Situation Wanted. More than one senior is counting the days until, until May 27.

The exchange students are counting the days, too, but with a different outlook. “Only three more weeks! Can you imagine that? Just three more weeks!”

The Cuban girls, Raquel Npal and Minu Ballart, are returning to Havana this month, says Rogel: “I’m going to be made and soak.”

Lips High in Birmingham. He’ll stay in the States another year. France, will teach French at Philadelphia’s Central, but she prefers a white plane crash in India last July. Many of these facts were brought out by Colonel Harry M. Summerville, editor of The Jacksonville State Chronicle and has lectured on political topics at universities throughout the South.

Arizona Editor Addresses Assembly

William R. Mathews, editor of The Tucson (Arizona) Star, spent Thursday last week on the campus of Jacksonville State College. He was a guest at banquet at the International House at night and spoke in a special assembly of faculty and students in the Leon Cole Auditorium at 10 a.m.

Mr. Williams stopped over in Jacksonville on route from the annual meeting of the American Society of Newspaper Editors in Washington, D.C. of which he is a director. He is also a member of the Pulitzer Prize Committee. He has distinguished himself in the field of journalism, and he has attracted attention with several predictions, contrary to other editors, which came true.

Another interesting incident connected with Mr. Williams was his call from death in an airplane crash in India last July. Mr. Mathews is a group of international-known newspaper writers had been to Indo-China upon the invitation of the Indonesian government. All of them were returning from the countries via India except Mr. Williams and a woman correspondent, who died on the return trip. The plane was flying in for a landing at New Delhi and suddenly exploded and everyone aboard was killed. Mr. Mathews was among the killed.

Mr. Williams has traveled widely and in his address Thursday he told of having been, at Bikini, Hiroshima and Nagasaki. He served as a commissioned officer in the marines during World War I, and is now in the chief of the U.S. service division.

Many of these facts were brought out by Colonel Harry M. Mathews, editor of The Daily Star. He explained that when a person comes of age he assumes responsibility, and this he applied to the situation of this country. “I am not one of those who thinks we will have war in the next 10 years. It is a strong and safe age,” he said.

VOLUME 13 NUMBER SEVEN

JACKSONVILLE, ALABAMA, WEDNESDAY MAY 3, 1950

The world needs selfishness—the type that causes one to want to improve himself through service to others—Dr. Cole

President Cole addressed the faculty and students on April 13 in the college auditorium on the subject of what he more or less experimentally called “Unselfish Selfishness.”

The Reverend Robert McNeill led the invocation. Mr. Mason directed the singing of a hymn.

Sara Herbin sang “Softly as the Morning Dews.” Frank Jones sang “I’m Falling in Love With You,” and for a duet the two sang “Ain’t Sweet Mystery of Life.”

President Cole began by observing that in his introduction he stressed the selfishness that had been wounded by a high school boy saying, “Who is that guy?” When told that the “man was president of the college, the boy insisted that he had never heard of him.

And Dr. Cole pointed out that Jack Kerby’s announcements had shown the trend of student thought. Margaret Chase Smith’s lecture was free; it would cost $3.50 to see “Amarillo,” starring Elvis Presley. And Dr. Cole said that Jack Kerby’s announcements had shown the trend of student thought. Night of January 16th: Staged Twice

What happened on the night of January 16 remains a mystery. It appears that there were two dramatic events that occurred simultaneously, which led to confusion among witnesses.

The first event is the trial of a juror in the case of Karen Andrus. It was a highly publicized trial, and the jurors were selected from a large pool of candidates.

The second event was a performance by the theater group "The Secret Society." They were rehearsing for a major production, but the performance was cancelled due to technical difficulties.

The exact relationship between the two events is unclear, but it seems that the jurors became aware of the performance and were caught up in the excitement.

Alcohol Workshop To Open June 7th

MEMORANDUM for students interested in graduation ceremony.

Lionel Vasse, French Consul at New Orleans, addressed a student assembly in the Lecoe Colle Auditorium on April 35, 30, on the topic of "The French Revolution." His lecture was illustrated with slides.

Vasse makes several observations about the French Revolution and its impact on the world. He emphasizes the importance of understanding the historical context of the revolution, and he encourages students to explore this subject further.

"It was an honor guest at an international reception on the evening of April 22," he said.

He spoke on "Mid-Century Revolution at an Athletic Club" at the YMCA.

Anthony Constans of Birmingham-Southern College and John Constans accompanied Mr. Vasse and guided the reception.

During the war Mr. Vasse led the French mission in Bogota. He later visited Mexico, Venezuela, Trinidad, and the U.S.

After the reception in Paris, Mr. Vasse was named French chargé d'affaires in Mexico.

In 1946 he was appointed head of one of the departments of the French Ministry for Foreign Affairs in Paris. In 1947 he became Chargé d'Affaires in Bogota.

Mr. Vasse also presented two books to Dr. Jones, with the hope that his gift book will be the beginning of the new French Library which he hopes the French government will support.

He said that he would recommend that the government of this country should support the French students in the United States.

"If we cultivate the best that is offered to us," he said, "we shall contribute to the well-being of the individual, but you will find the same kind of benefit to the nation as a whole."

The second issue of the Student will be published in August. The staff is working on this issue, and they hope to have it ready by the end of the month.

The "Alcohol Workshop" will take place on June 7th, and it will focus on the importance of responsible drinking.

The workshop will be led by Lionel Vasse, French Consul at New Orleans, and will include a lecture and a panel discussion.

¡Qué bonito! The event will be held in the Lecoe Colle Auditorium, and it is open to the public.

"It will be an excellent opportunity for students to learn about the history and culture of France," Mr. Vasse said. "I hope that everyone will come and take part in the discussion."
When we gave you the long and short of the current hair styles, we promised a survey on another question: "Do college girls prefer gentlemen?" The girls refused to talk, and we were afraid to ask them. We heard that some have brunette girlfriend girls. Our survey, therefore, is brief enough - French bathing suits.

Mattie Joy: They're good if you want to show off your figure. Good for a whirlwind.

Alice: I don't like them. I think they're disgusting unless you are especially built up. Benny Baker: They're all right. John Roy: Too much material in them.

Bobbi Dillion (Stoutest): O.K. everybody else gets a brand new bathing suit. I don't care for that kind so well.

Mr. Brittain: Highly in favor, Bobby Moore: Depends on who is wearing 'em.

Bill Johnson: They're all right. Jimmy: They have their good points.

Harry Fine: If the suit suits the wearer, it suits me.

Bill: More sun tan. Wally: This puts me against the wall. I'm afraid to say anything.

Charlie: I like those. I'm for 'em.

Burt: I like them. Nothing like 'em, either, except the men. I wish every girl had one.

Bob Palmer: I'd like 'em to become universal. Then the girls would get a better all-round tan.

Jeff Johnson: Just like any other bathing suit. You only get out of it what you put in.

Carl Ballard: Too conservative.

Mildred Wallert: They're always too small.

Raley: Depends on who's wearing them. Some people can see all. Some people can't see bathing suits period.

Donald: Those curves you mentioned are good from all angles.

Kent: I think they're nice for lying on the beach, but for swimming they're not practical.

Mary Joy: Is that what you call it?

Irby Carl; I like 'em.

Jack O'Leary has a hard time being modest in them.

Neal Booster: Cool. I think. The bathing suits, that is.

James Lee: Rather nice.

Ben Miller: I like any kind of bathing suit with a pretty girl in it.

Mary Noble: You mean those guys. I guess they're all right. What if you're the type to wear them?

Ray Gross: Oh, Oh, Oh. They're pretty. They look like they'd be more comfortable for the wearer.

Better suntan all over, you know. (He got excited that he lost his galalges.)

Ray Horn: I haven't been in any this year, but I'd like them. They should be worn all over the world - and then some.

Thomas Weems: Um! Don't ask me that. A little more, but that's what the boys like. I'm an admirer of the beautiful, but I think so much exposure is not beautiful.

Dr. Mowk: I don't think you should ask married men.

Mr. Reebuck: Is that the handkerchief tie around you? I am an admirer of the beautiful, but I think so much exposure is not beautiful.

Dr. Allison: I suggest you get a sample. I don't know anything about them.

Mr. Adams: I am not saying.

Dr. Cazier: Depends on who they are on. I wouldn't want to see one on myself or any other gay choice of some people. However, I would love to see in a French bathing suit.

Dr. Calvin: I have never seen one, but my intellectual curiosity makes me think I'd like it.

Well, the general opinion seems to be that any female who has no brothers, no husband, and no suitors, and who has no live that would wear a Bikini continuously.

SCABBARD & BLADE ELECT NEW OFFICERS

By Johnson

If you didn't know the meaning of the word Scabbard & Blade, you are in the minority. This club is not limited to Scabbard & Blade, but a few subjects. Last year, only one student completed training for Scabbard & Blade. This year, the number has increased to twelve.

The potential numbers are chosen from the student body, and the new officers are elected from the members of the third and fourth years.

The new officers are:

President: Joe Johnson

Vice-President: John Smith

Secretary: Mary Brown

Treasurer: John Doe

Is Democracy An Antidote To War?

William Mathews told a Jacksonville audience last week that we Americans "must come down to earth and realize that there are varying degrees of democracy, autocracy, militarism, and those which lie between."

"For us to insist on democracy as an antidote to war is to deny the records of history. We must cease thinking in terms of absolute black and white," Mr. Mathews pointed out that Americans must realize that it is not our duty to reform the world, to force our ideals on other people.

The role of the do-gooder, especially on an international scale, is an unpopular one. Perhaps the world is not breathing leisurely awaiting spiritual emancipation from the United States. Perhaps other peoples prefer their shibboleths, their prejudices, and their governments to ours.

"Maybe the United States has more money, but that doesn't give you any right to try to uplift," an exchange student said. "We're as good as you are, even if you have more money. You handle your business and leave our kind of living alone."

The American attitude sometimes smacks of that of the hero of an Abe Lincoln story who was going to have domestic opportunities in most states but not in the northern states, and that there was an absence of democratic opportunities in the southern states.

Dear Editor:

In the military world there is a phrase, "spirit de corps," which means the same thing as "school spirit" in college, which we have completely forgotten at S. C. It seems that the only time we have any semblance of a spirit of enthusiasm is during the football season. Student government elections come up with an air of routine procedure and cause almost no commotion.

Last year at this time we were treated to dances, speeches, parades and other phenomena of college life. This year there was very little of these things and a limited number ran. Why?

We are becoming too much of a "local" college with everyone heading home at the end of the week.

For three years I have hoped to see more week-end social life and less five-night-in-the-week round the clock.

The desire to see our student publications become a part of the ideas of the students and lose its publicity means directed towards potential students is universal.

The students are the only ones who can change this situation.

Why not become an integral part of 1, 2, 3, etc., students?

Johnson

Dear Editor:

I'd like to put in my two cents worth. The iron is still hot about the lack of interest in participating in elections, not only for student government positions but for class officers.

As the SGA elections have just been completed, I'd use those for my explanation. Only two people competed for the presidency, which is neither top-ranking position, but a chance to administer campus affairs for the benefit of students.

Two people were candidates for vice-president. One person ran for treasurer; one ran for secretary. And editorship of the Tassie and the Mimosa went begging. Even more depressing was the lack of student participation at the polls. Only 550 voted from a student body of 1,500.

Gamecocks' Schedule To Be Strenuous One This Year

By Finis Gaston

Coach G. A. Greenfield has come up with a real schedule for next fall.

The Gamecocks, two-times Paper Bowl champs and one of the nation's top teams, have added the University of Tampa, Fla., High Point College, South Carolina College and South Georgia College to the football schedule.

The three new opponents bring the number of games to eight, including four home games.

Livingston and Southwestern Louisiana College will be missing from the new schedule, according to Coach Salls.

Athens has discontinued football, and the two-year contract with Southeastern has expired.

Livingston and the Paper Bowl opponent last December, won't be on the list because of conflicting dates.

However, Jazz officials have indicated that the two State powers probably will meet again in 1951.

Gamecocks lost a 14-7 decision to the Dawgs in 1950.

"COLLEGE TEACHERS TALK TOO MUCH" SAYS PROFESSOR

Troy, N. Y.—College teachers talk too much, according to Professor Neil F. Bailey, head of the Department of Mechanical Engineering at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. In a memorandum on "Teaching Pitfalls," which he prepared for the use of members of his department, he stated, "The worst temptation in teaching is excessive talking by the instructor. The college teacher in the process of imparting facts, demonstrating solutions, and analyzing new situations usually develops a monologue that almost invariably turns the class into an indifferent audience; whereas the teacher's real job is to cause the students themselves to do these things."

Professor Bailey declared that the greatest asset of any teacher-interviewer or administrator is the ability to ask wise and penetrating questions and then have the patience to await the formulation of answers. One nicely sharpened and carefully aimed question will often bring to the head of a student thinking about a subject.

Pointing out that too many questions asked in class are either superfluous, out-of-focus, or too
