A STUDENT PUBLICATION, JACKSONVILLE STATE TEACHERS COLLEGE

VOLUME TWENTY-ONE

JACKSONVILLE, ALABAMA, WEDNESDAY, FEB. 20, 1952

NUMBER TWO

By Betty Vickery

It took a world shaking event to do it, but the school was at last privileged to see a flag on our flag pole. A student commented, "seems funny how they have to put it up so they can lower it." It was interesting to note the school's reaction to the statement "The King is Dead". In the first place nobody said "what king?" They all knew. The general reaction was a feeling of personal loss. We're Americans — staunch, anti-monarchists and we're grieving at the death of a king. Is it perhaps the man over and above the thing he symbolized?

Few people know it, but the recently presented "Sidewalk Cafe" came very close, in the last week or so of production, to being re-named. It all centered around a tree — an ordinary cardboard, wood and paint stage tree. This had to look like a spring tree — an early spring tree. The only trouble was that five different people had five different ideas concerning what a spring tree should look like on the stage. The tree, poor thing, got repainted six times. Somewhere between the fourth and fifth painting and the 995th and 996th argument concerning it someone suggested that the production be renamed the "Spring Tree." At the moment it seemed quite appropriate.

A frantic sophomore, struggling with majors, minors, conflicts and quality points stated, "There are three things that I need right now, and one of them isn't Jacksonville."

"My candle burns at both ends, It can not last the night; But a'n my fees, and oh, my friends, It gives a lovely light!"

GAMECOCKS PLAYED LAST GAME FRIDAY NIGHT

Gamecocks End Season In Blaze Of Glory Friday Night

The Jacksonville State College Gamecocks won their eighth game in a row Friday night, and in winning it they did something they haven't done in a long time—beat Howard College.

The Jaxmen came from six points behind at the end of the first quarter to wallop the Bulldogs 72-53.

Howard looked good only in the first quarter. They scored six points before Jacksonville broke the ice, and at the end of the quarter it was 20-14 favoring the Bulldogs.

But Cohen, Richey and Company began hitting the second quarter, scoring 26 points that frame to only 14 for Howard to take a halftime lead.

Milford Cohen was high for the winners with 21 points, with Shag Richey getting 18.

JSC Rips Livingston 78-64

Jacksonville State Teachers College defeated Livingston's Teachers, 78-64, here. It was the hosts' second victory over Livingston this season.

Jacksonville led most of the way but only by a slim margin. The Gamecocks were leading, 19-5, at the end of the first 10-minute period but stretched their lead to 40-13 at the halftime break.

Livingston closed in a little in the third period, outscoring the Jacksonville crew 22 points to 17. The Gamecocks then pulled away with a final margin of 14 points.

Shag Richey and Lloyd Rains both hit in the 20's to lead the Jacksonville quintet's scoring. Richey collected 24 points on eight field goals and eight free throws. Rains got 21 on eight two-pointers and five free throws.

Sara Mitchell was the night's high scorer with 32 points. He accounted for 14 field goals and four free throws. No other Livingston player had more than six points.

Valentine Motif Is Featured In "Frolic"

Hearts danced on the walls and swayed in mid-air at the annual Freshman Frolic on Feb. 12 at Jacksonville State College. The college gym was transformed into a Valentine array by the Freshmen. Huge, glittering hearts were suspended from the rafters and miniature hearts labeled with each couple's names formed clever patterns on the walls.

The Freshman Class officers and class favorites performed the leadout with Charles Hackney, class president, and his date, Mary Gillam, climaxing the leadout by breakout by breaking through a large cellophane heart. The class officers and favorites participating in the leadout were: Jo Ann Porter, vice president, escorted by Tommy Phillips; Elaine McGraw, secretary, escorted by Ray Campbell; Jack Young, treasurer, and his date, Roberta Wright; Nancy Hod, social chairman, escorted by Pete Avant; Jesse Gilchrist, freshman class favorite, escorted by Charles Bounds, and Benjamin Nodal, class favorite escorting Bernice Ginn.

Jo Ann Porter presented to Mary Gillam a bouquet of red roses on behalf of the freshman class.

The delightful music of Jimmy Simpson and his orchestra created a beautiful dancing atmosphere at the Freshman Frolic.

quantity points stated, "There are three things that I need right now, and one of them isn't Jacksonville."

"My candle burns at both ends, It can not last the night; But ah, my foes, and oh, my friends,

It gives a lovely light!"

Do you suppose that Edna St. Vincent Millay was speaking of Jacksonville students when she wrote that? She once wrote another little tid bit, which, though not the most profound philosophical advice, is worth consideration:

"Safe upon the solid rock the ugly houses stand,

Come and see my shining palace built upon the sand."

There was once a great teacher (was it Socrates?) who instructed his students and answered questions by asking questions himself. Either Dr. Montgomery has studied upon this ancient Greek, or it's a case of great minds running in the same channels. Is there anyone in the house who has asked Dr. Montgomery a question and got anything but a question in return?

Square Dance Institute A Success

...ing at the recent Square Dance Institute held by the Physical Education Department. John L. Moore, (at microphone) director of recreation for the Bemiston Mills, directed the course. Forming a "set" are Lula Ann Johnson, Ben Nodal, Peggy Davis and Billy Joe Barnard. Looking on are Aleene Scogin, Harris Love, Raymond Boozer and Gail Mountain.

"Do Si Di and don't forget your double elbow". Yes, that's what you heard last week if you were present for the three big nights of the Square Dance Institute. A big time was had by all when the Women's Athletic Association sponsored a square dance in the gym. The instructions and calls were given by Mr. John Moore, director of recreation, Bemiston

Mills, Talladega, Ala. The sounds of ole mountani music and shuffling feet filled the gym as all the gents swung their partners to and fro. Square dancing seems to have taken lead in dances not only here in the college, but also at various recreational centers in this district. Some of the helpers with the Square Dance Institute have been called on to help at these centers. Numerous inquiries have been made by various students as to when another square dance would be given. Because of the popular demand, the WAA will sponsor a bigger and better square dance on Thursday night, Feb. 21. Everyone is invited. Grab your partner and come on down. —Ginny Ibric

Jacksonville quintet's lead the Richey collected 24 points on eight field goals and eight free throws. Raines got 21 on eight two-pointers and five free throws.

Sam Mitchell was the night's high scorer with 32 points. He accounted for 14 field goals and four free throws. No other Livingston player had more than six points.

The play of the game came in the last second of the third quarter. When Livingston's Jerry Falls saw the clock about to run out, he drew back and pitched in a long heave standing a good 15 feet into the back court.

JSC Nips 'Nooga Quint 59-55
Jacksonville State Teachers College eased home with a close 59-55 victory over the University of Chattanooga Moccasins.

It was the Gamcocks' 18th victory of the season against six defeats. They had two more games scheduled, meeting Birmingham-Southern Thursday and Howard Friday. Both game will be held in Birmingham. Even though the visitors didn't get back in the lead after the halftime recess, the game was close all the way. The first half saw the lead exchange hands several times with the first portion of the contest ending in a 26-26 deadlock. Chattanooga had a 14-12 edge at the end of the first quarter.

The Juniors are making plans to sponsor a talent show to be held Wednesday, February 27, at 7 o'clock in the Leone Cole Auditorium. Acts will be comprised of students from the college and outside talent. Prizes will be awarded the best talent.

During the show the winner of the "Most Eligible Bachelor" contest will be crowned. He will be elected the preceding Monday at a free dance in the gym sponsored by the Junior Class. This dance will follow the Winter Carnival which the Senior Class is sponsoring. This is the first show of its kind to be presented on the campus. Everyone will want to see it.

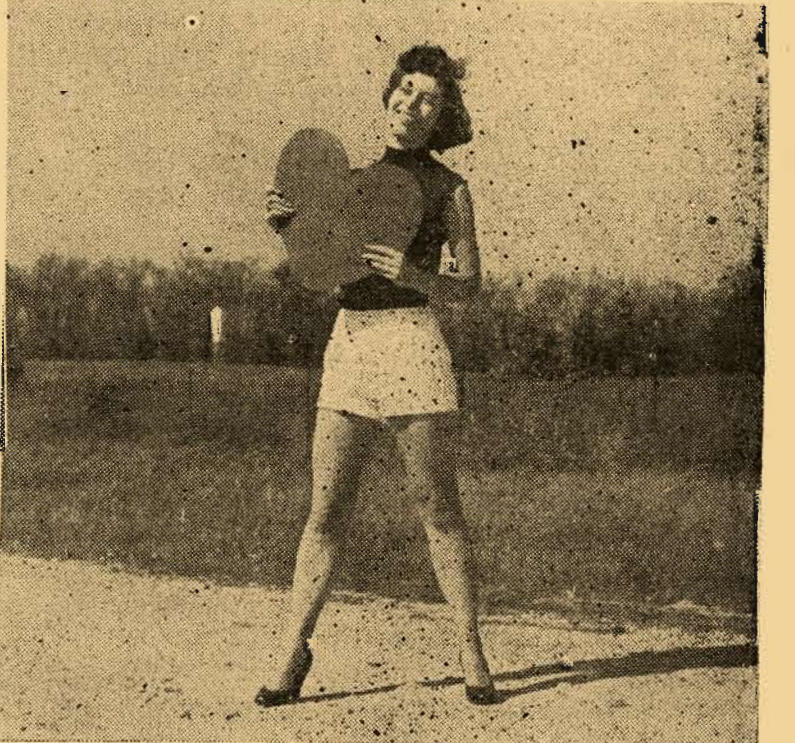

General admission for the show will be 50c and student admission 35c.

GEM OF THE HILLS

ANNE MOORE, our "Gem of the Hills" for this month has been around this campus for several years now, so many that she is now a senior. She is from Leeds, Alabama, which she refers to as "that last chance place." Anne likes melancholy love songs, sexy novels, and black pepper in her sweet milk. Her pet hates are friends who let her sleep through midnight dorm parties, having to get up for breakfast, and the color of her hair. This month's Gem is 5' 3", 115 pounds and has a pair of the most interesting eyes on the campus. As far as anyone knows, her affections are, as of the moment, untaken. Alpha Mu Gamma selected her and proved that they have good taste.

Featured In Ballet

KATHERINE COOPER, attractive daughter of Col. and Mrs. John O. Cooper, was featured in a ballet dance in "Sidewalk Cafe" on Monday and Tuesday night, and assisted with the dances presented in the play.

He has a large library devoted to this subject; a collection of interesting photographs; and a letter from every member of the Royal Family except Princess Margaret. THE KING IS DEAD! LONG LIVE THE QUEEN!

The king is dead!

George VI was not born for greatness, but he achieved greatness in his own self-effacing way.

The whole world was saddened to hear of his death. He died at a time when the world so desperately needs her leaders, and at a time when England must have a steady hand at the helm of government.

His courage, character and unbending devotion to duty were an inspiration not only to his own people, but all the world.

He was never in good health, but he carried on in the best tradition. As a king and as a man, George VI measured up.

Now for the first time since the death of Her Majesty, Queen Victoria, England has a queen, and I am certain that

The Spotlight

By Jean Kennedy

Our subject for the spotlight this time is none other than Jack H.

Tucker, who comes to us here at Jacksonville from Pell City, Alabama. He graduated from there in 1943 and his main interest at that time was basketball. After graduation, Jack went into the Navy and remained there until 1946. His next three years were spent while working as a salesman in Birmingham. Then Jack came to Jacksonville in 1949.

In deciding what course to main, Jack chose business administration and is working for a B. S. degree in that field. He is also a cadet major in capacity of executive officer in R. O. T. C., a member of the Scabbard and Blade, a first lieutenant, and operations officer in the Civil Air Patrol.

After attending his various classes every day, Jack goes to work at Bynum at 2:30 p. m. and works until 12:00. His job there is supervisor of the traffic branch of transportation.

When asked what the most important thing that has happened to him here at J. S. T. C., Jack immediately replied, "Getting married last summer!" He is married, as we all know, to Carolyn Summerlin. Jack did say, however, that he has enjoyed the friendliness of the student body here.

In his spare time (?), Jack likes to eat the delicious rice puddings which Carolyn makes and he also enjoys reading "Life" magazine (lots of pictures, he said). His favorite color is red—the color of his wife's hair!

As to exactly when he graduates, Jack isn't sure, but until then, he and Carolyn are living in the Veterans' apartments here in Jacksonville.

Fads 'N' Fashions

By Harriet Hackworth

It is the year 2010. I turn through the moulded pages of an old scrapbook . . . a paper heart, a rose, a bid . . . Freshman Frolic, 1952 . . .

Ah, what a life was mine then. Instead of the dull gray and black that I am now surrounded by in this old maids' home, there were whirling skirts, sparkling, dangling earrings, golden slippers, and swanky tuxedos. I remember how Marlene Cofield carried out the Valentine spirit in her red taffeta top and full white skirt . . . Helen Thompson looked like a dainty China doll in her lemon-colored ballerina length dress. Layer after layer of ruffles with a satin ribbon overlapping each. Her satin, lemon-colored shoes were a perfect match . . . Blue rosebuds embedded in a blue skirt of net gave the effect that Peggy Thornton was floating on a baby blue cloud. (And we don't doubt that she was.)

Ruth Simmons, in a white satin bodice with sequins lining the top of the full net skirt, did a good job as usual in the "Dago Stomp," "Shag," and "Savoy," which were popular steps back in the good old days.

Betty Vickery carried out the shades that were such a rage back in '52. Purple and lavender. A velvet top of purple and a ballerina skirt of lavender.

Of course, red was in the majority and the dresses that topped the list were those of Nancy Brown and Doris Lee Prather.

To go from the dainty to the masculine, we could take a look at the stag line and find a group of fashionable gents sporting tuxedos. Included in these were Charlie Hughley, Charlie McKinney, Joe Bailey, and Hoyt Butler.

And do you know, I think I shall never forget those poor unfortunate J-Club Initiates who were forced to come to such an exclusive gathering with SHAVEN HEADS! But back in those days they were known as the "Coolest cats on the campus."

Doing business without advertising is like winking at a girl in the dark. You know what you're doing, but no one else does.

were an inspiration not only to his own people, but all the world.

He was never in good health, but he carried on in the best tradition. As a king and as a man, George VI measured up.

Now for the first time since the death of Her Majesty, Queen Victoria, England has a queen, and I am certain that Elizabeth will, as her father did, measure up.

While my own personal association with Her Majesty has been very slight and on a most formal basis, I was impressed by her poise, dignity and her conscientiousness in the performance of her public duties. The noble ideas she has put forward in her speeches and broadcasts, have won her world-wide respect and admiration. In the British Commonwealth she is loved not only for the high qualities which so well became her as Heiress Presumptive, but for herself, in her own person, with an affection that transcends all party and political differences.

Her love-match and happy marriage sent a gleam of happiness across a sad and disillusioned world. Men and women of many creeds and in many lands rejoice that the destiny of the British Crown should be in the hands of one who has so clearly shown herself worthy in every way of the high standards and selfless traditions that adorn the Throne.

When, on her twenty-first birthday she made a dedication of her life to the service of her people, she called on them to join her in her resolution, and her clear young voice, heard in all the capitals of the Empire as she spoke from Cape Town, tied another of those tenuous, steel-strong, impalpable bonds which hold Britian and her sister nations so closely together.

Yesterday, the Empire centered around the person of His Majesty, the King. Today, Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II has taken his place, and her whole life forms an omen of good for the Empire's tomorrow.

America, with its close ties with Britian, wishes her well in the trying years ahead, and we join the anthem in saying prayerfully, hopefully.

God Save The Queen!

POLITICAL TID-BITS

The presidential situation seems to be brewing better than ever. The Republicans have two leading candidates for the Republican nomination in Sen. Taft and General Eisenhower. Senator Taft appears to be ahead in the running with the General a close second. Sen. Aiken (Republican, Vermont) said the General was a dead duck if he didn't start fighting. The senator stressed that "Ike" must come home and start the campaign if he didn't want his promoters left out on a limb.

The Democrats are still short of a sure-fire nomination. The list of hopefuls still includes Truman, Vinson, and Ke-fauver. President Truman has stated that he would run if it would speed the peace. Vinson is expected to remain with the Supreme Court unless the president can locate a better job for him. The only one left is the president's office.

The Midwestern Democrats want another Truman-Barkley ticket. Truman to get up before breakfast to run the country, Barkley to get up after dinner to make excuses.

Lloyd Mims — It would be a wonderful change.

Jack Bailey — If they can't get anybody else, my band will do the job.

Wilbur Shaw—I think it's a very good idea — it'll bring out the school spirit.

Max— Think somebody ought to have one — it has been so long since they have.

Vivian Ward — I think they ought not to have dances cause it keeps me awake till after midnight.

Dot Davis — If it doesn't cost too much money, o. k.

Rayford Boozer — If they play fast jazz music, I want it.

Interior Decorating At Daugette Hall

By Martha Leatherwood

As Daugette is one of the more fashionable residences on the campus (what other can boast a pink piano?), I would like to describe, in the interest of art, some of the more attractive boudoirs.

Among the more formal rooms is 216. The theme of this room is Mid-Victorian, with a dash of modern ingenuity. The chandelier is a converted circular Coca-Cola advertisement which hangs at an attractive length from the ceiling. Indirect lighting is used extensively in this charming room.

All residents at Daugette have not taken such pains with their surroundings, however. To go from the sublime to the ridiculous, let me describe 211. This room began with the decor of Chinese modern, but it has degenerated into something resembling Siamese provincial. To make the whole effect more incongruous, one of the inhabitants has sketched a more or less artistic door on the wall labeled "Secret Passage to Forney Hall." The crowning touch is (you may not be willing to accept this, but I assure you it is true) that, with their cunning, primitive minds, they have glued eyes, variegated and glaring, looking down from the ceiling. Imagine the sensation one feels at entering a room and having eyes of blue, brown, and bloodshot peering down at one curiously. Uncomfortable, to say the least.

Many of the girls enjoy the quaint, Bohemian atmosphere of room 230. This is one of the most informal rooms in the dormitory. In fact, it has not been graded above a D in the last two quarters.

One memorable room recently was enlivened by sets of big, black, bare footprints walking up the wall, across the ceiling, and out the window. As these footprints were

R. O. T. C. SPONSORS SECOND DANCE

By Austin Gay

The R. O. T. C. department sponsored its second dance of the current school year on Jan. 31. Preceding the dance, a banquet was given in the dining room of the armory building. About seventy-five couples enjoyed dancing to the music of the R. O. T. C. band.

With two successful dances behind them the Military Department will sponsor the Annual Military Ball during the Spring Quarter. In the past this dance has been one of the better dances given at this institution, and we feel that this year will be no exception.

THE IDEAL GIRL

By Sandy Sutherland

Dear Reader:

The young ladies of Daugette Hall have selected the best features and characteristics of the men on the campus and put them together to form the ideal man. We have taken a poll of a cross section of the male students on the campus to find the ideal woman, and here she is: entirely too large to be supposed of feminine origin, the suggestive things were removed.

We will take the hair of Nancy Blackburn, eyes of Betty Cole, complexion of Fredda Fallman, lips of Rolanda Goetz, smile of Nancy Blackburn, figure of Sara Lou Miller, clothes of Rhetta Russell, personality of Ruth Simmons, dancing ability of Shirley Childress, and present to you our opinion of Jacksonville's Ideal Woman.

Room 231, the orchid room, is famous for its horticultural displays. The most recent remodeling is found in the room with the red-striped walls.

And so it goes, as Daugette becomes increasingly more modern and attractive, leading the way in campus tastes and fashions.

THE LARGEMOUTH BASS

Always a sucker for attractive bait, our aquatic brother went off the deep end and got caught on the quick-trick cigarette hook! But he wormed his way out when he suddenly realized that cigarette mildness can't be tossed off reel lightly. Millions of smokers have found, too, there's only one true test of cigarette mildness.

It's the sensible test—the 30-Day Camel Mildness Test, which simply asks you to try Camels as your steady smoke on a day-after-day, pack-after-pack basis. No snap judgments! Once you've tried Camels for 30 days in your "T-Zone" (T for Throat, T for Taste), you'll see why...

Mrs. E. Warburton, Of London, England Speaks At J. S. C.

Mrs. Eliot Warburton of London, England, who is visiting relatives in Anniston, spoke to the English and history classes at Jacksonville State College Monday morning in the Graves Hall chapel. She was introduced by Miss Maude Luttrell, a member of the English faculty. Seated on the platform were Dr. W. J. Calvert, head of the English department, Dr. R. P. Felgar, head of the history department, and Mrs. Robert Bowie, Mrs. Warburton's sister.

Mrs. Warburton, the former Mary Louise Thompson, went to The Hague a week after the Armistice was signed in 1918 to work with the U. S. Intelligence Service. There she met Mr. Warburton, a native Briton, whom she married. Since that time she has lived in England, but has made frequent trips to the United States. Her two daughters have received a part of their education in this country.

Since she represented both the pro-British and the pro-American point of view, Mrs. Warburton's remarks were especially interesting and well-balanced. She asked for friendliness and understanding for the British, whose actions are often questioned by the people of this country.

Mrs. Warburton pointed out that many people do not understand that Great Britain must consider the over-all picture in determining her foreign policy. She must think of how her politics will affect the countries of the Commonwealth. For instance, she said that the British do not condone the actions of the Chinese Communists, but they have a sympathy and understanding for the Chinese people, and they are trying to work out with them in the best manner possible, the problems which they face.

She also emphasized that while Great Britain has been accused of exploitation in the countries into which she has extended her former empire, she has been more of a blessing than many have realized, and that these countries have enjoyed many advantages which would not have otherwise been possible.

The chapel was filled to capacity with faculty and students who listened intently to Mrs. Warburton's talk, and many asked questions when she had concluded.

Mrs. Warburton and Mrs. Bowie were guests of the college at luncheon in the faculty dining room of Hammond Hall.

Thoughts After Midnight

Ernst Schwarz

Men are bizarre, I think. Whenever I go back to the dormitory, they are always talking about money—and then they spend it in a way that has absolutely no relationship with the purpose they had in mind when they made it. Men, I say, and I mean by this primarily the masculine sex—that does not exclude the fact, however, that women are "businessmen" to and sometimes very much so, depending upon what age they happen to be.

Men are bizarre, but especially men in love. One might ask if they are really men, or simply kids with a premature change of voice. They have a considerably exaggerated imagination and it gets more and more exaggerated—toward all girls in general—usually girls who are not lucky enough to be beauty queens. The slightest look from any girl is a pretext for him to say, All girls are crazy about me. As far as the girl I love is concerned, she knows me and thus makes fun of me. The lover mistrusts anybody except the girl he loves. Yes, love is a crazy thing.

Man always wants to conquer something because he is a warrior by nature. He wants to conquer the heart of the girl he loves, so he goes into military training and eventually into actual warfare—or else he goes away to conquer money. He becomes a conqueror because he is in love, and when laurels are tossed at his feet, he takes them and brings them to the girl he loves—"Helen, thy beauty is to me like . . ." but girls do not care for laurels when it is a question of marriage; they must be assured of something more when they are conquered.

And then there are those who are never in love, those who think that marriage is an old-fashioned thing. They make fun of it, both partners. He says that women think only of dresses that they expect to have. She says that men want only adventure, that they think only of beautiful legs.

And what about those who neither think of marriage or make fun of it? Well, they are rather pitiful, like passengers on a night train with an unknown destiny. Women are the conductors. What difference does it make? The men are traveling without purpose, the women by profession. The men continue the ride because it is too dangerous to get off while the train is in motion. And the poor women live as usual—as if it were for the twentieth time. It's a terrible thing when women seem to be incapable of astonishment. One would say that they do everything by profession.

Life would be simple, if . . . but no, that would not be worth living. However, everywhere I look, I can see only conquerors, lovers, and from time to time a lone passenger absorbed by thoughts of his arrival. On the other hand there are women who long for laurels, who scorn love or live by profession. From time to time I can see on this night a man with a surreptitious look of fear or a married woman with eyes like a horse, and between them a great space filled with a surfeit of boogie-woogie or slow waltzes that sicken me. Goodnight.

Highlights of Pannell

By Troy L. Morrison

The inmates of Pannell Hall have been very busy lately. We barbarians, as we have been publicly called, are planning to place in the lounge of Pannell a large portrait in memory of the late Pauline "Mom" Gerstlauer. Working on the Memorial Fund Committees are: planning committee, Gerald Cooper, chairman; Tommy Watson, Sandy Sutherland, Vito Mariscano, Publicity Committee, Vito Mariscano, chairman; Melbourne Croft, Jimmie Roberts, E. R. Maddox and Rowe Hudson. Ticket Committee, Sandy Sutherland, chairman; Jack Pikul and Tommy Watson.

There will be a "food sale" in the City Hall at Jacksonville the first Saturday in March to raise money for the portrait. We urge everyone to attend and help in this honorable cause.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown will begin work soon on the redecoration of the Pannell lounge. Any help by anyone would be greatly appreciated.

We welcome all the new boys who have recently joined our ranks. Those leaving us after this quarter because of graduation are: Floyd Maples and Keith Bright. Good luck, boys!

We hear a lot of ROTC lately. Those 302 students are really working in their military studies.

What is this we hear about Dr. Gary being seen outside Daugette at midnight with some lady. They lock the doors at eleven, Doc. -vqgwork-RHether SHR SH S SH

Abercrombie News

By Harold Cochran

Abercrombie has lost several boys since the last census was taken, but has gained in population by admitting Curtis Lee, Wendell Powers, and Vernon Allen from Forney. We are delighted to have you, fellows, and we hope

All occupants of Abercrombie are urged to stand by for room inspection each Thursday afternoon hereafter. It seems that Miss Branscomb has begun to enforce the dormitory rules more rigidly, as she gave each person a copy of the rules at our last house meeting. Speaking of house meetings, you boys who haven't been attending have missed several opportunities to have a voice in our legislation. The last time we met the rule was passed that all pool playing cease between the hours of 11:00 and 7:0 a. m. on week nights and between 12:00 P.M. and 7: A. M. on weekends. There were also several other rules passed concerning the conduct of the boys while playing pool. We don't have a first class pool table, but the boys from Forney are welcome to play as long as they are co-operative and abide by the rules.

We have noticed that Billy Peace and Dana Herbst have some competition in piano playing since Vernon Allen has moved in.

John Hyde seems to be well satisfied since he has his old roommate, Curtis Lee, back. Some of the boys find it difficult to find Hyde's room to get their dry cleaning since he has moved bus

CHRISTIAN PHILOSOPHY IN TEACHER EDUCATION

By Elbert Walden

During the recent past we have had the good fortune to have heard two great speakers in the persons of Dr. Crane and Dr. Milikan. Coupled with their truly great philosophies and the influence of certain teachers in this institution, I offer the following, which, in my thinking, should be carefully considered by both men and women entering the field of teacher education.

Any method of teacher education is incomplete if it fails to give the teacher a Christian Philosophy.

A preoccupation with material prosperity, an absorption in the mechanical side of education and an over-eagerness to turn out trained teachers have caused teachers colleges to neglect the essential purposes of teacher education. The result in such cases has been inefficient teachers, for figs do not grow on thistles; nor do good teachers come from schools with a materialistic educational program.

Since education consists of essentially in preparing man or woman for what he or she must be and for what he or she must do, in order to attain the sublime end for which he or she is created, it is clear that there can be no true education which is not wholly directed to man's last end, so there can be no ideally perfect education which is not Christian education.

Christian teacher education prepares the student for the achievement of excellence in education. It aims at helping the student to develop the best that is in him or her so that he or she will more completely fulfill his or her purpose as a teacher.

Education is the leading of human souls to what is best, and making what is best out of them; and these two objects are always attainable together and by the same means—the training which makes them happiest in themselves also makes them most serviceable to others.

So, in light of what has been said here, the next time you hear, "What can I do to help straighten out the predicament this old world is in", just reply, "Until the end comes, let us strive to live the prayer we often lift skyward":

Our Father, who are in heaven, hallowed be Thy name. Thy kingdom come, Thy will be done on earth, as it is in heaven. Let us each strive to establish that kingdom here on earth as we so devoutly promise, and then, and only then, will we have a true Christian Philosophy.

UNIVERSAL DAY OF PRAYER FOR STUDENTS

A Day of Prayer for Students the whole world over will be observed at the First Presbyterian Church on Sunday, March 2, at the 11 o'clock service, the Rev. Robert McNeill has announced.

This service has been prepared by the World Student Christian Federation and will be conducted by students of local fellowships. A section will be reserved for college students, Mr. McNeill stated; student choir, and officers of student groups will preside. An excerpt from the service, Act of Intercession, reads as follows:

Let us pray for the students of the whole world.

For those who are persecuted for their faith.

For those who live in constant fear.

For those who are suffering hardship in consequence of war and the effects of war.

For those who are ill.

For those who are hungry and cold.

For those who are in despair at the collapse of false hopes.

According to the policy statement, all students who receive their commissions in the spring of 1952 will be called into active service during the period June-Sep-

Jodie Connell New Gamecock Captain

By Bob Ingram
(The Gdsden Times)

Jodie Connell, a young man who doesn't know what the word "quit" means, is the new football captain of the Jacksonville State College Gamecocks.

He was elected to that position by a near-unanimous vote at the football banquet recently.

For Jodie and a lot of his friends, this honor must have come as a satisfying one.

From as far back as he can remember, Jodie has had a hard time convincing people that he could play football.

When he went out for the team at Gadsden High the coaches gave him a uniform. But they did it because they felt sorry for him, not because they thought he would ever play football.

But Jodie didn't feel sorry for himself. He was determined to stick, and stick he did. He not only made the team, he was a first string guard for three years.

When he finished high school he decided he wanted to play college football.

Despite his brilliant high school record, there still remained some doubters. They all agreed that would not have otherwise been possible.

The chapel was filled to capacity with faculty and students who listened intently to Mrs. Warburton's talk, and many asked questions when she had concluded.

Mrs. Warburton and Mrs. Bowie were guests of the college at luncheon in the faculty dining room of Hammond Hall.

Forney Hall News

By James Dotson

When Weatherly was closed at the end of the summer quarter, the boys of Forney did not object even though it meant the removal of the ping-pong tables. They knew this step was necessary and were content with playing ping-pong and pool occasionally at the new campus. This form of recreation has helped many a Forney boy pass a dull week-end.

Last weekend as I entered Pannell basement with a small group, intent on playing a few games, the first thing that I noticed was about a dozen brand - new signs warning boys from other dormitories that they weren't wanted. This didn't make any difference to us, however, since we had all completed our required science courses, but some students are actually afraid to enter the basement of Pannell or Abererombie. Those fun-loving boys had to stay at home and entertain themselves in various ways such as playing blackjack, getting drunk, rolling trash cans down the stairs, or throwing fire crackers eventually into actual warfare— or else he goes away to conquer money. He becomes a conqueror because he is in love, and when laurels are tossed at his feet, he takes them and brings them to the girl he loves—"Helen, thy beauty is to me like . . ." but girls do not care for laurels when it is a question of marriage; they must be assured of something more permanent. That "something" is usually money. Consequently, the conqueror bows to the wishes of the one he loves and changes the laurels into money. That's what they call flexible love. If he is a bit handsome; if he has a Cadillac even a Chrysler '51, everything is O. K. As I was saying, man is a conqueror, and when he has conquered a wife, there remains the conquest of money or the conquest of laurels—or the conquest of money to buy the laurels. Fortunately for married women, they are rarely inept at spending what their husbands conquer.

They are strange, those who are in love and those who remain conquerors when the war is over. But the women who marry conquerors are not so dumb—they know what they are doing, those women who marry an inexhaustible conqueror, those who change dresses five times a day—even through the house father's transom.

We demand equality! We have no means of recreation. The boys from the new campus come to Forney and drink our Home Brew (capitalized out of reverence), and we aren't allowed the privilege of using their recreation facilities. I repeat, "We demand equality!"

STUDY TO BE DOCTORS—Billy and Betty Towns, twin son and daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Towns on Oneonta, are freshmen here, in their first step toward being doctors of medicine. Their father, who is county health officer in Blount County, graduated here before going to medical school, and they are following in his footsteps.

to time I can see on this night a man with a surreptitious look of fear or a married woman with eyes like a horse, and between them a great space filled with a surfeit of boogie-woogie or slow waltzes that sicken me. Goodnight.

R. O. T. C. ANNOUNCES OFFICERS DIRECTIVE

The Department of the Army recently announced its policy in regard to ordering ROTC students who are commissioned in the army reserve into active service, according to Major Blodgett, professor of military science at JSTC.

For those who are hungry and cold.

For those who are in despair at the collapse of false hopes.

According to the policy statement, all students who receive their commissions in the spring of 1952 will be called into active service during the period June-September.

Veterans who had less than two years of active service between Dec. 7, 1942, and Sept. 2, 1945, will also be called immediately upon receipt of their commissions, but men who were on active duty more than two years during that period will not be called under the present policy. However, these men may volunteer for recall to active service.

Students who complete their advanced ROTC courses before they meet academic requirements for their first degree may request to have their calls to duty postponed until they either receive their first degree or withdraw from the college, whichever is sooner.

The Department of the Army intends to give the officers an opportunity to select the month between June and September when they will enter active service. These preference will be honored, provided that one third of the officers in each branch are on duty by the end of July, two thirds by the end of August, and the entire group by the end of September.

In so far as practicable, all newly-commissioned officers will be ordered immediately to the appropriate branch service school for a three-month course.

But Jodie didn't feel sorry for himself. He was determined to stick, and stick he did. He not only made the team, he was a first string guard for three years.

When he finished high school he decided he wanted to play college football.

Despite his brilliant high school record, there still remained some doubters. They all agreed that Jodie had been a sensation in high school—but college football was something else.

Jodie went to Jacksonville, and there he impressed Head Coach Don Salls to the extent that he was a starting offensive guard as a freshman on the powerful Gamecock squad. He has been a starter ever since.

It was when Jodie was still just a little boy that all his trouble began. He and a gang of his buddies were playing in a swing one afternoon. When it came his turn to swing, like any real boy, Jodie decided to swing higher than any of the others.

It was then that disaster struck. Jodie fell heavily from the swing, landing on his left arm. It was badly crushed.

Doctors worked frantically but were unable to save his arm. They amputated it just below the elbow.

Jodie hasn't let the loss of an arm bother him in the least. He has lived a happy, normal life, although he has made life miserable for some of his opponents on the gridiron.

One final word of advice to the future opponents of the Gamecocks: Don't feel sorry for their one-armed captain—you may end up feeling sorry for yourself.

"Music hath power to soothe the savage beast." Or so somebody said. But I'll bet whoever said it has never been rudely awakened in the wee hours of the morning by the doleful voice of some lost soul telling the world his one and only has left him, or by the off-key plunking of a ukelele by some individual who thinks he is another Arthur Godfrey. Or to put it prosaically, "He who thinks music hath charm has never tried to sleep in Daugette Hall." Come to think of it, maybe it is just this situation which makes us the beasts we are at 7 o'clock in the morning.

Time after time I have overheard boys asking why girls act like they do. Well, boys, after thinking this over, I figured maybe it was the way they felt toward you, so I started asking questions. Here are the results to the inquiry: "What do you think of the JSC men?"

Barbara Newton: They take too much for granted.

Grace Langston: They really don't interest me a bit.

Carolyn Mais: They are too rambunctious.

Harriet Hackworth: Don't respect ideas or ideals of the girls.

Betty Conway: There are not enough of them.

Freda Malwit: So far, nothing.

Pat Rennagel: Well, there are a few nice ones.

Virginia Bannister: They don't have any respect for girls.

Genevieve Jeannerat: They are too dull. Not enough individualism.

Judy Trotter: Well, so far, so good.

Barbara Webb: I'm scared to say.

Martha Leatherwood: Censored.

Betty Ashworth: Are there any men on this campus?

And there you have it, men. Do with it what you will.

Ruth Slay was the proud decipient of some beautiful red roses last week. The only thing we can't figure out is the reasoning behind it. Her boy-friend got a commission in the Army, but she got the roses. Just how do you make the system pay off, Ruth?

Mildred Fernandez had Christmas in February this week. That beautiful watch and camera are from her parents in Cuba.

Valentine Day has come and gone but most Daugette girls have a few extra pounds to remember it by. Some even had chocolate candy in their hair.

Right, June Usry?

students next year will be composed of six or more girls?"

"Did you know that no books by Karl Marx are available, through the school, to students of this institution?"

"Did you know that in approximately one month spring will be here and the crab apple trees will be in bloom?"

Concerning the class in Love, Courtship and Marriage to be offered this spring, there are two rumors currently circulating. Rumor number one: So many people are planning to sign up that the class will be taught in the Leone Cole auditorium. Rumor number two: All students planning to take it will be required to write a one-hundred page typewritten term paper. The second rumor is probably being circulated in order to relieve the situation spoken of in the first rumor (we hope).

Those haggard looking old young men you've been seeing about the school are students under the G. I. Bill, who are growing old before their time. Lots of the G. I. checks haven't come in for two quarters. How would you like to have a wife, an astronomical grocery bill, a sick child, staggering debt to your inlaws, plus minor details like classes to pass?

Richey divided scoring honors for the Jacksonville squad with John Krochina. Both boys had 20 points. Richey had eight field goals and two free tosses.

Pribursky and Brown led the losers with 16 and 14 points, respectively.

JSC Cages Beat Redstone 73-59

Ahead all they way, Jacksonville's Gamecocks romped to a 73-59 victory over Redstone Arsenal's basketball team.

Milford Cohen and John Krochina paced the winning attack. Cohen had 23 points and Krochina Cohen had 23 points, Krochina 16.

Pusch had 11 and Holtzman 10 for Redstone.

Gamecocks Edge Florida Southern
A fighting Gamecock basketball team came from behind to nip Florida Southern, 70 to 67.

Florida Southern starting fast and gradually gathering speed led 21 to 15, at the end of the first quarter.

The Gamecocks spurted in the second period to pull within two points of Florida's lead. The half ended with Florida Southern 31 to 29.

Jacksonville rallied in the third period behind Cohen and Krochina and pulled into a 45-45 tie. Then the Florida squad racked up an eight point lead as the quarter ended.

Fred Lapper of Florida Southern was the game's high point man with 31. But despite his shooting, the Gamecocks edged away in the last period and held onto the 'im lead.

The Gadsden Times, first newspaper there, was set up in 1867. The 1866 legislature created Baine County, with Gadsden as the county seat. Two years later the county's name was changed to Etowah, and in 1870, the Etowah County Court House was built in Gadsden. The town was incorporated in 1871.

"The quality least evident in our great men is greatness; yet there is a tang of it in each common person — a democratic spice—which sometimes gives our liberals a conservative turn and often embarrass our Tories with their own brotherliness. More than any nation, we are able to create individuals and to use these individuals for the liberation, by some degree, of the lot." The above is quoted from one Philip Wylie. Perhaps this is our greatness. Is it recognizable in the student on this campus?
