The Christmas spirit is already in the air on campus, as students prepare for the third annual Christmas party for children whose fathers are in the military service in Vietnam. This year’s party is to be held in the Roundhouse on Dec. 13, beginning at 4 p.m. All boys are asked to donate money, while girls are requested to buy and wrap a gift, and specify what sex it is for in the package. All money and gifts may be turned in to Dean Jackson’s office in the SUB.

Several different clubs and organizations are helping to arrange the party. The Circle K Club is getting the Christmas tree, 15 girls will be hostesses and the ROTC department will help direct traffic.

Approximately 400 children from north Alabama are expected to take part in the annual party, which originated in 1965 as the result of a letter from a soldier in Vietnam to a Jacksonville minister. The soldier wrote: “I had one wish, it would be that I could be home for Christmas with my family, especially to see the children’s happy faces when they see Santa Claus brought them.”

Miss Mimosa pageant to be held Jan. 4

The annual Miss Mimosa Pageant will be held Jan. 4. This is one of the biggest events to occur on the Jax campus. There will be 27 girls vying for the title. Nearly every dormitory and several organizations have entered contestants.

The event will be from 8 to 11 p.m. and all girls must have late permission. Admission will be $1 for students and $1.25 for adults. Allied Artists will not be honored.

Master of ceremonies will be the well-known team of Doug Layton and Tommy Charlot, who will preside at the formal banquet with its inclusion of the entertainment in bathing suits and formal attire.

This will be the only social event from the Jax students return from the Christmas holidays until after finals. Series of the following girls had entered: Han Vance, Janice Blackwood, Sonja Poland, Janice King, Cindy O’Rourke, Kay Fulton, Cathy White, Gloria Connell, Dianne McDearmin, Nancy Prather, Sherry Caldwell, Anita Davis, Elaine Haver, Janie Stephens, Patti Clark, Susanne O’Rourke, Cathy London, Lorraine Webb, Joyce Lloyd and Cathy Galloway.

Attention
All Miss Mimosa beauty candidates are required to make an appearance at the public relations office in Bibb Graves on Dec. 30, 6 p.m. at which time photos will be made. All candidates are requested to wear slacks and sweaters.

Rains to speak at assembly today in LCA

Former U.S. Representative Albert Rains will speak today (Monday) at an assembly program beginning at 9:30 a.m. Rains, who represented the Seventh District in Congress from 1934 to 1965, will appear at Jax State on the monthly “Educational Forum.”

A Gainesville resident, Rains served in the State Legislature for one term before his election to Congress.

During his 20 years in Washington, he was the author of practically all the legislation affecting urban development. He was chairman of the subcommittee on housing and a ranking member of the House Committee on Banking and Currency.

Among the bills of significance authored by Rains were the Housing Act of 1961 and 1965, the Urban Renewal Program, the Housing for the Elderly, the Jobs Act and the Older Americans Act.

Invitations here
The senior invitations are here and may be picked up in room 222A, Pannell or see Janice Boyd.
Merry Christmas, etc.

It is encouraging to note that there are still those in this world who are willing to give without expecting something in return. The forthcoming Christmas party for children whose father is in Vietnam is a good example. Many will give blood tonight and tomorrow without expecting anything in return. Many will donate to the Jeff Jafari fund who don’t know Jeff Jafari. With this mind and since this is the last issue before the holidays begin, the CHANTICLEER would like to be first to wish you a Merry Christmas and Happy New Year.

GIVE BLOOD

JSU maintains a high ranking among colleges and universities in Alabama and Mississippi who participate in blood drives. In the two-state district, JSU State is fourth in percentage (26%) in student participation, and is fourth in a total number of pints donated.

These impressive statistics, but officials of this year’s blood drive are going all out to top all previous goals and move up, both in total percentage and total units donated.

Many lives are saved each day through the unselfishness of those who are willing to give blood through the Red Cross Blood Program. Blood, the magic medicine, cannot be manufactured. It must come from people who will spend a few minutes to help another person.

If you could save a life by giving blood, would you?

SCOAG

To say the Jacksonville University administration was disappointed with November’s fourth annual Student Conference on American Government, might be the understatement of the academic year.

Importance was placed on their engagements for the conference at the last minute, high school student participation totaled only 35, and university delegate participation was less than 50 per cent.

Several high school students in attendance commented the material covered was theory and in many cases above their level of education. Others indicated they expected conference type sessions rather than the series of lectures by professors of the political science department. Many said they noticed the organization of the state government - the actual subjects of the lecture sessions were added as the theme of the conference which was “Current Issues in State Government.”

A fine address by Alabama Lt. Gov. Albert Brewer opened the conference. A panel the following day was the last session of real interest.

SCOAG Chairman Steve Carlson and his committee chairmen seemed to have the event organized until the presence of political science majors as delegates at the University of Alabama’s symposiums was noticed. Whether operated by students or the administration, SCOAG has potential. To develop this potential student participation is required.

Fund for Jeff

The holiday season is a time for thinking of others, and this year the CHANTICLEER is asking all JSU students to practice the spirit of Christmas by thinking of and helping out one of their fellow students, Jeff Jafari, who really needs help.

Last summer while visiting in Washington, D. C., Jeff underwent surgery for a ruptured appendix. Since he came home, he has undergone two operations to remove infection, and he has spent several weeks of the past two months at Anniston Memorial Hospital.

His total hospital bills will run to $3,000 or more, and he has no way of paying them until he is well and completes work on his degree. This is a terrible debt for a young man, hundreds of miles away from Iran, his homeland, who has not completed his education and who has no financial backing or reserve. And he is still not well enough or strong enough to accept a job even if he were qualified.

Jeff would prefer to pay his own way and he probably would not agree to have this appeal made, but this is a problem that is beyond his ability to solve, and it can be solved easily with just a little help from each student.

If each student would give not less than 50 cents toward this worthy cause, other donations would make it possible for the entire debt to be paid.

This would be a wonderful Christmas present for Jeff, and an opportunity for us students to demonstrate the Christmas spirit that will bring real joy to all who share in it.

All donations may be turned into Dean Jackson’s office in the Student Union Building.

What to do

(Fourth in a series of articles on the Problems of Recreation in Jacksonville. This article is an interview with the vice-president of the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce, Perry Bethel.)

Q. What recreational opportunities, as far as college and high school are concerned, exist now in the Jacksonville area?

A. There are very little. We have a few baseball fields, softball fields, tennis courts, and church organizations, but when it comes to recreation that will keep a kid in town, we do not have much. We do not have a bowling alley, we don’t have a pool room that college students could go into and take their dates. As far as I’m concerned, Jacksonville is lacking something to keep college students in town. We don’t even have a decent little restaurant and eat a meal and dance a little bit if they’d like to. Personally, I think Jacksonville needs something that continues to grow, recreational facilities that would make it come over to Jacksonville and after they’re here enjoy their stay.

Q. Since there is a lack of recreational opportunities, is the Chamber of Commerce trying to work toward a solution of these problems, and are they encouraging businesses to step in and help like this, or is it more or less left up to the individuals or the individuals to go into these areas?

A. I believe it is left up to private enterprise. We do not have a situation in Jacksonville. It seems as if we have a university that’s growing by leaps and bounds and it looks like people outside our area are taking advantage of us. It’s as if building apartment buildings and so forth. Businesses and leaders of town haven’t done much toward building apartment buildings and so forth. Businessmen and leaders of town haven’t done anything toward building these recreational facilities. We have had a few national organizations to come in here and survey the town and say that they didn’t think the town would support various enterprises that would cause some of these people to make some money. Now, people that probably could afford to do something like this and take a loss have not stepped forward and people who have the money to do these things feel that they can make more money putting it into some other type of investment. If I had the money to go into something that would cause the college to grow, I think I would invest it, but it seems like it takes all I’ve got run my store. Of course, I have a daughter in college, and having a child up there, I am very much for the college to have some sort of facilities to keep these kids happy, off the streets, and so forth, but as far as I can see, the few surveys that have been made in Jacksonville so far – I understand the college in the next five years may double, and at that time I’m sure that something will come along – but it seems like the people out of this town seem to have more faith in the college growing, and they seem to be the ones putting the money into the town, and I’m sure they’re probably coming out alright on their apartment buildings and what-have-they built. I understand that somebody is going to build a shopping center toward the college, and I hope that if they do, they will consider having some sort of recreational facilities for the college. It’s money to be made by business people who concentrate on it. A few failures in the past seem to be blocking some people from going into that type of investment.

Q. Do you see any possibility at all for something like a carpet golf, bowling alley, or a movie coming into the Jacksonville area itself any time soon?

A. Carpet golf, I don’t think. They tried that, and they didn’t say it wouldn’t work at a college but I think we really have enough students for carpet golf. It’s a seasonal business, but for a movie, either a drive-in type or a real nice movie that’s got a drive-in, I think that definitely would succeed. I think there might succeed if you had someone running it who would have management and all that. You couldn’t depend on people dropping in for steady business on that. If we had a drive-in, I believe it would work. It would require a real good concession stand to make a profit in Jacksonville.

Q. We have all sorts of rumors floating around, and one of those is that there is a law in Jacksonville against putting up a movie theatre. Is that so or not?

A. As far as I know, it isn’t so, and if any of the students would like to go into this further, I would be glad to find out if it is so. As far as I know, there’s nothing to that, and of course there was nothing to the rumor that anybody tries to keep any national organization from coming here in any type business. I think that was rumored around the college for a while. That is definitely not true, because we in the Chamber encourage people to come here.

Q. Is there anything that I have not covered that you would like to make a statement on?

A. Yes, I would like to make a statement. You know when we were meeting with the college kids, the town officials and the college officials, I had one merchant tell me that if the group would get up and make a statement about coming into the college so and so, and it was that only one merchant who made this statement, and when it was written in the paper it said that was the view of all the merchants, and I would like to correct that, because that was definitely not the view of mine. As far as I know, I have never had a college kid to steal anything out of my store, and I sure didn’t have to see that written up as all of the.searching of Jackson- ville protesting shoplifting. I talked with other merchants around Times Square, and I didn’t have one merchant tell me that they had any shoplifting that they knew of in their store.

JSU students sought for Europe tour

A limited number of Jacksonville University students are currently being sought for the third annual Internation- 30 tour of Europe.

The Student Interna- 30 Tour is being coordinated on the Jacksonville campus by Mrs. Esther Baab. This is Mrs. Baab’s third trip to Europe with students. She is in a position to give practical aid to those who wish to travel with her.

The tour travels by jet airliner to Brussels, Am- sterdam, East and West Berlin, Copenhagen, Stockholm, Oslo and Paris. Tours of each city and surrounding ter- ritories are arranged. The departure date from New York is July 18, and the group will return to New York on Aug. 18. The Jacksonville group will be joined by other students from southern colleges.

Home management helps JSU students

Mrs. Bettie Beasley of Weaver and Mrs. Brenda Ashley of Gadston are homemakers and mothers to small children. Both women knew how to run a household... until they enrolled in a home management course at Jacksonville State University.

The two, plus Margaret Cuccilite of Anniston, completed the special nine-week course last week and all admit "we learned a lot we didn't know."

The course, a mandatory one for all home economics majors at Jax State, sees each of the three women do their share of the cooking, budgeting, marketing, cleaning, laundry and entertaining.

They are allowed a certain budget for each week for groceries, and must plan three balanced meals daily with the funds... and all the students protest money isn't enough for what is required. Somehow, they manage to make it stretch enough to satisfy them and their families. In addition, the home economics professor who also resides in the house with the students...

"I, like most home economics majors, dread the thought of living alone," Margaret, "but looking back it's been fun."

Margaret, normally a commuter from Anniston, is the only member of the trio who established and maintained her residence in the 15-year-old home.

Brenda and Bettie drove to their respective homes after each day's "living" where they did a day's "homemaking" for their families. Credit is allowed in the course for duties which must be performed at their homes.

Efficient use of one's time, money and energy in group living is the primary objective of the senior year course, according to Miss Maxwell, vice president of the State Chamber of Commerce. Miss Maxwell employed the "Careers in Georgia Placement" program for students interested in post graduation positions. Other than living expense, no charge is incurred by the student.

Winthrop coeds' dating cards stolen and sold

By Norman Brown

"Dating records" of coeds in Thomson Dormitory at Winthrop College near Rock Hill, S.C., reportedly are being sold to their Clemson University "steady" beau.

It seems that some "sign-out" cards of Thomson Dorm's 300 resident students were stolen recently. The cards show when each girl went out, with whom, and when she returned.

To a Clemson man who... approximately 200 miles away... thinks he is the steady beau of one of the coeds, the cards can be valuable.

On one card, said cards sold for as much as five dollars.

A worried coed going steady with a Clemson man complained, "Do you realize that my card was nearly full and his name wasn't even on it?"

Stanford University students at Palo Alto, Calif., are a school term addressing an 18-year-old professor as "Doctor."

The "young" professor recently received his doctoral degree at last year's annual meeting in mathematics from Massachusetts Institute of Technology and is believed to be the youngest person to ever have received such a degree at that institution.

He is Dr. Harvey Martin Friedman, who completed his degree requirements in three years without formally finishing high school.

At the request of several Auburn area ministers, the Inquisition has been eliminated from Auburn University home football games, according to AU President Harry M. Philpot.

"The ministers made their initial request a couple of years ago. Although they have not refused to give the Inquisition, they felt the situation was not conducive to free expression of prayer," said Philpot.

An Auburn Episcopal minister, James P. Woodson, said it was appropriate, to throw religion into "the mysticism" of football music, flags, cheers, sex symbols.

The Auburn administration will re-evaluate their decision next year, officials said.

A co-educational dormitory was temporarily set up this fall in a facility now the rows have been cleaned, men were not allowed into the building which was under construction as school began this year.

One female resident commented on the situation, "I opened the door to my room for the first time, anxiously anticipating who my roommate might be, and found a man unpacking his suitcase."

Another female resident expressed her mortification when she took the elevator to the 12th floor lounge wearing nothing but a scanty nightrobe and discovered the man unraveling his nighttime clothes alone.

"One male student described the co-ed residence hall as "beautiful" and said, "All the dorms should be like this."

Jorge Bolet, pianist to perform Dec. 10

Jorge Bolet, Cuban-American piano virtuoso, will be the second artist to appear in the concert series sponsored by the Community Concert Association, JSU, and the SGA. He will be presented on Sunday afternoon, Dec. 10, at 3 p.m. in Leon Cole Auditorium. Bolet began in Havana and began serious study of the piano at the age of six. At nine he played his first public recital, and at ten he appeared as soloist with the Havana Sinfonietta. A scholarship took him to the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia and after graduation there he went to Europe for further study and there began his concert activities. He is the only concert artist to be a veteran of two armies. He joined the Cuban Army at the break of World War II and later enlisted in the U.S. Army, became an American citizen and commissioned a lieutenant. He has been soloist with major orchestras in this country, South America, Europe, South Africa, the Far East and even behind the Iron Cur- tain. He has appeared on the Bell Telephone Hour, added new fans to his circle of admirers with his recordings of the sound track for "Song Without End," the bi film biography of composer-virtuoso Franz Liszt.

Art display to open at Mason gallery

The Department of Art will present an exhibition of painting, drawing and pottery by Lee Maners and Ruth Sinclair on December 5 and January 2-11 at the Art Gallery of Mason Hall. The gallery hours are weekdays from 9:00 a.m. to 4:00 p.m. Everyone is cordially invited to the December 5 opening, which will be from 7 to 9 p.m. for refreshments and visual conversation.

Mr. Maners, the department head, received his BFA at the age of 17 and his MA degree at the University of Alabama and studied at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts. A native of Birmingham, he attended Phillips High School. Mr. Maners has had numerous one-man shows at the colleges and universities and has participated in many regional activities and juried shows. In 1969 he received the painting of the year award in Atlanta, Ga. In 1967 his watercolor received a purchase award from the Alabama Watercolor Society. His paintings are owned by the Birmingham Museum of Art and the Mobile Bluff Museum of Art. Mrs. Maners teaches painting, Design, Art for the Classroom Teacher, and Printmaking.

Mrs. Ruth Sinclair received her MA from the University of Alabama. She teaches Design, Art History, Ceramics and Theories of Art. She has exhibited widely in the region at our Colleges and Universities as well as participated in Juried shows with her paintings, watercolors and ceramics. She was invited to the 1967 Alabama State Fair for her Ceramic Sculptures. Some of her other recent show awards are Best in Show Award from the Atlanta Playboy Club.

Jaxmen drop first two games to tough Berry College team

First home loss
In over a year
Jacksonville State suffered its first home defeat on the hardboards in over a year, falling 95-88 to a surprisingly strong Berry College team in the first home game of the season.

The defeat came in overtime play, starting what is supposed to be a superb Gamecock club off on a losing streak. Before the opening game, Jacksonville had won 16 home games in a row, dating back to midway of the 1965-66 campaign.

Buddy Cornelius and Gary Angel led a last-ditch Jax rally to knot the count at 80-all and send the game into overtime. But in the extra minutes of play, the experience Vikings jumped off to a quick six point lead and raced in for the win. Jacksonville, showing a case of first-game jitters at the beginning of each half as well as in the initial portion of the five-minute overtime action, could never get going.

Paul Trammell, who hit 15 in the Jax State cause put Jacksonville ahead, with 16:17 showing in the first half and the home team stayed in control until 13:57 remained in the game. Price tied the game at 25-25 and 37-37 before Steve Copeland and Angel shot the Gamecocks in front 41-37 at the half.

Buddy Cornelius critched left in the game, Berry, behind Doug Price and Mari Godfrey who ended the night with 13 points, was out front by seven, 66-59.

Two minutes later Bill Brantley hit a hot streak with six quick points and had his team in front again at 66-64.

The last minutes of regular play was like the finals of the late season tournaments as Godfrey fired in two for 76-74 Berry lead. Cornelius knotted it for Jax but Stan Worley had the Vikings back in front, 78-76 with 0:26 left.

Berry was playing for one shot, but Worley shot too soon, hitting his basket with 0:12 left, leaving time for Angel to pump in a tying basket for Jacksonville with 0:02 showing.

Then in the overtime Price shot Berry out front early and the Gamecocks lost sight of the goal.

Overall Jacksonville hit only 38 per cent from the floor and was out rebounded 56-50.

Cornelius, Jacksonville's top scorer at 23 points was also the top rebounder at 18. Angel had 18 points and Brantley 17. Copeland with six points had 12 rebounds, second to Cornelius.

Price, a 6-3 junior for the visitors, from Brookville, Ind., kept the nets ablaze, totaling 28 for the game and getting five in overtime play.

Road game also ends in defeat
Playing in Rome, Ga., Tuesday night, the Gamecocks dropped their second game in a row -- both defeats coming from Berry College.

The Berry Vikings came from a six point deficit at half-time to hand the Gamecocks their second loss. Down by a score of 47-41, the Georgia boys out scored the Jaxmen 49-31 in the second half to give them a 12 point margin of victory.

Buddy Cornelius of Birmingham was once again the high scorer for the Gamecocks. Bud- dy, a forward from Minor High, scored 19 points to capture scoring honors for the Gamecocks. His 19 points also tied him for the game's high scoring honor with Doug Price of Berry. Bill Brantley, also a Birmingham boy, was second with 17 points.

The Vikings caught fire in the second half and this was the Gamecocks' fall. Price and Johnson led the surge for the Berry team.

The next home game for the Gamecocks will be December 6, when the Jaxmen will take on the Panthers of Birmingham Southern College.

Sorry about that
It was reported in the last issue of the CHANTI-CLEER that a score of the Chattanooga-Jacksonville game in Talladega (where the paper is printed) was the reason for the error.

Track meeting is scheduled
All persons interested in running track in the spring are requested to meet in room number one of the Physical Education Building at 7:30 p.m., Dec. 5. Persons unable to attend should contact Irving McFarland at Room 322 Patterson Hall, in person.

BIRTH CONTROL AND CONSCIENCE

In the beginning, God created the heavens and the earth. Later in earth's beginning, God also created man. This early man was very crude and lacked intelligence. As the years progressed, man grew and developed new tools to assist him in his day-to-day existence. God allowed man to grow, and he formed groups, and these groups gathered together to form communities. Communities grew and cities evolved. Within these cities, people were learning to think as a group rather than singularly.

During this early life, sustaining of life and continuance of the species were the main objectives. Through the use of medical and increased medical knowledge, many children were being born. People tried to have as many children as possible, hoping a few would survive their childhood. Because of these multiple births, the population grew quickly later. However, with all the dangers of their undeveloped minds, the deaths were even more common. Therefore, women tried to have as many children as possible, hoping a few would survive their childhood.

In the early days of the Christian era, it was considered a sin to practice birth control. In early China, there were actually laws written against contraceptives and birth control. If a woman had more than 15 children, people said she should have had at least one dozen. This was because children were necessary to sustain the Empire and to compete in the world. However, there was no real need to lower the birth rate.

Jax UGF drive is successful

A total of 118 members of the Jacksonville State University administration, faculty and staff contributed a total of $2,817 to the United Fund of Calhoun County. According to John R. Stewart, who served university division director of the United Fund campaign, the 1966 campaign had had 113 persons to contribute for a total of $2,846. "I am proud of our wonderful response given the United Fund's Person of the Year Award. This is the first time in the history of the United Fund campaign that Jacksonville State University has had an individual named as the Person of the Year. I am very proud of our faculty and staff for their support," Stewart said at the conclusion of the drive.

Students

This was the first time the Student Senate had ever sponsored a drive for the United Fund. The Student Senate had decided to support the United Fund because they felt it was important to support the community. The Student Senate had decided to support the United Fund because they felt it was important to support the community.

Party

Knowing this was impossible, the student body at JSU did the next best thing - had a party for his children and others in the same situation. The party was a hit for two primary reasons. First, it helped the mothers forget their problems briefly and secondly, more and more Albanians are being assigned to Vietnam.

At least four ROTC graduates of Jax State have been killed in Vietnam, and two of the widows brought their children to the party last year. Efforts are underway to local all four of the families for this year's party.

The Speakeasy

The Speakeasy is a coffee house operated by four hackers, on the campus of Jacksonville State University. The groups participating are, Century Club, Graduate Club, and Alabama State University. Each group has a representative to the Coffee House Council which serves as a policy and program planning body. The group is open to any other denominational group on campus.

The purpose of the Speakeasy is to "A place for people in pairs, squares, or solitary seekers. A place for people who want a place to go and a place for being. Where the coffee is for those who thirst.

And no questions are left unanswered.

Or for those who thirst for something more.

Where no answers are asked.

If you don't ask them.

From THE DEEP END, a publication of the Coffee House at the University of Arkansas.

The Speakeasy is not a subversive attempt by anyone to convert people to Christianity or "get them in the church." The churches sponsor the Coffee House simply because they believe there is a lack of information and communication among persons. There is a great need for persons to listen to others as well as to speak. Time has long past for us to stop accepting everything that we have been told and to begin some serious questioning about traditional beliefs. We need to ask our questions and come out into the open. This means we will often become involved in untraditional and controversial matters. But this is better than playing safe or remaining silent before the situation of man.

The Speakeasy is open every Friday night at 11 p.m. to 12 midnight and the programs begin at 8:30-9 p.m.

The Speakeasy is for you.
Focus on Fashion

More than 80 Jacksonville University students will focus their attention on "Fashion Happenings" with emphasis on clothing for the family beginning Thursday night.

At the annual JSU event, students will model clothing of their own design and/or fabrication. Guest models will be Jacksonville residents and their children.

Officers of the Leone Cole Home Economics Club, Peggy Prucnal, Sydney Burbage, Kathleen Collum and Martha Smith, will narrate the show.

A reception and open house with refreshments will be at Mason Hall immediately following the show. The public is invited. There is no admission charge.

While Home Economics majors were preparing for their show, 29 co-eds organized Alpha Xi Delta social sorority on the JSU campus. The colony has conducted a rush session and new members are to be announced soon.

Jacksonville University is getting tougher each day. If one doesn't believe it -- he can ask one of the ROTC Rangers after a hand-to-hand combat session.
