Mrs. Schwartz holds clinic in literature

One of the many jobs of Mrs. Robert L. Schwartz is holding clinics in the field of interpretive literature and Mrs. Schwartz held such a clinic for the children's literature class at Jacksonville State University recently. The students who take part in these clinics profit much by experiencing an hour of interpretive literature with her. These sessions are filled with much fun and very rewarding for the prospective teacher.

Mrs. Schwartz holds an AB degree from Mississippi College in child literature and language arts, a degree from Birmingham Southern College in elementary education, drama, and drama interpretation. She received her MA from the University of Alabama in child drama and basic speech. During the summer Mrs. Schwartz attends many summer conferences and holds many clinics like the one held here recently. Some of her other honors, Mrs. Schwartz is a member of Delta Kappa Gamma, the honorary education fraternity, president of the Alabama Speech Association, chairman of the board for the art department of the Alabama Educational Association, chairman of the board of the Alabama Council of Arts in Education.

Although she attends many summer conferences and holds many summer clinics and recently.

Dr. Howell returns to JSU from England

The Roundhouse provided the setting for two plays that were performed on the evening of Thursday, July 26. I, Don Calvert, the author of the two plays, illustrated all matters of the subject of reality very well in "A Taste of Glory" and "Credo." "A Taste of Glory" is the story of how a young man's life was influenced by his winning the Congressional Medal of Honor. This badge of courage afforded Ted Jackson's escape from the dark world of reality into his own realm of self-pity. While in this realm, he felt he had accomplished his goal and saw no motivation for seeking any type of employment which he felt was beneath his dignity. When given the chance to become a person existing in his foot-steps, he realized that his new opportunity for glory was filled with disillusionment.

"Credo" was a very impressive play in many respects. The interest is held by the only two characters, Father Wright and Dion. These two have been driven apart by a mysterious automobile accident which occurred when they were in their teens. The rich kid who had everything became a priest, to relieve the guilt that he felt over the accident. The other kid, a wandering nobody, suffered the persecutions of the town's people and subsisted on bribery money. Dion's creed, that devotion to God was the following are simple for special academic honors: Barbara Jean Gross, Gurnee; Kathy Koody Watkins, Glaucous; Jack meal-and (See GRADUATES, Page 2)

For years there has been friction between the students at Jacksonville State University and the people of the town. Many attempts have been made on both sides to solve and relieve these problems, but all these attempts have been ineffective. But better relations are now becoming a reality, through a group of dedicated faculty and students who have taken an active part in the Jacksonville Jaycees. This may not seem like a lot, but it is a step in the right direction in improving relations between the town and the school. A good example of the helpful cooperation between the town and students was the Jaycees Barbecue which was held last Saturday. Many tickets to this worthwhile event were sold on the campus to teachers and students, to raise money for the Jaycees projects. A staff member at Jacksonville who is also an active worker in the Jaycees, said that the Jacksonville Jaycees, "were the most improved group that he had seen." It may be a while before the differences between the town of Jacksonville and the university are settled, but this effort being laid down by the faculty, staff members and students is a real good start.

A pig in the poke?

Many students have approached me and ask about the social entertaining for next fall, since one of the campaign promises of Ralph Walker was that all the booking would be done in the summer. Ralph said that the reason the booking would be done in the summer, would be because in the fall when students went to buy their Allied Arts cards, they would be buying a “pig in a Poke.” But it looks like the students are going to be buying that “pikes” (including the pig) after all, I know that the Student Government Association has been plagued all summer by financial problems, and a solution was made in one of the SGA meetings to send a representative to Huntsville to confer with the University of Alabama at Huntsville, Athens College and Florence, over working an arrangement where we could get entertainers to make a tour in the state, thus reducing their price, by booking these entertainers in advance.

At the next SGA meeting David announced that since the SGA did not have enough money that the representatives selected to make the trip to Huntsville would not go, and that the fall entertainment would be selected at a later date. When will our entertainment be selected? After we purchase our Allied Arts Cards?

Welcome, Dr. Follo

It has been noted around our campus the presence of Dr. Marshall Follo of Gadsden. Dr. Follo is the newly appointed head of the student health service center. The doctor is one of the most thorough doctors we have ever been associated with. He always looks well with the student and lets them know exactly what the score is. We think this a great asset to the student.

Great strides have been taken by the doctor for the betterment of our student service program, which I considered an expert in the field of dermatology, and is a member of the American Board of Diplomats in the fields of dermatology and pathology. The list of his many qualifications could go on and on, the students here at Jackson State, who have had the pleasure of dealing with Dr. Follo and his able assistant, Ms. Craig Helms, have been the beneficiaries of his knowledge in the field of medicine.

We can only hope that Dr. Follo’s work will continue to improve the lives of the students at Jackson State.

JSU campus will host workshops, band camps

Six workshops and band camps will be held on the Jacksonville State University campus during the next two weeks. The largest gathering will be the Alabama Association of Student Councils Workshop, scheduled for July 30 - Aug. 3. Over 200 high school leaders throughout Alabama will attend the meeting.

The Shirley Rosa Twirling Camp will have some 200 young ladies in attendance from July 30 - Aug. 5.

Scheduled for next week will be a workshop for high school cheerleaders. This event, always set before the Alabama All Star football and basketball game, will be coordinated by Bubba Scott, executive secretary, Alabama Athletic Association. Twenty-five selected cheerleaders from North Alabama will attend.

Three high school bands - Arab High, Fairfield High, and Berry High of Birmingham - will hold a one-week session, prior to school opening in the fall. All three groups will be on the campus from July 30 - Aug. 5.

I have just learned that I was short of copy for this issue so I am the one writing the article for the sole purpose of filling up space. Therefore I strongly suggest that you don’t read it because it contains absolutely nothing of any lasting or permanent value.

But you know I have always been amazed at the fact that an individual (including myself) will write often read it.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor: During the last spring elections for SGA officers, I received a letter from one of the presidential candidates - Ralph Walker.

In this letter he stated that the Peater class of JSU has been the "forgotten class." Ralph promised to do something about this situation, one of the things he planned to do was to get the Peater class a "good time."

Dear Editor: Due to the lack of respect for college money being spent in this town something should be done.

If I might offer a suggestion as to a merchants black list. By this I mean any unfair action of part of the merchants to students should be placed on this list and the store should not be recommended to students.
Doctor Fallo has the most outstanding qualifications. He is well qualified for the position of dealing with Dr. Fallo and his able assistant, Mrs. Craig Helms, realize their competence in the field of medicine.

We can only hope that Dr. Fallo’s enjoyment of his duties here at Jax State will parallel our appreciation of his services.--Martin Ennis and BILL Roberts

JAX STATE ATTRACTS THE YOUNG AND THE OLD

On Monday evening, July 17, at 7:30 p.m., the recital held in the Performance Center of the Music Department.

Mrs. William Benefield of Guntersville was Mr. Pollard's composer. They selected selections covering a full musical range, including a "Concerto" by Mozart and Rimsky-Korsakov's "Concerto for Trombone." Mr. Pollard is the former principal of Jacksonville State University. He is serving as Director of the R.O.T.C. Band at Jacksonville State, and is a member of Phi Mu Alpha SNational Music Fraternity. The major part of Mr. Pollard's study has been done under Mr. John T. Finley, Head of the Music Department at Jacksonville State University.

In this letter he stated that the commer- class at JSU has been the "forgotten class," and he promised to do something about this situation, one of the things being to erect several large sign boards in front of the University to keep the students in line. The merchants should be recommended to continue unfair practices (such as three times). I realize that there are some local merchants who realize the economic power of the University student. If nothing could be done about this bus, it will be planned to deliver the students to better deserv- ing merchants in the surrounding towns. Since we are usually paying a much higher price for things that are sold in the surrounding towns, we should at least be treated in a different way. You know, the redundant, like the English teacher is always talking about, but I won't.

Next, I am going to end the article if some of you haven't read this far but I am a little bit late. It was written at 10:45 am. I hope it is a little bit too late. Only a miracle will save you now, but it didn't.

n the last great assembly of all time, but this achievement aside, he proceeds more of the same. From example, "nearly two-thirds firmly believe in God, and more than half 58 per cent - confess regard Jesus as divine."

That is indeed comic! This writer would no doubt concur that future political conventions in latter terms. Imagine, if you will, this report coming from the 1964 Democratic Convention: "Some Americans have been known to criticize the Democratic Party for having a leftward leaning."

A survey of several of the delegates at the current convention reveals indeed a modest leaning in that direction. However, nearly two-thirds firmly believe in the rights of the individual, and more than half confidently believe capitalism to be the best economic system.

Ridiculous? Of course it is, (Yes, even conservative regard above example as a hyperbole.) It just demonstrates that you can put the most ridiculous things in a religious framework and gullible America will swallow the proverbial camel.

Sure enough, digression, through, for he has more to write. "But in other specific areas, NCC assemblies seem to have established much of the old-time religion. Only one in four accepts Biblical miracles - such as the virgin birth of Christ - as literally true, the Devil 'undeniably' does not exist for one in three, barely 62 per cent look forward with 'complete certainty' to a life after death.

What the others who rejected these orthodox beliefs do believe in was not reported, but it is logical to assume that they were what we might call "Christian - agnostics", which is admittedly a misnomer, but it conveys the idea that one who rejects the "mythology..."

Enlightening is the laconic, "nearly eight out of every ten-agers in America's high schools favor the United States adopting a National Service Program under which they would be drafted for involuntary service in non-military activities, according to a nation-wide poll among junior and senior high school students conducted by Scholastic Magazines. Seventy-seven percent of all students polled favor such involuntary service of the type.

Almost half (48%) of the respondents placing the current national draft system as better than a lottery. The concept of a lottery is almost 20% to favor it, and 80 percent have no opinion. Students against a lottery system lie four main reasons for opposing it: (1) They feel the system is too arbitrary and (2) the school girl students queried in the poll, such involuntary national service for them should include "tasks of protecting and conserving our country and developing our country, those countries we wish to aid."

Fifty-two percent of all students polled, which is over half of the high school girl students queried in the poll, such involuntary national service for them should include "tasks of protecting and conserving our country and developing our country, those countries we wish to aid."

Sixty-two percent of those who favor a lottery cite the elimination of volunteers, a greater chance for attack, and the idea that a lottery is a fair system for selecting individuals (52%). It would be over the present system (47%), and it would enable those against the lottery (4%) to keep on the field the forces they have the men they want (8%).

As a result, nearly two-thirds of all students polled, more than 2,000 selected students queried answered "yes" to the question, "Should every able-bodied American boy 18 years old be required to go into the armed forces for at least one year?" Thirty-two percent answered "no," and 14 percent had no opinion. If a National Service Program were adopted, nearly 52 percent of the boys said they did not think non-military service should be any longer than military service.

The poll, taken by the Institute of Student Opinion of the Socialre Research Center, New York, involved in-depth questionnaires rating by a scientifically selected sampling of 2,559 junior and senior high school students in public, private, and parochial school systems across the nation.

Other findings:
- Seventy-seven percent of all students polled favor such involuntary service.
- Approximately 48% of the respondents prefer the lottery system over the national draft.
- More than 50% of the female students surveyed would opt for military service.

In conclusion, according to the poll, a substantial majority of high school students in the United States favor an alternative to the current national draft system. The lottery system emerges as the preferred option.

Jacksonville State
to host 1947 team

Jacksonville State's only undefeated, unbeaten football team in modern history -- the 1947 club -- will be honored this fall at homecoming.

The 1947 team will be special guests at the Oct. 28 football game against Lourdes College at both the alumni dinner and half-time festivities.

Games won by the 1947 Jacksonville State team were as follows:

- Gordon, 13-0
- Troy, 14-0
- St. Bernard's, 27-0
- Austin Peay, 7-6
- Mar., 53-13
- Pembroke, 48-0
- West End, 12
- Normac Park, 45-0
- Florida State, 7-0

And while the unblemished record was the big thing for the 1947 Gamecocks, several members have gained high national statistics according to the National Collegiate Athletic Association as well as the Jax club in team statistics.

Major league races producing surprises

The major league baseball season for so far this year has been one of complete surprise, because teams counted on for low finishes have solidated the top of their leagues. The Chicago Cubs who haven't finished in first division in 20 years find that they are only two games off the pace, in spite of a seven game losing streak, and the Boston Red sox in the American League have benefited greatly from their youth program, and are still in a good spot to capture the crown.

In the National League, the Brooklyn Dodgers, Philadelphia Athletics, and the St. Louis Browns are running neck and neck.

IM season nears end

To paraphrase and old sporting saying, "Who's in first place counts most, but who's in second is the most important." In the case of the teams in the boys' summer softball league themselves, what complicates the matter even more is the fact that there are only three weeks left of the season, followed by bad weather and many of the postponed games will be served up this fall. The No. 1 team, who actually would be the intramural champs, is a long shot as there are three teams, the Creekmen, Ridgerunners and the Nameless 9.

The Nameless 9, undefeated, has turned into a batting, rbi's, home run story. The second team all-stars will play the Nameless 9 on either Friday, July 7 or Monday, July 17.

James Potter, Gene Martin, Ken Elrod, Richard Ellis, Randy Taylor, Johnny Sheldon, Coach O'Shields and Ralph Taylor will be the second team manager.

The All-Star team will consist of some star players:

- Sammy Thompson
- Larry Steiner
- John O'Shields
- Dan Morris
- Bob Moore
- Bill Stone
- Jerry Moore
- Rich Jones
- Ken Elrod
- Jim Abernathy

The all-stars will play the team from the Nameless 9 on either Friday, July 7 or Monday, July 17.

JSU signees to play in classic

Although the announcement of the North-South game has not been made public to date, several Jackson State signees are slated to play in the classic in Tuscaloosa this August.

Last year Bubba Long was tabbed the top 1A-2A basketball player in the state, but this year he went up to Birmingham and defeated Oak Mountain High by a score of 83-78. The Crimson Tide will have to play well to win this game and it looks as if they will be up for the challenge.

BU executive council. The service was held in the basement of the University Center where the deceased had served faithfully and for many years following the erection of the Coliseum Center, made a different church service.

The Red Hen was the only clutch hitter in baseball today in the game against Tuscaloosa High. They won the All-Star title for the National League of Bama Girls, which has been split into three parts. The 15th inning. If he hadn’t hit the home run the team might have still been playing.

The National League race looks promising during the last week of the season or maybe the last day of last season. The 15th inning. If he hadn’t hit the home run the team might have still been playing.
