Dr. Houston Cole, president of Jacksonville State, recently announced plans to enlarge and improve the college's academic program.

Announcement of the expansion coincided with acknowledgement by Dr. Cole of a $384,000 federal grant.

The federal government's latest grant brings the total received by the college this year to approximately $2 million for building and work study programs and scholarship grants, Dr. Cole said.

"We are now conforming to pressures of recent years

Missouri Plan affecting court judges.

Mr. Brewer pointed out that the Founding Fathers made provisions for checks and balances in the executive, legislative and judicial branches, but that the court system, in which judges are appointed for life, has no restraints.

"I would like to see Alabama adopt the Missouri Plan which has proved successful in that state. The plan covers judges at all levels of government. They are selected from a list drawn up by a Judicial Commission, and serve for a limited term. At the end of their terms, the people vote on whether or not they will continue. I would like to see some plan worked out in the federal courts, too," he declared.

The Decatur attorney cited examples of the Supreme Court's handing down decisions affecting communists, criminals, pornographic material, prayers, etc., and declared that the people should have the right to approve or

"We are now conforming to pressures of recent years to enlarge and improve the academic program as well as the physical plant of the college," Dr. Cole said.

Enlargement of the college's academic program came as a recommendation from Dean Theron Montgomery and Dean Lawrence Miles, members of an academic committee which asked the college's program be expanded to include master's degrees in three new fields and broadening the educational field to award master's degrees within specialized areas of education.

The new academic program will include a master's degree in business administration, a master's degree in history, English and foreign languages, and a master's degree in mathematics, chemistry and biology.

Dr. Cole said the expansion in the education department affecting communists, criminals, pornographic material, prayers, etc., and declared that the people should have the right to approve or disapprove judges the same as public officials.

Following Mr. Brewer's address, a reception was held in his honor in Mason Hall.

The assembly, the first of the summer session, was held in the Leone Cole Auditorium.

The Rev. Bob Miller gave the invocation; President Houston Cole introduced the speaker; and Jimmy Purcell, SGA president, presided. A choir directed by Bayne Dobbins sang a group of patriotic songs.

ment will allow awarding of master's degrees in guidance and business education.

Dr. Cole explained that the purpose of specialization in the educational department is to better train teachers for the new junior colleges, a changeover from their former training as elementary and high school teachers.

Mr. Grenier outlined briefly his stand on several important issues involving the United States and then subjected himself to a question and answer period from the audience. This session proved very informative to all attending.

Mr. Grenier then stopped by Dean Theron Montgomery's office for a short talk, before carrying his campaign further through Calhoun County.

In the physical plant of the college, Dr. Cole said contracts for the $1,600,000 classroom building, to be constructed on the Martin property across the street from International House, are scheduled to be let Aug. 20.

Contracts for the new Student Commons, to be constructed at a cost of $1,200,000 are scheduled to be let within the next three months. Plans for the library, originally to be constructed at a cost of $1.5 million have been expanded and it is now expected to cost $2.5 million. He said library construction is scheduled for 1967.

Math Concepts Unchanged, Teachers Told

"Modern math" does not necessarily mean that math concepts have changed -- they're hundreds of years old, teachers were told at the math workshop at Jacksonville State College last week. It simply means that times have changed, a different method of teaching arithmetic or math in general is now employed with additional ideas and topics.

Joe Richardson of Winnetka, Ill., who has held workshops at Florence State College and Samford University, conducted the workshop, and demonstrations were given with children from the first six grades.

With the new ideas Mr. Richardson is introducing, teachers learned that many basic concepts of math are so simple that children can understand them and seem to be naturally attuned to math--because it is veiling on pure fantasy.

It was pointed out that one of the best-loved children's books, Alice in Wonderland, was written by a professional mathematician, whose pen name was Lewis Carroll, and much of its fantasy represents abstruse mathematical ideas.

Mr. Richardson says youngsters will discover more than one geometry; number systems instead of a number system; correlation between algebra and geometry; and they will develop a mathematical language that's different, more precise and complete.

And all the time they're not bored -- they are really enjoying themselves.

Ken Kifer Heads Bike for Home

Kenneth Kifer of Gadsden, a senior who has been seeing parts of the U. S. and Canada via bicycle this summer, is now en route home from a tour that covered 3500 miles. He managed to make the trip on a little more than $1.00 per day.

He has kept a diary and has sent back reports to his friends on his experiences as he traveled up through the midwest into central Canada. He covered 720 miles the first 10 days, 117 miles one day, toward his destination of Kenora, Canada. On his 28th day of cycling on King's Highway No. 17 he was in sight of his destination. He found the highway extremely interesting and reported he had "run into everything from first-rate pavement to dirt." He stopped at Lake Nipigon and other scenic spots along his route.

At night he camped by the roadside, and would stop for rest and reading when he was tired. He had difficulty finding good books to read--the most "literacy" being Ian Fleming, Edgar Rice Burroughs and Nero Wolfe, but in Port Arthur he found a copy of Chaucer's poetry, "which seemed fitting to read about his pilgrimage as I go on mine."

Kifer's greatest problem was mosquitoes. Almost every day he reported having them for his constant companions. He also commented on the wild life and natural beauty he saw along the highway: "rock and tree-covered mountains, streams, water falls and lakes; beavers slapping their tails in the water; a wounded bear running across the road on three legs, and a moose half-hidden in the water."

Kifer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul W. Kifer of 1924 Lookout Circle, Gadsden.

Change In Name Important

As Jax State grows larger and more sophisticated, a big problem looms in the not too distant future. The problem is what to name this school when it becomes a university.

As usual the COLLEGIAN has a few ideas and would like to expound on them. Here are some suggestions floating around and our comment on them:

UNIVERSITY OF JACKSONVILLE: This is out because of the University of Jacksonville, Florida.

JACKSONVILLE UNIVERSITY: This is out because there would be too much confusion with the above. Although this would be one of our choices if we had to pick.

UNIVERSITY OF NORTH-EAST ALABAMA: This is definitely out. To begin with the name connotes regional education for this region only. Anyone who has ever been to Jax State knows that this is not true because of the International House Program and other obvious reasons. This name is too restrictive and besides that, we think it sounds ridiculous.

UNIVERSITY OF NORTH ALABAMA: This is out because of the above reasons and also we already have a University of South Alabama that was founded four years ago. That would be forgetting our heritage and would place us on the same level of a much younger school.

ALABAMA STATE UNIVERSITY: This is a good name but not practical because of two reasons: (1) there is already a school in Alabama named this although it is not very large and (2) Alabama College might want to change its name to Alabama University and thus cause a lot of confusion.

JACKSONVILLE STATE UNIVERSITY: Now there is a name that a guy can really appreciate. It has several advantages. First of all, no confusion will result from this name and second, no identity with the city of Jacksonville will be lost. Yet we can still be proud that we graduated from JAX STATE (University).

We are hoping that our humble school will reach that glorious status of a university in the near future and in reaching that goal, we sincerely believe that the present administration will use good judgment in selecting a name.

Some Old Things Made Country

The practical thing we can do, if we really want to make the world over again, is to try out the word "old" for a while. There are some "old" things that made this country.

There is the "old" virtue of religious faith.

There are the "old" virtues of complete integrity, loyalty, and truthfulness.

There is the "old" virtue of incorruptible service and honor in public office.

There are the "old" virtues of economy in government, of self-reliance, thrift, and individual liberty.

There are the "old" virtues of patriotism, real love of country, and willingness to sacrifice for it.

These "old" ideas are very inexpensive. They even would help win hot and cold wars. Some of these "old" things are slipping badly in American life. And if they slip too far, the lights will go out of America, even if we win the hot and cold wars. Think about it.

Drugs Could Be Major Problem

It is alarming to pick up the newspaper each day and find out about some unfortunate person who has come under the influence of LSD. Many articles have been written in newspapers and magazines about this deplorable condition which is sweeping over our college campuses.

These articles place students who take different drugs into three groups: (1) the casually curious, who take a taste and quit; (2) the thrill seekers who will try anything the group takes that will make them feel important; and (3) the group or element that might not take these drugs except they must live in a world of dreams and unreality.

Most college students at one time or another have taken some form of drug commonly known as "bennies, dexies" or other names. These pills enable the student to stay awake and to do some crash studying. If these so call "Pep Pills" can make one high the goof balls are depressants, which are non-addicting, but habit forming. Experts say that if a heavy user is shut off from his supply he may experience withdrawal syndrome similar to that of a heroin addict.

While we are sure such a situation does not exist on this campus, if we are not careful it could become a major problem.

As A Man Thinketh

The happiest people are those who think the most interesting thoughts. Those who decide to use leisure as a means of mental development, who love good music, good books, good pictures, good company, good conversation--what are they? They are the happiest people in the world; and they are not only happy in themselves, they are the cause of happiness in others. - - William Lyon Phelps

"Pints for Patriotism"

I wonder how many people have noticed the nice looking plaque hanging on the wall in the lounge of the Student Union Building.

The plaque was presented to the school by the Birmingham Regional Red Cross Blood Center. The inscription on the plaque reads, "Pints for Patriotism. Presented to Jacksonville State College for Outstanding Service in Providing Blood Donors for the needs of U.S. Armed Forces throughout the world. 1965-1966."

I know that I have never noticed this plaque before, but when I saw it and read the inscription, I was proud to be a student at Jacksonville State. The blood donated by our students may have been the difference between life and death to a soldier in Viet Nam or may have been used for some other emergency. The knowledge that our students acted so unselfishly when called on, makes me continue to believe that the students at Jax State are the best in the entire country.

Logan's Heroes

Throughout all recorded time there have been men who stood out from among their peers because of their abilities. There were the Spartans, Crusaders, Normans, Wearers of the Green Beret, Marines and the best of all today, here at Jax State, the Crew who serve at Foreign Legion outpost Number 22 -- better known as Logan Hall.

These brave men face heat, insects, hard beds, teachers, stuck - up girls, reckless-driving commuters, and Sam, without fear or even hesitation.

What courage! What determination? What stringiness! It only costs $10.00 more to live in that mansion in the sky called "Crow".

The mighty men of Logan are also a little odd besides being handsome, strong, courageous, sexy, modest, and tough as nails. Not only do our heroes of the heat box "sally" forth to meet their classes, but with true Gamecock spirit they advance into danger, excitement, and usually foolishness.

The "Fearless Five", led by Dwight Hope, have gone on numerous crusades into that den of iniquity called "Frog Town". Here in this dangerous arena of misconduct they strike to the very center of activity in that area, a hugh

In developing the educated and complete person that a university attempts to do, many values must be presented to the student and among these must be moral values. Moral values, as history has shown, are a direct carry-over from spiritual foundations.

In saying this, let us take a look at the spiritual opportunities provided at this institution. To begin with, we might say that the administration is concerned with this facet of the student's development because they provide the students with the use of a small chapel (sometimes too small). Also, one week in the spring semester is set aside for the purpose of religious emphasis. And lastly, at all school assemblies there is always recognition made to God by some devotional or invocation.

Our question is this: Is this enough? Is the student "exposed" to enough moral value builders to instill in him the desire to follow these ideals?

There is presently under way a movement to organize all the religious organizations on campus loosely in the form of a council for the purpose of coordinating and promoting more experience for virtue building. This organization would not in any way interfere with the present religious organizations, but would help them accomplish their purpose by giving them a more powerful voice. Also this organization would provide a social activities for the students different to the old standard that the SGA always falls back upon - the dance.

We feel that the time is ripe for this organization not only because of the need for more moral - value builders, but, also because of the duty that we here in the South and in Jacksonville have to uphold fundamental concepts of individual responsibility and goodness. --BC

True And Honest Leaders Needed

The speech made by Albert Brewer on Friday, July 1, had at least three particular points we as college students should consider. For those who went to hear this most distinguished speaker, I would like to refresh your memory; and I shall try to enlighten those who did not go.

Today's attitudes are often called those of extremism, but the American Revolution was motivated by men like Jefferson, Washington, Mason, Henry, and Randolph, Mr. Brewer declared. These men, in 1776, were the extremists, but they were men who had scrutinized their ideas and knew completely the validity of their beliefs. True, their's was open defiance with some mass appeal but this appeal was to reason and intellect not whim and fancy as is so often the case today.

Another point Mr. Brewer emphasized was the importance of education. He called education the "bulwark of liberty". Our educational system is open to every individual and seeks to arouse the merit of him and his mind. Like any system, this system can be improved. Our present educational system also promotes human dignity and seeks to give each person equal opportunity. Equal opportunity results in free enterprise, the principal difference in communism and democracy.

The most important idea Mr. Brewer set forth had to do with our responsibility as leaders. Two percent of the country's total population will obtain a college diploma. These are the people to whom the nation will turn for leadership. Therefore, while we are in college, we must learn as much as we can, for we are truly elite. Also, we should have broad horizons of knowledge. A person who knows only his major subject is of no more use than a high school dropout except in his major. "True and honest" leaders are needed to assure the total progress of the other 98 percent. Hitler led Germany with his promises to the illiterate masses. Similar promises were made to the people of Cuba and China. We must realize, as Mr. Brewer said,

"People are going to follow somebody and it is up to us to give back to society of ourselves in the form of leadership what we have received. The challenge is here for all of us." MM

President Jimmy Purcell called the meeting to order. John McCarver gave the invocation. The roll was called and minutes of the last meeting were read. A correction was made in the minutes in that Jerry Morgan was appointed to the traffic court.

Jimmy Purcell read cheerleader Judy Gwin's letter of resignation to the Senate. He made the announcement that try-outs for one girl alternate and one boy alternate would be held at the end of summer semester. If there are any vacancies then, try-outs will be held the first of September. Gloria Connell has enrolled at Alabama College. If she has two B's transferred, she will be cheerleader this fall.

It was announced that we would eat picnic style this Friday evening, June 24. The "Shantels" from Gadsden will play for this event.

Jane Reynolds, dorm representative, said that Mrs. Fagan has agreed to give a dance jointly with Weatherly Hall. This will be cleared and made more definite later.

Nominations were made for MC's for the talent show. It was voted to have all three nominations. The MC's will be: Ray Norris, Janice Boyd, and Sharon Crisler. It was announced that President Philip McMahan had signed a contract with Herf-Jones for class rings.

The meeting was then adjourned.

President Jimmy Purcell called the meeting to order. Jimmy Sparks gave the invocation. The roll was called and minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. It was noted in the minutes that the Herf-Jones Company, which has been frequently mentioned, is now the John Roberts Company in Norman, Okla. Judy West gave the financial report as follows: Balance June 17-$797.03; deposits-$891.34; expenditures-$583.61; balance-$977.09.

Jerry Morgan read a telegram from John Patterson, senior class president. The telegram advised all students to wait until this fall to order their class rings.

It was announced that the talent show will be on Wednesday, July 6. Rehearsal dates were also announced.

Purcell announced that the SGA would meet on Thursday nights only if deemed necessary during the remaining den or iniquity called "Frog Town". Here in this dangerous arena of misconduct they strike to the very center of activity in that area, a huge enemy complex known as "Morgan's General Merchandise."

Rigorous physical training of the Logan guerilla fighters has taken its toll. Tommy Maxwell, fearless big-game hunter, was seriously injured in the ankle (just above the cerebrum) while on a biology embalming expedition, and required medical care.

Many men have failed to survive the rigors of Logan and have broken under the strains and moved out. "Friar Tuck" was almost convinced to move when a four-foot long snake appeared (alive) in his bed. (Genus - Snakeus Troytounus)

The strain is terrific. That man of iron endurance, Dwight Hope, has been known to have peculiar dreams, while Robert the Smith has been devoting his talents to conjuring up ghosts. He enters his trance promptly at 9 p.m.

The extended maneuvers on the mountain (without girls) ending up beyond Piedmont; the secret love affair of Jerry McAbee with the girl at Morgan's General Merchandise; the snow cones; the anti-snakebite fluid (standard issue for biology field trips); and a terrific softball team coached by Kenny Griffin and Jimmy Sparks, hail Logan as the greatest of all Jax State organizations. Senior Spotlight

MARY VIRGINIA RYAN

This edition's Senior Spotlight shines on Mary Virginia Ryan of Gunterville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Ryan and a 1962 graduate of Marshall County High School, where she stood third academically in her class. While in high school, she served as cheerleader for two years, was a member of the Beta Club and Student Government Association, and was active in various other school organizations. Mary Virginia ("Ginger"), as she is known to her friends, works in the business office. She began working in 1964 and will continue until July when she will receive a BS degree with a major in secretarial science and a minor in English and economics.

Being a resident of Gunterville, her favorite pastime is swimming boating and skiing. She also enjoys horseback riding and all other outdoor activities.

When asked her impression of Jax State she remarked, "Jax State is truly the friendliest campus in the south! All the students are kind and courteous. I only hope that this friendliness will continue throughout the years."

STEVE ELLARD

This issue our Senior Spotlight shines on Steve Ellard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kent Ellard of Ragland. Steve is a graduate of Ragland High where he excelled in all sports.

He will receive a BS degree in secondary education in July with a major in physical education and a minor in history. In September Steve plans to continue his studies here at Jax State, working toward his master's degree.

Steve has served as the president of the PE Majors Club and has been a member of the college tennis team for three years. While playing on the tennis team, he was selected by his fellow teammates to be captain twice--the first time, when he was a freshman, and the second, this past season.

Steve has distinguished himself while wearing the red and white for JSC. In his junior year Steve compiled an overall record of 13-2. He was No. 4 singles and teamed with Terry Mathews to be No. 3 doubles at the Alabama Collegiate Conference Tournament. This past season playing No. 1 singles, Steve compiled an overall record of 6-5, playing an important part in the success of the team. Outside his athletic endeavors

New Sensation At Jax State

The new sensation around JSC is spelunking. Recently a group of Jax State boys discovered a cave and started exploring it every chance they got, and now the girls have joined in.

One of the most recent adventures took place Monday, June 27, when about 25 students piled into the cars and headed toward the cave. More and more students are becoming interested. Among these are the following: Marty, Jackie, Marcia Stermann, Johnny Skinner, Ann Coffey, Owen Cherry, Jim Harris, Ann Gunn, Linda Langley, Terry Bartlett, Karen Crooks, Bonnie Boice, Joe Shulks, Robin Robinson, Kerry, Dwight Lake and Milt Hill.

Upon reaching the cave that cloudy Monday afternoon, some of the boys grew tired of waiting for the girls to make up their minds as to who would go first and slid on down into the big room. Finally the girls went down one by one, according to who got her courage up first. After everyone had reached the main room and had started exploring and chipping off pieces of crystal, there came this loud voice from the outside, telling the crew that a big storm was brewing outside and that if they wanted to survive they had better start coming up.

After pulling, wiggling and trying our hardest and with the help of others, everyone came out of the cave.

By the time the last person was out, it was raining, hailing, lightning and thundering. As the muddy bunch tromped back to the car, most of the mud was washed off.

By the way, if you have never been spelunking or have never seen anyone who has, spelunkers get pretty muddy.

Again the group piled into the cars and headed back to clean dry clothes and good ole JSC. The nearer we came to the college the less it rained and finally, when the caravan had reached Weatherly Hall, the rain had ceased.

Out in front of Weatherly Hall was the prettiest, most tempting mud puddle ever seen. It wasn't resisted, for soon a mud battle began and more mud was added to the

Plagued with Injuries, Mick Comes Alive

Throughout his career Mickey Charles Mantle has been plagued with one injury after another. Hobbled by an acute case of osteomyelitis in his legs, he has lived in pain for most of his waking hours since 1952, when he caught his foot in a drainage hole in the Yankee Stadium outfield while chasing a fly ball. A series of pulled muscles and broken bones insued in the intervening fourteen years to plague him constantly.

This spring many knowledgeable people and, also, many unknowledgable people were writing Mr. Mantle's baseball obituary. Mantle had a shoulder operation before spring training started. This slowed up the thirty-four year-old outfielder to such a degree that he was only a shadow of his old self. During the early part of the season Mickey only lived up to everyone's suspicions that he was over the hill.

Mickey Mantle has hit eight home runs in his last six games to set a major league record. The hot weather of June and July is apparently agreeing with Mr. Mantle. At least his slugging record would indicate such a preference for the future hall-of-famer. Perhaps Mickey Mantle is not washed up. Perhaps he will achieve his goal of hitting 500 career home runs. A respectable last half-of-the-season would give him his goal.

I am sure even the Yankee-haters among us, myself included, are happy to see an about-face for one of the all-time greats, Mickey Charles Mantle.

The Braves and Bragan Part Two

Leaving the shadows of Atlanta Stadium behind, the Braves have headed West in search of enough victories to save the skin of their beloved Bobby. A venture into the wind tunnel, that they call Candlestick Park, in San Francisco produced two victories in four tries with the league-leading Giants. Tony Cloniger, the twenty-four game winner last year for the Braves, set a National League slugging record by blasting two grand - slam homers in the same game and driving in nine runs. Now, this is a prodigious feat for any hitter, much less a pitcher. This only goes to illustrate the desperate straits that the Braves' pitchers have fallen into. Lack of runs has not been the Braves main problem this year. It has been pitching, poor fielding at inopportune moments, and the rather incompetent decisions of the manager, Bobby Bragan. Several times this season Mr. Bragan has pulled a starting pitcher who was apparently pitching well, only to allow the relief pitching to blow the game in short notice.

The Braves are a group of talented performers who are not playing together as an effective cohesive unit. The responsibility for the Braves' lowly position must rest with Mr. Bragan. When a team fails to play as well as its talent and past record indicates that it can the manager is usually fired. There has been much speculation in Atlanta as to when Bob will get the axe. The hiring of Paul Richards to head the minor league development program of the Braves is indicative of a major shakeup.

One only has to watch the Braves play the Dodgers to see the difference in the two teams as far as executing the fundamentals is concerned. The Dodgers can bunt at the right moment and successfully move their runners along into scoring position. The Braves cannot bunt when they try, and they don't try often. The Dodgers almost always get their run home from second base. The Braves leave an awful lot of players stranded in scoring position.

By executing the fundamentals effectively, making the right play at the right time, is the secret of winning close

All-Star Game on Tap Tuesday

Next Tuesday, the American and National leagues play their annual all-star game in St. Louis. The National League has won seven of the last eight contests and is a heavy favorite to win again this year.

When the all-star game began back in 1933, the American League was by far the stronger league. The American League built up a 13-6 bulge in the series at one time. But the times have changed. The National League pecked away at the margin until it drew even two years ago and went ahead last year. The dominance of the National League should last for some time. With such stars as Sandy Koufax, Juan Marichal, Hank Aaron, and others, there just isn't much room for comparison between the two leagues. Some people have even been bold enough to comment that there is the Major League and the American League. While I wouldn't go that far, I feel that the American League has only a slim chance of winning this year or in the near future.

who won the game, for their queen, Miss Judy West, even though she was not present.

Stars for the Loafers were Tommy Maxwell, who had a perfect day at the plate 3-3, plus a fine throw from left field cutting down a would-be score by the 69ers, Mike Couch (who was picked up from the Latin American League) pitched a neat three hitter and at one time retired 10 batters in a row. Other standouts for the Loafers included Dwight Hope, and Dennis Buford, each responding with key hits in the Loafer attack.

In the middle of the fifth inning, homecoming ceremonies were held, and although absent, Miss West received a rose and a Baby Ruth. Others in the homecoming court included Susan Carter and Janice Boyd.

It seems that the Loafers have found a winning combination, and will be trouble down the home stretch.

Speaking to this reporter before the game, manager Jimmy Sparks said "If he could keep his players away from Ft. McClellan the night before the games, the Loafers might win some ballgames." It seems that the Loafers under their new manager Sparkey are the team to beat in the weeks to come.

Intramural Season Sparkled with Thrills

The intramural season continued the past two weeks with thrills for one and all. While the fielding failed to improve appreciably over the preceding games, the excitement continued with upsets all over the lot.

The Go-Hards, behind the strong right arm of Don Crump, defeated the Cousin It's It's 9-8. The Go-Hards scored the winning run in the bottom of the seventh on a throwing error. This only goes to prove the importance of defense in any sports undertaking, especially intramural softball.

The Nannies got out of the barn with a convincing 24-8 thrashing of the 69ers. Dennis Love, with a homer among his four hits, led the Nannies attack. Dickie Serviss had four hits for the Nannies, also.

1967 Football Schedule Out

Jacksonville State's Jim Blevins, a man on the move, announced his 1967 grid football schedule here Saturday.

The slate reads nine contests for the Gamecocks, with four set for Jacksonville and barn with a convincing 24-8 thrashing of the 69ers. Dennis Love, with a homer among his four hits, led the Nannies attack. Dickie Serviss had four hits for the Nannies, also.

The Ridgerunners defeated the Logan Loafers 14-0 in a runaway. Paul Beard pitched the Ridgerunners to their triumph, while David Mull continued his heavy hitting for the winners.

In the game of the year so far, the Righteous Boys continued their winning ways with a come-from-behind victory over the Cousin Its Its 12-11. The Cousin Its Its took an early 5-0 lead mainly due to the wildness of Cecil Naftel. Naftel couldn't find the plate with a flashlight and was put out to pasture in center field in favor of Walter Mims in the third. The Cousin Its Its had an 11-10 lead going into the bottom of the seventh. With two out, Terry Smith delivered the game winning double, that scored Naftel from first, and himself when the ball eluded the centerfielder. Smith and Gerald Walder led the Righteous Boys' attack with three hits each.

The Ridgerunners continued their hot streak with a 20-8 mauling of the Mountaineers. John Slater blasted a homer for the victors while Lee Manners picked up the win. Old Man Gray, of the R. Boys, commented that Mr. Manners had his clay ball working to perfection.

The Logan Loafers, in an awesome display of power, got on the winning track with a 12-3 thrashing of the 69ers. Top hitters for the Loafers were Maxwell, Hope and Cour with three hits each. See Lou Botta's column for more information on the Loafers.

In the final tilt before the holiday weekend, the Go-Hards defeated the Spades 12-4 behind the tight pitching of Don Crump. Crump had the Spades off balance for most of the contest with his combination of junk and spinners. Don Jones led the winners' well-balanced attack. Ralph Walker continued his torrid hitting for the Spades with a long double, triple, and single.

As the softball season moves into its second half, the Go-Hards and Righteous Boys are at the top. But, the Nannies have been rained out several times and have yet to show their potential to the rest of the league. Money changed hands in the stands in the game between the Loafers and the 69ers. On the schedule Blevins said "we had hoped to add another game for the 1967 season but this was all the games we could get. I have contacted almost 50 schools, but they all have either completed their schedules or won't play us."

Some of the colleges Blevins contacted were Furman, Wofford, Xavier, University of Cincinnati, Chattanooga, East Carolina (number one small team two years back), Presbyterian, and others.

Road games besides the Florence tilt will find Jax State at Carson - Newman Sept. 30; Troy, Oct. 14; Livingston, Nov. 11; and Gordon, Nov. 18.

JOE SANDERS

Jo Sanders, a sophomore majoring in sociology with a minor in history, came all the way from California to attend Jacksonville State, which is her father Edgar Sanders' alma mater. She graduated from Mountain View High School in Carmel, Calif.

Jo is an "army brat", her father's having retired with the rank of colonel, and she has lived in many parts of the world. Her father, a member of Alabama National Guard's Co. H of Jacksonville at the time of Pearl Harbor, made a career of the army, and since his retirement, is a high school guidance counselor.

4-3. Louisiana downed Jacksonville, 41-9 in the last meeting in 1964.

The Gamecocks hold a 2-0 edge over Gordon, bearing the Georgia team, 13-0 in 1947, and 45-0 in 1948. Jacksonville and UTMB have never met, although the Tennessee team plays Troy and Florence this year and played Livingston two seasons back.

J'ville's schedule for 1966 reads Florence at Jacksonville Sept. 17; Jax State at Samford Sept. 24; Carson-Newman at Jacksonville Oct. 1; Texas Lutheran at Jacksonville Oct. 8; Troy at Jacksonville Oct. 15; Jax State at Mississippi College Oct. 22; Jax State at Chattanooga, Jax State at Chattanooga Oct. 28; Jax State at Delta State Nov. 5; and Livingston at Jacksonville Nov. 12.

WHIZ QUIZ...

A and B are cities 300 miles apart. One train leaves A city for B city at the same time that another train leaves B city for A city. When they meet it takes one train 9 hours to reach its destination and the other 4 hours.

How fast was each train moving and how many miles did each travel after meeting?

a conference record of 10-0. Also the team won the conference trophy but no one seems to have seen it or even knows where it is. And no recognition was given to the team for this outstanding record.

In 1966 the Tennis Team had an overall record of 8-5 and even though this was not as formidable as the year before comparison to certain other sports makes it look pretty good.

Even with this record the team had to fight for the use of the courts (as they are called) and "no letters were given either year." The school has given no recognition to members of the team who sacrificed their time to further the name of this great institution.

The question many students are asking is why? Maybe someone has an answer. One student suggested the following: "Tennis is not a money sport so there is not as much interest in it". As harsh as it may seem this is the only answer that has been given. Anyone have a better one?

ANSWER

The train from A city traveled at 20 m.p.h. and covered 180 miles after meeting the train from B city which traveled at 30 m.p.h. and 120 miles after meeting.
