New Men’s Dorm Named For Dixon

The newest men’s dormitory at Jacksonville State College will be named Dixon Hall, in memory of the late Gov. Frank Dixon, according to Dr. Houston Cole, president of the college. The State Board of Education authorized naming of the building at a recent session.

Gov. Dixon, who died a few months ago, served in Alabama’s highest elective office from 1938 to 1942. He is credited with many achievements during his administration but two of his outstanding accomplishments are the State Merit System and the Pardon and Parole System, which were removed from politics by setting up state boards.

Dr. Cole stated that dedication ceremonies will be held upon completion of the new building, probabdy in August, when the new structure will be officially named.

Jacksonville State will be the first college to honor Gov. Dixon by naming a building for him. Several former governors and a number of distinguished Alabamians have been memorialized on the campus.

Jax State Host SAEA Convention

Members of the Alabama Student Education meeting in state convention at Jacksonville State College this weekend heard two stirring challenges for schools from men in widely-different fields of instruction.

A total program that will prevent waste and misdirection.

“Some basic, obvious general opinions are emerging from all the turmoil through which we have passed recently,” Dr. Crews stated.

“People are saying that the reason was not given at all from the boys. A point clearly brought out by the girls (7.9%) and the boys (29.5%) is that Jacksonville is not yet ready for sororities and fraternities and the students need to realize many things before these clubs are formed. So, the above varied opinions are to orientate freshmen, to meet people, and to ‘take the load off the SGA.’ It is interesting to note that 8.1% of the girls said that a college should educate a person socially as well as mentally and that one does not come to college merely to get an education, but to learn how to live.”

Jacksonville should have social sororities and fraternities. How many people think that?

This is what the COLLEGE SET OUT to find in a poll taken among 100 men and 100 women students. Statistics show that 74% of the boys and 37% of the girls are in favor of sororities and fraternities. Of those questioned, the most frequent reason given in support of these clubs was to have more social activities, thereby, a more well-rounded college life. The boys (58.4%) gave this reason more often than did the girls (54.1%).

One girl expressed her opinion by saying, 'Every college should have a social life and the only social life we have here is not permitted.'

Thinking in terms of progress, 21.6% of the girls said that "Jacksonville is a growing college and the student body is as the need for new dining room facilities."

The second reason given by 19.7% of the boys was that "fraternities and sororities would alleviate housing and parking problems, as well as the need for new dining room facilities."

There are 10.8% of the girls and 12.1% of the boys who feel that "sororities and fraternities would result in more school unity. These people said that these clubs would be in competition with each other thereby creating a school spirit comparable to that of the largest universities."

Adding up the figures, it is clear that 86.5% of the girls and 80.4% of the boys, in favor of sororities and fraternities, are so because of additional social life, school growth and creation of school spirit.

The miscellaneous reasons in favor of such organiza-

FABULOUS FORMAL FARES FANTASTICALLY
Race Rushes Rapidly

The COLLEGIAN now has a little more concrete information about the upcoming political contest. It is now almost definite that Randy Wolfe will run, although some sources say he may drop out to handle other iron which he has in the forge. Phil McMahan seems to be continuing his idea of running. He has chosen old campus politico, Jimmy Purcell, as his campaign manager. Jack Sanford has formally announced his intention to run. He will have Bill Hodges as one of his campaign managers. Tommy Monroe is still being pressured by several factions to run, but he still has made no definite decision. Proposed "dark horse," Taylor Hardy, maintains that he is not running, but there is talk that he is just biding his time.

From all indications this should be a "battle royale" between these boys. There has been much preparation even at this early date. The COLLEGIAN has heard that there are going to be some pretty rough tactics, mud slinging, and all the other things which make politics so fascinating.

The election is still a long way off, but the COLLEGIAN urges readers to study the candidates and issues carefully, watch how campaigns are run and then to make their choice as to whom they want to vote for next year's SGA president.

Collegian Adopts New Policy

The COLLEGIAN, in light of the past few weeks, has decided to adopt an entirely new editorial policy. There has been much discussion, debate, and discontent within student ranks recently. The letters to the editor in the last few issues are significant of this.

Many students have asked why the COLLEGIAN comes out for or against certain rules, practices, or policies of the school, town, certain organizations or groups. In the past, due to various reasons, the COLLEGIAN has declined involvement in certain issues, and problems. Given careful consideration, the COLLEGIAN has come to the conclusion that we need a new policy in this area.

Our first idea was to become partisan and actively engage in the attacking or defending of certain points of view. After further perusal of all the facts involved the COLLEGIAN decided on a modification. After a discussion with Dean Thomas E. Montgomery, the COLLEGIAN decided that we would try to pinpoint certain problems which the students feel are important, print these problems along with an answer from the proper school authority. Then those who wished to express their views concerning the issue or problem involved could do so by writing a letter for the next issue. In this manner the administration can have an accurate idea of how the students feel about certain things, and the students can have the policy of the school in the respective area under review. Before any arbitration or debate has begun both sides should find out the exact stand of the other.

Most students have gripes that they would like to offer, and this is a logical opportunity to have views aired and possible conflicts settled. As a start in this proposed policy, Mr. James Haywood, dining hall manager, graciously consented to answer any questions that the COLLEGIAN will put to him. If you have legitimate questions or constructive suggestions, it is up to you to place them in the COLLEGIAN Suggestion Box in the Grab.

Answer To The Green Berets

With the Viet Nam war continuing on with severity, one hears much about the Special Forces which serve in this troubled area. Immortalized in word, legend, and song, "those brave men in the green berets" have a type of counterpart here at Jacksonville State. Instead of green berets, their counterparts wear the red berets. They are members of the 10th Alabama Volunteers, Ranger Company.

Rangers go through strenuous training consisting of physical exercise, hand to hand combat, battle preparatory study, and how to be an effective leader. Before any cadet can wear the coveted red beret, he must successfully pass examinations in these areas. Several times each semester the Rangers are able to participate in actual field-training exercises. These exercises are to give experience in the field, and an opportunity to become acquainted with weapons handling, realistic combat conditions, and effective leadership.

Ranger commanding officer, Cadet Capt. Morgan Bush would be interested in talking to anyone who wants to know about the Ranger company. He lives in Crow Hall.

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

In the last issue of the COLLEGIAN two important questions were brought to the attention of the students. In this issue two articles dealing with student life were published. One of the articles dealt with the large number of students who went home on the weekends. The other article concerned Jacksonville's merit as a town in providing entertainment.

Certainly the town was here before the school and it would seem that the city of Jacksonville should tend to cater to the students, especially those who reside in town or on campus. With approximately 3200 students living on campus or in town simple economics would prove them a potential gold-mine. This would be especially true on the weekends. However, with the exception of a few suitable restaurants, Jacksonville has little or no recreation or entertainment facilities for JSC students.

Any modern thinking developer interested in making money could provide a bowling alley, a dance hall, a movie theatre, or an indoor swimming pool. Perhaps all the developer would need would be the approval of the city and the school administration.

It is no wonder that the students are either DRIVEN home or to the mountain on the weekends. They simply want a little relief from the monotonous same four walls that they see day after day. It is up to the city, in conjunction, with the school to solve this problem for the student's hands are tied.

--Robert Kline

Dear Mr. Kline:

Thanks so very much for your letter. I am inclined to agree with your basic premise which seems to be that the students are given
On Other Campaigns

With the widely varied interest in the SGA presidential race, it would be reasonably safe to say that the man in the second office would become an important link in the SGA chain. The COLLEGIAN has heard that several people are thinking about running for the job of vice president of the SGA. Foremost in this race are John Nelson, a commuter from Jacksonville, and David Cory, COLLEGIAN feature editor. Both of these boys are interested in campus politics and the race should be a very good contest.

Only one candidate has announced so far for the position of SGA secretary. She is junior class SGA representative, Judy White. There has been some talk that another junior girl will run, but nothing definite has been revealed.

The job of treasurer has had no formal applicants, but it is understood that a girl is thinking of running for this usually masculine position.

The Truth About The New Dining Hall

Much rumor has gone around about the soon-to-be-finished dining hall across London Avenue from Crow Hall. These rumors have stated that the administration is intending to make boys eat in one dining hall and girls eat in the other. If this were the case, many students would be angry and there would probably be some trouble.

In an effort to clarify and define the truth in this situation, the COLLEGIAN asked Dr. Cole and Dean Montgomery what the proposed school policy would be. As we now understand it, the dining hall will be on a basis of choice, as far as boys are concerned. The new dining hall will be for boys alone, but the present dining hall will be on a mixed basis. Boys will be able to choose where they would like to eat.

Before anyone gets mad over proposed school plans, he should make sure that he is not just listening to rumor.

Proposed Solution

Many large colleges and universities have approached the problem of "lover's lane" parking space by providing places on the campus for students to park. This is what the COLLEGIAN thinks would be very applicable to Jacksonville State's campus. Two parking lots in the front of Graves Hall could be made into a campus parking area. Students having night classes and faculty members could be required to park along the side of Graves facing Ayer's Hall. This would only be after 7 p.m. and students who wish to park with their dates in front of Graves after 7 p.m. could do so.

While the COLLEGIAN is not condoning a mass orgy on campus, we do think that if couples want to sit in a parked car with their dates, they should be able to do so under safe conditions.

What do you, the reader, think? Please send in COLLEGIAN QUESTION BOX in the Grab.

Odds and Ends

One of the truly funny things to happen since the beginning of the semester took place in front of Zooma's Cafe last week. Around midnight, two college students noticed Officer Word of the Jacksonville Police Department was asleep in the patrol car. These two students sneaked up and stole his officer's hat and badge without waking him up. They then rushed to City Hall and turned in the stolen merchandise, claiming that it had been found.

We were very sorry to hear that senior, Bob Dilling, his wife, Ann, and their little seven-month-old boy had nearly all their belongings destroyed in a fire last week. Hope everything turns out all right.

Is Jax State Bloodless?

Is Jacksonville State College, her students, faculty, and staff completely bloodless? This would certainly seem the case unless one wanted to attribute the lack of support for the Mood drive to the fact that they may be heartless.

A pitiful total of 278 pints was given out of a student body of over 4,000 and a faculty and staff numbering nearly 200. This seems to indicate a serious deficiency, and not in corpuses blood from the students, faculty, and staff care.

Perhaps this article is proving a vein which should be uncovered. What was the reason for such a poor turn-out? Is "The Friendliest Campus in the South" also one of the most selfish? This could be the answer. Let the COLLEGIAN CONGRATULATE COP Congratulations to Curtis (Sam Keeshaam) Eaves on the new arrival of another grandaughter.

It is understood that the SGA in connection with the school officials are soon to have a color television in the lounge at the Grab.

Military Science Department Holds ROTC Orientation

Members of the faculty and staff of Jacksonville State recently attended a training program in the workings of the Military Science Department. The department held a tour of the department building on Tuesday evening, Feb. 3. The tour was attended by 45 members of the faculty and 45 members of the department who all took part in the tour.

The visitors were then spoken to briefly by the cadet officers who described the subjects taught in the four years of the ROTC program and the extra-curricular activities conducted by the military science department.

Following the briefing, the visitors toured the facilities of the ROTC building, which includes a drill area, a library, a gym, and a classroom.

JEBB McDougAL

Before coming to JSC, Jeb was employed as a draftsman by the U. S. Army.

Jeb's hobbies include bowling, bridge, reading, and traveling. Of these hobbies, bowling is his favorite. He is a member of the “Club,” national bowling club. This spring he will travel to New Orleans to bowl in a national tournament of the Women's International Bowling Congress.

Jeb has two brothers, Phil and Keith, both of whom also major in aeronautical engineering. Jeb is proud of his senior status at JSC, and is happy to be to majoring in aeronautical engineering.

Last year, Sonny was captain of Pershing Rifles and member of the Rangers. He also became a member of Scabbard and Blade, national military fraternity.

This year, Sonny played football for the school and was named to the All-State team. He was also chosen Cadet of the Month.

Sonny was rewarded for his high scholastic achievements by being tapped a member of the National Honor Society, and he served as vice president of this body this year. He also served as An- niston high's representative to the National Honor So- ciety convention in Hunts- ville.

As a freshman, Sonny was involved in a great variety of activities, and he is also a fitting description for ROTC by the Viet Nam crisis.

Sonny jolmned Pershing Rifles and served as a cadet officer. His freshman year he served as public relations officer for Pershing Rifles, and was awarded the Achievement Medal for outstanding work in Pershing Rifles. He was also chosen Cadet of the Month.

GAMECOCKS BOUNCE CHOCTAWS TWICE

Jacksonville State Gamecocks bounced the Mississippi College Choctaws twice this semester. With scores of 98-91 on Friday night and 98-91 on Saturday night, the Gamecocks were victorious. When appearing in Jacksonville early in December with scores of 113-123, this time the Choc-taws decided to slow down the ball game down and this was fine for the Gamecocks as they turned the three-game series into a two-game series. The Gamecocks completely dominated the Choctaws and this led to the downfall of the Choctaws.

Leading scorer for the Gamecocks was Terry Owens, who had 25 points, followed by John and Buddy Cornells, who scored 14 and 12, respectively. For the Choctaws, Barnes had 26 points, and Clayson scored 10 points, all in the second half.

On Saturday night the Choctaws decided to slow down the Gamecocks once again and lost the game. Despite the loss, the Gamecocks remained on top of the season standings.

For the past few months, many people have approached me on a matter of great concern in JSC sports. I have been asked by some individuals to propose an idea that such a program could become a reality. The idea would be to create a new program for the intramural athletes. After discussing the situation with Coach Steve Gibson, head of the intramural program, we are both of the opinion that such a program is vital. The only problem in creating such a program is the need for some organization and planning.

JSC Needs An Intramural Hall Of Fame

In all fairness to such an arrangement, a special provision should be set up to recognize all members of the intramural program, and the first two years of the program have already been successful. The honorees will be selected by a committee of experienced intramural team members and, when the time comes, the program will be added as a new category in the intramural program.

For the past month the Wesley Fellowship has had programs concerning the organization and history of the Methodist Church and Christian education.

The student pastor, the Rev. Bob Miller, spoke on the organization of the Methodist Church and Dr. Allen Stokes, who was to give two talks on Christian vocations, was able to give only one because of illness. The Rev. Mr. Miller filled in for him on the second program.

Mr. William Gilbert, history professor, last week gave an interesting program on the history of the Methodist Church in Alabama. Since he could not cover the subject entirely at one time he probably will be asked to speak again soon.
