The Alpha Tau Omega Fraternity announces that it will sponsor the Eighth Annual Miss Northeast Alabama Scholarship Pageant. This is a preliminary pageant to the 1978 Miss Alabama Pageant to be held later this year in Birmingham.

The pageant will be held on March 2nd in Leone Cole Auditorium and is open to talented, single women who have never been married and are between the ages of seventeen and twenty-six. The deadline for entering the pageant is Tuesday, February 7th. Anyone interested can get further information by calling Mrs. Mary Stanford, Pageant Director, at 435-7680.

SGA Elections

By TERRY GROCE
Staff Writer

The results of the special senate elections which were held on January 26, have been compiled.

The new '77-'78 senators are Lisa Brooks, Gary Cargal, Alan Grady, Phillip Johnson, Jana McWhorter, Kim Mobley, Ron Shrewsbury, Sharon Summerville, Rex Wilson, and Wade Thomas.

"We appreciate the students who were concerned enough to run and also those who were concerned enough to vote," said S.G.A. President Van Hall. "We were really surprised with the turn out."

"We know these newly elected senators will fill the spaces to the best of their ability," said Van Hall.

The SGA wishes to thank the students for their support.

"The Power of the Mind"

By JANA McWHORTER
Entertainment Editor

The Student Government Association and the Lycium Committee are sponsoring a visit by James J. Mapes, who heads the New York Center of Hypnosis and Mind Control, on February 14 and 16 in Leone Cole Auditorium.

Mapes, who will speak on "The Power of the Mind," presents over two hundred shows a year and makes television appearances nationwide.

He believes this show demonstrates the limitless potential of the mind and helps destroy the myths about hypnosis. Mapes does not believe in Extra Sensory Perception (ESP), but calls it Intra Sensory Perception (ISP).

"Nothin' 'extra' is involved," says Mapes, "We are all born with this instinct but lose it unless used."

As the head of the New York Center for Hypnosis and Mind Control, Mapes works with members of psychiatric, medical and law enforcement officials, sports figures, executives and others.

Mapes has also developed a new program, as an extension of the center, for colleges and key executive seminars entitled "The Power of the Inner Self." This program is designed to teach self-hypnosis and mind control for personal improvement.

These visitors pay $100 an hour to attend the New York Center, however, both performances at Jacksonville State will be free of charge.

Mapes' interest in hypnosis began while attending California State University. A hypnotist there helped him to lose 96 pounds, and stop smoking three packs of cigarettes a day through self-

Successful, Outstanding, Prestigious Alumni

By MAURICE BOWLES

It is sometimes fun to think of life as a cartoon, where an artist can scheme the episodes of one's life with the stroke of a pen. If this were true, the cartoonist has been especially good to Herb Winches.

Success for this JSU football player and grad of 1972 has simply been a matter of "being at the right place at the right time". As Herb Winches strolls into his office with an open shirt and blue denim pants, it doesn't take an expert to realize he has made it.

His success story begins at JSU, where Herbie Wientjes was a tailback for the football team and "Mr. Friendly" of his senior class. That year coach Charlie Pell called him into his office and read a letter to Herbie from WHNT T.V. in Huntsville, asking for auditions for a sportscaster with a background in sports.

He hadn't really planned on going into broadcasting, as a matter of fact, he had tried to go advanced in ROTC but wasn't accepted, but he gave it a stab and got the job.

He stayed at Huntsville for a year and a half and then assumed the position of sports director at WBRC T.V. in Birmingham, where he has been for the last three years.

Reclining in his chair with his feet propped on his desk, he has the look of confidence, but not conceit as he discusses his success. "I don't consider my job work. My job is watching sports, which the average beer drinker would love."

He thanks the Lord he is in such a position. "I'm very happy."

He says that, at times, it does get discouraging. His job throws him in front of a lot of people, and because of that he is sometimes referred to as a "celebrity." "I don't think that's right," he declares. "I consider my job a public service, I just happen to be seen a lot."

He quickly reaches over his desk and holds up a handful of mail. "If I say something the wrong way, somebody out there writes me and tells me I'm a S.O.B."

But he says the pluses outweigh the minuses, and he has stuck with it. "What has carried me is enthusiasm, approaching my job every day as a challenge."

He gives that same advice to students. "Find something you like and approach it with enthusiasm."

When asked of his years at JSU he replies with a warm twinkle in his eye, "My fondest memories are of Jacksonville, they were the greatest years of my life. I have great respect for the administration and people, the finest. It must be even better now. I have spent a lot of time at Alabama and Auburn, and I have not one regret I went to Jacksonville State."

He married a Jacksonville graduate, the former Betty Plan, a ballerina. Oddly enough they met at the T.V. station in Huntsville and not at JSU.

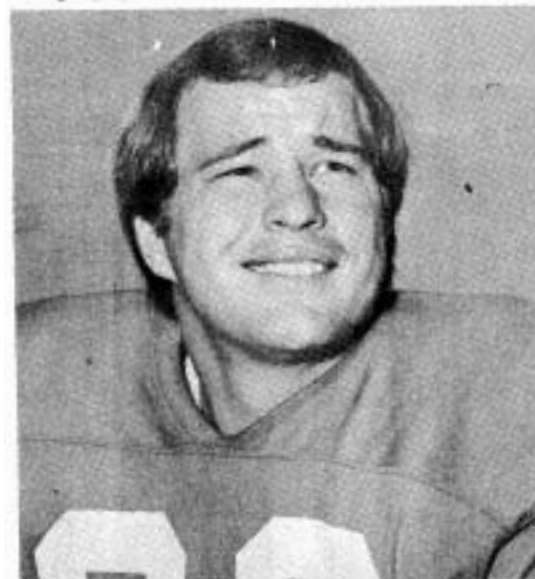

He comments that his most influential people while in school were Dr. Theron Montgomery and his coach, Charlie Pell.

As for the future, Herb eventually wants to go network, "just like everyone else in my business." But he adds "Birmingham is the sports town of the future, great things are about to happen, and I want to be here when they do."

This author has no doubts that when things do happen, the cartoon man will draw Herb Winches into the scene.

Health symposium

By CHRISTINE

Jacksonville State University has recently held its first Health Career Symposium at Lurleen B. Wallace School of Nursing.

The goal of the program was to explore careers by those who are interested in the health field for an occupation.

The program consisted of a panel who were asked questions about their specific career in the health field.

The Panelists were: Dr. Roosevelt Daniel, Dentist;

Weather

By BLAKE PETTUS
Staff Writer

The weather during the early months of each year proves to be hazardous to anyone who must deal with it. January 1978 was no exception.

While the midwest, north, and northeastern regions of the United States were having some of the worst weather in their history, the Alabama area only received its side effects. But what side effects!

Icy roads, small accumulations of snow and temperatures in the teens were typical of the daily weather in Calhoun County. Except for Jacksonville State, all schools and several businesses in the area were closed at different times during the month.

Probably the worst local weather came with a storm on Thursday, January 26. For example, the Atlanta Constitution on the following day gave statistics concerning the Atlanta area: (1) Commuter trips into Atlanta that normally require 20 to 30 minutes were taking up to 3½ hours. (2) An estimated 300 traffic accidents were reported by midnight Thursday. A normal day produces about 75. (3) The storm caused the barometric pressure to drop to 29.06 inches, the lowest recorded in 100 years of measuring.

Calhoun County has not received a record snowfall for a number of years. This year, the area has had three measurable snowfalls since January 12.

On January 30, the Anniston Star reported that "conditions are consistent with what in the past has produced record snowfalls." The last two times this warning was issued, they preceded a 10-inch snowfall on December 31, 1863, and an 11-inch snowfall on January 28, 1940.

The 1940 storm still is the record for Anniston, according to the U.S. Weather Service.

The weather is probably the major topic of causal conversation. Everywhere you turn, someone is talking about whether it will snow, how cold it is, or how cold it's supposed to get tonight.

It is uncertain whether we will get the record snowfall that is due us. However, it appears that the remainder of the winter will be unusually cold, as it was last year.

SGA Moves

By DAVID DETHRAGE

In its weekly meeting last Monday night, the SGA voted to move their meetings from the 3rd floor lobby of the Students Commons Building downstairs to the auditorium. The move was made to provide more room for student body attendance and to establish a more parliamentary atmosphere.

The SGA senate meets every Monday night at 7:00 and is usually in session about an hour. The meetings are open to all members of the Student body, and every student is urged to attend. The SGA is exactly that - the student governing association. They decide what, when and how something is going to happen on campus!

The meetings prove to be very interesting, and the presence of members of the student body will encourage more action from members of the SGA.

With elections nearing, every student should attend at least one meeting to see who participates in the meetings.

The next SGA president will come from this group of senators - go by and see how they're doing tonight at 7:00 in the Student Commons Auditorium.

Ms. Jo Richer, Nurse; Mr. Austin Letson, Hospital Administrator; Mr. Steve Manley, Medical Technologist; Dr. Robert Martin, Pharmacist; Dr. John Sherrer, Medical Doctor; Mr. Lamar Denkins, Mental Health; and Bill Meeham as the moderator.

After the panel discussion, small group interactions took place and students were able to ask the panelist of their choice, more specific questions about their career they held in the health field.

The Health Career Symposium is just one of the several programs that are being set up by the University for the Student's benefit.

There are over 200 health careers to choose from and by 1985, it is expected that health careers will increase by fifty percent.

So this new program is a thrust to help students review the various health careers open for both men and women.

You're here to learn

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to the editorial concerning apathy in the January 30 publication of The Chanticleer.

First, I am not at all sure that the university bears the responsibility for entertaining students. In my judgement, the university's ONLY responsibility is to provide students the opportunity for an education. Part of that education might be helping me learn how to entertain myself or find it for myself—but it remains MY responsibility, not the school's.

Second, there is more variety of offerings in the area of entertainment at JSU than one realizes. For example, I noticed in the Campus Calendar that one of the best musicians I have ever heard ANYWHERE at ANYTIME is going to be on our campus February 16. KEN MEDEMA, blind since birth, is incredibly talented and I have never known of anyone in his audience going away with the feeling that they have been royally ripped-off!!! If entertainment is what you want, go hear Medema.

Third, I suggest that we admit to ourselves and to everyone what we really want is to remain as babies in total dependence on everybody for all our needs rather than going through the pain of growing.

Food Committee to disband

By DAVID DETHRAGE

Do you ever find yourself wishing you could influence the way JSU conducts its food service? Would you like to be able to review the menu's plan specials?

Do you have any constructive criticism or suggestions for the cafeteria but don't know where to find someone who wants to listen?

For the past two years, the SGA has maintained a food committee just for these reasons. The food committee is headed by Senator Jeff Brassart and Food Service Director Larry Louvolla. You are eligible to be on it.

Every student at JSU may play an active roll in policy-making at the cafeteria by serving on this committee.

Recently, there has been only one drawback to this committee's effectively serving the students. It has become a committee of two - Larry and Jeff. They feel the committee should be disbanded unless more students begin to participate. That's where you come in.

The next meeting is scheduled for Thursday at 4:30 in the Presidential Dining Room. Any of the workers in the cafeteria will direct you to it.

Why not go by Thursday and talk with these guys. They care about you and your opinions, but if you don't bother to show, keep your mouth shut. They have done all they can.

A warning about being stamped upon

By LENHARDT FITE

Despite the ideas of many, the JSU printing shop and mail center cannot refund money that has been lost in stamp machines located in the dorms and other places on campus. An employee of the mail center explained that a private company rather than the university owns and services the machines. When the machine runs out of stamps, there is no way for a quarter to be given back.

The printing office at Bibb Graves can give a refund on money lost at other places but cannot do so on the stamp machines. The person who uses the stamp machines gets eighteen cents worth of stamps for 25 cents. It is not fair, said the person questioned, that students and other people should not be warned that their money might be eaten up.

EDITOR'S NOTE: In last week's issue of THE CHANTICLEER we failed to finish the feature on Dr. Pu-Sen-Yeh. Sorry!

However, in recent days lots of other fields—economics, business, sociology, and even music—have found the computer invaluable in solving their problems."

Mrs. Yeh formerly taught in the Home Economics Department here but retired to become a full-time housewife. "I have three children," said Dr. Yeh. "The oldest is a daughter who is in the eighth grade. The second is in the fifth. The youngest, a boy, is five years old and is in kindergarten."

"Education in the family is very important. With proper education, there is no serious problem with a lack of respect for work, authority, and other people. I think that we should try our best to do our best work."

Stand Up And Shout!

This week, THE CHANTICLEER randomly selected nine students to express their opinions about issues which they felt created problems at Jacksonville State University.

These students want to improve situations on campus and have begun to accomplish these goals by standing up and shouting!

"One of the things which bothers me," said Maureen McCoy, a JSU Sophomore, "is the male visiting hours in the dormitories. To me, it seems unfounded."

"We are grown girls, and we should know when we want guys up in our rooms," Maureen said, "Why do we get in more trouble in our dorms than the guys do in their dorms? We can handle ourselves once they give us the responsibility."

"If we set a time of 5:00 until 10:00 every day for male visiting hours, guys would not feel so paranoid about getting out of the dorms on Wednesday night."

"Also, girls would know that they couldn't walk to the bathroom without being covered."

"It's silly," Maureen concluded, "to say that we can't take care of ourselves."

We could stay in a guy's apartment until morning. Who cares?!"

Jo Jo Kulk, a JSU student from Talladega, said, "The library closes at two or three o'clock on Saturday. If this is your only day to sleep, there is really no time to do research work."

Jo Jo also feels there should be better lighting on campus, "If you have a night class, you must walk back from class in the dark. It's scary."

Debi Hoskins, a JSU cheerleader and resident of Daugette Hall, also stressed the need for ample lighting.

"The lighting in the quad around the bushes should be improved," she said. "I have to walk from work at the cafeteria at night, and there could be someone lurking in the bushes."

Debi also feels that students need to become more involved in campus activities

"Students need to participate in everything. Sure, there was plenty of participation during football season, but how many people have gone to the basketball games? Not just the boy's games, but the girl's also."

Connie Bucannon, a JSU junior from Childersburg, says football games cause parking problems.

"I do not like the way they block off the parking spaces in front of Daugette Hall during football games," said Connie. "If we leave the dorm before the football game, we are unable to find a parking place when we return, and we must walk back to the dorm."

"I got the flu last week because I had to walk in the rain and ice," said Mary Jay Stinson, a JSU sophomore, "I had to wade through a puddle that was up to my ankles because we had to go to school during the bad weather."

"My mother works at Calhoun County School and she didn't have to go to school," said Mary, "so why should we students at JSU have to go? I think it is a very very discouraging thing to walk out and get dampened."

Mary also had one other complaint.

"I sat in Bibb Graves and froze to death because there was no heat in room 111, or room 102."

JSU student Debra Wesley feels that "students should become more 'together' on campus."

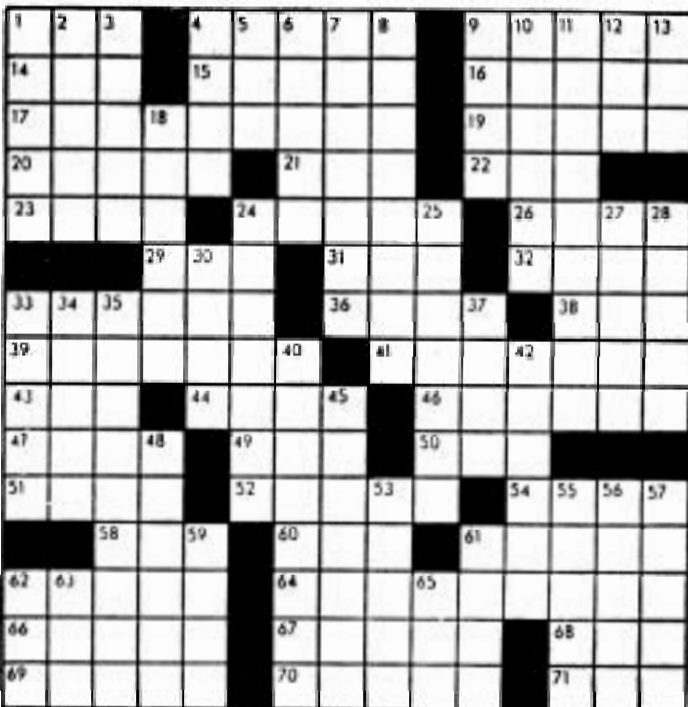

She added, "If the guys can have ladies in their rooms, the young ladies should have the dudes come in their room every day if they want to."

"But," Debra says, "they should have to leave at a certain time if they want to come to the room."

"We've got an administration problem," said David Driscoll, station manager of W.L.J.S., "I

Where is Marvin M. Anders Hall?

Is there really a Marvin M. Anders Hall on this campus? I roamed the hallways of JSU January 24 and 25 to find the answer to this question.

Obviously most students do not think there is a building with that title anywhere near here. Of 125 students asked, only 9 thought there was a building with that name on campus. The remaining 116 students either said a building with that title did not exist or they did not know about it if it did. I then proceeded to quiz the administration, staff and faculty on the subject. Four of 10 people asked on the staff said there was such a hall. The English department had 2 no and 3 yes votes while the history department had 1 no and 4 yes replies.

The fact is that Marvin M. Anders Hall is what most of us call the Roundhouse. Don't take my word for it, look at the plaque in front of the building. Through all this the question remains, who was Marvin M. Anders?

The building was named in honor of the past chairman of the Division of Social Sciences. His name was James Marvin Anders and not Marvin M. Anders, as the plaque reads. He taught here from 1936 to May of 1968. Two short years after his retirement, he was killed in an automobile accident in Centerville, Alabama.

Donkey Jaw

By Eric Williams

He woke up to the usual screeching of the tropical birds and sprang to a sitting position immediately—as though she would still be there. But it had only been a dream, as had his life.

He shook the vision off and descended to the crystal waterfalls pouring down the cliffs. This was indeed his favorite spot in the forest. It was at this same place, two years before, that he had last seen her, and he often thought about those departing moments.

The memory, however, never angered him; he was sure that his long stay in seclusion had done him well. But why did she have to say it? How, after all the trouble he had gone to, could she do such a thing? He had asked himself these questions many times.

"Isn't it beautiful?" he asked, taking her hand, "This may be the most beautiful place I've ever seen!"

"Yes, it's very nice."

"What's wrong? You act as if you're sad about something."

"Oh, nothing."

"C'mon! There's something troubling you. Can't you trust me?"

"Oh, no! It's not that! I just...uh...well—"

"Please!"

"Well...it's something to do with us."

"Us?"

"Yes, our relationship."

Every moment he had spent with her flashed before his eyes. Had he done something wrong? No, that would be hard to accept, for he had planned their every moment together in careful detail.

"What about us?" he asked, "Have I offended you?"

"No! Nothing of the sort!"

"What is it, then?"

"Well...remember what you asked me in your last letter?"

"What, about whether or not you like spinach?"

"No, not that question. The other one."

"Oh, that. You do love me don't you?"

"Uh..."

The romantic scene he had staged for the evening dissipated like smoke in the wind. It was all beginning to shape an ending that he had suffered many times before. Please, he thought, don't say those fatal seven words! I've loved you too long for it to happen again!

But deep down inside he knew she would say it, just as all the others had said it before.

"Uh...I just want to be good friends," she said.

Suddenly the thought of suicide was foremost in his mind, and he walked blindly toward the edge of the cliffs.

"No!" she yelled, "Don't do that. Please!!"

He turned back to look at her one last time, and once again her radiant beauty beckoned him to her, but he refused. He knew what had to be done.

"Goodbye," he whispered as he stepped toward the edge. She tried desperately to grab his arm—but it was too late.

Stepping into the cold water, he wondered what had ever happened to her after that night. She probably had just gone back to the university and forgotten it all. He could not, however, rid himself of a vague guilt, knowing that she believed him dead. But how could he have known of the deep lake beneath the cliffs?

He stepped out into the sun to dry, realizing he was glad he had decided to forget the past and escape to the jungle—for he liked being dead. After all, he thought, who wants to be "good friends" with a dead man?

LIFT EVERY VOICE AND SING

By James Weldon Johnson

Lift every voice and sing
Till earth and heaven ring,
Ring with the harmonies of Liberty;
Let our rejoicing rise
High as the listening skies,
Let it resound loud as the rolling sea.
Sing a song full of the faith that the dark past has taught us,
Sing a song full of the hope that the present has brought us,
Facing the rising sun of our new day begun
Let us march on till victory is won.

Stony the road we trod,
Bitter the chastening rod,
Felt in the days when hope unborn had died;
Yet with a steady beat,
Have not our weary feet
Come to the place for which our fathers sighed?

We have come over a way that with tears has been
We have come, treading our path through the blood of the slaughtered,
Out from the gloomy past,
Till now we stand at last
Where the white gleam of our bright star is cast.

God of our weary years,
God of our silent tears,
Thou who has brought us thus far on the way;
Thou who has by Thy might
Let us into the light,
Keep us forever in the path, we pray.
Lest our feet stray from the places, our
God, where we met thee,
Lest, our hearts drunk with the wine of the world, we forget Thee;
Shadowed beneath Thy hand,
May we forever stand
True to our God,
True to our native land.

"I don't know if the women will agree or not," said Steve Jones, W.L.J.S. engineer, "but I'd like to see the women's dormitories just as free as the guys."

"If a guy wanted to come visit or study with a girl until 12:00 everyday, that's no big deal, and I'd like to see this changed. I feel that everyone's an adult, and that they ought to be able to decide what they want to do."

"Apathy has been the topic of a lot of complaints," said Steve Hassenplug, a JSU student. "It seems like it has been run into the ground, but it really has not."

"In sports, there is so much opportunity for those students who don't try out for varsity sport," said Steve. "A lot of people are taking advantage of this, but a lot more could."

"I appreciate all the new sports facilities they have now," said Steve, "but one big complaint I have is that not enough people show up for Basketball games. That is a real problem."

"If we could support our basketball team as well as our football team," Steve added, "we could improve the situation."

"In four years, no other program has had such an overwhelming effect on the students," said Jane Holmquist of Framingham College in Maryland. "...all I've heard is excellent feedback and requests for more."

"His commitment to audience participation," said Tom Burke of High Point College in High Point, North Carolina, "created a highly enthusiastic atmosphere and the audience responded overwhelmingly."

If you would like to attend these lectures, Mapes will be at Jax State February 14 and 16, with both lectures starting at 8:00.

Chicago Singer Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP)-Terry Kath, a lead singer with the rock music group Chicago, killed himself Monday when he put what he thought was an unloaded gun to his head and pulled the trigger, police said.

Police investigator Tim Yost said Kath, 31, of Malibu, Calif., was at the suburban Woodland Hills home of Don Johnson, one of band's technicians, when the shooting occurred.

Kath, his wife and Johnson were having a party and drinking, Yost said.

Kath earlier had put another pistol to his head and pulled the trigger several times but that gun was not loaded, Yost said.

Mayor Declares Black History Week

By BLAKE PETTUS

The week of February 5-12 has been proclaimed Black History Week throughout the United States.

Black History Week was first started in 1926 by Dr. Carter G. Woodson, who was Director of the Association for the study of Negro life and history. The aim of the one week event is to inspire a continuous and systematic analysis of historical achievements that focus on various aspects of the life and problems of black America.

The Afro-American Association at Jacksonville State will present a four day program concerning Black History Week.

JSU's Miss Black Culture Janice Thornton of La Grange, GA., will reign over the festivities for Black History Week.

The program will include speeches, skits, dances, etc. All events are free and can be enjoyed by all people. Everyone is invited to attend.

Then he picked up an automatic pistol, put in a clip, and put that to his head, telling his wife and Johnson, "Don't worry, it's not loaded."

Yost said the automatic pistol belonged either to Kath or his wife. He said there was no immediate explanation why Kath had taken the gun to Johnson's house. But he added, "For now, we're listing it as an accident."

Kath, a native of Chicago, listed his favorite hobbies as motorcycle riding and guns. "I do target shooting, but I prefer just to go out into the desert and shoot at beer cans," he once said.

Nicholls Leaving GSC?

Nicholls State University is considering taking steps to upgrade its athletic program from NCAA Division II status to Division I. And unless the rest of the member schools in the Gulf South Conference decide to do the same, Nicholls may be leaving the G.S.C.

In a recent interview in the "Nicholls Worth", the Nicholls State student newspaper, Nicholls athletic director Ray Didier cited reasons such as scheduling, travel costs, and the wish to remain competitive with small Division I schools in Louisiana as the principal reasons for wanting to upgrade their program. Didier also said that should Nicholls move up in status, they would compete as an independent with no conference affiliations.

Jax State's athletic director Jerry Cole commented on the Nicholls State situation.

Their situation down there is a little different from the other schools in the conference," Cole said. "There is a multitude of colleges and universities in the state of Louisiana. Nicholls and Southeast want to keep their level of sports up with the rest of the schools in their state."

Nicholls' wish to keep their competitive level on par with other small Louisiana schools is what prompts the possible move to Division I. Nicholls and Southeastern still may be the only two schools of their size in Louisiana still in Division II.

"Nicholls plays a pretty full conference schedule and their outside conference competition usually comes from the state," Cole commented. "Actually, there are enough schools in Louisiana to form a small college conference of their own."

Where does all this leave J.S.U. and the rest of the Gulf South Conference?

"We have to be sympathetic to their needs," Cole said, "but we really can't let their needs dictate the entire needs of the conference. There's more schools involved than just those two (Nicholls and Southeast)."

"I hate to see anybody leave the conference and I hope that they don't," Cole added.

Basketball Roundup

Three consecutive losses to Gulf South Conference opponents have ended Coach Bill Jones' Gamecocks hopes of winning the conference basketball crown. The three losses (to S.E. Louisiana, 67-66, to Miss. College, 88-84, and Livingston 113-81) dropped the Gamecocks overall record to 7-9, 2-6 in the conference

S.E. Louisiana 67, JSU 66

Rick Minton's 10-foot jumper with three seconds on the clock was the margin of victory for the visiting Lions. The Gamecocks and Southeast had swapped leads the entire second half with the Gamecocks holding a 3 point margin with 3:51 remaining play. At this point an official called a technical foul on JSU's Greg Davis for faking a charging foul and another technical for "getting up too quickly".

The two technicals seemed to kill any momentum the Gamecocks had and Minton's jumper sent the Jaxmen down to another narrow defeat.

Leading scorer for the Gamecocks was David Thomas with 23. Jeff Tyson lead Southeast with 20.

Livingston 113, JSU 81

JSU saw its Gulf South championship hopes totally demolished as Livingston slapped a big 32 point defeat on the Gamecocks. The Tigers led the entire game by comfortable margins and dominated play at both ends of the court.

The Gamecocks managed to cut the LU lead to 8 points at one point in the first half but saw the Tigers build the lead to 18 at half time 50-32. The Gamecocks scored 49 points in the second half but Livingston scored 63 to win going away.

Poolroom Thomas again led Gamecock scoring with 22 points while Cheyenne Jones led LU with 23.

Super fast Bowl is Coming

Football's Superbowl XII is history. Motoracing's equivalent, Atlanta's SUPERBOWL OF MOTOCROSS II, will happen March 4.

The Atlanta Stadium will again be the scene of the MR. PIBB BOTTLER'S SUPERBOWL OF MOTOCROSS. Stadium Motocross is the fastest growing spectator sport in America. This year's Atlanta edition will be a blockbuster. Advance indications promise an even more awesome success than last year, which drew a near-capacity crowd of over 46,000 in a freezing rainstorm.

On Saturday night, March 4, 80 of the best riders in the U.S. will take on the challenge in three hours of spine-tingling racing action. The track, of course, has to be built especially for this event. 6,000 cubic yards of dirt will be moved right on the football field at Atlanta Stadium and bulldozed into promoter Mike Goodwin's masochistic idea of how to separate the men from the boys. The cost for the track alone is estimated at over $50,000.00.

What is motocross? Picture a group of men on custom built 200 lb. motorcycles made of magnesium, fiberglass, iron and rubber with more acceleration than a racing Ferrari hitting three to six foot bumps at a mile a minute, hurtling through the air, and sliding through mudholes handlebar to handlebar. All who dare attempt such a test of nerve and endurance do not succeed. The slightest misjudgement in braking, acceleration, or turning often ends in an unceremonious, if not violent, separation of rider and mount. Of an estimated 10,000 professional motocross racers in the country, less than 1 percent are judged qualified to enter these treacherous stadium events. Of these 80, only 24 will survive from the seven sudden death qualifiers to go for all the marbles in the 20 lap high-intensity final at 10:30 p.m.

The 1978 MR. PIBB BOTTLER'S SUPERBOWL OF MOTOCROSS will kick off February 4 with advance tickets going on sale at the Stadium Hotel. From 9:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m., the best $12 reserved VIP seats in the house may be purchased for only $10. Along with discounted tickets, complimentary MR. PIBB will be served and top riders, including two time L.A. Coliseum winner Jim "Capt. Cobalt Ellis" will be available for autographs.

The event is a recognized stopover for racing fans heading south for Daytona Speedweek. The significance of the event is that pro motorcycle racing of this prestige only happens once each year in Atlanta. The advantages of Stadium Motocross are in the comfort and convenience of reserved seats, the ability to see all of the course, the central location, and easy access.

Put it all together and it becomes the most spectacular way to spend Saturday night, March 4, 1978. The MR. PIBB SUPERBOWL OF MOTOCROSS!!!
