NCATE Board To Visit Campus

Accreditation Committee To Arrive Oct. 21

Jacksonville State will be visited by eight representatives from the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education, Oct. 21, for re-approval of accreditation by the Council. The institution was accredited in 1952 by the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education. In 1954 the AACTE gave up the function of accreditation and those colleges accredited by it were blanketed into NCATE. Re-evaluation occurs every ten years.

NCATE's sole purpose is the improvement of teacher education through accreditation. To be accredited by the council an institution must apply voluntarily and must meet the standards established by this autonomous organization for the preparation of teachers. The accreditation covers undergraduate and graduate programs for the preparation of any or all of the following three professional areas:

- Elementary school teacher
- Secondary school teacher and/or the school service personnel
- Seven standards are set forth by the council. If in any part of the three areas mentioned, the institution fails to meet the standards, the institution may not be accredited for that particular area or may be expected either to drop the deficient curriculum or remedy the deficiency within a reasonable time.

1962-63 INTERNATIONAL HOUSE GROUP IN COSTUME.

Eleven New International House Students Introduced

The International House has begun its seventeenth year under the direction of Dr. James H. Jones. This year there are members from six continents, representing thirteen countries, and speaking thirteen languages. Eleven of the international students are new; seven are returning for their second, third or fourth year at Jacksonville State College. The Collegian is happy to introduce these students in this issue.

Representing the continent of Australia is Margaret Stanton, from Sydney. Margaret's native language, of course, is English, but she has studied French for five years. She has completed teacher education training in Australia, and has taught high school English there. Margaret is especially interested in French and music.

Also new at the International House this year is Pamela Blanc, from Chile. Pamela already speaks Spanish and English, and is learning French here. She is studying to be a nurse and hopes to become an English-Spanish secretary.

Casablanca, Morocco, is the home of one of the new international students, Mustapha Chaltalni. "Chris," as he is called, speaks Arabic, Moroccan, French, and English. He attended Arabic and French high schools, but graduated from the high school at an American Naval Air Base in Morocco. His chief interests lie in the field of languages and political science, and he is preparing himself to join the Moroccan diplomatic corps.

The International House's new Asian student is Diana Chu, from the British colony of Hong Kong. Diana speaks English and six dialects of Chinese, and is learning French at the International House. She is a talented musician, and is especially interested in music therapy.

Jean Visele is a new student from Brussels, Belgium. He attended a Belgian college for one year before coming to the United States. Jean is interested chiefly in economics and world politics, and stays informed by reading newspapers in English, French, and Spanish.

Watching The World

By BOB REILY

William Lederer caused many diplomats and military men to blush when his two explosive books, The Ugly Americans and A Nation of Sheep, reached the American public.

Like other gifted and far-sighted government servants, Mr. Lederer had to retire from government service before he could effectively put his case before the American people. But nevertheless some of the measures the former Pacific Information Chief recommended in his two books have since been examined and undertaken by the Kennedy administration.

Mr. Lederer was deeply concerned and right so, with the wide division between officials abroad and the people there who they were supposed to know, understand, and help. He suggested that we do away with the "post exchange" type of living and conform to the ways of native people. He failed to do this the communists made giant strides in winning the confidence of native people. Lederer pulled no punches in pointing this out.

Mr. Lederer must have been more than happy when he saw the Peace Corps formed nearly two years ago. Not only have some of his recommendations been put to use by this "elite" group but it has been highly successful. Other countries, including Japan, have started making moves to adopt it. No more do we here cries from the "far right"

JSC Band Day

Slated Nov. 10

Band Day has been set for Nov. 10 at Jacksonville State College, according to Dr. Robert Cantrick, chairman of the fine arts division. The college band, directed by David Walters, will serve as hosts to the high school bands which will visit the campus on that occasion.

Registration will begin at Snow Memorial Stadium at noon and individual band shows will begin at 1 p.m. Rehearsal for the massed bands will begin at 3:30 p.m.; supper will be served from 4 to 6 p.m.; the college band, "The Southerners," will perform for the visiting bands at 6 p.m.; the massed bands' show will last from 6:30 to 7 p.m.

The visiting bandsmen will be entertained at a dance in Leon Cole Auditorium from 7 until 9, while their directors are attending a dinner in their honor.

Dr. Cantrick stated that approximately 2,100 high school bandsmen are expected and about 50 band directors.

Band Day was originally planned for Jacksonville alumni who are band directors but in recent years interest in the event has increased and bands and their directors come from all parts of northeast Alabama. The massed-band show is a spectacle not often witnessed, and hundreds of spectators crowded the stadium to see the young performers.

GEM OF THE HILLS — Harvest time is a grand time of year in Alabama and Miss Sonia Farr from LaFayette, Ala., is a beautiful addition to the fall scenery. Sonia, a freshman majoring in elementary education, is both charming and pretty.
Jacksonville's School Spirit

The following paragraphs may appear to be directed away from the implied meaning of the title which heads this article, but the real intention will be seen if the reader will kindly persevere.

There are some very strange occurrences on this campus which seem to have risen from even stranger attitudes, or in some cases, a lack of any attitude at all. These occurrences, which in reality are definite infringements on human rights, are displayed in the form of unnecessary nervous noise.

The two most glaring examples of this ridiculousness are found in the playing of records with the volume turned up and the childish, “Neanderthalian” beatings heard altogether too frequently in the cafeteria. Indeed, once would be too frequent.

Hi-Fi Fun

One of the most disgusting features of dormitory life is the fact that you are audibly at the mercy of others around you. This is made painfully clear by the jokers who seem to feel that there is a short circuit in their elaborate “hah fah” apparatus, as they so lovingly call it, that can be overcome only by opening the door and turning the volume on high. This horror is accentuated by the recurring “chug-chug” every two and one-half minutes not to mention the fact that the singers altogether too often sound as though they have their toes under the wheels of a freight train and that the highness of their singing is directly proportional to the weight of the cars.

It is not the intention of the writer to criticize the musical tastes of the students, but rather to plead for moderation in these activities for them or who might wish to study or rest. It is safe to assume that there are a great number of students who need study hours other than from 7 to 10 p.m., and who can benefit from rest at hours other than 11 p.m. to 6 a.m. These super introverts or super extroverts, as the self-styled “campus psychologists” might call them, seem to interpret the term “quiet hours” as meaning the rest of the day should be “loud hours.”

By the time we reach the college level of education, most of us are convinced that you can’t believe everything you read, so it should be even more clear that you certainly can’t believe everything you hear. Come on, people do you believe that something is good because a disc jockey or a company which operates coin-fed record machines says it is?

Jax State Roll Contains Many Famous Names

A quick glance at the school roll reveals that Jax State is “running over” with famous personalities. No matter what your interest, there is more than likely someone here who is outstanding in the field of that interest.

TV Stars

For the television fans, there are such stars as Gary Moore, Dick Powell, Bob Barker, Robert Taylor, and Jim McKay. Of course, Jax State’s Gary Moore doesn’t have a secret and our Dick Powell doesn’t have a television program.

Drum And Fork Corps

As for the unwarranted din that we are forced to hear in the cafeteria, we can only ask why? One student, having been away from school for several years, asked "Why?", on hearing the cave people pounding and yelling for the first time. Some answered, that it was "school spirit." Others claimed it was in protest of the food. If the former be true, then why isn't even half that much "spirit" shown at pep rallies and ball games, which is the only place where that sort of thing could possibly have any beneficial effect. If we're going to support the team, let's do it at the game, not at the cafeteria. If the racket is a protest, it shows childishness beyond belief. If baby doesn't like, then baby will have a tantrum. The "prize fat stock" doesn't realize that it can't have "Purina" as it did at home.

Real drumming seems to have died. It has been replaced by what sounds like a wheel with croquet mallets projecting from the circumference so as to strike a garbage can, and cracked by an idiot afflicted with palsy.

The musicians in the crowd who play "drum" with the eating utensils only heighten the ridiculousness of the situation by showing that they can do "nothing" better than anyone else.

It appears that these silly and opposing answers to the question "Why?" indicate neither of the answers to the truth. The truth probably is that everyone is looking at each other and saying, "Look how cute they are, maybe I can be cuter." These people, who are so adept at defacing property paid for by "mommy and daddy" and making life miserable for humans, ought to become rock and roll drummers, or go back to kindergarden for a course in Baby Rattles 101, or for the more advanced student, some graduate work in Patty Cake. Remember, these peoples' slogan is "Better Psychosis Through Uproar."

Singing In The Rain

There is one more little trifle that must be mentioned. A lot of fellows like to take showers and sing in the wee hours of the morning. The sounds coming forth seem to be those of a great frightened beast bellowing like one of Noah's animals coming aboard the Ark. Maybe it's more like the screams of a nightmare and no one has told the fellow he is awake yet. It's wonderful what the sciences and acoustics have done for the shower room.

A good name for these lovers of noise would be "The Dumbeciles." This comes from a combination of decibel (a unit of sound measure) and imbecile (chosen for obvious reasons). The "Dumbeciles" are the arch-rival of the "Vidots" who have square eyeballs from watching television.

Let us not forget that an important product of education is integrity, and that integrity has consideration of others as a cardinal principle.

Jacksonville State Is Looking Up

Those persons who came from surrounding cities, including Anniston, last Saturday evening to see the Jacksonville State-Troy State football game got more than their money's worth during the intermission when the excellent Jacksonville college bands and trained entertainers took over the situation while the players got a little rest.

The State University of Alabama is nationally famous for the excellence of its Million Dollar Band, but hereafter Alabama players and musicians will have to look to their laurels, for Jacksonville State can give them a few lessons in the fine art of entertainment.

In all sincerity, it is believed that Jacksonville is putting into the field a better trained entertainers, accompanied by the excellent band, that has superior and unique in this country. The rhythm of the dancers alone is compared to that of the famed Rockettes of New York City.

Masque And Wig Elects New Officers

The Masque and Wig Guild met Oct. 3 and elected officers for the new year. They are as follows:

Duck Booser, president; Joe Giblard, vice president; Frances Fuller, secretary; Helen Sneakley, treasurer; and Mary Dombrowski, social chairman.

The Masque and Wig plans to present its first major production in December. The club meets every Wednesday at 11 a.m. with Mrs. LeFevre, the faculty adviser.

The guild's float tied for third place in the homecoming parade.
The SUB is beautiful. It feels almost like home with lamps and plants and comfortable couches. It’s almost too inviting. How easy to just cut that boring class and enjoy the company and conversation. Hats off to couches. It’s almost too inviting.

Some of the greatest people in the world attend our college here at Jacksonville. They are the ones who are present at every game possible representing the student body. It seems they never run out of energy even when they have organized pep rallies every Thursday night in Paul Snow Memorial Stadium, then lead the cheers in every football game. With their leadership, Jax State students can be heard for miles and miles. Some students who live over in the vet apartments have been heard to say they can hear every word of the cheers. Without these leaders there would be no packed stadium.

The greatest feeling a team can have is to know that the students are supporting them, that they have given it all. It gives them added spirit, making them feel obligated to play their best for their school. Thus far, this year, there has been grand and with the energetic cheerleaders always yelling as they are, it is sure to be.

Lately the attendance at the Thursday night pep rallies has been falling off, so let’s reverse that trend. Let’s get to the stands this Thursday and every Thursday at 7:15 to build up our spirit. Of course, when the gates are locked it is discouraging to have to walk to the east gate to come into the stadium, but what’s a little extra energy as they lead in organized chants. These are the hardworking cheerleaders: Sherry Styles, Judy Sikes, Carol Brown, Ellen Ray, Sandy Hughett, Birmingham; Sharon Glass, Iron-

During the last three years of study at Jax State, and after satisfactory completion of the first year of law school, Jacksonville may confer the B. A. degree with a major in the social sciences and a minor in accounting. This plan is being widely followed by colleges throughout the United States, although the four-three plan is still considered more adequate by the law schools.

Most law schools recommend that pre-law students take a full four years of pre-law training and earn their undergraduate degree before attending law school. This program provides the pre-law student with a better background and better training than can be secured in the three-three plan. The majority of students at Jacksonville who study under this program major in political science or business.

The Law Club, an organization open to pre-law students interested in the legal profession held its first meeting Oct. 3. Officers for the new year were elected and some plans for the future were discussed. The new Law Club president is Merrill Owens; vice-president, Mary Gibbs; and secretary, A. W. Bolt. Membership and program committees were also appointed. The club operates under the sponsorship of Dr. Jackson W. Welman, also pre-law adviser at Jacksonville, who holds an LL.B. degree from the University of Alabama.

Homcoming at International House

On the weekend of the 6th-7th October it was homcoming at Jax State College and at International House. We were delighted to have members of the ever-growing International House Program family returning to "la Maison Internationale," and they seemed too to be able to meet old friends again. Some of the visitors were members of the International Program when it began with students from France in 1946.

Together with some students from the year’s progress, guests were entertained at a special luncheon in International House on Saturday, 6th October, before the homcoming procession. They were welcomed by Dr. Jones and by Francisco Tamez, president for this year.

PRE-Legal Training Now Offered At Jacksonville State

By DAVID A. CAUSIER

A lawyer is a person whose profession requires extensive study and training before he is allowed to offer his services to local, state, and federal govern- ments. Besides obtaining his Bachelor of Arts degree, he must also complete three years in an accredited law school, and pass his state’s bar examination. While the law school is the future attorney’s most important place of study, it must also be remembered that the training the law student acquires in his pre-law courses will be invaluable to him in law school as well as in his many years of practice. Jacksonville State College offers this pre-law training in the form of a two, three, or four-year course.

The two-year program is generally out-dated since the major- ity of law schools will not accept applicants with less than three years of pre-law study. However, some colleges will accept such students, and if this program is followed, the following courses should be included: English (two years), American, European, and Enlish history; political science; introductory economics; and accounting.

Jacksonville State College has a three-year plan, consisting of three years pre-law and three years in an accredited school. After completing three years of study at Jax State, and after satisfactory completion of the first year of law school, Jacksonville may confer the B. A. degree with a major in the social sciences and a minor in accounting. This plan is being widely followed by colleges throughout the United States, although the four-three plan is still considered more adequate by the law schools.

Sportswise

The 1962 Jacksonville State College homecoming will never be forgotten. The night was beautiful and the playing was excellent. And who was responsible for making us feel this way? The football Gamecocks, led by captains Bobby Joe Johnson and Lamar Caldwell. It would be difficult to single out any star player as the winning score was brought about by the whole team playing together. Jacksonville has never been beaten in a homecoming game and Troy was not about to make it the first time.

And a more beautiful and more deserving queen could not have been chosen. Miss Judy Shanaberger, who is very well off scholastically also, helped to make the evening an immense success.

It was a long weekend for most students. Starting Friday on floats, displays, and so forth, they never rested until late Saturday night. The parade was great, the Southerners band was wonderful, the game was thrilling, and the dance was nice. What more could a college student wish for?

How many of you read the article in the Birmingham Post-Herald about the Jacksonville homecoming game on Oct. 8? It was a fine article by James Bennett and was one of the best write-ups we have ever received. Of course there have been other articles in other papers but this one was especially good. Jim was editor of the Collegian in 1959-60.

Basketball practice started about three weeks ago. There are 18 basketballers on the court and things are looking good except for the lack of some needed height. Bill Bowen, a former great basketball guard for JSC and a graduate, is the assistant coach this year. Here are some of the boys who have been noticed on the court.

Mitchell Caldwell, a guard, has earned 1 letter and is a great ball handler. Rodney Shirey, another guard, has earned 2 letters and has a good long shot. Wayne Ray has 2 years of college left and only one year of eligibility as a player left, so he will not be playing this year. He is a great center who is 6' 4" tall.

Windell “Chick” Nix, a guard with 2 letters is fast, fast, fast. Mark Washington, who is here for his first year as a transfer from Snead will play forward. Ronnie Talley, also a forward; Henry Mathis, a forward who can jump very high; and Jim Leonard who is a 6' 6" transfer will not be ready until next year.

Another World Series is behind us. Last week thousands of Americans watched baseball on television, listened to it on radio, and read about it in the newspapers. As always it was exciting and thrilling right to the last game. This year there was some added excitement. The playoff between the Los Angeles Dodgers and the San Francisco Giants received almost as much attention as the series itself. This year it seemed as if the majority of the spectators were cheering for the Giants over the Yankees, but secretly they were hoping the world champion Yankees would re-

The Part-neers, a team which scored first against the Part-pneers, is coached by WALTER CLARK. This week the fighting Gamecocks travel down to Clinton, Mississippi to do battle with the Mississippi College Choctaws. Last year in the first meeting of the two schools Jacksonville beat the Choctaws 21 to 6. This was the only time that the Choctaws were beaten as they finished the season with eight victories and one defeat which even included a victory over Howard College. This year is also a homecoming week for the Choctaws and that alone will make them hard to beat. The Gamecocks have been known to spoil a few homecomings in their time and it looks as though there won’t be too much celebrating going on down in Clinton, Mississippi.

Successful Homecoming

It was a beautiful evening as the Jax State Gamecocks beaches the Troy State Red Wave 21-14 and thus created a tie with Florence for the Alabama Collegiate Conference crown. Of course, both JSC and Florence have other conference games, and they will tell the tale. This game gave the Gamecocks a 2-1-1 record with 5 games yet to be played.

The game started with excitement as quarterback Lamar Caldwell took the opening kickoff and ran to Jax State’s 42-yard line. A few plays later sophomore fullback Billy Thompson bulled over for a touchdown. Caldwell kicked the extra point and it was 7-0.

Then Troy fumbled the ball on their own 42-yard line. The Gamecocks moved toward the goal, only to fumble themselves on the 12-yard line. It was here that the battle really began. Troy fought their way finally to a touchdown in the second quarter only to miss the conversion.

In the third quarter little halfback Johnny Tipton took a short pass in the end zone for another touchdown. Caldwell again made the conversion good for a 14-0 lead.
was very successful in last season and then hung himself to be a very good leader and will be leading the Part'neers in what he hopes to be a successful season.

The boys who have given their time and effort to the Part'neers are as follows: At the end position, Donnie Myers and Walter Clark. Donnie is a 185-pound junior from Collinsville and is majoring in mathematics. His position is Walter Clark, a junior from Talladega majoring in pre-law. At the guard positions are Tom Hammett, Ernie Castro, and Winston Massey. Tom weighs 210 pounds and is a mathematics major from Ramsey. Ernie is a 210-pound man majoring in business. At the center position is an All-State player by the name of Bob Richards, from Ramsey. Bob weighs 190 pounds and is majoring in pre-medicine.

In the Part'neers' backfield is Jimmy Sherer, a 160-pound blocking back from Cocoa Beach, Fl. At the fullback position is Jimmy Griggs, a 165-pound business major from Scottsboro. The halfbacks are Johnny Lee, 175 pounds and Darrell Hay. Darrell is a 200-pound pre-med. major from Atlanta. Darrell, the work horse, is a 185-pound business major from Roanoke. Captain Mike Oliver holds down the wingback position. He is a business major from Wartburg.

This team has yet to win a game but the margin of defeat has been very narrow. They lost to the Step-Outs 7-6, and during the game there were three touchdowns called back because of penalties. The Raiders beat them in the last minute of the game, 18-13, on a long scoring pass.

J Club Meeting

There will be a meeting of the J Club this Wednesday, Oct. 17. All old members are urged to be present as well as the new members. This year the J Club is getting off to a good start and should prove to be much better than last year.

Meet the Gamecocks

[Eud. Note: Due to a mix-up there is not a picture of Ray Jordan as planned. Sorry!]

One of the greatest supporters of the Jacksonville Gamecocks is Ray Jordan. He has done more for athletics here at the college in two months than most of us do in four years as a student. But then that's his job; Ray is the athletic publicity director for 1962-63. He succeeds Hal Hayes who is now working for the Anniston Star. And anyone who knows Hal must do a good job and Ray is doing it.

I'm sure many of you know him. He's that short, good-looking young chap who always has a girl on each arm. Ray has a fine personality and is friends with everyone.

Ray hails from Gadsden, where he was graduated from Gadsden High School in 1959. Now a senior here at Jacksonville, he is majoring in business and minorin in economics. He also has been in the Student Government Association three years and is now a member of the J Club.

Ray has been working hard since becoming athletic publicity director. This past summer he devoted a great part of his time to the football brochure. As Ray State has ever seen. This brochure is colorful and has an enormous amount of material included in it. Of course we didn't edit the booklet by himself as it would have been almost impossible to do alone. His partner was none other than Hal Hayes. But together they produced a brochure of which this school can be proud.

Eugene Gripp, a spectacular halfback on the field, has been injured in practice, his knee was injured in last Monday's practice and it is not known just when he will be able to play again. We hope it is not long, because the team will miss him in every game.

Sports in 1961—

On Oct. 15, the U.S. professional golf team retained the Ryder Cup by winning seven, losing six and tying three of 16 singles matches against Britain in a tournament at Lytman St. Anne's, England.

On the 18th Italy eliminated the United States from the 1961 Davis Cup competition by defeating the U. S. tennis team 4-1 in the interzone finals at Rome.

And on the 21st Jacksonville defeated Mississippi College in football 21-6.

Flickerball?

A new sport which is being started by Coach Stevenson in the intramural department is flickerball. It's a great sport and always has plenty of action and excitement. A men's dormitory league is being formed at present. Play will begin Oct. 17 and all games will be played 415 in front of the gymnasium. Coach Stevenson has announced that there will be rewards for the winners. Rules of the game will be written and information may be obtained in his office, located in Bibb Graves, room 112, office 5.

Meet the Gamecocks

By CHARLES COUCH

Pack 175 pounds of man into a 6-2 frame, add speed and power and you come up with Eugene Gripp - No. 15 - speedy halfback of Coach Don Sails' 1962 Gamecocks.

Eugene is a great break-away runner who is a potential scoring threat whenever he gets the ball. He demonstrated this very well against the Southeastern Missouri Indians and Troy State's Red Wave.

"Gripp," as he is known to his friends, is also a fine defensive player. There have been times this season when Eugene was the last Jaxman between the competition and paydirt and he made the tackle to save a sure point.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Gripp, Eugene's home is in Guntersville. In 1958 he graduated from Marshall County High School, terminating a terrific high school athletic career. Eugene earned letters in football, baseball, and basketball, but excelled in football. He was all-county in '57 and '58, all-conference and All-state in '58. Like many fine athletes, he plans to make coaching his profession.
