Jax Graduate Helps Apollo Mission

Jacksonville State University can stake claim to some of the Apollo XI glory through Mrs. Judy Ann Sullivan, who graduated here in 1963.

Mrs. Sullivan, the former Miss Judy Ann Shaasberger, is among 23,000 NASA employees who helped with the moon shot. She was an honor student here at Jax State, and was chosen Miss Homecoming of 1963.

"Parade," a nationally distributed magazine supplement to Sunday newspapers, ran a story on the former Jax cool recently. Following are a few excerpts from the story:

"There's one space engineer--a 29-year-old Judy Ann Sullivan--who thinks the problem of marital stress would be lessened if there were more women in the space field. She feels that women are more adaptable than men and would make good astronauts."

Graduation To Be Held Aug. 1

Dr. Robert C. Edwards, president of Clemson University in South Carolina, will be the commencement speaker here for summer graduation, set for 6 p.m. on Friday, Aug. 1. A record 201 students are candidates for diplomas, which include nine master's candidates. Ceremonies will be held in Leece Cole Auditorium.

Dr. Edwards has been president of Clemson University for 11 years, and during that time has seen the school's enrollment more than double to its present 7,000 students and more than $36 million spent on new construction and improvements.

Before entering education, Dr. Edwards served in numerous capacities in several navel mills in South Carolina. He holds honorary doctorate degrees from The Citadel and Wofford College.

He was named "Man of the Year" in service to South Carolina Agriculture by the Progressive Farmer magazine in 1966.

The university plans to receive master's degrees.

Monday Off

Enjoy your vacation yesterday? JSU administrators chose to let the student body stay home and watch the historic moon shot.

Claims, "Judy, happily married to a mechanical engineer she met on the project, is a biomedical engineer known as 'the girl who tunes in on the astronauts' hearts.'" "This means that during the hazardous test periods, and just before the spacecraft itself, she's responsible for equipment that measures the astronauts' heartbeats and breathing and other functions. She takes a lot of kidding because she stands on one side of a screen while the astronauts put on their flight underwear on the other side. Then, she supervises while her technicians apply sensors and electrodes to the astronauts' bodies. Here is the only female voice to the countdown intercom along with 111 male voices, 'Watch your language, Judy.'"

Notice

All entering freshmen and returning students who have not filed a permit to register are asked to come by the admissions office immediately and do so.

THIRTY

"Thirty" in journalistic jargon denotes the end of a story. In this case, it is the end of several stories, editorial, cutlines, and headlines.

Vol. 14, Number 39, July 21, 1969 is the final issue of The Chanticleer which this writer will serve as editor, and, looking back, there are a few things which need saying. We never claimed to be a university newspaper, but we tried to go at it in a journalistic manner. Although we took full blame for our many failures, we feel a good many of them could be corrected by a JOURNALISM DEPARTMENT here at JSU.

We tried to promote several things on campus—namely, more participation in student government, and more (would you believe it?) rights for upperclassmen. (To demonstrate how effective we were in our programs, check the page one picture and see the attendance at a recent SGA meeting, or try to find a parking place in front of Gibbons Hall.)

Heartfelt thanks is hereby given to: Chanticleer sponsor Jack Hopper, who was never critical nor castrated a word, but was always ready to help in any way he could; to Opal Lovett, for the tons of pictures we ran; to Rudy Abbott for all the good dope on the Gamecocks; to all present and ex-staff members, to the folks at the Jacksonville News (for putting up with the likes of which they had never seen); but the press man in Talladega does not get anything; thanks also to the good wife Brenda, who always read the paper so I would know at least one person had read it; and, finally, sincere appreciation is expressed to Dr. Basil Wright for the chance.

We have two partially working typewriters, a phone which doesn't ring, an empty filing cabinet, and an apathetic student body to Ken Jones, who will assume command next issue. We also leave him our unattained goals mentioned earlier and challenge him to see that they are carried out.

That's it.

Thanks,

-Larry Joe Smith

Time For A Change

When is Jax State going to get modern and start using paperback texts? Consider the difference in cost between hard covers and paperbacks. The difference is worth the change. Most of the major texts now being used are hard covers.

A brief survey of some of the texts reveals the unrealistic, high-cost psychology 201 calls for a text costing approximately nine dollars that is used for one semester. In one section being taught only seven chapters are used in the entire book. When is Jax State going to start using textbooks only when the chapters are actually used? The new system of curbing campus disorders result, where there is no open-mindedness between student and administration.

Inexpensive paperbacks offer the teacher an opportunity to assign more than one text. This would be the first step in providing the student with a more real outside reading. Outside reading being reported on note cards now results in much reporting and little reading.

Changes in texts can occur more often. An example of this is the policy at the University of Alabama of distributing texts. If a student enrolls in the English literature, for example, and hastily carries his book to class three times a week for the entire semester, he can be assigned other textbooks. Only money saved on a Charles Atlas muscle development course.

Letters To The Editor

Student's View

Dear Editor:

I would like to state a student's point of view of the issues discussed in the last issue of the school paper.

Oppressive legislation and more administrative control is not the answer to curbing campus disorders.

Students feel that being a student should give them some rights. Like being a citizen and given a voice in the government, the student would like to have some voice as to his destiny. This is where some of the disorders result, where there is no open-mindedness between student and administration.

Good administration doesn't wait to be asked for what is needed but gives knowing of the need. Administration doesn't take what hasn't been given, but negotiates. Today's students are wiser and more concerned and would like to be dealt with accordingly.

Yes, JSU is one of the many not having campus disorders, but this does not mean we are problem free. It has been stated that the JSU students are not concerned with Student (Administration) Government, Association, and athletics, but is concerned with a "degree, job, and social life.

The purpose of a university is not to create replacements for a worn out society, but to create a concerned, able-thinking being.

Look at JSU and associate it with the system of slavery. The slaves didn't question the rules, they only obeyed. Because they sang to keep from crying, they were believed to be happy and content.

The students of JSU don't question the rules that were made when their parents were too young to look up, keep quiet and all are believed to be happy and content (ignorant of two facts). The system of slavery fell and in time will JSU?

With the ABM, Red China, Vietnam, poverty, and many other pressing issues facing the JSU graduate, he must interest himself in these along with the job, degree, and social life.

"What we need is revamped ideas of a university with less complete administrative control and moderate legislation for students and closed-minded administrations."

No, the proposed plan is not needed at JSU. In as far as campus disorders, but a proposed plan is needed to make JSU a university of more than name. Leroy Williams.

A Suggestion

Dear Editor:

I can take it no longer! For the past four years I have had a disturbing fear of being buried under the rubble of two hundred feet of smokestack. I am referring, of course, to the two vertical monstrosities behind Mason Hall. Everyday I walk through the area and a slight wind comes up, I tremble and quicken my pace for the smokestack.

Seriously, though, there should be something done about those two stacks. Perhaps their construction is such that there is no worry about them collapsing. In the wind, but would ease the minds of some students to know they were not there. If only in the interests of aesthetics, the big things should go.

The "live-modern-electrically" look of our Commons building, and the business administration building, library, and stadium which are to be built, the presence of these old coal burning relics show lack of campus planning - a serious sentimental defect.

I can appreciate the present brick which would be incurred (flying bricks, etc.) in tearing down "The Tubes," but, let's face it, they will have to come down eventually. Tearing them down would certainly be better than waiting until they fall.

Surely the bricks which might be salvaged from "The Tubes" could be put to some good use. A phone booth annex on the library, or some make-shift grandstands at the intramural field are two examples.

If nothing else, the SGA might sell turns to paint the things and soon we could have them spell JSU in ten-foot high letters or perhaps have them decorated with flowers and designs. At least then we might not be mistaken for the Jacksonville textile mill.

Reply

The Chanticleer contacted the Maintenance Department and found out that one of these smoke stacks is still used in emergencies when the oil heating unit breaks down. But that great big one there ought to have something done to it.

Perhaps, as one student suggested, we could place the thing horizontally across Pelham Road when the pedestrian traffic is heavy (See LETTERS, Page 3).
What Is Your Opinion Of Food Services Here at JSU?

Linda Elliott, senior, Talladega, "I really didn't see anything wrong with it myself. It does get monotonous sometimes, like hamburgers and hotdogs, hotdogs and hamburgers all the time. I also think the food is awfully greasy, and this summer's the flies in the cafeteria are terrible."

Leslie Everett, sophomore, Rome, Ga., "I love the atmosphere in the cafeteria. I like the joke box and the people who serve the food are very friendly. I wish, though, that they'd find a better way to dispense the ice so you don't have to have everyone grab for it."

Jimmy Stephenson, senior, Jasper, "I think that the food's alright, it's really a balanced diet and everything. Although it isn't a really wide variety, it's still balanced. I also like that they let you have all the milk you want. I work in there, and they keep it really clean too."

Diane Character, freshman, Lineville, "I really do like it, both the food in the cafeteria and the atmosphere. The choice is somewhat limited, but it's cooked alright. It's a definite improvement over what I had in high school."

Susan Story, sophomore, Birmingham, "The food in the cafeteria is generally okay, I think, though, that they could have a better variety; it's sometimes overcooked or undercooked. There isn't much variety on weekends either, it's just hamburgers or hotdogs."

Enrollment Up From Last Year

Enrollment for the summer session is up ten percent over last year.
A record 2,130 students are registered this summer, of which 2,045 are undergraduate and 85 are taking graduate courses during the second half of the graduate program.
Our graduation gift to you is free active alumni membership for one year. We hope you will then share the responsibility of helping develop the kind of alumni support your university deserves by

Academic Advisement Programs Are Provided At JSU

By Dorothy Gulliani

Academic counseling begins in freshmen orientation. After having spent two sessions with the Student Government Association and the Deans of Men and Women, the students are assembled in groups of common academic interest. Here the professors offer advice in course scheduling, course description and occupational opportunities. Each student prepares a Trial Schedule which must be approved by his major and associate professors.

Trial Schedule approval proceeds registration. Thus, the student will not have completed his college work before registration day. This procedure will be followed each semester throughout a student's stay at Jacksonville State.

The counseling sessions with the Deans provide the student with general information. Booklets giving specific information on the various courses and programs are distributed. General scheduling information is also given.

In junior and senior year, students must file an application for degree with the Admissions Office. The completed application and a check-list is sent to the student showing what courses still remain as necessary for graduation. Those students who are in education must qualify for entrance into the department. Their application for degree is filed through the Education Department. Record check letters are also sent out to determine the student's overall schedule. Necessities of education are made comparable with the student teaching assignments.

Some of the departments are planning long-range education programs. For example, both the Biology and English Departments are going to assign one person in the department as an advisor to their individual majors.

This will enable a more personal approach so that a student's overall program can be given consideration to the student's class year and semester basis. This will hopefully ease the problem they too often have in the student's final semesters.

Students should be aware, however, that they can make appointments with their major and minor professors for academic advisement whenever the need prevails.

Former Rep. Supports U.S. Role In Vietnam

Former United States Representative Armistead Selden told members of the Alabama Armistead Selden College of the American Association of University Women Friday night that the United States cannot afford to withdraw altogether from Southeast Asia.

Selden was keynote speaker at a three-day AAWU workshop which was held at the University. His topic was "American Foreign Policy: Diplomacy, and Realities of National Security." The workshop concluded Saturday with a speech by Mrs. John Tranquille, Pa., vice president of the AAWU Middle Atlantic Region, and Mrs. John Tranquille, Pa., vice president of the AAWU Middle Atlantic Region.

The workshop concluded Saturday with a speech by Mrs. John Tranquille, Pa., vice president of the AAWU Middle Atlantic Region, and Mrs. John Tranquille, Pa., vice president of the AAWU Middle Atlantic Region. Mrs. Tranquille is a member of the organization and attended the meetings.

Chancellor: The United States is the main roadblock to communism, Selden said the future of the Vietnam War depends on the actions we take in Southeast Asia.

"Since Cuba, there has been little gain by the Com- munists in Latin America. Most of the foreign aid we have sent there has been eaten by its recipients," he emphasized.

Selden views every Latin America country at least once while serving on the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

The workshop was attended by some 300 members of AAWU from all parts of Alabama.
Big JSU Talent Show Slated For July 25

The Student Government Association will present a Talent Show Friday night, July 25 at 7:30 at Leon Cole Auditorium. All are invited to attend.

Jimmy Sparks, dormitory representative from Gainer Hall, is organizing the program. Sparks has helped organize several Talenr Shows in the past including the very successful show last spring.

"Things are beginning to fall into place," Sparks said, "and everyone is invited to attend.

The first grant, for $20,000, is for the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

The second grant, for $476, is through the Appalachian Regional Development Act of 1965 and will also be used for equipment.

The first grant, for $31,476, is for the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

The other grant, for $11,476, is for the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

The exhibition will consist of prints, paintings, and constructions.

The event will take place in Mason Hall Gallery. Hours are 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

An official opening will be held Monday night, July 21, beginning at 7:30 clock.

Student Section Moved; Long Lines Eliminated

Remember those long lines at the football games last year of people waiting to get in? Well, that situation has hopefully been corrected with the addition of a new gate at the west end of the field and the moving of the student cheering section.

The student cheering section which was formerly located at the west end of the field, has been moved to the east and occupying sections "A" and "B". These sections have the same relationship to the yard markers on the field," said Ed Fain, director of auxiliary services.

The band will also be located in the cheering section's lower left corner.

The new gate at the west end of the field will have a ticket booth for the first time and will allow three lines of people to come in at the same time. This should ease the problem of congestion at the gate.

Intramural News

Intramural softball moves into its final week of play with the Mustangs holding the top spot in the men's division with a perfect 6-0 mark while Charlie Brown's All-Stars remain on top in the women's league with a 5-0 record.

In the men's games in the sailors league the Mamas and Papas blasted GBU, 26-1, the Jeffco's edged the Nameless Nine, 7-2, the Mustangs ripped the Mamas and Papas, 10-3, the Muinans outdistanced the Mountaineers, 11-0.

Charlie Brown's All-Stars pounded the Sparco Rite, 20-5, and the Partimers outlasted Playex, 14-10, in the women's league.

GBU jumped out to an early lead over the Mamas and Papas in the top of the first inning by pushing three runs across. Garrison, Wyant and Ford, the first three batters, each connected for singles and scored the three runs.

The Mamas and Papas were not to be outdone though. They tallied a homer by Childress and then broke the game wide open by scoring five in the third. Then they added two in the fourth and 17 in the fifth to wrap it up while holding GBU scoreless.

Roark's M & P offensive attack with two home runs and two singles. Others aiding the cause were Brassale, three singles; Bonds, two doubles and a single; and Elmore, three singles.

Tourt was credited with the victory while Kaneey was tagged with the loss. The Jeffco's drew first blood in their game with the Nameless Nine by scoring one run in the first inning on two singles and two walks. They held the Mirror in until the Nameless Nine tied it in the third. Both teams scored one in the sixth but the Jeffco's pulled it out in the bottom of the seventh on four walks.

Lockhart was the winning pitcher while Johnson was the loser.

The Mustangs rallied for two runs in the top of the last inning and then Mountainers in the bottom of the frame to claim their victory. Ellis picked up the victory.

Charlie Brown's All-Stars, again led by Jerry Burcelf, easily downed the Outlaws, 20-0, in the second inning outburst in the fourth inning.

The Partimers tallied four runs in the second inning to tie the game and then scored eight more runs in the next two innings to claim their victory over Playex. Bible was the leading hitter for the Partimers while Bush had a homer and single for Playex.

The Jacksonville State University Dance Company was organized in the fall of 1968 under the direction of Mrs. Palmer Daugette Calvert and politician born Darius Hochman. The company was organized for the purpose of providing cultural dance education for the university and refined entertainment for the community. The first performance was given in the fall of 1968 and was received by the students and community with great enthusiasm. A local newspaper remarked: "Amazing is the word for JAX Dance Company's first effort."

It is remarkable to note that most of the students participating in the Dance Company had no previous experience dancing. The fall of 1969 will bring a new and exciting season for the JSU Dance Company. The Company has previously given concerts in the fall and spring and has recently been invited to Birmingham.

They anticipate a tour to Jacksonville, Fla., and Gadsden.

If there are those who are interested in joining the Dance Company, please contact either Mrs. Palmer D. Calvert or Mr. Hochman.

The Dance Company has greatly broadened the area of dance in the physical education department and, in turn, the physical education department is very proud of its advancing Dance Company.

The department is also proud to offer courses which are not offered at other universities, such as: classical ballet, modern dance, folk dancing, and dance laboratory.

"I would like to thank the students and Jacksonville community for their interest and support," Mr. Hochman stated.

Photography Hazards Are Demonstrated

Some of the hazards of photography taking were demonstrated last week when the Chanticleer attempted to take a photo for the upcoming SGA talent show. What started out as a minor staging ended up with screams, broken boards, and a disbelieving dorm director.

The object was to have some of the contestants in the talent show get together and do something from their act. To this end, Jimmy Sparks, the chairman of the show, rounded up two karate demonstrators, a dancer, and a pianist.

By some strange and unlikely combination wasable to get together, it was too dark outside to see pictures. The next best location was the lobby of the new girls dorm.

The karate demonstrators requested a practice period before the actual shooting began. There is something about a guy in dirty gray pajamas in a girl's dorm jumping three feet in the air and screaming oriental oaths that has a way of attracting attention.

The dorm director had few compliments for the gray blur that hovered three feet off the ground thrusting a bare foot against a board held in a companion's hands.

She later said she thought they'd all gone crazy, and when I saw what they were doing, I still thought they were crazy."

Mrs. Elizabeth Hatch of Banks High School will be conducting the clinic. Both are physical education instructors with previous experience in such workshops.

The girls boys, and sponsors will take part in a program that will include extensive drills and practice sessions in yells, pom-poms, and tumbling; stunts, lectures; and small and large group competitions.

Search Continues

Rose Tipton, chief police of the city of Jacksonville, told the Chanticleer before press time that the search is continuing for the two men who abducted a JSU couple on a mountain road near here.

The two men reportedly fired a pistol through the car window, forced the young man out, tied him up, and forced him into the car trunk. They then forced the co-ed into the rear seat and drove to the vicinity of White Plains, where the co-ed was assaulted before release.

The incident occurred Sunday night, July 6. The couple was picked near the city dump by a first contacted by the two men.

Chief Tipton said the Calhoun County Sheriff's Department, City of Aniston Police Department, and Jacksonville State University campus police force are helping investigate the case.

Are secretly working up acts? In order to protect the innocent, I will not reveal their names. However, several comedians will be presented. Comedian Seymour Dumore is considering presenting on the stage for the first time anywhere his original monologue "The Crown Linen." Sparks is hunting for more talent. If anyone is interested in performing, please ask them to contact me in room 107 Gasser Hall or phone 435-9991.

Rehearsals will be held in Leonie Auditorium at 7:00 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday nights. Those wishing to enter the contest who have not previously signed up are asked to appear Tuesday night for the rehearsal. "If they have any talent at all, we'll sign them up," Sparks said.

Cash prizes will be given for the first, second, and third place at the rate of $15, $10, and $5 respectively. There will be three Graduation
