Dance Co. To Perform Dec. 3-4

The Dance Company of Jacksonville State University was organized the fall semester of 1963 under the artistic direction of Mr. Dariusz Hochman, an internationally experienced performing artist and teacher of the dance. Mrs. Palmer Daugette Calvert, head of the department of physical education, relates that "a major goal of all physical activity is to move efficiently, with grace, dignity, rhythm and poise. The dance, in particular, lends itself to such development. It was with this in mind that the Dance Section of the physical education department has broadened its offerings. Periods of strenuous and highly motivated movement are needed for human balance, mental as well as physical, in the world today more than ever before."

Mr. Hochman has a (See DANCE CO., Page 5)

U. S. Sen. William Proxmire of Wisconsin will speak at Jacksonville State University on Friday, Dec. 6, at 11:30 a.m.

The public is invited to hear the chairman of the joint economic committee of congress speak on the subject, "How and Where Congress Can Cut Federal Spending."

Sen. Proxmire has been in politics since 1950, when he was elected to the Wisconsin State Assembly. In 1957 he won an upset victory for the senate seat left vacant by the death of Sen. Joseph McCarty. With this win, he became the first Democrat in 25 years to win election to the U.S. Senate from Wisconsin.

Proxmire is the ranking member of the Senate Banking and Currency Committee and serves as chairman of its Financial Institutions Subcommittee; is a member of the powerful Senate Appropriations Committee and serves on the Senate Democratic Steering Committee, and the Senatorial Campaign Committee.

He was the primary backer of the truth in leading legislation that had been locked in a committee for seven years. It later passed the Senate by a landmark 92-0 vote.

He is a graduate of the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration and the Harvard Graduate School of Public Administration. He taught government at Harvard and is the author of a book "Can Small Business Survive?"

Spirited Or Spiritless?

Spirited or spiritless - - which category fits the majority of JSU students?

According to Webster, spirited is defined as "showing spirit; animated; lively". The definition of spiritless is "destitute of life or spirit; dejected; depressed".

As football season drew nearer its close, so did our school spirit. It dropped from the fine spirited beginning to a rather spiritless ending.

The November 16 Livingston game is a good example of what I'm talking about. The football teams, cheerleaders, coaches, and bands on the muddy field at Paul Snow Stadium were met by the half-filled stands of spiritless, non-cheering students.

After the dubious response to the cheerleaders' call for "All For Jacksonville - Stand Up and Holler!", one cheerleader asked, "Where are all the rest of you folks from?" As could be expected, he received no answer.

Basketball season starts this Tuesday night with the promise of a victorious and exciting season. We have a team to be proud of and one that we should support. Let's work for a SPIRITED basketball season - supported with your attendance and spirit!

How To Really Succeed

It has come to the editor's attention that there are many things wrong with this old world.

A good many of these problems could be solved by simply filling out less forms, holding fewer staff meetings, cutting down on office luncheons, doing away with monthly forums and never accepting an invitation to give or attend a speech.

It Takes Manners

One of the merchants of Jacksonville has finally come up with the ultimate answer in regard to displaying his "affection" for the student's trade. A certain student wanted to cash a check at a business that was geared to take care of this type transaction, but was told "There will be a ten cent charge."

The student then decided to try elsewhere, and told the merchant, "I've decided not to cash my check here." The merchant replied, "Well, that's all right, and furthermore, don't come by here anymore." The previous statement sounds like a low-life individual talking to a stray dog. This reply by the merchant is undoubtedly one of the rudest answers I have ever heard a businessman give to a student.

The student did not have any "smart remarks" to make to the proprietor. He only asked for a simple service. Upon changing his mind, he was insulted. If there are any "smart alecks" they are the establishments that apparently have forgotten their upbringing, if they ever had any.

By listening to this student tell of the businessman, he unfortunately was not raised to be a "gentleman", much less one who has to deal with the public.

It is a sad situation when our "elders" cannot exhibit the etiquette they expect us to show them. After all, basic manners is all it takes!

Letters To The Editor

Friendliness

Dear Editor,

It has been said that our student body is the friendliest in the South. This may be true, but I am convinced that we have our share of kleptomania. It seems that some people on this campus would steal 50¢ off a dead man and slap him because it wasn't a dollar.

My roommate and I had seven dollars stolen from our room. To make things worse, the popular comment of fellow students was that I should have had my door locked. Nobody has the right to enter a private room and take anything that doesn't belong to him just because the door isn't locked.

The other night, in the gym, someone stole my sweat suit. This was no honest mistake. My sweat suit was folded with my jacket and shirt, and only the sweat suit was taken. There is no excuse for this type of dishonesty.

Again, just recently, my roommate and I were playing football in front of Crow Hall. My roommate set his football aside to use a better one somebody brought. When we had finished playing, his football was nowhere to be found. The ball wasn't worth much, but the idea of someone walking off with it knowing it wasn't his perturbs me to no end.

When something belonging to a dormitory is stolen, the cost is divided among the occupants of that dorm to pay. This may be the only way to replace stolen objects, but it doesn't seem fair to me. Why should everyone have to pay for one person's dishonesty?

This letter may not do any good other than allowing me to let off a little steam, but I hope it will cause some people to stop and think. I remember reading these words somewhere and I think the following would appropriately sum up this letter.

"Thou Shall Not Steal."

Poor Lighting

Dear Editor

As a new freshman on the JSU campus, I have found one big fault which should be corrected concerning our campus. Certain areas on our campus grounds need lights installed for the protection of students at night.

Dark areas provide perfect conditions for maniacs who try to attack girls. This fact has already been proven this year by an attempted attack made by two unknown boys on freshmen girls. They chose the darkest area on campus for the "scene of their crime." This area was the unlit area between Daugette Hall and

There is one more area which must be brought forth in this letter. This one being the area between the library and Cole Auditorium. If it was lit up, more girls could go to the library at night. Thus less deficiencies might be sent home.

As a JSU student I feel the officials of the college should do something about this handicap of our college and as a girl I plead for them to act.

Linda D. Day

Reply

Thank you, Miss Day, for bringing this subject to light.

We have heard several complaints from various students concerning poor lighting on campus, especially in the vicinity of the library.

I talked with Chief James Jackson concerning the problem and he said the campus security office had suggested several new lights which have been put up, and others are being planned. Chief Jackson said he had not received requests for additional lights near the library until now, and added that he would send a request for more lights in this area.

Spirit Talk

Dear Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the many faithful students who have supported the "fighting Gamecocks" throughout this football season --win or lose.

After talking to Coach Blevins, who feels that the spirit has been great this year, I realize that support means more to the boys when people actually think. Our football team is made up of a bunch of really great guys, and, even though we (they) haven't won every game, they haven't let the school down one time. They represent JSU and we should all be proud of them.

Although football season is drawing to a close, don't let the spirit die and fade away; there is more to come. Basketball season is about to open and these boys need support just as the football team.

Let's help the basketball team have a successful season by giving them our support and attendance at the games!

Shelila Williams
Spirit Committee, Chairman.

Privileges

Dear Editor:

As a dormitory representative on the Student Government Association, I would like to express my opinion concerning the members of that organization voting themselves choice advance seats to the big events sponsored by the SGA.

Entertainment is one of the primary functions of the SGA. In this area its goal is, and should be, to try to satisfy everyone as much as possible. It is almost an impossible goal to satisfy everyone. Yet, it is something that every executive officer, senator, and dormitory representative should strive to accomplish. Although several gripes have been brought forward concerning the system employed in issuing Little Anthony (See LETTERS, Page 3)

Olive Pit Hits Stands

The "Olive Pit," a student newspaper printed off campus by JSU students put out its first issue last week.

If you were fortunate enough to receive a copy (evidently only a few were printed) then you probably got a charge out of it. (The Chanticleer did.)

It contained such tidbits as: "Tiny Tim is a drag," and "Who's kidding who! Who would want a meal ticket," and many others. It also contained an editorial on the JSU discipline policy and a fine blast at local businesses.

In the past there have been several student newspapers but the Olive Pit is the most entertaining one we've seen. The publishers of this masterpiece have chosen to remain anonymous, however.

The only thing we can add to Vol. I, No. 1 of the Olive Pit is this: "In 1830 a New England city tried floridation of their water supply. Today they are all dead."

& the Imperials tickets, the present administration has come closer to satisfying every student than any administration in the past.

I feel that a step was made in the opposite direction last Monday night when the members voted themselves the right to receive choice seats to the big events. This had been the policy in previous administrations and had been followed by a series of gripes. Due primarily to these gripes, SGA members were not given advance tickets to the Little Anthony Show. They were forced to fight the line for tickets like everyone else. This normal procedure took a little of the members' time, but they were helping to fulfill the entertainment goal of trying to satisfy every student. At the Little Anthony Show, students were happy to find that the choice seats were not reserved for SGA members. One student commented that the SGA had finally grown up. Most of the SGA members realized

The SGA members must realize that their primary function is to represent the organization which elected them to serve on the SGA. I did not feel I could represent the men of Logan Hall by voting for something that could only harm and not possibly help them. My opinion was in the extreme minority as only two other members chose to oppose the legislation. However, I feel that the members should reconsider their vote and ask themselves if the people they represent are in favor of such legislation. If the people the members represent are in favor of this legislation, the members have done their jobs. However, if this proves not to be the case, I hope the members will join with me in repealing this legislation.

Kaleidoscope

Political Possibilities

By Mickey Craton

With the election over and Richard Nixon now our President - elect, the nation's political interests has now shifted to the cabinet and other appointments that Mr. Nixon will make. One theme is predominate in these speculations, and that is Mr. Nixon will, as the unofficial uniter of the party, seek to put men of various political leanings into his cabinets. Mr. Nixon is generally considered to be a moderate, or perhaps a moderate - conservative, and speculation has it that the liberal wing of the GOP will come in for its share of the spoils. Specifically, New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller has been mentioned as a leading contender for appointment as the new Secretary of State. Why should he, or the liberal wing in general, be so rewarded?

The question is pertinent, since the people elected Mr. Nixon as a representative of a particular spot on the political spectrum. It should follow that the majority of his choices, especially such important ones as the major cabinet posts, should reflect this political position as well. Even considering things from a practical viewpoint, there is little justification in spreading things so thin. Men like Mr. Nixon and Gov. Rockefeller have very different political philosophies, even though they are both covered by the very general party label, "Republican." Clashes would be expected between the two, or else one will simply become a "yes" man to the other. Neither situation is desirable. Unity should be reflected in our government, but it should be a genuine unity of general agreement on issues, and not an artificial unity contrived by placing diverse political specimens in general proximity to one another.

From a purely vengeful point of view, Mr. Nixon owes next to nothing to the liberal wing of his party. Actual support from that end came more from a lack of outright antagonism that characterized the 1964 Goldwater debacle (not that the debacle is Goldwater's property, he simply suffered the most from the situation and was pronounced guilty by association with defeat) than from real support. The Republican lost in every Northwestern state, plus Michigan, controlled by a liberal Republican governor. This might not necessarily indicate a lack of support on the part of the governors, since they obviously cannot control the voters of their state, but there are two generalizations about this that could be made - 1) since ALL of the states lost, it should be reasonable to assume that somebody did not pull his load and, 2) since all of the states went for Mr. Humphrey and presently have liberal Republican governors, these areas are not representative of the mainstream of Republicanism.

This all has a bearing, however tenuous it might now seem, to the two - party system, as well. It was once true that the two parties had fairly divergent philosophies and the voters had a wider range - a choice, but today this is less true. After Goldwater's 1964 defeat, now - New York mayor John Lindsay was being looked upon as the savior of the Republican Party in his 1965 mayoralty campaign. This despite the fact that he did everything to prove that he was not really a Republican except change his registration. It seems that many influential liberals are not content with controlling one party, but will only feel safe when they possess them both.

One other bit of political fluff should be mentioned. It is now a commonplace, and at best a mildly derogatory one, that Mr. Nixon won on the strength of a sort of sinister, "Southern Strategy". Somehow lost in all of this self - righteous palaver is the fact that up until very recently the South was the "Solid South" for the Democrats. No one seemed to find it so morally reprehensible for the Democrats to go into office on the strength of the Southern segregationist vote, but, as M. Stanton Evans pointed out in "The Future of Conservatism," once the Republicans decided that it was foolish to continue to concede the South to the Democrats in the elections, it suddenly became suspect for the Republicans to try to win votes nor their party, which only demonstrates the prevalence of hypocrisy in our life.

Finally, one other little item. This came over the UPI wires the other night, and I'll pass it along without comment, for it obviously needs none.

"The Lord's Prayer has 56 words . . . the Ten Commandments 297 . . . the Declaration of Independence 300 . . . but a recent government release took 26 - thousand - 211 words to discuss the price of cabbage."

Road Games

With another football season past, I could not help but miss going to Chattanooga, Tenn., for the big weekend. For those of you that were not here during the 1967 season, a great movement was started where everyone went to Chattanooga for the football game. This weekend lasted sometimes into the next week (for those who couldn't make it back). I really missed the opportunity to go for a weekend of relaxation.

In past football seasons, considering Jacksonville always use to play in Chattanooga, nearly everyone tried to make this road game in order to support the team and have a good time. The situation that presented itself at the game, as well as the after-game parties, were really something to anticipate. The week before the Nooga game was usually filled with excitement as students started preparing for the big weekend. Parties were planned, and anyone who really wanted to throw a "blast," always went to the Nooga game. The time I went to Chattanooga was just great!

All of the above is just to ask this question, "Why not another Nooga?? Any game away from home could be proposed as the annual "get together game." Since the Nooga game is no more, why not designate another road game as the one for "fun?"

The Spirit Committee within the SGA could make the arrangements as to what the different clubs and organizations needed for parties in the designated city. The committee would probably be very successful in raising the "spirits" of the student body - - whether physically or mentally. To quote one football player, "I felt so good when those punch of " " were in a couple of lines for us to pass through."

With approximately ten months left before the 1969 season starts, there is ample time for planning the "big road game." Excluding all of the "fun" that would be available, it would also give the student body more incentive to make the games away from home. Whether you go to the game with "high spirits," "spirits" to get you high, or just sober thoughts wanting to have a good time, a game away from home could not miss if adequate preparation went into the planning of such an event.

Biology Club Is Formed

Plans of interested students and faculty members became a reality as the Biology Club of Jacksonville State University was formed at an organizational meeting Oct. 29.

At that time a committee was appointed to draw up a constitution for approval. At the meeting Nov. 11, that constitution was approved by members present. Officers were then elected to lead the newly-formed club for the year. They include president, Tommy Turner; vice-president, Judy Stanley; secretary, Janet Langley, and treasurer, Anita Salmon. Committees were also set up including publicity, membership, honors, and program committees.

Through the club, interested members hope to promote an interest in biology and to promote better fellowship among majors and minors. Guest speakers in the field of biology will be invited to speak at monthly meetings concerning open fields in job opportunities and graduate work in the field of biology. Dr. Wallace Hayes from the University of Alabama visited Jacksonville, Wednesday, Nov. 13, to confer with students interested in graduate work in microbiology.

A definite date was not set for the next meeting, but a tentative date of Dec. 9, was discussed pending non-conflict with other club meetings. Watch for signs concerning date and time.

PEACE CORP EXPERIENCE TREMENDOUS ASSET TO JSU INSTRUCTORS . . . Mr. and Mrs. Seldon Daniels

Daniels Are Versatile Members Of PE Dept.

Seldon Daniels and his wife, Ida, teach physical education here at JSU but if the foreign language department gets short of instructors both could fill the bill very nicely.

The Daniels received a cram Spanish course a couple of years ago after joining the Peace Corp and finding their assignment would be Venezuela.

"We spent some 300 class room hours in Spanish during a 10 week period," Daniels remembered. "And of course we utilized the language during the two years of teaching in Venezuela."

The Peace Corps was a very gratifying experience for the young couple and both felt it helped them become more qualified teachers.

While in Venezuela, both taught in the public high schools there, plus he coached basketball, track and field, and volleyball.

Why did they join the peace corps? A letter written by the young couple while in Venezuela explains their reason: "Our service in the Peace Corps has been a tremendous learning experience. Everyone should have an opportunity to be a foreigner once in their life. Our work here is sometimes difficult and unrewarding, but we hope to leave Venezuela a little better than we found it. We hope they learned as much from us as we learned from them. We hope their understanding and tolerance of us equals that which we gained. Some of our life's greatest aspirations and satisfactions were realized through our peace corps service."

Mrs. Daniels said she liked the program from the first and "I wanted to help spread the goodwill of America abroad, and to help others help themselves."

It all happened shortly after they were married in November, 1963. In June they joined. For 10 weeks they attended a competitive training course at Springfield College in Massachusetts.

From 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. six days a week they attended the school, which included extensive testing from the Federal Bureau of Investigation, psychologists and were under continuous observation.

Following their two years in the Peace Corps, they returned to the states and in the fall of '66 he obtained an assistantship at Kearney State College in Nebraska where he was assistant Director of the Intramural sports program, and his wife taught physical education in a local elementary school.

Both received their masters degrees from that school in August of this year before accepting positions at Jacksonville State.

most impressive and well-traveled past as professional dancer and teacher. While in his native Poland, he was one of 60 students accepted from over a thousand applicants to enter the National School of Ballet in Warsaw. He studied and practiced in a desperate hope that he would not be among the 30 eliminated at the end of the year. His attempt successful, he went on to study under Irene Szymanska and Leon Wojcikowski and was artistic director of the first Contemporary Ballet Company in Warsaw.

After realizing that his creativity could not reach its peak in Poland and that dance is an international art form, Hochman left for Paris. In 1959, he received a contract to perform as soloist with the Leonide Massie Ballet Company. He toured Europe with this company for two years during which time he made three ballet films as feature dancer.

In 1961, he emigrated to the United States. Performing first in San Francisco and then in New York, Hochman was a soloist with the Metropolitan Opera Company in the fall of 1961, as well as doing concert tours. Still traveling in 1963, Mr. Hochman next performed as principle dancer with the Malmo Stadsteater and the Oscars Theater in Sweden. While feature dancer in the Igmarm Theater in Stockholm, he taught classes and eight of his students were among 12 accepted for the government Opera School.

Invited to be a guest teacher at the Harkness House School of Ballet Arts in New York, Hochman decided to stay on in the United States. He has performed as a guest artist on television programs and has taught classes since he has been in America; also, he was feature dancer in Nashville and Philadelphia. Mr. Hochman was principle dancer in "Cross and Swords" production in St. Augustine, Fla., and was a teacher at the Martha Jackson School of Ballet in Jacksonville, Fla.

The University Dance Company is fortunate enough to have students with extensive ballet training. Among the members with previous dance experience is Miss Cindy Church. She has studied classical ballet for 14 years and is the female soloist with the company. The company is composed of an equal number of male and female dancers who perform numbers originally choreographed by Mr. Hochman. Under the direction of Mr. Dave Walters, a music ensemble will participate in this program. Mr. Rudolph Lass will play the piano solo "Barcarola" by Principle dancers in the Dance Company Concert will be Cindy Church, left, Dariusz Hochman, teacher of the class, and Ceil Jenkins.

Jim Blevins Resigns As Head Football Coach

Jim Blevins, Saturday afternoon, a week ago, watched the Jacksonville State Gamecocks play their last game as his football team. A new head coach will be named at Jacksonville State within the next few days.

Blevins, Wednesday morning, Nov. 20, tendered his resignation after five seasons at JSU, and Dr. Houston Cole, Jax State president, accepted it.

The changing of the guard came as no real surprise to those close to Jacksonville State football. One source said that Blevins, as far back as the third game of the 1968 season, had said he would not return as head coach next fall.

There had been other reports cropping up more frequently within the last two weeks, that Blevins' tenure at Jacksonville State was coming to an end.

Dr. Houston Cole, in announcing the resignation, said "Coach Jim Blevins has submitted to me his resignation as head football coach at Jacksonville State University.

"Jim stated that he felt it was in the best interests of our athletic program for him to take this action, and I'm deeply appreciative of the attitude he has taken in regard to the situation.

"I would like to make it clear that Coach Blevins leaves us here at Jacksonville State with our good will and the promise of any assistance we can be to him in relation to his future plans."

Blevins said, "It is with a sense of regret that I have taken this action, but I do feel it is in the best interests of myself, my family, and Jacksonville State.

"It is my hope that Jacksonville State athletics will continue to grow and prosper as they have since I've been here. I hope and trust I have contributed to the university, and I will always have the interests of Jacksonville State at heart."

Blevins came to Jacksonville State as an assistant coach under Don Salls in the spring of 1964. It was open knowledge Blevins would become head coach at the end of that season.

And that's exactly what happened.

Blevins' success was immediate, near unbelievable, as he quickly put together records of 7-2-0 and 8-2-0, winning back-to-back Alabama Collegiate Conference Championships in the process.

The 8-2-0 season, Jacksonville State's finest since a 10-1-0 mark in 1955, included a bowl invitation to the first annual "Space City Classic" in Huntsville.

A former member of the Alabama Crimson Tide football team, Blevins' first coaching assignment was the head post at his old high school, Lawrence County in Moulton.

During his playing days at Alabama, Blevins was named co-captain of the 1959 Alabama team and played with the Tide in the Liberty Bowl that year.

Following a two-year stint at Moulton, Blevins returned to Alabama as an assistant coach, and was there two seasons before coming to Jacksonville State.

During his past three seasons at JSU, he has seen five of his football players sign professional contracts, three with the San Diego Chargers.

Bama Gets 8-2 Revenge

On Sunday afternoon, November 17, the Jax State IH soccer team met the U of A team on the rain slick field of Anniston Academy. The result of this encounter was a 8-2 defeat for Jax State.

Sunday's game was especially unique in that the Jax State players, who have no standard equipment, were able to hold Bama down to only 8 goals.

Jax State's players were arrayed in a mixture of swim trunks, tee shirts, and tennis shoes. The shoes proved to be too slick for running on the wet field and several pairs were abandoned; the players preferring to try to stay on their barefeet when chasing and kicking the ball.

Gamecocks Drop Final Games To Livingston And Florence

The Livingston State Tigers capitalized on a fumble recovery by Charles Abernathy to score and then turned the job over to a sterling defensive unit in beating the Jacksonville Gamecocks 7-0, Saturday, Nov. 16.

The sixth straight victory gave the Tigers sole possession of a second place in the ACC, and upped their season mark to 7-1.

The game left the Gamecocks 3-5 for the year and an appointment with Florence for the dubious honor of the cellar occupancy.

The Tiger defense unit, led by Vito Paparella, James Ingram, Duane Johnson, James Massey and Abernathy, held the Gamecocks to minus 20 yards rushing and kept them outside the 17-yard line.

Richard Abston, with 31 carries for 126 yards, was the workhorse for the Tigers in the ground control game.

Midway of the opening quarter, Abernathy pounced on a Doc Lett fumble at the Gamecock 20.

In four carries, Abston and Page placed the ball at the Gamecock eight.

Page tossed a down-and-outter to Larry Norris in the end zone for the score.

Bernie Buttram booted the extra point and Livingston led, 7-0.

Moments later, Charley Parker intercepted a Lett pass to set up another Tiger threat.

Abston ripped off a 28-yard gainer and Page tossed a 15 yarder to Waldon Tucker and the visitors had a first down at the JSU 15. Ray Emanuel blocked Buttram's field goal attempt to end the drive.

Neither team threatened the remainder of the half.

The Jaxmen's lone threat of the game came in the final quarter when sub quarterback Billy Henderson completed two passes to John Niblett and Mike Munhall which carried to the Tiger 17.

The Tigers threw the Jaxmen back to the 34 and 41 yard field goal attempt by Danny Kempt was short.

Florence Drops Jaxmen 38-10

Florence State, finishing strong with four straight victories, wiped out seven years of frustration at the hands of Jacksonville State, on the afternoon of Nov. 23, exploring for three touchdowns in five minutes and 10 seconds of the first quarter and then coasting home for an easy 38-10 victory.

The loss was the sixth of the season for Jacksonville State against three victories, and marked the end of Jim Blevins' tenure as head football coach at Jacksonville.

It was an injury shattered football team that Blevins put on the field Saturday, and the biggest name missing was that of Bubba Long, junior tailback star from Oneonta. With Bubba watching from the sidelines, Jacksonville practically had no running game, and the offense centered almost entirely around scrambling freshman quarterback Doc Lett.

Lett gave it a valiant effort, pitching the Jaxmen back into the game at 21-10 in the second period, but the Gamecocks could get no closer than that.

Florence had that 21-0 lead before some of the fans had found their seats, and from there it was an uphill struggle all the way -- a battle the freshman-laden Gamecock troops couldn't win.

The visitors, coached by Hal Self, led by 31-10 at halftime, and then, after being battled on even terms throughout the third period and much of the fourth, put a final seven points on the scoreboard with just over five minutes left in the game.

Bobby Joe Pride, and Leonard Thomas, two frosh Negro halfbacks, did most of the damage. Pride reeled off 107 yards on the ground and Thomas got 61.

Jacksonville's leading rusher was Lett, a fine prospect out of Glencoe who needs only a solid and healthy front line to make Jax State a big winner next year -- and the year after and the year after that. Lett also hit on 16 of 37 passes for 107 yards.

Cougars Win IM Title

After almost eight weeks of hard fought IM football, the Cougars are the new champs of IM football. The Cougars won the championship by defeating the GBU's by the score of 25-12. The next opponent for the cougars will be the All-Stars and that game as usual is a hard knocker.

The Cougars got into the big last week with their big win over the Delta Chi, but the GBU's road to the championship was a bit rougher. In the first showdown in the last week of the season the GBU's barely beat the Delta Chi, the score being 14-6 and the outcome in doubt until the day after the game was played, because of a protest filed by the Delta Chi. After hearing the evidence on both sides IM Director Coach Stevenson ruled in favor of the GBU's and disallowed, and in almost the same breath, the IM director allowed a protest filed by the GBU's earlier in the season in a game with the Cherry Pickers.

With The Greeks --

By Kaye and Faye Thompson

ATO won the membership percentage competition at the pep rally before Florence. The Tau's are to be commended for their fine spirit. Rip rah regia!

The ATO - sponsored Dating Game Nov. 20 was a lot of fun for all. There is a chance that this might become a monthly occasion on campus, which seems like a good idea. Jerry Cantrell and "Cousin" Roger Killian emceed the event. Questions and answers proved revealing. Danny Webster prefers milkshakes. Randy Stamps would choose a good bod over a pretty face. Don't invite George Adams to see your "etchings."

Alpha Tau Omega presented the winning couples with spaghetti dinners at the Village Inn and tickets to the Bama Drive - In. Bill Branch offered the use of his station wagon. The dating couples were Peggy Crowder and Bill Branch, Jane Bischoff and Randy Murphy, and Phyllis Melhorn and Don Hedden.

Those merry - making Tau's were at it again Saturday night after the Florence game. The party took place at the Downtowner Inn in Anniston, and proved to be as fantastic as ever.

The ATO's helped several Jacksonville families have a happy Thanksgiving. The fraternity gave food baskets to several needy families.

AZD's Stephanie Pannebaker, Susan O'Rourke, and Edith Spencer are all contestants in the Miss Yuletide Pageant. Steph is sponsored by Boozer's Drugs; Susan is sponsored by Lou's Dress Shop and Edith is sponsored by Nancy's Loot. Alpha Xi Delta actives are giving their pledge class a popcorn party this Wednesday night at the Faculty Club.

Alpha Delta ran a close second to ATO in the membership competition at the pep rally with a 87.5 percentage. Try harder!

Alphas Xi's are helping register students at their upcoming blood drive for the second year. The AZD pledges are to help with the Christmas party for children whose fathers are in Vietnam.

Delta Chi invited the Alpha Xi's to their house after the last pep rally for hot chocolate and cookies. It was a nice "warm up" party.

Delta Chi celebrated the last football game of the year with a supper and informal party at the house. Steve Henderson will tell you all about it!

Delta Chi's are hoping for as fine a season in I. M. basketball as they had in I. M. football.

Phi Chi is the name of the new local fraternity. Two faculty sponsors have been secured by the group, Dr. Wingo and Mr. Hendrix. New officers include Richard Smith, president; Ronald Brinker, vice president; Terry Cook, secretary; and Gene Lair, treasurer.

At present they are working on a constitution to present before the S. G. A. A Christmas party is in the planning stage for the Phi Chi's. Previous parties have been successful. (Ask Mike Smith about the swimming pool at the Holiday Inn.)

Omega Kappa's were feeling good the weekend of the Florence game. Friday night they had a rush party, and Saturday night the festivities were in honor of the last football game. Butch Pair will smile when questioned about it.

A visit by Kappa Alpha Provincial Commander Uilly Gunn had been scheduled for two weeks ago, but Mr. Gunn got snowed in in Atlanta. OK's are expecting him again.

Hillyer Sessions and Paul Merril, co - captains of the OK intramural basketball team, are anticipating a rosey season for the OK's.

The Ballad Of Anita

Within the darkness I have known,
along with the crossroads of the night,
I wandered down fading paths of stone, through frosted fields of lamplight.

Sunshine, one day I had a dream,
more mellow than the yellow day,
Beauty dressed in jasmine, scented with white faberge.

They came to me with empty eyes, and tearless hands that couldn't see,
tainting my terrene with flora wreaths,
and tasteless words of burgundy.

They took me where she lost her life. . .
the buttercups along the road were fair, their faint touch of fragrant passion, hid the blood-stained concrete that was there.

Sunshine, one day I had a dream,
silken lighted juniper,
coloured in a faint earmine. . .

O, how I loved her
