Dr Cole Addresses Conference

Senator Sparkman Is Announced

John Sparkman, United States senator for the Alabama, addressed the students and faculty on June 14 in the Leona Cole Auditorium. Mr. Sparkman was announced by the Workshop for Civic Education under the direction of Mr. Baskin Wright and Mr. Ernest Nations.

Dr. E. B. Norton Is Assembly Speaker

Dr. Elbert Norton, president of Florence State College, delivered the address to the faculty and students on June 14 in the Leona Cole Auditorium. At the conclusion of his address, 170 degrees were conferred upon the seniors by Dr. Cole and Dr. Robert C. Wood. Receipt commissions as second lieutenants in the U.S. Army were delivered to eleven ROV student officers by Col. Louis B. Cole, Jr.

Dr. T. Z Koo Talks To College Students on World Affairs

Dr. T. Z Koo, distinguished Chinese lecturer, addressed the assembly of students and faculty on June 14 in the Leona Cole Auditorium.

Dr. Cole said, "Too frequently businessmen regard educators as theorists, and, on the other hand, educators accuse them (the businessmen) of an unwillingness to support an adequate school program."

Dr. Cole said, however, that the real basis of conflict between business and education is the belief held by a great majority of the business men that "the school program is lenient enforcement of a progressive program that will ultimately destroy free enterprise in business."

Dr. Cole quoted statistics taken from a recent survey made among large business men to prove his point.

In an address given before hundreds of Alabama educators at the 33rd Annual State Education Conference on June 21, Dr. Houser Cole lashed out at the "cold war between business and education."

BRIEF RESUME OF LIFE

Dr. T. Z Koo

Dr. T. Z Koo, Secretary of the World's Student Christian Federation for the past 14 years, has been a leading figure in the spiritual life of the world for many years. He has traveled extensively in every continent and has been to the great majority of countries. He has made numerous visits to the United States, his first trip being in 1912. He came this time (April 1946) as Adviser to the Chinese Delegation at the San Francisco Conference of the U.N. Following this experience, he represented the Worlds' Student Christian Federation in a speaking tour in the colleges and universities of the United States, Canada, the Caribbean, and South America. In the fall of 1948, he arrived in the United States and after a tour of the schools, he joined the School of Religion at the University of Florida. Fall of 1950, Dr. Koo will return to the faculty of the University of Iowa, Professor of Oriental Studies.

The present moment, he is visiting Professor under the auspices of the School of Religion at the University of Florida. Fall of 1950, Dr. Koo will return to the faculty of the University of Iowa, Professor of Oriental Studies.

The present moment, he is visiting Professor under the auspices of the School of Religion at the University of Florida. Fall of 1950, Dr. Koo will return to the faculty of the University of Iowa, Professor of Oriental Studies.

At the present moment, he is visiting Professor under the auspices of the School of Religion at the University of Florida. Fall of 1950, Dr. Koo will return to the faculty of the University of Iowa, Professor of Oriental Studies.

The present moment, he is visiting Professor under the auspices of the School of Religion at the University of Florida. Fall of 1950, Dr. Koo will return to the faculty of the University of Iowa, Professor of Oriental Studies.

Dr. T. Z Koo

In an address given before hundreds of Alabama educators at the 33rd Annual State Education Conference on June 21, Dr. Houser Cole lashed out at the "cold war between business and education."

Dr. Cole said, "Too frequently business men regard educators as theorists, and, on the other hand, educators accuse them (the businessmen) of an unwillingness to support an adequate school program."

Dr. Cole said, however, that the real basis of conflict between business and education is the belief held by a great majority of the business men that "the school program is lenient enforcement of a progressive program that will ultimately destroy free enterprise in business."

Dr. Cole quoted statistics taken from a recent survey made among large business men to prove his point.

In an address given before hundreds of Alabama educators at the 33rd Annual State Education Conference on June 21, Dr. Houser Cole lashed out at the "cold war between business and education."

Dr. Cole said, "Too frequently business men regard educators as theorists, and, on the other hand, educators accuse them (the businessmen) of an unwillingness to support an adequate school program."

Dr. Cole said, however, that the real basis of conflict between business and education is the belief held by a great majority of the business men that "the school program is lenient enforcement of a progressive program that will ultimately destroy free enterprise in business."

Dr. Cole quoted statistics taken from a recent survey made among large business men to prove his point.

In an address given before hundreds of Alabama educators at the 33rd Annual State Education Conference on June 21, Dr. Houser Cole lashed out at the "cold war between business and education."

Dr. Cole said, "Too frequently business men regard educators as theorists, and, on the other hand, educators accuse them (the businessmen) of an unwillingness to support an adequate school program."

Dr. Cole said, however, that the real basis of conflict between business and education is the belief held by a great majority of the business men that "the school program is lenient enforcement of a progressive program that will ultimately destroy free enterprise in business."

Dr. Cole quoted statistics taken from a recent survey made among large business men to prove his point.

In an address given before hundreds of Alabama educators at the 33rd Annual State Education Conference on June 21, Dr. Houser Cole lashed out at the "cold war between business and education."

Dr. Cole said, "Too frequently business men regard educators as theorists, and, on the other hand, educators accuse them (the businessmen) of an unwillingness to support an adequate school program."

Dr. Cole said, however, that the real basis of conflict between business and education is the belief held by a great majority of the business men that "the school program is lenient enforcement of a progressive program that will ultimately destroy free enterprise in business."

Dr. Cole quoted statistics taken from a recent survey made among large business men to prove his point.

In an address given before hundreds of Alabama educators at the 33rd Annual State Education Conference on June 21, Dr. Houser Cole lashed out at the "cold war between business and education."

Dr. Cole said, "Too frequently business men regard educators as theorists, and, on the other hand, educators accuse them (the businessmen) of an unwillingness to support an adequate school program."

Dr. Cole said, however, that the real basis of conflict between business and education is the belief held by a great majority of the business men that "the school program is lenient enforcement of a progressive program that will ultimately destroy free enterprise in business."

Dr. Cole quoted statistics taken from a recent survey made among large business men to prove his point.

In an address given before hundreds of Alabama educators at the 33rd Annual State Education Conference on June 21, Dr. Houser Cole lashed out at the "cold war between business and education."

Dr. Cole said, "Too frequently business men regard educators as theorists, and, on the other hand, educators accuse them (the businessmen) of an unwillingness to support an adequate school program."

Dr. Cole said, however, that the real basis of conflict between business and education is the belief held by a great majority of the business men that "the school program is lenient enforcement of a progressive program that will ultimately destroy free enterprise in business."

Dr. Cole quoted statistics taken from a recent survey made among large business men to prove his point.

In an address given before hundreds of Alabama educators at the 33rd Annual State Education Conference on June 21, Dr. Houser Cole lashed out at the "cold war between business and education."

Dr. Cole said, "Too frequently business men regard educators as theorists, and, on the other hand, educators accuse them (the businessmen) of an unwillingness to support an adequate school program."

Dr. Cole said, however, that the real basis of conflict between business and education is the belief held by a great majority of the business men that "the school program is lenient enforcement of a progressive program that will ultimately destroy free enterprise in business."

Dr. Cole quoted statistics taken from a recent survey made among large business men to prove his point.

In an address given before hundreds of Alabama educators at the 33rd Annual State Education Conference on June 21, Dr. Houser Cole lashed out at the "cold war between business and education."

Dr. Cole said, "Too frequently business men regard educators as theorists, and, on the other hand, educators accuse them (the businessmen) of an unwillingness to support an adequate school program."

Dr. Cole said, however, that the real basis of conflict between business and education is the belief held by a great majority of the business men that "the school program is lenient enforcement of a progressive program that will ultimately destroy free enterprise in business."

Dr. Cole quoted statistics taken from a recent survey made among large business men to prove his point.

In an address given before hundreds of Alabama educators at the 33rd Annual State Education Conference on June 21, Dr. Houser Cole lashed out at the "cold war between business and education."

Dr. Cole said, "Too frequently business men regard educators as theorists, and, on the other hand, educators accuse them (the businessmen) of an unwillingness to support an adequate school program."

Dr. Cole said, however, that the real basis of conflict between business and education is the belief held by a great majority of the business men that "the school program is lenient enforcement of a progressive program that will ultimately destroy free enterprise in business."

Dr. Cole quoted statistics taken from a recent survey made among large business men to prove his point.

In an address given before hundreds of Alabama educators at the 33rd Annual State Education Conference on June 21, Dr. Houser Cole lashed out at the "cold war between business and education."

Dr. Cole said, "Too frequently business men regard educators as theorists, and, on the other hand, educators accuse them (the businessmen) of an unwillingness to support an adequate school program."

Dr. Cole said, however, that the real basis of conflict between business and education is the belief held by a great majority of the business men that "the school program is lenient enforcement of a progressive program that will ultimately destroy free enterprise in business."

Dr. Cole quoted statistics taken from a recent survey made among large business men to prove his point.

In an address given before hundreds of Alabama educators at the 33rd Annual State Education Conference on June 21, Dr. Houser Cole lashed out at the "cold war between business and education."

Dr. Cole said, "Too frequently business men regard educators as theorists, and, on the other hand, educators accuse them (the businessmen) of an unwillingness to support an adequate school program."

Dr. Cole said, however, that the real basis of conflict between business and education is the belief held by a great majority of the business men that "the school program is lenient enforcement of a progressive program that will ultimately destroy free enterprise in business."

Dr. Cole quoted statistics taken from a recent survey made among large business men to prove his point.

In an address given before hundreds of Alabama educators at the 33rd Annual State Education Conference on June 21, Dr. Houser Cole lashed out at the "cold war between business and education."

Dr. Cole said, "Too frequently business men regard educators as theorists, and, on the other hand, educators accuse them (the businessmen) of an unwillingness to support an adequate school program."

Dr. Cole said, however, that the real basis of conflict between business and education is the belief held by a great majority of the business men that "the school program is lenient enforcement of a progressive program that will ultimately destroy free enterprise in business."

Dr. Cole quoted statistics taken from a recent survey made among large business men to prove his point.
Jim Jones, a sophomore from Heflin, is a member of a family which has been in Alabama for generations. His father, Joe Jones, a teacher in the Chastine County High School, graduated here. There are 11 children in the family and all but two have gone on to college. One of those, a sister who finished high school, is planning to enroll in college this fall. The other, a brother who majored in journalism at the University of Alabama, is now with The Alabama City Outlook.

WORKSHOP GROUP VISIT SPECIAL SESSION OF STATE LEGISLATURE

Fourfy-five teachers of the one hundred engaged in a study of civic education at Jacksonville State College attended the special session of the State Legislature on Sunday. They witnessed the opening of the session and heard Governor James E. Folsom address the joint assembly. Accompanying the group were Arthur Stone and Baskin Wright, coordinators of the workshop.

During their visit to Montgomery the teachers visited the White House, the Alabama Department of Archives and History, the University of Alabama, the State House, and the capitol building and points of interest.

So far the teachers have heard Senator John J. Sparkman on national affairs, State Representative Pelham Merrill on state affairs, Walter W. Ballard on the duties of the probate office, and Judge G. Clyde Brittian on the duties of the probate office. On Friday of last week, Dr. T. Z. Koo, noted Chinese leader in the field of international affairs, spoke to the workshop at 9:30 a.m., and to the student body and faculty at 10:30 a.m. Other Washington lectures will be presented later dates.

A large number of the teachers will go to Washington, D.C., on July 7 for a four-day study of the nation's capital.

Ringers' Club

The Ringers' Club will be in active during the summer quarter, but will resume its activities in the fall. If any of you did not get a copy of the first issue, we will have copies at the door with all club publications, Sounds, and would like a copy please contact Roy Wallace or Martha Cramer.

Frank Jones, Albertville, was elected president and national councilman of Episcopal Mu Chapter of Phi Mu Alpha at Jacksonville State College. He was installed at ceremonies held Monday night in the correlation hall with the retiring president, Mr. Howell, at the presiding. B. J. Nettles, Atmore, was elected vice-president; W. H. Blevins, New Market, secretary-treasurer; J. R. Baker, Anniston, junior councilman; and James B. Baker, Anniston, junior councilman.

On Monday night the program was as follows: Concert, Strassburg, James Baker, Anniston, French horn; "Still As The Night," (John) L. Trotter, Atlanta, Ga., contralto; "Kammermusik" (Sasser), Ann Duncan, mezzo; "The Cathedral Scene," (Intermezzo), (McAskill), Ann Duncan, cello; "The Cathedral Scene," (Intermezzo), (McAskill), Ann Duncan, cello; "The Cathedral Scene," (Intermezzo), (McAskill), Ann Duncan, cello.

The choir has been working on the new modern education in terms of the new theories of modern education.

The workshop held at the M.I. Johnson Auditorium, president, Dr. Koo addressed the fact that China, being an old country, had been difficult to educate. The teachers will be able to read a copy of the publication.

Frank Jones, Albertville, was elected president and national councilman of Episcopal Mu Chapter of Phi Mu Alpha at Jacksonville State College. He was installed at ceremonies held Monday night in the corrilation hall with the retiring president, Mr. Howell, at the presiding. B. J. Nettles, Atmore, was elected vice-president; W. H. Blevins, New Market, secretary-treasurer; J. R. Baker, Anniston, junior councilman; and James B. Baker, Anniston, junior councilman.

On Monday night the program was as follows: Concert, Strassburg, James Baker, Anniston, French horn; "Still As The Night," (John) L. Trotter, Atlanta, Ga., contralto; "Kammermusik" (Sasser), Ann Duncan, mezzo; "The Cathedral Scene," (Intermezzo), (McAskill), Ann Duncan, cello; "The Cathedral Scene," (Intermezzo), (McAskill), Ann Duncan, cello; "The Cathedral Scene," (Intermezzo), (McAskill), Ann Duncan, cello.

The choir has been working on the new modern education in terms of the new theories of modern education.

Education of the Chinese people on modern living must begin in the school, and if the education is not adequate, the main reason is the failure of educators from who the inspiration and ability to mold influence, as is the case in modern life, is such as it is today, in order that they will be more capable of handling the atomic menace, and the trend in which the world is going.

Dr. Koo holds the Imperial degree of Master of Literature from the Chinese Government, and the honorary degree of Doctor of Literature from the University of Tokyo and at Clark College. A skilled fluent, he sometimes can be heard to play his favorite Chinese violin melodies to the delight of his audiences.

At the same time, Dr. Cole, who has taught at the school, says that the outcomes of the educational system in China are better than those in the West. He says that the Chinese people are better educated than the people of the West. He says that the Chinese people are better educated than the people of the West.

Dr. Cole put questions to 260 business men in Alabama. In a recent survey in the survey, he reported, are indications of a growing interest in the educational opportunities of the people of China. He says that the educational system in China is better than that of the West. He says that the Chinese people are better educated than the people of the West.

Dr. Cole said that results of an inquiry be made show that business men in Alabama are not satisfied with the job the schools are doing. That statement ought to be ringing in their ears, and to the benefit of the public and to the people of the state.
CIVIL SERVICE OPPENS FOR TEACHERS

An examination for Elementary Teachers in the Bureau of Indian Affairs has been announced by the U. S. Civil Service Commission. The position salary is $3,109 a year, and are located in Indian schools in the Territory of Alaska and in the following states: Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, Oklahoma, Mississippi, Montana, Oregon, Idaho, California, Arizona, New Mexico, Wyoming, Utah, Colorado, North Carolina, and Florida.

Applicants for the examination will not be required to take the examination in person, but will be required to show their application on file not later than July 5, 1940.

---

WESLEY FOUNDATION NEWS

The Wesley Foundation of Jacksonville State College started its second semester on March 30, 1943, at the Post Office at Jacksonville, Alabama, under the Act of March 3, 1918.

Subscription Rate, $1.00 Per Year

EDUCATIONAL STAFF

NEW STAFF FOR SUMMER

Editor

Martha Cromer

Assistant Editor

Betty Morgan

Typist

See Parker

Photographer

Herbert Cunningham

Facuty Adviser

Dr. H. B. Mock

BUSINESS STAFF

Advertising

Mrs. Henry Davis

Circulation Manager

Jack Kerby

BUSINESS, EDUCATION AND COMMUNISM

Editor's Note—The letter below was written by the Rev. Robert McNeill as a comment on the address made last week by Dr. Houtsen Cole at the University. He had previously "tried it out" on faculty members at this college.

According to a recent survey made by Dr. Houston Cole, men student educators give encouraging emphasis to economic systems other than our present one, ranging from planned economy to Communism. And it is no secret that educators resent their free speech and thought being labeled pinkish by those who apply repressive legislation or hinder one's right to understand the other. One is a horn-rimmed abstractionist and the other a boorish Babitt. And naturally each blames the other for the present pathological condition of our body politic.

We believe our nation is sick because of a small fomenting sore called American Communism. Why should an American of all people be attracted to this ideology? He must be crazy! Look him up or deport him. Whose fault is it that the Red idea is spreading on a scale? The fault is in neither the business nor education nor any other category of people. How can you separate business from education when business men have been running such schools as training institutions and our schools reflect the general philosophy of business? When Will Rogers was asked what was the matter with the world he said, "I guess it's people." That is about as specific as we can get when impeaching blame for our modern predicament.

Communism didn't spring full grown from the heads of the Red anyway. Its philosophical basis is based on materialism. It is based on the teaching that man is a material being. In the realm of ideas this is the realm of values. The very absence of this type of instruction is in itself a choice of lower materialistic values. The professor, be he a mathematician who teaches in the realm of religion or irrelevance in every lecture. There is no neutrality. The failure to offer sensibly religious instruction is in itself a religion out of scientific method. Communism breeds, in desperation. Business without conscience becomes poverty. Education without a soul bears hopelessness. The twin brothers of despair! Democracy is exploited by political opportunists and economic tyrants when there are spiritless intuitions. Such intolerable conditions that Communism appears to be the most reasonable and best solution of the political questions which inclinations are not higher than the economic will be governed by the imperious laws of profit and loss, in the absence of moral restraint, eventually will require a rigid system of economic supervision. Any person who chooses security over liberty will have neither because liberty is surrendered to the regulation of acquisitive habits, and the desire for security is insatiable. Does American business have a conscience? Then it must speak to more deadly sins than short-changing a customer. The conscience of business must replace the motive, exchange paternalism toward labor for brotherliness; it must restrain its own monopolistic tendencies, deal mercifully with competitors, value the spirit of a man above his productivity.

Does American education have a soul? Then never let us hear again the commencement addresses that are in the realm of conscience, financial success. Education must educate not train, think not react, lead not follow, make men not adapt them. The highest realm of instruction is in the realm of choice. The very absence of this type of instruction is in itself a choice of lower materialistic values. The professor, be he a mathematician who teaches in the realm of religion or irrelevance in every lecture. There is no neutrality. The failure to offer sensibly religious instruction is in itself a religion out of scientific method. Communism breeds, in desperation. Business without conscience becomes poverty. Education without a soul bears hopelessness. The twin brothers of despair! Democracy is exploited by political opportunists and economic tyrants when there are spiritless intuitions. Such intolerable conditions that Communism appears to be the most reasonable and best solution of the political questions which inclinations are not higher than the economic will be governed by the imperious laws of profit and loss, in the absence of moral restraint, eventually will require a rigid system of economic supervision. Any person who chooses security over liberty will have neither because liberty is surrendered to the regulation of acquisitive habits, and the desire for security is insatiable. Does American business have a conscience? Then it must speak to more deadly sins than short-changing a customer. The conscience of business must replace the motive, exchange paternalism toward labor for brotherliness; it must restrain its own monopolistic tendencies, deal mercifully with competitors, value the spirit of a man above his productivity.
IT'S Camels- for classrobms. men, only, MILD that WITH SMOKERS WHO KNOW...

...are weekly exmlnntions,' reportea three. story frame sti-ucture. The and will live in ~e lives of am- first floor was used for the office

Camels smoked Camels-and m~ki~~g is open our own minds to Marxism or we create giving spidit of God-given democracy. not of three hills or four rail-unto the Was Written Mars. C. W. Dam- ing to on the asher of raise his hand," wkupon the and fVth generalions of ette and she was Mnd enough to a great war. rt was not unusual tall visitor arose and raised ob-

1521 Ringgold Road
Chattanooga 4, Tennessee

Dear Mrs. Daugette,

I changed to Jacksonville at the commencement season this year, and was permitted to attend the graduation exercises at the Jacksonville State Teachers College.

I watched with much interest the large and impressive class of 1906 file by and receive their diplomas, one after another, degrees from the hand of President Cato. I was proud of my past, and proud of the home of the school when it was known as the Jacksonville State Normal School. I have always been taught to respect learning, and the school that I called home.

I entered the school in 1903, and left in 1909.

I looked back across the campus of nearly fifty years, and saw again the class of 1903—three members.

I considered the campus of today with its many magnificent buildings and acres of land. The old Calhoun County Courthouse and standing by it the Iron Queen Hotel. These two buildings were built when the school had no more than two rooms a year.

My last year as a student at the Calhoun County School was spent in the old courthouse, living and working in the courtroom.

In 1909, I began my teaching career at the old courthouse. I taught there for five years, and then transferred to the new school building.

The courthouse is now used as a polling place and a community center.

In conclusion, I would like to say that the Calhoun County Courthouse is a symbol of our rich history and a reminder of the hard work and dedication of those who built and maintained it.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

[Date]
Student registering for the summer session found a number of some temporary and others permanent.

J. F. Calvert, Jr., returned to the physical education department. He was more intensive, the quiet atmosphere changed to one of parlor and confusion. People began to crowd the gymnasium until by eight o'clock one wondered who, you know, there or were, had. Monday morning was the time set aside for freshmen to make out their schedules. Then with burning faces by one they made their cards to hand in, to name of half of their classes closed. All that work to do for the summer quarter. The course began on June 7 and was taught by Dr. W. J. Wharton, president; Dr. J. M. McWhorter, vice-president; Dr. W. J. Wharton, vice-president; and Dr. W. J. Wharton, vice-president. The course was taught by Dr. W. J. Wharton, president; Dr. J. M. McWhorter, vice-president; and Dr. W. J. Wharton, vice-president.

Registration deadline for all college work

As the sun came up on June 5 at Jacksonville, there was a half a day in Washington, D.C., program in the Workshop for Alcoholics Education. It is under the direction of Dr. Wharton and includes a number of speakers to explore the various aspects of alcohol.

The course began on June 7 with a discussion of the Physiology of Alcohol, presented by Dr. C. R. Wharton. A representative gave a charge of this discussion. Social Drinking: under the direction of Dr. Wharton, and Drinking, a discussion led by a number of speakers, will be given. Other topics have been put before the group for discussion. Each will be read, and a discussion on each will be held.

During the semester of the program the course will continue in much the same manner. By the time the class is completed, Dr. Wharton is interested in the subject of alcohol education is invited to attend a discussion in which he is interested.

Dr. Wharton is a member of the faculty and is interested in the subject of alcohol education. He is interested in the subject of alcohol education.

The course began on June 7 with a discussion of the Physiology of Alcohol, presented by Dr. C. R. Wharton. A representative gave a charge of this discussion. Social Drinking: under the direction of Dr. Wharton, and Drinking, a discussion led by a number of speakers, will be given. Other topics have been put before the group for discussion. Each will be read, and a discussion on each will be held.

During the semester of the program the course will continue in much the same manner. By the time the class is completed, Dr. Wharton is interested in the subject of alcohol education is invited to attend a discussion in which he is interested.

The course began on June 7 with a discussion of the Physiology of Alcohol, presented by Dr. C. R. Wharton. A representative gave a charge of this discussion. Social Drinking: under the direction of Dr. Wharton, and Drinking, a discussion led by a number of speakers, will be given. Other topics have been put before the group for discussion. Each will be read, and a discussion on each will be held.

During the semester of the program the course will continue in much the same manner. By the time the class is completed, Dr. Wharton is interested in the subject of alcohol education is invited to attend a discussion in which he is interested.

The course began on June 7 with a discussion of the Physiology of Alcohol, presented by Dr. C. R. Wharton. A representative gave a charge of this discussion. Social Drinking: under the direction of Dr. Wharton, and Drinking, a discussion led by a number of speakers, will be given. Other topics have been put before the group for discussion. Each will be read, and a discussion on each will be held.

During the semester of the program the course will continue in much the same manner. By the time the class is completed, Dr. Wharton is interested in the subject of alcohol education is invited to attend a discussion in which he is interested.

The course began on June 7 with a discussion of the Physiology of Alcohol, presented by Dr. C. R. Wharton. A representative gave a charge of this discussion. Social Drinking: under the direction of Dr. Wharton, and Drinking, a discussion led by a number of speakers, will be given. Other topics have been put before the group for discussion. Each will be read, and a discussion on each will be held.

During the semester of the program the course will continue in much the same manner. By the time the class is completed, Dr. Wharton is interested in the subject of alcohol education is invited to attend a discussion in which he is interested.
The celebration was my inspiration. The Army, Navy, Marine, Air Force, and Coast Guard bands, made up of approximately 150 voices sang songs before the speeches. There were three divisions of the choir—the first to entertain, the second, while, and the third, blue. These were the highlights of the conference.

We had a free evening to see Washington after the celebration. Our sightseeing excursions included a trip to Union Station, the airport, the Capitol, the White House, the Washington Monument, the Lincoln Memorial, and all the office buildings and other points of interest.

We were assigned assigned discussion groups in our group, we had several different discussion groups in various states, mainly northern. I was assigned to a group in Kentucky but unfortunately the local Citizenship Forum is just about the only one of its type in the state. I was interested in learning more about the group. I had an opportunity to tell my group about the group in Kentucky in regard to building a basis for good government and citizen.

Some of the delegations represented their local Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. of America, are doing to good government, public welfare, social services, and the like, they have a wide range.

The first Senator we recognized was Alabama's John Sparkman, who was participating in a debate on irrigation in the Senate. The Senator got out after he finished speaking and into the streets of Washington. We met Senator Margaret Chase Smith, from Maine, and a page boy in Washington. I sent a page boy in to ask her to come see us. We introduced ourselves, and she was pleased that we called her out. She was very kind and invited us to a dinner at her house.
STUDENTS TAKE TRIP TO MONTGOMERY

Bright and early on Monday morning, a group of students, led by their advisor, departed for Montgomery. They were accompanied by several teachers and a busload of students. The trip was aimed at broadening their perspective on the legislative process.

Upon arrival, the students were given a guided tour of the state capitol, where they met with state legislators and learned about the workings of the government. The tour concluded with a visit to the Alabama Supreme Court building, where they were able to witness a hearing in progress.

The students then had the opportunity to visit several landmarks in Montgomery, including the Dexter Avenue King Memorial Baptist Church and the Rosa Parks Museum.

The trip was a great success, and the students returned to school with a better understanding of the political process and the importance of civic engagement.

FIRST WEDDING HELD IN INTERNATIONAL HOUSE

On Saturday, June 3, at 4:00 p.m., Miss Solange Galletto of Nancy, France, and Lord William, Jr., of the British Embassy, were married by Rev. James Bailey in the International House at Jackson State College.

Before a small audience, they exchanged vows, watched by their families and friends. The ceremony was followed by a reception at the International House.

Miss Galletto, a native of France, met Lord William, Jr., while studying at the British Embassy in Washington, D.C. They have been engaged for several years and are now married.

MARCH OF DINES FUND HELPS LOCAL BOY

The Mail of Jimmy Young, a victim of polio, has focused attention on the benefits derived from the March of Dimes Fund. The fund has paid all his expenses for doctors and hospital and will cover whatever future expenses are necessary. So far, $340.00 has been spent in his behalf from the March of Dimes.

In the last March of Dimes drive, Jacksonville contributed a little more than $100, but it is pointed out that this is not enough. The March of Dimes is in need of contributions this year.

Prisoner: "The judge sent me here for the rest of my life."

Judge: "Why are you complaining?"

Prisoner: "Swinging this fking hammer isn't my idea of a rest."

Vitamin - Enriched

EAT IT WITH EVERY MEAL! It contains all the elements your body requires for energy and vitality.

It TASTES Soooo good because it's made with the best of everything.

LLOYD'S BAKERY

Anniston, Alabama

PASS THE WORD ALONG TO MY FANS AND FRIENDS...

THANK YOU FOR YOUR LOYALTY AND SUPPORT.

The number of times the average man says "no" to temptation is once weekly.

Education is not doing as much as it should to combat student involvement in why elements. In some American education is.

The fundamentals of learning are not taught as they are a generation ago. There is a definite relation between the failure of American education and the educational level of our people.

WEDNESDAY, June 22, 1909
favorite campus haunts of the students at Northwestern University. That's because The Grill is a friendly place, always full of the busy atmosphere of college life. There is always plenty of ice-cold Coca-Cola, too. For here, as in college gathering spots everywhere—Coke belongs.

"I PASS THE WORD ALONG TO MY FANS AND FRIENDS... CHESTERFIELDS ARE Milder. IT'S MY CIGARETTE!"

The Grill at Scott Hall is one of the favorite campus haunts of the students at Northwestern University. That's because The Grill is a friendly place, always full of the busy atmosphere of college life. There is always plenty of ice-cold Coca-Cola, too. For here, as in college gathering spots everywhere—Coke belongs.

Always Buy CHESTERFIELD

They're Milder! They're Tops! - In America's Colleges with the Top Men in Sports with the Hollywood Stars

Copyright 1949, Facet & Mow Tomc Co.