VOLUME 47 JACKSONVILLE STATE COLLEGE, Monday, October 10, 1966 NUMBER 18

“Hats off for Twenty-one”

Marching bands, beautiful girls, Mardi Gras type floats, folk - singing, and an exciting football game, all make this year's homecoming at Jacksonville State the best ever. This year's theme will be, "Hats Off for Twenty - One," meaning that in the past 20 years the Gamecocks have never lost at homecoming and a win Saturday night against Troy will make it 21.

The gala homecoming parade will begin the festivities on Saturday and will continue on through the dance which will follow the important ACC clash between the Jacksonville State Gamecocks and the Troy Red Wave.

The parade will begin precisely at 1:30, at the First National Bank of Jacksonville and will move north on Pelham Road, enter the campus, and finally terminate on the green in front of Bibb Graves Hall. The floats will be as colorful as possible with lots of animation.

After the parade a "Hullabaloo" will be held for alumni and students in front of Bibb Graves Hall, and this will give all interested people a chance to examine the floats close up. Entertainment will be provided for by Mr. and Mrs. Colin Heath and several folk - singing groups, plus the possibility of an added surprise. Refreshments will be available throughout the afternoon, for all who desire them.

Then at 7 o'clock, the football game between the Gamecocks and the Red Wave will begin and this game shapes up to be one of the best homecoming games of all times. Troy has provided the opposition for the Gamecocks seven times at homecoming and has come out on the short end of the score all seven times.

At halftime the presentation of the Homecoming Queen and her court will be made to the crowd. Following the game, the Jacksonville J Club will sponsor the homecoming dance.

This promises to be one of the greatest homecomings in the history of Jacksonville State and it can only be a success if you take an active part in the preparation.

SGA joins concert program

The Student Government Association under the recommendation of President Philip McMahan, recognizing the need for cultural entertainment on campus has adopted a program through the Community Concert Association to make student participation possible in this program. The Community Concert Association in conjunction with the SGA will sponsor four and possibly five concerts this year. The first of these concerts will feature the Birmingham Symphony Orchestra conducted by Amerigo Marino. In November, Jean Cassadesus, concert pianist will be featured, and on Feb. 4, the Romeros, artists will perform. For the concluding attraction in April, Frank Guerrero, Metropolitan baritone has been engaged.

President McMahan said that 1,000 tickets per concert will be made available to the student body, free of charge, and that the tickets can be picked up in the traffic clerk's office.

Students are urged to avail themselves of this fine opportunity, to see and hear this fine entertainment. The COLLEGIAN would like to commend President McMahan on his efforts to bring cultural entertainment to the Jacksonville State campus.

"A good crew" Southerners: pride of JSC

by: DIANNE CARR and SYLVIA NELSON

PLANNING BEGINS (upper left) with Mr. Walters, Suzanne Russell (head ballerina) and Terry Jordan, (drum major). Many hours of practice follow (upper right). Then on the big night, the ballerinas (lower left) lead the band on to the field; followed by the drum corps (lower right), and the band plays (right center).

A school's reputation is made by its band and football team, and few can argue that Mr. Walters and his marching Southerners have helped establish a fine reputation for Jax State. One hundred and forty one band members, 34 of whom are beginning freshmen, practiced as a whole for the first time only one week before school started. During this week the most emphasis was placed on basic marching techniques.

When classes started, the band settled down to a one hour practice session a day except for Thursdays. On this day the band assembles for rehearsal on the football field.

Students, faculty and alumni feel a deep sense of pride and excitement as the band begins half time festivities with their opening fanfare "Stars Fell on Alabama". Mr. Walters identifies "Stars Fell on Alabama" as a signature that has been Jacksonville's "style" and tradition and should not be changed. The numbers as well as the routines are arranged by Mr. Walters. He says that to be original a band must do their own material . . . "if you use store bought stuff, you sound just like everyone else." Mr. Walters is assisted by Mr. Carl Anderson, assistant band director.

Each spring 30 marching ballerinas are selected by a panel consisting of Zenobia King Hill (who instructs the girls in their dancing routines), Mr. Anderson, Mr. Walters, and one other reputable dance instructor. These selections are made on the girls' ability to execute basic dance steps.

The feature twirlers and drum major are chosen on a competitive basis. Anyone who has been a member of the Southerners band for one year is qualified to try out for drum major. Try outs for drum major are held annually. On the other hand, try outs for twirlers occur only when there is a vacancy. These twirlers are selected on the basis of contest twirling and not dance twirling. Mr. Walters feels that as long as a twirler is doing her job she need not be replaced. The present twirlers are Sharon Holland and Judy West.

The drummers, which many people believe to be one of the greatest assets of the band, are also subject to competition. Drum try outs are annually. Mr. Walters praises his drum section with, "I've listened to many but I don't hear any that's any better."

When asked if he tries to make the last game the highlight of the season, Mr. Walters replied that the Southerners tried to do their best at every performance because "less than best is not even good."

Mr. Walters describes himself as an easy-going guy. He likes to use no more rules than necessary. He summed up the band by saying that the kids have high morals, that they are good musicians--and in general "a good crew."

Three thousand, four hundred miles by bicycle! Looking back it seems like a dream that wanted to be real but never made it. And yet it did happen.

A year ago I came back from another trip--this one to the Smokies--and decided to someday make a longer and better trip. I made my goal Canada because of its unlimited wildernesses. In western Ontario two roads, two railroad tracks, and a few scattered towns are all the civilization that exists in an area 1,000 miles square.

Last spring as the end of school drew near, I wavered between wanting to go and being afraid I wouldn't make it. Then I decided to go whether I could make it or not. I would go until I was forced to turn back. And finally I said I would never be beaten, not by cold, lack of money, loneliness, or fatigue.

Two days after school ended I began my trip with a ten-speed bicycle, 30 pounds of gear, and enough money to buy food. I'd like to tell about all of that journey which took me from Gadsden to Sault Ste. Marie, to Kenora, to St. Louis and back, but I can't; I can only describe a few moments.

The first day was the hardest -- it always is when pedaling--and at 5 o'clock I stopped for the night on Monte Sano, near Huntsville. I sat on a limestone ledge to rest and write for a while.

As I wrote I began to hear something moving to one side of me. In a few minutes a fox paced into the clearing below me, but turned back because of the smell of my camp. Then he circled around me, coming within 15 feet. As he passed a startled chipmunk ran chattering up a tree.

That first week I ran into below freezing weather, had trouble finding camping sites as I passed through Tennessee, Kentucky, and Indiana, and entered mosquito country. During the week I reached a point where I wanted to turn back, but went on instead, traveling 70 miles a day.

I reached Michigan with its abundant state and national forests. One day I stopped on a high bridge in one of those forests and watched the vivid blue swallows fly close underneath. The next day I entered Traverse City, with a frothy green Lake Michigan visible through the fog and rain. Later that day the weather cleared and the green turned as blue as the wings on the swallows.

Then I crossed into Canada--maples, birches, and evergreens on steep, rock-covered hills. I dreamed with my eyes open as I rode through this land. It was free and wild and untouched. When I stopped I heard only the wind in the trees. I remember one day I dropped my silverware into a lake and had to step in after it.

How cold the water felt

Celebrates 21st. birthday International House begins a new year

The International House at Jacksonville State College formally began its 21st year on Wednesday night, Sept. 21, with its first monthly dinner-forum of the fall semester. The theme of the evening was "This is the United States", an introduction for new students from 10 of the 16 countries represented.

For the first time Honduras and Jordan are represented, and for the first time a brother and sister are members of the IH family. The Hondurans are Martha and Enrique Castellon, and Said Hissin is the Jordanian.

Other new foreign students attending were Giuseppe Bolognese of Italy; Robert Fischer, Germany; Gijsbert Frankenhuis, Holland; Ana Sophie Lecarriere, France; Marketta Partanen, Finland; Carlos Sanchez, Paraguay; Francisco Tores, Colombia.

Returning students are

Abdul Itani, Lebanon; Maria Piragine, Argentina; Susanna Ross, Mexico; Sunna Becker, Germany; Myong Ja Kwon, Korea.

Dr. Theron E. Montgomery, dean of the college, the forum speaker, described the U. S. to the new students as a country of contrasts and contradictions, geographically, politically, economically and spiritually.

"It is a system of 'checks and balances', developed by trial and error--elasticity and inhibition ever swaying to personify the dignity of man; to afford the rights of the majority and to protect the minority," he said,

John R. Stewart, director of the International House, presided over the affair, and introduced as guests Mr. and Mrs. Fred Merrill of Aniston; Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Stone and Mrs. Montgomery.

The Methodist Student Center, known as the Rockhouse, is rented and furnished by the Wesley Foundation to provide a meeting place for Methodist students on campus. It houses a student center, kitchen facilities, and the office of the campus minister, Bob Miller. It is open daily for the students' use. There will be regular planned meetings at the Rockhouse on Sunday evenings for supper and a devotional program, and on Tuesday evenings for the benefit of those who go home on weekends; and a vesper service will be held on Wednesdays from 6:30-7 p. m. at McCluer Chapel.

The Wesley Foundation, which is responsible for Methodist campus centers, is the organized educational program through the Methodist church ministers to colleges and universities. The program is primarily geared towards

The campus Wesley Foundation is governed by a council composed of Jacksonville State students. Heading the 1966-67 council are Gary Collier, president; Harold Briggs, vice president; Diane Williams, secre-

Each afternoon a happy feeling pervades JSC's campus as the Southerners step out to the rhythm of their own music. For those who have grown fond of the sound, it's a real pleasure to know that the leader of the band is Terry Jordan, an exciting person who is excited about what he's doing. Although only a sophomore, Terry brings to the job some rich experience and much enthusiasm. He served as drum major at Gadsden High School for two years, and as assistant drum major for the Southerners last year. During his two years at Gadsden, he directed the band in contests at Miami and Toronto, where he feels he gained many new ideas by observing other bands and drum majors from across the nation.

Terry's own drum majoring style is based on that of the traditional Drum and Bugle Corps, first introduced at JSC by Freddie Pollard, and widely used in the Southern states. Terry believes that it is a style which harmonizes well with the sounds and rhythms of the Southerners. Although each drum

Gymnastic clinic held

The recent gymnastics clinic held in Stephenson Gymnasium featured Richard Zuker, internationally known gymnast and possibly the finest director of gymnastics in the United States. Mr. Zuker's wife was on the U. S. Olympic team and he was a coach.

The purpose of this clinic was to help teachers teach gymnastics and tumbling. There was a very fine attendance of high school teachers and students as well as the students and faculty of Jacksonville State.

Mr. Zuker had three classes of girls who are in either stunts tumbling or rhythmic gymnastics. The class started with mental movements on mats and worked up to techniques on the parallel and uneven bars. Mr. Zuker demonstrated on the horizontal bars and the balance beam. He exhibited forcefully on the free exercises.

Several members of the gymnastics class who did individual advanced skills were: Mary Ann Dugger, Barbara Nelson, Bernie Atan, Terry Schrimsher, Cathy White, Tom Cannon, and Jan Payne.

The Tigers kicked the lid off another exciting intramural football season by not showing up. There is a rumor that the Kitty Kats have disbanded. The Heaven's Devils subsequently was a forfeit.

The 69'ers tripped the Glazner Vols 20-8. The 69'ers scored first on Chad Carroll's pass to Drew Tumbrello covering 49 yards. The Vols came back to score on Mize's two yard run to go ahead 8-6. The 69'ers came back to win in the second half on Tumbrello's nine yard run and Carroll's 10 yard run on the last play of the game.

The Jeffcos opened their season with a 12-0 decision over the Skid-Marks. After a scoreless first half, Walter Mims passed to Joe Piazza for the first

The Rats-a-go-go won a high - scoring duel from Smith Lake 46-30. Tim MacTaggart fired three scoring passes each to Irv McFarland and Ray Emanuel to lead the Rats. Barclay Fisher passed to Ray Adams, Marc Carlton, some fellow named Hal, and a stranger for four scores. After the half ended 24-22 in favor of the Rats, they retired to Tim MacTaggart's for refreshments. Obviously refreshed, the Rats got stronger as the game wore on.

The Toads leaped by Heaven's Devils by a 42-14 score. After spotting the losers an 8-0 lead, the Toads leaped back, scoring five straight times before the Devils could scratch again. Kenneth Elrod scored three times, Mitchell, two times, and Duke sneaked in one. Girard and Burdick got across for the losing Devils.

ESCORTED TO PAY DIRT--Jacksonville State Halfback Bubba Long, receives a welcome escort from Bruce Peck (No. 11), and another Gamecock, as he heads for touchdown territory against Carson-Newman.

Gamecocks clip Eagles 40-13

If the traffic in Jacksonville had stopped the Monday afternoon following the Samford game the leather - popping on the Gamecock practice field could have been heard in the farthest corner of Zuma's Cafe. The contact paid off handsomely as the Gamecocks came out with blood in their eyes and ran Carson - Newman back to Tennessee with a convincing 40-13 triumph.

The first quarter action was highlighted by a pair of blocked punts. The Gamecocks drew first blood early in the quarter when Don Heddon blocked an Eagle punt and Carter Roper fell on it. Bubba Long blasted off his own left tackle for nine yards and the score. Bruce Peck's extra point attempt was wide as the Gamecock's led 6-0.

Carson - Newman tied the game later in the quarter when a Peck punt was blocked on his 29 and Gary Hardin scooped up the ball and rambled in the end zone. The extra point was no good, leaving the score tied 6-6.

The Gamecocks exploded for 21 points in the second quarter to take a commanding lead.

Richard Drawdy started the fireworks by moving the Gamecock's pass covering 16 yards. Peck added the point for a 20-6 lead.

Shortly before halftime Terry Harris picked off an Eagle aerial and returned it 77 yards to the 10. Bubba Long scored from 12 yards out. Peck again added the punt for the 27-6 halftime lead.

Midway in the third quarter Bruce Peck capped a 76 yard drive by outrunning Carson - Newman backs 10 yards into the corner of the end zone. Peck added his fourth straight conversion for a 34-6 lead.

Carson - Newman came back to score on a 63 yard drive, helped along by 47 yards in penalties against Jacksonville. Bobby Delozier's bucked over from the one. The extra point made it 34-13.

The Gamecocks iced the cake early in the fourth quarter as Jim Gaines dashed around his right end 32 yards untouched into the end zone. Peck's placement was wide, leaving the score 40-13.

The Gamecocks spent the rest of the game fighting off the Carson - Newman passing attack.

Robert Kelley led the Gamecock rushers with 66 yards followed by Bubmajor adds his own personality and mannerisms, the Drum and Bugle Corps style, as Terry says, is here to stay.

Concerning the Southerners themselves, Terry believes that this will be the best year yet. The members have a wonderful spirit of cooperation and a professional determination. Even though the September rains have hampered rehearsals, the Southerners won't settle for a second-rate performance. In spite of last Saturday night's downpour, Terry says, the band was anxious to march--that's the kind of people they are. They have the desire and the drive to work for high goals, an often-lacking quality in today's youth.

Terry firmly believes that each person must set high goals for himself, far enough in the future so that he has something to work toward. Too many college students today, he says, have no real goal, perhaps because they fear to look into the future. Fortunately, Terry and the Southerners do not fall into this category. They both have the initiative, the drive, and the perseverance to do bigger and better things for JSC than ever before. The band's performance at the New York Jets - Houston Oilers football game in Birmingham a short time ago won for them many new and enthusiastic fans. Terry hopes that this will be a doorway through which the Southerners will march to nationwide fame.

Terry's goals for his own future are indeed admirable. After receiving a degree from JSC, he plans to do graduate work in conducting at Florida State University. He chose this particular school because the music department there, he says, resembles the one at JSC, on a larger scale. In the more immediate future, Terry hopes to attend the VFW National Drum and Bugle Corps Contest in New York next summer. There, he hopes to enrich his resources in drum majoring and band performance.

In addition to his drum majoring duties, Terry is a member of the International House Program, which he believes is a great opportunity to help the world grow closer and how little the sun warmed me!

After I reached Kenora, the end of the Canora, the end of the Canadian woods, I turned south, following the Mississippi. Because of the heat and mosquitoes I couldn't sleep much at night, and so I took naps during the day. One time I slept on the bank of a little Mississippi River for an hour, with a horsefly trying to wake me up.

When I reached Dubuque, Iowa, I decided to rush the rest of the distance to my sister's home in Missouri. I traveled 356 miles in three days. When I started again, I had an easy trip back to Gadsden because I was so fresh.

And what did I gain from the trip? Merely this--I learned that from now on I can never be a slave to circumstances because I can create my own circumstances. I'm not limited to one environment and one life, because I have the whole world to live in and millions of possible lives.

Now that I'm back, I'll ride my bike some, hike some, and so forth. There is a lot to be discovered right here in Jacksonville. And some summer, when I've become too settled in my ways, I'll pack my pannier bags, get on my bike, and go off to discover some other section of the world.

A person who never does anything half-way, and who has faith in what he's doing can bring important changes in the course of events. It would be almost impossible not to predict good things for Terry Jordan and the Southerners. Let's support our Southerners by attending their performances, and by echoing a loud Amen. As Terry says, it'll be the "swingest thing you ever heard."

'Dogs trip Jax

The Samford Bulldogs spotted Jacksonville a first quarter touchdown but came back strong for a 28-14 victory.

Samford recovered an on-side kick on the opening kickoff and moved to the Jacksonville 21 before being stalled. Rex Keeling's field goal try was wide.

Jacksonville moved ahead late in the first quarter on a 27-yard touchdown pass from Richard Drawdy to freshman tight end, Don Austin.

After an interception early in the second quarter, Samford moved to the Jacksonville 21 behind the passing of Jerry Colvin. Curtis Padgett then passed 21 yards to John Easley for the score. The half ended 7-7.

The second half turned out to be all Samford's. The Bulldogs' drove 60 yards midway in the third quarter for the go ahead touchdown. The drive took eight plays, climaxed by a Padgett to Jimmy Jackson pass covering 26 yards. Keeling added his second extra point of the afternoon.

Samford scored again late in the third quarter on a Padgett pass to Charles Ramsey covering 53 yards. Keeling added the point to make the score 21-7.

Samford scored its final touchdown midway in the final quarter. Jerry Colvin climaxed a 78 yard drive by passing two yards to Bobby Masdon. Keeling added his fourth extra point to make it 28-7.

Jacksonville scored its final touchdown 1:31 from the end on a 37-yard pass play from Bruce Peck to Bubba Long. Peck added the point to make the final score 28-14.

Bubba Long led the Jacksonville ball carriers for the second straight week. Long picked up 36 yards, followed by Jim Gaines with 20 yards. Larry Seabrook played a sterling defensive game for the Gamecocks. Larry threw the Bulldogs for a total of 43 yards in losses.

Samford's defensive line harried and hurried the Jacksonville passers throughout the game. Two interceptions by Samford set up touchdown drives.
