Alabama Attorney General Bill Baxley discusses student voting rights and a variety of other topics with SGA President Kwang Edeker and Junior Class Senator Louis Toledo.

Attorney General promises student voter ruling

Alabama Attorney General Bill Baxley, meeting with representatives of the JSU student government and CHANTICLEER, promised that a final decision about the student voting on college campuses would be forthcoming "within two months."

Baxley, meeting with SGA

President Kwang Edeker, Junior Senator Louis Toledo and CHANTICLEER News Editor Bill Brown, said that additional study by his office was necessary before students could be given the opportunity of voting on their respective college campuses in state and national elections.

According to present state law, college and university students must vote in their hometowns.

Also present at the meeting was Henry Caddell, assistant attorney general in charge of

Chanticleer enters "Alice in Wonderland" candidate for Homecoming Queen

In line with its new policy of taking a more active role in Jax State student affairs, the staff of the CHANTICLEER announces its candidate for 1971 Homecoming Queen.

Miss Patisue Tiller of Oxford is

Don't forget your ticket

JSU students are urged to remember the procedure in obtaining student tickets for all Jax State home football games.

A student must present his ID card to Auxilliary Services and pick up his ticket prior to Friday at 4:30 before the game on Saturday.

At the gate, a student must present his student ticket and his ID card in order to be allowed to sit in the student section.

the CHANTICLEER's candidate.

Before selecting Miss Tiller, the CHANTICLEER carefully studied the Homecoming Committee's four rules applying to the selection of a queen. The CHANTICLEER's candidate meets every qualification listed.

The first rule states that the candidate may not be a freshman. Miss Tiller is certainly not a freshman.

Secondly, the candidate cannot be married and must not have been previously married. Editor Thom Simpson has received Miss Tiller's assurance that she is not, nor has she been, married.

Next, she must be a female. Miss Tiller's mother assures the CHANTICLEER that the candidate is a female.

The CHANTICLEER has observed the fourth rule by paying the $15 entrance fee required for the candidate.

In the interest of a fair and impartial competition, the CHANTICLEER will not use the editorial pages of the paper to urge students to support the CHANTICLEER's candidate. The CHANTICLEER only asks the university to consider her own obvious charm and beauty and the way in which she meets all the current qualifications for running for Homecoming Queen.

"Stagecoach"

STAGECOACH, John Wayne's greatest movie and one of director John Ford's finest cinema achievements will be the JSU Film Society's feature presentation this Wednesday night at 7 in the Roundhouse. The first film to bring Wayne serious screen recognition, STAGECOACH also stars Claire Trevor, Thomas Mitchell, Donald Meek, John Carradine, and Andy Devine.

SGA to call state leaders for student voting drive

During the last two weeks, the Jax State SGA has been very active, both in the weekly meetings and in committee meetings. A combined total of 110 persons attended the weekly meetings. The major topics discussed concerned the college town vote, the Environmental Appreciation Program, and several committee meeting reports.

One of the most prominent issues discussed was the college town vote, specifically here at Jacksonville. A move was made by Thom Simpson, Editor of the CHANTICLEER, that the SGA invite the student leaders from college campuses all over Alabama to convene on the campus here to map strategy for college town voting rights. State Attorney General Bill Baxley was very enthusiastic about the idea when several members of the Voter-Registration Drive-1972 Committee spoke with him earlier this month.

The Environmental Appreciation Program was another notable topic discussed. The date for the bicycle race to be held between teams of one boy and one girl per team was set for Oct. 22, at 4 p.m. before the Rare Earth concert. The route for the race is four laps around the school, two laps by the boy and two by the girl. There is a one dollar registration fee which will go to some organization which is working to combat pollution. Registration will end Oct. 18 and the bike must be 26" or larger; the handlebars must not be higher than shoulder height. The school will not be responsible for any injuries sustained. A certificate will be awarded to the winning team, stating that along with winning the race they helped to clean up the campus.

Several committee meeting reports were made. Louis Toledo, chairman of Voter Registration drive-1972, Kwang Edeker, and Bill Brown, photographer for the CHANTICLEER, journeyed to Montgomery to meet with Bill Baxley. Baxley felt that the students should vote in their current residence if they so desire. In reference to a recent misunderstanding here on campus, he stated that it would be legal for the CHANTICLEER to have its own account, and that it does not need to have the money on hand at press time. Baxley also felt that the University is three or four years behind the times with the Lyceum Committee.

Jeff Frazier made reports on the Liason Committee which decided to invite a member of the National Dietary Association to investigate the feasibility of a voluntary meal ticket plan. Frazier brought out that James Haywood, director of Food Services, was not present at either meeting. When questioned about his absence, the Administration evaded the question by answering that they should stay with the same committee that met the last time.

In regard to recent thefts in the dorms, specifically those in Luttrell Hall, Richard Reed, Student Services Committee Chairman, mentioned that last year some 30-40 keys were "lost" including the master key. President Kwang Edeker stated that there is a 100 dollar reward for the capture "dead or alive" of the person responsible for these thefts.

Suggestion boxes are to be placed in all the major buildings on campus as a result of a move from the Senate floor. President Edeker commented that "our doors are always open to suggestions, criticisms, and even compliments, which we rarely get!"

Chanticleer misses press due to mix-up

The CHANTICLEER was unable to publish last week due to circumstances beyond its control. Editor Thom Simpson was approached by the CHANTICLEER's advisor on Thursday before press on Friday and informed that no paper could be published without money on hand. Simpson, upon receiving this shocking news, was left aghast! Never before has this piece of information been passed his way. Simpson was then informed that having money on hand before publication was a state law!

Unfortunately, also due to circumstances beyond the CHANTICLEER's control, "it is broke." There was no money on hand to publish even a single page paper.

Simpson informed the members of his staff, all of whom had worked dutifully and diligently that week, of the heartbreaking news. No one else had ever heard of the aforesaid "state law."

Simpson, who never enjoys the thought of going over someone's authority, decided it might be wise, and even necessary, that he investigate this matter more closely.

On Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock (ex post facto, of course), Simpson talked to Charles Rowe, JSU Business Manager. Rowe was considerably helpful in the CHANTICLEER dilemma. Rowe stated that there was no such state law in Alabama. He did not know why Simpson had been misinformed.

Needless to say, the CHANTICLEER staff was greatly relieved at the good news which the meeting with Rowe bore, and is now working as diligently as ever to produce weekly fruits. Hopefully, there will be no more cogs caught in the wheels of progress or the presses.

SGA loses $2,000 on Ace; total now over $6,000

The SGA lost an estimated $1,500 on the "Ace Trucking Company" show held last week. This loss, combined with the $4,300 loss on the Chuck Berry show, brings the SGA total entertainment losses for the semester to an estimated $6,000.

The actual amount lost was not available to the CHANTICLEER at press time. Speculation is that the SGA sustained a far greater loss than the estimated $1,500. According to one of the SGA officers, the show lost close to $3,000.

When questioned by the CHANTICLEER about the second straight loss this semester, SGA Vice President Jeff Frazier replied, "What's there to say? I can't make them (students) come."

The next SGA concert will be October 22 when "Rare Earth" makes an appearance on the Jax State campus.

Dave Harris spoke in the Student Commons Auditorium last week to a "standing room only" crowd. Although there were a few dissenters at the speech, the large gathering was basically sympathetic to Harris' pleas of peace.

Chanticleer / Opinion

The Editorial Board of the CHANTICLEER decided to use its column this week to have a little fun. Down through the pages of drama history, low comedy has its basis on the expense of others.

It is the CHANTICLEER's hope that all the students notice the editor's column on the SGA's Newsletter. The Board considers the SGA's attempt at journalism an atrocious affront to its dignity. Here the staff has been "slaving night and day" to cover everything the SGA is doing.

And then to be supplemented! Okay, SGA, print your Newsletter. It's more money that the poor students are getting ripped-off! (That's one for us!)

The CHANTICLEER hopes that the students also read the article on why the CHANTICLEER didn't publish last week. Now isn't that "the cat's pajama?" Like, man, we're catching it from all sides lately. Oh well, the CHANTICLEER published this week—and, without any "moola" on hand! (That's two for us!)

Unfortunately, even the Greeks are down on the CHANTICLEER. The Greek column has not appeared in the paper due to either no space in the paper or articles turned in after the deadline. Notice how the editors try to appease. This week the Greeks appear twice in these pages, once in the intramural results and again in a formal apology. Perhaps with a little more cooperation, there will be more next week. (That's 1/2 for us.)

Now that the staff has let off steam, it is assumed that all debts are paid and all jabs are jabbed.

Quotable quote

"It is unfortunate that the CHANTICLEER is not printed on toilet paper, for if it were the students would get some kind of use from it."

Source: Our erudite university photographer, who is NEVER, no never, late with a deadline.

We have made arrangements, Mr. Lovett, to have this issue of the paper delivered to your house in a roll. Use it with our blessings. The CHANTICLEER has always aspired to cover a broad area.

An apology

On behalf of the entire fraternity and myself, I would like to apologize for any off color remarks or actions during the skit competition at the pep rally, Thursday night, Sept. 23.

I would particularly like to apologize to any member of the student body who might have been offended by these remarks or actions.

My assurances can be given that no similar incidence of any sort will ever happen again. Bob Green

Thom Simpson

The Chanticleer, a supplement to the SGA Newsletter...

AS EDITOR of this "almost independent, almost weekly" newspaper, I extend my thanks to the SGA for publishing their NEWSLETTER. In the same breath, I apologize to the student body for the CHANTICLEER's need (according to the SGA hierarchy) for a supplement.

Perhaps, if this apology could be extended even further, then the CHANTICLEER should apologize to the Greek system for not publishing all their news. If the Delta Chi's, the ATO's, the Alpha Xi's, or any other Greek organizations on campus would like to print their own supplement to the CHANTICLEER, they have the best wishes of all of us here on fourth floor, Student Commons, all 27 of us. Then, of course, if any of the other organizations on campus feel that their news has not met with fairplay, then they, too, are welcomed to join the ranks of the publishers. The football team may wish to publish their plays in a weekly, or periodic, newsletter. Or maybe the workmen on the new library feel that the CHANTICLEER has not taken enough photographs of them at work. Why shouldn't they produce their own newsletter—to be published periodically, of course. How about the maintenance department. I'm sure that all the boys over at the Duncan building feel that their work would be of interest to the student body of JSU. Stop the presses!!!

IN THE spirit of cooperation with our fellow reporters, the CHANTICLEER would like to offer the Edeker (Excuse me, that should be editor) of the SGA NEWSLETTER a suggestion. Since there was so much space left blank at the bottom of Volume I, Edition 1 of the NEWSLETTER, the CHANTICLEER would be happy to lend the SGA material to fill up their page. The SGA is welcome to the announcement of the proposed bicycle race. Unfortunately, we didn't have room for it. The SGA is overtly welcome to the use of "With the Greek." And, the SGA is welcome to a file cabinet drawer full of 10 stories about students which did not find their way into the pages of the CHANTICLEER, because too much space was taken up by the SGA. Now that the SGA has instituted their own publication, maybe the CHANTICLEER can begin to clean out its files.

From another point of view

A New Southern--A New South

Tom Radney is a former Alabama State Senator. Born in Randolph County, Alabama, in 1932, he earned a BS and MS degree from Auburn University and a JD degree from the University of Alabama. An unsuccessful candidate for lieutenant governor in 1970, Mr. Radney is referred to as the "Voice of Alabama's Youth" and is credited with carrying the youth vote in his first state-wide political race where he ran a strong third in a field of nine candidates, receiving in excess of 160,000 votes. Mr. Radney is married to the former Madolyn Anderson of Montgomery, Alabama, and they have four children.

GOETHE WAS right when he said: "The destiny of any nation or state, at any given time, depends on the opinions of its young men and women under five and twenty." That is one of the reasons that I championed the cause of the 18 year old vote long before it was popular to do so; that is one of the reasons why I have been a life-long member of the Democratic Party—the one political party that I believe has consistently demonstrated its faith in young Americans, and that is why I have worked all my adult years to help bring a new kind of politics to Alabama. The politics of reason, not race; of unity, not division; of concern for all citizens, not callous neglect of a minority for the sake of a majority; of emphasis upon the potentialities of the future rather than the promises of the past.

In the past, our region of America has been an importer of capital and an exporter of talent. I dream of the day when it will become an exporter of capital and an importer of talent. We have much going for us; the grace and honesty of our southern people is legendary; there is a deep personal pride in being a southerner and a courage unequalled by any others. These personal traits will serve us well as we face a new day and a new life. Rather than saying, "I'll live and die in Dixie" (we have been doing both for a long time and with little effort), let us say, "Let's live and prosper in Dixie."

PROGRESS IS not inevitable; neither is it always positive. I believe that we as individuals who are products of the southern soil owe an obligation to our beloved southland as we prepare for its future. Alabama's youth must stay within the system—and stay within the South. More than ever before our region needs the bright young men and women to help mold her future. Race as a political issue is almost dead; the coming issue is economic and educational in nature.

If Alabama is ever to lose the dubious distinction of placing at or near the bottom of most major lists of economic and educational development, we all must join together in a common cause to make it happen. If our youth leave our area of work outside the system, then it may just never happen. However, if they stay and fight, side by side with those of us who believe in a new southerner for a new south, then the future may well be as bright as I believe it can be. What we desperately need in Alabama and in the South today is not more men and women willing simply to "tell it like it is" and then move on, but people who are willing to tell it like it can be and remain to build foundations under their dreams.

A NEW DAY has dawned in the cradle of the confederacy. As we face this future and as young men and women become new southerners for a new South, their involvement is more than raising a loud voice at election time or demonstrating for or against the foreign policy of our country or a fleeting domestic cause. The new southerner may lack the glamour of the spotlight, but he will reap untold reward in the final analysis.

As we in the South face the new day, we can do so with confidence and reaffirm our faith in the future of our beloved region. Senator Robert Kennedy said it for us in his "To Seek a Newer World:"

"Our future may lie beyond our vision, but it is not completely beyond our control. It is the shaping impulse of America that neither fate nor nature nor the irresistible tides of history, but the work of our own hands matched to reason and principle that will determine destiny. There is pride in that, even arrogance, but there is also experience and truth. In any event, it is the only way we can live."

THIS IS the only way for the young southerner to view his beloved homeland and its proper relationship with its sister states. With such a vision, the next century may truly belong to the South.

SOMEBODY HAD TO PAY

After Jacksonville's 10-9 loss to Livingston, the general consensus on the team was that somebody had to pay for the bursted bubble. For the next two weeks the Gamecocks worked! It was similar to a group of miners who knocked themselves out for two weeks and when pay day came around, the boss said there wasn't any money! Somebody is going to have to pay!! S. E. Missouri played their part well. They came out on the field like a frightened boss trying to calm the angry miners. The Gamecocks should get an Oscar for their role as the angry miners. They picked the boss up by the front of his shirt and took their pay from his hide. The offense rolled over S. E. Missouri's defense for 57 points, highest score in the nation on Sept. 25. The defense held the Indians inside their own 36 yard line the entire game and gave up 0 points.

Revenge was sweet but the miners still didn't have any money. The next step was to go over the boss' head. If the boss didn't have any money, maybe the board of directors had some. Jacksonville will continue challenging their schedule until that day comes when they finally get paid!

DO YOUR THING

If you heard the words "do it, do it, all right", you might think they were from the soundtrack of Vixen. Jacksonville's cheerleaders use these words and many others in their cheers asking the Gamecocks to do their thing. The Gamecocks' thing is winning football games and the cheerleaders' thing is to generate spirit and enthusiasm among the student body. This year's squad does Jacksonville proud in their spirit and dedication. The group consisting of heads Mike Muncas and Sharon McClellan, Ricky Leach, Linda Eiseman, Jimmy Rogers, Pam Brunson, Mike McClain, Gail Myrick, Tommy Carter, Rhonda Hubbard, and freshman alternates Gary Northrup, Terri Early finished second in the nation at cheerleader camp. Only the University of Tennessee finished ahead of Jacksonville.

Jacksonville's cheers are unorthodox, to say the least, but they put emphasis on spirit and winning in a modern fashion. It is almost funny to watch other team's cheerleaders do their cheers in the same manner your mother did them in high school! JSU's cheers seem comical in that they use many of the modern words and cliches. Actually many hours are spent in rehearsal for the various routines and cheers used in the pep rallies and games.

The cheerleaders really put on a show with their stunts and cheers. To believe them, you must see them! They are another attraction at JSU football games that make a Saturday evening in Gamecock Country worthwhile.

CONFIDENTIAL

Pam, you're really crazy, and Sharon, I like the way you talk at pep rallies!

Ricky Weems, a senior from Anniston, Alabama, is one of Jacksonville's inside linebackers. He played high school ball at Walter Wellborn where he was All State and All County. Since coming to Jacksonville, Rick has started every game at his linebacking post. As a junior, he was All Mid South Conference and led the Gamecocks in tackles. As for this year, Ricky hopes to help the defense become the number one defensive team in the nation. If he continues to improve from game to game as he has in the past, he will again be a safe bet for All Conference honors.

Rick married the former Vicki Powell of Anniston this summer. When asked how he liked his new roommate, he replied, "She's just fine and is certainly better than my roommate I've had for the last two years." Rick, I find that hard to believe. I thought I was a pretty good roommate!

SELa Falls In Last Seconds Big Red Wins Late, 20-14

The Jacksonville State Gamecocks pulled off their third straight victory Saturday night with a come from behind win over Southeast Louisiana, 20-14.

Jax State, a heavy favored was down 14-7 in the last six minutes of play. It took a 75-yard and 45-yard drive to rescue the Gamecocks.

The Jaxmen were the first to strike in the contest, scoring on a 86-yard drive early in the second quarter.

The Southeast Lions bounced right back with a 58-yard drive with 15 seconds left in the first half to tie the game 7-7 at intermission.

In the third quarter, the Lions took a 14-7 lead with a 60-yard scoring effort.

It wasn't until late in the fourth quarter that the Gamecocks got moving. Down by 7, the Jaxmen drove 75-yards with Boyce Callahan scoring from the 10 to make it 14-13. A two point conversion attempt was stopped by the Lions.

Danny Kemp booted an onside kick to the Lions which hit a Southeast linemans chest and then was covered by J'ville's Wayne Boyd. The Jaxmen got rolling from the Lions 45-yard line with 2:45 left to play.

In a do or die drive, Callahan rapped the game up for Jacksonville with 26 seconds left with a three yard plunge. The extra point by Kemp was good and Jax State walked away winning 20-14.

The Gamecocks season record now stands at 3-1. Jax takes on arch-rival Troy next Saturday night at Troy.

Jim Beam? Never met the dude

By LARRY MOSES
CHANTICLEER
Staff Writer

This past weekend I had the pleasure of representing the CHANTICLEER on a tour of Alabama made by David Harris and several members of the Jacksonville Workshop for Non-violent Revolution. While David Harris was speaking at the University of Alabama and St. Bernard College, I accompanied the workshop members as they questioned people on such topics as the need for draft counseling and local and school government policies. However, it was not until we had dropped David at the Birmingham airport for his return flight to California via New Orleans and Dallas that I had a chance to find out what the workshop was doing in Jacksonville.

Between popping tops, passing around a bottle of Jim Beam, and various other substances while driving to Atlanta, where we were to attend a convention on Non-violent Revolutionary Methods of Counter Insurgency and Espionage, I questioned Dave Smith. Dave has been working in the non-violent revolution movement for about eight years. He has been working in Jacksonville while attending school. I started the interview by asking:

C: Dave, will you hand me a beer?

D. S: Sure.

C: How do you think Harris did on this tour?

D. S: I was pleased with the size of the crowds and feel he was accepted very well.

C: I noticed that he seemed pleased with the crowd at Jacksonville.

D. S: I would have liked a larger turn out, but the ones that were there were generally receptive.

C: Is Harris used to having Bible scriptures read at his speeches?

D. S: No, I believe that was another first we can mark up for good old J. S. U.

C: Have you made much progress in your work in Jacksonville?

D. S: When we organized a peace moratorium two years ago we had 23 people march. At the anti-R. O. T. C. and women's right demonstration last spring we had a considerably larger turn out. I think we're doing very well.

C: How would you compare the progress made in Jacksonville to that made in other college towns in Alabama?

D. S: Jacksonville is definitely the most progressed in the state. Tuscaloosa and Cullman, I discovered on this trip, do not even have a trained draft counselor.

C: Do we have one in Jacksonville?

D. S: Yes, anyone needing draft counseling in Jacksonville can get it at the UCM house.

C: I'll be there soon. Have you been accepted in Jacksonville?

D. S: Well, at first I couldn't believe there were so many people that liked the war and other things the government was doing to them. Then I discovered that the people here really didn't know the facts about what was really happening. It didn't take much to bring reality to view. After all, no one in their right mind likes the murdering going on in southeast Asia.

C: Was that last sentence aimed at the government?

D. S: What do you think?

C: Thoughts, just thoughts.

D. S: We did have a few people at Jacksonville that didn't really appreciate us. After the moratorium in 1969 Dean Montgomery threatened to crush me.

C: Why?

D. S: I didn't get permission to have the moratorium. Hell, I didn't know it was his job to issue parade permits.

C: Did he crush you?

D. S: Yes, I used to be six feet six and weighed 245 pounds. Now, I'm only five feet nine and weigh in at 140.

C: You also have a lot of gray hair for a 24-year-old.

D. S: That's what a revolution will do to one.

C: When do you think the revolution will be completed?

D. S: Completed? Oh, in about 400 years. We're making legal research. Caddell presented correspondence from several of the 17 states where campus-town registration is now allowed.

Baxley said any administrative decision from his office to allow campus-town registration in Alabama will depend upon interpretation of highly technical clauses in the state's election code. The code is presently being closely evaluated by Caddell.

State residency requirements which state that a voter must have been a resident of Alabama for two years prior to the current election, must be met in any case, according to Baxley. He said the somewhat vague term "resident" has complicated interpretation of state election laws in the past, and are more restrictive than the requirements of most states currently allowing campus registration.

Additional issues discussed during the meeting included useage of SGA funds and the right of student organizations to have campus speakers at their expense. The recent front between the SGA and JSU administrators over an invitation to David Harris was brought up by Edeker. Caddell stated that the federal courts have essentially decided this issue. Both Auburn and the University of Mississippi students have had similar campus-speaker situations litigated and in each instance the court ruled in favor of the students, basing its decisions upon the First Amendment.

Baxley also promised the student representatives a clarification of the legal position of the CHANTICLEER regarding independent funding and an investigation into the possibility of opening the minutes of Board of Trustee meetings to the public.

progress everyday, but there is just so much that has to be done, that it'll take a long time.

C: Any immediate plans for Jacksonville?

D. S: Yes, I plan to do a lot of partying. After all, the revolution must be fun.

C: Well, we do seem to be enjoying ourselves.

D. S: So let's stop talking serious and start really revolting.

C: O. K. Hand me another beer.

D. S: Don't you like Jim Beam?

C: I don't know, I never met him.

So we proceeded to Atlanta and the convention. However, Dave and I could not get interested in all the meetings so we spent most of the weekend camping out, watching sunsets, playing with giraffe worms and mescin around in general.

ARMY ROTC

But field training comprises only a portion of summer camp activities. Below we see Jim camouflaged as a civilian while talking to Brig. General Frank E. Blazey, the 1971 Camp Commander.

Jim is but one of many campus leaders who has found that:

"Army ROTC--the more you look at it, the better it looks."
