Under The Chimes

By Bobby Clotfelter

Amidst the chaos of the recent registration, a $100 check was found by a trustworthy Jax State student. He turned it over to the authorities, and immediately a search was initiated to find its rightful owner, who probably was in a state of shock. The check was made out to Jacksonville State College for tuition, was drawn on a reputable bank, was signed, dated, and endorsed. After a short period of about two hours, the check came to a halt, and the investigating authority was amazed when a young lady showed up as an entering freshman presented this story: "There is no such person as the name on that check. I don't know where I lost it, but it's not good. My mother wrote it this morning to show me the proper way to write a check." She added, "Now, if you will excuse me, I must finish taking my Personality Test...."

Undoubtedly, one of our librarians had a most intellectual meal recently. In the quiet hours of the night, she found herself in the quadrangle of this Institute higher learning, right in front of the library. Early one morning, this noted lady was observed as she slowly gathered a "mess" of turnip greens. No one seems to know how this luxurious crop originated, but it is unique. If you observe closely, you will also see four healthy stalks of young, tender corn. Perhaps someone is trying to hint to the administration that they would like to see how this luxurious crop is grown.

The Editor Speaks

The job of editor of the school newspaper for one of the South's finest, fastest growing colleges is a job with quite a lot of responsibility. An editor should be able to discern what is news and newsworthy from that which is not; he should try to surround himself with the most capable people available in order to be certain that their articles are both relevant and fitting; he must work to make those in the student body who are potential capable staff members realize that a school paper belongs not to the staff, not to the student body, not to the administration, but to a conglomeration of the three.

An editor of a school paper must be able to have the courage to speak out on an issue that demands a champion or a situation which must be recognized, modified, or abolished. He must have the wisdom to know when to keep silent on a problem which is best left undiscussed or an area which might cause undue contention between any of the conglomerate groups of staff, student, and faculty. An editor must be willing to take a stand on a common issue from which will not retreat and cannot compromise. He must be willing to listen to those wiser and give each more thought and careful consideration before taking any definite action. An editor must have patience to keep his sanity and be a little insensitive to be patient. The role of the school paper should be to inform, instruct, entertain, admonish, and produce thought in its readers. The over-all purpose of a school paper should be to serve as a true representative voice of the amalgam of student, paper staff, and administration. To be a true representative voice, a paper must produce stories in the student, produce the respect of and for the faculty, and administration, and produce newsworthiness from work from the students.

The role of the student thus become a partner with the Great Restorer!" "Service is the principal commodity of our day, and the greatest need is for re-galmen who can mind not only the gadgets upon which we have come to depend, but damaged lives and other ill of our civilization. "Life is full of damaged things, and strength for service is the great need of the day. Most professional men

Human Values Stressed At May Graduation

Graduation of 234 seniors, Sunday, May 30, was marked by two ceremonies—the commissioning of 20 graduating ROTC cadets as second lieutenants in the U. S. Army, and the awarding of degrees to 234 candidates.

First the commissioning ceremony took place at 1 p.m., in the new small auditorium with Dr. Houston Cole, president of the college, making the commissioning speech.

The Editor Speaks

The job of editor of the school newspaper for one of the South's finest, fastest growing colleges is a job with quite a lot of responsibility. An editor should be able to discern what is news and newsworthy from that which is not; he should try to surround himself with the most capable people available in order to be certain that their articles are both relevant and fitting; he must work to make those in the student body who are potential capable staff members realize that a school paper belongs not to the staff, not to the student body, not to the administration, but to a conglomeration of the three.

An editor of a school paper must be able to have the courage to speak out on an issue that demands a champion or a situation which must be recognized, modified, or abolished. He must have the wisdom to know when to keep silent on a problem which is best left undiscussed or an area which might cause undue contention between any of the conglomerate groups of staff, student, and faculty. An editor must be willing to take a stand on a common issue from which will not retreat and cannot compromise. He must be willing to listen to those wiser and give each more thought and careful consideration before taking any definite action. An editor must have patience to keep his sanity and be a little insensitive to be patient. The role of the school paper should be to inform, instruct, entertain, admonish, and produce thought in its readers. The over-all purpose of a school paper should be to serve as a true representative voice of the amalgam of student, paper staff, and administration. To be a true representative voice, a paper must produce stories in the student, produce the respect of and for the faculty, and administration, and produce newsworthiness from work from the students.

The role of the student thus become a partner with the Great Restorer!" "Service is the principal commodity of our day, and the greatest need is for re-galmen who can mind not only the gadgets upon which we have come to depend, but damaged lives and other ill of our civilization. "Life is full of damaged things, and strength for service is the great need of the day. Most professional men

Human Values Stressed At May Graduation

Graduation of 234 seniors, Sunday, May 30, was marked by two ceremonies—the commissioning of 20 graduating ROTC cadets as second lieutenants in the U. S. Army, and the awarding of degrees to 234 candidates.

The commissioning ceremony took place at 1 p.m., in the new small auditorium with Dr. Houston Cole, president of the college, making the commissioning speech.

Registration Completed; Classes Now Underway

The summer session got under way on Monday, June 7, with registration, and classes started on Wednesday. Several hundred entering freshmen arrived for orientation and tests, and dances and a reception were given to help them become acquainted.

The eight-week undergraduate term will run six days a week and will end on Friday, July 30, with graduation exercises. The 12-week graduate term will conclude on August 21.

The enrollment is up considerably for the summer, as compared with recent years. Although official figures have not been released, Dean Lawrence R. Miles had stated that be-
Food Committee Formed

SGA President John Mann advises that a committee composed of the dining hall directors, John S. Stagg, Haywood, the COLLEGIAN editor, John Stagg, and representatives from each class, has been formed for the purpose of making differences between the students and the dining hall, and John Mann will be chairman of this much-needed and awaited committee.

Students are to bring complaints and suggestions to their class representatives, who will bring them before the committee. The purpose of this committee is to improve communication between the students, the dining hall, and the students, an opportunity to have their views aired.

Letters To Lily

Dear Lily,

I am a new freshman here at JSC. I blame it on the fact that I am a beauty queen and I have often been told that I was quite attractive. Despite the fact that I have a nice figure and a pretty face, I am shyer than a mouse and find it hard to meet people.

Seniors receiving their commissions and the branch of service to which they were assigned are as follows:

1. Distinguished Military Student
   - Ronald E. Adams, Lancaster, PA, A.C. Arm.
   - Kenneth Allred, Lincoln
   - Kenneth A. Callin
   - Andrew W. Bost, J.M.
   - Ronald S. Sibert, Jacksonville
   - Donald S. Culbert, Trussville
   - Quinton L. Culp, Jacksonville
   - Donald E. Cook, Piedmont
   - Ordnance-Artillery

A luscious, lonely lovely.

Sincerely,
Lilly Restefolc

DAVID L. GABLE

1964. He maintained a scholastic average of 2.61 during his college attendance.

A recipient of the Salt-Lake City and Stanford B. Thomas scholarship established by her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Stephenson, he was a member of the Science Club and Canterbury Club.

David has served as a laboratory assistant in the science department.

Gene Love Presented in Senior Recital

Gene Love of Oxford was presented in his senior trumpet recital on May 6 in the performance center of Mason Hall. He was assisted by James Roberts, Anniston, a piano major.

Gene received his degree on May 30. He had participated in the marching and concert bands, Service Wind Ensemble, directed by David W. W. Walters, and played the processionals and recessional.

Dear Luscious, Lovely Lovely,

This is one thing you can make me immensely popular on the Jacksonville High School campus: Join the COLLEGIAN STAFF.

Sincerely,

Lilly Restefolc

See Editor, Page 4
Our Right To Criticize

From many of our more liberal colleges and universities we often hear a loud and passionate cry for more student freedom, more academic freedom, and a criticism of American policies and traditions. We cannot deny the right of students to criticize, complain, or want more and better things that colleges can offer. But when is this criticism carried too far?

Would classroom discussions, dormitory gossip, or college newspaper articles be carrying criticism too far? We think not. We believe most people would agree that open hostile demonstrations and criticism, directed against American Policy throughout the world—actions that bring individuals and their schools in an unfavorable light, would be carrying criticism too far. Here, I am referring to the University of California at Berkeley, where so-called "pseudo" intellectuals demonstrate against United States intervention in Viet Nam and for freedom of speech that involves open vulgarity; to a certain university in New York where students openly booed President Johnson's personal ambassador, Averell Harriman, during a foreign policy speech concerning Viet Nam; and to our college "beardsly" visitors that participated in the Selma Freedom March.

The First Amendment to the Constitution guarantees freedom of speech, press, religion, assembly, and petition; but does this amendment grant college students, or any other American the right to criticize or degrade policies, instituted by duly-elected officials, to the point of causing an unfavorable impression of themselves, or the right to openly degrade an institution they have freely elected to attend? We think not. Would these students be willing to die for their cause as the American soldier does in Viet Nam, or would they try attaining academic excellence thereby improving themselves and their institutions. We think not. These students should remember that the right to criticize ends when another individual's freedom begins, and that negative action initiates favorable results.

Remember Dear "Old" Dad

I believe that the majority of Alabama citizens welcome these newsmen and agree with the purpose of their visit. The State of Alabama does have a bad image. The question is, did we the citizens of the state cause this poor image, or was this poor image caused by a distortion of the news from the national press? We hope the newsmen found their answer.

By Cary D. Allen

Alabama's Image

In the last few days Alabama has had the pleasure of welcoming various representatives of the press from throughout the nation. These visiting newsmen were the guests of Alabama's Governor, George C. Wallace.

The newsmen were allowed to travel freely over the state, to visit and talk with anyone they desired. The group met with Gov. Wallace and state officials, and visited the cities of Montgomery, Selma, Birmingham, Huntsville, and other points of interest in the state.

According to Gov. Wallace the purpose of the newsmen's visit was to give them a firsthand look at Alabama and see "what makes the state tick". We believe that the majority of Alabama citizens welcome these newsmen and agree with the purpose of their visit.

The State of Alabama does have a bad image. The question is, did we the citizens of the state cause this poor image, or was this poor image caused by a distortion of the news from the national press? We hope the newsmen found their answer.

By Cary D. Allen

Letter To The Editor

Dear Students:

We would like to call your attention to the continuing problem of persons cutting in line in front of friends in the cafeteria as well as other lines. As college students, this behavior shows a degree of unwillingness to obey college regulations. In fact, the problem has increased during the past semester to the point where action has been taken by the SGA in cases of refusal to pay the fine. If your name is turned in for cutting in line at a meal, you will receive a notice from the SGA. This notice clearly states that you must pay $1.00 within the next 10 days. If you do not pay the fine before the limit is up, you will be sent a statement for $2.00. If you neglect to pay that, you will be called before the Honor Council for disciplinary action.

By Carl D. Allen
for the many things dear old dad in your little self-conscious mind, wherewithal. basket weaving or twisting. represents, remember father with know you can use yourself. What present, what ?it, what those saccharine, sentiment a1 least on this day. But what? charged. And stay away from that will give him pleasure--at gift you buy is paid for, not some meaningful gift or gesture Needless to add, make sure any words can convey the Thanks, card goodies dripping with the problem, remember not to why not just let poor old pop "Vogue", do-it-yourself barbe- a wonderful, what an unusual cue or swimming pool kits, or Sunday that would be1 Can you recordings by the Beach Boys, gift any kind of "you-do-it" project; think of a better Father's Day another, that, wow, you may not talked-about, written-about and in the Speaking Our column a person. is a great fascination with evil today - - people go around swearing notice in one way or thinking, that, wow, you may not know it, but I'm a fairly evil person. As a result, no one wants to admit that she is a nice, sweet, wholesome All - American girl any more! Young men believe they must wear thongy sandals and let their hair grow long, and read books on existential- ism, so they won't be taken for timid bourgeoise. But Mr. Wolfe wants to help people like that. He wants to tell

Tom Wolfe Speaks Out In Post

In a recent edition of The Saturday Evening Post, Tom Wolfe, "probably today's most talked-about, written-about and controversial journalist", wrote in the Speaking Out column a piece called "Down With Sin.", Mr. Wolfe stated that there is a great fascination with evil today - - people go around swearing notice in one way or talking, that, wow, you may not know it, but I'm a fairly evil person. As a result, no one wants to admit that she is a nice, sweet, wholesome All - American girl any more! Young women must wear thongy sandals and let their hair grow long, and read books on existential- ism, so they won't be taken for timid bourgeoise. But Mr. Wolfe wants to help people like that. He wants to tell

Who Is Keeper Of The Chimes?

The other evening at that mysterious time called twilight, I was taking my daily constitutional walk around the front of Graves Hall. As I was enjoying the quiet peace of that hour, I heard a faint rustling sound in the shrubbery. Thinking it was some small animal, I decided to investigate. As I peered into the shadows, I was surprised to discover a quaint little man, a fraction over three feet tall. From under an old green hat locks of his long white hair fell over his twinkling blue eyes. He had a tiny turned-up nose and a mouth that twitched with a smile because he had been discovered. He was dressed in a green suit that blended with his surroundings, and he wore tiny black shoes that had bright silver buckles and pinned toes. I began hesitantly to talk with him, and he told me that his name was Bernie and that he had worked for years, no one knew what he did. Curious, I asked him what kind of work he did. He looked at me with a twinkle in his eye and a smile playing at his mouth and said, "I'm the keeper of the chimes." Gail Hopper

COMMON DENOMINATOR--These freshmen were beauties of one kind or another at their various high schools, but at JSC they have one thing in common--the rat beanie. Left to right, they are, Glennis Gamble, DAR School beauty; Glenda Hawkins, Goodwater High queen. Gamble, DAR School beauty; Glenda Hawkins, Goodwater High queen; Brenda Parttern, "Miss Oxford High School"; Jackie Houston, Oxford High School class beauty; Elsie Parker, Randolph County High yearbook beauty; Diane McCrrelle, Jack- sonville High class beauty; Glenda Hawkins, Goodwater High queen.
Introducing

Summer-1965

SGA Officers

John Mann
President

This will introduce to you John Mann, president of the Student Government Association, a student majoring in mathematics with a minor in physics, from Cedar Bluff.

His training for this position really began when he was a high school student and served on the Student Council. After entering college, he was elected president of his sophomore class and SGA representative for the junior class.

During his college attendance he has been an active member of the J Club and Circle K. He was No. 2 man on the tennis team the past year and won first place at No. 2 in the ACC. John worked for six semesters in the cafeteria and is now a lab assistant.

A man playing golf one day hit a ball down the fairway. Suddenly the ball hooked to the left and disappeared out of sight. Ten minutes later a man rushed over to the golfer and told him that the ball he hit had crashed through a car windshield, hit and knocked you John Mann, president of the SGA, a sophomore majoring in history with a minor in political science.

He is a member of the Masque and Wig Guild and played an outstanding role in the spring production, "Auntie Mame." He is also affiliated with Circle K.

Tommy has shown unusual leadership in the ROTC and is a cadet platoon sergeant. He is a graduate of Albertville High School and the son of D. L. Monroe.

Mary Jane Baker
Secretary

Mary Jane Baker, secretary of the SGA, is a sophomore majoring in English with a minor in history and home economics. She is a 1962 graduate of Cherokee County High School at Centre where she was also secretary of the Student Council, editor of the yearbook, member of the band, "Who's Who," and salutatorian.

Since coming to Jackson-ville she has been elected secretary of her junior class; vice president of Wesley Foundation, Student NEA, and Kappa Delta Rho; and she is a member of Masque and Wig Sigma Tau Delta and LeoneCole Home Economics Club.

We heard of a butcher who backed into the meat-grinder and got a little behind in his work.

And then there was the inebriated fellow who was arrested for feeding the squirrels in the park. He was feeding them to the lions.

Randall Wolfe
Treasurer

Joe Stahlkuppe
Editor

This is our 1965 summer COLLEGIAN staff. This staff is composed of students acquainted with nearly every facet of JSC life. SGA members, seniors, sophomores, and graduate students are all represented. I believe they are among the most qualified people on campus.

Collegian Staff

With Cary Allen as my associate editor, Selvy Eason handling the sports, Bobby Clothfelter, John Mann and Leon Morrow as special staff writers, our staff is nearly complete. There is one person that the COLLEGIAN staff needs if it is Cary D. Allen, a July graduate, is from Childersburg.

Cary Allen
Assoc. Editor

He majors in physical education and minors in elementary education. A member of the Rangers, Advanced ROTC, and the Scabbard and Blade, Cary anticipates a career in the Army. His leadership ability as associate editor of the COLLEGIAN is easily recognizable as it is in most of the things he does. He is quite happy to identify himself as "gung ho" and he begins each job with a driving, refreshing vitality.

Cary is a person with definite beliefs and views. He knows what he believes, why he believes it and how to why he believes it and how to make it believable. Military history, world affairs, and current events are among his favorite subjects. Patriotism, freedom, and the American ideal are among his favorite themes.

As editor of the COLLEGIAN, I feel that I have to be an ultimate success--YOU.

Why don't YOU come to our next meeting, Monday, June 14, 7 p.m., in Room 105 in Bibb Graves Hall?

Joe Stahlkuppe, Editor

Selvy Eason
Sports Editor

Selvy Eason, a sophomore from Lees, is the COLLEGIAN's new sports editor. Majoring in business and minoring in English, he has shown great ability as a sports writer and has a marked interest in athletics at JSC.

In high school, Selvy proved himself to be quite outstanding. He was elected "Mr. Leeds High School" and president of the student council. He was business editor of the annual and worked, as an assistant counselor.

Selvy is a diligent, hard worker who always does his job well. His writing ability, knowledge of and interest in sports make him a very valuable asset to the COLLEGIAN staff. We are proud to have Selvy working with us and are certain that he is a definite addition to the COLLEGIAN staff.
out of sight. Ten minutes later a man rushed over to the golfer and told him that the ball he hit had crashed through a car windshield, hit and knocked out the man driving the car, the car crashed into a house, the house caught fire, and six people were killed.

"What should I do?" asked the golfer. "Don't bend your wrist when you swing," the man replied.

Definition of a college man: one who can't count up to 70 without cracking a smile.

And then there was the inebriated fellow who was arrested for feeding the squirrels in the park. He was feeding them to the lions.

"Hey, wait a minute! there's a fly in my soup!"

"Ah, Monseur is mistaken, ze in zo soup is not a flyin it's a vitamin beef!"

Found on summer registration card of freshman student: Name of Parents--Mommy and Daddy, and also active in the Baptist Student Union.

Joe Stahlkuppe,
Editor

Notice

The COLLEGIAN invites faculty and administration members, as well as students, to join our rapidly growing staff.

JSC Sports

SHELLEY EASON

What To Expect On Sports Page

Producing a sports page that will interest those who read it is a task that calls for a great deal of thought. One may mull, scratch his dandruff and re-edit for hours without being sure that his readers will be pleased.

Thus, the staff of the Collegian feels that it must turn to the coaching staff for a great deal of thought. Articles on the national scene also may occasionally appear in the Collegian. However, such articles will not appear if they will prevent the printing of news that happens at Jacksonville.

Here is what to look for in the Collegian as far as sports are concerned. Again, let us invite you to make comments and suggestions. Suggestions, especially, would be a blessing.

Notice

Anyone interested in being a sports writer on the Collegian staff is invited to come by the Collegian office or contact Selvy Eason, sports editor, 233 Luttrell Hall.
No Tennis Court Lights

made when the courts were laid with asphalt. Now, to make the courts more useful to college people, proper light-fitting facilities need to be provided for night use.

Many people would like to use the courts but find it almost impossible. Several times students have had to wait for couples to leave, then it was usually dark and they couldn't play. With the installation of lights, more people would have been afforded the use of the tennis courts. At present the courts provide one of the best means to spend leisure time on campus. And, certainly students could be even more appreciative of this extra service.

After noting the large number of people interested in playing tennis, it seems a shame that more people can't enjoy this sport. A great stride forward was

Courtesies

Courtesies are the one medium of exchange which is accepted at par value by the best people of every country on the globe. It is sentiment cloaked in reason and business-like expression. It is the embellishment which adds tone and harmony to our common-of-fact routine. It is the oil which lubricates the machinery of commercial good-fellowship, and promotes the smooth running of the many units of an organization.

Courtesies radiates a spirit of good feeling which assures us that we are not working entirely for what we get out of work in a material way, but for the pleasure of polite transaction and friendly association as well.

Life is not too short, and we are never too busy to be courteous. No man is too big to be courteous, but some are too little.