JACKSONVILLE STATE COLLEGE, MONDAY, FEBRUARY 21, 1966

New Men's Dorm Named For Dixon

DIXON HALL--The new men's dormitory, soon to be finished, is to be called Dixon Hall after former Alabama Governor Frank Dixon.

The newest men's dormitory at Jacksonville State College will be named Frank Dixon Hall, in memory of the late Gov. Frank Dixon, according to Dr. Houston Cole, president of the college. The State Board of Education authorized naming of the building at a recent session.

Gov. Dixon, who died a few months ago, served in Alabama's highest elective office from 1938 to 1942. He is credited with many achievements during his administration but two of his outstanding accomplishments are the State Merit System and the Pardon and Parole System, which were removed from politics by setting up state boards.

Dr. Cole stated that dedication ceremonies will be held upon completion of the new building, probably in August, when the new structure will be officially named.

Jacksonville State will be the first college to honor Gov. Dixon by naming a building for him. Several former governors and a number of distinguished Alabamians have been memorialized on state campuses but Dixon Hall

Jax State Host SAEA Convention

Members of the Alabama Student Education meeting in state convention at Jacksonville State College this weekend heard two stirring challenges for schools from men in widely - different fields of instruction.

"Some basic, obvious general opinions are emerging from all the turmoil through which we have passed recently," Dr. Crews stated.

Shall We Let Greeks In?

When a school such as Jacksonville has 66% of its students leave campus on the weekends, one begins to wonder exactly what the students feel is lacking in the school. Many people say Jacksonville should have social sororities and fraternities. How many people think so?

tions are to orientate freshmen, to meet people, and to "take the load off the SGA." It is interesting to note that 8.1% of the girls said that a college should educate a person socially as well as mentally and that one does not come to college merely to get an education, but to learn how to live with it.

reason was not given at all from the boys. A point clearly brought out by the girls (7.9%) and the boys (29.3%) is that Jacksonville is not yet ready for sororities and fraternities and the students need to realize many things before these clubs are formed. So, the above varied reasons represent by more weekend heard two stirring challenges for schools from men in widely-different fields of instruction.

Dr. Alton Crews, superintendent of Huntsville City Schools, told the group assembled for a banquet Friday night that as attention was focused on education with the advent of Sputnik and recent technological discoveries, the scene has shifted today to spotlight the domestic scene--from technological to sociological.

"This is our greatest challenge", he declared. "Issues will either be solved or fail in the classroom."

He listed the problems as the logical, orderly assimilation into the main-stream of our culture; the effect of great affluence; and the alarming increase of crime and decline of moral standards.

He recommended that school systems must develop strong forward thrusts and fit the funds now available into from all the turmoil through which we have passed recently," Dr. Crews stated. "People are saying all legal barriers must be removed that would keep anyone from being a full citizen; the vast majority oppose preferential treatment for minority groups; methods employed by minority groups to gain ends unacceptable to the people are a mockery to democracy, law and order."

He concluded by telling the prospective young educators that "schools do not stand in isolation but at the heart of any great social change."

Forrester Rites Held

Funeral services for Mrs. Christine Duncan Forrester were held Saturday morning at Elyton Baptist Church in Birmingham. Mrs. Forrester died Thursday at St. Vincent's Hospital following an extended illness. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Duncan of 461 16th Ave. S., Birmingham.

Mrs. Forrester, a former member of the Jacksonville Chapter of the S.A.E.A., will be buried at the Jacksonville Memorial Park. See Rites, Page 3

Jacksonville should have social sororities and fraternities. How many people think so?

This is what the COLLEGIAN set out to find in a poll taken among 100 men and 100 women students. Statistics show that 74% of the boys and 37% of the girls are in favor of sororities and fraternities.

Of those questioned, the most frequent reason given in support of these clubs was to have more social activities, thereby, creating a more well-rounded social life. The boys (58.4%) gave this reason more often than did the girls (54.1%).

One girl expressed her opinion by saying, "every college should have a social life and the only social life we have here is not permitted."

Thinking in terms of progress, 21.6% of the girls said that Jacksonville is a growing college and fraternities and sororities should occupy a rightful place. They also pointed out that fraternities and sororities would alleviate housing and parking problems, as well as the need for new dining room facilities.

The second reason given by 19.1% of the boys was that fraternities and sororities would enlarge the student body as well as lend prestige to the school by, as one boy said, "attracting people of higher caliber."

There are 10.8% of the girls and 12.1% of the boys who feel that sororities and fraternities would result in more school unity. These people said, too, that these clubs would be in competition with each other thereby creating a school spirit comparable to that of the larger universities.

Adding up the figures, it is clear that 86.5% of the girls and 89.6% of the boys, in favor of sororities and fraternities, are so because of additional social life, school growth and creation of school spirit.

The miscellaneous reasons in favor of such organizamentally and that one does not come to college merely to get an education, but to learn how to live with his fellowman.

And what about the negative side of it? Well, girls (23.8%) and boys (29.4%) both agree that it would break down the basic equality each Jacksonville student has into class distinction. And 14.3% of the girls go even further to say that sororities and fraternities would create snobs and cliques. In this general reasoning, 9.6% of the girls say that Jacksonville would lose its reputation as "the friendliest campus of the south." Another 14.3% of the girls say that such clubs are too expensive, but this dents need to realize many things before these clubs are formed. So, the above varied reasons represent, by more than half, the arguments against these social clubs.

There are 17.7% of the boys who do not like what they have either seen or heard, or feel that sororities and fraternities do not serve a purpose. To agree with them are 15.8% of the girls who say that these organizations would lower school standards and promote immorality. Oddly enough, there are 4.8% of the girls who are satisfied with Jacksonville as it is and 9% of the boys remained neutral.

FABULOUS FORMAL FARES FANTASTICALLY

Race Rushes Rapidly

The COLLEGIAN now has a little more concrete information about the upcoming political contest. It is now almost definite that Randy Wolfe will run, although some sources say he may drop out to handle other irons which he has in the fire. Phil McMahan seems to be continuing his idea of running. He has chosen old campus politico, Jimmy Purcell, as his campaign manager. Jack Sanford has formally announced his intention to run. He will have Bill Hodges as one of his campaign managers. Tommy Monroe is still being pressured by several factions to run, but he still has made no definite decision. Proposed "dark horse,"

Taylor Hardy, maintains that he is not running, but there is talk that he is just biding his time.

From all indications this should be a "battle royale" between these boys. There has been much preparation even at this early date. The COLLEGIAN has heard that there are going to be some pretty rough tactics, mud slinging, and all the other things which make politics so fascinating.

The election is still a long way off, but the COLLEGIAN urges readers to study the candidates and issues carefully, watch how campaigns are run and then to make their choice as to whom they want for next year's SGA president.

Collegian Adopts New Policy

The COLLEGIAN, in light of the past few weeks, has decided to adopt an entirely new editorial policy. There has been much discussion, debate, and dissention within student ranks recently. The letters to the editor in the last few issues are significant of this.

Many students have asked why doesn't the COLLEGIAN come out for or against certain rules, practices, or policies of the school, town, certain organizations or groups. In the past, due to various reasons, the COLLEGIAN has declined involvement in certain issues, and problems. Given careful consideration, the COLLEGIAN has come to the conclusion that we need a new policy in this area.

Our first idea was to become partisan and actively engage in the attacking or defending of certain points of view. After further perusal of all the facts involved the COLLEGIAN decided on a modification. After a discussion with Dean Theron E. Montgomery, the COLLEGIAN decided that we would try to pinpoint certain problems which the students feel are important, print these problems along with an answer from the proper school authority. Then those who wished to express their views concerning the issue or problem involved could do so by writing a letter for the next issue. In this manner the administration can have an accurate idea of how the students feel about certain things, and the students can have the policy of the school in the respective area under review. Before any arbitration or debate can begin both sides should find out the exact stand of the other.

Most students have gripes that they would like to offer, and this is a logical opportunity to have views aired and possible conflicts settled. As a start in this proposed policy, Mr. James Haywood of the dining hall has graciously consented to answer any questions that the COLLEGIAN will put to him. If you have legitimate questions or constructive suggestions, it is up to you to place them in the COLLEGIAN Suggestion Box in the Grab.

Answer To The Green Berets

With the Viet Nam war continuing on with severity, one hears much about the Special Forces which serve in this troubled area. Immortalized in word, legend, and song, "those brave men in the green berets" have a type of counterpart here at Jacksonville State. Instead of green berets, their counterparts wear the red berets. They are members of the 10th Alabama Volunteers, Ranger Company.

Rangers go through strenuous training consisting of physical exercise, hand to hand combat, battle preparatory study, and how to be an effective leader. Before any cadet can wear the coveted red beret, he must successfully pass examinations in these areas.

Several times each semester the Rangers are able to participate in actual field-training exercises. These exercises are to give experience in the field, and an opportunity to become acquainted with weapons handling, realistic combat conditions, and effective leadership.

Ranger commanding officer, Cadet Capt. Morgan Bush would be interested in talking to anyone to whom a group like the ranger company would appeal. He lives in Crow Hall.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

In the last issue of the COLLEGIAN two important questions were brought to the attention of the students. In this issue two articles dealing with student social life were published. One of the articles dealt with the large number of students who went home on the weekends. The other article concerned Jacksonville's merit as a town in providing entertainment.

Certainly the town was here before the school and it would seem that the city of Jacksonville should tend to cater to the students, especially those who reside in town or on campus. With approximately 3200 students living on campus or in town simple economics would prove them a potential goldmine. This would be especially true on the weekends. However, with the exception of a few suitable restaurants, Jacksonville has little or no recreation or entertainment facilities for JSC students.

Any modern thinking developer interested in making money could provide a bowling alley, a dance hall, a movie theatre, or an indoor swimming pool. Perhaps all the developer would need would be the approval of the city and the school administration.

It is no wonder that the students are either DRIVEN home or to the mountain on the weekends. They simply want a little relief from the monotonous same four walls that they see day after day. It is up to the city, in conjunction, with the school to solve this problem for the student's hands are tied.

--Robert Kline

Dear Mr. Kline:

Thanks so very much for your letter. I am inclined to agree with your basic premise which seems to be that the students are given

On Other Campaigns

Odds and Ends

On Other Campaigns

With the widely varied interest in the SGA presidential race, it would be reasonably safe to say that the man in the second office would probably become an important link in the SGA chain. The COLLEGIAN has heard that several people are thinking about running for the job of vice president of the SGA. Foremost in this race are John Nelson, a commuter from Jacksonville, and David Cory, COLLEGIAN feature editor. Both of these boys are interested in campus politics and the race should be a very good contest.

Only one candidate has announced so far for the position of SGA secretary. She is junior class SGA representative, Judy West. There has been some talk that another junior girl will run, but nothing definite has been revealed.

The job of treasurer has had no formal applicants, but it is understood that a girl is thinking of running for this usually masculine position.

The Truth About The New Dining Hall

Much rumor has gone around about the soon - to - be finished dining hall across London Avenue from Crow Hall. These rumors have stated that the administration is intending to make boys eat in one dining hall and girls eat in the other. If this were the case, many students would be angry and there would probably be some trouble.

In an effort to clarify and define the truth in this situation the COLLEGIAN asked Dr. Cole and Dean

Montgomery what the proposed school policy would be. As we now understand it the dining halls will be on a basis of choice, as far as boys are concerned. The new dining hall will be for boys alone, but the present dining hall will be on a mixed basis. Boys will be able to choose where they would like to eat.

Before anyone gets mad over proposed school plans, he should make sure that he is not just listening to rumor.

Proposed Solution

(Editor's note: In the past the COLLEGIAN has endeavored to report some of the problems that Jacksonville State students must face. We of the COLLEGIAN are offering what we sincerely believe would be a plausible and possible solution to particular problems. We would appreciate any reader's view on these

One of the common campus jokes is the city dump. The city dump, and various other places up the mountain, are convenient parking places for couples who wish to be alone in romantic (?) surroundings. This is quite natural and is probably a very universal problem on most college campuses.

In view of numerous attacks on couples parking in isolated areas, some doubt has been expressed about the safety of the dump and nearby mountain as "lover's lane." It is with this in mind that we offer this solution.

Many large colleges and universities have approached the problem of "lover's lane" parking spots by providing places on the campus for students to park. This is what the COLLEGIAN thinks would be very applicable to Jacksonville State's case: The two parking lots in the front of Graves Hall could be made into a campus parking area. Students having night classes and faculty members could be required to park along the side of Graves facing Ayers Hall. This would only be after 7 p. m. and students who wish to park with their dates in front of Graves after 7 p. m. could do so.

While the COLLEGIAN is not condoning a mass orgy on campus, we do think that if couples want to sit in a parked car with their dates, they should be able to do so under safe conditions.

What do you, the reader, think? Put replies in COLLEGIAN QUESTION BOX in the Grab.

Odds and Ends

One of the truly funny things to happen since the beginning of the semester took place in front of Zuma's Cafe last week. Around midnight, two college students noticed that Officer Word of the Jacksonville Police Department was asleep in the patrol car. These two students sneaked up and stole the officer's hat and badge without waking him up. They then rushed to City Hall and turned in the stolen merchandise, claiming that it had been found.

We were very sorry to hear that senior, Bob Dillinger, his wife, Ann, and their little seven - month - old boy had nearly all their belongings destroyed in a fire last week. Hope everything turns out all right.

Norman Smoake, who graduated here in 1961, is representing Life of Alabama Insurance Co. on the campus, it was learned this week.

He received his degree and was commissioned by the ROTC and served with the army in Germany for three years. Since his return he has been employed by the First National Bank of Jacksonville, a position he resigned to go with Life of Alabama.

He and his wife, the former Joan Roddam, are living at Weaver.

COLLEGIAN staff meetings are held on Monday and Tuesday at 7 p. m. If you have been, or are interested in working on the best school paper that Jacksonville State has, be at one of these meetings.

Thanks so very much for your letter. I am inclined to agree with your basic premise which seems to be that the students are given no reason to stay up on weekends since there is very little for them to do in the way of social activities.

I heard today from a very reliable source that a wealthy banker in the Birmingham area would willingly invest a sum in the area of $1,000,000 in an amusement center for Jacksonville State College students. The hold back seems that he would like to be sure that the investment would be of a profitable nature.

I have the name and address of this man and if I could obtain a large number of names of students, especially from the Jefferson County area, I could see that this gentleman received the names of those who would be willing to support an endeavor such as this.

How about it students? There is a chance that if this banker thought that many students would patronize this center, he would make definite his plans. There will be a petition placed on the bulletin board of each dorm for those who would like to sign. In this manner maybe the students can untie their hands.

Is Jax State Bloodless?

Is Jacksonville State College, her students, faculty, and staff completely bloodless? This would certainly seem the case unless one wanted to attribute the lack of support for the blood drive to the fact that they may be heartless.

A pitiful total of 278 pints was given out of a student body of over 4,000 and a faculty and staff numbering nearly 200. This seems to indicate a serious deficiency, and not in corpuscles either. Didn't the students, faculty, and staff care?

Perhaps this article is probing a vein which should be uncovered. What was the reason for such a poor turnout? Is "The Friendliest Campus in the South" also one of the most selfish? This could be the answer. Let the

Bruno Swings

Gerald Brewer, senior, has shown much initiative and spirit in forming a Booster Club. Gerald, or Bruno, as everyone calls him, is concerned with JSC's image on campus and with the manifestation of school spirit. He does not complain about the attitude of students at games; he leads his section of the stands in cheers.

If Bruno sees a student walking around in a blue funk, he will greet him with a "Hey! Boobool" or one of his hideous noises. As an expert in the almost forgotten art of "ham - bone," Bruno has entertained those who meet in the lobbies of the women's dormitories on the weekends. These people who do not own cars or hail from distant places are always begging Bruno for more.

Bruno takes great pleasure in making us happy here at JSC, and one would have to be a genuine sourpuss not to get a kick from his antics. Bruno is another of the many students who do more than their share.

Reaves Appointed JSC Associate Prof.

James A. Reaves of An - niston has been appointed associate professor of education at Jacksonville State College, according to Dr. Theron E. Montgomery, college dean.

Mr. Reaves will receive the degree of Doctor of Education at the University of Alabama this summer. He has been a graduate research assistant in the department of psychology at the University while working on his doctorate.

He received his BS and MS degrees at Jacksonville State College where he was president of the Student Government Association and was named Outstanding Student of the Year.

His professional experience includes teaching three years at Childersburg High School where he was named Talladega County's outstanding young teacher in 1956; principal of Calhoun County schools at Saks and Coldwater; supervisor of guidance and director of the county schools' material center.

He has served as president of the Calhoun County Teachers Association; secretary - treasurer of the AEA Division of School Principals; and president of the Calhoun County Administrators Association.

He holds membership in three honorary fraternities: Kappa Phi Kappa, Kappa Delta Pi and Phi Delta Kappa.

High school girls who are not planning to go to college are now eligible for training in vocational home economics education in their high schools, Mrs. Carolyn Brown, who heads the federal project in Alabama told home economics majors at Jacksonville State College and county home economics teachers during a visit to the campus this week.

Mrs. Brown was appointed to head the project for the State Department of Education last year and the office was set up in June 1965.

According to the plan, high school girls who cannot go to college because of academic, social - economics, or other handicaps, will be taught skills that will make them employable now and more efficient as homemakers later on. An all - round sportsman is also a fitting description for Sonny, who lettered in three sports.

During his sophomore year he played football; in his junior year he played baseball, and in his senior year he ran track.

In the fall of '62 Sonny entered Jax State where he immediately became active in campus organizations, especially ROTC.

In his freshman year Sonny joined Pershing Rifles and served as squad leader. His sophomore year he served as public relations officer for the PR's and was awarded the Achievement Medal for outstanding work in Pershing Rifles. He was also chosen Cadet of the Month.

Last year, his junior year, Sonny was captain of Pershing Rifles and member of the Rangers. He also became a member of Scabbard and Blade, national military fraternity.

This past summer Sonny went to Fort Bragg, N. C., for ROTC summer camp. He came out third in his platoon and received a medal for expertness in the firing of an M-1 rifle.

Military Science Department Holds ROTC Orientation

Members of the faculty and staff of Jacksonville State received a thorough orientation in the workings of the Military Science Department of the college in a briefing and tour of the department held Tuesday evening, Feb. 3 at the ROTC building. Some 45 members of the faculty and staff toured the facilities of the department beginning with a welcoming talk by Col. George D. Haskins, professor of military science. Col. Haskins described to the visitors the history and objectives of the ROTC program and the position of the program at Jax State. The visitors were then spoken to briefly by each of the ROTC cadet officers who described the subjects taught in the four ROTC, however, isn't Sonny's only interest. He is a lab assistant for the chemistry department and in what little spare time he has, he tutors algebra, French, chemistry, and geometry. On weekends and holidays he works for Sears.

Sonny is majoring in chemistry and minoring in math. He hopes to be either a career officer in the army or a research chemist when he graduates in July. Immediately after graduating he will take a regular army commission in the chemical corps.

When asked for his comments on Jax State Sonny replied, "There is an increase on campus of interest in world affairs prompted by the Viet Nam crisis. I also don't think that the increase in the student body has darkened the title of "The Friendliest College in the South."

Following the briefing, the visitors toured the facilities of the ROTC building with MS IV (senior) cadets serving as guides. MS IV cadets were in each of the class rooms to demonstrate training aids and subject material used in the ROTC instruction. The visitors would up their evening with a reception and refreshments served by the ROTC brigade sponsors.

Hawkins Speaks To The Law Club

The Law Club held its first meeting of the spring semester on Feb. 2. State Senator George Hawkins spoke to the club on labor legislation and politics. He discussed the effects on politics caused by the major labor legislation since 1935.

Concerning the controversial Section 14b, Sen. Hawkins provided a professional outlook for the law - clubbers.

He maintained that the Senate will not repeal the section this year. He reasoned that the New York transit strike placed the unions in an unfavorable light, and because of the strike, the public does not wish to give unions any more power. The reason the unions want the section repealed is because a worker who does not pay the union dues receives the same benefits of union bargaining as paying union members.

The Law Club derived much enlightenment from Sen. Hawkins' talk and is grateful to him for providing the experience. The Law Club meets on the first and third Wednesday of every month, and extends an invitation to anyone who is interested in politics and government to participate in these fine presentations.

able now and more efficient as homemakers later on. They will be trained to work as assistants to trained professionals in child, institutions and food services, and similar jobs.

In the national organization, 25 schools were selected for experimental programs, mostly in the central, northeast and northwest sections of the country. Walter Wellborn High School at Anniston is the only school in Calhoun County at the present time taking advantage of the project.

Mrs. Brown explained that national trends: automation, population explosion, increase in life expectancy, and the need for more specialized occupations are responsible for the program. The fact that less than 2 million of the 12 million high school students receive vocational training pointed up the necessity for preparing more women, particularly, for their dual role in society - employment and homemaking.

Mrs. Brown was assisted by Miss Evelyn Cotney, district FHA adviser.

Under the plan young men at Draper are able to cover a grade in three months or less, and the same techniques are being used to teach vocational skills that prepare them for jobs after their sentences are completed.

Dr. McKee explained that programmed courses are a new educational technology in which learning principles in the laboratory are adapted to human beings.

Basic principles of the technique are motivation and consequences of behavior, immediate reward, and behavior shaping.

Varsity Rifle Team Has Successful Year

The Jax State Varsity Rifle Team has started the second half of what should prove to be a very successful year. The team finished last semester with a fine record of five wins and three losses and has already won two of their three matches for this semester.

Notable victories last semester came on Nov. 20 when Jax State defeated Florence, at Florence, for the first time in six years. This was followed on Jan. 22 with a victory over Auburn (1289-1281) on the Jax State range, the first win against Auburn in four years.

The new semester started on a sour note with the Clemson team coming to Jacksonville and taking away a victory by a score of 1317-1281. Things picked up quickly, though, and on Feb. 5 Tennessee Tech was defeated and on Feb. 12 Jax State defeated Auburn on their home range, 1286-1273.

The team competed this past Saturday in the Alabama inter-collegiate meet at the University of Alabama. Though no results were available at presstime, S/Sgt. Charles R. Phillips, rifle team coach, predicted that "we should come out on top" and went on to add that Jerry Medders, Jax State's top firer this year, had a good chance of being the top man in this match.

Another big event for the team will come March 5 when Jax State hosts the Third Army meet at Fort McClellan.

The schedule for this semester is as follows:

Gamecocks Bounce Choctaws Twice

Jacksonville State Gamecocks got sweet revenge by defeating the Mississippi College Choctaws twice by the scores of 98-81 on Friday night and 98-91 on Saturday night. The Gamecocks were beaten by this same team from Mississippi early in December with scores of 113-112 and 133-123.

This time the Choctaws decided to slow the ball game down and this was fine for the Gamecocks as they turned the Choctaws' mistakes into points and toward the end of the first half the visitors had to play run and shoot to get back in the game. The Gamecocks completely dominated the backboards and this led to the downfall of the Choctaws.

Leading scorer for the Gamecocks was Terry Owens who had 25 points, followed by Bill Jones and Buddy Cornelius with 14 and 12, respectively. For the Choctaws, J. W. Barnes had 26 points, and Joel Boone scored 10 points, all in the second half.

On Saturday night the Choctaws decided to play their slow-down game once again and for the fans who watched the game they saw some beautiful ball control. But ball control does not win ball games and the fine outside shooting of Paul Trammell and Bill Jones enabled the Gamecocks to win their fourth

JSC Needs An Intramural Hall Of Fame

For the past few months several people have approached me on a matter of great concern in JSC sports. These interested individuals have proposed to me the possibility of starting a Hall of Fame for the intramural athletics. After discussing the situation with Coach Stevenson, head of the intramural program, we are both of the idea that such a proposed idea could become a reality.

The only problem in creating such a Hall of Fame would be when the time came to organize and select members for this honor. The questions would arise as to who is eligible and would past members of the Intramural Program be included?

In all fairness to such an arrangement a special provision should be set up to recognize all members of the Intramural Program as a group.

Those who would be eligible would be individuals or teams that have added much to the growth of the intramural program, and whose activities have been outstanding.

In our next issue we will begin making nominations to the hall, and in the meantime let me know what your opinion is about this proposed venture to honor the intramural program and those who have given it such a good name.

International House Holds Activities

The First Presbyterian Church of Gadsden was host to foreign students from the International House on Feb. 12-13 and they were entertained in homes of the members. This is the second year the students have been invited and a number of activities were planned in their honor. The Rev. J. M. Baird is minister of the church.

Today four students, Josefina Ferrada of Chile; Cynthia Lineham of Rome, Ga.; Alain Chandelier of France; and Alois Wiesler of Austria will present an assembly program for the student body at Judson College in Marion. Later they will be guests of the college at lunch and will spend most of the afternoon visiting with Judson students.

Trustees of the International Endowment Foundation will meet on Tuesday, March 1. The meeting will be preceded by dinner and the business session will follow. Officers of the board are as follows:

Ralph Porch, Anniston, chairman; Mrs. A. C. Michaels, Gadsden, vice chairman; Mrs. Dan Waite, Jr., Center, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. W. M. Beck, Fort Payne, chaplain.

The John H. Forney Historical Society will meet on the campus on March 4 with a luncheon at the International House.

Hawks Defeat

Gamecocks 63-60

The Jacksonville State Gamecocks blew a nine-point lead in the final four minutes of the game and were defeated 63-60 by the Shorter Hawks in a game played on Feb. 4 at Stephenson Gym.

Fans who witnessed this game saw two fine defensive ball teams and some fine officiating. The game was a seesaw battle in the first half and the score changed nine times.

The fine shooting of Paul Trammell and the rebounding of Terry Owens and Buddy Cornelius found the Gamecocks trailing by just a single point in the fast moving first half.

The second half saw the Gamecocks continue to dominate the backboards and behind the fine shooting of Bill Jones and Terry Owens they extended their lead to nine points midway in the second half. The Gamecocks held on to their nine point lead up until about four minutes from the finish, when they began to weaken. The Hawks took advantage of the loss of Gamecock Center Buddy Cornelius' height and from this point to the end of the game the visitors outscored the Gamecocks 14 to 2.

As in the Athens game the ability of the visiting team to hit from the free throw line provided the margin of victory. Shorter hit 15-15 for a percentage of 100, while ing ahead twice) but the Gamecocks, led by Bill Jones, Fred Lovvorn, and Terry Owens, refused to stay down.

The first half saw the lead change hands six times and the Bears leading at intermission by just three points, 33-30. During the first half the Gamecocks had to fight from behind and at one time they were seven points down.

The second - half action was just as exciting as the first with the Bears jumping back into a comfortable lead and the Gamecocks having to play catch - up basketball. Trailing 58-51 with four minutes remaining, the combination of Jones and Owens began finding the range. The Gamecocks finally overtook the Bears, 61-60, on Fred Lovvorn's field goal with 4:59 remaining in the game. From there until the end of the regular game the lead changed hands after every shot and with 21 seconds left in the game Owens tied the score 69-69 with a pair of free throws.

From here the Bears played for one shot and with five seconds remaining John Holliday hit a basket and all seemed lost for the Gamecocks. On the toss-in Paul Trammell heaved it the length of the court and big Terry Owens with determination it takes to win the big game, made the basket, sending the game into overtime.

In the overtime the Bears jumped into a quick four point lead but freshman Gary Angel made an important basket and then stole the ball and passed to a fellow teammate for the tying score. With this the Gamecock defense answered the challenge and forced the Bears into several errors. Taking advantage of these mistakes the Gamecocks turned them into baskets for the victory.

Pacing the Gamecock attack was Terry Owens who scored 18 points; Bill Jones and Paul Trammell had 15 each; Fred Lovvorn had 14, and Gary Angel had 8. Both Owens and Cornelius played well on the boards and this was a strong factor in the victory.

The victory gives the Gamecocks sole possession of first place in the ACC and with three conference games remaining, the other teams must now come and get the Gamecocks.

games and the fine outside shooting of Paul Trammell and Bill Jones enabled the Gamecocks to win their fourth game in a row. Of the 46 points the Gamecocks had at half-time Trammell had 14 and Jones, 10. With 6 minutes remaining in the first half the Gamecocks lost Center Terry Owens who was injured when he was accidentally struck in the eye by a finger. From then on to the finish of the game, Buddy Cornelius filled in nicely for the "Big O".

Leading scorers for the losers were Harlan Stanley with 30 points, and J. W. Barnes with 29.

The twin victories gives the Gamecocks an overall record of 13-12, the first time this season that they have been over the .500 mark.

The Gamecocks close out the season with three important ACC games. Two victories in these last three games will give them a tie for the title whereas three wins will give the Gamecocks the crown automatically.

Gamecocks Rip Tigers 104-92

Jacksonville State Gamecocks handed the Livingston State Tigers their second loss between the two schools with a 104-92 victory in a game played at Jacksonville. Pacing the Gamecock attack were Forward Bill Jones who hit for 29 points and Guard Fred Lovvorn who added 27 to the total.

The Gamecocks for the first ten minutes were content to play slow-down ball, but when they saw the Tigers wanted to run, the Gamecocks proved they could run also. The Gamecocks were also able to hit from the free-throw line which helped insure the victory. They hit 22-33 for a 69%. The Gamecocks also hit on 40 of their field goal attempts and coasted to victory.

Behind Jones and Lovvorn in the scoring column were Paul Trammell who had 20, and Terry Owens who scored 17.

Wesley Fellowship News

For the past month the Wesley Fellowship has had programs concerning the organization and history of the Methodist Church and Christian vocations.

The student pastor, the Rev. Bob Miller, spoke on the organization of the Methodist Church. Dr. Allen Stokes, who was to give two talks on Christian vocations, was able to give only one because of illness. The Rev. Mr. Miller filled in for him on the second program.

Mr. William Gilbert, history professor, last week gave an interesting program on the history of the Methodist Church in Alabama. Since he could not cover the subject entirely at one time he probably will be asked to speak again soon.

Mann Selected Track Coach

Mike Mann, star football player at Jacksonville State will begin on a career this spring as he has been selected head track coach at JSC.

Mike said that he already has three meets scheduled and is trying to schedule several more. All boys interested in going out for track this spring please contact Mike.

Morris, and Jackie Lowery will attend the Youth and Alcohol Conference at Camp Sumatanga on Feb. 25-26. Also, on that weekend, all Methodist students are invited to take part in the prayer vigil at the First Methodist Church that will lead up to the week of participation in the conference - wide "Venture in Faith". Guest speaker for that week will be the Rev. Bob Wingard of Panama City, Fla. --G. C.

Tennis Coach Ham Selected

Tommy Ham, who last year was captain and no. 1 man on the JSC tennis team, has been selected as the team's new head coach. Ham replaces Ronnie Harris who is now an instructor at the University of Alabama. As a player Ham held down the no. 1 position for two years and his play in the ACC tournament last year won an important point in the Gamecocks conquest for the conference title.

Ham said that this year's team should be as strong or stronger than last year's team which captured both the ACC tennis championship as well as the tournament title.

The Enforcement Division of the Alabama ABC Board made nearly 4,000 arrests for liquor law violations in 1964.

Gamecocks Smash Falcons 75-63

The Jacksonville State Gamecocks took a giant step toward the Alabama Collegiate Conference throne room with a smashing 75-63 victory over the Alabama College Falcons in a game played at Montevallo on Feb. 15. The Gamecocks received standout performances from all five starters and four of the five hit for double figures.

Terry Owens led all scorers with 22 points; followed by Bill Jones with 21; Buddy Cornelius, 17; Paul Trammell, 10; and Fred Lovvorn rounded out the scoring with 5 points.

The victory gives the fast-charging Gamecocks its fifth victory in a row. If they can win one of the two remaining conference games they will tie for the title. The win gives the Gamecocks a conference record of 8-2, and an overall record of 14-12.

ability of the visiting team to hit from the free throw line provided the margin of victory. Shorter hit 15-15 for a percentage of 100, while the Gamecocks hit 15-23 for a respectable 61%.

The infrequent blowing of the officials whistle made the game more pleasing to the fans, even if the outcome of the game didn't.

Leading scorers for the Gamecocks were Bill Jones with 17, Terry Owens and Paul Trammell with 14 (12 of Trammell's points came in the first half). Terry Owens, leading rebounder of the game, had 20; also Buddy Cornelius had 11 rebounds before leaving the game with four minutes remaining.

Leading scorer for the Shorter Hawks was Dave Simpson who led all scorers with 24 points.

The Gamecocks record for the year is 9-12, with seven games remaining this season.
