Seniors WANTS FOR GRADUATION PRESENTS SHOW VARIETY OF TASTES

Alexander Will Be Here 2 Days Month

The cabin was a mess. The walls were covered in drawings, posters, and various trinkets. The floor was cluttered with clothes and shoes. The scent of pizza filled the air. Sarah sat on the edge of her bed, surrounded by her friends, as they talked about their upcoming graduation.

"I can't believe it's already graduation season," said Emily, who was busying herself with a last minute revision of her essay.

"I know, right? It feels like just yesterday we started high school," replied Alex, who was sorting through her makeup bag.

"But it's all worth it," added Rachel, who was chatting up a storm.

"Absolutely," said Sarah. "We've come such a long way together."
The Greatest Sentence

Did you ever meditate upon why the first verse of the gospel of St. John is regarded as the greatest sentence ever written? Remember it says, "In the beginning was the Word." This verse is the power of all teachers to turn over that in their minds—also the minds of student teachers, and ponder the simple intemperance comprehension of this tremendous statement, "And the word was God." And next, "and the word was God." For, let us turn, think about that greatest sentence ever written, "In the beginning was the word," and try to figure out why it is so regarded. It will help your education.

Wanted: Rugged Individualists

What this country needs, what this country wants, and what this country must have is a return to individualism. A return to individualism means to pull it out of depression and recession is a conversion to rugged individualism, a conversion of staidness willing to sit down and accept relief into rugged individuals. It means the powers of all teachers to turn over that in their minds—also the minds of student teachers, and ponder the simple intensity comprehension of this tremendous statement, "And the word was God." Let's consider how this statement, "In the beginning was the word," and try to figure out why it is so regarded. It will help your education.

Exchange Club Holds Meeting Tuesday

The report of the selected committee on little children was read, which suggested that it was impossible for him to make his attendance regular. The resignation of J. E. Dillow was read, which suggested that the resignation be rejected and that the resignation of the members of the committee be approved and urge him to reconsider.

Dr. C. N. Hurd, chairman of the Dental Division of the Alabama Department of Education, was introduced and expressed his pleasure at being with the club again. He referred to a former visit when as a guest of the Exchange Club he had gone to a children's clinic. He is giving a series of lectures at the college urging women to encourage their children and to train them in the proper habits. He said that if a person has no joy in the process of health will be a form of health education.

At the suggestion of Dr. Doughtet a committee was appointed to draft an article for the next issue of the Exchange Club to accept the pastorate of the L. O. Dawson and the policies of the Exchange Club. This committee will be composed of: Dr. Doughtet, A. C. H. Johnson, and Dr. F. M. Lawrence.

Jacksonville State

Teachers College

Is Most Economical

It costs 85 cents per capita to run the Jacksonville State Teachers College than any other similar institution in Alabama, Dr. R. L. Johns, of Montgommery, director of the administration and finance division of the Alabama Department of Education, stated here Friday in speaking to faculty and students in Graver Hall. He complimented Dr. C. W. Du-gregues, president, on his handling of the affairs of the college so efficiently.

Touching on needs of schools for the next four years, Dr. Johns said educational forces will ask the next Legislature when it convenes in January to appropriate four million dollars more to meet growing needs of an increasing school population and to provide for eight-month terms for elementary and high schools of the state. Stating that the yearly appropriation by the state per capita for elementary and high schools was a third of the national average and had never exceeded half the national average per capita expenditure for schools, Dr. Johns declared extra appropriation are necessary to bring the Alabama schools to higher standards.

Alexander Ends

Series Of Talks

At Jacksonville

Dr. Thomas Alexander ended his two-week series of lectures on new curricula to the faculty and students of the Jacksonville State Teachers College and educators of this section Thursday and left Monday for Greenvale, N. C., from where he will go on to New York Saturday. A feature of the session was a three-day meeting of educators and teachers from throughout the state called to discuss and study new curricula and hear Dr. Alexander.

Dr. Alexander, who is president of New College of Columbia University, plans to come to Alabama in the fall. He will visit a number of schools in the state.

In closing his lecture Tuesday, Dr. Alexander was given a raising volunteered by the ladies, following which Dr. C. W. Duiggett, president, expressed his appreciation in a short address.
