Jax State Will Host ACC Cage Tourney

The most exciting basketball tournament in Alabama College Conference history kicks off here at J. W. Stephenson Gymnasium Thursday night, Feb. 22. The ACC event will run three nights with the finals slated for Saturday night.

SGA Refuses to Sign Anti-Viet Statement

"I believe that I should not be forced to fight in the Vietnam War because it is unjust and immoral," was the wording of a statement which the Chanticleer editors received recently. Accompanying the statement were over 400 names of student business men and presidents who had already signed the statement from practically every state in the union.

Chanticleer editors, Larry Smith and Norman Brown, took the statement to the February 5 meeting of the SGA to get their feeling on the matter. It was quickly voted to answer the letter with a statement somewhat different than the one above. The statement was as follows:

"WHEREAS the spread of Communism has grown from six per cent of the world's population in 1943 to over 35 per cent in 1967, and Progres Shot - This recent aerial photo of the sprawling 300-acre campus at Jax State shows signs of progress being made at the university. (1) Construction is rapidly taking place on a new girl's dorm (2), the Student Common Building is taking shape and (3) ground will be broken for a new library in September. In addition, a new business administration building is planned to be located in front of Pete Matthews Field. A nurses school will be located nearby.

Getting Off the Ground

The architect's sketch of the new seven story library was received just before deadline in the Jan. 29 issue, and although we managed to publish the picture, the Chanticleer did not have time to make any comments on the proposed building.

After touring Martin Hall during open house, we could not help but notice the building which could equal it. When new two and one - half million dollar library is completed, however, we may have a building which not only equals Martin Hall, but surpasses it. High - rise buildings are being constructed on all major colleges and universities, and the library will hopefully be Jax State's first of many to follow.

Who Will Answer?

Rhetorical questioning is among the poorest of methods with which to approach an issue. Within the JSU student community, however, it often seems the most appropriate.

Last issue we looked editorially at the women students' curfew "problem" and in another area of the Chanticleer asked for student letters on issues of controversy at JSU. Few answered.

Perhaps an answer is not to be expected, since curfew is not the issue at stake. The mode of dress on campus is not the issue. Nor is the arrangement of furniture in dormitory rooms. "Late permission" may be a problem to some women, but it is not an issue with which one student can effectively deal.

At JSU, there is apparently no individual or organization capable of speaking for the students on issues which directly concern each day of their life--often minute by minute.

Thus we arrive at the rhetorical question which is the issue behind the problems listed:

Where lies the thin red line between student government of the student's daily lives in an academic community of 5,000 students and administrative control of this community?

Admittedly the deans and professors should prescribe the academic curriculum and even the apparel to be worn between these two lie the numerous fine points on which one student can effectively deal.

Both Should administrative personnel be allowed in students' apartments and under what conditions? What dormitories under conditions other than those which allow curfew are being constructed on all major colleges and universities, and the library will hopefully be Jax State's first of many to follow.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

I'm a new male student and I would like to know the purpose behind two rules. Why must my room be inspected three times a week? For a four year veteran and an upper classman, I believe I'm about privacy. Let me put it this way: the appearance of my room is nobody’s business, and I believe the student government should decide which "big band" will be selected for next year's dance.

With these two examples the issue is relatively clear cut.

Between these two lie the numerous fine points on which students and administration may differ.

Should an activity fee be levied on the students? Should curfew hours be extended? Should women be allowed to visit men's apartments and under what conditions? What limits should be set on the use of "pay" telephones? Should administrative personnel be allowed in students' dormitories under conditions other than those which allow law enforcement officials in private homes?

How much authority do students have in governing the "academic community" in which they live? Who will answer?

Thanks SGA

Attendance at SGA meetings seems to be increasing from meeting to meeting. Representatives making a special effort to attend the meetings each Monday night, despite conflicts with studies, social events and work times, are to be commended. From the Chanticleer--Thanks.

Editor's Corner

Periodic forums are held for students of the International House on subjects ranging for religious to politics. Rep. Pete Matthews was the latest speaker and delivered an enlightening program on the role government plays both the national and local levels. Matthews was so basic in his speech that even the Chanticleer editor understood what he was saying--the way he said it captivated the entire audience and made the program very pleasant and educational.

After hearing Rep. Matthews, I can understand how he has done so well politically. He is currently president of the JSU Alumni Association and is a member of the board of trustees.

Jax State has received much favorable publicity from many different sources, but the January 29 issue of U.S. News & World Report shocked us out of our wits! There were (Steve Carlson, of SCOAG, Norman Brown, Martin Ennis and Larry Smith of the Chanticleer) on page 61 with Senator Barry Goldwater and Dr. Houston Cole. The article was made during Senator Goldwater's trip here on November 6, 1967. The article accompanying the photo was also very interesting, since it contained a condensed report of Sen. Goldwater's trips in recent months to most of the major colleges in the nation.

There is always a good deal of talk about changing rules on campus and one particular rule which many want to change is the restriction of girls from boy's apartments and dorms.

Would you believe that Abercrombie once housed both girls and boys at the same time? It occurred in 1964 when Daugett was damaged by a fire, which forced 67 of its occupants to seek shelter elsewhere. Boys living in Abercrombie were all jammed into rooms at the end, and the girls moved in. Although it was somewhat crowded, there were few complaints.
Cheerleaders Take Friendly JSU Elections

Three cheerleaders dominated voting Tuesday when run-off elections were held for titles of Mr. and Miss Jacksonville State University and Mr. and Miss Friendly.

Jim Henderson and Theresa Caretti were elected Mr. and Miss JSU and Randal Bain and Peggy Crowder were elected Mr. and Miss Friendly. Henderson, Bain and Crowder are all Comeback cheerleaders.

Henderson is a senior from Birmingham majoring in physical education. Caretti is a junior from Bessemer majoring in business administration. She is secretary of the Student Government Association.

Bain is a junior from Birmingham majoring in general business. Crowder is from Gadsden, a junior and is majoring in English and Spanish.

Opponents in the election were, Mr. Jackson, Mr. JSU; Wanda Coffee, Miss JSU; Janice Boyd, Miss Friendly and Bonnie Jones, Miss Friendly.

Run-off elections were held this year since not one received a majority in the first election.

Tourney

Jacksonville students will get is for half price at the tourney, which admission will pay $1. Jax State students, with Student ID cards, pay only $0.50 per person.

Proceeds from the tourney go to the conference to help defray expenses for trophies and awards for all sports in the ACC.

Final SGA Gripe Report----“No Action”

Two or three months ago at a regular SGA meeting, Barclay Fisher was appointed chairman of a committee to investigate and report on “gripes” or “subjects of discontent” among the students.

Although the committee has not been disbanded by the SGA, Fisher has released a TWO WORD report to the Chanticleer which he considers to be final.

The text of his report—“no action.”

According to Fisher 95 per cent of the “gripes” and pleas for changes of rules governing student conduct and life on campus were from women students. After collecting these lists, Fisher and SGA Vice President David Milam conferred with Dean of Women Miriam Jackson.

Fisher said Dean Jackson offered reasonable reasons for the existing rules of JSU and quoted her as saying she wanted the girls to come to see her about these problems.

The final report is in, so let's “let it all hang out” and look at what came out in the wash.

Twenty — six pages of “gripes” were turned in. Fisher. Twenty — five of these pages were from women’s dorms, so let's look at them first. Many of these pages contained only one thought; others were compilations of thoughts turned in by one person.

Dorm rules led the list with quiet hours, telephone procedure, room inspection, and variation of rules from dorm to dorm being the top subjects.

Marcella Kick of room 109 Pannel Hall referred to the dorm as her “home away from home” and said “we should not be made to feel as though we are living in a dorm which we are not in.”

REGISTRATION
To say that the only things sure in this world are death and taxes is a little too short-sighted. We might add to this at least the surly that a reasonable percent-age of college students are going to have a gripe about the way registration went for them—as well as the system in general. Registering, as I did, on Monday, the last day, I both heard and gave a good many gripes. Some of them—most of them, I suppose—are irrational, made on the spur of the moment, but after a cooling-off period, some of them did seem to have some validity, at least from the students perspective.

That being so, I talked with Dean Lawrence Miles to get a more rounded idea about the situation surrounding each “grip.” By the time of our discussion, had by one means or another narrowed the gripes down to three, for they were the only ones that really seemed to have any validity. They were: 1) registration by alphabet in stead of class, 2) the necessity of having one’s major and minor professors initial the trial schedule, and 3) the length of the class cards filling out. Certainly, other gripes could be added, but the key consideration is the word “valid,” as well as whether or not any thing could conceivably be done to alleviate the situation. For this last reason, lengthy lines at registration have been omitted because there just isn’t much that can be done about them.

Most important of course, is the question of the method of registration. Presently done on a basically alphabetical basis, it can lead to some inequalities. It is possible that a first semester senior might register after a second semester freshman. Although there isn’t much likelihood that these two would be in competition for courses, it is conceivable that many sophomores could compete with seniors, since often the requirement for an upper-level course is only the introductory course. The point is not that a graduating senior would be frozen out of a course, because as Dean Miles pointed out, in these situations, room is always made in the course to accommodate him, but this type of thing is—convenient to everyone—student, teacher, and administrator. Problems of this nature could be alleviated (but not altogether eliminated) by having registration on a class basis, beginning with seniors and working down through freshmen. But there is a reason this hasn’t yet been tried, Dean Miles points out that a student must under this system bring to registration proof of hours completed so he could be correctly classified, and some students don’t always manage to receive their report cards between semesters, which would need to verify their standing. However, Dean Miles says that consideration is being given a method whereby the necessary information would be available at the registration line rather than having the student furnish proof of standing himself. He says that consideration will be given to the possibilities of registration by class, rather than by alphabet.

Compared to this, the next two “gripes” are relatively trivial, it seems a waste at times to have to get the initials of your major and minor professors on your trial schedule, particularly since once this is done, you can turn around and change your schedule completely, if you want to. There is a reason for the situation, though, Dean Miles says that is for the benefit of the students, because it forces them to meet with their advisor, who is supposed to guide the student and offer advice concerning his curriculum, so that the student can’t come up as a senior short a required course and claim no one told him about it. Admittedly, most students are probably conscientious enough to do this on their own, and consequently the time spent in obtaining the initials is largely wasted, yet for the benefit of the few, the many suffer. There just doesn’t seem to be another easier way.

Finally, there’s the inconvenience of filling out class cards with what amounts to the same information seven or (See KALEIDOSCOPE, P. 7)

Gist Elected President Of New Veterans Club

A junior majoring in physical education was elected president of the new—organized Jacksonville University Veterans Association at last Wednesday night’s regular meeting.
The new president—elect, Jerry Gist, the organization will seek an SGA charter within the next two weeks pending approval of the organization by the Dean of the College. More than 25 persons have appeared at the two organizational meetings of past weeks. JUVA is proposed as a service and social organization on the JSU campus for veterans of 18 months or more active duty in the U.S. Armed Forces.

Other officers elected at Tuesday evening’s meeting were vice president, Billy E. Butler; secretary, Patsy Pearson; and treasurer, Roberta Romeo.

Several university organizations have expressed interest in having the Veterans Club as a member.

Alpha Xi Delta Sorority will initiate charter and pledge members in ceremonies at Jacksonville State University March 29.

National officers and members of A'ZD chapters from at least one other southeastern college will be on campus that weekend for the activities. The quill will be awarded all members of the chapter chartered last semester, as the active membership pin.

The Episcopalian Pi Chapter of A'ZD is JSU’s first and presently the only chapter on campus. It was chartered Nov. 19 after their selection based on interviews the previous week with Miss Jane Morgan and Miss Carol Eber, who are national field counselors for Alpha Xi Delta. Members of A'ZD chapters at the University of Alabama and Georgia State University were present for the induction.

The charter members conducted an open rush shortly after their induction and selected ten additional members. Selected were Paula Blevins, Janet Brownlow, Jeanne Clark, Pati Clark, Sandra McCurdy, Bethany Patterson, Phyllis Pearson, Roberta Romeo, Roberta Trachme and Winda Winn.

Mrs. Hazel Hicks, an A'ZD alumna and assistant professor at JSU, is sponsor for the sorority. Alpha Xi Delta has already taken an active part in JSU functions such as the University Christmas party and others. One of the charter members, Theresa Carrett, was national president for last year.

Sorority members attended the Christmas party for children whose parents are in Japan and exchanged parents for Christmas cards. Pati Clark was A'ZD’s candidate for the recent Miss Jacksonville pageant.

Alpha Xi Delta entertained its members and dates in a joint social event with the members and dates of Delta Chi and Zeta Tau Omega fraternities prior to the Christmas holidays. Presently in the planning stage is a hooch party at Logan Martin Lake for A'ZD’s and dates. Selected for them will be the sorority’s first president, Iris Dear received the nod for vice president. Other officers are membership chair, Linda Cleveland; recording secretary, Edith Thompson; corresponding secretary, Chris Von Spokvsky; treasurer, Carol Jean Smith, assistant treasurer, Pati Clark; pledge trainer, Patsy May; and historian, Miss Virginia

Delta Chi Fraternity has initiated seven new members with a rip-roaring trip to Auburn and back. Few Delta Chi members will divulge the events of this first weekend of February, but will smile when questioned. Initiates are Alvin Adama, Allen Crow, Pat Eward, Butterfly, Aprtia, Dennis Reaves and Ronnie Smitherman.

A number of fraternities and sororities have requested to render additional pledges for the spring semester.

All American Annual Anxiously Awaited

The 1968 Jacksonville State University yearbook, The Mimosa, has been selected by a national publications board for competition for an All-American award. "The work we've done of the 336 page book to this point puts us in the running for the award," said 1968 Mimosa Editor Jeff Hammrick.

Hammrick also said he wished to remind persons who had paid a deposit on annuals that the balance of their payment is due on or before March 1. Persons who have not paid the entire cost of their annual by this date, will forfeit their deposit by May when they arrive.

Hammrick said 63 students had already forfited their deposit by borrowing money from the SGA's "Big Event" the Ray Charles Show at Leonel Cole Auditorium April 17, the 440 persons now holding single Allied Arts cards will be offered the additional ticket on a first-come-first-serve basis.

Remaining tickets will be sold immediately prior to the Ray Charles Show at the door.

Mimosa sold more than 100 women students have purchased single Allied Arts cards and a list of names had been compiled in the SGA office. Anyone interested?

100 annuals will be sold on first-come first-serve basis when they arrive in May.

GOP Club
Set for JSU

Committee Chairman Jeff Hammrick announced today the proposed reorganization and alertation of the Jacksonville State University Young Republicans Club.

A meeting of interested persons is scheduled for room 113 Bibb Graves Hall, Wednesday, Feb. 14, at 6 p.m.

"If you are politically dissatisfied with the leaders of today," said Hammrick, "Then do something about it from the Young Republicans."

The Young Republicans were chartered on the JSU campus several years ago, but have been latent in the past year and a half. With 1968 designated as election year nationally, Hammrick said, he expects interest to be renewed.

"Not only is there a national and state election coming up," he said, "but the Jacksonville city election is being held in the spring of this year."

Hammrick said students 21 years of age who had resided in Jacksonville for the past six months would be eligible to vote in the city election if they transferred their voter registration from their home county to Calhoun County.

Gamecocks Win Over St. Bernard

Jax State and St. Bernard, with the officials' benches set to make it 83-79. Augusta's performance was a sweeping 83-79 Alabama Colleage Conference victory.

Gary Angel, a 6-4 junior, provided some clutch minutes of the battle, finishing with 22 for the night, while the big three of Buddy Cornelius, Bill Brantley, and Ken Rathbun went deep, and the teams under the boards, hauling down 49 rebounds between them to give the Jaxmen a one point needed edge where the traffic was roughest. Cornelius got 22, Brantley and Rathbun clipped 15 each.

Jacksonville's biggest lead of the game was seven points late in the first half while St. Bernard opened the night with a five-point gap with 8:02 left in the half game.

But Angel, on one of his unique drives with 4:01 left, fouled in the lane, and the ball was讲师...The next eight minutes of action were a maze of banking, bounding, juggling, and down the court saw the teams confused as to who was leading.

The game was even at the start of the half, but Jax shot a five-a-goal early in the half. And then the game started to slow down as the clock wound into the final minutes, the last one with 19.4 left.

Gamecocks Top Athens

ATHENS -- Jacksonville State rolled over the Bears at Athens College Feb. 5 by 100-94 margin.

Both of the teams were alter the victory, as each team fought right down to the wire. Neither team was behind by more than 4 points the entire first half. Jax got off to a quick 2:0 lead, but Athens came back quickly to knot the score 7-7.

After a 13-11 lead, Jax missed a shot and Athens carried a 45-41 lead into the dressing room for the biggest lead of the half.

The Jaxmen came out tight and with 8:52 left in the contest they had taken the lead 71-70. Then it was a thriller from then on out. The next eight minutes saw Jax go up 10 points and the clock ran down and the game saw the score tied and the lead change hands. Finally, with 7:47 mark, Jax was up 49-47 lead, Athens could never manage to take the lead again.

The last four minutes really got rough. Five fouls committed, one technical, and three ball players fouled out in the last 39 seconds.

Angel hit both of a one-and-one situation and Bill Brantley converted the technical bonus to give Jax the century mark and the game.

Brantley led the scoring for the game as the Birmingham 6-4 junior had points for the night. All four of the remaining Jacksonville starters were in double figures with Lovvorn 21, Brantley 18, Rathbun 15, and Angel 12.

The Gamecocks played without Buddy Cornelius.

Chattanooga Edges Jaxmen 72-60

Big 6-6 forward, Larry Derksen's deepener hook as time ran out gave Chattanooga a 72-60 victory over Jax State Feb. 3 in Stephenson Gym.

The winning shot came after Jacksonville had staged a dramatic seven point comeback with 22 left in the game to tie the score 70-70 with a crowd bordering on the line of insanity.

Gary Angel tied the score picking up a charity toss. The visitors threw the ball in a free shot court against the Gamecock press.

With the clock ticking away the Mocs became frantic under pressure of the Jaxmen's defense and Hard Carden was tied up by JSU's Paul Trammell. The score board showed one second left to the game.

In the short period before time expired, Chattanooga was able to control the tip which Derksen grabbed and hurled goalward without even looking. The ball was in mid-air when the horn sounded. It continued through the net as if radar was guiding it.

The first half was acesaw affair with the score tied seven times and the lead changing hands times. The biggest lead for either side was a 26-22 advantage for Jax prior to the half.

Two buckets by Carden and a solo by Derksen gave the Mocs a 28-26 margin, but Fred Lovvorn shooting from the outside bagged a jumper with 10 left in the half to even the score 21-28. That's the way the half ended as both teams headed for the dressing rooms.

David Robinson got the Jaxmen off to a quick 12-8 lead as he dropped in a couple of left-handed lay-ups. The Mocs scored two, and then Coach Tom Roberson's eagles ripped off six straight points for a 40-30 Jax lead. That was the largest lead of the game for Jax as he dropped in his charity shot for the night for both sides. The visitors' David Bry-

Rankin Leaves Coaching Post

Asst. Football Coach Carlton Rankin at Jacksonville State University has announced his resignation which was effective Jan. 31. Coach Rankin accepted a position with an Atlanta brokerage firm.

Rankin, a native of Piedmont, where he was all state, went to the University of Alabama and there played under Bear Bryant. Rankin was one of Bryant's best defensive backs and in the last 50's and the early 60's.

While at Jacksonville, Rankin coached the offensive and defensive backs. At least two little All-Americans were his charge.

St. Bernard Gets Revenge

Jacksonville dropped a nip and tuck contest to St. Bernard Feb. 7 in Cullman. The final score stood 102-92.

The first half was real close as the lead changed hands several times, with neither team ever taking command of the ball game. St. Bernard led at half 56-51.

Jacksonville came back to a 3:08 lead with 6 minutes remaining in the contest but as it often happens on the road the home team got hot and Jax couldn't buy field goal. Stiffield hit 3 in a row as the Gamecocks missed. This tied the score at 90 all and the Saints took it from there.

Gamecocks Have Right-Of-Way To Martin Hall

"Gamecocks have the right-of-way within the green lines," said Jacksonville Chief of Police Ross Tipton as he directed traffic around a painter dabbing light green paint across Pelham Road.

With the opening of Martin Science Hall this semester many Jacksonville State University students are required to cross the busy highway in front of Hill-Graves Hall at least twice each day. Pedestrians crosswalks have been provided by the City of Jacksonville at the Nisbet St. and Meadows Circle intersections.

"The green lines designate a safety zone," said Tipton, "and students are encouraged to use them to cross Pelham Rd.

Chief Tipton said failure to use these zones is considered "jay-walking."

"I hope someone doesn't have to get a rib cage full chrome to make a believer out of them," said Tipton.

The Chief reminded students and other motorists that failure to stop for pedestrian students in the crosswalk delinquents is punishable on a "failure to yield right-of-way" charge.

An application has been submitted to the Alabama Department of Public Safety for an intercom system with an emergency stop button that would call the police department.

The Chief noted that a limited number of students are driving the items due to the proximity to campus and the school's proximity to the campus.

Gist Elected

Thomas Cory, William Bokterth and Jim Royal.

There are more than 130 veterans enrolled at JSU, said President Gist. "We hope the organization will offer each a chance to take part in the JSU community."

Gist urged veterans who have not attended a meeting to make a special effort to be present Wednesday night. Following the constitution of a selected sponsor, Gist said the veterans would plan a pregram for the remainder of the academic year.

If it's any help, the people in charge of registration are aware of the problem and are trying to do something about it, but at the moment, human labor on our part is the cheapest way to accomplish this. Until all the various departments stop wanting a personal information card on each of us (the price we pay for organized life), or until the university comes up with enough money or a cheap enough plan to reproduce copies of an original or have a central data station, we'll just have to continue writing our autobiography eight times each semester.

If you get the impression that registration is rough on you, play the teachers who have to start working out the schedules for next semester almost as soon as each new one begins. Our lot at registration, while far from perfect, could be more difficult. We could have computer scheduling (in-terestingly, not a likelihood soon here), and lose what choice we do have.

a barracks." Her chief beef is rules governing the positioning of furnishings in rooms. She also asked why women could not wear shorts to dances and voiced her objection to rules prohibiting her from washing her hair during quiet hours.

Placing second on the list with 14 references on the 25 pages was a request that women be allowed to visit men's apartments. Most of these notations indicated parents' permission would be required.

Abercrombie Dorm coeds said "Girls should be allowed to go to boys' apartments. If the school does not want to be held responsible, girls should be allowed to bring a note or letter from home with their permission to attend boys' apartments."

(Note the book on Abercrombie to refer to make JSU rules for "boys").

Curfew and late permission ranked third on the list of complaints with most potshots being taken at infractions of curfew rules which place limitations on students.

In a postscript to one page of complaints, a student frantically scribbled, "With all these rules and new rules--no wonder this campus is a success college--so the students could not get the rules.

Two women felt a place should be provided on campus for couples to "park." Other complaints include the cost of parking and adding parking, a lack of time uniformity on campus, the prohibition of women living off campus and broken vending machines.

Joe Coffey, Patterns Hall said he thought the cafeteria stood serve supper on Sunday night.

How about that sports fans. While the women are concerned with later curfews and visiting men students' apartments, the "boys" are worried about their stomachs.

My sincerest apologies to Major Kid and the veterans who may have been offended by the remark in the last Chanticleer concerning the "dirty teacher old men returning from war."

A query to the originator of the phrase, Chanticleer Post editor Meri Gray reveals she did not intend it to refer to all veterans--only yours truly.

Speaking of Meri Gray, she described the Jan. 30 booze raid of Daugette Hall as terrifying.

"Everybody out of your rooms and lock the doors," was the cry she said signaled the excitement. She said several rooms were placed on probation.

Dean Jackson has also confirmed that disciplinary action has been taken against several coeds involved in last semester's "spirits lifting" at Weathor Hall.

Jax State claims to be the "Friendliest Campus in the South."

Few persons who have been on the campus long would dispute this claim. On one campus, for that matter, where else in the world will a majority of the persons one meets walking a sidewalk nod and smile. Who should be friendly stop here.

My belief is that students have, statistically proven that if each person enrolled at JSU stopped and talked to one of the "friendly strangers" each day, he would have 100 new friends within the next 100 days.

The most frustrating problem facing the modern college student may soon be resolved by the JSU Psychology Department.

Here does a student manage the new seven minute cigarettes during the five minute break given by instructors during Tuesday and Thursday one and half hour classes?

Bob Hope recently offered the answer to one question that plagues the modern day college student. Why is college so much more today than our parents describe their college days as being?

Our parents were in school before the U. S. Supreme Court ruled on busing and the classroom unmonogamous. One might think about this when finals roll around next May.

The selective service law is one subject of discussion prevalent in the Grub.

Contrary to popular belief a minimum number of hours each week is required to be determined by a draft board. The present law (on which student deferments will be based next October) stipulates a student must pass one-fourth of the hours required for his degree during each year he is deferred.

This law allows a potential draftee to make up hours failed or not taken during the regular term by attending classes during the summer term.

In other words, if a male student has been attending JSU for two years and received two deferments, he had best be classified a junior when he enrolls next fall, or else hang it and use his rights to attend boys' apartments."

Anyone giving odds that summer semester enrollment will not be above average this year.
The "Grab" At JSU

It might be safe to estimate that 99 per cent of the full time students, at one time or another, pass through the "Grab" during a year at Jacksonville State University. For many, the Grab, or Student Union complex on the ground floor of Hammond Hall, is a haven for protection from the elements while walking from the field house to Martin Hall. For others it is a coffee vending machine. Although little campus social life takes place in the Grab, it is a clearing house for the latest rumors, a place to post notices of up-coming events and for many a place to relax for a few minutes and blend with the din of noise and confusion. Coeds consider it an excellent place to meet one or more of the 3,000 eligible bachelors roaming the JSU campus and often arrange a week-end date. At least one card game is usually in progress in one corner or another and a position at a ping-pong table is almost always open. Salesmen of all ranks, Army Recruiters, and vending machine repairmen frequent the Grab weekly. For strangers in the Grab, we might add, the most often heard expression is, "Hey, Buddy, Ya got change for a five?"
