

Human Services Center at JSU sponsors handicapped day camp

By CHUCK AVERY

The Human Services Center of JSU is presently conducting a three week summer day camp for handicapped children here on campus. Some 28 children from the surrounding area are participating in the program.

Dr. Adelaide Cherry, director of the program, is coordinating the efforts of 9 different departments involved in the program. About 100 students are participating in the day camp either for academic credit or on a volunteer basis. The different departments involved in the program include Special Education, Psychology, Health, Physical Education, Art, Music, Drama, Recreation (HPER) and Guidance and Counseling.

The SGA, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and other community service organizations, along with local volunteers, are also contributing to the program. This is the first joint effort of its type to be held at JSU.

The children range in age from five to eighteen. The program is being funded through contributions and federal grants.

Several individuals from the university gave personal contributions in order to raise money for entertainment for the children.

The practicum was organized as a teaching and learning lab for both graduate and undergraduate students.

The day camp will enable university students to be exposed to various types of handicaps and disabilities. Students are involved in such activities as individual program development, recreation, language development, gross motor skill, and other physical and mental therapies.

The students receiving academic credit are required to participate in the practicum for 80 hours over the three week period. Working in two shifts, students provide maximum supervisory care and treatment for the children.

The recreation or play therapy consists of activities such as swimming, dancing, basketball, frisbee throwing, music and rhythm sessions scheduled throughout the day. The children are able to choose different types of play therapy according to their needs, desires, and abilities.

A volunteer, Calvin Sledge, leads the children and students in a dance and exercise session in the afternoons. Other students, including Rusty Madison and Valerie Johnson, conduct programs in scouting for both boys and girls.

Entertainment is also being provided for the children. The Rock of Ages Band, a senior citizen group from Huntsville, is giving a concert on June 27 in cooperation with the Human Services Center and Aging Studies. On the closing day of the camp, June 29, a carnival will feature such guests as Ronald McDonald.

The Center is being conducted in the basement of Daugette Hall and other facilities across the campus. If you are interested in volunteering your services, please contact Dr. Adelaide Cherry at Ext. 350.

Free concert scheduled Copper Penny brings suit

By CHUCK AVERY

The Huntsville Rock of Ages Band will give a free concert here on Wednesday, June 27, at 4 p.m. in the Student Commons Auditorium. The concert is being brought to you by the SGA, the Aging Studies and Human Services Departments.

The Copper Penny, a restaurant-disco in Jacksonville, plans to file suit against the city council members of Jacksonville in Federal District Court in Montgomery on grounds of discrimination according to Marty Childress, a partner in the firm.

The restaurant and popular night spot was refused a liquor license by the city council last week. According to Childress, the suit is being brought because of inconsistency in the liquor law of the city. The ordinance states that to be licensed for sale of liquor, the establishment must be at least 150 feet from a church if it is situated on the town square and 500 feet if it is situated off the square.

The Copper Penny plans to sue for loss of sales, court costs, attorney fees and damages.

The band is made up of 37 senior citizens from the Huntsville area. Director Shirley Avery started the band almost three years ago with only five members. Since then, the band has grown in numbers and popularity.

After winning the Alabama State championship for senior talent, the band has performed all over the Southeast including such attractions as Disney World and Callaway Gardens.

The Rock of Ages Band has also performed for governors, four star generals and numerous conventions. A four part series on "Motivating Older People" for the Alabama Public Television Network has been shown all over the United States on educational TV. They have also appeared on NBC.

The band features a variety of programs including a toe and tap dancer, a human horse, flaming flappers, a giant whistling hat, and a Ziegfeld girl. Their music includes modern songs, old favorites, novelty tunes, classical and group participation numbers, all done in a manner you've never heard before.

The Rock of Ages Band is self-supporting and takes pride in the fact that they are in great demand and are still valuable to society even though their ages range from 60 to 80 plus.

Senior citizens throughout the area have been invited to attend the concert along with the handicapped children attending the practicum now being held on campus. We urge all students, staff and faculty to attend.

Free tutorial assistance for vets

The Veterans Administration has timely news for student veterans facing tough final exams.

According to Montgomery VA Regional Office Director Bill Davis free tutorial assistance may be just what the doctor ordered for GI Bill students encountering difficulty with a certain course.

Free tutorial assistance may be the answer for GI Bill students who encounter a difficult course while pursuing their educational objective, the Veterans Administration said recently.

Tutoring help is available to help veterans get the most from their college training, Davis said, and the service isn't charged against the veteran - student's basic educational entitlement.

VA did not have authority to pay for tutorial assistance for World War II and Korean Conflict GI Bill students, but under present law the agency can pay as much as $69 per month for such help up to a maximum of $828.

In addition to veterans and active duty military personnel, tutorial benefits are available to widows, widowers, spouses and children studying under the VA's Dependents' Educational Assistance Program.

Veterans and servicemen attending school at the post-secondary level on at least a half-time basis are eligible if they are deficient in a subject required in an approved program of education, Davis said.

Applications for reimbursement should be made on VA Form 22-19904 within a year of the tutoring and should be submitted to the VA regional office which maintains the veteran's claim folder. Applications should be certified by the school, according to VA.

Forms for tutoring assistance, and information on this and other VA programs, are available at any VA office. Call Montgomery VA Regional Office on toll free number 1-800-392-8054.

If you're a veteran planning to enroll in or return to school under the GI Bill, the Veterans Administration has a useful check list to help keep those VA education benefits coming regularly:

+Double check your choice of courses to be certain they will count toward your education objective.

+Register early. VA and your school need time to process your registration so that GI Bill checks can be started your way promptly.

+Avoid dropping classes after registration.

+File for your GI Bill benefits as early as possible.

+If you have to interrupt your education, notify VA promptly and advise the date you expect to return to classes.

+If you change addresses, notify VA promptly. Of course, you'll want to notify the school and the post office, also.

+Submit transcripts to the college admissions and records office immediately after application is made. This will speed up the school's certification to the Veterans Administration.

+If you have any questions about the GI Bill or eligibility for it, contact the nearest VA regional office, or a service officer from one of the national veterans organizations.

An act of love

What if you could not walk or learn to read and write? What if you felt unloved because you were not "normal?" How would you feel?

And what if some people took the time to have a three-week day camp especially for you? What if these people loved you and treated you like you were the most important person to them? Then how would you feel.

This is just what happened. Through the combined efforts of Special Education, Psychology, Physical Education, Guidance and Counseling, Art, Drama and Music departments of the university, the Student Government Association, Girl Scouts and Boy Scouts under the leadership of the Human Services Center, 28 handicapped children are being treated to a three-week camp which involves individual counseling and therapy, dancing, art work and swimming.

To really understand the impact of their work with these children, you have to go see the camp in action. You might see the children taught to swim, to draw or to paint. Calvin Sledge taught them to disco dance and enjoyed it as much as they did. To work with these children is not a sacrifice, it is an act of love.

Goodbye, John Wayne

By JANA MOON And MIKE MOON

It was fitting that Congress awarded him the Congressional Gold Medal just before he died. The inscription on the medal reads, "John Wayne, American." The Duke commanded respect, adoration and love by his determination to live and to defeat the dreaded disease of cancer. He requested that a John Wayne Cancer Fund be established upon his death.

John Wayne died in the only fitting way, fighting with all his strength and will. Goodbye, John Wayne, our American.

"Goodbye, Cowboy!" This headline appeared in another newspaper in the South American country of Peru. This is only an indication of the impact that John Wayne had on the rest of the world. He was the ideals of America all rolled up in one person. He was our hero, our American, and we feel a great loss that he is gone. But to Americans, he will never die. He will live in our minds and heart forever.

Letter from the Prez

As president of the Student Government Association, I would like to extend a warm welcome to all freshmen and other students who are attending Jacksonville State University for the first time. I would also like to congratulate all graduating high school seniors and their decisions to continue education. This is an important step which will benefit the individual student along with tomorrow's society.

Most everyone knows that Jacksonville State is the third largest institution of higher learning in the state of Alabama. Along with being third in size, JSU is also ranked high in academics, sports and a friendliness.

Being a part of that student body, I would encourage strong involvement in academics, activities, and the strive for future achievements. Getting involved is important to find out what is going on around campus and getting the most out of your college education.

The Student Government Association offers a variety of programs and services to the students, to make college life more enjoyable. Besides programs and services the SGA provides students with a calendar of events containing many types of entertainment for many types of students. Although the most important aspect of the SGA is that it represents the student body.

Where's Idi Amin? Libya a good guess

WASHINGTON — For the past several weeks, American intelligence agencies have been playing a new guessing game: Where's Idi Amin?

The deposed Ugandan dictator has been hiding out since his government was overthrown last month. The new rulers would like to get their hands on him. They hold him responsible for the senseless deaths of hundreds of thousands of Ugandans during his reign of terror.

We have checked our intelligence sources to find out what has happened to Amin. One report claims he is in Libya under the protection of Libyan strongman Muammar Quaddafi. This report warns that Amin may be plotting a comeback.

Another report contends that the new Ugandan rulers would like to make a deal with Quaddafi to swap 40 Libyans captured in the recent fighting for Idi Amin.

Yet another intelligence source told us that Amin is "laying low" and that he is believed to be in Libya.

Our best intelligence source, always highly reliable, told us he had received "independent corroboration" that Amin is Quaddafi's guest in Libya and is actively planning a agreed to help Amin with his terrorist plot.

The aim is to destabilize the Ugandan government and demoralize the Ugandan people. Then the terrible Amin would attempt a comeback.

More on Marston: Vice President Walter Mondale is the latest high official to become entangled in what has become known as the "Marston scandal."

David Marston used to be the U. S. attorney in Philadelphia, where he investigated some powerful Pennsylvania Democrats. One of them, former Rep. Joshua Eilberg, placed a telephone call to President Carter to complain about Marston. Not long afterward, Attorney General Griffin Bell abruptly fired Marston.

Now we have learned that another subject of the investigation, state senator Henry Cianfrani, met with Vice President Mondale. A knowledgeable source has reported to the FBI that Cianfrani spoke to the vice president about Marston.

This was denied by Mondale's office. — A spokesman admitted there was a Mondale-Cianfrani publicity to run for governor of Pennsylvania. He lost and is now running for mayor of Philadelphia. He won the Republican nomination several days ago.

Both Eilberg and Cianfrani were drummed out of office. Eilberg was fined and received probation; Cianfrani was convicted and jailed for corruption.

The FBI, which investigated the phone call between Eilberg and President Carter, is now looking into the contact between Cianfrani and Vice President Mondale.

Pentagon Pipeline: Inflation is eating its way into the kitchens and dining halls of the nation's armed forces. Because of spiraling food prices, the Pentagon plans to limit its purchases of high-priced food items. The brass hats say the troops will have to eat less beef and more poultry, pork and cheese. The Army alone is planning to cut its beef purchases by 25 percent and increase the use of soy-extended ground beef. Red salmon will be eliminated completely from the soldiers' diet and they will also have to make do with a million pounds less of raisins.

More than $500 worth of asphalt buckled. The demonstration never took place and another $500 worth of fuel was consumed to ship the machine back downriver.

Watch on Waste: The antelope are leaving New Mexico and the taxpayers are going to pay through the nose to find out why.

This state was the home where thousands of antelope roamed, but now there are only a few hundred left. They are not in danger of extinction, but the federal government wants to know why they don't like New Mexico.

So $311,000 in public funds will be spent for a four-year study of the foods antelope eat and the types of fences they manage to pass through. The scientific community already know, of course, that antelope like broadleaved plants and would prefer, if given their druthers to negotiate woven wire fences rather than the barbed kind.

But there has never been a long-term antelope-in-New Mexico study. Four years from now, that vacuum will be filled.

Straight from the raconteur's mouth

The Chanticleer has discovered some very strange and funny stories floating about our illustrious campus and we have decided to pass these on to the student body. If you have any stories that are funny and can be printed about this campus and those connected with the university, please drop us a note or give us a call.

The following two stories and three pranks were told by Mr. Opal Lovett, University photographer.

"Sometime back in the '30s during the prohibition days, a convention consisting of a group of older women was staying at Daugette Hall. These ladies were invited by a certain group of people to a reception honoring them. They had a joyous time and returned to the dorm singing and dancing like 16 year olds. Matter of fact, one lady remarked in a rather loud and gigglish voice that she felt and is acutely planning a terrorist campaign against the new Ugandan government. Amin has the secret support, according to this analyst, of the Palestine Liberation Organization. Both Amin and the PLO are close to Qaddafi. And, our source said, the PLO has

More than $500 worth of fuel was burned up recently to bring a monstrous 92-ton front-end loader up the James River from Ft. Eustis to Ft. Lee, Va., so Army generals would watch the machine work. But when the machine was rolled onto the pavement where the generals were to view it, the like a 16-year-old. Little did these upstanding know but their punch was doctored up with 90 percent octane."

His next story went like this:

"A group of students from this university decided to have a little fun and scare curb hops (attendants at drive-ins who took and filled orders). One student would get in the trunk of a car, and pour ketchup on his hand and let his hand hang out. Then they would drive to a drive-in and ask the curb hop (normally a girl) about the best way to get out of town without being seen. As the curb hop would go around the car, she would see the bloody arm and scream. The boys would then screech out. They did this three or four times. The boys then drove in to a drive-in out on Highway 204 where the City Body Shop is now. Disappointed because they could not find a curb hop, the boys went inside to have a Coke. Then suddenly the place was surrounded with the sheriff and the State Highway Patrol. The boys in the drive-in were arrested and the trunk was opened, all the boys inside could say was, 'joke. joke. joke.' They were carried up to city hall and some high ranking school officials were called in. The top official there asked the chief what the boys were doing. The chief said one of them had his arm hanging out of the car. This official warned the boy about the dangers of hanging his arm out of the car. The chief and official began talking about what good jobs each was doing. As they continued slapping each other on the back, the boys snuck out of the jail and drove off. Nothing else was ever mentioned about the episode.

The following are a few pranks Mr. Lovett told us.

Did you know that on the fourth floor of the old Weatherly Hall, there was a cow chewing cud?

... a greased chicken was let out in Daugette Hall?

... there were cars found on the terraces of Daugette and Bibb Graves and on the entrance to Gamecock Cafeteria?"

Mrs. Opal Lovett, instructor in the English Department, gave us this story.

"A certain English teacher back in the golden days had a pet peeve about spelling. If a student misspelled a word, he would go out in the hall by the water fountain and spell it out. If he misspelled it again, he had to go to the other end of the hall and yell it to her."

Three day cooling off

Once upon a time a door-to-door sales person could get your name on the dotted line and, with a sweet smile, be off, leaving you wondering how to pay for your expensive, unplanned purchase. But a Federal Trade Commission trade regulation rule has changed that situation. It's called the "cooling-off" rule and it gives you three days to change your mind ("cool off") about purchases of $25 or over made on your doorstep.

Under the FTC regulations, a sales person must tell you your cancellation rights and your contract must include your right to cancel. You must also be given two copies of a cancellation form. Your contract or receipt should be dated and show the name and address of the seller.

How To Cancel

To cancel the sale, you sign and date one copy of the cancellation form. You then mail or hand deliver it to the address given for cancellation any time before midnight of the third business day after the contract date. Keep the other copy for your records. Proof of mailing date and proof of receipt are important, so, although it's not required, you may want to send the letter from your local post office "certified with a return receipt requested."

You don't have to give a reason for cancelling. No explanation of any kind is required. It's your right under the law to change your mind.

Sales Made "Anywhere Else"

The rule applies not only to sales made in your home but also to sales agreements and made anywhere other than the seller's normal place of business. For example, it also applies to consumer product "parties" given in private homes and to sales made out of rented hotel rooms and

The rule applies when a salesperson shows up at your home uninvited, or if you invite a merchant into your home or into someone else's home, or if you meet on a street corner: you still have your cancellation rights.

The Seller's Responsibilities

If you decide to cancel, the merchant must, within 10 days

- cancel and return any papers you signed,
- refund your money and tell you whether any product left with you will be picked up,
- return any trade-in.

Within 20 days the merchant either pick up the items left with you or, if you agree to do it, pay any shipping expenses for you to ship them back.

Recalls

Cars

The U. S. Department of Transportation has announced the voluntary recall by General Motors Corp. (GM) of 172,000 of its 1977 and 1978 Chevrolet Monza, Pontiac Sunbird and Oldsmobile Starfire vehicles to correct a steering problem. The recall applies only to cars equipped with L-4, 151 CID engines.

General Motors reported that operation of these vehicles in a manner which produces hard "bottoming out" of the front suspension may cause deformation of the left front engine mount support structure. "Bottoming out" refers to a condition where the suspension system reaches its extreme upper level and experiences stress, such as when hitting a large bump or depression in the road.

This deformation will allow the bracket to contact the steering pitman arm or steering linkage. Over a period of time, the effort required to steer the vehicle will be increased. Ultimately, difficulty in returning the steering wheel to a straight ahead position from a sharp right turn may occur.

While the NHTSA knows of no accidents or injuries resulting from this problem, vehicle owners are encouraged to have their vehicles corrected as soon as they receive recall notification letters from the manufacturer.

Face Moisturizer

Food and Drug Administration (FDA) announces recall of 4,000 3.5 oz. jars of Revlon Milk Plus 6-24 Hour Face Moisturizer with lot number 881 stamped on bottom of jar. The product, which was distributed nationally and internationally from October 1978 through February 1979, is being recalled because of its bacterial contamination. Revlon says more than half of the contaminated jars have already been located.

Gasoline prices

The Energy Department is urging motorists to report violations of Federal ceiling prices for gasoline, and if they think they are being charged more than the legal price, they should call the Energy Department's toll-free hotline (800-424-9246). The hotline will be open from 8 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The petroleum pricing and allocation regulations in effect since 1973 require that the current maximum legal selling price for gasoline be displayed on the pump. That price is determined on the basis of gasoline prices in May 1973, with certain adjustments permitted to reflect increased costs.

The Lovetts:

A Very Happy Family

It all started 30 years ago in a Biology class at the then Jacksonville State Teachers College.

Opal Lovett was introduced to pretty Opal Adair and — following a courtship there were two Opal Lovetts on campus.

IN LATER YEARS two children were born. The first, a girl, was named Opal Denitza and the boy is O. Rufus.

The names probably aren't that important but does show the closeness of the family.

But the many contributions of the two Opals to Jacksonville State University are almost legendary. They have contributed greatly in so many ways. He is the campus photographer and she a very popular English professor.

Opal has been involved in photography for a long time. He was managing a photography studio by the time he was in the ninth grade. "I was fortunate to be involved in photography during the Photography Revolution." From 1839-1939, he says is when all big developments in photography occurred. "It was becoming a necessity rather than a luxury," he says. "And good photography is sort of like playing the violin. Some can and some can't," he added.

PHOTOGRAPHY BEING HIS first love, he went to work for the Mountain Eagle Publishing Company in Jasper after graduation from JSU in 1948. After two years he returned to JSU as a teacher and as campus photographer. He taught audio visual, instructional media, and camp counseling for 23 years.

Mrs. Lovett is a dedicated teacher of 31 years, teaching in junior high, high school and college all over the state of Alabama. Very active in extra-curricular activities, she has directed plays, run speech contests, advised school papers and advised the student council.

During the summers of 1954-58, Mrs. Lovett earned her master's degree at the University of Alabama. She was, at the time, the mother of two small children which she took with her each summer.

"It was a little complicated and difficult getting the master's degree, but I had so many good students who needed more subject matter," she said.

"MY HUSBAND HAS always been supportive of anything I have wanted to do. He encouraged me to go on to graduate school for the PhD if I wanted to, but I believed it would be damaging to our family life and especially to the development of our children who were in elementary school then, so I decided against it. I know now that for us my decision was right," Mrs. Lovett said.

She has been teaching at JSU for 16 years now. Besides her regular teaching duties there, she advises the yearbook staff, is a member of the Communications Board, and coordinates the work of student assistants in the English Department.

College students are important to both the Lovetts.

"Students have always seemed to enjoy coming by our house to talk, borrow a book, or just rock on the front porch a while," Mrs. Lovett said.

"They've always been welcome here for conversation, a meal, and even a place to stay," Lovett added. "There's more to teaching than the classroom. There's real communication."

FAMILY LIFE IS also very important to the Lovetts. Their daughter, Opal Denitza, "Little Opal" is currently teaching art in Sylvester, Ga., and O. Rufus is teaching photography at Kilgore College in Texas.

"We're a close family," said Mrs. Lovett. "We have a very good sense of communication and enjoy each other as people as much as parents and children."

For their own private pleasure, both the Lovetts enjoy reading. She, fiction and biography, and he The National Geographic, history, and, of course, photography.

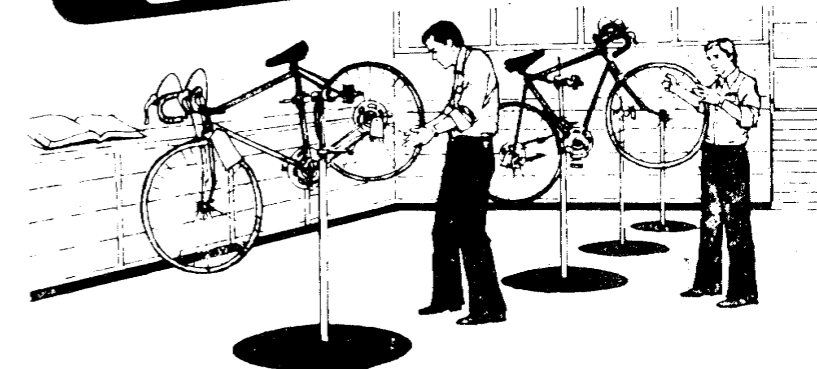

Lovett likes to drive around the state on backroads, enjoying beautiful scenery alone, always taking a camera with him. He is also a Mark Twain and Will Rogers buff.

Mrs. Lovett likes working with plants and also cooking for lots of people.

Hurricane blows itself out

Eagerly expecting a movie equal to the beautiful "South Pacific," I hastened to see "Hurricane." What I saw was an overlong, rambling, disconnected movie that in no way resembled my favorite South Sea Island flicks of the past. I found myself desperately hoping for the hurricane and the end of the movie. The main action was provided when the film broke three times. Extra entertainment was gained by watching part of the movie by only half-frame and by watching a fascinating dangling rope which slowly swung past the actors' faces and-or hairlines on occasion. (Perhaps the theatre was falling apart.)
As for the movie itself, both photography and acting a few underwater shots, the photographer apparently couldn't find any of the famous tropical island scenery. And what a terrible waste of talent—Mia Farrow spends her time casting lovesick glances at her co-star. Jason Robards spends his time being silent and gruff or growly and gruff. Trevor Howard, Max Von Snyder and Timothy Bottoms do not have enough character to keep afloat. In fact, they all sink—along with the movie—when the hurricane hits. The only survivors are Mia Farrow and Dayton Kene and it wouldn't have hurt if they had sunk, too.

Oh, for a return to the glorious days of Cordelia McKeen

Miniworks exhibition now open

The First Annual Exhibition of Miniworks on paper opened on May 6 in the JSU Hammond Hall Gallery. The show has been a grand success. Many participants and viewers statewide enjoyed the show and have expressed an interest in seeing an even larger one next year.

All of our Art Department faculty members exhibited with the Friends of the Arts in the Anniston Arts and Crafts Show Saturday, May 5. The show was held in connection with the Anniston Charter Festival Week.

During this minimester the students in the class Survey of Black American Art made four field trips to see art works of national historic significance. The trips were (1) to Fisk University in Nashville to see films and the great murals by Aaron Douglas. (2) to Talladega College to view the famous murals by Hale Woodruff. Those murals are about four feet by 40 feet in size (3) to the Huntsville Museum of Art to see the largest and most beautifully hung exhibition of Black art in the history of the South. The show is titled Black Artists-South and (4) to Atlanta University and to see more murals by Hale Woodruff. The class was taught by Dr. Holmes.

produced by Dr. Holmes was shown also in April at the Huntsville Museum of Fine Art. The screening of the film was in connection with the current exhibition of Art by Black Americans. A lecture which involved slides, tapes and films was given by Dr. Holmes at the Savery Gallery, Talladega College in April. His appearance was sponsored by the Lecture-Recital Committee of Talladega College for the 20th Annual Arts Festival. This May Dr. Holmes served as the official consultant to the Westchesler Afro-American Foundation in New York as plans for a traveling Black History exhibition got underway.

On April 17, Dr. Emilie E. Burn and several art students were honored at a luncheon given by Mr. and Mrs. Whitesides at the Ramada Inn. They were also guests of the Regional Medical Center at the dedication of the new pediatric wing at the hospital. The reason for these tributes is the wonderful art work produced by some of our art majors for the new children's wing at the medical center.

Stalin

A biography by Ian Grey

One of the most frightening figures of the 20th Century, the very name of Joseph Stalin conjures images of labor camps, state terror and brutal repression. Historians and biographers have, for the most part, dwelt on the dark side of Stalin's 26-year-rule of Russia. Yet it was Stalin who presided over Russia's evolution from a backward nation to a world power, thrusting the Russian people from the Dark Ages into the 20th Century.
Now, in this major reconsideration of Stalin, Ian Grey eschews moral judgements in an attempt to understand Stalin's roots in the Russian tradition of strong rulers.

On Tuesday, May 1, 30 wonderful little bright first graders from the Jacksonville Elementary School walked onto our campus to learn what some parents do when they are at work. Among the parents visited in the Art Department were Mr. Marvin Shaw, (who demonstrated the art of pottery) and Dr. Holmes who exhibited the design projects of his students and who will become teachers.

Stalin's roots in the Russian tradition of strong rulers. Grey takes a fresh look at the documents chronicling Stalin's career and gives us a remarkably unprejudiced view of the man who was known as both "The Implacable" and "Beloved Father."

From Stalin's beginnings—the son of a drunken Georgian cobbler and a devout, hard-working mother—through his years at a theological seminary to his activity as a dedicated revolutionary, he always exhibited an aggressive and assertive manner. Small and physically unprepossessing, he made up for these disabilities by his intelligence and eagerness to work. This drive eventually led him to supreme power in the Communist Party after Lenin's death and the expulsion of Trotsky in 1927.

Grey examines Stalin's use of that power with a calm and unprejudiced eye. Stalin's tyranny and brutality are not denied, but they are placed within the context of his struggle to make Russia a major world power. Drawing on new sources and fresh evaluations of old ones, "Stalin: Man of History" performs a much needed task in placing Stalin firmly within the Russian tradition. It gives Westerners a deeper understanding of Stalin, both the man and the politician.

How's Your Travel IQ?

Well, let's see.
Just take this quiz and add up your correct answers.

- T F "I think I need a passport, but I can't apply until I know my travel plans. A passport will be one of the last things I get before I go."
- "There is no need to write out a detailed itinerary of my travels and leave it with someone else before I go. They know what countries I'm visiting, and the American Embassies should have no trouble finding me if there is a problem here at home."
- "Drug laws in countries abroad are a lot easier than in the U.S., and normally not well enforced."
- "No matter what happens, the U.S. Embassy can bail me out of jail or other serious trouble. After all... I am an American citizen."

False. Drug laws are generally more severe abroad, with mandatory prison sentences common for possession of even the smallest amounts of marijuana. Most foreign countries stringently enforce their drug laws.

False. Consular officers cannot provide your bail or get you out of jail. Should you be arrested or run into serious difficulties with foreign law enforcement authorities, you should ask that the nearest American Embassy or Consulate be advised immediately of your plight.

If you answered "FALSE" to all of the above, then you are a seasoned traveler who can probably look forward to a smooth, successful trip abroad. If you answered "TRUE" to any or all, please read on.

False. Apply for your passport early. The U.S. passport is good for five years and you need not have specific travel plans at the time you apply.

False. Experienced travelers would not think of leaving the country without advising family, friends or business associates of their itineraries—not only for their own protection and welfare, but also for their peace of mind and for those left at home.

Gamecocks finish season after losing two out of three in Springfield, Ill.

By ALLEN CLARK

SPRINGFIELD, ILL.—Jacksonville was eliminated in the NCAA World Series Championship by LeMoyne University out of Syracuse, N.Y. The score was seven to nothing in the early morning game Monday, May 28.

But, as Coach Rudy Abbott said, "You never know how a team will play so early in the morning."

In the first round game against Valdosta State, Ga., Jacksonville with a four to two lead going into the ninth inning was bombed with 13 runs off seven hits, seven walks and one error. This set a new NCAA world series record of runs scored in a single inning. The final score in that game was 15-4, Valdosta.

Jacksonville State's first score in the game came in the first inning on a single by Steve Gamble and a sacrifice fly by Dennis Cleveland, leaving the score one to nothing. In the third inning, Gil Bruce hit a home run with two men on to make the score four to nothing. The Blazers of Valdosta picked up two runs in the seventh off a double, two singles and a Jacksonville error.

In the eighth, it was three up and three down for Valdosta. Jax State left Jerome Coleman stranded after he hit a single and stole second. Then came the ninth inning.

Pitcher Wally Piszczar, who had pitched a fine five hitter so far, got the first batter out on a ground ball but then ran out of steam and walked the next two. Tim Harris of Valdosta came up and hit a single, knocking in one run. The next batter, Bart Shuman, hit a perfect double play grounder to Crestwell Pratt but Pratt missed the ball and then the parade over home plate began.

Everybody in Valdosta's lineup batted at least twice in the ninth inning and it took four JSU pitchers to finally put Valdosta away. The only hitting Jax State got in the ninth was a single by Doug Joos.

Jax State played Northern Kentucky the next day in the double-elimination tournament and led one to nothing when the game was called because of rain. John Mor-Mortillaro started again for JSU but his arm began bothering him early. Mortillaro gave up nine hits in the first five innings of play; then he injured his arm. Rick Love came in relief but injured his arm after only pitching to three batters. Wally Piszczar came in relief but could pitch only the remainder of the fifth inning before he injured his arm. Muench came in relief and held Northern Kentucky to four hits and two runs, the remainder of the game.

Jacksonville trailed until the eighth inning seven to four double-elimination tournament and led one to nothing when the game was called because of rain. John Mortillaro was the starting pitcher. Because the game did not go at least five innings, the Gamecocks had to start the game in the first inning again the next day.

Valdosta State wins Division II baseball title

A squeeze bunt in the eighth inning by Andy Miccachioni gave Valdosta State a 3-2 victory over defending champion Florida Southern in the NCAA Division II World Series last Wednesday. Miccachione's two-out solo home run in the fourth inning gave Valdosta an early 1-0 lead. Florida Southern tied it in the fifth with a home run by Matt Galione, then went ahead in the sixth on a homer by Mike Schoeller. Kelly Scott was the winning pitcher. His record for the season was 9-0. Valdosta finished the season at 47-14, while Florida Southern finished with a 40-12 record. Jax State lost to Valdosta in the first round of the tournament 15-4, after leading in the game for the first eight innings. Valdosta scored 13 runs in the final inning of that game to set a new runs-scored-in-a-single-inning record for a World Series game.

Disappointment

Abbott said after the defeat. "You'd think the Gamecocks would get up early in the morning but I guess they stayed in the hen house."

Jax State receives Regional Trophy at World Series

Jax State had to wait until they were eliminated in the Division II World Series before they were awarded the Regional Trophy for 1979. Receiving the trophy are from left, pitcher John Mortillaro, pitcher Wally Piszczar, head coach of the Tuskegee baseball team and regional NCAA official James Martin awarding the trophy, and Jax State head coach Rudy Abbott.

Troy picked No. 1 over Jax State in preseason poll

1973 and 1976. Jacksonville State has bumped the Trojans from the league's top spot and won the championship during the past two seasons.

This marks the first year that seven teams will compete for the league title. Southeastern Louisiana and Nicholls State resigned from the conference this year. Both schools have petitioned the NCAA for Division I-AA status.

One of the top-ranked Division II conferences in the NCAA, the Gulf South has had representatives in the NCAA playoffs three times in the past four years. Livingston was selected in 1975 and Jacksonville State has competed in the playoffs the past two seasons.

Previous GSC football champions are: Troy State and Livingston State, 1974; Nicholls State, 1975; Troy State, 1976; Jacksonville State, 1977; Jacksonville State, 1978.

Prior to last year, the pre-season favorite had never won a GSC football crown. Last year's pre-season choice, Jacksonville State, won the title with a 6-1 league record.

Football coaches and sports information directors agree that Troy State University will win the 1979 Gulf South Conference football championship according to polls released in Birmingham at the league's annual meeting.

Troy State received three first place votes in each of the pre-season polls. The polls indicate that the University of North Alabama and Jacksonville State will be top contenders.

Jacksonville State, winner of the last two league titles, shared second place with North Alabama in the coaches' poll. But in the SIDs poll, North Alabama was alone in second place and Jacksonville State was third.

Both polls also showed Mississippi College finishing in fourth place. Tennessee Martin, Delta State and Livingston were picked to finish in the final three positions.

Troy State has won three previous championships--1971, but picked up three runs in the eighth and two more in the ninth to take the win.

The third game of the tournament, Jacksonville State played LeMoyne, losing that game seven to nothing.

"Joe Abone pitched one of the best games in the tournament," said Rudy. "He is the best our players have seen in a couple of months. Bobby Butler pitched pretty well but we didn't give him a lot of help in the field in key situations."

Bobby Butler started for Jacksonville State. Jacksonville State scattered six hits through the game but could not get together at one time with the batting. LeMoyne scored their seven runs on eight hits. The last three runs were scored without a hit.

"Two or three things happened that hurt our chance of winning the tournament. Number one," he said, "was the bad ending of the Valdosta game. It hurt the team morale-wise. The second thing was the game against Northern Kentucky that didn't count and that messed up

A reaching Dennis Cleveland gets the tag

Northern Kentucky that didn't count and that messed up Mortillaro's arm. The third thing that happened was losing Steve Ricker." (Jacksonville State had a total of five injured players) "and then," he added, "LeMoyné got an off-day on the rain out day.

"These were all big factors in the whole thing. If Mortillaro had not pitched Saturday, we would have had a good chance of still being in the tournament. I know what it takes to win a world series. You've got to have at least four outstanding pitchers rather than one or two. You've got to have a lot better hitting from your big hitters. You can't come up here and get lucky and win even though sometimes you make your own luck.

"I'm not making any excuses, I'm just saying we came to win and we didn't. I am pretty disappointed but the main thing is we didn't win and that's all that matters."
