Hawks Day

By Jimmy Reaves

Peculiar things were happening last week when Sadie Hawkins Day was celebrated again on the campus of JSTC. Girls in their Daisy Mae costumes and boys in their hill-billy outfits were really putting on a show for the visitors and non-participants.

In the afternoon many of the girls caught themselves husbands who had to take them to the dance that night. Marriage licenses were issued to all the couples, although some of the boys didn't seem very happy about it. But they could do nothing because the mayor of Dogpatch issued a proclamation to the effect that on the day of the dance the women catch any they please and they will be judging it on how fast they get to the dance.

The dance, held in honor of all seniors, was held in the college gymnasium.

Students Will Be Rewarded For Activities

On Wednesday, July 8, President Colle called a Senior class meeting to discuss plans for graduation. Dr. Cole showed the plans for the Alumni Association, the magazine to be published by the association for the following year. The graduating seniors were advised by Dr. Cole to do their utmost for the benefit of the college and the student body through extra-curricular activities here.

United Nations Delegate Slated

The Student Government Association expects to begin a new system for recognizing students who make outstanding contributions toward the betterment of the college and student body through extra-curricular activities here. The new plan has been discussed in two meetings of the SGA this fall.

Margie Sparks Makes Good Start

In the spring of 1954 there was among the long list of graduating seniors a girl named Margie Sparks. "Sparks" as she was better known, was a political science major and one of Dr. Cayle's prize pupils. After receiving her degree here, she entered the law school at the University of Alabama that same year.

On May 1, 1954, Margie was one of four students to take part in the "Moot Trial" at the annual Law Day. For any student to be able to participate in this trial is an honor in itself. She was the first woman to be chosen to participate in the "Moot Trial".

Margie and John Quinn argued their case against Joe Gast and Joe Flicker (present state chairman of the Young Democrats). The judges were three members of Alabama's Supreme Court. Needless to say, Margie won her case.

Margie is now practicing law in Anniston and is the neighboring city's only woman lawyer. She has proven to us, as has been done before, that there is something special about Jacksonville's graduate. They seem to have a knack for reaching a goal or meeting with success. They are in gain is their academic status from the proven ability of the result of their training to receive a degree from Jacksonville. A college that gains its academic status from the proven ability of former students. The student gains his ability from the faculty and the college (showing thought and knowledge from great minds to the minds of potentials is the essence of education.

But to congratulate Margie Sparks is to congratulate Dr. Cayle and other Jacksonville instructors who helped shape the course of a successful student. With students such as Margie and a high percentage of our students, it must be remembered that Jacksonville's future exists a continuous upward surge towards educational perfection.

Yearbooks Are Good Investments

Yearbooks and old coins have something in common—they grow more valuable with the passing years. No token of campus life can claim the sentimental value of a dogged yearbook that has been worn by constant use. Even though the pages may become soiled and torn, the contents remain priceless and grow more mellow with age. Nothing can bring back memories of college life as much as a student yearbook that is crammed with pictures and thoughtful words.

Dean Reveals Problem That Faces Tutors

The public has become hardnosed to the cry of "teacher shortage," Dean C. R. Wood stated recently. For some reason an indifferent attitude is adopted toward the teaching profession and its problems when it should be of prime importance to the public. A sort of "the poor we have always with us" attitude prevails, he said.

Every day city and county superintendents and elementary and high school principals visit Dean Wood's office seeking interviews with prospective teachers. This is probably true of other college, particularly teachers' colleges. They state their needs and then more than likely have to be satisfied with employing what they can get, regardless of needs.

For instance, Dean Wood points out, there may be looking for elementary teachers, which are especially hard to find. But many times they must take a home economics major. It is true that home economics majors have laid child psychology, nursery training and other phases of

Shift To New System Goes Forward Here

The spotlight is on the high school's new system. Plans are being made in all departments of the college to go on the semester system this fall. President Houston Cole announced recently. The credit system, courses and schedules are being rearranged for the change, and every effort is being made to make the transfer as smoothly as possible, and without loss to students," he said.

Dr. Cole pointed out some of the reasons for changing from the quarter to the semester system. In the past teacher's colleges have worked primarily with the public school system of the state. Before the nine-month public school term, many teachers would teach the required number of months and then enter school in the spring for the summer and spring quarters to work for their degrees.

As the public school term has been lengthened, the teachers have had less and less time to attend college and do their best work. The nine-month summer school, which will be a part of the semester system, will suffer for teachers who must return to their schools for the summer session which makes up for the "cotton picking" season.

For students who are not teachers, the semester system will eliminate some of the intersession which can cause problems for the student.

Alcohol Has Presented Problem Through Ages

Dr. T. E. Montgomery

Sociology is one of a group of social sciences that have come under peculiar scrutiny in recent years. In 1954, it was the special province of the study of the effects of alcohol, particularly as it affects the behavior of individuals and groups. It is a fact that the use of alcohol is widespread, if not universal, among people of all ages and in all walks of life. The study of the effects of alcohol on individuals and groups has been a major concern of sociologists for many years. The study of alcohol abuse has been a particular focus of sociological research.

There is no greater test of etiquette than your reaction when you come in contact with food. You are not expected to be brighter or your social status altered merely because you are in the presence of a stranger. Correct table etiquette is not to be practiced only when you are in the presence of a stranger. When you look your best at all meals and come with a happy disposition, so that you create a social atmosphere that is conducive to a pleasant conversation.

Neil Letson Has New Caruso, Great Pianist

By DON HENDRICKS

We regret to say that Pannell is now bidding a Caruso. With a voice like his, he should be placed with Robinson Caruso and call him the real Caruso. Some singers have disagreeable voices and sound like a man with a frog in his throat, but our singer surpasses even that; he sounds like a frog with a man in his throat. Have mercy, knowing the boys need sleeping.

Frank Kettlet has his own opinions in relation to psychology. He defines the subject in the following manner. "Psychology is something you already know; explained in words you can't understand." Give that boy a cigar and a slap on the back.

When I told Pannell that the Joneses could be his of, he gave me a smile so strong that the Royal Family all shook their heads, and proceeded to tell me in French about all of her pets. Both the Pannell and the Joneses are very much interested in the arts and are fond of opera. They have been to the opera together several times and have great respect for the art. In their spare time, they enjoy golfing and visiting friends. They are both well-traveled and have been to many countries. They have a great appreciation for the arts and enjoy the finer things in life. They are very friendly and always welcome guests to their home. They have a large garden and enjoy spending time outdoors. They are both successful in their careers and have a strong work ethic. They are a very loving and caring couple who have a great deal of respect for each other.
The seven teams participating in the annual drill meet made a colorful display in their silver-armored uniforms with blue and white accessories.

Fly With The Air Force

The Jacksonville cadets were flown to Stewart AFB in Flying Box Cars by Air Force pilots, an exciting experience for these air-minded youngsters. They were guests of the Tennessee Wing of Civil Air Patrol at Memphis and were supplied with flying boxes for their return trip. Each cadet was instructed in the use of the parachute, which he wore throughout both flights.

Accompanying the cadets to the regional meet were Major Lute Chrestman, commanding officer of the Jacksonville squadron; Maj. L. Herbert H. Jones, commanding cadets and drill instructor of the Jacksonville team; Colonel A. Ann Bunbrough, Alabama Wing commander of Civil Air Patrol; Capt. Patrick Rocco, AF-CAP liaison officer; Capt. Mary Harris, wing personnel officer; Maj. William DeVo, wing chaplain; and Capt. Dean Upon, director of Air Rescue.

Cadet 1st Lt. Gary Langridge was cadet commander of the Jacksonville team. Twenty-six of the 34-man team are students of the Jacksonville and Anniston High Schools, while freshmen of Jacksonville State College.

The Jacksonville Squadron consists of 60 cadets and 25 senior members. Training in military drill is one of the main activities engaged in by CAP Cadets; others are flight instruction and flight orientation, radio communication, the International Cadet Exchange Program, summer camping at Air Force bases, training in leadership, cooperation, patriotism, and character building.

Abecrombie Girls Burning

Study! Study! Study! That seems to be the order of the day and that will be the order, in Abecrombie. A trip down the hall and you are greeted by the sight of infinite books poring over books. I am speaking of the majority of girls, but there are some of us who are in the minority shudder when we see such “carrying-on” because we greatly fear that it might be contagious and if that be true, I will not do anything unsatisfying such an epidemic would be. Amid all of this desperate pursuit for knowledge it is difficult to find a quiet companion—one that enjoys wasting time. Nevertheless, many an idle moment (hour) is spent over a cup of coffee and a cigarette.

Our number has increased considerably since the second six session began. The number who have come in to fill the available positions in Abecrombie is quite small in quantity now it is well taken care of in quality. We miss the one who was gone and in the same sense are delighted that she is back in.

Speaking of losing fellow in-mates—our loss was Pompano’s Frances A. Carter, September. She is the “Mama” to the Pompani “Darlin’ ones.” A grand person, boys, so treat her nicely. The referee of Mama No. 2 left us at the end of the first three weeks, but she was speaking of—and we are so sorry that she cannot stay.

Miss Brancases is recovering wonderfully from her foot injury. We got a report that she was seen on our hall and we are so happy to see her up and around again although she is still limping.

We have a bride in our midst; the one and only who is interested Abecrombie-ites need not be relegated to folding chairs and cats—our girls still have what it takes.

Next winter will see new faces for many of our girls. We have been around for years. Our numbers have dwindled to the “Sweet Girlll Graduate” status.

The summer has been delightful. The summer was a way we have enjoyed much which we can and will remember for our classrooms. It is to be our summer break for the summer but, as it may be, have some of our tables assigned to the Tescola is concerned.

Abecrombie—everyone.

Guess what? Cleo Burt woke up everybody the other night around eleven o’clock with her screaming. It was only till Templeton underneath her bed. She says that she had a dream that her dream took her down on her bed to take off her shoes and something grabbed her leg. It was really nothing to be alarmed about but she found Willy Huggins under Lucile Tidwell’s bed, too.

Nelda Young was home last weekend and she “ain’t chauvinistic; delicious herself, too. Grove; Eddie Lou Isbill, Union, for some reason, she found a goon companion—one that entered without being invited—nothing to do with the ones who have come in.

Large Building Program Started For Lab School

An extensive program is under way on the campus for the laboratory schools. Ernest Stearns, superintendant of all the projects, was in charge of the project to build the laboratory school. The building is expected to be completed by the end of the year.

The project includes the construction of a new science building, a new auditorium, and a new gymnasium. The science building will be completed in two years, and the auditorium and gymnasium will be completed next year. The project is expected to cost $1 million.

The new science building will be used for both teaching and research. The building will be equipped with the latest technology, including computer laboratories, a biology lab, a physics lab, a chemistry lab, and a geology lab. The building will also have a large lecture hall, a conference room, and an observation deck.

The auditorium will be used for concerts, plays, and other cultural events. The auditorium will have a seating capacity of 1,000 people and will be equipped with the latest lighting and sound systems.

The gymnasium will be used for physical education classes, sports, and other physical activities. The gymnasium will have a swimming pool, a gymnasium floor, and a track.

The project is expected to be completed by the end of the year. The project is being funded by a combination of state and federal grants, as well as private donations.
