Old 'Teacola' Gives Way To New 'Collegian' As New Era Opens

Title Selected From Entries
By Students

An era is passing at Jacksonville, and another of the school's traditions, the student newspaper will have a brand new masthead when the December issue is published. The name associated with "Teacola" to a new age has been approved and the new name has been selected by a student-faculty committee.

This will be the final issue of the old "Teacola," and the change that has appeared on the masthead for many years will be missing next month. The new title that has been selected from the suggestions of the student body is "Jacksonville State COLLEGIAN." The old title is considered to represent our college more than the name that appears for the last time on this issue. The name, "Teacola," was appropriate enough when our school was primarily a teachers college, but it no longer represents a true picture of Jacksonville, and another of the school's traditions has gone for good.

"Teacola" and the new title have been selected No doubt, there are students organizing and a bit of agitation for two issues each to do before the big move can be made. There is a lot of student agitation for two issues each month, and the presidents of all the campus organizations have expressed a profound interest in the change. The college administration also has expressed a willingness to go along with the venture, provided the problems can be solved.

First, an expanded advertising campaign will have to be organized to furnish the extra funds needed to publish the extra issue. Organization has started for the advertising program, but student cooperation is desperately needed. Few of our prospective advertisers are willing to give a donation twice a month, or even once a month. We must support our advertisers and let them know that they are getting something for their money.

The second problem to be faced is furniture. The staff, with the changing of the official title, has been a noticeable increase in interest. If the current interest continues to increase, there is an excellent possibility that the new "COLLEGIAN" will become a twice-monthly publication sometime in the near future.

However, there is a lot of organization around it, and sometimes one has to do before the big move can be made. AN EDITORIAL
Progress Of New Publication Now Depends Upon Students

Jacksonville students are reading their last issue of the Teacola, and most are looking forward to a new era. How our student publication is concerned. Next month with the new "Jacksonville State COLLEGIAN" will appear before the student body and thousands of high school seniors throughout the Jacksonville area. No doubt, there are students who object to seeing one of our traditions changed. The "Teacola" has been an important part of student activities here over a period of many years, and the transition once more has yielded to progress. What happens to our student newspaper after this month is directly up to the student population.

The present enrollment will receive the "Teacola" as a once-monthly publication. It has been an important factor in influencing high school seniors to choose Jacksonville as their college home. However, we realize that it has not done its job in promoting student activities and keeping campus spirit at a high peak. It could not do its job because of the fact that it has been a monthly paper and could not furnish the continual interest that is needed to promote activities and create interest.

This is not an easy problem, but it is something that has been difficult to maintain an active interest in the publication year-round. Student interest and sometimes even among the members of the staff. With the changing of the official title, there has been a noticeable increase in interest. If the current interest continues to increase, there is an excellent possibility that the new "COLLEGIAN" will become a twice-monthly publication sometime in the near future.

Kappa Delta Pi

Admits New Pledge

The initiation ceremony for Kappa Delta Pi was held Monday evening at Noble Inn. A dinner was served before the initiation.

Miss Lucille Brancum, faculty sponsor, presided over the initiation, assisted by Mrs. C. T. Horse, teacher of commercial subjects, Dr. J. Bruce Whitehouse, Jacksonville High School, and Miss Woodrow Alther, librarian at Aniiston High School.

The following were received as members: Marian Laney, Sidney Whitley, Anniston; Charles A. Hodge, Talladega; Roger Shyne, Fort Payne; Mary Satterfield Newman, Deatsville; John Robers, Jacksonville.

Barbara Shirley was elected president; Janet Bumgardner, secretary; Judy Brown, treasurer; Sidney Whitley, trustee. The club's rules are based upon the attainment of high professional standards. Its purpose is to foster a high degree of professional leadership among its members and to stimulate professional growth through conferences and educational work.

The club held its initiation ceremonies. It is a national organization of students interested in education.

Science Club Holds Initiation Ceremonies

Phi Mu Chi Beta had its semiannual initiation in the Lounge, November 20th. Fourteen new initiates took the initiation pledge and President Ross Smith told how the club functioned. The new members were introduced and a social hour followed the initiation service.

The Howard victory was the seventh win for the Goccswriters. The game was over in two periods of 20 minutes and a third building will be erected on the north end of the campus. The trip will be taken in the next session for the purpose of stimulation professional growth, a high desire of professional fellowship, intellectual and personal growth, and a high desire of professional growth, a high desire of professional fellowship.
Changing our Alma Mater should require forethought

The proposed new Alma Mater which Dr. Duncan and his musicians introduced to the student body recently obviously met with the approval of the majority of the people who heard it. The music is distinctive and the lyrics need little, if any, alteration to meet the approval of the entire student assembly. It is a great piece of work and there is little doubt that it could influence our school spirit considerably.

However, the big decision that faces us is whether we need an Alma Mater, because we already have an Alma Mater. The question to be decided is whether we, as a student body, are to accept the proposed new school song and adopt it as the beginning of a new tradition at Jacksonville. There are more factors to be considered than most of our students realize.

There is a decision to make, and the student body should be allowed a strong voice in the matter. Very few students realize that Jacksonville has had one for many years. Few, if any, of our present students have ever heard it, and the music that should be played at all of our student assemblies has become lost through neglect. Perhaps the proposed Alma Mater is much better than the old one, but far too few of us would be able to make a choice, since we have heard only one side of the discussion.

If we are to make a decision, now is the time for us to hear both arrangements. We ought to try it upon ourselves to determine factors as important to our college tradition as our Alma Mater should be without spending too much of our time on the matter. The students who have never heard the Alma Mater obviously will not be concerned so much with traditions, simply because the official school song does not represent a tradition at all. It has been buried far too long to arouse much sentiment among the present enrollment.

Even so, we should consider the opinions and wishes of our alumni, who sang the Alma Mater during their school days here and think of it now as one of the ties that keep Jacksonville with Alma Mater. We should consider both sides carefully.

When the decision has been made, we should insist that the Alma Mater we choose should never be buried and forgotten again.

Our cafeteria is big business that must make ends meet

A student body as large as Jacksonville's can be expected to have its compensations. Some students have complaints, some of them legitimate and others not so well-grounded. No one expects to satisfy 1,200 people all of the time, and anyone who does so has accomplished what approaches the impossible.

One of the loudest complaints that has reached our Student Council this year has concerned the cafeteria and our daily food. The complaints, some of them legitimate and others not so well-grounded, have come from students. From the complaints, it seems that the cafeteria deserves the respect and admiration of all of us.

Solen Glover, the assistant college treasurer, has revealed many of the problems involved in the operation of Hammond Hall. The cafeteria is strictly a non-profit operation and does not receive any funds whatever through student appropriations. The money we pay for our meals is used in the dining hall and nowhere else. Salaries for the district cooks, the cafeteria workers, and other salaried employees come from the money we pay in, and all of the food that is bought comes from the same source. Mrs. McWhorter must make the balances, or be ready to meet the consequences.

Too many of us are convinced that students at other state colleges are getting along well for their own money and that the way to solve the problems is to stop spending the student's money. Many of us are not realitie

Howard Waldrep's Athletic Ability, Leadership Noted

Howard Waldrep retains his modest attitude is most certainly a miracle, for he wins outstanding honors in everything he undertakes.

A fine athlete, "Moe" is captain of the basketball team, president of the "J" Club, a member of Kappa Phi Kappa, and manager of the Hammond baseball team. He deserves the respect and admiration of all of us.

Tofuchough supervision kills initiative in our clubs

The role extra-curricular activities play in promoting self-confidence, leadership, character, and initiative among students has been well-documented in educational publications. Our organizations have a distinct place in the training of our students for the years after college. Participation in these activities provides something that is needed to produce a well-rounded college graduate who is not afraid to tackle the problems that come his way.

Most of our campus organizations are given extremely important and necessary part to promote self-confidence. Once a student has a job, he will notbe afraid to try the next. He leaves a well-defined path from one activity to the next, until he has accomplished an unquestionable distinction of being a leader.

Unfortunately, not all of our organization activities are given the real credit that they should get. In the past, our real worth to our campus society. Their initiative is being buried and their training in leadership is being hampered by too much interference from faculty advisors.

This realization leads faculty advisors to the importance and necessary part of our campus organizations, but we insist that they should be advisors and not dictators. Perhaps the word "advisory" will be used in the strong to use in reference to our faculty advisors, but the fact remains that better leaders will be produced when students are allowed to make decisions for themselves, so long as such decisions do not come in conflict with college regulations and Christian principles.

It is true that student officers do not always make the best decisions, but only few do not profit by their mistakes, and all of them have learned by making the mistakes. In almost every case where student officers make a wrong decision, they feel that it is their duty and responsibility to make that decision, when the faculty advisors are wrong, especially when it conflicts with the desires of the students, and in that sense of responsibility and the willingness to correct the mistake is not nearly as strong among the students.

In most of our organizations, the students make their own decisions. They have the ability to see that their mistakes have been accomplished overshadowed the wrong.

Letter to the Editor

Mr. Editor,

I am writing to express my concern about the lack of parking spaces on campus. The current number of parking spaces is not sufficient to accommodate the number of students and faculty members on campus. This situation is causing inconvenience and frustration for many students and staff members.

I believe that the administration should take action to address this issue. Possible solutions could include increasing the number of parking spaces, implementing a parking permit system, or exploring alternative transportation options.

Thank you for considering my concern.

Sincerely,

Who in Randy Purfield's hometown in Norway would have dreamed that November 9th would celebrate her birthday in Duguay Hall? She did. Randy enjoyed the surprise party she received from her new friends. Happy Birthday, Randy!

Our crab apple trees here on Solomon's Hill have yielded their golden fruit twice since Oscar Cul- ciolari and Alice Jane Williams were chosen class favorites. It was plainly cooled by the wedding bells on Nov. 6, at the First Baptist Church in Oxford and Alice and Oscar were each other's favorites too. Oscar graduated in the December class of the college and in true literary fashion expressed his impressions in the words of Rupert Brooke and Lord Tennyson.

The "Scenic Campus of the South" is made beautiful by a very large group of girls wearing pretty rings. These girls are engaged but have not set their dates for their weddings. Betty Dickson, "Peachy" Watford, "Ducky" Coin to "Bud" McCarty, Mary Ann Christon to Billy Gann, Wanda Robinson to Jimmy Harvey; Sue Roberson to Paul Brown, and Orbie Barnes to "Patt" Allen.

Sixteen pledges were initiated into the Masque and Dramatic organization at the college. Shown with her are the officers of the organization. Shown above are the officers of Phi Mu Chi Beta, local organization for science majors and minors, which recently conducted its first formal initiation ceremony here. They are seated: Shirley Dunn, secretary-treasurer, (standing) Dr. James C. Wilkes, sponsor, Ross Smith, president; Blanche Rutland, reporter, and Gerald Pogue, vice-president. Mr. Robert Beazer, co-sponsor, and Mr. A.P. Lewis, historian, are not shown.

Blade Admits Latest Pledges In Annual Rite

"B" Company, 9th Regiment has been quite active this year. The company has already sponsored its annual military dance. It was quite a success. The company sponsors a military dance during the first semester every year and a big Military Ball in the second semester.

The company is under the competent leadership of Capt. Joe W. Franklin, 1st Lt. William P. Pannell, and Lt. Norman C. Popes and Capt. Lewis T. Leath, historian, are not shown. The company has plans to buy its own building. The company has a double doctor bill because of Joyce, his mother, named him Herbert L.Armiston. Joyce, his English major, could be spelled any way he could wish, a "B" that drives away dull care and brings gladness everywhere, a "B" that in time I wish, would measure fourfold to make Dean's List. "D" is probably made by fools, but not according to my rules; for on this test it seems to me, that only God could get a "B".

Miss Maude Luttrell Talks On Europe Trip

Maude Luttrell, beloved English instructor, recently told of her summer trip to Europe as an assembly of the student body. Miss Luttrell, in telling of her trip—which she has done for numerous clubs—does not attempt to tell what is right or wrong with Europe after her eight- week's tour, but rather she gives her impressions of the people and the use of great beauty of the old country where the old and new blend so harmoniously. With St. Luke she asks, "I'm going to tes- tify of the things I've seen."

In London she bought a four-piece set of antique silver with the $100 presented to her last spring by the faculty and students (by adding to it). It was pur- chased in the silver vaults located underground. She loved England and in true literary fashion expressed her impressions in the words of Robert Brooke and Lord Tennyson. She was intrigued with the first beauty of Paris, the cleanliness of Holland, the interesting houses of Switzerland, and met all with Billy and Rome in particular. With Browning she says, "You must study Rome with your soul."

But above all she loved the Swiss Alps. She there...

Solomon Hill is where Kenneth Davis from Gadsden met pretty little Ina Martin of Anniston a year ago. This business major and this home economics major have planned a late summer wedding.

The beauty of Paris, the clean lines of Holland, the interesting scenes of Switzerland, and most of all with Italy and Rome are their favorite. With Browning, she said, "You must study Rome with your soul."

But above all she loved the fine people of Europe. They were so wonderful, and the former students of the International House came miles to see her, or their parents entertained her. As a result she came home with this feeling, that God has made all people, and to "owe no man anything but to love one another."

A man's size can be measured by the size of a thing that makes him mad.

"W" Company also initiated three officers as associate members. They were Lt. Col. Albert W. Brevard, Maj. Dillard F. Jones and Capt. Lawson D. Franklin.

The company plans to buy enough sabres for all of the cadet officers through the staff.

It is also planned to stage a bingo party and to sponsor the "cadet of the year." The cadet of the year is chosen from the list of cadets who were selected as "cadet of the week." The "cadet of the year" is chosen on the basis of leadership and general military excellence.

Yellow fever returned again and again to Mobile after it was first brought there in 1794, and there were 48 deaths from the disease in Mobile in 1819, probably a third of the population at the time.

Deuces’ Take Football Title; Wallop Star

The intramural association climax this year’s touch football season with awards and a championship game in College Bowl. The awards were presented at assembly in the Leone Cole Auditorium. At the same assembly the students who were chosen for “Who’s Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges” were presented certificates.

The intramural board held a special meeting to select an all-star team to play the champion “Deuces” in the championship game. The board was composed of coaches from each team and regular members appointed by Mrs. Calvert, head of the intramural association. These all-star members were presented certificates similar to those presented by the All-Staters. The champion “Deuces” were presented key chain medals with the inscription “Intramural Champs, 1954.”

Carlton Hosmer, Waladega, was awarded a trophy for his outstanding playing and good sportsmanship. Along with the trophy was the honor of “Most valuable player” and he went on to prove just that in the championship game played in College Bowl. The “Deuces” came out on top of that contest by the surprising score of 26-0.

During the half-time, Miss Betty Dickson of Gadsden was crowned “Miss Intramural.” Betty was selected for this honor by a committee of faculty members at the assembly program.
