Any qualified student interested in the position of editor or manager of the following organizations, Mimosa, The Chanticleer, and WLJS, must complete an application and return it to the Public Relations Office by noon, March 7. The office is located on the second floor of Bibb Graves.

Qualification of these positions:

Editor of Mimosa: Student must have a (1.) GPA, completed JN 304 (yearbook layout editing and management) and a full time student at JSU.

Editor of The Chanticleer: Students must have a (1.) GPA, completed JN303 (fundamentals of newspaper layout) and a full time student.

Station manager of WLJS: Students must have (1.) GPA, completed IM 453 (radio broadcasting), third class license, and a full time student.

Applications are available in the Public Relations office.

Dance to the beat!

Dance marathon planned

"Let Your Heart Keep The Beat!" will be the theme at this year's Dance Marathon III, a 36 hour extravaganza at Leone Cole Auditorium, presented by JSU's business fraternity, Phi Beta Lambda.

Sponsored couples will start boogeying at noon Friday, March 3, and will attempt to raise the most money and dance the longest. Everyone is invited to come and support your favorite couple; and there will be free dancing, prizes, games, refreshments and entertainment for all. The marathon will conclude at midnight Saturday, March 4.

Last year's marathon was a big success, and this year looks to be bigger and better.

All proceeds will go to the American Heart Association.

So remember to mark your calendar for March 3 and 4 for Dance Marathon III, and to let your heart keep the beat!

Bert Lance says

Budget must be balanced;

NASA needs re-examination

By DAVID FORD
Editor

The country's economy and space program were the prime topics of conversation with former budget director Bert Lance in Cullman earlier this month.

Lance said that he feels a balanced budget is a must for the economy. "I think our economy can't stand not having a balanced budget somewhere along the road," he commented.

And when asked if President Carter is backing down on his campaign promise of having a balanced budget, he responded, "The President campaigned actually on having a balanced budget by fiscal year 1980 . . . and I don't think that he has waived in his commitment for a balanced budget." He admitted that balancing the budget may be difficult saying, "It is very obvious that one of the things absolutely necessary in order to obtain a balanced budget is to have a viable growing economy at about the rate of five percent a year so if we don't have that, it's going to be a very difficult thing to do."

However, Lance added, "I am convinced that he (Carter) and the people in his administration are willing to make the hard choices necessary in order to obtain a balanced budget."

In order to balance the budget, federal programs will have to be trimmed, and one program that is receiving more and more attention is the space program.

Miss Northeast Alabama

Pageant set for March 2

The eighth annual Miss Northeast Alabama Scholarship pageant will be held on Thursday, March 2. The reigning Miss Northeast Alabama, Anita Hamiter of Gadsden, will crown her successor who will appear in June in the Miss Alabama Pageant.

Special entertainment will be provided by Teresa Cheatham, Miss Northeast Alabama, 1976.

A special guest at the pageant will be Julie Houston, Miss Alabama, 1977, who will perform her talent act from the Miss America Pageant in Atlantic City.

The mistress of ceremonies will be Mrs. Charley Pell, who was the Northeast Pageant director from 1971-73.

The winner of the pageant will receive a two-semester scholarship to Jacksonville State University, a cash scholarship, crown, and flowers.

The pageant is sponsored by Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity and will be held at 7:30 p.m. in Leone Cole Auditorium on the Jacksonville State campus. Admission is $1. Tickets will be available at the door.

Note

(Money Talks is a series featuring success stories about Jacksonville State alumni and other citizens in the area.)

Hugh Denman is commissioner

By LEN FITE
Staff Writer

Hugh Denman, the son of a Jacksonville relator, attended the Jacksonville Normal School. That was a very long time ago—1916 to be exact. After he finished the District Four Agricultural School in Sylacauga, he came to Birmingham in 1923 and started his real estate career at Nelson Realty Co.

Two years later he won the hand of his co-worker Margaret McCarthy, and began a family as well as a business career. Today Hugh Denman is the executive director of the Birmingham Housing Authority.

In the early thirties, Denman was the city loan supervisor for the Union Central Life Insurance Co. His territory was the entire 48 states. He also was employed in the real estate division of the Birmingham Investors Diversified Services during this period.

Shortly after the end of 1941 Denman was appointed by the U. S. government to the regional rent division of the Office of Price Administration. "We opened up 96 offices in eight Southeastern states to handle the programs," he stated.

When the Second World War ended, Denman went back to his real estate and mortgage agency and soon was a commissioner of the Birmingham Housing Authority. He was named Urban Renewal Director in 1953 and began planning the Birmingham Medical Center. "I had planned only to work in the authority for a year. But the project lasted for 10 years and 11 city blocks. Soon I got wound up in getting involved in the planning and construction of the civic and other urban renewal projects."

He became Executive Director in 1960 and 53 million dollars in construction has been initiated by the Housing Authority since the late fifties.

He helped to obtain the property necessary for the U. A. B. campus and the expansion of the medical center. The University of Alabama complex has 8,500 employees and 13,000 students, and he added, "It is an economic shot in the arm for the city."

The Birmingham housing authority, under Denman, rents 6700 apartments and housing units to low and middle income people. "The Housing Authority," says Denman, "has 500 workers. The funds needed to finance the authority are gotten from HEW, HUD, the state government, and Jefferson County. However, furnishing shelter is not enough, at least by itself. We have found that we must aid in family and child guidance."

He also feels that there is a great need for better economics information in the schools, for he feels that if more persons knew how to manage their resources better there would be less need for public housing.

Mr. Denman has been president of the Birmingham Real Estate Board, president of the Mortgage Bankers Association, past-president of the Alabama Association of Housing Authorities, on the National Urban Renewal Executive Committee for two years.

"A contest is here. You know, the spirit of competition calls."

"Who cares?"

"I do."

"Why?"

"I like prizes."

"Oh. What kind of contest is this anyway?"

"A dance marathon."

"Does that mean dancing?"

"Of course."

"You know I can't dance."

"You'll learn."

"Learn!? I want to learn before I dance in public!"

and on other national commissions.

Under his administration the Birmingham Housing Authority has gained an enviable reputation nationwide in both urban renewal and housing.

"We have already set up 14 child development centers in this city," he says. "The authority also provides meals and other aid to the aged. The elderly people's home complex has been a great success in Birmingham. We try to help people find jobs and likewise provide special programs for working mothers," he added.

Mr. Denman feels that dedication for work in a field that one is genuinely interested in is necessary for personal, professional, and social success. "If you like the work that you are involved in, then you can be dedicated. My concern is the building of things to serve people," he advised.

Student challenge

By NANCY WADE
Staff Writer

What is the Challenge of a third kind, Student Challenge?

Could it be the fighting, struggling, and straining in the morning to achieve a state of consciousness.

This assumption is wrong. Coast soap was invented to bring you back to life again. Student Challenge is not over cutting your classes.

I know that is wrong. The course could be dropped before the last cut.

Student Challenge must be trying to stay awake until 4 a.m. for a test. But, that is not a challenge. That is a necessity.

For the last guess Student Challenge is getting to class on time despite the fact you slept through your roommate's alarm clock; your Gamecock wouldn't crow; you're left with five minutes to eat breakfast, and you're running into every friend on campus on the way. No, I'm wrong again.

Everything named is an encounter of a Student kind; Student Challenge is different.

Student Challenge is an evangelical meeting on Sunday nights at 9 o'clock in the Round House.

According to Mike Paris (emcee of Student Challenge) "It is to strengthen other Christians' lives and to reach out into the campus to meet students' spiritual needs by bringing different speakers each week."

A member of the Student Challenge council, Donna Nancarrow said, "Student Challenge is not trying to throw religion at you, but through having a good time in a relaxed atmosphere, people learn about Christ and how to know him."

Donna Bass, a JSU student who attends student challenge said, "It is an informal worship service to a non-Christian through strengthening Christians' personal testimonies of faith and presenting Christ students and speakers."

The sun should set less often

By DAVID FORD
Editor

The Alabama legislature last week approved another year's existence for 279 agencies in the state under the state's Sunset Law. The agencies ranged from the Department of Court Management to the Riverboat Pilots Association.

For more than a day, the House could do nothing. It was waiting for the Senate to finish consideration of the various agencies.

Lt. Gov. Jere Beasley remarked that the House would not even look at most of the agencies, while the Senate would use every possible measure to slow work on the task. He was right.

Review is needed, but that kind of review has no place in a state government that already has a difficult time passing legislation needed to operate the state for another year.

There is really no need for 279 state agencies to be faced with having to justify existence every year. Perhaps the reviews could be made on a staggered basis. The agencies would still be accountable to be elected officials, and the needs of the citizen would be better met.

Watch out...

The State Superintendent of Education, Dr. Wayne Teague, recently said that with all of the media attention on the high state offices this year, special interest groups could move in and completely take control of the state legislature. It's a statement that should not be ignored.

Great strategy...

All good Americans have been called upon to help ease this country's dependence on foreign oil. We were warned that we could too easily be blackmailed. One step against this was to increase our use of coal... I'm still trying to determine who I had rather deal with, the Arabs or the coal miners.

Letters to the editor

Dear Editor,

After reading the article on the co-educational education system in the February 20 issue of The Chanticleer, I would like to submit my opinion on the subject.

First of all, Mr. Angles states that he did not know if there were any co-ed dorms on college campuses. I do not know if he intended for that remark to be humorous or not, but the question struck me as being asinine. I get the feeling that Mr. Angles has not been outside the Jacksonville State University area. I hate to break this to Mr. Angles, but not every institution of higher learning is as conservative as Jacksonville State. Believe it or not, there is a real world outside of JSU, complete with co-ed dorms.

Mr. Angles also said that living next door to a member of the opposite sex will heighten the temptation of the people. Well, so what! Looking at the philosophical point of view, life itself can be one big temptation. What about people of the opposite sex who live in apartment buildings? By having a brother who lives in a co-ed dorm in New York, this is the impression I get of a co-ed dorm; that of an apartment building occupied by mature adults.

Mr. Angles also stated that he felt it would be a sad day when a college or university or even the government would allow such a situation to happen. I hope the government, out of all people and agencies concerned, will not take any action. This matter is too trivial for a bureaucratic organization to foul up. Who knows, they might propose something as ludicrous as putting combination locks on the doors.

Getting back to the inevitable "sad day", this so called "sad day", to my present knowledge, has already taken place at the University of South Alabama. This is only one of the many schools who have such a system. Look at our own International House. It houses males and females. I hear no complaints from these people. As far as I know, life goes on as before on these campuses and the others who have the co-ed dorm system. I do not think that the so called sad day will be as sad as Mr. Angles speculates.

Thank you,
Robert A. Spencer

Dear Editor,

Thank you very much for the excellent article, "Subcommittee hears public side" in the February 13 issue of The Chanticleer.

I would, however, like to correct one quote which was erroneously attributed to me. I was quoted as saying: "If we were under the city, surely we wouldn't have these computers." I never said that (and I even checked a tape of my remarks to double-check myself).

What I did say was: "There aren't many high schools in Alabama that have computers," in reference to the fact that JHS is very well equipped. You correctly reported this in your article, but by falsely attributing that additional quote to me, the entire meaning of my statement was changed.

I am certainly not in favor of the city gaining complete control of the school, but it would be unjustifiable for me to say unequivocally that "surely we wouldn't have these computers" if the school was under city control. That is a purely hypothetical situation which no one can speculate about.

Again, thank you for an article which was, otherwise, well-written and which presented both sides of the issue fairly.

Sincerely,
John Maltese

Review

Summer And Smoke

Well, it is one more success for the Jacksonville State University Drama Department. "Summer and Smoke" was simply smashing.

The audience was extremely pleased and at the end gave the actors the highest compliment they could receive, a standing ovation. And it was well deserved!

The scenery and props crew is to be commended for the excellent job they did with the stage. A professional job! The doctor's office and the rectory looked exactly as if they really came straight out of a small Southern town in the early 1900's.

The costumes and lighting crews were expert giving the play the exact touches and moods.

Mary Ensley playing Alma Winemiller, the protagonist, was the perfect Southern belle. Michael Calvert playing the young doctor, John Buchanan was the impeccable rake. His fight at trying to find his place in the world was touching.

Mrs. Winemiller played by Melissa Rollins added a comic yet sad touch to the plot. Dr. John Buchanan, Sr.

was portrayed sensitively by Douglas Moon.

Congratulations to Dr. Claren and Mr. Ward and the whole cast for the fine rendition of "Summer and Smoke." You did a super job!

Ideas around campus

The SGA is thinking about having a flea market on the campus. All students and community members would be asked to come and display crafts or sell old junk.

The BCM is trying to get up support for a B. J. Thomas and Andre' Crouch concert on campus.

Instructors at the Reading Lab in Romona Wood Education Building want all students to take advantage of the facilities the Reading Lab offers. There is no charge and the hours are Monday and Wednesday, 10-11 and 1:30-3; Tuesday and Thursday, 9-11:30.

The blood drive is set for March 27.

There's a move around to make this campus accessible to handicapped students.

An attempt to equip the student with a PA system for referee calls.

An attempt to have a dual meal ticket to be used at both the Gamecock Cafeteria and Chat'em Inn. Larry LuVuola wants to hear feedback from students.

The heater in the swimming pool has been fixed. So go and enjoy a swim.

JSU women bomb A&M by 97-39

Jacksonville State University's Lady Gamecocks, the Northern Division champions, wound up their regular season here Friday night at Pete Mathews Coliseum in grand style.

Coach Ronnie Akers' Gamecocks routed Alabama A&M 97-39, to finish the regular chart at 17-6 on the year.

"We didn't run up the score," Akers said after the game. "Our bench played more than half the game."

JSU placed six in double figures, led by Jill Collins' 16 points. Kathy Satterfield, Felicia Kendrick and Ann Tillman had 14 points apiece, while Vicky Holmes tossed in 12. Teresa Davis had 11.

"Probably the biggest difference in the game was the way we ran our fast break and the way we controlled the boards," Akers said. "And of course, this being our final regular
