Concert Association Names New Officers

At a meeting held in June at the home of Mrs. Esther Baab in Jacksonville, a Community Concert Association was organized to meet the evergrowing interest in good music by local citizens.

Elected as officers were the following:

Dan C. Sparks, president; Mrs. Solomon Glover, 1st vice president; Mrs. John B. Nsbet, Jr., 2nd vice president; Mrs. R. K. Coffee, 3rd vice president; Mrs. N. R. Stallworth, recording secretary; Mrs. Esther Baab, corresponding secretary; Col. M. G. Winsor, treasurer.

With the founding of the new association, Jacksonville citizens may look forward to a regular series of concerts to be presented each season by top-ranking professional soloists, instrumental and vocal ensembles and dance companies.

The association is affiliated with Community Concerts, Inc., of New York, which works with organizations in more than 1,000 towns and cities throughout the U. S. and Canada.

In September a dinner meeting will be held to inaugurate the drive for members in the association. Campaign workers will get together for the first time as a group and will be given materials and instructions for enrolling members.

A one-week membership campaign will be conducted, and at its conclusion no further applications for memberships to the organization will be accepted. Those who wish to join must Welcome Freshmen! Welcome to the friendliest campus, and the most progressive institution of higher learning in the South. You have made a wise choice by coming to Jacksonville State College to further your education. You have insured your brighter future in whatever field of study you may be in, you have created an opportunity to meet and know some of the highest ranking men and women in the field of education; you have chosen to spend four of the most important years of your life in an atmosphere of intellectual stimulating, social versatility, and moral stringency.

The philosophy and objectives of this institution, quoted partially here, may be found in the catalog. "This institution aims at excellence by promoting in its students a balance between facts and thought, between work and play, and between knowledge and character. It would equate life with beauty, achievement with happiness, and civic action with freedom's demands."

Jacksonville State College has progressed so rapidly in the past two decades that to record all the details would require volumes. Enrollment has increased from less than 200 in 1942 to the record-breaking list of 2578 last year. A short 25 years ago there were only two buildings on the campus, Bibb Graves Hall and part of Daugette. Jax is now the third largest college in Alabama, and it began as an humble Normal School.

RAT RULES

The hazing period will last until after the Homecoming football game.

These are the rules which freshmen and upper classmen are expected to follow:

1. Freshmen are required to carry out all reasonable requests of an upperclassman. A request may be deemed unreasonable by any member of the SGA, with the president making a final ruling in case of differences of opinion.

2. Each freshman must wear a beanie during the hazing period. These beanies will be sold by the SGA at a non-profit price.

5. Freshmen may not use the front door of Bibb Graves Hall except in rainy weather. No freshman, like other students, will walk on the grass at any time.

6. Each freshman must carry a notebook, pen and matches at all times.

7. Freshmen must know the Alma Mater and college cheers.

8. Freshmen must greet all upperclassmen whom they

SGA Officers For The Coming Year

At the helm of the Student Government Association for 1962-63 are four capable student leaders who were elected by the student body last spring. The SGA is the students' voice in the administration of the college. These officers are elected for the purpose of maintaining organization in the student government, and they are willing to hear the expression of any ideas or complaints of any students.

Class officers and SGA representatives will be elected soon to work under the guidance and direction of these leaders, and all students are urged to take full advantage of any opportunity to give the SGA and the officers an idea of the attitude of the entire student body. The campaign promises can only be fulfilled if the students keep their end of the bargain by giving the cooperation and support they promised when they voted.

"Ladies and gentlemen, I give you Mr. President": Bradley Mitchell, a graduate of Randolph County High School in Wedowee, is a senior math major, and is expected to fill the shoes of the top executive as surely and as methodically as he would work an algebra problem, and get the correct answer.

The vice president is Gerald Wayne Waldrop, a junior his-

Mrs. Edge, a former supervisor in the Elementary Laboratory School, will transfer to the college to teach reading, principles of education, and to do supervision of student teachers. She has a BS degree from Jacksonville, and a MA degree from Peabody College.

Mrs. Thornburg, a native of Detroit, Mich., has a BA degree from Howard College, and a Master of Education degree in guidance-education from Birmingham-Southern College. She has had advanced studies at Columbia University. She has taught in the Birmingham schools, and more recently has served as dean of women at Finch College, New York City.

A one-week membership campaign will be conducted, and at its conclusion no further applications for memberships to the organization will be accepted. Those who wish to join must do so before the campaign's close as no tickets will be available for single events.

The membership campaign will be held some time in Sept. For a very small sum, at least four outstanding musical evenings will be made available. The memberships may be purchased at the rate of $7.00 for adults, and only $3.50 for students. The concerts will be held on campus in the new Leone Cole Auditorium.

He also stated that there are no plans for additional dormitories for the next two years, the emphasis now being on classroom buildings.

Editorial Policy . . .

As editors and writers of your newspaper, our aim is to represent the true picture, and present an accurate concept of Jacksonville State to anyone who chooses to read its columns. We wish not only to present the students themselves, but even more important the ideas of the people. Jacksonville State contains a wealth of intellectuals, trained and untrained, many of whom do not realize their full capacity. Our campus houses the potential for unlimited exploration of any controversial subject. We are an emotional people, a patriotic people, loyal people, and a people of keen sensitivity to social, moral, and spiritual laws. We are a people with a peculiar set of folkways and mores, though they be based on the same basic needs of all cultures.

As a representative publication of this institution, the Collegian must contain you, the student; you, the faculty; you, the administration, in order to fulfill its true purpose. It will be the purpose of this editorship to arouse you, to cause you to react, and possibly, make you think. It matters little if you react with anger, in sharp criticism, intense dislike, or perhaps agreement or praise; but, you must react. The real thinkers must be sought out, and their worthy opinions must be printed, for the benefit of the slothful minds that need only inspiration. A pro and con can be found on any subject in an institution of this size, and these need to be given expression.

A cordial invitation is given to any official, professor, or student to offer any ideas, criticisms, or questions. If you choose to make the Collegian good, then it will be so. The quality of this paper, the only cumulative representative of the college, depends upon you.

Good Sportsmanship . . .

Recently, at a major league baseball game, a player who was disliked by the fans was forced to leave the game. Why? Because the spectators had thrown bottles, cans, tomatoes, papers, and all kinds of garbage at the player and had jeered and booed him until the umpires and managers had to take him out of the game for his own protection, and so that the game could be continued. That game was in the United States; the players were United States citizens; the spectators were also United States citizens. What kind of people do we have in this country? The player was one of baseball's great players and his team was playing at their opponents' home field. Throughout the game, the spectators yelled and screamed at them.

Senior Spotlight

BLANCHE GAMBLE

The first beam of the fall reveals Blanche Gamble, a graceful young lady whose femininity glows beneath the mortar board, Anniston can claim her, but Talladega is responsible, for it was there she was reared. And let's give credit where credit is due.

Talladega High recorded many accomplishments in Blanche's name. In addition to being an excellent student, or maybe because of it, she was active in several school organizations, elected to class offices, and awarded membership in the National Honor Society. Outside school, Blanche stayed busy in various church affairs and studied piano for a number of years. Music seemed to be taking first place in her ambitions, but, in the quiet background, the Sunday school and other teaching experiences were working to bring out the love of children and the desire to teach that is apparently innate to Blanche and dictated her college major—elementary education.

At Jacksonville State, Blanche has continued to pursue her second love—music. While preparing herself for the responsible task of teaching the "little ones", she has sung in the A Cappella Choir and was pledged to Delta Omicron, national music fraternity for women. She now serves as secretary to the Jax State chapter. During the past summer session, Blanche was elected senior class treasurer.

JERRY DeSPAIN

In the spotlight and the male of the species is Jerry DeSpain, a Jacksonville native whose hometown is located in Arkansas. It seems that almost all of the great United sport at least one community bearing our name; but, remember, imitation is the highest form of flattery.

Albertville High granted diplomas to both Jerry and his charming wife, Patricia Anne. They were married in the summer of 1960, and since have introduced to the word, in the midst of college and part-time jobs, a bouncy cutie, Jenny Anne.

As a high school student, Jerry distinguished himself many times. At Albertville he wrote for the school paper, edited the yearbook, and actively participated in at least four other extra-curricular activities. His busy schedule, though, did not hinder his enthusiasm for sports. Then, as now, he kept close watch on all the sports scene, from national to local.

At Jax State, along with the responsibilities of marriage and parenthood, Jerry has maintained a 2.0 average in his double major—accounting and math. He also belongs to Rho Omega Tau Chi, military science fraternity.

After graduation, the DeSpain family will go with the Mr. wherever he finds a company in need of an ambitious junior accountant, and the Mrs. will try to further her education the spectators had thrown bottles, cans, tomatoes, papers, and all kinds of garbage at the player and had jeered and booed him until the umpires and managers had to take him out of the game for his own protection, and so that the game could be continued. That game was in the United States; the players were United States citizens; the spectators were also United States citizens. What kind of people do we have in this country? The player was one of baseball's great players and his team was playing at their opponents' home field. Throughout the game, the spectators yelled and screamed at them.

Last year there was a football game between two colleges. Before the game even started, during the warmup period, the home crowd began to razz the opposing team. There were boos and jeers throughout the game.

The same year, the two schools played against each other in basketball at the same college. This time the opposing team was practically run off the court by the spectators. There were blaring horns, banging dishpans, clanging cowbells, and other loud annoying instruments as well as screaming, yelling, and stamping of feet by the students. Cheering is an excellent way of supporting the players, but it must include consideration.

Could this really happen at a college? We, students, are the cream of the crop in America today. We are the most intelligent young people in the country, and we will be the leaders in our country in the future.

What has happened to that nice, clean thing called "sportsmanship". Much stress is placed upon sportsmanship among the players and a "dirty" player is disliked very much, but what about spectators? Does this so-called sportsmanship apply only to the players?

Only one instance has been cited in a college where poor sportsmanship has been demonstrated, but it is happening all over the country and has happened at Jacksonville. Either students and the American people don't care about good sportsmanship, or just don't know what good sportsmanship is. The latter would be hard to believe.

Jacksonville State College always has a wonderful team in each sport. The players are all good clean players and, win or lose, they are good sportsmen. Is it too much to ask that the spectators be the same? Jacksonville is known as the friendliest campus in the South. In order to keep this good reputation the student spectators must demonstrate good sportsmanship at all sporting events.

Never be a part of any mob action that will be so serious as to initiate correspondence between the administrators of the opposing schools, as past events have. Good sportsmanship is beneficial, not only to the individual, but to the group he represents, the state, and the country.

Fairfield High Band Visits JSC Campus

The Fairfield High School Band, 100 strong, arrived on the campus of Jacksonville State College Sunday, August 12, for a week of concentrated practice in preparation for the fall opening of school.

Accompanying the band were the director, Lindsey Murdock, and official chaperons.

Virgil Nunn, superintendent of Fairfield City Schools, and Mrs. Nunn; B. R. Bearden, principal of Fairfield High School, and Mrs. Bearden, came over on Sunday night and were present for a reception which President and Mrs. Houston Cole gave for the band and school officials.

The band had four practice periods every day, and enjoyed some tours around the surrounding territory for amusement. They had college facilities at their disposal and their meals in the new cafeteria in Cole Center. They were housed in Pannell Hall.

The sound of lively music and happy young voices gave a pleasant interlude to the long, hot August vacation. The students seemed to enjoy their stay, and several were overheard commenting about the beauty of the campus, and the obvious advantages of attending Jacksonville State College.

the task of teaching the "little ones", she has sung in the A Cappella Choir and was pledged to Delta Omicron, national music fraternity for women. She now serves as secretary to the Jax State chapter. During the past summer session, Blanche was elected senior class treasurer.

Because of many years of dealing with three younger siblings, Blanche prefers young people and enjoys working with them. She hopes someday to write a book to recount the many interesting experiences she has had with the infinite variety in people. Be careful, you may be among those named.

If she can teach in the upper elementary grades and handle the elementary music system, Blanche will have found her niche. She plans to earn the following degrees, and in this order: B. S., Mrs. M. S. The blueprint is good, and with determination, the finished product will be equal.

In the more serious vein, the foundation of our entire educational system is in the first six years of teaching our children receive. There is no worry, if more and more graduates will enter the field with dedication and love. The COLLEGIAN salutes this worthy ambition.

She is a senior, majoring in elementary education, and a graduate of Gadsden High School. Joan, keeping up a constant pace that is hard to follow, believes in honest Toil [with a capital T, and that rhymes with P, and that stands for Progress].

You are a RAT!

Rats are of the rodent family. They are one of the lowest animals this side of a worm. They are pests. They are made to crawl on the floor, through holes, and live off what they can scavenge. Don't forget-you are a rat. Follow, to the last letter, the Rat Rules published elsewhere in this paper, or suffer the consequences.

With all the fun and excitement ahead, the upperclassmen give this one warning, "Don't forget the real purpose of college." Enjoy the insanity of Rat Weeks, the mob violence of pep rallies, and the thrill of each new experience. But keep ever in mind that the money you paid was for an education, not a season ticket to a social whirl. Let there be a time for everything. But let the majority of your precious hours be spent in the good company of libraries, textbooks, and professors in classtime. Put first things first. Evaluate each item on your schedule, and underline "class" and "studying" with red pencil. Never let the bull-shooting upperclassmen fool you with their talk. If they had listened to it in their time, they wouldn't be here to hand it out to you. Choose your associates carefully, and be sure your right before acting.

No matter how you may feel, after a day of hazing, remember as long as you remain worthy, you are a welcome addition to the Gamecock roster.

One good way to forget all your other troubles is to wear tight shoes.

There are too many hydro-matic people—shiftless and easygoing.

Oblong Observations

By NANCY MACKEY

The men at the new building sites looking very long-faced. "No Jax State beauties to brighten our scenery," said one. Could anyone spare a smile for them?

A steady stream of unsuspecting "Rats" flowing through the campus during August—all willingly subjecting themselves to premature orientation by evil-eyed upper classmen who were here.

A faithful crew of experienced hands handling the various necessary jobs—a crowd of ever-loyal Gamecocks who had NO vacation; a good handful of hard-working administrators who only had a short one; and a few in maintenance who kept the campus at its beautiful best for visitors. Hats off and a grand round of applause to these noble souls. "If it hadn't been for the money . . ."

Sidewalks appearing in just the right place—specifically, where unthinking students had worn a trail. So, now, there is no real excuse—the Rats must, but let's join them—use the sidewalks.

Utter confusion at Doughtette's main entrance. Two immovable objects met in a head-on collision. A poor, over-worked daddy carrying a huge unnecessary trunk, just couldn't find an opening large enough to allow passage. The next move was to go all the way around to a side door. Oh, my aching back.

A dedicated mother stretching from chair to curtain rod—which was about one foot too far. The resourcefulness of years of experience and a determination borne from love prompted the clearing of the veritable obstacle course on the floor, balancing the chair on the bed and—rivaling Barnum's thrilling trapeze—with one foot against the window sill, she hung the lovely drapes. A typical Rat comment was the thanks she received for this service beyond the call. "Oh, no, the curtains are too short. Could we lower the rods?"

A personal warm and sincere "thank you" in behalf of all the excited freshmen to their moms and pops who have been temporarily pushed into the background. Don't forget to write.

A thought to consider at the beginning of a new year:

"In our rush to escape the humiliation of our own mistakes, we run head first into the opposite error, seeking comfort and compensation . . . The thing to do when you make a mistake is not to give up doing what you were doing and start something altogether new, but to start over again with the thing you began badly and try, for the love of God, to do it well." Dr. Austin Meadows Graduation Speaker

By MRS. R. K. COFFEE

Dr. Austin R. Meadows, state superintendent of education-elect, spoke to the summer graduating class at Jacksonville State College in the new Leone Cole Auditorium. The large auditorium was filled with parents, friends, faculty and graduates.

Introduced by President Houston Cole, Dr. Meadows made an appeal to the graduates to take the role of leadership in Alabama to help bring it to its fullest potential.

"Alabama lags behind the nation economically and educationally", Dr. Meadows declared. "This is because we have allowed the negative image of 'too poor to educate' choke education down with ignorance like weeds choking out food and fiber-bearing plants in a rich garden.

"Alabama has long been potentially another 'Garden of Eden' similar to the Mediterranean area but we still will never reach our full potential attainment until we destroy the negative image of 'too poor to educate'. Our total income in this state is about $1 billion more than in 1939. We can finance any kind of education needed without any undue burden on our people.

"When we meet this education need we will climb to near the top of the states and will make the maximum contribution to our way of life. The greatest challenge to you and to every college graduate is to move boldly with your courage and your trained intelligence to lead in the development of this state to its fullest potential".

Degrees were conferred upon 118 candidates by President Houston Cole and Dean Theron Montgomery. William Veazey of Anniston, a member of the graduating class, sang "God Bless America". The Rev. Robert B. Allman, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, led the invocation.

Attendance Policy For Students

I. All students are authorized one cut per credit hour in each course. These cuts are over and above any absence which may be excused. They are for the use of the student in case of emergency and should be used accordingly. The college expects the student to attend every class and the student should feel no obligation to use his allotted cuts.

II. Absences will be excused in case of serious illness or death in the immediate family, and in cases of extreme emergency only. Transportation failure [other than public conveyance], the transaction of personal business, etc. are not considered cases of extreme emergency.

III. In the case of illness, the resident student must notify the director of his residence hall immediately. She will then put the student in contact with the college nurse who will issue an excuse if such is warranted. The student must return the excuse to the residence hall director the day that it is issued or in the case an illness lasts longer than one day, the day on which he returns to class. The non-resident student must make application for an excused absence at the Dean of Student's office and submit an accompanying note signed by a physician.

IV. In the case of death or serious illness in the family or in cases of extreme emergency, the student must, before incurring the absence, clear with the director of the residence hall, if you are a resident student or with the Dean of Students if you are a non-resident student. You must bring a writ-

NANCY MACKEY

JOHNNY HAMNER

Editing the two student publications of Jacksonville State are two active Gamecocks who don't mind a little "sweat of the brow." Both have been known to work till the "wee hours" on various projects, and if this year's Mimosa and Collegian meet the usual standards, many a late candle will be burned by next May.

The editor of the Collegian is Nancy Mackey, an energetic, effervescent junior from Gadsden. She is a graduate of Emma Sansom High School. Nancy, better known as "Cookie", is a music education major who is interested in psychology and sociology as a possible minor. He statement to the student body may be found in the editorial column.

John Hamner, a potential business executive, is a product of Tuscaloosa High School, down in Tide country. "Choc" is a senior majoring in accounting. When he graduates he hopes to leave behind one very important thing—the best Mimosa ever published. When the campaign for deposits on Mimosas starts, look for the smiling friendly guy who always looks busy.

Dr. Houston Cole Has Full Schedule Of Addresses

Dr. Houston Cole, popular speaker for schools, churches and civic groups, has a busy schedule for coming weeks.

On Thursday he spoke in the morning to white teachers of Bessemer and to the colored teachers an hour later. That evening he was guest speaker for a meeting of seven Civitan clubs at the Country Club in Albertville for members and their wives. Friday morning he addressed Jackson County teachers at their institute.

On Monday he will welcome freshmen students at the college at 10 a.m.; speak to the faculty of Jacksonville High School at 11 a.m., and to the college faculty Monday night.

THE CRITIC

A Little Seed lay in the ground, and soon began to sprout. "Now which of all the flowers around," it mused, "shall I come out? The lily's face is fair and proud, but just a trifle cold; the rose, I think, is rather loud, and then, its fashion's old. The violet is all very well, but not a flower I'd choose. Nor yet the Canterbury bell—I never cared for blues."

And so it criticized each flower—this supercilious seed—until it woke one summer hour—and found itself a weed!

JSC Beginning Its 80th Year

Jacksonville State College enrolled more than 2500 last year and about the same number is anticipated this year, since . . . etc., since high school senior classes were generally smaller than usual last spring. The enrollment in 1963 is expected to make another jump and will probably reach 3,000.

The influence of the college is spreading and each year finds students from more states and from greater distances. There were 22 states represented last year, some coming from as far away as Idaho, Montana, New York, New Jersey, Michigan, etc. They and the 20 international students, who represented 15 countries, lent an atmosphere that blended favorably with the deep-south background.

Buildings Attract Attention

Upon entering the campus driveways, the most noticeable feature is the increased number of buildings that have gone up recently or are under construction.

Opened during the summer session was the new student union building, also airconditioned. This building was formerly the cafeteria and was converted into quarters for the book store, coffee shop, student lounge, offices for staff personnel and publications, and an auditorium for recitals and small assemblies.

Now under construction is Mason Hall, a three-story building for music, art, home economics and business education departments. Also being built are new press and radio facilities at Snow Memorial Stadium which were destroyed by a tornado last December.

In January the new Leone Cole Center was completed and building has a cafeteria, banquet room, faculty and private dining rooms, an auditorium to seat 1400, and a small chapel, all airconditioned.

An annex to Ayers Science Hall was completed in the spring which doubled its facilities, and an annex to the Ramona Wood Library will be completed in August which will greatly increase its services.

Many Opportunities Offered

At least half of the college's large enrollment is made up of commuters who come from surrounding counties and parts of Georgia. Seven degrees are offered in the undergraduate level, and a Master of Science in Education, on the graduate level. Unusual opportunities in the language field are also available.

International House Program

A distinctive feature of the campus is the International House Program and the opportunities available for language study. The International House Program is made up of students from many countries, and American students who are interested in language study beyond merely attending daily classes. A fee is charged for participation in the program.

The American and international students have two meals five days a week at the International House, converse in their various languages, and take part in programs for clubs, churches, schools, etc.

The foreign students assist with the teaching of languages in the laboratory schools where oral instruction is given daily from the first grade through junior high school. American students majoring in languages do their practice teaching in the laboratory schools also.

In addition to these special activities, French, German and Spanish are offered in regular classes.

Last year there were 20 foreign students at the International House representing 13 countries. About the same representation is expected this year.

Cultural Advantages

It has been the practice of the college to bring noted men and women to the campus from the theatre, political, educational, scientific and religious fields for the benefit of the faculty and students.

Coach Salls Prepares For First Game

By LESTER DEAN

Coach Don Salls has stated that he will begin scrimmage on the second day of practice this fall which will give his football Gamecocks less than 14 days to prepare for Florence State. The game will be on the home field Sept. 15. The Gamecocks have lost 12 lettermen from last year and 15 lettermen are returning.

DON SALLS

The lettermen who graduated are: Ends—Gerald Halpin, Stanley Bell, Ken Wilson; tackles—Arn Terry; guards—Charles Baker, M. G. Hodges, Ed Neura; Centers—Bo Williams, Tom Maddux; quarterbacks—Jim Williams; tailbacks—Carson

Southard; fullbacks—Harold Bobo.

With 37 players on the roster this fall the Gamecocks should prove to be a powerful team and also more than match last year's 5-4 record. Last year Florence won the ACC championship when they defeated Jax State, 17-0. But this year we predict a different story. Florence State had better watch out.

The theme of practice this year for Coach Salls' Gamecocks is, "Defense is the thing, offense is the sting."

SPORTSWISE

By LESTER, Dean of Sports

WELCOME to Jax State! It's September and another year is beginning for students everywhere. And, my fellow students, that includes us. I don't know how all of you feel about it, but I'm looking forward to a great year.

Wouldn't it be wonderful if our football Gamecocks won every game and were invited to a bowl game? Now don't go saying that they are expected to win every game this season. Not every great team has a perfect season. And we certainly have a great team of which to be proud. And that includes Coach Don Salls also.

Another wonderful thing to see would be that bouncing basketball being tossed through the hoop time after time by the fast moving basketball Gamecocks to outscore all opponents. We would be happy to carry Coach Tom Roberson off the floor on our shoulders.

And then if coach Gene Hanson's baseball men could give us the same kind of record, we'd treat them all like kings.

It all sounds like a big dream even though it is possible and it makes winning seem like the most important thing in sports even though it isn't always that way. Whether they win or lose, the students at Jax State will be proud of them because of their great playing and courage.

In Maryland this summer I was able to see a major league baseball game. It was Sunday, Aug. 26, when the New York Yankees clashed with the Baltimore Orioles in Memorial Stadium.

Intramural SPORTS
At Jax State

By LESTER DEAN

Participation in intramural sports here at Jax State has been tremendous in the last few years and should prove to be even greater this year. All students are eligible to take an active part in the intramural

Have you ever considered that intramural sports could have a beneficial effect on scholarship, as unrelated as they seem? Numerous statistical studies have proven that healthful recreation builds up one's en-

Participation in intramural sports here at Jax State has been tremendous in the last few years and should prove to be even greater this year. All students are eligible to take an active part in the intramural program and are encouraged to do so. For the benefit of those who do not know what intramural sports is, any competitive and recreative sport which takes place within the walls of a particular school is considered part of the program and here at Jacksonville we have many different sports in the intramural department.

Coach H. L. Stevenson is director of this fine program. Each year he picks several officials for the games and gives them an intramural scholarship. He also has officials for each event from his intramural laboratory, who receive credit for officiating.

There are many objectives of intramural sports one of which is recreation. This objective is obvious and means that the student can employ his leisure time in a wholesome way. A second objective is social contacts. Participation in group sports is one of the best ways to meet other students from other sections of the state and country. In this way a student can become a better judge of character, develop more self-assurance among others, learn the meaning of loyalty and cooperation, and learn lessons in sportsmanlike conduct.

An important objective is group spirit. Each student receives a feeling of belonging to his team which creates the desire for competition. One objective that is rather obscure is the creation of a permanent interest in sports. If the student who can not be on the varsity teams doesn't have intramural sports, he tends to lose interest in sports. Any physical education student will tell you that everyone should have an interest in sports and recreation. Have you ever considered that intramural sports could have a beneficial effect on scholarship, as unrelated as they seem? Numerous statistical studies have proven that healthful recreation builds up one's energy rather than dissipates it. [Now don't come after me with a hatchet if you don't make A's and B's after participating in intramural sports. But it does help. Honest injun.]

A most important objective is better health. Intramurals can definitely improve one's health and maintain good health. President Kennedy is interested in developing physical fitness among the young people today and intramural sports is part of the answer to his problem.

What are the sports in which you may participate at Jax State? There are many sports and each student is sure to find one for himself. First, in the individual sports, there is tennis, horseshoes, ping pong, the foul shoot, badminton, and the cross country race. The team sports are touch football, basketball, volleyball, softball, and a new sport to be added this year, flickerball.

Teams are organized through the interest and initiative of any student or students who wish to organize a team. Now is the time to begin organization of teams for touch football which will begin very soon. If you wish to play it is very easy to find a team to join or, better yet, you can organize one of your own.

There are two bulletin boards which have the dates of entry and will have the schedules posted on them—one is on the first floor of Graves Hall and the other is in the physical education building. Also each issue of the COLLEGIAN will contain notices and news of intramural sports, on this page.

See you on the intramural field.

great playing and courage.

In Maryland this summer I was able to see a major league baseball game. It was Sunday, Aug. 26, when the New York Yankees clashed with the Baltimore Orioles in Memorial Stadium for the fifth game in a five game series. Surprisingly, the Orioles had beaten the Yankees in the first four games. Surely the Yankees couldn't let this happen a fifth time - but they did.

In the second inning, Tony Kubek of the Yankees hit a home run, and in the same inning Brooks Robinson of the Orioles hit a home run. In the fourth inning, James Gentile of Baltimore hit another home run. Those were the only scores of the game and the great Yankees looked mighty poor.

It was a delight to be able to attend a major league game. This was the second one for me. In 1958 the Milwaukee Braves played against the St. Louis Cardinals at St. Louis under my intent gaze.

Remember some of the great sports events which happened about this time last year? The Olympics ended in Rome, Sept. 11. The top 3 nations out of 44 competing were: 1, Soviet Union; 2, United States; 3, Italy. Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle were coming close to defeating Babe Ruth's home run record with Roger ahead of Mickey by just a few home runs. The New York Yankees practically had the American League pennant cinched while Pittsburgh, Milwaukee, and St. Louis were battling neck and neck for first place in the National League.

And of course Jacksonville was beginning another year. The leather was popping and the pigskin was flying as football season was getting under way.

And great big Hal "Basket" Hays was giving the students a complete coverage of J'ville the sports field, and is a subject of many a conversation among opposing student bodies because of its unusual pep club. Loyalty is a common by-product of the campus, and the loyalty and devotion to the fighting Gamecocks is a permanent and inevitable thing for anyone who spends a little time here. Each homecoming Paul Snow Stadium is packed with alumni who still get a little sting of the heart when they hear our distinctive alma mater. The success of the players, many times, depends on pure incentive to win, and that incentive is derived from the support of the student body.

The position of fan is very possible, cheer with the leaders, "talk-up" J'ville to anyone who will listen—then our games, win or lose, will be successful. Cooperate with those who promote loyalty stunts, and keep thinking, "My name is on the roll. I am a Gamecock." Then, act like it.

Elected to lead the cheering and to generally support the advertisement of the many assets of Jax State are the following eight yelling, and hardworking, guys and gals:

Sherry Styles, an energetic junior from Trion, Ga., an English major; Linda Casey, who goes to school in her hometown, a junior majoring in home eco-education major, a junior from Irondale.

The business department gives us three of its majors: Larry Crowder, an active junior from Glencoe; Charles Houston, better known as "Sam", a senior from Lipscomb; and a little pack of dynamite, Paul Bain, a senior from Gadsden; Johnny Elkins, a friendly physical education major and senior is from Tallapoosa, Ga..

These Gamecocks have their feathers ruffled and their teeth sharpened ready to fight to win—at least with their vocal chords. They dare you to join them in making this the most spirit-filled season yet.

CLOSED WEEKEND

Make your plans now to be on campus the weekend of Sept. 15. Jacksonville Gamecocks meet the Florence eleven, and all students must remain on campus, attend the game, and assist in the sporting slaughter that is sure to take place.

No Rat will be allowed to crawl or gnaw his way off the Jax green and any upper-classman who does will be socially ostracized the remainder of the semester.
