State's Newest University on the Move

Jacksonville State University continues its rapid growth. With over 4,300 students currently enrolled, administration officials say enrollment will reach 5,000 in September 1967.

Within the last year a number of new buildings have been completed and occupied. The new cafeteria, which will accommodate 2,400 students, was opened in September and dedicated on Homecoming Day. It was named Self Cafeteria in honor of Dr. Reuben Self, a long time professor of education who retired in June 1966.

A new residence hall for men was dedicated in September in honor of the late Frank Dixon, governor of Alabama in the early 1940's. It will house approximately 250 men.

A new residence hall for women has been completed and occupied but has yet to be named. It accommodates 250 women. Housing for women is the most critical need on the campus.

Bibb Graves Hall, the main administrative building, was completely renovated during the summer of 1966 -- new floors, ceilings, lighting, heating, and air conditioning.

Currently under construction is a new $2 million classroom building directly east of the International House. Also planned in the very near future for this general area of the campus is a new library, also across from the International House. The contract for an athletic dormitory and a new student union building is scheduled to be awarded in the immediate future.

All new facilities which have been built in the past several years as well as all buildings planned for the future will be fully air conditioned.

Administration officials are going all out to improve the quality of the faculty since being elevated to university status.

Dr. Theron Montgomery, dean of the school, has already started a search for at least 15 additional Ph.D.'s to supplement the faculty.

Starting this fall, the state's newest university will offer master's programs in business administration, the arts and sciences as well as education.

A new closed-circuit television system is now being installed in Bibb Graves Hall. This innovation will be of tremendous help to faculty members and the student body.

JACKSONVILLE STATE UNIVERSITY

WINTER 1967

We Are Now a University

Jacksonville State College officially became Jacksonville State University on Nov. 22, 1966.

During the recent meeting of the Alabama Legislature, a bill was passed which authorized the State Board of Education to change the name of any educational institution under its jurisdiction.

The State Board of Education, meeting in Montgomery on Nov. 22, 1966, unanimously approved the change in name. However, there will be more than a change in name. Additional courses will be added and the graduate division will be greatly expanded.

Women's Group Helps

The Alabama Federation of Women's Clubs has contributed about $21,000 to their International House Program Scholarship fund. Their goal is $25,000 so as to establish a perpetual annual scholarship to some young lady from a foreign country to study at Jacksonville State University and participate in the International House Program activities.

It was in 1953 when the organization under

Legacy Left to IH Foundation

A legacy of $1,000 has been left to the International Endowment Foundation, Incorporated at Jacksonville State University by the late Miss Myra J. Sterne of Birmingham.

Miss Sterne, a sister of investment broker, M. H. Sterne, was deeply interested in the unique International House Program at Jacksonville State. She and her brother contributed substantially to the original fund drive to build the present International House Program.

The legacy will be paid in November of 1967. John R. Stewart, director of International House, said the legacy "will be used to further world understanding and cultural appreciation among students who participate in this program."

It was in 1953 when the organization, under the leadership of Mrs. W. M. Beck, state president from Fort Payne, undertook this project. Mrs. Ernest Stone of Jacksonville has served as scholarship committee chairman of this organization for many years. Mrs. J. L. Morrison of Greensboro is currently serving as state president of the Alabama Federation of Women's Clubs.

Endowment Foundation Heart of Program

The International Endowment Foundation Incorporated was organized in 1953. It is a tax exempt, non-profit, organization dedicated to the support of the International House Program at Jacksonville State University. The late Col. Harry M. Ayers, publisher of The Anniston Star, served as the first chairman of the Board of Trustees of the organization.

Under the leadership of the late Colonel Ayers, the first International House (a small bungalow) was constructed on campus. Soon the trustees began planning for expansion and for adequate facilities to provide living accommodations for the foreign as well as American students accepted for membership in the program.

The present International House was dedicated in October 1964. The Board of Trustees spearheaded the fund drive for the building and equipment. More than $200,000 was raised by the trustees under the capable leadership of Chairman Col. C. W. Dugette, Jr. The International House now provides living accommodations for 40 students. In addition, there is a spacious living room, three dining rooms (Spanish, French, and German), and a memorial room, offices, and study rooms. The basement is used for a television lounge as well as for all types of recreation.

The International Endowment Foundation continues its support of the program. Officers are Ralph Porch, chairman; Mrs. A. C. Michaels, vice chairman; Mrs. Dan Waite, secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. W. M. Beck, chaplain. Other members of the board include Dr. Houston Cole, Dr. W. J. Calvert of

How Selected Forty Students in Program

There are 40 students in the International House Program at Jacksonville State University. Twenty-four are American students and 16 are from countries around the world.

American students are selected by the director after having submitted complete autobiographical data and having a personal interview. Consideration is given to such factors as where the student lives; what his major and minor subjects are; previous experience in various school, community, civic and church activities; interest in learning about the various cultures of the world; willingness to participate in a series of planned and scheduled forums, seminars, and social events; and willingness to take time to interpret the International House Program to guests who visit. Each American student pays all of his own expenses. He has no choice of roommates, as all roommates are assigned. Students interested in applying for membership in the International House Program should contact the director's office.

Students from other countries are selected by the director. Written applications, autobiographical data, school records, health records, recommendations from priests, ministers, teachers, etc., and photographs of applicant and applicant's family are all required. Each applicant must file evidence of competency in English.

All foreign students are on partial or full scholarship. All are enrolled as special students and must take a minimum of 12 semester hours credit. As a part of the scholarship requirement, each foreign student is expected to be available for about ten hours per week for meetings, presentations of programs for various organizations, etc.

Various agencies and organizations are called upon to assist in securing qualified applicants and in checking recommendations. These include the Institute of International Education, Rotary Clubs of various countries, cultural affairs officers of our American Embassies, and former students of the International House Program.

The first step for any student interested in becoming a member of the International House Program is to contact the director's office.

Dr. Canham was a special guest of the International House while on campus.

International House Students A-Go-Go

During the past year, students from the International House Program have participated in a wide variety of programs and events.

A tour of the world-famous space facilities at Rocket City, USA-Huntsville was arranged by the Huntsville Rotary Club for all the foreign students. Mr. T. Pickens Gates was chairman of this tour.

All students attended the International Tea at the Birmingham Museum of Art. This event was sponsored by the Birmingham Business and Professional Women's Club. All "foreigners" in this entire area of Alabama were invited. The students had a delightful time visiting with peoples from their regions of the world.

In February, 1966, four students had the privilege of appearing on the Alabama Educational Television Network. It was estimated that the audience was in excess of 150,000 viewers. Another group of students will appear on this same network in January of 1967.

For the second consecutive year, students from International House participated in the Rotary International District 686 Conference. The conference in 1966 was held in Tuscaloosa. The group entertained for the Rotarians and Rotary Anns at the Sunday evening banquet. There were about 600 persons attending.

The Alabama Federation of Women's Clubs

held their annual State Convention in Montgomery. Students from International House presented a program following the noon luncheon meeting. Officers and delegates from all over Alabama made up the audience.

In addition, students from International House have been guests of Rotary Clubs in a number of Alabama cities for weekends. Also the students have presented interesting and varied programs to school, church, and community organizations. Each program has been planned so as to enable all present to know a little more about the cultures and customs of the people of the world.

Club Sponsors Scholarship

Since 1955 the clubs of District 686 of Rotary International have sponsored a scholarship for a foreign student at International House at Jacksonville State University. There are 34 Rotary Clubs in the district with a total membership of about 2,000. Each Rotarian contributes $1 per year and the proceeds provide a scholarship. Carlos Sanchez of Paraguay is the Rotary Scholarship recipient for the current year.

In addition to the support which District 686 has given, many of the individual Rotary Clubs and Rotarians have made contributions to the support of International House Program.

The recipients of the Rotary Scholarship include: Monhammed Ali Boutaleb, Morocco; Martin Broadbent, England; Hanspeter Strauch, Switzerland; Uta Fritzsche, Germany; Marilyn Rumble, Australia; Franz Schneider, Austria; Jose Queimado, Portugal; Henrik Tham, Sweden; Uffe Eriksen, Denmark.

Conference held

The International House, Jacksonville State University, were chosen as the place for the first Alabama Conference on Foreign Student Affairs. This conference was held on July 20 through July 22, 1966.

A MEMORIAL TO IH

Mr. and Mrs. Horace L. Gray (left) are shown as they presented a color television set International House as a memorial to their late son, David, who died in August 1966. David was a member of the International House Program for two years, 1964-66. Accepting the Memorial gift is Abdul Itani (Lebanon), Sara Wehant and Joe Williamson--all International House Program students.

FAMOUS VISITOR

Dr. Walter Judd, left, is being welcomed to the International House by John Stewart (right), director of the IH Program, and Mrs. Houston Cole. Dr. Judd, former United States congressman, was the keynote speaker during Religious Emphasis Week on campus in April, 1966. He is but one important dignitary that has spent some time in the beautiful International House building. Most VIP visitors to the campus either stay in the House or have meals with the university president, Dr. Cole. Each month the IH has a visiting speaker for the enlightenment of the foreign students. They look forward to these monthly seminar type meetings, primarily for the discussion sessions after the speech.
