Mayor, Peinhardt and Driscoll meet

Jacksonville Mayor David Peinhardt and Jacksonville State University President Driscoll met Monday to discuss the possibility of establishing an open line of communication between the city and the student body. They felt the police were setting "speed traps" primarily for college students.

Over 500 make JSU's dean's list

Academic excellence was achieved by 544 students at Jacksonville State University during the fall semester 1978. This number of students either achieved a perfect 3.0 average or between 2.5 and 2.9 average.

Students considered for aid

Students wishing to be considered for financial aid for the 1979-80 academic year should begin now applying for the different assistance programs, it was announced today by Larry Smith, financial aid director at Jacksonville State University.

A most unusual event took place Jan. 30 in the Student Commons Auditorium. On entrance into the auditorium, creatures of the strangest types were wandering around. You might have wondered if it was safe to be in the vicinity of these creatures.

Don’t worry! This was only the costume contest for the annual “Rocky Horror Picture Show” which is a movie that you would not normally expect to see on a college campus. The first place winner was Rex Deavers; the second was Jeff Davis and the third was Mark White. They were judged by Ms. Cathi Word of the Jacksonville News, Mrs. Opal Lovett of the English Department and Mr. Steve Griffin of the Art Department.

Larry Nee, chairman of the Cinematic Arts Council said about the effect this movie had on the campus, “I love it. I am glad to see the students finally get involved in something.” And involved these students surely did with throwing rice across the auditorium when the characters in the movie threw rice, singing, clapping, stomping feet with the music, flashing lights when the characters sang the song, “There Is A Light,” and when it rained in the movie, the students shot squirt guns and ran around with umbrellas. (Some people remarked that they came to see the movie just to watch other people enjoy themselves.) This movie has become a cult on this campus and is definitely not for those who are naive. If you see any very strange creatures walking around in the future, don’t be surprised. It might be time for the “Rocky Horror Picture Show” again.

Jacksonville Mayor David Lee and student representatives Keith Peinhardt, SGA president, and David Driscoll, WLJS station manager, met in City Hall on Jan. 24 to discuss accusations that the Jacksonville Police are being unusually harsh toward student drivers.

The meeting was called because of complaints by various students that they had been treated unfairly by the Jacksonville police, and that they felt the police were setting “speed traps” primarily for college students.

Black History Week

By JANA McWHORTER

I got a letter the other day by a student requesting that the Chanticleer pick an outstanding student for Black History Week. In answer to this request I feel that not the Chanticleer, but a group of students and faculty should pick a student for this honor. Jacksonville State boasts of many such outstanding students, and the task would take a lot of time and some very careful consideration before it could even be begun. The student's idea was very good, but the time is too short for this to even be started.

Start planning this month ahead for the Black History Week next year and it could become a yearly tradition that Jax State could be proud of.

The green grass of home

Webster defines foolishness as an act "showing or arising from folly or lack of judgement.

Therefore a good example of foolishness is the administrative planner's plans to make parking lots out of the fields by the men's dormitories.

Students did not start complaining about the idea until the tractors started plowing up the fields last week. And although their complaints are too late, they are certainly valid.

The fields which are "up for slaughter" have been established places for football, frisbee throwing, and rock concerts. It is also the location for most of the previous ballerinas' practices, and a discontinuation of that is surely to break some hearts.

Ballerinas have never practiced on the hoods of cars, and it is doubtful that they ever will.

However, it is not doubtful that this university will continue to expand, and it will be quite depressing that, due to a hasty decision, there will be less "green" to sooth our concreted eyes.

For all the money the administration has spent recently on our parking problems, they could devise a shuttle-bus system that would not only please everyone, but would also set an example for other universities to follow.

So maybe the administration should replant the grass before it is too late. Students like to play on it nearly as much as they like to smoke it.

During class lectures, are you note-worthy?

An important factor in giving good grades in college is your ability to take clear, well-organized class notes.

Listening carefully to the instructor's lecture and writing down the important points is the key to successful note taking. The process of listening and writing at the same time will also help you understand. A few basic techniques can help.

The purpose of class notes is to record the instructor's lesson in a manner that will allow you to review and understand the material afterwards. Your objective, therefore, is to outline the main and supporting ideas and facts so that they are clear and understandable.

Write rapidly in your own form of shorthand. Don't try to take down everything. Keep to the main points. Develop your own style of abbreviating and condensing the important data. Some people leave out vowels, for instance, or use only the first syllable, and omit articles and obvious verbs. Common abbreviations and symbols found in most dictionaries can often be of great help.

Instructors' teaching methods will differ. You'll have to be alert to each one's style and organization. Often they teach each class with an overview or outline and use it as a framework for their lecture. This, of course, is a good reason for being notes from your textbook on the left-hand page across from your class notes.

Design your notetaking system so that you have sufficient room to record the instructor's material, your reading notes and your review notes on one page or two opposite pages.

Remember, review your class notes as soon as possible after the session has ended. In this way you'll be able to correct, clarify or fill in where necessary. This review time will also be critical in helping you remember the class material when it is fresh in your mind.

One style of notetaking, developed at Cornell University, has been very helpful to students. On every right-hand page, draw a vertical line from top to bottom, and one-half inches in from the left side. In class use the large six-inch column on the right for recording the lecture material. After class and during study times, use the smaller left-hand column for making your own review notes. By marking down the key word, idea or fact, it can help you remember what you are studying and help you review for exams. Some students find it helpful to use a colored marker or pen during review to underline the important words or phrases.

Draft registration is predicted

WASHINGTON - The new Congress, according to our sources, will pass a revised Selective Service law during the current session. Young men may be required to register for the draft before the end of the year. Since 1975, 18-year-olds have not been required to register.

The Selective Service System is now required by law to maintain an "active" standby organization with complete registration and classification structure, in the event of an emergency.

But the existing draft machinery is in hopeless disrepair. It is currently operated by 98 employees and two computers. It is supposed to "standby" for 100,000 men "freezing" until the day it is needed. Our sources say, however, that it would take months to man it.

The Defense Department's emergency plans call for the first 100,000 draftees to report for training within 60 days after the presidential authorization. Those in charge of the Selective Service skeleton crew say it would take 85 days.

Our own sources believe a more realistic estimate is six months. They claim the Selective Service System is in such shambles that the emergency would be over before the first draftee would be ready to fight.

The construction of two new parking lots in front of the Capitol and behind the Glazier building will be met with the usual cries of disapproval from those who are lamentoing the loss of any beloved recreation fields. The city has decided to proceed with the project, and the new lots will be completed in time for the start of the new semester.

Meanwhile, in the backrooms of the Pentagon, the Joint Chiefs are working on a plan to increase the volunteer forces. They secretly would like to revive the draft. They also plan to increase the budget for the Joint Chiefs of Staff, which would mean more money for the defense establishment.

The coffee is shipped to Kenya, then transported to Europe where it is finally delivered to the手中 of the consumer. The Joint Chiefs are considering ways to increase the budget for the Joint Chiefs of Staff, which would mean more money for the defense establishment.

This piece is not intended to defend construction of the new lots. The solution was not the best, but it was the cheapest and the simplest, which can unfortunately be misconstrued by some as being the best. Why not take up some of that sacred half-acre pasture in front of Bibb Graves? This area is left for aesthetic reasons, so it must be used. It must depend on our demographics, from which one is gazing at and what asphalt jungle is the ugliest. At least that one didn’t double as a football field most of the time. The future will prove that covering both recreation fields was not necessary. A compromise was in order.

It is disheartening indeed to look out my second floor window at the JCS offices and see the frisbee field being carried off on a truck. It’s a sick feeling.

Points of contention on last week's editorial

By DONNA STOUT

Regarding the editorial "Betrayal of Allies on Taiwan" I find many points of contention:

1. The liberal community that is referred to in the article could not include former Presidents Nixon and Ford, Henry Kissinger, almost all our NATO allies, Japan, Thailand, the Philippines, and South Korea, a government with a real Communist threat. The article further stated that recognition was a cowardly act. If this is the case, then the U.S. is the last of a long line of cowards.

2. The Nationalist government of Taiwan is not the government of China, as they so ardently maintain. The Communists under Mao had the popular support of a people tired of inflation, starvation, corruption and war. The Nationalists were defeated by Mao's Army and run off the mainland. The only support they have enjoyed is from the U.S. and that support did not come until the Communist Chinese entered the Korean War on the side of the North.

3. To compare the recognition of a 30-year-old government to Chamberlain's actions at Munich is ludicrous. Many have made this parallel, but in reality there is none. Chamberlain gave a sovereign state to Hitler; Taiwan's government has never been a legal government. The government on Taiwan was and is an attempt by a leader to deny his own defeat by the people of whom he professed to be the leader. A more accurate comparison would be a hypothetical situation: Jefferson Davis, after the South's defeat during the Civil War, moved his Confederate government to St. Simon's Island off Georgia and proclaimed his government as the legitimate government of the U.S. Sounds crazy, but basically, that is what happened on Taiwan.

4. Concerning the U.S. and Taiwan, any political science major should know that all states break treaties when it serves their best interests; that is called political reality. China is a major world power and the U.S. has got to take off those "rose colored glasses" and face the truth. Only through diplomatic channels can the U.S. hope to make its concerns and opinions known to the Chinese, especially in a region as unstable as Asia.

5. Vice-Premier Teng has said that every peaceful means would be employed to resolve the Taiwan issue. We should pause for a moment and realize that Taiwan is a matter of pride to the Communists. How would the U.S. feel about that hypothetical island occupied by a defeated army that proclaimed itself as the real government of the U.S.? As far as greater freedom for the mainland China is concerned, there is evidence that greater freedoms are finally coming to the people. Universities are once again a place of learning, women are going to beauty parlors, and wall posters of Mao are being given up in Peking. All of these things are authorized by the government, especially the posters critical of Mao, which shows the present government's intentions to move away from Mao's dogmas.

6. The statement about scrap metal sales to Japan not stopping Japanese aggression is a weak comparison. That is like saying our trade with Germany did not stop World War I, our arms sales to Israel does not stop the Middle East conflicts, and our arms sales to NATO countries does not dissipate the Soviet threat in Western Europe. None of these parallels really make any sense. The point here is this: politics is a gamble from any point of view. A government sizes up the odds and makes a wager. In light of the present world situation, the U.S. has to gamble on the ability of the Chinese to help stabilize a volatile region of the world.

7. The directive of the Kumnig Military Region was made at different time under a different regime. Using this statement is like digging up an out-dated and rejected American policy statement from a previous administration and using it as a basis for proving the real intent of a new administration.

There are a few other points worth mentioning that were not covered by the editorial. The China White Paper, written by American observers in China following the Communist victory, placed the blame for the defeat squarely on the Nationalists' shoulders. Even though the U.S. sent a million man aid, the Nationalists did not have the support of the people required to win the war. The report advised the American government to recognize the Communist regime as the legitimate government of China. This last step would have occurred if Korea had not happened. There is evidence to suggest that the Soviets sponsored the invasion of South Korea in an effort to drive a wedge between the U.S. and China. In a nutshell, China and the U.S. were used as pawns to accomplish the goals of the Soviets-keep the U.S. and China from becoming friends. The huge border the USSR and China shares has been a point of conflict between the two for centuries. The Soviets did not want the U.S. to take advantage of this old rivalry to break up Communist solidarity in Asia.

The last point is about the Taiwanese people—not the Chinese on Taiwan, but the real Taiwanese. This island has been occupied by a variety of people since the 17th Century and was over run by the Japanese during World War II. The island was returned to China, one of a long line of these "occupiers," when the war ended. Today, even though these people are in the majority, they are allowed only 8 percent of the seats in the Nationalist Assembly. In addition, their language is forbidden and expressions of their culture are repressed. These islanders have very little input into the system that runs their lives and their island. Although this situation is not as bad as the situation of blacks in South Africa, it is frighteningly similar. How about human rights for the Taiwanese?

"Let's go have a Miller White."

"Count me out, do you really think they'll serve you one?"

"There's one thing you should always remember, my friend. Hell's never far away." He got down off his horse and tied the reigns to the post outside the saloon. He then withdrew his custom-built, silver-plated pistol with the ivory handle and flipped open the cylinder. With a thin piece of leather he cleaned the gun, blew into the barrel, and replaced it back in his holster. He took off his hat, brushed back his hair, replaced the hat with the brim low over his eyes and then looked up at his companion. "So you gotta ask for the best while you can."

His companion headed toward the hotel. "And if asking don't work?"

"Demand, my friend, demand."

The saloon was full of the same cowboys who came every Friday night, and their feet tapped to the beat of the ragtime piano in the back of the room. They looked over their cards at the stranger as he made his way toward the bar, where he stood waiting with one foot up on a stool. The bartender came up to his right and readied a mug. "What'll it be?" the bartender asked.

"Miller White, a cold one."

Suddenly the piano player stopped playing, the talking stopped, and the cards were laid on the table. All eyes were on the stranger. "What?" asked the bartender nervously. "Miller White, as cold as you've got 'em."

"I... I can't serve that, I mean... only to certain people."

The Stranger looked down at his boots and sighed, then quickly grabbed the bartender by the collar. "Well, let's just say I'm one of those certain people." He pushed the bartender backwards. "Says who?" said a tall cowboy with a black hat who had jumped up from his table. His hand hovered above his unsnapped holster, and he looked the stranger square in the eye.

But before the cowboy could even think about drawing, the Stranger's custom-built, silver-plated pistol with the ivory handle was pointed straight between his eyes. "Says me," said the Stranger, as the cowboy sat right back down. "Now why don't everyone clear outta here so I can drink my beer in peace. Alright?"

Slowly and reluctantly all the cowboys filed out through the swinging doors and the bartender poured a Miller White into a frosted mug. He motioned to the bartender to leave also, who nodded and told the piano player to go along.

"No," said the Stranger, "he says. I like music." He then noticed that one of the cowboys had stayed behind and was sitting at one of the back tables. The cowboy was quite the innocent type and was looking about as if he was wondering where everyone had went. He started to say something when the Stranger drew his custom-built, silver-plated pistol with the ivory handle and shot the poor fellow clean through his right eye. The cowboy fell to the floor in a heap.

The Stranger looked at the piano player and laughed. "YOU know," he said, sipping his Miller White, "I still can't figure out why they wanted that guy to do this commercial."

Smith cautioned students and parents to fill out the necessary applications completely and accurately. "Incomplete and incorrect applications will be returned because of errors and caused as much as three months delay in processing for some students," he said. He also warned that all information submitted on the Financial Aid Form, the need analysis which determines eligibility, are subject to being checked by the federal government. Last year the federal government initiated an "edit check" on Basic Grant applications. About 25 percent of all applications were returned because of errors and caused as much as three months delay in processing for some students.

Smith said the last time to complete the Financial Aid Form is right after completing the 1978 federal tax return.

The primary interest of Dr. Holmes has been art education and his own production of painting and sculpture. He has, however, long recognized the problem of the unavailability of information that would encourage the incorporation of area of Afro-American Art.

Columbia University.

Since his arrival at Jacksonville State University last September, Dr. Holmes has shown his sculpture in three group exhibitions and presented an exciting film - slide - talk presentation at the opening of the Alabama A and M University for Women.

He stated that he "looks forward to more discoveries of natural, industrial, and cultural facilities in the state and toward a period of continued professional growth for himself at the university."

The staff of the Jacksonville State Human Services Center were recently the guests of the Ft. McClellan Officers' Wives Club for their monthly luncheon. Attending from the center were Dr. Adelaide Cherry, director; Mary Patton, educational director and Joy Jay, secretary - receptionist. Also attending from the university was Ms. Rhonda Roebeck. Ms. Roebeck was the guest speaker for the luncheon and was introduced by Ms. Patton.

Ms. Roebeck is on the Jacksonville State University Art faculty and was invited to speak at the luncheon in preparation for the annual art auction held by the Officers' Wives Club at Ft. McClellan.

Ms. Roebeck received her undergraduate degree from Mississippi State University for Women. She is a member of the College Art Association and Friends of the Arts. She presently teaches drawing, printmaking and art history at JSU.

CDCS service offers counseling

The Career Development and Counseling Services (CDCS) at Jacksonville State University offers a free, comprehensive system of resources, counseling and job placement to students and prospective students. Dr. Marvin Jenkins, director of the CDCS, explained that the purpose of the Services is to meet the needs of the student throughout his entire career at JSU.

The CDCS has just completed its first full year of program operations. It was a very successful year for the Services, having provided individual and group services to over 10,000 people. "We look at it as a process," he said. "We try to help students from pre-admission to career advancement to graduation and then try to help them with placement in that chosen career."

One of the major services of the CDCS is personal, educational, and career counseling. Trained counselors deal with students on a one-to-one basis about their individual needs, interests and problems. The counselors make all the pertinent information available to the student and then help him organize and interpret it. Being informed enables the student to make circumstantial initial career decisions.

Once a student has chosen a general career direction, the CDCS works closely with the academic areas connected with the career area. In this way, students are sure to get the appropriate training for their future job.

Self-assessment and testing is available at the CDCS. Personality inventories are offered to students to determine career areas which would suit their interests, abilities and personality variables. All the national tests are also given at the CDCS, including the GRE, the ACT and the NTE.

Employability skills development workshops are held twice weekly at the CDCS for interested students. These workshops help individuals develop and refine such skills as writing a resume, handling a job interview well, and writing effective introductory and follow-up letters.

A wealth of information may be found in the CDCS Center Information Library. Resource material on careers for women, minorities, civil service and general helping materials are available. Preparatory primers for the ISAT, PACE, GRE and CLEP tests are available to all students. There is a microfilm file on college catalogues from colleges in the U. S. and foreign countries.

Most impressive is the Alabama Occupational Information System (AOIS), a computerized system, which can be of help to the student in numerous ways. It can provide instant information on four-year and two-year colleges, graduate schools, vocational schools, comprehensive occupational listings, and job vacancies in the state of Alabama.

Placement is another important function of the CDCS. Last year, the Placement Office organized and arranged over 650 on-campus job interviews with such companies as IBM, Xerox and General Electric. Additionally, resumes and references may be filed with the Placement Office to be sent to potential employers.

The CDCS tries to make its services known to students so the maximum benefit may be realized from them. The Services accomplishes this in part with a monthly career bulletin distributed on campus and radio announcements on the campus radio station, WLJS.

Those helping get credit

CDCS has help from students

By PAUL MERRILL

Last semester the Career Development and Counseling Services (CDCS) had a graduate student that came to the center and spent some of her time for credit in our office learning the ropes of the counseling center. This semester, however, we are fortunate to have at the CDCS Center three graduate students who are here for similar experiences.

These, too, get credit for spending time in the center, and also hope to be able to use their experience later in their job. Audrey Johnson, who is getting credit for both an internship and a practicum by working 30 hours a week at the center from 8-12 Monday through Friday. She is from Oneonta, but is living in Jacksonville while she is working on her degree. Audrey's undergraduate degree is in Secondary Education with a major in Home Economics. She hopes that with a master's in Guidance and Counseling that she will be able to get a job as a counselor in some phase of higher education.

Toni Gray, who is at CDCS on Tuesdays, went to school in Maryland for her undergraduate degree in Elementary Education. She decided that when she and her husband moved to Guntersville that she would get a degree in guidance and counseling from JSU. She too hopes to secure a position in a junior college or a university when she graduates in April.

Father Patrick Tierney, who comes on Thursdays, is not working on a master's in Guidance and Counseling from JSU, but is getting his degree from the University of Alabama in Birmingham. He hopes that with a degree of this type that it will be an asset to him. He already has a master's in Religious Education. Father Tierney, as the title "Father" suggests, is a Catholic priest. He got his undergraduate degree in Philosophy and already has a master's in Religious Education.

Jennings schedules performance at JSU

By MIKE MOON

All year long students have demanded a "good" concert featuring a "big name star." OK, like the commercial says, "You asked for it, you got it," on Feb. 16 at Pete Mathews Coliseum one of the top performers in the nation, "The Outlaw," himself, Waylon Jennings, will give what should be the biggest concert JSU has seen in the past couple of years. Of course, some hard core rock fans will be unhappy, but for those who enjoy the new country or "Austin" sound, or anyone who enjoys all types of popular music, it will be quite a show.

Jennings' latest album, "I've Always Been Crazy" sold one million copies on the first day it was released. It became the first country LP to do so, placing Jennings in a class with such legendary performers as the Beatles.

Kis Haskett

Ringmaster mixes
Christianity, tradition

Kit Haskett, the handsome young singing ringmaster, drinks a quart of cranberry juice to fortify himself before he picks up the microphone to narrate the three-ring sequence of acts at The Greatest Show on Earth which arrives at the Birmingham Jefferson Civic Center on Tuesday, Feb. 6, for performances through Sunday, Feb. 11. During the three-hour show, he steps in and out of the spotlight, directing the audience's attention to the display of daring acts taking place in the air and on the ground.

As singing ringmaster, Kit is a modern exponent of a classic 100-year-old Big Top tradition. But he added a variation to the role when he began dancing as well as vocalizing. "So now I'm the singing, swinging ringmaster," he laughs.

Kit is a firm believer in living life to the fullest, and that includes his spiritual life. A recent convert to Charismatic Christianity, he incorporates his faith into every facet of his daily routine. "I'm trying to apply Jesus to everyday existence," he explains. "I have a love for Jesus. I'm not always sure how deep it is. I have my weaknesses, I know that." Kit meets regularly with other circus people for prayer sessions.

The 29-year-old Palo Alto, Calif., native received a BA in theatre arts from Rollins College in Florida. After graduation, Kit embarked on a hard-knock route to success; he sang and played guitar in restaurants and lounges, and did a pilot for the revamping of TV's "Hoody Doody." He was "between engagements," digging ditches in Florida, when he was offered the job of ringmaster at Ringling Bros. and Barnum and Bailey Circus. After eight months there, Circus President and Producer Irvin Feld offered Kit his current position, and he has been happily touring with the show ever since. "The job is great," he says. "I'm just trying to enjoy every moment I have, since only one in 500 million people will ever have this experience." Kit travels on the circus route with Stewie, his wife of 10 years, whom he met on a study travel course abroad World Campus Afloat, and their baby daughter, Heather. The Haskells live on the circus train while the show is in town, and travel from city to city in a Volkswagen camper that enables them to strike out on their own and see the countryside.

Stimulating words for remembering

An optimist laughs to forget; a pessimist forgets to laugh. Diplomacy is letting someone else have your way. No one is rich enough to do without a good neighbor. The less a student knows, the more he wants to tell it. Some minds are like concrete, all mixed up and firmly set.

You can preach a better sermon with your life than with your lips. People who mind their own business usually succeed—they have no little competition. People will believe anything if you whisper it. Tierney has only been in the United States for 10 years, and has been the Catholic priest in Jacksonville for the past four. It would probably take only a short conversation with Father Tierney to figure out that he comes from Ireland—the western part. Even though he's been in the U.S. for 10 years now, he still has a delightful Irish brogue that he makes no attempt to hide. Each of these people is a modern exponent of a classic 100-year-old Big Top tradition. But he added a variation to the role when he began dancing as well as vocalizing. R ’n R heroes to appear on TV

Rock ’n roll has never really been presented seriously to national television audiences in North America, but on Feb. 9, Malcolm Leo and Andrew Solt, producers and directors of a two-hour, prime-time special titled “Heroes of Rock ’n Roll,” aim to change all that. Airing on ABC-TV at 9 p.m. (EDT), Leo and Solt have come up with a documentary that includes some remarkable and never-before-seen film footage of the world’s biggest rock stars set against the evolution of rock music over the past 25 years.

Leo Malcolm, whose background, like Solt’s, is in films, explained how the project came about. “The idea came to us two years ago when we were both involved in researching period documentaries and we kept coming across amazing footage of musicians in the ’50s.”

“Decided we could get together a show on the history of rock,” he said. “Andrew had worked on ‘Let the Good Times Roll’ and ‘Elvis on Tour’ and 20th Century-Fox television loved the idea.”

Although there have been documentaries on rock in the past, Leo and Solt feel that theirs is different. “We’re not showing contemporary film of the artists on the show,” explained Leo. “The film we use is the great early rock performers in their prime. We chose to relive the time when the artist was performing. In other words, a look at Chuck Berry when he had his hit as opposed to later on when he was still vital, but his energy wasn’t as strong as it was back in ’56.”

“The story which emerged out of all the footage—and we had over 400,000 feet of it, which we had to cut down to 100,000 feet—is the rise of rock ’n roll. It’s in the late ’50s, and its rise again,” said Leo.

Although some of the most fascinating film is of the obvious stars of the period, including rare footage of the Beatles in the Convention, the Rolling Stones performing “Jumping Jack Flash,” and Bob Dylan performing in England, the importance black music had on rock ’n roll is the real historical attraction of the special.

“The black contribution to rock ’n roll has never really been recognized fully,” explained Leo. “What’s more important, that there would be no rock ’n roll without black musicians. It has quite simply been a logical progression, whether it came from blues and gospel—which it did—then merged with rhythm ’n blues, with a dash of country—western and a little hard-boogie bootleg woogie. But the roots, as well as the major achievements throughout the last 25 years have always owed a great debt to black performers.”

The duo did their homework. There is film footage of the Moonglows, an important rhythm ’n blues group of the mid-’50s, Muddy Waters, Ray Charles, James Brown and Fats Domino.

There’s also a large section on Elvis Presley and the Beatles. The film on Bob Dylan was contributed by Dylan himself. It’s a rare piece of color film from 1966 when he was with his group—before they became the Band—in London.

Bruce Springsteen came into their office and gave the producers a piece of film that has never been seen before. Even the Rolling Stones visited Leo and Solt during the second week of December, the week the Beatles were in the national top 10. Although there have been the exceptional films “The Good Times Roll” and “Elvis on Tour,” and “Elvis On Tour” and “Elvis On Tour,” and “THE GOOD TIMES ROLL,” the Beatlesspecial airing over ABC-TV at 9 p.m.

Q: What’s the story on Dan Aykroyd and John Belushi otherwise known as the Blues Brothers? Is this a joke that got out of hand, or what? Will they be doing any more appearances on “Saturday Night Live”? - Jeff Blume, Tuscaloosa.

A: If it was a joke, it hardly. “Briefcase Full of Blues,” their first Atlantic LP, is in the national top 10. Since its release in the first week of December, the album has been certified gold and record company officials report that it’s nearing platinum status, which means that “Briefcase Full of Blues” will be sold nearly one million copies.

Los Angeles, the LP features Aykroyd and Belushi as Jake and Elwood Blues, performing the biggest soul hits of the mid-1960s. Belushi developed a taste for the music of Sam and Dave and Otis Redding while filming “Animal House.” Their admiration for the music is evident.

Q: On the back of their albums, Kiss used to put that their instruments were Gibson guitars and Pearl drums. Why isn’t it on their new albums? Also, how do you go about getting backstage passes for concerts? - Steve Romans, West Pearl equipment. That statement didn’t appear on their solo albums because different times of equipment were used by the many people who played on the LP. As Kiss, though, it still holds true.

Getting a backstage pass to a major rock concert can be very difficult. Many

The Blues Brothers made their national TV debut last year on NBC’s “Saturday Night Live,” and are scheduled for several more appearances throughout the 1978-79 season.

Q: When can we expect a new album from Fleetwood Mac? It’s been awhile since “Rumours” came out and they’re long overdue for one.

A: According to Warner Bros. Records, the members of Fleetwood Mac are currently hard at work on a follow-up to “Rumours,” their multi-platinum album of nearly two years ago. It’s to be a two-record set and it is tentatively scheduled for

Have you ever wondered what all goes into the little routine you see at Jacksonville’s football games? Well, I’m here to tell you it’s a lot of blood, sweat and tears. That “little dance routine” is a well-rehearsed, well-planned piece of choreography (that there means fancy dancin’, not that your run of the mill Bojangles soft shoes), performed by our own Marching Ballerinas. The Ballerinas are an integral part of JUS’s Marching Southerners.

As an old Southerner myself, I can appreciate their diligence and hard work, and I also realize that much of this goes unnoticed. That is exactly the purpose for this article. Pay attention, now, we might ask questions later.

Dick Bell and ladies track

Jacksonville State ladies track team has just started the season and head Coach Dick Bell is really positive that the girls will come around in good shape for the year.

Dick Bell isn't new here at Jax State, you see he played for the Gamecock football team in the late '60s and excelled. The coach is also in charge of intramural sports here on campus and of course keeps him really busy looking out for the different sports and the variety of teams (who on occasion are rougher than our football team is with Troy State).

Last week Coach Bell's ladies took a trip to Auburn University and had a rough time of it but the coach was still optimistic because as he said, these girls are mostly real young and inexperienced and this was actually a warm-up meet for them. The other teams that competed along with Jax State and Auburn were Memphis State, Alabama State and Berry College.

Those who placed for the Lady Gamecocks are Brigette Carter. Brigette Carter picked up third in the high-jump and afterwards fifth in 880 yard run.

In the four by one lap relay Denise Rogers, Becky Threatt, Anita Bowman and Susie Tollon placed fifth.

Lady Gamecocks win last week

The lady Gamecocks basketball team, after struggling through a pair of losses to top notch teams, bounced back to post a pair of wins this past week to bring their record to an outstanding 14-3. Jax State defeated Alabama A&M 96-55 and blasted Judson College 81-55 to take firm control of the lead in the northern division of the AAIAW with a 7-0 record. The regular season is beginning to wind down for the lady Gamecocks who are now strides to look forward to the state tournament, which will be held at Troy State, Feb. 22-25.

- Alabama A&M 55
  - The lady Gamecocks jumped to a 29-8 lead midway in the first half and cruised to an easy 96-55 victory over the hapless A&M ladies. Nine players scored in the first half for Jax State as Coach Ronnie Akers emptied the bench in an attempt to hold the score down. Vickie Holmes, Felicia Kendrick, Willene Chatfield, Karen Mitchell, Sharon Armour, Cheryl Van Pelt, Jill Collins, Theresa Davis, and Ann Tillman got in the scoring act for Jax State in the first half. The lady Gamecocks held a commanding 44-22 lead at break time.

The second half was more of the same as the Jax State ladies continued to pour on the steam. The lady Gamecocks routed the inexperienced Judson ladies to the tune of 81-55 Feb. 1, at Pete Mathew’s Coliseum.

Guard Vickie Holmes scored 16 first half points to spark the lady Gamecocks to a 40-26 half time lead. Freshman Karen Mitchell scored eight points to back up Holmes’ first half performance. The second half was a continuation of the first half as the Jax State ladies poured it on to take their 14th victory of the year compared to three losses. This was the first game this season that all 14 players had scored in the same game for Jax State.

Wilson leads in GSC

Even though his average is not threatening his record setting pace of a year ago, Nicholls State’s Larry Wilson continues to lead the Gulf South Conference in scoring. The senior forward has passed in 34.4 points a game, the only player in the league hitting better than 20 markers a contest. Wilson is still shy of his record mark of 28.1 set last year, but has a comfortable lead in this year’s scoring derby over runner-up Paul Bassman of Troy State who sports a 19.8 norm.

The other individual leaders also remained unchanged for the second straight week.

North Alabama’s Gerald Lavender sets the pace in field goal percentage with a .637 mark, trailed by Mississippi College’s Robert Felder who owns a .598 average.

Another MC player, Hilton Parrott, continues to lead in free throw shooting with a .800 mark with Wilson right behind at .792.

Jacksonville State’s Robert Clements has a narrow lead over Nicholls’ Rogers Washington in the rebound department. Clements shows a 12.2 average for the season, just ahead of Washington’s 12.1 figure.

Nicholls’ Sonny Charpentier holds the lead in assists with a 9.4 mark. Livingston’s Bobby Lewis is second at 8.5.

Delta State and Nicholls College continue to lead the offensive and defensive categories, respectively. Delta’s average of 84.3 tops the offensive leader while MC’s 67.3 defensive mark is brutal.

Jacksonville State is the top shooting team, leading in both field goal percentage (.517) and free throw shooting (.778). Delta State has the best rebound average, 44.7.

Grapplers win over UTC in Saturday game

By JEFF COX

On Saturday, Feb. 3, the Jacksonville State University wrestling team defeated the University of Tennessee-Chattanooga Junior Varsity wrestling team in a dual match, 28-18.

The Gamecock matmen were led by pins from Clyde Turner, Anthony Johnson and Jay Dobbins. Also helping the team was a win by decision from Tim Gaddis. This year's team has been plagued by injuries, sickness and grade problems, but the all freshman team pulled together to become a very respectable team.

This past year the Gamecock matmen have been led by Mark Meunier. Russ Wilson and Jay Dobbins are the only member of the team who has not suffered a defeat. His record now stands at 13-0-1. He was also the only first place finisher for the Jax State matmen at the Mid-South Tournament. In that tournament Mark recorded all pins to win the 177 lb. class crown. Wilson and Dobbins both have shown much leadership throughout the season. The Gamecock matmen are rounding out their rookie season, and on the weekend of the 16th, the matmen will travel to Orlando, Fla., to compete in the regionals for the national championships.

These are the results of the match against UT-Chattanooga:

118 lb., Robbie Gaddis lost by decision.
126 lb., Mike Craft won by decision.
134 lb. Mickey Statuma lost by decision.
142 lb. Russ Wilson lost by decision.
150 lb. Clyde Turner won by pin.
158 lb., Anthony Johnson won by pin.
167 lb. Gary Estuvonko lost by pin.
177 lb. Mark Meunier won by default.
190 lb. Steve Ingram lost by decision.

HWT., Jay Dobbins won by pin.

The match was close at the beginning but then the Gamecocks just pulled away and took the win home. The win extended the matmen's win streak to seven and put the record over the .500 percentage for the first time at 7-6.

Coaches Mac Gilliam and Mike Craft have led the team to some very impressive wins, and a third place in the Mid-South Tournament in the team's first year of existence. This year's team has been plagued by injuries, sickness and grade problems, but the all freshman team pulled together to become a very respectable team.

The Tigers gunned down Jacksonville State, 82-77 here Saturday night in front of a rowdy crowd of 1,300 that was on its feet from the first horn to the final buzzer.

"I'd love to get our crowd that enthusiastic," said JSU's Bill Jones, "but not in a violent sort of way.

"No question about it, something like that has to disturb you. They were pulling as loud as they could for as long as they could," JSU's guards bring the ball up the side of the court and the crowd was only two or three feet from the out-of-bounds line yelling, reaching and harassing.

Five of the Jaxmen's 12 turnovers in the first half came on the sidelines.

"That was bad class, the way they were bellowing at us," said JSU center Robert Clements, who was held to 10 points. "We tried to ignore them, but somethings it's hard to do."

"That kind of harrassment has a way of getting to you," said guard Todd Smyly, who was the Gamecocks' leading scorer with 18 points.

"The crowd gave us a rough time all night," said forward Al Lankford. "But Livingston gave us the hardest time. I think it was one of their better nights and we just had an offnight."

"I like that kind of crowd involvement," said freshman guard Ronald 'Babe' Smith of Oxford. "It just shows they are interested in the game—very interested."

Jax State stepped out to an early lead (25-4), but the Gamecocks shot a cool 33.3 percent in the second half. Livingston opened up a comfortable 20-point lead after the intermission as the Gamecocks continued to have trouble with turnovers (30).

"We played hard," said Jones, "but Livingston just played one of its better games. Their coaches tell me it was their best game this season."

The Tigers shot 51.7 percent for the night to Jax State's 44.8 percent and turned the ball over only 12 times.

"That's what we've got to expect, though," said Jones. "We're the second place team and people want us."

The loss dropped Jax State to 12-6 overall and 5-4 in the Gulf South.

Livingston upped its mark to 18-4 and 5-4 with the win.

"We played in stretches," said Jones. "We were up by one just before the half, but we hit a cold spell and trailed by three at the end of the first half."

"Then we had another cold spell in the second half. They (Livingston) were laying and waiting on us."

Tony Andre played a super game for them inside, and Cheyenne Jones shot the ball like he knew he could.

"I guess we just have a way of bringing out the best in people."

Jones said Livingston's crowd "was probably worth 10 or 12 points."

"That makes a difference in a lot of games," he added.

"We just couldn't get ahead in the second half," said Jones. "We were playing catch-up and the further behind you get, the more you tend to press on each shot and rebound."

Scoring in double figures for JSU were Smyly, 15; Lankford, 14; Tommy Keith, 11; Tommy Bonds, 10; Al Pettigrew, 10 and 15 rebounds.

Andre paced Livingston with 25 points, followed by Jones with 18, Reggie Green with 16 and Shelley Williams with 12.
