

Assembly Highlights The Three Keys Initiation

Learned From The Chimes

Since the ground-hog spied his solar reflection last week, there has been a decidedly heavy outcrop of chin crops—to beat the cold wave which most assuredly is coming. But not one single whisker have I seen on campus. Is it because there are no men on our scenic grounds? Young lady, is your current flame man or boy? Demand to know! Ask him to prove himself by letting that chin cabbage grow. Men, cultivate that glorious shrubbery. Make this month "Jacksonville Centennial Month." If the pharmacist in Boozer's can do it, so can you!

The "Daily Discrepancy" hunter reports that in the men's washrooms in Bibb Graves there are no mirrors in which to primp. No wonder everyone's been looking so sloppy. This oversight must be reported to the maintenance engineers, who, doubtless, will remedy the situation some sweet day. In the meantime, all you good-looking young gentlemen will have to carry compacts or something of that sort.

Scuttlebutt has it that some anonymous young lady, whose initials are Betty Rose, whose know-who, is highly advocating use of the flash-card system for improvement of lagging interests in the science department. She says she has tried it, and the results are really astounding. You don't say, now?

A good friend of mine held a poll among the students last week to sound out their feelings toward the school's endeavor to raise the standards. He says that it's really surprising, the number of people who hold poor opinions and yet refuse to make them publicly known. What's the matter? You chicken?

Speaking of the school's efforts to raise the scholastic standards, this is a long overdue move, as the members of the faculty well know, although it may force out some of us lesser peasants who are striving to pick up an education the easy way. Some students say this wave of improvement has only served to make the exams more severe, while the quality of the classroom instruction hasn't improved noticeably, as of yet. Maybe their first move should be to make the entrance exams more difficult, and weed out the less capable aspirants. This could mean that your younger brother, who just re-

Could Higher Standards Be Cause Of Enrollment Drop?

Valentine Dance Is Set For Feb. 13

For the delight of the numerous campus merry-makers, the scenic campus of the Southland will be graced in short order by a Sweetheart Dance, sponsored by Phi Mu Alpha music fraternity, and scheduled to be held February 13th in the college gym.

The talented young musicians of the Phi Mu Alpha Dance Band, under equitable leadership of Wayne Willis, will render the music purrily for the evening. "Good music for the young at heart," is the objective of these conscientious music-makers.

For those who enjoy dancing to the best in popular dance music, this will be the opportunity of the Sweetheart Season. This fourteen-piece group will offer a wide variety of music which means flexible listening and dancing pleasure. Begin to make plans now for that "event of the season," the Sweetheart Dance, February 13th at 8 o'clock. Admission will be fifty cents per person. Ask that special girl now for the special occasion, the day before Valentine's Day. If she can't go, bring someone else's girl friend; just be sure you're there.

Jacksonville State College begins this second semester with a smaller enrollment than it had during the fall semester. Last fall, 1,710 day students were on the campus; now there are 1,570 day students. Likewise, the number of night students has decreased from 594 to 566.

President Cole says that approximately 100 freshmen departed for various reasons last semester. He implied that the students who remained will compose a more conscientious group.

With conditions less crowded, the student body will find better dormitory accommodations. This should contribute to a more congenial atmosphere in which to pursue their studies.

SGA To Sponsor New Type Stu-Jax

Marvin Henry Kelley has been selected as the new editor of the Stu-Jax. The new publication will make an appearance on Feb. 17, 1958. Cecil Smith will be the associate editor.

Joan Mauldin will serve as social editor; Jean Swinney is sports editor; Libby Whatley will write the commuters' column; and Lucy Durham will write special features. Paul Til-

Dr. Stanford Advocates High Goals; Need For Development Of 'Thinkers'

"Whosoever Will, May Come." This theme of the Order of the Three Keys was spread across the stage in Leone Cole Auditorium again last Thursday. In spite of a steady down-pour of rain, many Jacksonville students did come to the program in which new members of the club took the necessary oath.

DR. HENRY K. STANFORD

Some 25 ambitious students joined the club after hearing an inspiring address by Dr. Henry King Stanford. Dean T. E. Montgomery gave a brief review of the purpose of the organization and related the rules of the Three Keys. He was impressed by the fact that the club has been so successful with students being willing to study 54 hours per week in this era when the labor unions are trying to get a 34-hour work week.

Dr. Houston Cole introduced Dr. Stanford and brought out that he is certainly what we call, worldly wise. Dr. Stanford is now the President of Birmingham - Southern College. This interesting educator has held teaching positions at Emory University, Georgia Tech, and New York University. Atlanta, Ga., is the birthplace of Dr. Stanford; he has an A. B. and a M. A. from Emory University and the University of Heidelberg (Germany); a M. S. in Government Management, University of Denver; and a Ph. D. from New York University.

lison will write the editorials, and Deloris Haynes will cover the current news.

The purpose of this paper is to give information about the activities of the Student Government Association and to arouse more interest in campus affairs.

The Stu-Jax is not a new publication but in the past it has been mimeographed. In the future it will be printed and will be the official organ of the S. G. A.

Upon making several trips to foreign countries, Dr. Stanford now has a well-rounded view of the effects that American traits have on foreign culture. With several examples, he showed how humorous slangs originate. The main point that Dr. Stanford wished to bring out was the need for "thinkers." He said that students need facts to base their education on; however, they should learn to introduce new ideas. Charles Van Doren said that none of the questions he answered on the $64,000 Question quiz program were worth asking because they were merely fact questions which could be summarized on a 5 x 7 card.

Dr. Stanford held that we should commit ourselves to a goal and gain happiness by pursuing these goals. Of course, goals change; he gave an example of the little boy who wanted to grow up and be just like his daddy—nothing.

The closing thought of the speech was, "We should strive to seek, to find and not to yield."

Later in the assembly, Letters of Appreciation and Certificates of Achievement were presented to several outstanding

What Is A College Boy?

Between the senility and second childhood and the light-hearted lechery of the teens we find a loathsome creature called the college boy. College boys come in assorted sizes, weights and states of sobriety, but all college boys have the same creed: To do nothing every second of every minute of every day and to protest with whining noises (their great weapon) when their last minute inertia is finished and the adult male takes them off to the Employment Office or Draft Board.

College boys are found everywhere—breaking train windows, tearing down goal posts, inciting riots or jumping bail. Mothers love them, little girls love them, big girls love them, middle-sized girls love them, and Satan protects them. A college boy is Laziness with peachfuzz on its face, Idiocy with lanolin in its hair and the Hope of the Future with an overdrawn bankbook in its pocket.

A college boy is composite—he has the energy of Rip Van Winkle, the shyness of a Mr. Micawber, the practicability of a Don Quixote, the kindness of a Marquis de Sade, the imagination of a Bill Sykes, the appetite of a Gargantua, the aspirations of a Casanova, and when he wants something it's usually money.

He likes good liquor, bad liquor, cancelled classes, double features, Playtex ads, girls on Football week-ends. He is not much for hopeful mothers, irate fathers, sharp-eyed ushers, AMS constables, alarm clocks or letters from the Dean.

Nobody is so later to rise or so early to supper. Nobody gets so much fun out of girls, snooker, Bright's Catawba. Nobody else can cram into one pocket a slide-rule, a Marilyn Monroe calendar, Kant's "Critique of Pure Reason," a collapsible pool cue, a Mugsy Spaniel record, and a Y.M.C.A. towel.

A college boy is a magical creature—you can lock him out of your heart but you can't lock him out of your liquor cabinet. You can get him off your mind but you can't get him off your expense account. Might as well give up; he is your jailer, your boss, and your albatross—a bleary-eyed, no-account, girl-chasing bundle of worry. But when you come home at night with only the shattered pieces of hope and dreams, he can make them mightily insignificant with four magic words: "I flunked out, Dad."

SPOTLIGHT

Collegian Spotlights Two Prospective Educators

KATE WELCH

Presently the spotlight of the nation seems focused on education; therefore, it is only logical that The COLLEGIAN'S spotlight be turned to prospective educators. This issue's subjects are both members of the "Three Keys," hoping to work toward master's degrees in education, and planning to become teachers.

Kate Welch came to Jacksonville from Gadsden High School in September of 1955 to work toward a major in biology and a minor in chemistry. Besides her studies and duties as biology laboratory assistant, Kate has been secretary of Phi Mu Chi Beta; second vice-president of WAA; president of Kappa Delta Epsilon and a member of the "Three Keys."

She hopes to do graduate work in the field of biology and later teach.

When asked to express her ideas on education, Kate revealed that she likes an all-round phase of education with special emphasis on math and science—and with a little physical education thrown in.

Her opinion of the "Three

Henry Terry came from Springville to pursue a course as history major and math minor. In addition to this difficult course, Henry has actively participated in Kappa Phi Kap-

Judy Sounds Off

Dear Dr. Cole:

I appreciate the letter you wrote me about my last column very much. In fact, it instilled in this little soul the desire to become a great journalist. But many years of growth it scared out of me! Before I got that letter open I was already planning when to transfer and where to!

I hope you aren't disappointed in the student body for not being as friendly as Jacksonville students usually are, to the visiting students this past weekend. In the first place, not many Jacksonvillians were here to roll out the welcome mat since we vacated our rooms for our visitors. Those who remained on the campus were scared to be friendly—some of those students might have taken a liking to us and transferred here, and we're overcrowded as it is.

If I can be so bold, I'd like to make a suggestion—I think the English Department should add another speech class—for students and teachers. Then maybe we'd all learn to put more expression into our conversations and lectures. Sometimes the monotony of tone quality makes one wish she had some no-doze tablets.

Now, don't think I'm trying to get my brownie points or anything of that sort, I'm just being frank. The students who know you think you're the greatest. Then there are those who don't know you because they haven't taken the opportunity to go into your office for a chat—as you have suggested many times.

I'd like to extend a personal invitation to you from the student body to dine with us every night for the evening meal for one week; that would insure us of having good meals every night for a week (be sure to come at night 'cause the other meals are fine as they are).

My astronomy class is calling, so I'll hush.

Sincerely yours,
 Judy Archer.

And then there was the sad case of the English professor who received a theme with no punctuation marks and died try to hold his breath to the last page.

pa, Future Teachers of America, and is serving as the first president of the newly organized "Three Keys."

After graduation, he plans to teach school, and begin work on a master's degree in some phase of education in the summer of 1959.

On the subject of education, Henry says, "If I can change school for many students from a place they must go into a place where they want to go, I think I will have then become a teacher."

As president of the "Three Keys," Henry says that being a member is no panacea for getting good grades, but by sincerely fulfilling their obligations in the "Three Keys" the students' grades should improve. A higher grade is only one desired outcome, however, and the ultimate aim could be nothing less than the over-all improvement of the students and school.

The COLLEGIAN feels that these two modest, dependable, capable, and friendly people are destined to become educators, with a capital "E," and in spotlighting these worthy subjects, we have spread new light on education at Jacksonville.

OUT ON A POLL

Students Say This About The Rising Standards Here

The subject of this issue's poll is a heated and controversial subject, which has undergone considerable discussion at this time. In view of the College's masterful endeavor to raise scholastic standards, The Collegian conducted this poll to obtain a cross-section of the program's effect on the student body, and their reactions toward it.

The question, as presented to the students was: "Can you see yet the effect of rising standards at Jacksonville; what do you feel is the most outstanding evidence of this fact; and has it affected you in any way?"

The first person approached, Frank Douthit, sophomore, had this to say: "I have noticed that the tests are becoming much more difficult, with less 'babying' of the individual by the teacher. My grades haven't been affected because of increased outside study." Mr. Douthit expressed the opinion that the percentage of loafers will drop considerably by means of the stepped-up program.

Miss Fay Johnson, freshman, was less voluble on the subject, but very definite in her views. Fay says, "The failures seem to be increasing, but that isn't bothering me too much. I've apportioned my studies to the demands of the instructors."

Charles Thurman, being of sound mind and now in his sophomore year, orated for our benefit, "Yes, the instructors are beginning to crack down, and are forcing the students to do more than has been their habit. My grades have dropped slightly. The program seems to be adequate and very efficient as to raising standards."

A junior, Olon Tucker, was next questioned and gave a well-balanced retort. Mr. Tucker says that he has noticed some effect of the new program; the teachers are plying the students with more work, although they haven't improved the quality of the lecture material considerably. He believes it would be beneficial, by and large, if the professors would put more effort into the preparation and giving of the lectures.

Another junior, Donald Cannon, expressed a negative reply, and further stated that "teachers should go halfway with students and not have the lecture consist merely of a reading of the text. Better instruction plus more effort by the students would better serve to raise the educational standards."

Our one and only senior interviewed, T. S. Wiles, expressed a pro-confirmation in which he said, "Yes, the effect has been very noticeable in the history department, which has improved considerably. If the department continues to improve at its present rate, we'll have the best history department in the state. They have increased the efficiency rating by stimulating the student toward outside sources, and offering en-

Young Scientists Fire Four Rockets

Two of Jacksonville State's budding young scientists, James Johnston of Gadsden, and Jim Bennett of Chatanooga, have fired four rockets successfully, it was learned this week. They secured permission from Mr. Dean Edwards to use his field, which is near the college campus.

The fourth rocket, X-4, was fired on Tuesday but it failed to reach the heights achieved by the other three. It was 25½ inches long and one inch in diameter and was the largest attempted thus far. The rocket can be ignited either by battery or fuse and was propelled by a mixture of zinc dust and sulphur. It was fused with a sparkler which permitted time for the students to make a safe getaway.

The first three rockets traveled 2,500 to 3,000 feet, but the fourth one went only about 800 feet because the metal was inadequate for that size rocket. All of them left trails of smoke just like the big military rockets.

The material for the rockets was bought at a junk yard.

couragement when necessary."

Tressie Smith, "Yes, they're giving more outside work to do. Keeping closer day to day check. Yes, I need to study more."

Jean Swinney: "It has affected me quite a lot. I have had to study more, and by studying more I have acquired a greater interest in my subjects. I still think there's too much outside reading, though."

Patsy Thornhill: "I can see effects in that teachers are giving more assignments. It is affecting me because it is making me write two term papers in history. I think that instead of giving more work, some of the teachers are just grading on a lower scale."

Joe Methvin: "Yes, I can see it. I don't think we're having as many University transfers. Yes, I've had to work harder, but I'm glad to see Jacksonville take this stand as far as raising scholastic standards."

Sonny Lewis: "Only reason I can see it is we are having more work than previously. It requires me to put forth more effort in order to be prepared for classes."

Jean Fetner: "Yes, they are raising the standards, but I can't see where it has helped me too much. It seems that we will have to learn to work harder."

Dale Nabors: "The standards have certainly been raised this year. I think that they could be raised still more by requiring every student to take a course in speech."

This small "cross-section" should give you an idea as to the effects of the program, which should be felt in various other ways as the semester wears on.

BUSY MEN—The two pictured above have recently begun work as circulation managers for The Collegian. This isn't an easy job, as the paper has a circulation of about 7,000, and each edition goes out to many high school students. On the left is Lee Lester of Dadeville; and the other is Norman Taylor.

Computers News

Well we finally made Page ONE! Of course, we aren't too sure if being called "Common Taters" is exactly headline news, but at least we made it and many "thanks" to whoever "Heard it from the Chimes"! He gave good advice, "get on down there (lounge) and pay your dollar." Couldn't come at a better time!

Have you noticed Bill Bennett is getting to be a regular professional ping pong player—could it be that he is getting in a lot of practice? Nancy Leach is back in school and it's so nice to welcome this smiling commuter from Anniston again. Speaking of Anniston, Jimmy Henderson (and friends) are seldom seen without their "friendly" game of cards going strong. We've noticed several notes on the lounge bulletin board wanting car pools from Gadsden so if you are looking for a car pool better check with them soon.

It's time to say thanks to Bert Ford and Berryman Driskell for all the work they have done in keeping the lounge clean. It is really great! We need more commuters with interest like theirs.

Congratulations are in order to Libby Watley who will serve as secretary of the Commuters' Lounge. This busy young lady is also writing our news in the new Stu-Jax, so let's help her out all we can.

As we go to press we haven't had enough time to get all the plans for the coming year organized. But let us say we are hoping to work with all of you to make the commuters an active part of this school. Speaking for all the officers concerned we say we will do our part, will you do yours?

Introducing your new officers—Rowan Bedwell, vice-president; Libby Watley, secretary; Ann Hudson, treasurer; and yours truly, Wanda Walton, president.

Highbrow: one who can listen to the William Tell overture without thinking about the Lone Ranger.

Les Brown Band To Play For Ball

American colleges have voted for a certain band as number one dance band in the nation. That same band was also voted number one by "Down Beat," "Bill-Board," and other popular music magazines. This bewitching group is none other than "Les Brown and his Band of Renown." The seniors and sophomores have employed the top band in the nation to perform for the annual Senior Ball.

The dance will be held on May 5, from 9 until 1 o'clock. This event will start off National Music Week—what better way could there be to start off a program such as this?

Dance committees have not been appointed, but the leadout will consist of senior and sophomore beauties, favorites, and class officers.

Prices for the bids will be announced later. This should be the most entertaining dance ever to be held at Jacksonville.

Students Gather For Meth. Meeting

On Friday afternoon some 200 delegates began arriving on Jacksonville's campus for the state's Methodist Student Movement Conference. The colleges and universities represented were Jacksonville, Troy State, Athens, Marion Military Institute, Snead Junior College, Livingston State, Florence State, the University of Alabama, Alabama College, Birmingham-Southern College, Huntingdon College, Auburn, and Howard College.

The conference was held to inspire a Christian community among members of the Methodist Student Movement through an emphasis on Methodist Heritage. Dr. Peter Bertocci, professor of philosophy from Boston University, gave several inspiring messages during the three-day meeting.

Thought groups led by student conveners with qualified adult leaders discussed the implications of the Methodist Heritage and other subjects of interest to the group.

After a banquet Saturday night a communion service was held at the First Methodist Church and Dr. Bertocci spoke.

On Sunday morning, the group met for the last time at a worship service.

A man can hardly expect a lame excuse to go very far.

SECOND GUESSING

By DALE NABORS
Come-Back of The Year

If there was such a thing as a college comeback of the year award, a certain Jacksonville State graduate would get my vote for the 1957 honor. Football is the game; end the position played; the athlete—Dean Akin.

The football story of Mr. Akin dates back some eight years to high school play at Dadeville, Alabama. In high school Dean was a star back for three years on the gridiron and a star forward in basketball the same number of years.

Following his graduation from Dadeville, Akin did some brilliant backfield work for Southwest Mississippi Junior College for the next two years. Transferring to Jax State in 1955, he found the Jaxmen with a strong set of backs and a weak crew of ends. Realizing he would see more action at end, Dean volunteered to change positions.

Although he failed to break into the starting line-up in 1955, he did play a tremendous amount of football. Following this successful season, he was tabbed a natural end and was destined to become one of the greatest pass receivers in small college football.

During the 1956 fall practice, however, fate dealt the star end a startling blow. Dean suffered a hip separation, was hospitalized for months, and was advised by the physicians that his footballing days were over. The doctors predicted that he would never run again. They also insisted that if he did run again, he should never attempt to play football.

An average person in a similar situation would have been content to walk again. Dean, however, liked football; he had grit, determination, and the will power to work against tremendous odds; Mr. Akin came back for more football.

Akin's return to football stardom was neither quick nor easy. Few people ever realized the agony he experienced on the road back. When the 1957 season opened, his value to the team was still not known. He saw limited duty in the first few games but impressed no one. By mid-season, however, he had regained his self-confidence and was catching passes like the Akin of pre-injury days.

Drafted By Steelers

The Dean Akin story didn't end with his graduation from college last month. The men who play for money were apparently impressed with his come-back as four professional teams expressed interest in signing him. He was contacted by the Philadelphia Eagles, the Chicago Bears, and the Washington Redskins. The Pittsburgh Steelers beat them to the punch, however, as they claimed him in the National Football League's annual player draft.

When will the story end? Your guess is as good as mine. Whether or not he can establish himself as a professional still remains to be seen. My prediction is this: A physically sound Dean Akin could catch many passes for the Steelers next football season. One thing is for certain—it couldn't happen to a nicer guy.

Freshman Team Shows Well

The Jax State Freshman basketball team is showing rather well as they currently own an eight-game winning streak. Coached by Bobby Jackson (a two-year Jax letter winner) the baby Gamecocks have won from Ohatchee, M&H Valve (twice), Glencoe, Anniston, Warren Sewell Mfg. Co., Alexandria, Lee Brothers Foundry, Piedmont, and Gadsden. Their two losses were to the Auburn Freshmen, and to Russell Mills in double overtime.

The young team is composed of Billy Bowe (Captain), Larry Hawkins, Bill Guemarin, Bunk Cushen, and Vaughn Gibson. Earl Cleland, Gerald Dupree, Ronald Copeland, Harold Johnson, James Williams and Jim Hodges divide their services between the freshmen and the varsity.

The freshmen will play two home games this week. They meet the strong Gadsden High team Wednesday night, February 12, and will entertain Glencoe the following night—game time is 7:30. Why not take a look at next year's varsity? See you at the game!

SPORTS SHORTS

By BUD MAYFIELD

Jacksonville State started the year of 1958 off right by defeating a fighting Georgia State team with a 95 to 77 score. The win was sparked by the return of ace guard and captain, Joe Wayne Ingram, who fired in 17 points and played a terrific floor game. Ingram suffered a sprained ankle in practice, causing him to miss several games.

The Gamecocks' winning streak includes a win over Athens College with a score of 67 to 65. High scorer for the Gamecocks was tall center Don Ginn, who accounted for 17 points; McCarty and McNabb followed with 15 and 12 points respectively. Other scorers for the Gamecocks were: Bollinger, 7; Ingram, 7; and Cleland, 9.

Jax ROTC Rifle Team Scores High

In the rifle match which was held Friday, the Jacksonville ROTC scored high over Georgia State College. The feat was a shoulder-to-shoulder match with .22 calibre rifles.

Jacksonville State scored 925 points out of 1,000, and Georgia State scored 895. When the Jax ROTC rifle team challenged Marion Institute, it won by five points; later it lost to Florence State by five points. Saturday, Feb. 8, the team will shoot a match at Georgia Tech with Tech and The Citadel. On Feb. 22, the local group will meet Florence State and the University of Alabama at Florence.

The cadets who scored high were Joseph R. Lambert of Alexander City with 185 points; George J. Sims of Jacksonville with 188 points; Donald W. Roberts of Anniston with 187 points; Robert P. Pruett of Anniston with 184 points; Noel Sanders of Pinson, and Jimmy Ted Lewis of Alexander City, tied with 181 points.

J'ville Defeats Florence

Revenge was sweet Jan. 25 in Florence when the Jacksonville Gamecocks defeated Florence State College by a slim margin of 61-60. The game, which was the third straight win for the Gamecocks in '58, was highlighted by the aggressiveness and ability shown by Earl Cleland as he fired in 15 points.

J'ville Nips Dogs

Jacksonville, featuring a well-balanced attack, was able to defeat a very tired and weary Howard team on Jan. 28 at the College gymnasium. Star guard, Don Wilson, hit nicely from out front with his two-hand set shot, for a total of 15 points to lead the Gamecocks to an easy 68-56 victory.

J'ville Falls To Petrels

Jacksonville could not weather the storm which was thundered down on them by the powerful Oglethorpe team from Georgia. The Gamecocks went into the game with a five-game winning streak only to taste bitter defeat by a score of 61-47. Don Ginn was high scorer for the Gamecocks with 12 points, followed by Wilson and Ingram with 9 and 8 points respectively.

Troy Nips Gamecocks

Troy State started off fast and got faster on Feb. 5 to defeat Jacksonville in what was a very exciting ball game played in the college gymnasium. The loss left Jax with a season record of 8 wins and 8 losses. High point man for the Jaxmen was Don Wilson with 23 points.

BSU Makes Monthly Report

By Jean Swinney

The Baptist Student Union's latest event was the mid-winter retreat held on January 23, at the church. There plans were made for the coming semester.

The event foremost on the calendar is the annual "Sweet-heart Banquet" which will be held this coming Friday night at the church. The price will be 50 cents per person. Anyone interested in coming can get in touch with one of the BSU members. The next event will be spring retreat to be held at Shocco Springs on April 25-27. We invite each of you to join us in these activities.

We would also like to remind each of you of Morning Watch and Vespers which are still being held every day.

An angry subscriber, having trouble with the telephone, bel-lowed at the operator, "Am I crazy, or are you?"

"I'm sorry, sir," she replied in her sweetest professional voice, "but we do not have that information."

CHIMES

cently was released from Bryce State, could fail to qualify, but the overall effect would be beneficial, in the long run. With better material to work with, it stands to reason the instructors would turn out a better finished product. Right?

This issue's Jim is that noted and notorious lip-flapper, "Fat-Boy" Wilis; better known as "Tabby." Wilis keeps the engineering department amused by his raucous, rancid renditions of the latest hit tunes, and would really be a nice guy, if he'd keep his fat mouth shut. He's a freshman, so that probably explains his peculiar behavior.

Andy's Axiom: Do that not what unto others that what that they can't unto you. What?

Others scoring in the game were: McNabb, 10; Ginn, 15; Ingram, 6; McCarty, 12; Grizzell, 3; Dupree 4; Johnston, 2.
