JSTC Has Place In War Effort--President Cole

New Prexy Leaves OPA Post To Train Youth For Victory

President Cole arrived in Jacksonville Monday night to take up his duties on Tuesday, September 1, as president of the college. He has been busily engaged in interviewing members of the faculty and staff and in familiarizing himself with the various departments of the institution.

The editor of The Teacola requested an interview with the new prexy in order that he might give the readers a personal message. Mr. Cole made the following statement:

"Our country is perhaps facing the greatest crisis in all of its history. It is beset by formidable enemies on two sides..." (The message is too long to be quoted in full).

"It is obvious that the nation is fighting for survival. Everything that the people of this country hold dear is being challenged. The Bill of Rights is at stake. It is well known to all that the enemy is trying to defeat us and reduce us to a third-rate power. This same enemy would dictate our economic and governmental policies if it were to succeed.

"We must win this war. We cannot afford to lose. The heritage of our country is too precious to be sacrificed to the whims of dictators. It is unthinkable.

"This is the first time in the history of the world, if we are to see a triumph in victory every aspect of our social and economic order must be marshalled to strengthen the nation."

College Program Geared For War

The beginning of the current school year finds JSTC prepared to do its bit toward the winning of the war. The primary purpose of the college is to train teachers for the schools of Alabama; a task that is of greater value now than ever before. In addition to that goal, however, many of the technical courses, science, mathematics, accounting and others, have been listed by the Government as critical occupations and are being offered.

The Science Department offers three years of Chemistry. Of these courses, there are elementary Chemistry, Quantitative Analysis, and Organic Chemistry. The mathematics department offers algebra, trigonometry, analytical geometry, calculus, and mechanical drawing. These are fields of knowledge that are greater value now than ever before.
Welcome Students!

The Teacola is off the press ahead of time to welcome freshmen, new and old students to the campus of the Jacksonville State Teachers College. We hope you like us and that as time goes on you will like us more and more.

Going to college in war time is not the gay lark it once was. Competition will be keener, girls. There won't be quite as many dance partners as usual. It may be tough going for you, sister, so get your war paint and things together now.

You girls may even find that the date who was always ready to go places actually is studying for a change, to keep in his shoulders and retain his standing with the armed services that have spread for him.

If the magnificent brute is not already enrolled in the Navy V-1 or V-something, or is not enlisted—but deferred in the Army or the Marines, a draft is about to be called this summer, and the draft boards are watching the newspapers for word to call up the 18-20 classes, which probably will come as soon as the congressmen know the worst and can run the risk of shocking their constituents.

Physical training is being emphasized in intramural and athletic physical exercises. If your dream-eyed date is busty or has the sudden eye of a poet, there will be corrective exercises for him featured by rigid diet and special exercises designed to make him strong enough to lift a Garmill rifle to his shoulder.

For the boys, who are here the picture is not so bad. The worst thing you have to fear is that your best girl will be attracted to the uniforms which are in great abundance around Jacksonville and that instead of waiting around for you to finish up your chores, she will be playing ping pong with his other dates. If you are already spending a large part of his time on the drill field, carrying a rifle and fencing with the bayonet.

But after all, college is something more than dates and dances and the like. We've got a war to win, and it is going to take the combined efforts of all boys and girls, men and women to do it. Everything at the college is being designed for the good of the nation, for the glory, and for the health of our country. We must do our part and be ready to do our part when the need arises.

We hope you enjoy your stay with us and that your time here will be filled with happy memories.
THE BEGINNING OF A NEW ERA AT JSTC

Today, September 7, 1942, marks a new era at the Jacksonville State Teachers College. For sixty years this institution has been growing from a very small beginning to the largest of its kind in Alabama. For forty-three of those sixty years, the late Dr. C. W. Daugette was at its helm. Through its days of infancy he worked with infinite patience to build it up; secured appropriations from the Legislature or built without appropriation one building after another until today the physical plant of the college compares favorably with that of any in the State. Not only did he build buildings. He assisted one way and another thousands of worthy boys and girls in getting a start. Perhaps the start was only one year, or two years in college, but it was a start and that was all that some needed. Today, beginning the new era at Jacksonville is Houston Cole, young, dynamic and energetic. He began his college career under the tutelage of Dr. Daugette at this college. It is fitting that the mantle should fall upon him. He appreciates and understands Jacksonville traditions, problems and conditions probably better than anyone else who could have been chosen. He will cherish those traditions, seek to solve the problems and strive to improve conditions wherever needed in a way that few could do. The college should reach great heights under his administration.

to settle themselves down. But we know all too well the importance of books and the necessity of knowledge, the impelling necessity. Events that are of world-wide importance may seem remote from mathematics, science or history, but it should be quite clear that these events are all very closely related, and that what is taking place today may appear to some students to be the dullest of pursuits.

Our teachers at the beginning of this new school year have a great responsibility. They must try to encourage these students to see that the work of this construction after this war will be no matter of a few years. It will mean decades, at least, of hard work. The spirit of these teachers today may be indicative of their spirit in years to come. Our teachers should teach young people to see beyond the destruction. This is a great and essential job that they have. It is a great responsibility that comes home to each of us, that others are still in college, and that this college owes a great debt to Dr. Daugette. With his passing an influential friend and champion was lost. Beginning the new era at Jacksonville is Houston Cole. But if you will take the trouble to look at the frontispiece of this book you will see that the college tradition of the past sixty years is not lost. Houston Cole has come "home." He loves and respects the traditions of the college. He has come to Jacksonville prepared to carry on the work of the past and to build for the future. He has come to bring new life to the college, to make it more interesting and more attractive. He has come to make it more pleasant for the students and more enjoyable for the faculty. He has come to make it more effective for the training of teachers in the State of Alabama.

THE TEACOLA

One of the greatest interests in student activities of the late Dr. Daugette was that which he held for The Teacola. Since its beginning in 1909, Dr. Daugette has been closely connected with the work of the student journalists with pride. The Teacola has become a symbol at Jacksonville; it has become a connecting link between the Alumni and the students. To uphold the standards of The Teacola is a duty that the students have<href>https://www.jaguars.edu/news/2014/03/27/alumni-week/</href>

Ye Olde Gossip

Not being gifted with any supernatural powers and never having been able to sell my soul to the devil in my youth, nor dwell on the matter of tea leaves in the bottom of a cup or in the bottom of anything else any longer than twenty minutes, I am therefore not one of the converts made by my weary dish-washer's sign and so very seldom have been my chances of even holding a hand for even the fleetest infallible length never be considered long enough in which to read a palm I certainly don't feel that I can understand any possibilities of this art nor any grounds to make such a prophecy. And as for the two or don't come to or don't come to be exactly as they should be. (The length of the sentence notwithstanding) when I read a horoscope, I am about as likely to believe what is written on it as I expect is to be influenced by anything written on the back of a fortune cookie. And I can't remember that I have ever been able to guess, or even to try to do this, but it is a curious fact that the horoscope does seem quite easy to believe, as a matter of fact, and I am sometimes inclined to think that the horoscope is the most inoffensive part of the tea-leaf reader's art that I have ever had the good fortune to see. But if you will ask me why I say this, it is simply because I have been told that I have never seen a tea-leaf reader who could keep a straight face or who could even pretend to be interested in their work. And I must say that I have found this to be true. I have also found that the same formula just doesn't apply to both properties and personal affairs.
thought any other things that are expected to be cleared away to avoid any legal action. The latest news has been that the way he was selected as a member of the 105th Congress of the Teachers College to succeed the late Dr. W. C. Daugwiler.

Houston Cole has done some things that will give evidence that he is a real man. He has been back to the scene of his early experiences and has been associated with some of the most prominent and successful schools that have been established in the last fifty years. He has chosen that place as the home of his alma mater, and has been trying to give it a new lease of life. He has chosen the place where he has been a student and a teacher.

HCCS predicts for him a bright future. He is a man of fine character and has a high degree of mental and moral development. He is well prepared to carry on the work of education that he has undertaken.

Daugwiger is proud of his alma mater, and is pleased to see the growth that has taken place in recent years. He is confident that the future of the school will be bright and promising.
Half Century of Progress Under Administration of Dr. C. W. Daugette

HAMES HALL

The passing of Dr. C. W. Daugette from the educational scene removed a pioneer from the field of education. For almost fifty years he had fought the battles of teaching and teachers' colleges in Alabama. In this task he was a man of intensity and determination—qualities which were outstanding in the larger work of his life. Those who observed the growth and development of the Jacksonville State Teachers College know better than anyone else how the miracle of growth of this college has been accomplished. No obstacle was too great for him to overcome; he was a man of action and he got results.

In this connection, it is interesting to review the history of the school and to note what was accomplished by Dr. Daugette during his administration.

The college was established in 1832 by an act of the Alabama Legislature, as the State Normal School. Two of Jacksonville's public-spirited citizens, L. W. Grindall in the Senate and J. D. Hammon in the House, were instrumental in getting the school located at Jacksonville. The grounds and building of the old Calhoun College, which cost $16,000, were given to the State by the Board of Trustees to be used for the Normal School. Calhoun College was built by the issuance of stock held by people in Jacksonville and by people for several years served so faithfully as executive secretary. In 1931-32 a modern laboratory school was built and was given the name of Kelly Hall in honor of the governor, Thomas R. Kilby. In 1927 a fire-proof dormitory was built, now known as Foyney Hall, named for General Foyney. It took the place of the wooden barracks which were erected by the government during the War to house a unit of the S. T. C. This dormitory was built without any state appropriation.

In 1853 the Normal School passed out of existence and the five-year teachers' college took its place as a member of the Alabama Association of Colleges and the American Association of Teachers' Colleges. Later it became a member of the Alabama Association of Normal Schools and Secondary Schools, and the American Council on Education. At this time, also, the State purchased the building used by the City of Jacksonville as a high school and by agreement with the City Council and Board of Education assumed responsibility for the elementary and high schools. Thus Dr. Daugette became the superintendent of the Jacksonville schools, including the colored school, as well as president of the college. The local schools were to be used for laboratory schools for training of student teachers.

The student body continued to grow and new members were added to the faculty. The buildings were not adequate for the increased student body and the Board of Education appropriated $130,000 for new buildings. The Buick property was purchased, in the northern part of the city, and the administration building, named to honor the late Governor Bibb Graves, was erected at a cost of more than a quarter of a million dollars. Immediately afterwards there was built a dormitory for women south of Bibb Graves Hall, which was given the name of C. W. Daugette Hall.

In 1919 an apartment dormitory, a library, and a physiotherapy building were erected through the cooperation of the IYFRA at a cost of more than $100,000. In 1925 a cafeteria building was begun through the cooperation of the IYFRA and is years served so faithfully as executive secretary. I have reared me a monument more lasting than bronze*
We bow our heads in sadness as we pay tribute to our beloved president. The school, the state and the nation have sustained a great loss in his passing.

Although his going leaves us without his counsel, his progressive spirit and his efficient service, his memory will live in the hearts of those who knew him, for time to come. In this lines of his favorite poem, "The Bridge Builder," is his life typified:

An old man, going a lone highway,
Came, at the evening, cold and gray,
To a chasm, vast, and deep, and wide,
That was overflowing with a flood.

The old man crossed in the twilight glim:
The sullen flood had no fear for him;
But he turned, which safe on the other side,
And built a bridge to span the chasm.
"Old man," said a fellow pilgrim near,
"You are wasting strength building there;"
"Your journey will end with the ending day;"
"You never again must pass this way."
"You have crossed the chasm, deep and wide—"
Why build you the bridge at the eventide?"
Bibb Graves Hall was the first of the buildings to be erected on the site of the new campus. It cost approximately $30,000 and was named for the late Bibb Graves, former governor. The site of the building was purchased from the Barke family, descendants of General Barke who came through Jacksonville with the Union Army and was so attracted to the spot that he determined to return after the war and build a home here. This he did, and reared his family in Jacksonville.

CUTS NOT AVAILABLE FOR OTHER BUILDINGS

In addition to the buildings pictured here, a number could not be used because of lack of newspaper cuts. Listed among these are: Forney Hall, dormitory for men; Daugette Hall, dormitory for women; Kilby Hall, elementary school; the High School, secondary laboratory school; Weatherly Hall, dormitory for women, and the swimming pool.

The college also owns a large number of residences which are occupied by faculty members or which are rented to army officers.

The library was built in cooperation with the PWA in 1939. It houses more than 50,000 well-selected books, including dictionaries and reference works, books on education, biography, history, travel and literature. In addition there are many public documents. The books are classified according to the Dewey Decimal System.

The health and physical education building was built in 1939 at the same time the library and apartment dormitory were. The architects drawing calls for an indoor swimming pool in the front part of the building. It contains a basketball court comparable to any in the State.

The Apartment Dormitory is the only building on the campus available for light housekeeping and in which married couples live. It is equipped with suites of rooms with a kitchen and dinette between. This type of dormitory has proved very popular with students.
The Exchange Club met Wednesday evening in the Adora Room of the Sherrard Hotel for the regular semi-monthly meeting. President A. C. Summers conducted the meeting.

Mr. H. Hendrix, presented as the guest speaker President Houston Cole, of the State Teachers College in the Alcovy School, the meeting here this week. Mr. Hendrix pointed out that Mr. Cole was highly successful in all of his undertakings and that he is one of the most brilliant success pres- ident of the college.

Mr. Cole, took pleasure at being present at the meeting, and said that it is a high honor to be president of the college. He de- clared his intention to cooperate in every way with the community and urged that the citizens cooperate with entire in his efforts to carry on the work here.

Pledges Beat Efforts For City Project

School days are born, with books with lesson assignments and occasional headaches. Sometimes something is a little difficult. There is, however, a lot of fun involved in that month.

Since a school wouldn't be a school college life would never be con- sidered complete without the extracurricular activities that go along with the other benefits to be de- veloped. This year has been a great year for the Morgan Literary Society. The members have been working hard to make this year a success. The present members are consider- ably more than those of any other year. So far the good work and are cordially inviting new students to join in. By the word hard-work- ing we don't mean that being in the Morgans is the only thing that since the society stands for a good purpose and since all mem- bers expect to get something out of it, naturally follows that they are working hard.

BOND SALES PROGRAM GIVEN AT PRINCESS

On Tuesday evening, September 1, at 9 o'clock, the Princess Theatre, in cooperation with a National Bond Drive Program, stopped the show for a ten minute war bond sales program. Mr. Houston Cole, president of the State Teachers College, and Mr. J. M. Wood gave short patriotic addresses in which they pointed out the grave danger now confronting the democratic nations of the world and stressed the urgent need for sacrifice and cooperation by every citizen to the prosecution of the war. They called attention to the urgent need for funds by our government for equipment and trained armed forces which are giving everything even to life, for the preservation of freedom.
