Richard Belcher Captures S. G. A. Presidency Kimbrough, McCain And Young Win Other Positions

Learned From The Chimes

Traffic cops—I understand certain members of the ROTC brass have gendarme complexes and, under the guise of campus traffic cops, have been giving demerits for illegal parking. Fie, fie.

One of the little-known assets of the college is the baseball team's chiropractor. His name is elusive at the moment, but, first hand reports seem to indicate that he's really good for what ails you. He also has a table at home for treatments at one dollar per, for students, and I believe that's about rock-bottom for this area.

Spring seems to be here to stay this time; softball games are being played around the campus, and the tennis courts are full each afternoon. The fish are biting—two young amateur fishermen of my acquaintance went up to Gunterville over AEA holidays—they still retain their amateur standings, to all accounts. Can't beat the old pro. . .

It would seem to the not-too-casual bystander that the college should undertake some means of commending the excellent staff assembled here at Jax State. Almost without exception, they work overtime in aiding lagging students and projecting ideas for the more brilliant. A special "Professor's Day" or something of the sort would be in order—or perhaps they'd prefer a ten or twenty-dollar bonus in one of their checks.

The polls were heavily patronized in the SGA election held Thursday; a few radicals who want to change the political setup proposed the establishment of a communistic regime, with the Collegian being renamed The Daily Worker and the Stu-Jax renamed "The Satellite". The scheme had its good points, but I flat-out bought when they used the word "Worker".

Wayne Keahey stands out as head Ubangi this week. The principal reason is that he's killing off all his opposition on the practice gridiron. Mr. Keahey looks like Little All-American out there in the afternoons and if he doesn't let up soon, Coach Salls will be short a few men next season. With Wayne and the talents of several others who have shown up well so far, Jacksonville should better the .500 mark.

Apologies are extended to the virile young men from the An-

Candidates Give Education Views

During the past few weeks, several of the gubernatorial candidates have made campaign speeches in Jacksonville. We have been interested in studying their platforms concerning education. The following are some brief remarks made by these leaders of Alabama:

Mr. Jimmy Faulkner said that he had been accused of being "hepped" on the subject of education; therefore he wants to start a multi-million dollar school program to get proper funds for paying teachers salaries and building schools. This project would be in memory of his mother who was a dedicated school teacher.

Mr. A. W. Todd is very much in favor of an expanded school program, especially on the college level. He feels that there should be a junior college in driving distance of every city. At the present time only 42 out of 100 Alabama high school students attend college.

Judge George Wallace has already done a great deal for education in Alabama with his noted "Wallace Bill," in which he established five trade schools in the State of Alabama. He also "went to bat" for Jacksonville State in order to keep it state controlled.

Diamond Jubilee Extended to Fall

The Diamond Jubilee celebration, which was to have been held late this spring on the Jacksonville campus, has been postponed until the start of the fall semester next year. This has been done in order to give more time to prepare a fuller program.

Too many good ideas were brought up by the committee which they could not have possibly adequately worked out in one short semester.

Mr. Mason is to head the committee which will work the rest of this semester and during the summer so that the celebration can be held soon after school opens next fall.

NOTICE!

Anyone interested in the position of Mimosa editor who has not already indicated this, please contact Betty Alverson or Bobby Kennamer BEFORE 4 o'clock today!

CONGRATULATIONS!—Felix Hartley, left, from Tarrant, Ala., shakes the hand of Richard Belcher, Roanoke, who defeated him in the race for the SGA presidency last week. These were the only two candidates running for the position and Richard won, just as did other candidates, on the basis of experience.

MY CARD, PLEASE—But, the one Jacksonville students chose to take was the card of James Kimbrough, center, of Daviston, who is the SGA vice-president for the next year. His opponents were Mike Livingston, Birmingham; and David Thompson, Jacksonville.

Hossein Ghafari Has Leading Role In California Comedy

Last year, Jacksonville State's International House Program had as one of its members Hossein Ghafari, a young man from Teheran, Iran, who had been a famous actor in his country before he came to America. He was at this college chiefly to improve his English so that he could continue his acting career in America. After the year at Jacksonville, Hossein was able to enter a drama school in California.

Reports from Pasadena, California, are that Hossein is proving an outstanding actor there and has been well received. Recently he played the part of Sakini in "Teahouse of the August-Moon," a well-known comedy, and was given very high praise from the critics in Experience seemed the vogue of the day last Thursday as Jacksonville students turned out in large numbers to vote for favorite candidates.

Winning the largest number of votes from the crowd of 799 who visited the polls were Richard Belcher, Roanoke, president; James Kimbrough, Daviston, vice-president; Melba Young, Crossville, secretary; and Charles McCain, Roanoke; treasurer. Each new officer has served at least a year in Jacksonville's Student Council except Kimbrough who did, however, work with student government at Southern Union College.

Elected as circulation manager of the Mimosa with no opposition was Gerald (Pud) Hatley. A picture will be run in the next issue.

The new slate of officers were proud and tired when the votes were counted and everything was over. They had a right to be, for each had participated in a week of cam-

Fellow Students,

We as newly elected SGA officers would like to express our gratefulness for your support and the confidence you have shown in us.

We promise to do our best in fulfilling the duties of these positions. We hope we can continue the success which Student Government has had in our college this year paigning climaxed by the outdoor political speech-making last Wednesday. Then they endured a day of butterfly-fluttering anticipation.

Thanks again for your confidence.

Each winner pledged himself to do his best and expressed feelings in typical ways:

Secretary Young—"Thanks, everybody for giving me the biggest thrill I have ever had. Thanks for your confidence."

President Belcher—"I'd like to express appreciation to everybody who participated in the elections. I thought we had well qualified candidates; they did a good job and we had a good clean race. . . I am looking forward to working with each SGA officer and each and

Dorm Phones Used Wrong

"That line is always busy!" This is one of the most common remarks heard around our campus. It is referring to the harassing fact that telephone lines in Daugette, Pannell, and Abercrombie are usually in use.

Of course, more telephones installed in each dormitory would help the situation; moreover if the young men and women who use these phones would be more considerate of the three-minute time limit, more calls could be made. It takes little more than three minutes to ask a girl for a date and to receive an answer, yes or no.

The girls often complain of the monitor service in Pannell Hall. When one of the fairer sex needs to talk to a young lad, she usually has a fairly important reason or she would not waste a dime. If the line is not busy, the boy who happens to answer the phone will simply lay the phone down, wait a few moments, then report that the party is not in. This may be an exaggerated example, but actually it takes something just short of a death message to get satisfactory phone service.

Several of the new SGA officers have stated that they will do something about the installing of more phones in the dormitories—now it is everyone's duty to help regulate the use of them.

Lend A Hand

The newly-elected SGA officers will take office with fresh enthusiasm and determination. During their campaign most of them have pledged themselves to try to achieve certain goals.

All too often officers are accused of forgetting campaign promises as soon as they are elected. We do not believe this will be true of this group. If their goals, which are in reality the goals of the student body, are not attained, it may be YOUR fault.

By taking no interest in the affairs of the SGA and by not backing and encouraging the efforts of its leaders, you can make it impossible for them to live up to their sincere intentions.

On the other hand, you can help them by matching their enthusiasm. This is the way we can achieve something of value for Jacksonville State. Now, with the election still fresh on your mind, make a resolution to be a supporter of the SGA. And keep it.

One thing every candidate in the recent election of SGA officers knows is that there was not a loser in the group. Each of them gained something through participating.

The sense of fair play and sportsmanship which persisted throughout the campaign could serve as a good example for some of our public office-seekers.

For this, all the candidates are to be commended.

All of a sudden, commuters became an important factor in the school last week. All the politicians seemed to want to jump on the commuters' bandwagon during the recent campaign. It's nice to become an issue FINALLY, isn't it?

Gene Hawkins, of Anniston, gave us a good talking to one day. Gene has a lot of good ideas about organizing the commuters more, so won't some of you Annistonians try and get him down to our next meeting?

Congratulations to the newlyweds who are now "commuters," the Frank Hixons and the Dan Hendleys.

The wildest cowboys ever seen west of Texas are roaming our halls nowadays. They are Hank Fannin and Ed Pyle. Hank seems to be completely engrossed with the Anniston Jubilee and wears boots, ten-gallon hat, sheriff's badge and SIX-SHOOTERS! The amazing thing about it is that Hank hails from Talladega! John Hughes startled more than one person in his top hat and somber suit—Abe Lincoln, no less! Betsy Robinson is the only girl who makes this fashion list and Betsy wore her bonnet to school. We've heard, however, that before the celebration of J. S. C.'s Diamond Jubilee is over there may be some hoop skirts swishing down the halls.

Everyone was sorry to hear of Melba Laney's accident—Hurry and get well, Melba!

Perhaps we shouldn't claim a member of the faculty as a commuter since they all (except Dr. Cole) live at least across a street, but if it is permissible, we'd like to lay claim

SPOTLIGHT Actress, Campus Personality Featured In Week's Spotlight

ERIN WOODRUFF

The stage is set; the curtain is rising; the spotlight is shining on two well-known characters—one a versatile actress, the other an athletic-minded comedian. These two young stars show outstanding traits of leadership, ability, and personality, and seem to have quite a promising future ahead of them.

The actress is Miss Erin Woodruff of Alexandria. Erin is seeking a degree with a major in music and a minor in English. She is active in Masque and Wig; is second vice-president of Delta Omicron; and is treasurer of the International House Program. She has starred in such plays as "For Her Child's Sake," "Night Must Fall," and "Picnic." In 1956 she received the award for "Best Performance" for her role as Rosemary in "Picnic." She has used her singing talent in such productions as "H. M. S. Pinafore," "New Moon," and is soloist with the college chorus.

Erin has studied voice since she was 14 years old. Her efforts have certainly been well spent and she has been rewarded by receiving a two-year music scholarship from the Alabama Federated Women's Clubs for her outstanding talent in the "Miss Alabama Contest." Because Erin is outstanding as a dramatic actress, vocalist, and individual, she was one of the ten top students named by the "Collegian" last year.

When Erin graduates in January of 1959, she would like to go into professional light dramatics and music, if she has the opportunity, or work as some kind of hostess.

The athletic-minded comedian is none other than Donald Moon. "Moon," as he is commonly known, graduated from Woodlawn High School and came to Jacksonville in January of 1956. His major is physical education and his minor is history. Moon has a grand personality with loads of ability and ambition to go with it. He was president of his summer school sophomore class, past editor of the STU-JAX, is serving as SGA representative for Pannell Hall, and has been a cheerleader. Moon has shown considerable interest in the intramural program at the college and has served on that committee for quite a while. In connection with this intramural program, he organized and managed a very successful softball team, the "Moon Glows," and was manager of the All-Star football team for two consecutive years. He has also exhibited an interest in intercollegiate sports by serving as manager of the newly organized baseball team and as basketball statistician. For his outstanding efforts and accomplishments, Moon received a "Letter of Appreciation" from Dr. Cole last semester.

DONALD MOON

Presently Moon is doing his practice teaching at both the elementary school and the high school, but he hopes that when he graduates in July he will find a position as basketball coach.

As the curtain falls, we bring to an end this episode which has combined comedy and athletics, drama and music to produce two of the greatest performers ever to appear in our spotlight. This is only the second act of the play, though. The third act—the future—still lies ahead, and we believe that it will be even more entertaining and successful as time marches on. Erin and Moon, we challenge you to make it just that!

The Gadsden commuters are: Mr. Esslinger doesn't mind my saying that he's bald and decrepit, nor does Bob Robinson object that I say his popularity is due to his ability to fast-shuffle in low-ball. every student on the campus of Jax State."

Treasurer McCain—"The students gave grand participation in the election. Many thanks to my opponent, Franklin Estes, for a clean and interesting race. I am looking forward to next year, and hope to prove as competent as my predecessor."

Vice-President Kimbrough—"I want to thank everyone for everything you did for me. I appreciate your wonderful support and will appreciate any of your ideas and suggestions for my job."

That is the new SGA head team. The campaigning is over; nothing is left but the job. In less than a month the new regime will take over. Good luck and a fine SGA to you next year!

ENEMIES—No, they were not and are not enemies. They were just opponents in the recent race for SGA secretary. They were, in fact, the only girls in the entire SGA campaign. Winning the election, of course, was Melba Young, right, of Crossville. Her opponent was Mary Ann Waldrep, Roanoke.

NEW DORMITORY—Bids have been asked on a new dormitory which will be built sometime next year. The picture above is a scale drawing of what the dormitory is planned to look like.

Three Keys Order Adopts Constitution

On March 19, the Three Keys held a regular meeting. A draft copy of a constitution was submitted by the Constitutional Committee; the constitution was read for the group by one of the members of the committee, William Pendergrass. After a few minor corrections, the constitution was adopted by a majority of the members of the organization.

Also, during the meeting it was announced by the President, Henry Terry, that Mrs. Victor Klaus of the Psychology Department, has consented to serve as another faculty advisor to the club. Mrs. Klaus will also be our speaker at the next meeting on April 9.

Since the organization now has its constitution completed, we as members have great aspirations and expectations for the club and its work.

CALIFORNIA COMEDY

the area. One newspaper writer said about the play and Hossein: "This delightful comedy was played to an audience which couldn't have been more appreciative if the cast had been the original Broadway company."

"The entire show was held together by the outstanding performance of Hossein Ghafari, an Iranian drama major. Whenever Sikini stepped on the stage he uplifted the morale of the entire cast. Hossein's excellent performance was due to his expressive facial and hand movements and his unique timing in waiting for the audience's reaction."

Hossein keeps in touch with Dr. and Mrs. Jones and with Mrs. James Williams, of Jacksonville, who helped him while he was at the college. In one letter to Mrs. Williams he expressed himself as appreciative of encouragement and help which Miss Luttrell gave him. In fact, she was almost responsible for his getting the part. He was not even going to try out, but when he performed an original skit which he had written from a story that he had heard Miss Luttrell read, he was urged to try out, and got the part of Sakini. Last year, in a feature story about Hossein Ghafari, the Collegian stated, "Who knows? Maybe someday he'll be a famous American actor!" Again, we say, Who knows?

We are proud that success is coming to the ambitious little Iranian who was on our campus for a short year.

Hossein is very complimentary about the year he spent here and the friends he made here. In a recent letter to Dr. and Mrs. Jones, he said:

"Proudly I inform you that my training in International House, taught me how to get along with people of any race and country. In the presentation of the 'Teahouse of the August Moon,' which had a cast of internationals, I played the leading part of the play."

"Here, in California, I have activities in international groups, and I have told them that I have been trained in a very excellent organization of international relationships in Jacksonville, Alabama."

It's nice to think that Jacksonville State may have played a part in the growth of a great actor.

PERSONALITY PLUS—George Anselmo has ideas and ambitions which ought to take him a long way. He is looking forward to a future centered in the world of popular music, and will probably do a very good job.

Anselmo Wants Career As Songwriter, Recording Head

This 22-year-old graduating senior with the red hair is George Anselmo. You may detect that he is Italian by his name; you may also guess that he is the brother of Sammy Anselmo who has adopted the stage name of Sammy Salvo.

George is a history major with a minor in economics. He came to Jacksonville after studying at Birmingham-Southern for two years. Seldom do we meet such a colorful, ambitious person as George; he is already personal manager of Sammy Salvo, a song writer, and head of his own recording company which is affiliated with RCA Victor.

It would be impossible to review George's life without mentioning Sammy also. The two lads came from an Italian home of which their father was once an opera singer. George and Sammy learned how to sing from their father and they both sang while in grammar school.

Sammy continued to sing in high school and in a junior college in Mississippi where he had a football scholarship. Later he entered the service while George continued in college.

Just last August, George organized a new recording company called Mark V. George says that it takes a lot of time, money, contacts, and patience to make a go of a new company. You must find a songbird and get the disc jockeys interested enough to play the records. Of course, Sammy was the chosen star and their very first effort was "Lonely Dreamer," which is still a local success. On the flip side is the song, "One Little Baby," which was written by George and Sammy and which will soon be released by the Jordanares.

George has written a song recently that he hopes will sell a million records; it was written in 30 minutes. A big name in music, Jimmy Newman, will sing the new song called "Rocka Hula Bop."

"My greatest disappointment was when the Everly Brothers chose to record 'Wake-Up Little Susie' instead of 'Wait Till Saturday Night,'" says George.

Elvis Presley has been considering singing another of George's songs called "Looka What," but nothing has developed as yet. Besides making you a lot of money, one of the top singers can establish you as a song writer.

Probably the greatest achievement in this story is the fact that Sammy's first release, "Julie," sold over 300,000 records; 100,000 is considered a hit. More of the success songs are "Say Yeas," "She Takes Sun Baths" and "Julie Doesn't Love Me Anymore."

Three main plans are in George's future—remaining as Sammy's manager, becoming established as a song writer, and enlarging the Mark V Recording Company with Jacksonville's own Doug Layton as a new singer. George thinks that Layton has a good commercial voice and he should go far.

George predicts that Sammy will have a long-lived success as a singer and we predict that George will make the mark in becoming a great song writer. The two Anselmo boys, working together, can't miss. George will write the songs and Sammy will sing them. Listen for the songs that have been mentioned above—you will probably be hearing more from the Anselmos.

"J" Game—April 11

The Jax gridmen today entered their final week of spring training. To climax the training session, Coach Don Salls has scheduled the annual inter-squad game for Friday night, April 11.

The game will be an official contest with regular officials enforcing the rules (which includes several new ones). The squad will be equally divided for the contest which should be an affair of keen interest.

Injuries Plague Squad

The training session has been hampered somewhat by injuries to some of the key performers. Included in this list are Jimmy Luttrell and Willard Walker with broken arms; Halfback Bill Nichols has the flu; Fullback Wayne Hill owns a bad knee; and Halfback Jerry Duke has been slowed with an injured leg muscle.

Of these performers, only Duke is expected to be available for full-speed duty Friday night. The important thing, however, is that each of them will be ready to go against the Jax opposition next fall.

Spring Training Briefs

The Jax passing game (so badly lacking when spring training opened) is picking up. According to Coach Salls, however, it still has a long way to go. In one scrimmage recently, two long touch-down passes were completed; one to Halfback Bill Stone; the other to End Ted Boozer. The passing game in general looks bright on some occasions but almost completely falters at other times. Improvement in this department, however, is very evident.

Wayne Keahey released two fine quick kicks in one of the recent scrimmages and is showing continued improvement in this department.

Bill Kinzy is perhaps the team's most improved back. He has turned in several long runs recently, and his over-all play has been brilliant.

Two up-and-coming linemen are Guard Robert Darby and Tackle Mickey Grimment. Both have shown well in practice and are presently pushing for starting positions.

"Duck" Hodges is showing signs of improvement in the extra point department. Adding color to his job, he kicks them quite well with either foot. All should go well in this department so long as "Duck" doesn't try kicking with both feet at the same time.

Concerning formations, the Jaxmen are currently employing both the split and the slot-T with more emphasis being placed on the split-T.

The last two weeks are being devoted primarily to fundamentals with less emphasis being placed on scrimmage. Most of the daily training session is utilized in fundamental training with only 15 or 20 minutes being devoted to scrimmage.

Jax Frosh To Play Bama And Auburn Here

The Gamecock freshmen basketball team, which aids greatly in developing varsity players for future years, will play a more rugged schedule next season. Coach Tom Roberson has announced that the Jax Frosh will play home games with the University of Alabama and Auburn freshmen plus a stronger line of independent teams.

Coach Roberson is also busy obtaining boys with potential college ability to perform on the frosh squad. He came up with quite a prize last week when Hubert Cummings, 6' 5" All-Third District performer from Isabella High School, chose Jacksonville for his future schooling.

Hubert led his team to the district championship and shared the tournament's most valuable player honors with a teammate. This lad will bear watching; he has all the tools to become a college stand-out.

HUSBANDS: PLEASE NOTE

An "alcoholic breath" is produced chiefly by the flavoring in liquor and not by the alcohol, which has a higher volatility and a much weaker odor. Thus the breath of a man who has just taken his first drink of a strongly flavored liquor may be detected several feet away, while that of an individual who has had many drinks of plain alcohol, diluted with water and taken fifteen minutes apart, may not be noticed by a girl sitting in his lap.

Jacksonville Slaughters Saints, 6-3

Ace Pitcher Ralph Stephens sent the Saints marching home after a thrilling nine-inning baseball game played on March 31 at Jacksonville. Stephens pitched the entire game, giving up only three hits and walking seven batters. He paced himself nicely throughout the game and was able to add that extra punch when it was needed.

Gerald Dupree, lead-off man for the Gamecocks, drew a base on balls and was moved to third base by Corky Newman's double to left field. Tom Langston sacrificed to left center field and Dupree scored to give the Gamecocks their first score of the season. The Gamecocks scored another run in the second inning.

The Saint Bernard Saints scored two runs in the fifth inning after an error on the part of the Gamecocks and a well-placed hit into right field by the Saints, making the score even at 2-2.

In the seventh inning, Lewis broke the tie with a smashing single to left field for the Gamecocks. The Saints came back again in the eighth inning with a score to tie the game up again, 3-3, but they were retired in that inning and were unable to score again.

The Gamecocks came back strong in the bottom of the eighth with three runs; two of which the heavy-hitting pitcher Ralph Stephens accounted for with a double into left field.

Captain Joe Ford retired the Saints in the ninth inning with a terrific throw to first base giving the newly organized Gamecocks their first win of the season.

STAR PITCHER—Ralph Stephens is ready to swing that ball as he warms up for a baseball game. He was the team hero after the game with the St. Bernards.

CO-CAPTAINS—All set for the game tonight and proud of the success of the baseball team up to now are co-captains Joe Ford, left, and Tom Langston. They regularly play the positions of third baseman and catcher, respectively.

Intramural Ball Season Has Begun

The Duces overpowered the Vagabonds, 14-2, to start the Intramural softball season off with a bang. The Duces were placed by Charlie Morris who homered with the bases loaded. Peanut Sherill had a very nice afternoon with two hits and a homerun. Ace pitcher Tommy Autry went all the way for the winners while Haley was relieved in the third inning by Posey for the losers.

Tuck Porter, chairman for the Intramural League, has completed the softball schedule and is looking forward to the best season in many years. Tuck urged that people take more interest in the games and attend as many games as possible.

The following is the entire game schedule for the season:

THE FACTS, MA'AM

Contrary to popular impression, a pin is no more dangerous than a needle when used to puncture the skin, considerable hair on a man's chest is not an indication of muscular strength, and obesity—except in extremely rare cases—is not caused by glandular trouble, but by overeating.
