

Eleven 'A' Students On Dean's List

Librarians Being Trained During Summer Months

By BARBARA OWEN

Jacksonville State College is continuing to train librarians and teacher-librarians during the summer term.

There is a great need in elementary, junior high and senior high schools in Alabama to meet state requirements for librarians, according to Dean Montgomery.

Jacksonville State College and the School Library Division of Alabama are working together in designing courses that best fit the needs of each school. These courses enable the classroom teacher to take charge of the library program in schools where there have been no trained librarians.

Mrs. Woodrow Albea, librarian for Jacksonville High School, is instructor for the courses, "Classification and Cataloging," "Book Selection," and "Introduction to Reference."

Members of the "Classification and Cataloging" class are bringing new books from each of their school libraries for the purpose of cataloging. This will serve as part of the student's laboratory practice.

These courses are offered to teachers interested in library work and in establishing better reading relations each summer.

Members of the current class are as follows:

Mrs. Aline Davis, teacher-librarian, Sand Rock; Mrs. Marie Self, teacher-librarian, Cleveland; Mrs. Vail Ford, teacher-librarian, Hokes Bluff; Mrs. Marynelle Steel, librarian, Anniston; Mrs. Willie Mae Cowden, librarian, Ider; Mrs. Mattie Pearl White teacher-librarian, Section; Mrs. Eileen P. Cole, librarian, Heflin; Mrs. Virginia Irby, teacher-librarian, Fort Lauderdale, Fla.; Mrs. Martha Howard, junior, Jacksonville State; Mrs. Thelma R. Williamson, teacher-librarian, Pisgah; and Miss Gussie Killian, who is interested in library work, Portersville.

Local Students Attend FBLA Meet

CHICAGO, June 10 — The Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA), a national youth organization composed of young men and women who plan careers in business, held its ninth annual convention in the Morrison Hotel here, June 12-14. Approximately 700 high school and college students from all over the United States attended.

Delegates to the EBLA conclave included the following students from Jacksonville College Chapter, Jacksonville, Alabama: John G. Lester, Robert Elders, Joe McCaig, Charles Williams and Jackie Davis.

Chicago's Mayor Richard L. Daley welcomed the youthful convention delegates to the Windy City at the opening general session on Monday morning, June 13, and two prominent businessmen from the Chicago area addressed the group.

Dr. Sammy Ingram, a member of the chemistry faculty, and Miss Charlotte Robbins were married on June 11 and are now at home in an apartment at the M. A. Clements home. The bride, a graduate of JSC, has been a member of the faculty of Norwood School in Anniston for a number of years.

EDITORIALS— WHO'S GOT THE LIST?

It is very interesting to note that essayist Samuel Johnson and Jacksonville State's Dr. Greene Taylor seem to have arrived at the same conclusion, independently, of course, approximately two hundred and one years apart.

During the course of a recent education class, Dr. Taylor made the remark that our modern idea of a research paper in college is to take what one or two people have said in their books, and, using the appropriate "if's," "and's," and "but's," glue these words and sentences together and put our own names on them.

On December 1, 1759, Dr. Samuel Johnson, in his essay entitled, The Multiplication Of Books, had the following statement to make concerning the "writers" of his own time: "They have often no other task than to lay two books before them, out of which they compile a third, without any new materials of their own, and with very little application of judgement to those which former authors have supplied."

This is, as previously stated, simply a coincidence of thought; however, it brings to light one of the worst problems that we have today — Plagiarism. There is surely no law which states that students are exempt from the penalties of the law against plagiarism, which is defined as the taking of someone else's written material and claiming it as your own; but how many of the papers turned in by high school and college students today are not, to some extent, plagiarisms? Properly footnoted papers are not, of course; but many papers, turned in by those who simply copy what someone else has said, are!

Regrettable as the fact is, original thought and writing seem to have gone out of style even before Doctor Johnson noted their absence in 1759.

Could it be possible that such people as Socrates, Plato, Aristotle, and the other great philosophers and writers of history have thought and written all there is to think and write? Perhaps we are in a similar situation to the one that an unknown but budding inventor found himself in when he couldn't think of anything to invent. He solved his problem by writing to the U. S. Patent Office and asking for a list of all the things that hadn't yet been invented — maybe we can solve ours as soon as we find out who to write to!

NOTICE! Attendance Policy

1. When a student has overcut a class, he will be expected to make an application for excused absences in Dean Willman's Office, Room 204, Bibb Graves Hall, no later than one week after the overcut (or one week after he returns to class).
2. If "Illness in the family" is given as the reason for an absence, this excuse must be accompanied by a note signed by a member of the family.
3. Excuses will be given for death in the immediate family as usual; but if the death is outside the immediate family, Dean Willman must be notified before the student attends the funeral of a friend or distant relative, in order for the absence to be excused.
4. The same policy concerning absences for health reasons will be used: No excuse for health reasons will be excused without an attached written note from a doctor, college nurse, parent or guardian.
5. Let it be emphasized once again that the college expects every student to attend every class. Cuts are to be used and saved for emergencies. The student has no obligation whatsoever to use his allotted cuts.

The Search For Bridey Chattanooga

By JAMES R. BENNETT

Being a firm believer in introducing a new column to the public, by giving the reader an inside track on the writer's most intimate thoughts, gives vent to the following.

BENNETT

It was not until recently that I fully realized what a peculiarly frustrate and disillusioned world that was about me. Children, hailing Hitler, were bomb-synagogues, New York newsmen were depicting Birmingham as a city of violence ruled by a police commissioner, Russia's premier was offering our President a job in a nursery school, and an American U-2 developed engine trouble over Leningrad. To add to the confusion, Kenosha, Wisconsin was loosing population. But most disheartening of all was Experiment 13, Hypnosis 002 lab in the green house of Ayers Hall.

It was the most unattentive class that any professor ever tried to gain the attention of. Fatima Lou Criscraft was sticking pins into an effigy of her housemother, Algeida Krumbald was writing a letter to Fabian on bacteriology slides, and William Jennings Cullen was reading a copy of "The Open Road For Boys". The textbook used in 002, "The Origin and Development of the Chicago Fire", was quite yawning-making and Professor Winston Salem resolved to rectify the sad situation. At this point, in walked Alice Bluegown, shaking her little sausage curls.

"When I count to 46 Miss Bluegown, you will be hypnotized," monotoned Dr. W. Salem, Ph.D., Bowling Green State University, class of '88.

"Yes, excellency," said Alice, still twisting her little sausage curls.

"One, two, three, forty-six," said the Bowling Greenian. Alice promptly went into a trance.

"Go back," said Salem, "back into your childhood. Go back to your birth, to your last cremation, to the Jamestown Flood. Now who are you?"

"My name is Bridey Chattanooga," said Alice. The year is 1808 and I'm listening to the Coventry Choir."

"Poo!" said the classmates.

"How old are you?" inquired Professor Salem.

"I am five," replied Alice.

"Where are your parents?" asked Salem.

"I don't know," said Alice. "They were sold at the Fair last year."

"Poo!" said the classmates.

"Tell us about yourself," said the Professor.

"I am five feet tall," said Alice. "I have brown eyes, and I weigh 2,662 pounds."

"Poo!" said the classmates.

"Isn't that rather heavy for a girl?" said Salem.

"Who's a girl?" said Alice.

"I'm a black and white guernsey."

"Poo!" said the classmates.

"Moo!" said Bridey Chattanooga.

Business, Math Majors Share Collegian's Spotlight

Featured in this week's SPOTLIGHT are Bebe Whitaker Brown and Oliver Wendell Smith, both seniors and both very deserving of any honor which they may receive.

Bebe is a senior math major and physics minor from Jacksonville. She is married to Bob Brown, also a popular student here at Jax State, and lives in one of the college apartments on the old campus. She is a graduate of Jacksonville High School, where she participated in band, the Beta Club, FBLA, and Student Council. She was also editor of the annual in her senior year, and was valedictorian of her graduating class.

While at Jacksonville State, Bebe has been a member of Delta Omicron, national music fraternity for women; a concert band member; and is a three-year veteran of the Marching Ballerinas. She is now looking forward to another year with this precision unit which is the pride of all Jacksonville.

Last year, Bebe dropped out of school to work for a time with the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Washington, D. C. She returned to Jacksonville in the fall of 1959, however, and now plans to graduate in January, 1961, with the Bachelor of Science degree. After graduation, she plans to work as a secretary for one semester until Bob graduates and enters the U. S. Army.

Oliver Wendell Smith, a graduate of Emma Sansom High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Smith, of Gadsden. A senior business major and economics minor, Oliver has just received an $1800 Scottish Rite Scholarship to do graduate work at American University, Washington, D. C. This announcement was recently made by I. R. N. Thompson, a trustee of the Scottish Rite Foundation. The scholarship was one of two awarded in Alabama this year.

At Jacksonville, Smith has been active in a number of organizations and is vice-president of the college chapter of Phi Beta Lambda. He has also made the dean's list regularly.

Following his graduation with the B.S. degree in July, Oliver will use the scholarship funds in working on his master's degree at the School of Government of American University.

The COLLEGIAN salutes these two students, and wishes them all possible success in the future.

"Be Thinkers," Whitman Tells Student Group

"The world would come seeking us, as it has in the past when we opened new vistas, first of political democracy and then of economic production, if we find new frontiers in living", Howard Whitman, noted writer and lecturer on social problems, told a capacity audience at Jacksonville State College Monday morning.

He challenged the student body to become non-conformist -- to be thinkers!

"It is in the realm of the human mind that new frontiers beckon most hopefully, he declared. "The demise of thinking is one of the tragedies of our time. We need a weapon of great power and the guided student, not the misguided, is one of the answers to the problems that face us".

Mr. Whitman pictured the people of the U. S. as "all dressed up and no place to go". He declared that we cannot get by on dollars or the glitter of mass production or the flexing of the H-bomb muscle.

"We must build a culture here that stirs more than the envy of the rest of the world -- or its fear. We must win its respect. American culture has its own choice to make, and that choice is between glory and decay", he stated.

He mentioned three categories which can condemn this country to decay and downfall and that dramatize the posture of this country today: rotten materialism, sexual corruption and indulgence and the breakdown in morality in terms of honesty and integrity.

Of the first he said "When any nation has become over-pleasure seeking, history has begun its epitaph. The choice: the false pleasure of kicks or the true pleasures of productive work, worthwhile play, broadening of knowledge, personal growth.

The second: "The future of sex is the center of the whole human future. What is the future of sex in our country? More moral slumming, more break-down of God-given relationships into an abusive sport, a kind of titillating national amusement? The strength of a nation is in its marriages. Strong marriages mean good homes, wholesome communities and a nation with a purpose. Here's a new frontier for today -- in every home", he said.

Of the third he declared that "don't get caught" is the standard.

"This is the route to rot", he emphasized. "We've gone along on the theory that it's all right so long as we can get away with it. If there's 'a little larceny in everyone', then a lot of larceny puts us that far ahead. These are great principles for a march to decay, but for a sortie to glory we'd want other standards as our shields".

The secret lies in individuals, Mr. Whitman concluded. Every person must have inner peace and feel that life has meaning. He must not be beset by the competition of others; he must have a maximum accomplishment of which he is capable; and what he does must have value for himself and those around him.

"Suppose we just tended to our own business and developed our country into a way of life as stunning in the next century as the technological miracles were in the last. Suppose we found ways to happy, purposeful living; ways of living together in new harmony; standards of morality and integrity that would nurture the inner man quite as bountifully as we have supplied the outer man. Then we wouldn't have to go shopping for friends.

"The world would come seeking us, as it has in the past when we opened new vistas. Now we'd have individual happiness to sell. And they'd buy it -- for free", he assured his audience.

Mr. Whitman was introduced by President Houston Cole. The invocation was given by the Rev. Robert Allman, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church.

THE BIG MAN

HAL HAYES

— COLLEGIAN Sports Editor —

Herman L. Masin, Editor of the Scholastic Coach Magazine gives the following article by John Chamberlin. Masin says in the June 1960 issue, "So you can imagine our surprise and delight upon stumbling across the following critique in the fine sports section of the NEWARK, (N. J.) EVENING NEWS. Written NOT by a coach or sportswriter, but one of the book world's supreme egg-heads - - editor, essayist, and critic John Chamberlin — the piece scores some powerful points for the grid game, and is well worth the perusal of every educator in the land."

John Chamberlin writes: "A premise of virtually all complaints about overemphasis on college football is that the sport is incompatible with good scholarship.

"Far be it from this reporter to say there is nothing to the charge that colleges recruit their athletes by offering them special inducements. But the idea that sports have had a pernicious influence on scholastic standards is ridiculous on its face. Only a few students play the taxing team sports - - and the incentive for these few to stay off probation in order to remain eligible for the big games must be great.

"For the rest, if Johnny can't read it is because he hasn't learned phonics by the second grade. If he can't write, it is because the "true-false" question has replaced the essay in his classes. And if he can't apply logic and realism to the problems of economics and politics, it is because his textbooks have ceased to tell him that things operate by natural, not political law.

"For my sins, I have read a goodly number of economics textbooks. Most of them offer a hodgepodge of mutually contradictory theories. Inflation, for example, is deplored - - but the political actions which make for inflation are considered necessary and right. Caught between the incompatibles of the textbooks, the student often loses all contact with a cause-and-effect world.

"In football, this does not happen. On the playing field a cause is always demonstrably followed by an effect: If a back-field man misses his signal, or starts moving too soon, the result is an unholy mess. Day after day throughout the autumn, on a hundred fields, such things as the relationship of the input of energy and skill to the output of successful achievement get their inexorable demonstration.

"There can be no fudging, no faking, no disregard of fundamentals, no daydreaming, if one aspires to play on a well-organized and well-drilled team.

"In short, athletics teaches many valuable things, ranging from discipline to the proper adaptation of means to ends. Stupid boys don't get on in football; the game is too complex for that. The coaches, unprotected by academic tenure, must deliver, too.

"Far from being overemphasized, football may be the schools' most enduring contact with the world of discipline, of sharp thinking, of a demonstrable connection between what one puts into a thing and what one gets out of it at the other end. Let's have more of it."

"The Dewitt Dodd Story" Softball Pitcher Supreme

Off the field of competition a clever word and friendly smile is his perpetual invitation to friendship. But when you change the setting, put a softball in his hand and tell him to pitch it, DeWitt Dodd becomes one of the stingiest softball pitchers who ever toed the mound.

No he isn't unbeatable . . . but when he is it is really something for his conquerors to throw their chests out and boast about. You may see this friendly giant in action at least once a week at Pine Burr Field when there's play in the Intramural Softball League. He's the itche-bon of Gary Rogers' Hosses.

It has often been said that Dodd, a 1952 graduate of Sylacauga High, had more junk than most peddlers when it comes to hurling the softball. Since being introduced to sport, Jacksonville State style, Dodd has won 26 games and lost only 3 in three seasons. (Two spring semesters and one summer session.)

Although he used to hurl a few sandlot games during his prep days, DeWitt, a sensational All State, 285-lb. guard during his prep grid days, it wasn't until he became an employee of his Uncle (Sam) that he began taking pitching seriously. Henceforth success has been synonymous with his name in softball.

"High blood pressure prevented me from accepting a grant-in-aid football scholarship to

Black Sox And Vampires Are Tied For League Lead

By HAL HAYES

Activity of the pitcher's nightmare nature greeted the Monday and Tuesday opening rounds of the summer Intramural Softball League. When the mist of base on balls and errors had cleared away the Black Sox and Vampires stood tied for the league lead.

Jim Huggins, Rebel pitcher, was the first to witness the horror Monday when he saw the Black Sox count 14 runs in a big fourth inning to claim a 16-7 triumph over his cohorts. But this day errors, especially in the 4th, were of secondary nature because the Black Sox went on a hitting binge. Tuesday brought the errors.

Triggered by Tom Reid's tremendous homerun with the bases intoxicated, the Black Sox banged out 10-hits while Reid, winning pitcher, surrendered 5.

Big Alex Watson, Black Sox first baseman, also clouted a drive for the distance, a two run shot in the 4th. He was the leading hitter of the afternoon with 3 for 4.

Eugene Griep, Watson, and Hoss Kinzy had the only other extra base hits for the winners. All were doubles.

Hondo Wilkes, recent returnee from sunny Florida, became the second pitcher to experience nightmares Tuesday afternoon. This was the day that the Carl Merrill-led Vampires dumped the pre-season favorite Hosses 15-13.

Given an 11-run lead when they were finally retired in a big first inning, Wilkes, hurling for his first time in nearly a year and a half, experienced a streak of wildness and then saw his team completely fall apart defensively. The Vampires then turned opportunists and proceeded to make off with their prize.

Billy Eubanks hit the lone homerun for the winners in the first inning and Hondo Wilkes had a grand slam in the first also.

Carl Merrill went the distance for the victors, gave up 6 hits and was credited as the winning pitcher.

Play resumes in the Intramural Softball League this afternoon with the Vampires and Rebels dated for a 5:30 starting time. The action will be staged at "Pine Burr Field" in front of Freshman Dorm.

Carl Merrill is expected to toe the rubber for the Vampires while Jim Huggins will probably go for the Rebels. Both threw in their club's opening duels of the season.

Tuesday, the Black Sox will meet the Vampires and the Hosses and Rebels bid adieu to June with a match Thursday, June 30th. All of the games have a 5:30 post time.

The remainder of the summer schedule:

July 4—Black Sox vs. the Hosses.

July 5—Rebels vs. Vampires.

July 7—Black Sox vs. Rebels.

July 11—Vampires vs. Hosses.

July 12—Black Sox vs. Vampires.

July 14—Hosses vs. Rebels.

According to the executive softball committee of Intramural Sports Lab Class 422, the week of July 18th has been set aside for all rained out games during the season and for the annual all-star contest. The committee members include Tom Reid, Huey Humphrey and Ray Higgins.

July 4th To Be Campus Holiday

It was announced this week by Dean Montgomery that Monday, July 4, will be observed as a holiday on the campus.

This will be the only break in the eight-week summer session which is scheduled to close on Friday, July 29, with graduation exercises.

Undergraduate semester examinations will be held on Tuesday through Thursday, July 26-28, and the graduate division examinations will be held on Thursday and Friday, July 28-29.

Mississippi State in the fall of '53. The coaches told me there that if I would lose 50 pounds they would give me a scholarship anyway. Well, before I could lose the entire 50, my uncle beckoned and I had to join him for four years. Then came softball," Dodd added happily.

The first year of DeWitt's military stint was spend in Korea. Then came sunny Florida (Eglin Air Force Base, Fort Walton Beach for 27 months), the future Mrs. DeWitt Dodd, lovely Miss Shirley Walker of Clearwater, Fla., and softball.

"I joined the post softball team at Eglin," continued Dodd after he had drained the final sip of Royal Crown from its narrow necked bottle, "and began receiving instructions from our top pitcher, Capt. Gene Faber, who had once had a fling in professional softball." In the season ('56) Big 'D' sported an 8-1 record and hit a lusty .365, proving pitchers often do hit well.

Official records were not available to publicly announce, as proof, that DeWitt Dodd, pitcher supreme, is also a top flight hitter. Just ask Winston Massey (It was a game-winning triple that Dodd hit off his servings last summer to inflict one of the two losses of the year for the lad from Collinsville) or any league hurler.

The proudest moment of his career as a softball pitcher?

"Well, I guess," began DeWitt, "my no-hitter last Monday night (June 20th) in the Jacksonville City League was the happiest of my career." He blanked Dixie Dip Cream 9-0 to grab his second victory of the season and first O-hitter of the season.

Softball and intramural sports (He was a standout tackle for the Intramural champion footballing Governors) aren't his only pleasures of life, however; he has Shirley, a Registered Nurse in Anniston, and a beautiful 45x10 trailer home in Shady Grove Trailer Park in Anniston. How fortunate is he.

Plans for the future for the junior Physical Education major and Biology minor are: "I'm going to teach in Florida. Got sand in my shoes when I was there."

And you know . . . with the eagerness with which he conducts himself, here's betting nothing short of calamity can keep De Witt Dodd from stretching his abilities to any field h might chose.
