and Miss Jordan were probably the closest eye-witnesses to the mysterious explosion, which shook almost every window in Jacksonville, blew all windows out of the post office adjoining, blew out plate glass windows in the adjoining building owned by the Sewell family, and broke out some windows in the Taylor dime store across the street. Fire Marshals from Montgomery and an investigator for the National Board of Underwriters rushed to Jacksonville July 6 to investigate the affair.

Thoroughly frightened, Miss Allen and Miss Jordan jumped out of her car and fled afoot to the corner, when Miss Allen happened to think, she says, that they might go away from there faster in an automobile, and so they went back, got into her car and drove away.

The Jacksonville fire department responded and acted in a most satisfactory manner. Without the new fire truck and the alertness of the firemen, the post office and the Sewell building and the Simpson House probably would have been burned. The blast so jarred locks on the post office safe that several hours were spent by Postmaster Martin in getting it open. The building was the most complete wreck ever seen in these parts, and for three days this week had provided a front-page detective mystery for the Birmingham and Anniston dailies.

Final Summer Term Will Open July 12

Class work was completed for those students who registered the last half of the regular spring quarter. Registration for the last six weeks work will be under way Monday, July 12. Six weeks work will be completed in five weeks by classes holding session on Saturdays. It is thought that a good percentage of the students now in school will remain for the remainder of the summer and possibly a good many new students will register.

Due to the completion of so many classes some of the faculty now employed will be leaving us. They are Miss Mildred Graham, Prof. Roland Carter, and Prof. Roy Alverson.

THE QUESTION

The matter of attending college is a question which is faced by every school graduate. It is dismissed by some as though by plan; their ambition is to graduate from high school only. Others accept the matter of college attendance as though it were taken for granted; it is a personal ambition, or perhaps it is a family tradition.

There are other high school graduates who, for one reason or another, can neither accept nor reject readily the proposition of attending college. These students are of interest to all school people and their problems deserve sympathetic consideration.

Whether college will pay is the final question. We have been told that college graduates will survive longest in the race of life because of their special training, yet we see around us college graduates who are barely surviving and who are apparently faring but little, if any at all, better than their unschooled brothers. This condition on the surface is an economic argument against college attendance. But when one remembers the conditions which have been in force for the past seven years, he can see that the unusual rather than the usual has been in existence.

College does not propose to add a great deal to one's stock in trade. It does propose to give refinement to the stock of one's powers. The lumberman does not send oak boards to a planeing mill to be made into cherry or walnut boards, but he does expect to get smoother oak boards in return. We call this smoothness in people culture. Whether culture is in the grain or is merely skin-deep depends largely upon the individual.

College, then, has a large share in determining the kind of person one becomes if he will interest himself, thoroughly in the serious matter of college education. None of us are satisfied with ourselves, for we realize that we are not doing so greatly as we think we are capable, and we indulge in the belief that we have greater powers than our friends and school mates have discovered within us.

College offers abundant opportunity for these hidden powers to be discovered. College refines the characteristics which one possesses. The training one gets in college is still the best guarantee for the best living. It best fits one for work, for meeting emergencies, and for living nearest to one's capacity.

WHY A STUDENT SHOULD GET A DEGREE BEFORE TEACHING

"Why should I get a degree when I have a chance to teach in a 'good' school with a two-year diploma? That is the problem hundreds of students are facing. We should not let this 'idea of teaching' get the better of us. If we have these 'good jobs' offered us when we have only two years or even three years of training, we certainly would get much better 'offers' with four years of training.

Suppose we make a comparison. Take the person who starts teaching with a two-year diploma. According to the State Salary Schedule, he or she will receive sixty dollars per month for the first year of teaching. If the two-year graduate attends summer schools until the four years are completed, it will take six years for this person to finish up the work required for a degree. According to the increase of salaries, on the basis of experience, the two-year graduate will be making only $85.00 after having taught six years. He will have received only one increase in salary when the four-year graduate begins his or her teaching at a salary of seventy-five dollars a month.

The two-year graduates are qualified for elementary work only, thereby getting only a seven-month term. In round numbers the two-year graduate will make a total of $2,285.00 over this period of six years. His expenses going to summer schools will be in the neighborhood of six or seven hundred dollars, and living expenses, while teaching these six years, will be approximately twelve-hundred dollars, thus leaving the two-year graduate four or five hundred dollars.

Now take the person who finishes his four years of training before beginning the teaching profession. The four-year graduate will have four years to teach alongside the two-year graduate. In completing four years of teaching, he will have made approximately three thousand dollars.

The fellow with the degree is qualified for junior and senior high school work, thereby getting a nine-months term instead of seven. His expenses for four years, while finishing the last two years of college work and while teaching, in comparison with the two-year graduate, will be approximately fifteen-hundred dollars, thus leaving the fellow with a degree around fifteen hundred dollars.

There are many other reasons why we should finish our four years of training before beginning our teaching profession. We will be much better qualified to understand the students we will teach, and will have a more thorough understanding how to solve difficult problems that might arise in the class-room or even on the playground.

From a psychological point of view we will certainly be better qualified to know and to understand the traits, heredity and surroundings or environment of the different students. If we can understand these traits or the heredity of a child, we shall know what procedure to take in order to develop or help develop the child as he should be developed.

"The Rules Of The Game"

By PERCY R. HAYWARD

A boy's creed based upon the six articles in a code hung in the bedroom of the late King George of England.

Article one: "Teach me to be obedient to the rules of the game." As a boy, I play games.

I believe that the game is a great thing. I love it.

I believe that the rules by which games are played are the result of the experience of other people in playing these games.

I believe that these people have discovered much wisdom which I can share.

I believe that rules are made so that I and other boys can get the most fun out of a game. They are not made to interfere with our fun.

I believe that other boys have rights in the game as well as I.

I believe that the way in which I play is a test of the size of my inner self.

I believe that life itself is the greatest of games and that he who obeys its laws gets the most out of it.

I believe in the rules of the game.

Article two: Teach me to distinguish between sentiment and sentimentality, admiring the one and despising the other.

I believe in sentiment.

I believe that when my mother cooks a delicious dinner, or puts up a good speech at the Mother and Son Banquet in the church, I should give her a bear hug and tell her so.

I believe that when my kid sister does good work on the high dive I can tell her that I am proud of her without surrendering any of my rights as a boy.

I do not believe in whining and one of the best sports in the world, that he is head and shoulders above most men I know, then I believe in telling him so.

I believe in letting my admiration for good and great people run at full steam for that is sentiment and I admire it.

I do not believe in whining and getting excited just to attract attention to myself, or to get out of a tight place, for that is sentimentality and I despise it.

I believe that a lovely flower, or an inspired prayer, or a beautiful poem, can make my life a richer one.

I believe in sentiment.

Article three: "Teach me neither to proffer nor to receive cheap praise."

I have no place for cheap compliments. I dislike them when others give them to me. I do not give them to others.

I believe that every boy should have a good enough opinion of himself so that he does not have to depend upon being bolstered up by flattery to keep himself going.

I believe that I should be keen enough in intelligence to see through people who pay me compliments in order to get their way with me.

I believe if I want to make a case with someone else I should do it on the strength of my argument and not because I am free with flattery.

I believe that an occasional slap on the back is about all the praise a real boy needs.

I believe in honest friendship.

Article four: "If I am called upon to suffer, let me be like the well-bred beast that goes away to suffer in silence."

I believe that a fellow should keep his troubles to himself, since it is likely that other people have enough of their own.

I believe that a sick dog, when it crawls off under the porch to its own wounds, is a good example for many people.

I believe in presenting a smiling face to the world even though it takes all the nerve I have to make the smile come.

Thus I can learn to endure a hardship as a strong man should. I believe in self-control.

Article five: "Teach me to win, if I may; if I may not, teach me to be a good loser."

I believe in always being a good sport.

I believe in putting every ounce of my energy winning whatever game I play.

I believe that playing this sort of game counts for much more than the score, no matter what it may be.

I believe that when I lose I must be a good loser, taking my share of the blame, unwilling to hide behind alibis and eager to admit the skill of my opponents.

Article six: "Teach me neither to cry for the moon nor to cry over spilled milk."

I believe it is foolish and a waste of time to wish and long for things I cannot have.

If I am small in size, I know that it is a waste of good energy to wish I could be a burly bruising center on the team.

What is beyond my reach, I cannot get, so I believe in finding my joys elsewhere.

I believe that I cannot rectify what I have done. So I do not cry over spilled milk.

I believe in common sense.

THE FARMER FEEDS 'EM ALL

The politician talks and talks,
 The actor plays his part,
 The soldier glitters on parade,
 The goldsmith plies his art.
 The scientist pursues his germ
 O'er the terrestrial ball,
 The sailor navigates his ship,
 But the farmer feeds them all.

The preacher pounds his pulpit desk,
 Bankers read their lengthy tape;
 The tailor cuts and sews his cloth
 To fit the human shape.
 The dame of fashion, dressed in silks,
 Goes forth to dine or call,
 Or drive, or dance, or promenade;
 But the farmer feeds them all.

The workman wields his shinny tools,
 The merchant shows his wares;
 The aeronaut above the clouds
 A dizzy journey dares.
 But art and science soon would fade,
 And commerce dead would fall,
 If the farmer ceased to reap and sow
 For the farmer feeds them all.

DANCING CLASS GIVES "HOP"

On Friday night, July 2, the dancing class, under the leadership of Frank Jones, of Anniston, sponsored a dance in Bibb Grave's Hall. Music was furnished by the school orchestra led by Lamar Triplett, of Gadsden. The swing got under way at 8:30 o'clock and lasted till 10:30, and those attended showed great enthusiasm from start to finish. Due to the pleasant weather and to the fine cooperation shown, the dance went very smoothly and was enjoyed to the fullest extent by those who were present.

US

I was puzzled considerably; By something that I read, And since then, vague thoughts like these, Have been running thro' my head.

In our unsuspecting body, (From our head, to our big toe) Are all in all about ten gallons Of water (H2O)!

And mixed in with the water To help make us a whole, Is about a shovel full, Of carbon (known as coal)!

About one-fourth ounce of iron (Enough for a good sized nail) Goes in with the coal and water To make the average male!

And there are seven pounds of lime (Enough for a bag) inside of you! Nearly two pounds of phosphorus. About a fifth of an ounce of sugar, too.

You've nearly two ounces of table salt And iodine, one tenth of a drop, (I'm not feeling so good by now I'm glad it's nearly time to stop!)

I'll make this statement to explain The discomfort of many lads and lasses

For your inside make-up contains, About seven-hundred cubic feet of gases!

And then the worst thing of all (This shock to my ego was immense)

The average human being Has a market value of ninety-eight cents.

TOP HAT ... WHITE TIE AND TAILS

If he tells you that he's wearing them . . . then you'd better scurry down to MANGEL'S and get the feminine counterpart. It's a real party just choosing a dress for a party at MANGEL'S because there is such a grand array. Decide whether you want to be stately and elegant or sweet and clinging vine-ish. After all its 90% the dress you wear and only 10% the way you act that makes the effect.

Come down to MANGEL'S now and buy that extra evening dress and make it a real gala evening. And, the prices will help the festive spirit along as they are really reasonable. For evening dresses come to MANGEL'S.

SPORTS

SOFT BALL

Soft Ballers are rolling along with much interest.

Manager Clyde Westbrooks' team has not been defeated yet. It is in the air now that he will be in the next game. He has a good fielding and a good hitting team.

The teams so far have been pretty evenly matched. There have been no run away scores. The largest amount of scores to be piled up yet in one game was 19-17. Manager Street's team made 19, while Manager Bush's team made 17. The later was in the lead the most of the game.

FOOTBALL

By AZELL CARTER

Coach Shotts with the help of Coach Dillion is looking forward to a big year this season. Coach Shotts states that he has a good schedule so far, but he has an open date or two to fill yet.

The training camp will open September 1st, and he hopes to have the largest squad of men that has ever been to camp. The varsity has a different schedule from the freshmen due to the fact that this college has got into the S. I. A. A. The first game for the varsity will be played in October, and the freshmen will open their schedule against Snead Junior College about the first of October. The freshmen will play some of the outstanding high schools. They also have about two open dates.

Coach Shotts lost four varsity men by graduation last year, who were John Baker, Clyde "Farmer" Brown, Quinnis "Dusty" Carter, and Paul "Red" Hudson. These men will be missed in the lineup this fall, but we are sure that there will be enough reserve strength to cover the loss.

There will be a meeting of all men interested in football for next year. The date of the meeting will be published later. Coach Shotts wants to talk with all the men and to acquaint himself with as many new men as possible.

Coach Shotts will be glad to hear from all the boys who are out of school for the summer.

Mr. Ray Little of Leeds was the guest of Miss Helen Summers Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hinds spent the week-end in Arab.

THE SWIMMERS

THE POOL GUARDS TO TAKE LIFE SAVING TEST

The Pool guards will under go a National life saving examination this week. They are all getting in good shape and expecting to pass the test.

The test will be given by a National life-saving inspector who will give them a severe test.

The pool is open to college people and training school pupils. The training school pupils are being graded on their swimming this year and every one is trying hard to pass the course.

The college classes in swimming seem to be very refreshing and are causing more people to go in swimming.

A good plunge and short swim is cooling, refreshing and energizing—if you don't believe it ask Mr. Gilbert.

Dr. Cayley and his family, Dr. Whaley and his family, and Mr. Gary and his companions find the pool very beneficial as a recreation and sport. Dr. Cayley will try any new drill that any one else will. Mr. Gary tries all the new swimming strokes.

The faculty as a whole have not been enjoying the pool, we wish to see everyone of them out there swimming and diving.

We would like to have more of the married students out at the pool. Your hours are 6:30 until 7:30 P. M. Come in and swim for fun, health and exercise.

JSTC Soft Ball Team Defeats Fort McClellan

The Steves' take the lead and hold it.

The J. S. T. C. Boys defeated the Fort McClellan boys by 8 to 7. The Teachers taking the lead early in the game remained ahead throughout the game. The Teachers are to return the game Friday and we all hope them lots of luck.

The Fort has a good team and the Teachers will have to play good ball to win the next game.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Westbrook spent the Fourth in Georgia.

Mrs. John Gober spent the week-end with her family in Arab.

U.D.C. President Extends Appreciation

On behalf of the members of the John H. Forney Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy I wish to express deep appreciation to all who made the Jefferson Davis tea a real pleasure. We are grateful to Mrs. Pink Love and the orchestra for the music; to Miss Graham and her students for the Virginia reel and the minuet; to Mrs. Tom Shotts and a group of girls for the costume dance and medley of songs; to Miss Jane Self and Miss Jeffie Landers for their dances; to the college quartet for the lovely songs—to the children of the children of the Confederacy for their assistance; to the members of the faculty and student body who assisted in receiving our guests—and to our guests for their most gracious gifts.

Signed Sara McDonald, Pres., John H. Forney Chapter U.D.C.

Dr. Collins Speaks To Jax Students

Dr. A. H. Collins, director of Alabama's Department of Welfare told of the state's social welfare program in an interesting address to the student assembly July 2.

The state now has a program costing about $2,700,000 a year, which will be expanded to about $3,500,000 eventually, he said.

Miss Mary Emma Harwell was a recent guest of Miss Ola Brown.
