Commencement Program Gets Underway

Secondary Education To Be Offered

Classes To Start When School Opens For The Fall Quarter; Committee Now At Work On Curriculum

Dr. C. W. Daugette, president of Jacksonville State Teachers College, has announced that at the opening of the next regular session State Teachers College will introduce a program to prepare teachers for secondary education. This will be another step in the advancement of the institution which has specialized in the training of elementary teachers. The state committee on the revision of the curriculum of the State Teachers Colleges is composed of Dr. D. H. Eikenberry, of Ohio University, who is working under the Commission; Dr. Agnes Snyder, of* Columbia University; Dr. W. Mor- rison McColl, Miss Daisy Partin and Mr. L. W. Smith, all of the State Department of Education. Uniting in his efforts to help in revising the curriculum to meet this new step is Dr. C. R. Wood, Dean of Jacksonville, who with Dean C. R. Collier of Florence, Dean L. K. Sllck of Livingston, and Dr. Hamner of Troy is on the com- mittee of representatives from the State Teachers College. These two Committees collaborated recently at Montgomery to set up a proposed curriculum for the junior and senior years of college.

The proposed program makes it possible for those finishing two years of continuous curriculum to go right into secondary education. However, those who have taken courses in elementary education, such as the method courses in the sophomore year, will have to secure those credits in order to enter the secondary field. Those who have had no courses in education should have no trouble taking secondary work. The specific details have not yet been worked out; so plans for the evaluation of freshman and sophomore credits of those applying for entrance in secondary education have not been completed.

Since the issuing of two-year certificates will be discontinued

Miss Mock Is Jacksonville May Queen

The spring season at Jacksonville was culminated by a student-wide election of a May Queen and her court. The election was sponsored by the Student Social Committee, and received enthusiastic response from the student body. A large vote, with no less than sixty-nine girls being someone's choice, was recorded. Every girl in school was a potential candidate, and each student voted for his or her choice.

Receiving the largest number of votes was Miss Constance Mock, a member of the sophomore class, and her daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. S. Mock. Running a close second to Miss Mock was Miss Sara Bell Parrish of Wedowee. Miss Lillian Williams was the third choice. The election was close for the attendants as well as for the maids, and included:

Wilm Anderson, Duttis Tevis Bell, Centre; Sara Bryant, Jacksonville; Mrs. Gillhand, Hoke's Bluff; Alice Latham, Athens, "Luna" Pitts, Clanton; Maurice Priest, Ashland; Maurice Pool, Gadsden; Charles White, Summerville; Christine Wom- an, Belle Mina.

The May Day festival took place on the campus in front of the grandstand. The program included the following:

The solemnities of the Baccalaureate Service will be presented from the student body. A large number of students will be present to help in the service. The Baccalaureate Sermon will be delivered by the Rev. William Crowe, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Talladega. The Baccalaureate Sunday will begin at 11:00 A. M. Sullivan's processional "Onward Christian Sol- diers" will mark the opening and will be followed by the Doxology. The Rev. R. H. Rudd of the local Baptist church will render the invocation.

"Build These More Statley Mansions" by the combined Male and Women's Glee Clubs will precede the scripture reading. The Rev. R. N. Matthews of the local Methodist church will lead in prayer. Mrs. Corrine Poch will render a vocal solo.

The Rev. William Crowe, D. D., then will deliver the Baccalaureate Sermon which will be followed by a hymn, the benediction and recessional.

Y.M.C.A. W. S. C. A. will have charge of the affairs and will provide entertainment for the ladies. The ladies will be permitted to remain until 12:30 a.m. After the close of the Friday night entertainment. Local Group Is Received By Governor F. M. Dixon

The two classes studying American Government visited the State Capitol in Montgomery last Monday, Dr. C. E. Caley supervised the trip. The day was spent in going through the various offices of the Capitol and making a survey of the work being done in the respective departments.

The highlight of the day’s program was the presentation of each individual to the Governor of Alabama. Governor Dixon was most cordial in his reception of the students. With the dark walnut paneling of his office furnishing an appropriate background, Major Dixon received each student by shaking hands with each one as his name was called. Governor Dixon very kindly gave a few minutes of his valuable time to talk informally to the students about the Executive Department of the State of Alabama. He very briefly told of the stream-lining of the Government of the State.

Under the direction of Mr. Lusk Hendrix, head of the English department, and director of the Dramatic Club, the senior class will present "Marie" by Howard Lindsay and Bertrand Robinson for the annual play, May 24-26. "Marie," in the form of a modern comedy, three scenes, was originally performed at the Players Theatre in New York, where it had a run. The play portrays a life in a small town and deals particularly with the difficulties of a married couple, girl, and man, in deciding their love affair for themselves in the face of the girl's match-making parents. Only this time the situation is different — the trouble comes from the parents trying to make Marie marry Tommy instead of trying to keep her from marrying him. Tommy runs up the situation very easily when she says, "I'm a fine girl, I want to marry a girl, and she

Another Word On Democracy

After all the arguing is over, and all excuses made, we may conclude that as a way of life, there is little to be said against democracy, but in this present world, under present conditions, there is something sadly wrong with democracies. It would be unfair to criticize this system. Against the political power of Germany, Italy, and Holland, unlimited, stood no chance. But the "great democracies," England, France, the United States, have not the same excuse to offer. In resources, in men, it is a common sense of the man who helps fight a forest fire on his neighbor's land before he losses his own; and it was a far less dangerous course than the one we have followed. It did not, however, appeal to our pride.

To say that ostriches are not really such foolish birds that they cannot escape pursuit by hiding their heads. Americans are, in America, to say that what was patently before us, at least, and clearly, as a fact. The only basis for peace is the will and means, among those that desire peace, to end the war. The peace we have is peace. Compared with that, peace for all its idealistic paradoxes, is the only desire of an old rich man, to be let alone.

Case History of Men Who Are Drunk

Of course, to those who like to make fun of the "dull" things about the world, this may seem petty. But it is the basic and the only thing that matters. It is the only basis for peace in the will and means, among those that desire peace, to end the war. The peace we have is peace. Compared with that, peace for all its idealistic paradoxes, is the only desire of an old rich man, to be let alone.

Ye Olde Gossip!

This edition of the TEACOLA is dedicated to the Senior class, but others will part for a while. BED is spending most of his time with RUTH during these last days. It is indeed with heartfelt reluctance that they say good-by to the land of campus labs and lovers . . .

JERRY REAGAN must be the answer to ED COLVIN'S prayer for a girl friend. Their names are rapidly becoming as familiar as "ham and eggs," "pork and beans," and "rock and roll." . . . After profound study of the matter, looking into the future, the acquisition of new friends, and a friendly talk with old friends, the "THE CLUB" really exists. We have also learned that the members of that club have decided to abandon the idea of wearing short caps as a membership identification mark. They have been keeping in tune with their times; i.e., all of them have . . . NEAL ROYER was greatly encouraged by his effort at public speaking in assembly last Friday. NEAL states that he may even go into politics—if, of course, he can get the support of a certain lad from Georgia . . . KAT FLEMIX says she could "go for" FRANK BASSETT in a big way. She is impressed by FRANK'S informal manners.

CHARLES "BABY BOY" JOHNSON must be losing his attraction for CONNIE. A young fellow from Piedmont, we gather is partly responsible for this "change of heart." A large group of girls who knew if G. C. WELDON is married. Well, ask him . . . . "KNEEPADS" HAND and MYRA GILLHANL would make a lovely couple facing each other across a breakfast table . . . New romance of the week . . . "BAILEY" and "LINE." . . .

Grande Finale: (With apologies to Mathew Arnold) Freshmen speaking of upper-classmen: They have taught us little, but we have felt them like the roll of thunder.

Dr. Cayley Elected To State Exchange Post

Dr. C. E. Cayley, professor at the State Teachers College, past president of the Jacksonville Exchange Club, and former member of the Board of Control of the Exchange Club, was elected vice-president of the state organization at the convention held last Thursday and Friday, and Mrs. Cayley Dr. F. M. Lawrence, and Dr. and Mrs. Allison, were named at the convention and are to be entertained at a dinner tonight by the committee of courtesy planned for the visitors.

Only Seniors To Graduate This Year

For the first time in the fifty-six commencements held at Jacksonvile State Teachers College there will be no graduation for those students polishing off two years of college. This is merely the advance warning of the small about to be sounded for the two year graduate who expects to teach school. Those finishing two years of college, but not ready to graduate, are urged to return for another year.

Case History of Men Who Are Drunks

Of interest to those who are concerned with the case history of men who are drunks is the recent information given out by Dr. J. H. Wall, assistant professor of clinical psychiatry at Cornell University.

Dr. Wall made a study of 100 alcoholic patients treated at a New York hospital, where he is assistant medical director, over a period of fourteen years and collected data showing that all drunks had some common features.

The whiskey bottle addict of maturity was a colicky, thumb-sucker in his milk bottle days and Dr. Wall believes the typical drunkard was indulged by an emotional unstable mother, scarred by an aggressive, succeeding passively a={{s}} nutritious father, and had at least one drunkard in the family in the past two generations.

In these days when drinking is decided on the increase in this information, the case has been self-examination among parents as to whether or not their children would grow up to be alcoholics. It would surely prove the point if the practice was not altogether to outside influences as many parents believe.

In our opinion, there is nothing which contributes to the ultimate downfall of human beings like coddling and lack of discipline. A generation of children reared under the philosophy that the youngest must have "freedom to express himself" has produced evidence to prove that this freedom must be tempered with a little discipline and that unless there is discipline the child who is free to exercise his will more than likely will create himself up what we need is more stable, God-fearing parents.

A LETTER!

Dear Mr. Editor,

I have two or three or more, and I am not a pessimist though there are times when the world, and the world's health, seems to have a negative reaction toward the every overture. Unsatisfactory events follow each other in rapid succession until some inner feeling seems to impress my discouraged soul with the thought that my immediate departure from the field of human endeavor is the only possible outcome. I would ask you for the moral and spiritual support of the glee club that has been a refuge from the storms of life.

Sincerely yours,

A Optimist.

THANKS!

I sincerely thank all of my friends for the support they have already given me and hope that they will continue their efforts in my behalf. I know that a number of my friends voted for unsuccessful candidates in the first race. Since there is such a limited time between now and the election it will be impossible for me to see many voters, so I respectfully take this means and opportunity of asking my friends to support me in the coming election.

Numerous rumors were afloat in the last race, and many issues may be injected into the present race, but I am continuing my campaign just as I did before on my merits, without criticism of my opponent, and with no promises or political ties to anyone. If I am elected, I pledge myself to an honest, efficient administration of the affairs of the office, with a square deal to all the people.

CUPID'S BATTING AVERAGES

(10) I Happy Endings

I have always been much interested in marital and courtship problems. In them you find human nature in its fairest form; in the dominating wife and the loving husband, the trim little lady, the lovelier youth, the happy romance and loving heart. In them you find the most interesting, the most beautiful, and the most touching things that can happen to human enamorders, but war, nor famine, nor poverty can destroy a love which was made to last a lifetime. I have always been much interested in the "insect complex," but not the psychological forces which nourish it. Indeed, I had played the role of the emancipator to an evil spirit which might now stifle itself with any other than in a nest or even a tree. The possibilities were appalling! In a moment of weakness I was tempted to delve into the mysteries of the heart, but for it is such a bird that the wooers and other animals of the insect world were subject to. Suppose that instead of feeling like an impotent insect, my subject instead of being made to feel like a raving rhinoceros! What might not result from a little experimentation? I have been subject to this, and with an iron hand talk to the words..."

Progressive Program In Jax High School

The seventh grade, supervised by Mrs. Sarah C. Craig, has been working on a unit on “Health” with emphasis on individual health and its relation to community health. This unit is being carried on according to the progressive education standards. The practice teachers are participating in the cooperative supervision of the science; Dewey McMicken, history; Aaron Hand and Tom White, physical education; and Sara Lynn Cogliere, English.

The work has been integrated and planned in the weekly conferences held by Mrs. Craig and social work with the practice teachers.

Mr. McMicken has taught about the health heroes such as Pasteur, Gorgias, and Reid to arouse an appreciation to health.

Mr. Hand and Mr. White have been handi with guest stories and correction of defects, and weight-measurements checking.

Miss Cogliere has carried the English end out by checking the spelling, writing and oral speech.

Mr. Tant has been in charge of the library, and the students have been taught to use the library.

Mr. Hand has set aside the class as a project in the anatomy laboratory and heard a specially prepared exhibition of the “Osceola” skeleton and other materials in the laboratory. Following this trip was a period of study of the human skeleton and a simplified presentation of the college textbook of anatomy.

After discussing the fundamental processes of the body, he brought the class into the anatomy laboratory and showed them the skeleton of the human body. He then discussed the anatomy of the human body.

Miss Cogliere has taught the class about health and the human body.

Malarias has been taught in the laboratory and the students have been taught the importance of health.

The city has agreed to furnish the chemicals to destroy them and, furthermore, to follow up the work during the summer.

As the quarter draws to a close, the results, direct action with its accompanying attitude manifested by the seventh grade, can be viewed with pride. The preliminary checks have revealed great improvement in the core subjects and many results have been achieved across the board.

The Health Unit For Teachers Is Developed By Examiners

One of the best units developed was that one which was worked up by Sarah Dickerson, in the first grade. Mrs. Leonard is the chairman of this department. She has given Miss Boson as supervisor, Alice Lowland as chairman, worked up a unit on teaching Citizenship and Good Manners. Health Habits and Health Service in the unit. The unit of Miss Goodell's first and second grade with Mrs. Waters as chairman, was on the Health Habits of Six and Eight Year Old Children. "Homely patriotism" is being well expressed by our dormitory boys by the way they go home over the week-ends for annual decorations and all day singing.

Several of the boys attended the Daugette Hall picnic last Friday night and reported a very nice time.

"Ex" Hudson has learned to "watch for sudden stops" since his roommate got some rubber taps for his crutches. When "Pop" was informed of the enormous price he paid for them, he replied, "Boys, I always want the best."

Anyone desiring an industrious lad as a school teacher can easily pick him out now by watching the mobs that attend the library regularly at night. A typical example of said type might be found in either "Buzzy" Brumner of "T-Boy" Den.

We wonder if it's the purr of the motor, or the driver, of the tan Plymouth sport car that makes Vibert Forbes' heart go "patty, patty, patty."

You will always find the best cakes, candy, and aspirins at "Brownie's Place" says Wallace.

Who would have thought that Lindley and Wallace would be the type of fellows to go to Montgomery and pay some rubber taps for his crutches. When "Pop" was informed of the enormous price he paid for them, he replied, "Boys, I always want the best."

Were we ever surprised! And if we had known we were watching them, we would have broken into hoots of laughter.

Support Our Team
Not a person who leaves dear old J. S. T. C. and plods his way to some section of the state of Alabama, to divide his learned knowledge with the coming citizens of America, will say anything against his Alma Mater. And yet there is one phase of his education that is incomplete.

We love our school and our teachers, and like our beautiful campus, the friendliness of fellow students, the bountiful social life afforded, the cooperation of students with another faculty, the teachers, our class work, our library facilities, our dormitories, and our literary societies, and yet we are deficient.

We stand and our souls rebound when we sing our Alma Mater. We key our mob voices to the highest pitch a few days before the annual debates. And yet, when our ball teams come out on the field, we are not there.

Ladies.

Jane has an interesting story connected with his baseball career. While a freshman at the University of Alabama, he signed up with the St. Louis Cardinals. In the meantime he became interested in the two games, ladies and gentlemen were the only ones that the Trojans lost.

We can't win the championship, but we have the best team as was proved in our clean sweep of the two-game series with the champions.

That fancy batting average that the "beak" Witt compiled during the earlier stages of the season has gone with the wind. Wilt was batting at a .300 clip for several games, but his average has now fallen to a meager .250. Despite the drop in John's effectiveness at the plate, he is regarded as one of the best hitters in the club.

Captain Tom White, the veteran catcher, looks as the most valuable player on the team. Tom ranks at the top when A. I. C. backstoppers are being discussed.

Hardy Gerber, loud-speaker par excellence, says that "Red" Kemp is a descendant of Yenmus.

I don't get the point of Hardy's statement; all I remember about Yenmus is that she was a lady who had no arms.

Grand Finale: The baseball players for further information concerning the developments that led to the assassination of our loved friend Jack "Bird-dog." White.

Senior Softballers Lose To Juniors

The Juniors recently continued their victory march in their 17-8 victory over the helpless Seniors. The Juniors have yet to taste defeat, while the vaunted power of the Seniors has failed to place them in the win column.

The batting stars for the Juniors were Russell, Smith, Blackwood, and Lovett. Tower, Lockridge, Goggans, Kirby, and Tidmore led the Senior attack with two hits each.
