Three Hats Tossed In Political Ring

Election Day Moved To Apr. 23

Spring Student Government Association elections have been changed from the previously announced April 16 to April 23 according to SGA President Ralph Walker.

Announcing the one week delay of the election, Walker cited numerous conflicts such as religious emphasis week and social events planned for the preceding election campaign week of April 8.

Concurrent with the SGA election, candidates for the presidential "Choice 68" poll, an activity fee referendum and a SGA constitution referendum are also scheduled. A two-thirds approval of the constitution and activity fee drafts by the Student Senate is required before the referendum can be held. Both documents are now being drafted by the Student Senate Constitution Committee and must be published in the Chanticleer two weeks prior to the election.

Qualifications and campaign regulations as released by the SGA election committee are listed below:

QUALIFICATION

Presidential candidates must be classified a junior by semester hours of college credit and must have been in attendance at JSU for three consecutive semesters immediately prior to the election (not including summer semesters).

Vice-President, secretary and treasurer candidates must be classified a sophomore by semester hours of college credit and must have been in attendance at JSU for three consecutive semesters immediately prior to the election (not including summer semesters).

All candidates must have at least a 1.25 QPA overall and may not be on any type of probation, nor have been removed from any SGA office.

CAMPAIGN

The election campaign will open concurrently with the qualification period which begins on March 8. Only personal appearances and speeches by the candidates and their representatives will be allowed on the JSU campus (See ELECTION, Page 7).

No Bids Filed For President

With few days remaining to qualify for Student Government Association officers' election, three persons have tossed their hats in the ring.

As of late Friday, March 8, petitions were filed for candidacy for vice-president, secretary and treasurer of the student governing body. No bids have been entered for the president's race.

Deadline for qualification is April 4, March 21. All petitions must be in the traffic office at this time.

Political science major, Jim Campbell, has petitioned for the SGA vice-presidential candidacy.

Campbell is an Air Force veteran, a member of the JSU Veterans Association, the JSU golf team, Delta Chi Fraternity and is an active part in last semester's SDOAG.

The elected vice-president of the SGA would be the greatest honor I could hope to achieve in my college career," said Campbell. "However, this honor must be over-shadowed by responsibility. I would welcome the opportunity to help uphold the 'representative body of the JSU students'.

On graduation from JSU, Campbell plans to attend (See NO BIDS, Page 7)

Mimosa Is Commended

The 1968 Mimosa, JSU yearbook, has received the "Big E" award for excellence, according to Jeff Hamrick, editor, from The American Yearbook Company.

Hamrick estimated that the American Yearbook Company publishes half of all college yearbooks. Of this number, only about 50 per cent receive the Big E award, so this puts the Mimosa high in national ratings.

Students who have not paid the balance on their Mimosa subscriptions, have been given extra time to do so. Friday, March 22, is the absolute deadline for paying the balance.

The balance may be paid in the Mimosa office, located on the second floor of the SUB.

Student Senate Sets SGA Officers Hours and Tightens Purse Strings

The Jacksonville State University Senate office is in the basement of Dixon Hall. It will be open four hours per day, Monday through Thursday, according to recent legislation by the Student Senate.

The office hours today and for the next four days are 4 to 7 p.m.

SGA officers must begin the office hours today and post the hours of each day the office is open with the officer in attendance at four conspicuous places on campus. Each officer is required to be in the office four hours per week during the time the office is open.

An officer's absence will be reported to the Student Senate and may result in a vote of no confidence and impeachment proceedings.

A majority vote of the senate will be required before the constitution subjects the office to impeachment proceedings.

Under the regulation, approved by the Student Senate, the SGA officers must begin the office hours today and post the hours of each day the office is open with the officer in attendance at four conspicuous places on campus. Each officer is required to be in the office four hours per week during the time the office is open.

As of press time (prior to AEA holidays) the officers have not been posted. They will be published in next week's Chanticleer, as announced by the SGA administration.

According to the eight paragraph act, violations are to be dealt with as prescribed in the SGA constitution. Neglect of duty, according to the constitution, subjects the officer to impeachment proceedings.

Other March 4 SGA action included implementation of a strict cash box and night deposit system of handling SGA cash mohles collected on campus.

The Senate voted unanimously to recommend a salary increase for traffic office secretary, Mrs. Betty Woods. Mrs. Woods is paid with traffic office collections from a SGA fund administered by the JSU business office. According to JSU Director of Auxiliary Services Joseph E. Fain, the salary increase for this position is within the jurisdiction of the Student Senate and all money collected from traffic office operation -- above expenses -- are eventually deposited in the SGA treasury.

Kimbrough To Speak

Emily Kimbrough, well-known public speaker and author, will appear at Jacksonville State University on March 21 under the sponsorship of Sigma Tau Delta and English Club.

Miss Kimbrough is the author of several best-selling books. Her recent "Forever Old, Forever New" has already gained wide acclaim.

Miss Kimbrough firmly maintains that the chances of success in any (See KIMBROUGH, Page 7)

Student Rights-of-Way

Most students know they have the right-of-way within the green lines from the main campus across Pelham Rd. to Martin Hall.

These students were recently assured of this right-of-way by Jacksonville Chief of Police Ross Tipton. With the winter semester began six weeks ago and the green lines were so meticulously painted, more than one student -- including yours truly -- has been required to lift it and shift it or suddenly be impressed with that "tire-ed" and run down feeling while crossing Pelham within these lines.

There are no yield signs designating these intersections as pedestrian crosswalks.

We know we have the right-of-way; Chief Tipton and his force knows we have the right of way.

It would be to the advantage of all if the motorist were also aware.

Not So Rosy

Students are beginning to talk.

Rules revisions, elections, community-university relations, administrative policies and a host of other issues. Where is the individual's place in the immediate and universal society today?

Most students at JSU campus have been here at least five weeks and have had a taste of what living away from momma and poppa is going to be like in the future. And it's going to get worse.

The past two decades have been offered apathy easy like for most. The next two decades will turn the tables.

Each student at JSU has an opportunity to become active in academic and social endeavors regardless of his background or present status. The opportunity to "practice living" with one's peers will never be offered again.

Within four years most students will be competing with persons with many more years of experience.

Take off those rose-colored glasses and creep up on reality -- before it creeps up on you.

To Strike Or Not To Strike

The teaching profession has been in the limelight recently, due to strikes by teachers in several of the nation's major cities, and as a result have been subject to much unwarranted ridicule.

Critics of teachers' demands to strike might reflect for a moment on key defense industries, hospital employees, transportation and more recently, garbage collectors, who have walked off their jobs and demand for more pay and better conditions.

Similarly, teachers have always been underpaid, and many have entered the vocation simply out of devotion. While we regret to see the education of children temporarily suspended, we feel that this sort of thing is necessary to make the nation aware of the importance of the classroom teacher.

But while we wrestle with the trivial problem of whether or not to give the teachers a raise; Ivan keeps right on studying.

Letters to the Editor

Questions Stand

Dear Editor:

Recently, the Student Government Association of Jacksonville State University passed a resolution refusing to sign a petition which had been circulated among student newspaper editors all over the country, accumulating several pages of signatures.

Since then I have wondered how closely the wording of this resolution sent to the editor was examined. Did it not say that those who signed believed the war to be "unjust and immoral," and the signers "should not be forced to fight such a war. Please observe the line "unjust and immoral."

On Monday, Feb. 19, an Associated Press wire photo was published on the front page of The Anniston Star which showed a South Vietnamese soldier shooting a suspected Viet Cong. According to the caption, the prisoner was found near the scene of the battle. When questioned by South Vietnamese forces, he said he had been forced by the Viet Cong to carry ammunition. He was summarily executed.

Is this "justice"? Is this "morality."

This is not to say that the North Vietnamese and the Cong are not also committing atrocities; if not more violent atrocities. However, the question remains, does the SGA of Jacksonville State University feel that such acts against the people of either side are acceptable examples of "justice," and Christian "morality."

Does the SGA feel that one should be forced to contribute to such primitive actions by ANYONE?

Joe Hamilton, 607 Eighth Ave., Jacksonville

Mr. Hamilton,
The line "unjust and immoral" has been observed; I agree -- that you have vividly exemplified an "unjust and immoral" INDIVIDUAL ACT OF WAR. You have, however, failed to present your standards for judging this isolated act or the entire scope of the war (which you seem to imply) to be unjust and immoral.

The act of killing a prisoner may be considered unjust and immoral according to the "rules of war" set forth at the Geneva Convention. We have no other basis for judging the morality, justice or legality man's acts of war, since morality and justice are determined in sociological reference by the standards of the individual's society.

As for judging the morality and justice of the two resolutions, we have no standards other than the Judea-Christian ideologies inherent in our western culture. Never has the history of mankind had an authoritative universal code for judging the legality of a war been set forth by international power. Only the individual acts may be judged.

To judge a war immoral or unjust because it is universally agreed that one act or a number of acts are unjust and immoral would be a hasty generalization. As one who has experienced and observed the particular war in question I can assure you the policy of killing all prisoners taken in combat is not impressed on all Vietnam combatants.

If the general policy of the United States Government were to kill all prisoners and concentrate bombing on civilian population centers, perhaps we could by our own standards of morality and justice declare the war "unjust and immoral."

Delving into morality on a comparative basis, which would be the more moral course of action for the SGA, to undermine the entire United States government by condemning it for a policy which has yet to testify that the Viet Cong and immoral, or to support its general policy without condemning the current war or any war? The SGA did the latter.

For any further explanation of the actual wording of the two resolutions -- pro and con -- I refer you to the minutes of last semester's SGA meetings which are on file with the SGA secretary.

Praises Stand

Dr. Houston Cole President Jacksonville State University

Dear Houston:

It was certainly pleasant reading when I viewed the resolution of your student body relating to Vietnam, a copy of which was quoted in The Anniston Star.

It looks like we have some good young people left. Maybe they are all at Jacksonville University.

Cordially,

Marshall K. Hunter Chairman of the Board, First National Bank of Annonox

Dear Dr. Cole:

Frequently, I have occasion to visit various colleges and universities in the state. Several years ago, after spending the day on campus at Jacksonville, I was so impressed with the students I came in (See LETTERS, Page 7)
“Choice 68” Will Allow JSU Students To Vote On President

By Norman Brown

April 25 more than 5,000 Jacksonville State University students will be asked to fill their first, second and third choices for the office of President of the United States.

In answer to a poll of declared and undeclared candidates bombarded the ears of an undecided nation. College and university students will soon appear on the JSU campus in an attempt to attract the attention of the leaders of the United States and make them aware of the issues with which they will soon contend.

The students’ Presidential choice will coincide with a student government association election and at least one referendum now set for the annual election day, according to JSU 68 chairman, Jim Royal.

“The campus will be saturated with national and international issues as the top contenders for President see them,” said Royal. “The poll may bring surprises and revelations to both students and candidates.”

Royal said the JSU poll is only one small facet of the Choice 68 program. More than 200 universities and colleges are to conduct similar polls.

“We hope our students will read the daily newspapers and be informed when they cast their ballots,” he said.

“Choice 68 is a test of the validity of the student body’s belief in the fullness of young people,” continued Royal. “...a test of strength between the young and the Establishment for...”

For student radicals these days, the menu has been sparse. Vilified by the press and Congress for their noisy activism, scorned by the majority of their classmates, students are more concerned with campus affairs, and

Claim Forms Available At Traffic Office

Student accident and injury insurance claim forms are now available in the JSU traffic office in the Governors Administration Building. President Ralph Walker, Walker said the forms should be reproduced for each claim filed with the company. The forms should be returned to the SGA and also to be mailed to Cottons States Life Insurance Co. Details and directions are printed on the forms, and lambasted from the pulpit for their actions, and sanded other hydraulic offensives, they seem to have nowhere to go.

Their views, sound as they appear, will remain largely ignored, and their protests, courageously evidenced, will be integrated into displays of cynicism and emotional duality at the establishment. The American democratic process strikes them as more absurd with each passing day — and each mounting crisis.

Choice 68, the National Political Presidential Primary, will probably either solidify the skepticism of the campus radicals or cause them to re-evaluate their thinking as to the actual political possibilities.

If a sizeable percentage of college students do care enough to participate in such a process, and indeed, do, succeed in exerting some appreciable pressure over the policymakers of the country, then the radicals may well channel their considerable energies into the drive to lower the voting age to 18.

If the Primary fails, however, to stir the long slumber of the Establishment, or to influence American policy, then the campus radicals may well channel their considerable energies into the drive to lower the voting age to 18.

For the fourth consecutive year, a Jacksonville State University student has been elected to an office of the Alabama Student Education Association.

Sophomore David Goldman was elected second vice-president of the state organization at the annual ASEA Convention at Montgomery Feb. 12. Goldman received his bid on a campaign platform of an increased membership in the ASEA. He now plans to attend membership meetings of college chapters throughout Alabama.

In the past two years, JSU students Benny Charter and Ronald Clayton have been elected to first and vice-president slots in the association. Jimmy Nichols was elected president two years ago.

Goldman’s visits to other campuses will include an explanation of the Student Fund Educational Project begun at JSU in the fall 1967 semester. According to Goldman, STEP has played a major role in the recent SEA membership increase at JSU and will benefit other campuses when introduced.
Religious Emphasis Week Planned at JSU

By Don Bradfield
Methodist: Chaplain

Dr. Thomas Ogletree, professor of theology and history at the University of Chicago Divinity School, will be guest speaker at Jacksonville State University’s Religious Emphasis Week, April 7-9.

The JSU students’ Interfaith Council is an annual event consisting of discussion sessions, film presentations, lectures and various other activities. Discussion and counselling sessions of each faith will be led by a guest representative of that faith.

As a prominent theologian, Dr. Ogletree has recently become well-known for his speaking engagements on college campuses across the United States. He is the author of Christianity and theology and The Death of God and Controversy.

Prior to assuming his present position, Dr. Ogletree was professor of philosophy and religion at Birmingham Southern College. He is a graduate of Birmingham-Southern College and the Garrett Theology School.

NOTICE

All students interested in applying for positions as editor and business manager of the Mimosa and editor of the Chanticleer will meet March 28 at 4:45 p.m. in Dr. Calvert’s office (or interviews with the board of publications). Dr. Calvert’s office is located on the third floor of Bibb Graves Hall.

Has Home Ec. Gone Coed?

It’s no question who wears the trousers in the home economics department.

He’s John F. Maurer, Jr., who is the only male student taking a course in food preparation.

Although a business administration major, Maurer is hoping he will land a job managing a large chain restaurant. A food handler’s certificate is helpful for this sort of position, and has required Maurer to schedule courses primarily attended by all females.

Fundamentals of food preparation is only one of several courses in the home economics department Maurer will take to receive the food handler’s certificate, according to Mrs. Betty Sovell, his instructor.

By the time he graduates, Maurer should be able to cook anything, but right now his cooking is confined to the classroom. Maurer is married to the former Miss Linda Wood of Jacksonville, who is also a student at Jax State. "She is majoring in English, but don’t let the cooking" Maurer said.

Originally from New Jersey, Maurer first became interested in foods while serving in the army. He worked in a cafeteria while in service, and liked it so well he worked in Self Cafeteria last semes- ter.

Although he may temporarily feel somewhat conspicuous sitting in a class surrounded by females, indications are that more men are now showing interest in management as a career.

"We get frequent calls for foods management graduates," stated Mrs. Sovell, "and many of them prefer male graduates."

Maurer whips up a dish during the lab portion of his course in food preparation, Carole Johnson, in background, works on a similar problem.
"L'il Abner" to Open March 21

By C. L. Simpson

The Fort McClellan Players production of L'il Abner will open at the Jacksonville High School Auditorium for a three night run March 21. More than 50 persons including members of the JSU faculty and student body will be accompanied by the JSU Stage Band. The production recently completed a six night run at Fort McClellan. Hearing Rosemary Minihan sing "If I Had My Druthers" is an experience roughly comparable to hearing Helen Traubel sing "Don't Fence Me In" a couple of decades ago. It's a long way from "La Boheme" to "L'il Abner," but Miss Minihan bridges the gap with no trouble, and her characterization of the blonde seductive Daisy Mae Scragg in the musical comedy takes on attractive dimensions. Jim Starner plays the part of Abner Yokum, and a spirited cast of 60 to 60 persons romps through a series of wild adventures and misadventures that make the recent acidulous exchange between Al Capp and Joan Baez seem mild indeed. The plot concerns Daisy Mae's pursuit of L'il Abner on Sadie Hawkins' Day, a government plan to bomb Dogpatch off the map as the most unproductive place in the country, an extraordinary elixir called Yokumberry tonic that will save Dogpatch from annihilation, the unprecedented General Bull Moose, who contrives to get possession of the magic elixir, and Earthquake McGoos, who thinks he wants to marry Daisy Mae -- until he meets her family.

The humor might, I suppose be called a bit broad, or perhaps one could say elemental. It is hardly high comedy, or new and fresh either, for that matter. And much of it is heavily-handed, including familiar references to a Sears - Roebuck catalog jugged on stage.

In spite of the vitality and exuberance of the players, one could hardly escape the feeling that there was a musical comedy by two son - mountainers based on a comic strip Accounting Club Sets Banquet Date

Members Of '67 Baseball Team Back

Coach Ray Wedgeworth's baseball has started practice to begin pressing for a 21-game schedule this spring.

Every one of the performers from the 1967 team that went 13-13 and finished second in the Alabama Intercollegiate Conference campaign and this brings smiles from Wedgeworth who was about this chance this year.

"The past two seasons we've had to go with freshmen and sophomores and broke even both years. If everything goes as right, we could have a winning season this year," Wedgeworth went on to say that a score of two or three, or any primary, could change the complexion of things before the first game, however.

Returning are the top Blankenship Joins Staff

Jacksonville State University football Coach Jim Blankenship has announced that the Gamecock coaching staff pattern to full strength Thursday with the addition of C.A. (Buddy) Blankenship, who comes from Decatur high School near Atlanta, replaces Carlton Rankin who resigned recently to become a brokerage firm in Atlanta. Coach Blankenship's primary responsibility will be receivers and backs.

The new Gamecock assistant is a 1956 graduate of Florida State University, where he was an offensive end. He has coached Georgia high school for the past few years and was given the head coaching position at Decatur only three weeks ago.

"We are very happy to gain a man of Buddy's ability," Blankenship said.

"We know he will be a great asset to the University and the football team," Wedgeworth said.

Coach Blankenship was highly recommended by P. Henderson, Cadet Lt. Col. Larry Benton, Cadet Major Wayne Hester, second baseman Tony Coggins, third baseman Jake Bradley, and outfielder Gary Ledbetter.

Jim Blevins brought his Blankenship, Wedgeworth, and McCance to the University to coach Georgia high school.

Gary Blankenship, former assistant football coach at Birmingham Southern College, will return for the 1968 season.

Tennis Coach Is Employed

The Athletic Department has recently announced the employment of a new tennis coach for the upcoming season. Private Ray Benton has been appointed as the new coach.

Benton is stationed at Gadsden Country Club and is now acting pro at Anniston Country Club.

Benton was formerly the tennis pro at Gadsden Country Club and is now acting pro at Anniston Country Club.

Ray was introduced at a recent SGA meeting and allocated $180 for equipment and traveling expenses.

Science Fair To Open

The Northeast Alabama Science Fair will open at Jacksonville State University Friday, March 21, in Martins Hall. High school students from a 10-county area have entered science projects which will be on display for the public from 7 p.m. until noon on Saturday.

Projects include eight areas: botany, zoology, medicine and health, chemistry, earth and space sciences, physics, mathematics, and agriculture.

Eight projects and four scientific paper winners will be selected by the judges here, and only those are eligible to compete in the Alabama Junior Project Science Fair on April 4-6.

All contestants will be judged on creative ability, scientific thought, thoroughness, skill, clarity, and dramatic appeal.

I was happy to express my appreciation to those persons who have asked me to seek the position of student body president of the SGA," said accounting major, John M. Alvis of Birmingham, when he turned in his petition 10 days ago.

I promise to them and the others that I will be a trustworthy and useful citizen in the interterest of the student body. You will find my presence in the daily activities of the student body a help to you. I am a leader in student body affairs and I will do my best to continue to be a leader in the future.

Junior class president and SGA senator, Carol Jean Smith, has announced her candidacy for the SGA secretary's position.

"I feel that the position of SGA secretary is a very important position. The Student Government Association is an organization of students for students. It is the responsibility of the SGA officer to see that the SGA operates as it should," said Smith.

Miss Smith is treasurer of Alpha Xi Delta sorority at JSU and a member of Kappa Mu Chi Beta, the Mismosa staff and SCAO staff.

Sophomore Sue Brimar has announced her candidacy for the office of president of the Student Government Association.

The SGA election commit-

Vietnam student petition being circulated around the nation's colleges.

I understand the petition had already been aligned by more than 400 student leaders across the country.

The article went on to say that JSU's Student Government Association passed a resolution of their own to forward with the original speaking their support of the war and the University was proud of its sacrifices.

I would like to express my appreciation to the people who have asked me to seek the position of student body president of the SGA," said accounting major, John M. Alvis of Birmingham, when he turned in his petition 10 days ago.

It's Greece to Me

That none of the three social organizations presently operating on the Jacksonville State University campus is chartered by the SGA, has recently been brought to the attention of the Student Senate. The possibility of forming new groups and affiliating these groups has been discussed by several SGA members and officers.

Whether any action will be taken by the Student Senate remains to be seen. If such action is taken and the process takes as long as it has taken for the present SGA administration to erect the long promised bulletin boards -- why worry about it?

Spring Fever Siege At JSU

Symptoms of spring fever spread rapidly across the JSU campus with the advent of March. Kite-flying, shorts and T-shirts and short-shorts indicated the area temperature without the assistance of a thermometer.

The "Fuzzies" of AZD's ushered in the month of March with a three-day initiation of charter and new members. Sisters from across the nation flocked to JSU for the first event of its kind in the school's history.

Snow fell despite the warm weather and Sharon Carlisle found Sue Britmar and Tommy Doss were excellent snow sculptors. Art also abounded in Mason Hall where modern designs stole the show.
