Coal miners reject proposal; conservation measures set

By NANCY WADE
And DAVID FORD
Members of the United Mine Workers have overwhelmingly rejected the latest contract proposal that would have ended the record three month long coal strike.
The action worsens the already critical situation for several utilities, including Alabama Power Company, which now has only a 45 day supply of coal.
The short supply of coal reserves has prompted the utility to request Governor George Wallace to ask all state institutions and agencies to reduce power consumption by 20 percent.
Jacksonville State received an executive order from the governor last week to curtail energy consumption by 20 percent.
President Dr. Ernest Stone called two emergency sessions of the school's energy Commission late last week to outline the proposed areas of conservation.
Stone told the group, "We must do our part in conserving electricity."
The following items are to be put into action immediately:

1) There will be no air-conditioning until the emergency is lifted. The heating of the buildings will not be affected.
2) All outdoor athletic events which require artificial lighting are banned.
   Two examples are baseball and evening tennis games.
3) Neon signs on campus will be turned off immediately. This will include the SGA and athletic department signs.
4) The use of portable electric heating units and fans is banned.
5) Hallway TV monitors and clocks will be turned off.
6) During daylight hours all lights in lobbies, vestibules, and corridors will be turned off.
7) Use of stairwell lights is permissible only in stairwells lacking sufficient natural lighting to provide safe levels of illumination.
8) In dormitories, all hallway and lobby lights will be turned off during daylight hours. All bathroom lights will be off at night unless someone is using the facilities. Voluntary reduction in the use of electrical appliances is requested.
9) All refrigeration units that chill the water in the drinking fountains will be unplugged.
10) Cleaning service personnel will be reminded to turn off all lights as they finish cleaning the area.
11) Classroom lights are not to be used if sufficient natural lighting is available. If classroom lights are used, instructors must turn them off after each class.

Howard Johnson, in charge of the commission, told the group, "None of these things in and among themselves will do it. Some of these things, on the surface, seem insignificant, but when you put them all together, they will amount to a 20 to 25 percent cutback."

Possible actions are:
1) Unplug the soft drink machines.
2) Ban the re-issue of SGA refrigerators.
3) Turn off all electricity for a few hours each day.

Greek Week set

The Interfraternity Council (IFC) has set March 20 through 23, as annual Greek Week. The four day event has been shortened this year to accommodate all fraternities.
The reason it's not a full week this year is because all of the different fraternities had different forms every weekend," IFC President Jeff Parker explained. "We wanted to make sure that everybody could go to the party and have an equal chance to participate."
 Sororities will also be taking part in Greek Week this year. Parker said, "In the past we've had difficulty coordinating it with the sororities, but we've worked it out this year."
Parker said the IFC Administrative Vice-President Raymond Lowe is in charge of the event this year, and will have a full schedule of events for publication in the next issue of "The Chanticleer."

The two one-act operas, "The Telephone" and "Trouble in Tahiti" have been postponed by the Music Department until March 30, due to illness.

AEA president favors political action for teachers

By LEN FITE
Staff Writer

For those persons not in the know, Catherine Whitehead, the principal of Constantine Elementary School in Oxford is the president of the Alabama Education Association. She is also a graduate of Jacksonville State University, and has taught, off and on, for a number of years.

She was born in Cherokee County, and when she was only a year old her family moved to Jacksonville. "I went from first grade to graduate student in Jacksonville school," she says. She graduated from the State Teachers College in 1941 with a two-year degree, then went to a private business college in Anniston and learned secretarial skills.

Mrs. Whitehead became the secretary of Dr. R. K. Coffee, she explains. "I never would have decided to return to college to get my education degree. She was the head of the publicity department at the State Teachers College and I worked under her. I would not have been able to return to school after dropping out had it not been for her help and that of many other people."

Another influence she remembers is Dr. Leroy Brown. "At one time I worked as a secretary to Dr. Brown who was the superintendent for the Anniston City Schools. He, among many other administrators whom I worked for, encouraged me to seek my master's degree," she adds.

She had a teacher's certificate dust-gathering for some time while she was an office worker; however, she explained, she gained an interest in education when her son entered the first grade. "I started in the Anniston school system in 1969, and got my MA in Administration at Jacksonville State College in 1961. I was also among the first to get the Double-A degree at Jacksonville." Mrs. Whitehead was asked to become the principal of Constantine Elementary School in 1972, and she believes that it has been a very interesting and rewarding experience working with young children.

Around that time, she was asked to become involved in the local classroom teacher's association and became its president. She then served for six years on the executive board of the AEA.

Another influence in the teachers organization, "I got involved and interested by serving on the state committee and some local groups. My main interest is in professional and political action in the AEA."

Mrs. Whitehead was elected president of AEA in 1976 and took office in 1977. "As to giving advice for young people in college," she replied, "I must say that my own problem was finding out where I fitted. I would have gotten into education sooner, but I need to discover where I would be happier. I worked in real estate offices and for the county superintendent of education until I decided to get my BA degree, and have a better job opportunity."

Mrs. Whitehead went on to say that, "You sometimes need to really need to get out into a field before you learn what you actually like to do."

Stone to speak at Troy commencement

Jacksonville State University President Dr. Ernest Stone is slated to speak at Troy State University's winter quarter commencement exercises March 17.

In making the announcement, Troy State President Dr. Ralph Adams praised Stone as "one of the nation's most respected educators." Adams went on to say, "Traditionally we (Troy) have drawn leaders from across the state and nation to the speaker's platform at Troy. Dr. Stone certainly no exception."

Following the commencement exercises, Dr. and Mrs. Stone will be the guests of honor at a luncheon hosted by Dr. and Mrs. Adams.

He holds awards from the Boy Scouts, the Alabama Education Association, the United States Army, numerous professional honor societies, and is listed in several Who's Who publications.

Mini tour set by history department

The History Department is offering a tour of the Historic East this summer. The tour will include Williamsburg, the 18th century colonial capital of Virginia; Jamestown, the site of the first permanent English in North America; Jefferson's home at Monticello; Washington's home at Mt. Vernon; Washington, D.C.; Philadelphia and Independence Hall; Plymouth, first settlement in Massachusetts; Boston and the Freedom Trail; Lexington and Concord, where the first shots of the Revolution were fired; and Salem and the House of Seven Gables.

The tour will last two weeks May 3-16. Students will receive three hours credit which may count toward a history major, a history minor, a social science elective, or a general elective.

The cost of the tour is $250, which includes motels, transportation and entrance fees. It does not include tuition, food, or personal expenses.

Students will meet in class two days prior to the trip. They will be required to keep a journal and write a paper on some aspect of the trip.

Interested students may contact Dr. Mary Martha Thomas of the History Department for further information. Registration deadline is April 1 and the tour is limited to 10 students.
Ability to "use language correctly and precisely" required before graduation

Gettysburg, Pa.-In an effort to improve the ability to use language correctly and precisely, the English Department at Gettysburg College is requiring that each student submit an essay demonstrating proficiency in usage and critical awareness of style and content.

"Each faculty member should have the skill to express himself or herself clearly, concisely, and coherently in writing, and should have the ability to recognize such style and usage. Each faculty member should also demand such usage and critical awareness by his or her students, should be able to help students recognize weaknesses in errors in writing, and should be willing to aid students in improving expressions. "If students' writing is to improve, and if a student is to maintain a high level of literacy, then the college must make a commitment to correct and effective writing." Consequently, the proposal recommended that each faculty member take writing as well as content into consideration on exams or papers, in fact recognizing that "content and expression cannot be separated." Faculty are thus expected to comment on expression as well as facts, suggest specific improvements, or refer the student to someone who can help.

The English Department selected seven of its members to lead the seminars in the fall and spring terms-four two and one-half hour seminars on consecutive Saturdays in the fall, two faculty enrolled in the September series, and a total of 14 of the college's 18 departments. The seminar's aim is simple: to reinforce faculty members' ability to judge the quality of writing in students' papers, not only in spelling and punctuation, but particularly in expression, organization and clarity of thought.

Participants received a set of common terms for the sake of uniformity from course to course. They examined samples of actual student papers, secured with the students' permission and presented anonymously. A widely accepted text was distributed, Perrin's "Handbook of Current English." Also made available was a statement on criteria used by the English Department faculty on evaluating writing, and a chart which can be used as an evaluation checklist.

The program designers are hopeful that seminar participants will share their knowledge with their department colleagues, and "evangelize" the concept.

Beason to speak at workshop

The Rev. Stan Beason will be at the Roundhouse March 20 and 21 in a Christian workshop. He received his college diplomas at Marion Military Institute and attended the U. S. Naval Academy.

The Rev. Beason served in the U. S. Navy during the Korean War. He received his BA from the University of Alabama, MA from American University in Washington, D.C.; Master of Divinity from Emory University where he received the Baptist with the Holy Spirit and studied classical Greek at the University of Alabama.

He received his doctor's degree from Emory University, and doctor of ministry. He spent eight years in newspaper reporting and was a minister in the United Methodist Church.

He is a man of God, doing God's work very well. Not only is he a knowledgeable speaker, but his humor flows and makes even the most difficult Bible truths simple with very pleasant overtones. All are invited to attend and enjoy this workshop.

Business symposium planned

Perhaps one of the brightest areas for employment today lies within the business career field. Recent projections released by the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics indicate a continued positive outlook for new job openings through 1985. In order to present a more detailed investigation of expected trends, the School of Business Administration is presenting a career symposium on March 21, from 3-4 p.m. in the Merrill Hall Auditorium. The symposium is entitled "Business Professions: Employment Opportunities in the 80's."

Panelists for the symposium include representatives from the fields of Banking and Finance, Management, Marketing, Insurance and Real Estate and Computer Science. Following the panel presentation members of the audience will have the opportunity to direct questions to the presenters. If you are a business major or considering entering this area of study, the symposium should provide valuable insights and information. All JSU students and faculty are cordially invited to attend.

Job opportunities for grads improving

The demand for graduates with bachelor's degrees will be up about 14 percent. The figure is 8 percent for graduates with master's degrees. Technical students-those with degrees in computer science, engineering and math-are in the best positions with the demand for their services increasing by at least 23 percent.

The Southeast and Southwest are the best bets for a young graduate to get a job. The population is growing in both of these regions while it is somewhat stagnant in the northern regions.

Dial A Prayer

Dear Marilyn Monroe,
I'm writing this letter to inform you that I disagree with the statements you made to Coach Jones in the latest edition of The Chanticleer.

It is evident that you do not know much about college basketball. You made the statement that he should let everybody play. Ms. Monroe, at this stage of the game a player must earn the right to play. Being dressed out on the bench does not constitute this right. If you want to see everybody get to play, maybe you should start attending Pee Wee ballgames, where by "showing up" you get a chance to play at least one quarter.

Also, I think Coach Jones, who recruited and worked with each of these players, is a better judge of their talents than you. I feel he has every right to make the statement that Livingston has more talent than you. I believe he is doing the right thing. Listening to the advice of the parents of these athletes and the coaching staff is the best way to do this.

Furthermore, you stated that if Coach Jones would let everybody play, it would barely meet the standards of college basketball. You made the statement that he should let everybody play. Ms. Monroe, at this stage of the game a player must earn the right to play. Being dressed out on the bench does not constitute this right. If you want to see everybody get to play, maybe you should start attending Pee Wee ballgames, where by "showing up" you get a chance to play at least one quarter.

Dear Editor:
Robert Angles commentary on co-educational dormitories left me feeling a tiny bit amused and a great deal alarmed at the logic he used to arrive at his conclusions. The definition of coeducation he offers is his interpretation of the meaning of the word. Webster's New Collegiate Dictionary (1974) gave the definition for coeducation as "The education of students both sexes at the same institution." According to Webster's, the education of both sexes is not necessarily confined solely to classrooms but education "at the same institution." With this thought in mind consider that among the experiences of most college students is dorm life. Dormitories are definitely a part of this educational institution. After learning the lessons of everyday life in all male or all female housing why should a student not have the option to experience a "neater" to real life dorm arrangement. Outside the college campus there are few groups or organizations who sexually segregate people. Coed dorms offer a realistic living arrangement. They are not a step toward moral decay or catastrophy. In attacking coed dorms solely on the proximity of the sexes and the temptations he feels would develop, Mr. Angles only reinforces his own form of tunnel vision. He admits he does not know if any co-ed housing even exists yet he strives forth like St. George to slay the dragon. Before flailing the sword carelessly, why not take a closer look at the creature? Part of the reason for the sexual controversy stems from a misunderstanding of the actual housing arrangements within the dorms. I have personal knowledge of two coed dorms at two different colleges. Although students of both sexes lived on the same hall, they roomed in separate suites containing all the necessary bath facilities for the occupants. A community living-TV room allowed socialization and interaction outside the suites. Twenty-four-hour visitation was standard but presented no problems. On the contrary the occupants appeared quite pleased.

At 26, Stephen Bishop is doing very well for himself. The young man responsible for "On and On" and "Save It for a Rainy Day," two of 1977's more memorable songs, has been popping up on just about every music poll around in the past year and his debut album, "Careless," has become a runaway hit.

With his neatly trimmed beard and rimless glasses, Bishop doesn't take the part of a pop star—but record buyers and concert-goers have gone for his brand of subtle, jazz-influenced pop in a big way.

Bishop's attitude toward the music business (and his own success) is refreshingly irreverent, and he talks about his climb to popularity with an irony and dry wit that have caused some interviewers to refer to him as rock's answer to Woody Allen.

At 17, Bishop moved from his native San Diego to Los Angeles in search of notoriety and big bucks. A songwriter from the age of 13, he took a handful of tunes and his first band, The Weeds, in search of a producer.

"We tracked down a producer who was interested in us—barely. It was a complete disaster," he says. "We were the first punk band," Bishop adds. "The Weeds were definitely punks, but we didn't know it then."

The Weeds didn't work out so Bishop struck out on his own, working a variety of odd jobs while he knocked on music publishers' doors. He sold lithographs on the street and found himself playing back-up for a transvestite in a bar at one point—a job which lasted about three weeks.

"It paid really well," Bishop recalls. "I wore a gas mask three nights in a row because none of the girls would notice me. It didn't work, though—I still got sick."

Admittedly, the songs he was writing six or seven years ago weren't quite as commercial as the ones the public has come to know him for.

"I was writing stupid songs then, things like 'There's a Hair in Your Enchilada,'" Bishop says. "I'd go in and say 'Hey, this one would be great for the Fifth Dimension.' I really didn't have any idea what was going on with music publishers."

Despite his stunning lack of success, Bishop kept knocking on doors until one finally opened. He was hired by Edwin H. Morris Publishing at the less-than-stupendous salary of $50 a week—but it was a job and he began to make contacts in the music business.

In early 1975, at a time when Bishop's self-confidence was at a low ebb, salvation came in the form of Art Garfunkel. Garfunkel had given a cassette tape of Bishop songs by a mutual acquaintance and was impressed enough with the songwriter's talents that he included two Bishop songs, "Looking for the Right One" and "Same Old Tears on a New Background," on his "Breakaway" album. Other people in the music business began to sit up and take notice.

"It came at a time when I really needed it," Bishop says. "I was getting sick of selling lithographs on street corners."

On the strength of the Art Garfunkel songs, Bishop and then-manager Bob Ellis negotiated a recording contract with ABC. The sessions produced "Careless," an album which effectively showcased Bishop's tasteful music and easy voice and featured such stellar guests as Chaka Khan and Eric Clapton.

Although Bishop could properly be termed a pop star, many of the courts, the cynicism and lack of pretension which marked his scuffing days still holds sway. "Rock musicians take themselves far too seriously these days," he says.

That attitude of irreverence kept Bishop out of certain pop stars. I know I used to be like that with the Beatles. I just try to hip kids to certain things."

He recounts the story of a 12-year-old who swaggered up, cigarette dangling from his lip, to ask for an autograph. The health-minded Bishop said, "Sure, if you put that stupid cigarette out." Bishop wrote out the autograph and added, "Don't smoke, you jerk!"

The kid, visibly impressed, left babbling assurances that he would never smoke again.

"I don't know whether he meant it or not," Bishop muses, "but as trite as that whole thing sounds, if it works, that's what's important."

Stephen Bishop

If his attitude toward stardom is less than reverent, Bishop doesn't underestimate its effects. "I do feel a certain amount of responsibility toward kids. You tend to forget how kids are really influenced by certain pop stars. I know I used to like that with the Beatles. I just try to hip kids to certain things."

Are you frustrated? Do you have feelings of anxiety? Has the realization that you struggled through mid-term tests only to face finals transformed you into a zombie? Do snap out of it? The BCM is providing an excellent way to release those built-up tensions.

On Wednesday, March 8, the BCM will sponsor their "spring bash." Although those students close by expect to see another dorm being remodeled, however, no such luck; it will only be those enthusiastic students relieving their hostility in a fashion that won't cost them a ticket or a night in jail!

The "bash" will be held between Patterson and Luttrell Hall during the hours of 1 p.m.-4 p.m. The charge will be 25 cents a hit or five for a dollar. All proceeds will be used to fund summer missionaries. Don't be left out, set aside this Wednesday afternoon to leave your "dent" in modern technology.
What's happenin'...

Starting in March CBS will air a weekly, prime time special called "CBS: On the Air." It is a celebration of its 50 years of radio and television broadcasting. Hosted by Walter Cronkite and Mary Tyler Moore.

On Sept. 24, 26-year-old singer John Bykowski, a rock promoter, will present a day long Woodstock '78 festival not far from the site of its ancestor. This Woodstock will be to celebrate the music of '78.

Eighty - eight-year-old Muie Earlo, who plays Maude Goomley on the "Waltons" makes her Broadway debut in "The Effect of Gamma Rays on Man - In - the - Moon Monkey."Brian de Palma w/ release his first series since "Carrie," called "The" starring Kirk Douglas and Carrie Snodgress.

Birthdays: Monday, March 6, Ed McMahon, 55. Captain and Tennille will appear in March with a special tape in New Orleans with guest stars Tennessee Williams, Jerry Lee Lewis, Hal Linden and Fats Domino.

Ringo Starr and George Harrison will appear together on a television special called "Ringo. Elton John's next album has one track, "Are You Ready for Love," which results of a remake on a talk show last year. He stated that the Spinners had always been one of his favorites. Thom Bell, a producer, writer, promptly called Elton and arranged a meeting. The result is a track with Elton and the Spinners singing their first duet.

Congratulations to Aretha Franklin on her forthcoming album. On March 18, an outdoor rock festival will be held at the Ontario Motor Speedway track in California, which features groups like Journey, Foreigner, Heart, Dave Mason, Ted Nugent, Rubicon, Santana and Bob Welch.

CONCERTS
March 9: Emerson, Lake and Palmer in Atlanta.
March 10: Dave Mason and Bob Welch in Birmingham.

SGA MOVIES
March 8: "Three Days of the Condor." High tension thriller in which super bright CIA agent (code name Condor) is on the run from a mas murderer. It stars Robert Redford, Faye Dunaway, Max Von Sydow and Cliff Robertson. Rated R.

March 9: Truman Capote's "Breakfast At Tiffany's." Holly Golightly lives by her wits and charm—and chases "the mean reds" by visiting Tiffany's. It stars Audrey Hepburn, George Peppard, Mickey Rooney and Patricia Neal. Rated R.

Beyond And Back

If you are interested in the slightly supernatural theme of life after death and enjoy two-hour documentaries instead of pure entertainment films, then don't miss, "Beyond and Back." Sitting through that movie, I felt as if I was in an educational psychology class watching an informative film on life and death. The movie was well done, clear and concise, but a little long. It would fit more on the educational television screen than on the movie screen. Who wants to pay three dollars to feel like you're sitting in a classroom?

One catch in the movie was that it was based in part on a certain book. What I would like to know is what part was based on the actual supposed documented book. The movie was an interesting documentary full of supposedly true cases of people dying and then being revived. My bet is that this movie will be on television where it belongs in about a year.

Jax upsets David Lipscomb College

David Lipscomb College’s gymnastics squad come to Jacksonville ranked as the nation’s number two NAIA team. They left Jacksonville as number three.

Coach Harold O’Bryant’s Gamecocks gym team upset Lipscomb, 181.2-180.8 to take its eighth meet win of the year and move into the No. 2 spot among NAIA schools. The meet was the last of the season for the men’s team. “David Lipscomb has been the No. 2 team in the NAIA all year,” Coach O’Bryant said, “and to beat them, even by so small a margin (6.4 points), is a great accomplishment for our program.” JSU has competed in gymnastics for the past three years and is fast gaining recognition around the Southeast.

The Gamecocks win over Lipscomb was sparked by the performances of junior Steve Martin and freshman Mark Lee.

Martin took first place honors in the floor exercise and the long horse vaulting, with a fine 9.4 score in the vaulting event. Lee won the pommel horse event and finished the meet with a 44.95 score to take first place all-around.

Though Jax State finished the season as the NAIA’s No. 2 team, the Gamecocks will not be participating in the national meet. The gymnastics team is going through a transitional period, moving from NCAA competition to NAIA.

But Coach O’Bryant is anything but disappointed. He sees a bright future for the Jacksonville State Gymnastics. “We’re beginning to gain the reputation of being a team not easily reckoned with,” O’Bryant stated. “We came within three points of beating the University of Georgia and we beat Clemson University, Memphis State, the Citadel and Georgia Southern, who has the reputation for having a good gymnastics program.”

One team which Coach O’Bryant’s squad didn’t face but would gladly accept an encounter with is Oskehosh, Wis., who is rated as the NAIA’s number one team. “Oskehosh is scoring in the 190 to 200 point range as a team,” O’Bryant said, “whereas 181 is our highest score yet.”

The Gamecocks lose four seniors this year. Kevin Lee, Rick Walton, Solomon Cardenas, and David Hamrick. But the Gamecocks have a lot of talent returning and should be in contention for a national title next year.

Cagers end season on winning note

The 1977-78 basketball season came to a satisfactory conclusion for Coach Bill Jones’ Cagers as they swept the final two games of the season with a break even 12-12 mark. The Gamecocks defeated UTM 75-74 and crushed North Alabama 92-82.

Gamecocks 75-UT-Martin 74 “Poolroom.” That’s the word Gamecock basketball fans yell when it’s time for something great. And this was one time they weren’t to be disappointed.

David “Poolroom” Thomas sank two clutch free throws with 19 seconds to go in the game to defeat Tennessee-Martin 75-74 defeat and keep the Gamecocks in the South Central Region. Thomas is the game’s only true senior and is the only player who has played in all 12 games this season.

The Gamecocks took the lead at 69-68 with 3:38 to go in the game on a pair of foul shots by Robert Clemens. But it took Thomas’ last seconds heroics to nail down the hard earned victory. “Pool” was high for the Jaxmen with 20 points while Greg Davis added 18. Joe Bodie’s 19 led UTM.

GAMECOCKS 92

North Alabama 82

David Thomas, Greg Davis, and Greg Yarlett called it a career after this game as the Gamecocks blasted the Lions early in taking their 12th win. The Gamecocks opened the game firing from the hip as Thomas, Davis, and Yarlett scored the first 16 points to lead the Gamecocks to victory over the visiting Lions.

The visiting Lions cut into the lead some during the second half, but the Gamecocks weren’t to be denied a victory on this night, pulling away in the last minutes.

Thomas finished up his Jax State career with a 32 point performance.

Lady Gamecocks place second

Coach Ron Akers' Lady Gamecocks swept past two opponents in the AAIAW (Alabama Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women) basketball tournament but had to settle for second place in the state, as Tuskegee took top honors in the tourney. The ladies defeated Judson College 73-65 and Alabama State 72-60 before losing to 'Skegee in the finals, 86-69.

Felicia Kendrick led the Lady Gamecocks with 14 points, followed by Cathy Satterfield's 12. Judson was led by Judy Long's 26 points.

Coach Akers' gals ran up a big first half lead and coasted the rest of the way as they dealt the visitors from South Alabama an 18 point defeat.

The Jax women led by 17 points at the half (39-22), shooting a blistering 60 percent. The women finished the game shooting at a 54.8 clip.

It was a case of David vs. Goliath in this game as the Lady Gamecocks defeated a much taller Alabama State team. The Lady Gamecocks were led by point guard Vickie Holmes, who swept around and under the taller Lady Hornets to score 16 points and hand down nine points.

Cathy Satterfield and Felicia Kendrick shared scoring honors with Holmes and they also scored 14 points.

Letters

The sexual temptation issue is only a small part of the whole idea of coed dorms. Learning to live with members of the opposite sex, outside of the family in a social situation is a situation we all will eventually face. When both sexes live that close they often build many non-sexually oriented friendships with the opposite sex. I was overwhelmed at Mrs. Angles note that he did realize present conditions and rules do not stop those persons desiring sexual contacts. Try to remember that not all persons wanting to live in coed dorm view them as a sexual haven but look to them as a natural lifestyle preferred over separation.

I agree that coed dorms are not for everyone but neither are all male or female dorms. Before people make a final decision concerning coed dorms consider that students' needs differ and should be taken into consideration.

Thank you,
Douglas B. Moon
