JSU Rifle Team

Jacksonville State University's rifle team defeated 10 other colleges to take the Mardi Gras Invitational Rifle Tournament at Nicholls State University recently. The Gamecocks pushed their record to 19-4 with the win, the top record in the Alabama Rifle Conference. Bill Puckett

New director for March 6 JSU dance performance

By WENDY MARTIN
JSU has a dance company and has had one for a few years, but this year the company has a new director, Peggy Roswal. Mrs. Roswal received her Master of Arts in Dance at Texas Woman's University. Her emphasis was in modern dance, but she also teaches ballet, tap, jazz and pointe. The company is getting ready to put on a concert Tuesday, March 6, at 8 p.m.

in Self Cafeteria. All of the choreography will be Mrs. Roswal's. The show will truly be a variety of dance and will have something for all ages to enjoy. There will be no admission charged as the company wants to introduce itself to the campus. The company consists of six girls who take the dance laboratory, which is organized to give students credit for time spent in performing. Auditions were held for this concert so the company will be joined by a group of students interested in dance.

Mrs. Roswal, not one to stand still, is already hoping to put on a mini concert during finals. She hopes to use not only her choreography but also students' choreography from the annual workshop held for her dance classes. This of course will depend on the interest on campus. It is already obvious that there is a large interest in dance from the performing side, but dancers must have an audience. The dancers hope to have a full house at this concert as it will only be held for one night.

Anyone interested in knowing more about dance, classes, or performances should contact Mrs. Roswal in Stephenson Gym office no. 5.

SGA finds new ways to utilize money

By JANA McWHORTER
At the Student Government Association (SGA) meeting on Monday night, Feb. 26, the senators discussed some new ways to utilize the money from the student activity fee and the use of one consolidated sticker for resident and commuter parking.

President Peinhardt discussed setting aside a portion of this activity fee to build a recreational center for intramural sports and for a student union building. He also discussed cutting the fee into two parts with half of it mandatory for all students. This would support clubs and organizations such as the radio station, the paper, the yearbook and other SGA approved functions. The second part would be voluntary and would go into the entertainment fund so that more money could be invested in getting top-rate performers.

The Executive Branch of the SGA also proposed the idea of consolidating the commuter and resident stickers into one sticker.

Parking would then be on a 'first come, first serve' basis.

Other business included the senate approving a free income tax service for the students provided through the cooperation of accounting students. Ron Shewsbury made a motion

In an interview on Wednesday, Dean Schmitz was asked questions about the problems on campus.

According to him, there are some problems with the conditions and needs of the dormitory. The need for new equipment and furniture is among the top of the priorities.

Students throwing trash out of dorm windows and littering on campus is also becoming a problem. Schmitz commented that we have a beautiful campus and he "would like to see it remain as a source of pride for everybody."

There has been a lot of talk lately about security here on campus. He was asked if he thought that the security was adequate. In reference to crowd control he replied, "There are times when we need more people to assist us on campus but we can get assistance if needed." Improvements in the campus available for funding is the deciding factor on such increases.

As far as the recent "panty raids" are concerned, rules and regulations will be enforced according to the policies of the University and dormitory visiting hours. "What we really are asking is that the students cooperate with us as far as respecting individuals' rights are concerned."

"The 'panty raids' have brought unfavorable publicity and undesirable characters on campus. If students do not comply with the regulations, University discipline or even civil charges could be brought against violators.

"Basically, the vast majority are really good students and are of no problem," Schmitz stated. "We need help and cooperation from the students in solving this problem. The best way to What's an infirmary?

By LINDA MASTERS

Are you thoroughly familiar with our Student Health Center? Sponsored by Jacksonville State University, the Health Center services more than sore throats and colds.

Miss Carol Lawler, head nurse and Mrs. Mary Holder, LPN, may conduct services such as urine tests, cultures, gonorrhea cultures, finger tip tests (for blood sugar), mono tests, and pregnancy tests. Although birth control is also offered, many are referred to the Calhoun County Health Department for other reliable methods.

Allergy shots are administered to those students who bring doctors' orders and medicine. These shots are free and are given one to three times a week.

An observation unit consisting of two beds is also at hand for acute care facilities. If overnight care is necessary, students are referred to a local hospital.

The drugs and pharmaceutical supplies are obtained from 14 or 15 drug companies within the United States servicing offices in Atlanta, Ga., Tennessee and Alabama. The drugs administered in the clinic are the cheapest bought anywhere. Money received is reimbursed for more medication and samples are free.

The clinic is open Monday through Friday 8 a.m.-4:30, and an average of 50 to 60 students are cared for daily.

All services and counseling are strictly confidential and are locked in files to which only the doctors and nurses have access, except through legal petition.

If a doctor is needed after hours, contact the campus police if a dorm director is unavailable. Prompt service will be rendered.

Income tax filed free

By CHUCK AVERY

The SGA and the Student Accounting Association have developed a program which would enable students to have their income tax forms filled out for free.

The SGA is funding the project with money from the entertainment fund. They plan to pay the SGA a minimum of $100 but the overall cost will depend on the number of forms processed. For the first 100 forms processed, a cost of $5 per form will be charged, then for every additional form, a charge of 50 cents will be called for.

This service will begin on Monday, March 5, and continue to the filing deadline on April 15. It is expected to save the students both time and money in having their tax returns prepared. All returns will be held confidential between the student accountant and the person whose taxes are being processed.

The processing is expected to take a maximum of three days. Persons interested in having their tax returns processed should come by the SGA office between the hours of 1 and 4:30 p.m. on weekdays.

SGA President, Keith Peinhardt, said, "We feel it is a good idea and we want to encourage all students to come by and take advantage of this program." Both under graduate and graduate students are eligible to participate.

Wade addresses geography class

Friday, Feb. 23, Mr. Frank Wade, Outshipment Manager for Federal-Mogul, was invited to speak to the students in Problems in Location and Transportation, a geography course taught by Dr. Baucom. Mr. Wade's talk dealt with the factors behind the decision to locate the Federal-Mogul distribution plant here in Jacksonville.

Originally located in Coldwater, Mich., the first distribution plant eventually expanded to the point at which further expansion of the facilities were impractical. Construction of a modern, computer-manned distribution center was decided upon and a search for the most advantageous site began. The efforts to find a new location were extensive in the attempt to gradually narrow the possible sites down from anywhere east of the Mississippi to several individual communities within the areas of northern Alabama, Tennessee and Kentucky. Some of the measurable factors considered were labor costs, taxes, available transportation, and markets. There were numerous intangible factors that were considered, for example, the cooperation and welcome the company received from the community weighed heavily in the final decision. Jacksonville's beautiful, relaxing countryside was also mentioned as a contributing factor.

RIGHT: The increasing need to clarify the rights and responsibilities of men and fathers in cases involving child custody and adoption will be addressed by Quinn Head and Ken Cochran of the Men's and Father's Rights group and Gary Smallwood, Calhoun County Legal Services.

Thursday, March 22, 2:30-3:30 p.m., Round House, JSU. SUICIDE: Steve Weiss of the Cherokee, Etowah and DeKalb Mental Health Center, Chris Devine of the Department of Guidance and Counseling and Jackie Howsden of the Department of Sociology at JSU will discuss suicide—the nature of the problem, the increased incidences among teenagers, danger signals and prevention.

Wednesday, March 28, 2:30-3:30 p.m., Round House, JSU. RAPE: Lois Seal of the College of Criminal Justice at JSU will discuss rape from the standpoint of prevention. An informative film depicting techniques in self defense and methods of prevention will be shown.

Thursday, March 29, 2-4 p.m., Round House, JSU. EMERGENCY: The lay person's responsibility and liability in an emergency will be the topic of discussion by John D. Moorehouse, MD, and Warren L. Wallace, MD, of the Emergency Department Physicians Medical Group, Inc. Emergency life saving procedures will be demonstrated.

Art Council reviews films for '79-'80 year

The 1978-80 school year seems a long way off to some people, but not to the members of JSU's Cinematic Arts Council. Members of the Council are now busy at work scanning recent catalogues so that the film series for 1979-80 can be booked. According to Cinematic Arts chairperson Larry Nee, the selection and booking process is taken very seriously: "We want to provide as broad a series as possible, using recent blockbusters as well as classics and foreign films. In fact, we've already started; we have "Jaws" booked for November."

The selection of films involves all members of the committee who are each given a catalogue from which each member compiles a list of prospective titles. A meeting is then called. All lists are considered and a master list of about 50 titles is selected.

The films are then booked through companies ranging from Atlanta to Hollywood. Nee urges all students who have names of films they would like to see to drop off those titles at the SGA office or to a committee member on a Wednesday or Thursday movie night. He would also like to have new members on the committee to replace those who will be graduating. They, too, should contact the SGA office or a committee member.

First come, first serve

By JANA McWHORTER

The Student Government Association (SGA) is considering the consolidation of red commuter and green resident stickers into one master sticker. This would make parking on a "first come, first serve" basis to all students.

This is definitely a good step because it would be fair to all students, giving them an equal number of parking places to pick from. Students would not feel slighted that residents or commuters had a better chance than they did.

It seems that because of this great parking problem, that there are two types of students on this campus: the commuter and the resident. Neither one of these groups are happy with their parking situation because of various reasons as being too far to walk or too dangerous to walk on this campus at night. The problem lies not in the amount of spaces to park in but in their convenience to classes and dormitories.

This motion, if passed by the SGA, the President's Liaison Committee and Dr. Stone, would not give students more spaces to park, but rather a wider variety to choose from. So maybe now, commuter students won't be heard screaming over a place to park as they pass an open green space or residents won't be heard screaming over a space to park as they pass an open red space.

Government is overwatched

"Washington can do it!" "I pay my taxes so I might as well get to use them!" "Who will take care of the poor?" "Someone needs to watch over greedy businessmen." Sound familiar? No wonder—you've probably said something very similar, as have most people who are paying to support our growing welfare state. Most people, it seems, want to reap more and more of its benefits hoping to be the last swallowed by the monster, not realizing that they are slowly being swallowed as they take these government dollars.

What is surprising as one observes this factionalization of society for more favors from Uncle Sam and more controls is to hear people say, "What is wrong with capitalism? Free enterprise needs to be watched." What is wrong with creates inefficiency, another is piled on to cover up the side-effects of the prior action instead of covering up for real or imagined shortcomings of capitalism, we are simply covering up capitalism—like kudzu—and are strangling it. The middle group we imagine is not stationary; one is either moving toward the free market or toward total government control.

One such government intervention is the minimum wage, that wonderful tool of economic justice. It has been seen as a public policy designed to raise the standard of living for workers. Its real effect, however, is the opposite of the government's intention: unemployment rises. As a business cannot afford to employ someone who is not able to produce at the artificially-elevated wage rate it must fire him. Government intervention in place, must prohibit industries from dismissing workers. This restriction results in a reduction of the industry's rate of return, because unneeded workers must be paid. Industrial activity then begins to decline which can only be prevented or covered up by new government regulations such as tariffs. The frequent policy chosen to cover up the unemployment caused by minimum wages is for the government to develop and expand public works projects. These are not only non-productive, but must be paid for either by taxes or borrowing, both of which, especially borrowing, contract the market for capital and threaten even more unemployment. The trend is obvious and its examples are numerous.

The problem, however, is not that the government is sticking its nose where it is done. And it seems that the farther removed that government is from those whom it is aiding the better. This allows local politicians to engage in the politically irresponsible practice of spending tax dollars they did not raise themselves when they request federal aid. These politicians and other recipients of government aid often discover only too late that, as Thomas Jefferson said, "The government can only do something for you in proportion as it can do something to you."

Also, Patrick Buchanan revealingly states in his book, "Conservative Votes, Liberal Victories." The most the welfare state blossoms and grows the louder its advocates and beneficiaries denounce the rest of society as cruel, heartless, and corrupt." But too many of us don't realize that we are all

Letters to the editor

Dear Ms. McWhorter,

After the activities of last week around campus last week, I believe something needs to be done about the situation of dorms on campus. There needs to be something done especially about the way that the men's dorms are being run. I'm one of those people who have the problem, but not a definite solution. Maybe some type of different discipline may help. Something needs to be done, or the guys need to take Panty Raid 101 and learn how to do it right. Having heard many complaints from female friends—they apparently failed the course!

Sincerely,
Ronald Coleman

To the Editor,

This is a first for me to write to the paper, but I feel that what Mr. Peinhardt has said "disturbed me greatly." I live in Glazner,

I sold my car recently so I know the problem of owning and not owning one on campus. I now walk wherever I go. But no matter how much I do, I still don't like to have to walk 15-20 minutes to a field (that cost thousands of dollars), where I could almost kill myself on the unguarded fields, racks, bare dirt and ruts. Just so I could play catch.

Mr. Peinhardt was put in office to represent the people of this campus, commuters and residents alike. When this parking lot is done and over, we'll still have him.

Mr. Rowe didn't make it clear whether all bids for construction on this campus are up for public debate and - or requested, proposed and accepted with the knowledge of only the necessary people.

Also, Dr. Stone's statement has no weight behind it. The majority of the grass on this campus is yellow, brown or dead. This is due to

Dear Editor,

I want to congratulate Maurice Bowles on his article, "This Bird's View" about mid-term exams and injustices.

He's right! Teachers usually don't consider how many other exams a student has to take in one week. And it's not fair for us to spend long hours preparing for a test and only get a C or D, then have mid-term reports sent to your parents.

But, he's right on another point, too. This old world is full of injustices, so we ched." What is wrong with capitalism is that it is over-watched and as one government intervention it must fire him. Government then, in an effort to solve this problem caused by its coercion in the market-sticking its nose where it shouldn't be, but that individuals have begun relying on government to get things don't realize that we are all members of one class or another which screams for government aid and intrusions. As Pogo said, "We have met the enemy and they are us." As members of these classes we must stand up and resist the easy way out, hoping others will follow. We must, for example, as college students, begin opposing federal financial assistance to education and its accompanying controls. As in the economy, regulations pile upon orders upon guidelines, restricting the freedom of education, which is supposedly a state responsibility.

Perhaps the welfare state is inevitable in a democracy. An article in the journal, "The Public Interest," explains that because of the difference between the political process and the market process (which is that the market process distributes income less equally than the distribution of votes) "those with the lowest income use the political process to increase their income." Again, however, this is because of a weakening of our moral fiber.

The situation creates the opportunity but it is individuals who must decide to take advantage of it. Patrick Henry warned us that, "A vitiated state of morals, a corrupted public conscience, are incompatible with freedom." We are experiencing what Herbert Spencer foresaw when he wrote, "The more numerous public instrumentalities become, the more is there generated in citizens the notion that everything is to be done for them, and nothing by them. Every generation is made less familiar with the attainment of desired ends by individual actions or private agencies; until eventually, governmental agencies come to be thought of as the only available agencies." In other words, with both government aid and the benefits we expect from government intervention, when you get something for a song watch out for the accompaniment.

awesome military. It is only a matter of time before they choose to use it.

The draft will help to bolster our sagging military. More qualified personnel will be obtained, our numbers will increase, and our state of preparedness will thus be enhanced. One can be sure that the Russians and Chinese will be noting our progress.

Many blinded youths compare time spent in the military service to a prison sentence. But with the right attitude, the military can be an enjoyable life. No civilian company offers near the benefits and opportunities that the armed services do. This writer knows several "lifers" who were drafted and then decided to make the military a career.

It is obvious that Mr. Barr's attitude is prevalent among our generation today. The ad for today's volunteer Army boasts of pay and benefits instead of the duty and honor of service to one's country.

Mr. Barr used the freedom of the First Amendment to express his views, but what he apparently didn't realize is that freedom was purchased by the blood of our ancestors on the battlefields of the world. Those with attitudes such as were expressed in that letter do not deserve to exercise the freedom that others have paid for.

It is a shame that Mr. Barr's life has been cheated of the love in life that would motivate him to want him to preserve his homeland.

Mr. Barr, you stated that you would flee to Canada if the situation arises. Canada isn't far enough.

How about a one-way ticket to Russia?

This Bird's View

Unlike a commercial newspaper, the Chanticleer can usually be read for relaxation. One never has to worry about seeing murders or great catastrophies on the front page.

But this usual serenity was broken last week. I was no less than sickened by the letter to the editor written by Mr. Henry Barr. Mr. Barr expressed that we were obviously pushing toward war because the draft is soon to be reinstated. Mr. Barr also confessed that, "It it comes to death or Canada, I will be on the first bus here."

It is a shame that people with such attitudes live in this country.

First of all, the draft is a deterrent to war, not a push toward it. Our military is dangerously weak. We have been forced to concentrate on quantity instead of quality. But the quantity we do have is far below the safe level. History proves that a country that does not prepare for war is eventually tested by it. But too many pantywaists and doves are trying to hide from this reality with farces like detente and Salt.

While the Russians speak of peaceful co-existence to our face, they continue to build an unquestionably

When Chinamen aren't Chinese

WASHINGTON — The recognition of Communist China has produced a whole new vocabulary at the State Department. The diplomatic language they speak had to be revised to accommodate the people in Peking.

The new language is explained in a memo, intended for official eyes only. It instructs American diplomats on the "proper terminology" to use in discussing China.

Of course, any diplomat worth his pay would rather lose his striped pants than say the wrong thing. So the memo was rushed out before the arrival in Washington of Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping.

For the benefit of those readers who would like to speak to the Chinese without offending them, here is a quick language course:

Taiwan used to be known in Washington as the "Republic of China." No longer. It is now taboo. In fact, the Chinese in Taiwan can't even be called "Chinese." This would irritate the Chinese on the mainland. But they also cannot be called "Taiwanese," as this would offend the Chinese in Taiwan.

How are the Taiwanese - Chinese supposed to be categorized? States the memo: "The adjectival form is 'Taiwan,' not 'Taiwanese.' People should be referred to as 'from Taiwan,' or 'on Taiwan' or 'of Taiwan.'" In short, they should never, never be referred to as Taiwanese or Chinese.

point, too. This old world is full of injustices, so we might as well get used to that, right now

Thank you for publishing a humorous letter which really made a good point! Sincerely, DeNise Moore

From now on, all diplomatic reports will list mainland China as the official China. "Under no circumstances," the memo warns grimly, "should Taiwan be placed or foot-noted under China."

We may be closer than we think to George Orwell's concept of 1984. The bureaucrats in Orwell's novel developed the language of "Newspeak." It's only 1979, and the State Department bureaucrats are already talking Newspeak.

Under the Dome: Inflation may be a cause for belt-tightening in the hinterlands, but not on Capitol Hill where our legislators enjoy the perquisites of office. Among them are 2,500 wall calendars, 37 free subscriptions to the Congressional Record and 36 copies of the Congressional Directory. The legislators get two free art reproductions from the National Gallery of Art and innumerable potted plants from the Botanic Gardens. Each congressional office gets nine telephone lines, and every lawmaker may make an unlimited number of trips to his home district. If he drives a car, he gets 17 cents per mile; he he goes by motorcycle, he is reimbursed at the rate of 15 cents per mile; he he flies by private plane, he collects 36 cents per mile.

—Congressmen now have another chance to reap retirement benefits unavailable to common citizens. Rep. John Murphy, D-N. Y., has distributed a letter to his colleagues telling them they can join the 157th Mobilization Detachment of the Army Reserve. The unit is for congressional members only. In his letter, Murphy unabashedly pointed out that those who join need only earn 50 "points" to qualify for "good retirement." The point would be earned by attending an annual training session, completing correspondence courses and going to weekly meetings at the Longworth House Office Building.

—In Washington, where oratory is art, oral history is making a comeback. An organization called "Former Members of Congress" is compiling the personal histories of congressmen's careers on tape. The collection will be stored in the Library of Congress for posterity. The interviewers are recording the oldest lawmakers first so that they don't fade away before their voices are captured on tape.

Top-Heavy Military: It takes 10 times more generals, admirals, colonels and captains to command today's peacetime force of 2 million than it took to run a military force of 10 million during World War II.

By law, for example, the Navy is permitted to have four four-star admirals and 22 three-stars. Yet, the Navy actually has eight four-star admirals and 31 with three stars—13 more than the law allows.

Last year Congress ordered the Navy, Army, Air Force and Marines to cut the number of generals and admirals by 6 percent before next year. But the Pentagon potentates are complaining they just can't abide by the statutes.

The brass hats have asked Congress to repeal the reduction order and, according to our sources, the request may be honored. But it's a moot point. The Pentagon couldn't meet the 1980 deadline anyway.

Hazardous Hamburgers? A laboratory in Columbus, Ohio, has just completed a study of bacteria colonies found in "fast food" hamburgers. After examining 764 patties, the researchers found there are an average of 178 bacteria colonies in every gram of hamburger meat.

About 9 percent of the colonies could destroy red blood cells, 95 percent could coagulate human blood plasma, and 45 percent could split DNA molecules—the genetic building blocks of life.

Two-Buck Flop: The two-dollar bill is three years old, but Americans just don't seem to want the bills in their wallets. The Treasury Department printed more than 500 billion of them in hopes the two-buck note would replace at least half of the singles in circulation. But the bills are considered by some superstitious citizens to be a sign of bad luck. To date, more than 300 million two-dollar bills are still being stored in Treasury Department vaults. Officials are admitting privately that the project has failed miserably.

Heard the ole saying, "You can't tell a book by its cover"? Well, maybe you can. On a student's bookshelves, some books are more worn and ragged than others. This says more about the book than does the one whose cover has hardly been touched. A lot can also be understood about the person by the type books he reads. Even more can be learned by observing what he writes in the margin and what he underlines.

I always enjoy the entertainment section of the newspaper. I especially liked an article that came out on Feb. 20 entitled "Success Stories," which told about some new rock groups. Dear Editor, February is Black History Month, but for some reason or another it seems as if the significance of it has been disregarded by Blacks primarily as well as whites. Many Whites disregard it anyway and there are others who feel and see the need for it.

Although the security questionnaires, that I recently distributed to the women living in dormitories, were intended for serious responses, some really questionable suggestions were received.

OK. So it's true that you, some of you, need to be protected from insects—but do you really think the campus police are going to eagerly respond to a caller stating "Help Me! Please! I'm being molested by a roach?"

I wasn't really concerned about the plumbing in Sparkman Hall, either.

Then there was the question asking what kind of locks the ladies would like to see on the dormitories. One girl expressed doubts on the effectiveness of the combination locks, but I'm still pondering what she meant by suggesting "the key system, and a 1.25 average for first time freshmen."

I can just see a monitor running up to the dormitory doorway and seizing a freshman by the neck, shouting, "You can't unlock this door! Your GPA's too low!!"

For the winner of the Most Specific Award, there's a toss-up between the girl who would like to see "non-combination locks" on the dormitories, and the girl who felt the best type lock would be "the really good kind."

A few girls were very specific, however. One wrote that she would like to see "softer and king size beds, more liberal visiting hours, mandatory boy and girl roommates—of the girl's choice, naturally." She even went as far to say that she wanted her "meals brought to the dormitory rooms." She said that if she had all of this, she "would feel a lot safer."

This girl must be a friend of the lady down the hall who wants males to be allowed to attend her "spend the night parties."

To change the subject, an obvious English major spoke up saying, "It's not enough parking space." And Dr. Stone, I hate to be the one to break the news to you, but "the trees need trimming" in your yard.

Finally, one lady stated that she wanted to see lighting in a certain "dark place around campus."

This is understandable, but she surprised me by writing, "You know which place I mean."

I knew I shouldn't have put my name on those questionnaires.

about our culture and ourselves.

Yet, there are many who could care less about Black History Month or anything else for that matter, whether they are Black, White, or any other race. But that leaves a question in my mind, how can we strive to be a great nation as a whole, if we care less to share, understand and ponder to learn of our cultures and ourselves.

To the Editor:

There is a sport around campus that many people participate in and take pride in. I'm speaking of the intramural sports between the different dorms and groups. For example, the girls dorms have basketball teams that compete with one another. The different teams play hard and receive no recognition. I would like to see this changed.

Joyce Dunn

Dear Editor,

What happened to our football, baseball and frisbee field? Yes, that's right, the one between the men's dorms. We've already got enough room for parking, and tearing up the field doesn't give much more parking space anyway. I not only speak for myself, but for many others of the male gender. So please guys, either provide another field or fill in the parking lot.

Roger Christy

To the Editor

I would like to take this opportunity to alert you and the people of JSU to a very pressing problem on campus.

Handicap parking spaces are being used by everyone to the point that the handicapped students themselves are without adequate parking spaces. What makes this a pathetic situation is the indifference of the students. Too many times handicapped students have had to walk a great distance because their slots have been filled with regular students, students who have no difficulty walking.

The handicapped students do not regard themselves as special with special entitlements. Some of the non-

Dear Editor,

I'm a second semester Freshman and I'd like to say that I really enjoy attending Jax State. I'm also a radio announcer, better known as a disc jockey at WANA in Anniston and I want to take this time and say how much I enjoy listening to Jax State's own radio station, WLJS. I think they have a fine staff of Dee Jays and the addition of the news machine has become a great asset to the station. I'll be glad when they raise their power to 3000 watts. And for those of you who have an AM radio, why not give my station a listen? We'll be glad to have you.

I think it was a wise move to put the article about the wrestling team on the front page. Because these fellows did a super job and deserve front page coverage.

To the Editor,

Your article in the Feb. 20th paper about mountaineering skills really gets my approval. It cleans up a lot of my unanswered questions about that class. Mountaineering skills has obviously become a very popular activity.

During spring registration I noticed the long lines waiting to get a card for that class. I couldn't believe all the people wanting to get in that class. Now that I've read your article, I understand why so much interest was aroused by the class. I'm even thinking about taking the class myself now! It seems like an ideal way to get into nature.

Thank you for cleaning up my thoughts on mountaineering.

Dear Editor,

The Jax State Circle K service organization should be commended for their services to school and community. They are hard working students who render their unselfish service to help other people and they are truly dedicated people. Circle K has sponsored for the third straight year the Miss Calhoun County Valentine Pageant to raise money for Cerebral Palsey. And I might add it is the best pageant I have seen here on the JSU campus. And the most important thing about the pageant is that it's the fairest pageant I have seen here on campus with impartial judges. So, Circle K keep up the good work.

for the social fraternity Alpha Phi Alpha to be recognized. It passed. Jay Johnson, elections chairman, stated that sign-up for election of SGA officers would be March 5-9. Campaigning would begin midnight, March 18, and end midnight, March 25. Elections would be Monday, March 26, and run-offs would be March 28. It was also reported that the blood drive was a success with students donating 200 pints of blood.

Don Schmitz, dean of Student Affairs, discussed the problems caused by "panty raids" saying that it allowed too many unauthorized persons in the dormitories especially with the influx of persons joining the raids who are not students here. He also asked students to help keep dormitory areas clean.

All motions passed by the SGA are subject to the approval of the Council of Academic Deans or the President's Liaison Committee and Dr. Stone.

TO BE OBSERVED here this month

"Set the Pace! Take the Food Way for Good Nutrition" is the theme that area dietitians and nutritionists will emphasize during the seventh annual National Nutrition Week, March 4-10.

"Exercise and a sound diet are the cornerstones of good health," it was pointed out by Lynn Smelcer, president of the JSU Dietetic Association. Nutritionists have explained that good nutrition and regular exercise that you enjoy can cut the cost of health care.

Your know-how about foods and their nutrients can multiply the benefits of physical activity in keeping fit. For starters, begin with minimum servings of the essentials: milk and milk products; meat or an alternate, such as dried beans and peas, chili, eggs or fish; fruits and vegetables—one deep green or yellow and one a source of Vitamin C; and wholegrain or enriched breads and cereals.

National Nutrition Week is sponsored by the American Dietetic Association and its affiliates in the 50 states, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico. NUTRIBIRD, the association's symbol of good nutrition, helps to carry the message. This year he's running with it.

A poster contest concerning Nutrition Week is planned for third graders in Calhoun County. The posters will be displayed at Quintard Mall March 4-10. Also, other activities are planned for radio and television.

New bike racks placed on campus

Nineteen bike racks have now been placed throughout the campus, according to the Maintenance Department, and one additional rack will be erected with the completion of the Military Science Building.

This brings the total of 20 bike racks that will be available for "peddlers". With the arrival of spring, more and more bike riders will come out of the woodwork. Hopefully, the parking situation on campus will see a little sign of relief if the racks get the use that is anticipated.

Government Association (SGA) needs improvements.

The new parking lots have caused protesting and petitions, however students feel they should be informed ahead of time to vote on upcoming actions. Several suggestions of news bulletins have been made to better inform the student body of campus happenings.

This recent survey also shows many JSU residents do not know anything about our Student Government Association and those who do feel they are too busy to make necessary improvements such as better lighting on campus, more concerts and better publicized actions.

(Although the SGA has worked with our SGA food services, many thanks were given for better food and meal plans.

If anyone has suggestions that you feel would better the SGA, please sent your suggestions to the Chanticleer office in Pannell Hall.

Chief Murray interviewed

In the nude

By CAREY COWAN

Most people who lived at Daugette Hall last fall remember the panic and wild rumors about the man who was wandering around the halls without any clothes on. Several times there was panic in the middle of the night, but things would usually calm down when it was discovered that nobody had really seen the man. The rumors began, however, when one girl actually did see him.

door and screamed, but, as is usual in the dorms on the weekends, no one was around to hear her.

After this episode, the rumors and panic in Daugette were understandable. For awhile the man was believed to be living in the attic. The creaks and groans of the old building were frightening to the girls, whose imaginations convinced them the man was upstairs.

The man, if he was upstairs, is gone now. He has not been back since last fall but the memory of the terror he caused Cheryl Andrews and the other women of Daugette Hall is still there.

Late one Saturday night, Cheryl Andrews answered a knock at her door to find a naked man standing there, making suggestive comments. She slammed the

The areas which the residents feel most need lighting are:

1. Around Bibb Graves and the squad.
2. The Library.
3. The road on which students walk to the coliseum.
4. The dormitories behind the cafeteria.

"It seems that other dorms have sufficient lighting—why neglect Daugette?" asked a Daugette resident, "Even if it is an old dorm, young ladies still live there."

The walk between the library and Bibb Graves was also mentioned as a place which needs lighting, and it has been said that there have been a number of girls assaulted in this area.

"It has recently come to my attention that many women have been assaulted and even molested in the area around Bibb Graves and the library," said Jason Whittman, Secretary of Student Life. "I do not think that lighting is a problem with the male residents on campus—their fear of rape is more welcomed than dreaded—but the female dilemma is one that shouldn't and can't be ignored."

Although there has been much talk about assaults near the library, Chief Murray said that the university police "have never received any reports of this nature."

Yet one university employee, who preferred not to be identified, stated that if he had a dollar for every girl assaulted near the library, he could "retire a rich man." "I'm sure that had all of this taken place," Murray said, "we would have gotten something in here about it."

Dr. Stone, president of JSU, stated that the "rumors" of these assaults were "absolutely not true," and that he had never heard of any such incident.

"However," Dr. Stone added, "If a girl was assaulted, and she didn't come to us to report it, there is little we can do."

The following is an interview concerning security on campus with Jacksonville State University Police Chief, James (Jim) Murray, who has been chief of the force here for 11 years.

CHANTICLEER: We have received a number of complaints, especially from police currently has a good operation?

MURRAY: We are operating good. We try to investigate everything that happens. And we, along with the administration on down, will do our utmost.

CHANTICLEER: It has been said that you are understaffed, do you feel that you need more people?

MURRAY: You'll never find a supervisor, or a chief of police who will ever say that he has enough people. You can never provide enough people for someone to say, "O. K. I have a 100 percent cracker-jack program, in which nothing's going to happen." It's never going to happen.

CHANTICLEER: How many officers and cars are on duty during daylight hours and night hours?

MURRAY: During the daylight hours, from 7 a.m. until 3 p.m., I have one officer on duty and myself. There are two cars and two CHANTICLEER: There has been talk, or rumors, floating around that many girls have been assaulted near the library. Is there any truth to this?

MURRAY: When you said rumors, that's exactly what they are. We have never received any reports of this nature. This has been going back many, many years. Everybody talks about a girl assaulted near the library, or behind the dorm—but especially behind the library. So I'm sure, that had all this taken place, at one time or another we would have gotten something about it in here.

officers on duty from 3 till 11 p.m. and also two from 11 p.m. until 7 p.m.

CHANTICLEER: How long does it take for one car to make its rounds around the university at night?

MURRAY: Well, there is no set time for that, or route. The officers go different ways different times. This is CHANTICLEER: One person, who is in a position to know (preferred not to be identified) stated that if he had a dollar for every girl assaulted near the library, he could retire a rich man. How do you feel about this?

MURRAY: If this be the case, and if this individual would come forth and produce this type of evidence, then I could feel

MURRAY: I'm in favor of it. But lighting comes out of the University budget—through maintenance, I believe.

CHANTICLEER: Getting back to the dormitories, how effective, in your opinion, are the combination locks on the ladies' dormitories?

MURRAY: I feel that a combination lock is only as good as the people who use it. If I had a lock and gave the combination to a friend, and he turned around and gave it to someone else, pretty soon there are dozen people who know that combination. If the lock is put on there for my safety and welfare, I am jeopardizing my security by giving someone that combination.

CHANTICLEER: But knowing that some people will inevitably give out the combination, how would you feel about a return to the key system?

MURRAY: Keys are the same way. A key lock is also only as good as the people who use it.

building on campus during the night hours?

MURRAY: No.

CHANTICLEER: How would you feel about officers patrolling the University on foot, or perhaps, small motorcycles?

MURRAY: I'm all in favor of it, but we don't have the personnel. I feel, however, that we will grow with the administration. And I'm sure, that as we grow, the University will see the requirements as they are needed.

CHANTICLEER: One final question. If you had unlimited funds, how would you like to see the security system run here on campus.

MURRAY: I'd have people inside the dormitories giving access to the building, and many patrols moving on campus at all times. A system in which personnel would know when to move in at times when the buildings are unoccupied. This is a supervisor's paradise or female residents, about a lack of security in the dormitories. What measures are being taken to improve this problem?

CHANTICLEER: How has the recent six percent proration issued by Gov. Fob James affected your operation?

MURRAY: Well, the university police is being cut just like the other departments.

CHANTICLEER: Your budget has been cut 30 percent?

MURRAY: Yes.

CHANTICLEER: Where do you plan to cut back on expenses?

MURRAY: I am going to have to take money from all areas, with the exceptions of salaries. It goes back to what our state is trying to do. If something is not done about this, I feel our educational system will be hurt greatly—if they don't earmark these funds for education. But there are no if's, and's, or but's about it. I am just going MURRAY: In the dormitories, this would be an internal problem. We can not completely deviate from our external requirements and go inside the dormitories—unless we are called. And it's kind of hard when we're limited as far as number of personnel.

It's going to take not only the University police, but help on everyone's part to improve security. If the students see someone in their dormitory that they feel is not authorized, they should make a call to the University police and let us know. The more eyes we have, the better it makes us operate.

Security: students respond

*Look for security:
Part II
on March 20*

"The security at this university," said Dr. Stone, president of Jacksonville State University, "is as good, on a comparative basis, as any other university in the state."

However, a questionnaire, which has been distributed by The Chanticleer, has revealed that there is a definite concern for campus security at Jacksonville State University.

The questionnaire, which was issued only to girls living in the dormitories, covered a variety of topics, including: lighting around campus; dormitory security, security around the library, and the effectiveness of the police patrol during night hours.

The questionnaire, which was issued only to girls living in the dormitories, covered a variety of topics, including: lighting around campus; dormitory security, security around the library, and the effectiveness of the police patrol during night hours.

THE EASE OF GAINING ENTRY into the dormitories, by unauthorized personnel, was the major concern among female residents, and many of those responding felt a need to discard the current combination lock system, which is in use at nearly every dormitory.

"There might as well not be doors on the dormitory when everyone can get in," said a New Dorm resident, while another termed the current lock system as "the stupidest thing I've ever seen."

The problem with the current system is that many of the female residents have allowed the combinations to these locks to become widely known, and as the university police James Murray said, "A combination lock is only as good as the people who use it."

ASIDE FROM THE OUTSIDE DOORS, there was also concern shown for security in the individual rooms. "The individual doors are not safe," said one resident, "because there are too many people walking around with master keys."

Another girl wrote and said that someone had entered their room around 2:30 in the morning during the party raids a few weeks ago. "We did not give anyone a key to our room," she said, and therefore, she believed that the person had gained entry "with a master key."

The party raid clearly exemplified the security problem in the girls' dormitories. "Why should we get in trouble," wrote one resident, "for having a man in our room five-15 minutes past visiting hours, while 60 boys are allowed in here after hours to cause disturbances without penalty?"

Many of the residents were critical of the University police and felt they were responsible for the lack of security in the dorms. One said that she feels "the security and patrol here is a farce."

Chief Murray, however, feels that dormitory security is an internal problem.

Do you feel that the campus police force is too small?

"We can not deviate from our external requirements, unless we are called," said Murray. "If the students see someone that they feel is not authorized, they should make a call to the university police and let us know."
But many residents disagreed.

"I feel that outside the dorm, my safety is my responsibility," said a Dauge Hall resident. "Within the dorm, however, I believe the University has a responsibility to protect me. As it is now, I feel like a sitting duck. There is absolutely nothing between me and my property, or anyone who happens to wander into the dorm."

POOR LIGHTING IS ALSO a major concern of female residents.

When asked the question, "Do you feel safe walking around campus after dark?" 74 percent of those answering said that they do not feel safe, while 26 percent said otherwise.

Salaries in question

By CHUCK AVERY

As of March 1st, Alabama schools have been under proration. This has come about due to a $54 million predicted deficit in the education budget.

Gov. Fob James ordered a 6 percent budget cut for all agencies receiving funds from the Special Education Trust Fund. The $1.18 billion budget was passed by the special session of the State Legislature in September. This was $6 million over expected revenues. Dr. Wayne Teague, State Superintendent of Education, warned city and county superintendents as far back as October to prepare for a cutback.

Apparently the predominant factor in the decision to prorate education funds was because of the decline in state sales tax, which makes up approximately one-third of the trust fund. For the remainder of the year, state agencies and local schools will face a 12 percent reduction in funds due to the fact that half of the year has already passed.

The Montgomery County schools system will have a $1.6 million reduction in funds alone. Other school systems will have similar cutbacks according to the size of their respective budgets.

Teachers salaries have come under question because of the proposals. Dr. Teague said that salaries are exempt from the cutback because contracts must be honored. Dr. Randy Quinn, executive director of the school board association, said that boards could have the right to cancel salaries contracts under the provision of the state tenure laws if they did not have the money to pay employees.

Quinn also asked for an opinion from the Attorney General's whether, "Anyone from the state level can tell a school system not to cut salaries when other expenses are being prorated across the board." A formal request must be made before the Attorney General will issue an opinion.

It is believed by some educators that if salaries are not reduced, the renewal of some teachers' contracts may be in danger this fall. This could sharply reduce the number of teachers and school personnel throughout the state.

The Alabama Education Association will meet next week with teachers in Birmingham at their annual convention. The topics of discussion will be presented in the next article in this series.

Tower atop the peak

By LINDA MASTERS

On Nov. 19, 1947 high atop Chimney Peak Mountain, a tower was erected for a fire lookout. Forest rangers Alton Ayers and C. B. Chandler of the Department of Conservation helped construct the tower, which was designed to withstand 100 mph winds. The tower stands 107 feet from the ground and sits on five acres of land given to the county by Fannie Warlick, a resident of Jacksonville.

Art show opens

By JERRY STINSON

The evening of Feb. 27 marked the opening of the Student Art Exhibit, located in Hammond Hall Gallery at the rear of the Student Commons Building. The exhibit included oil paintings, prints, pin and ink drawings, ceramics, and many items of design.

Nearly all media of art is represented in the show. We have a great deal of talent in our students here at the university and they should be commended for their fine work and progress.

Not only are we proud of the students but also of the fine teaching staff in our Art Department. I would like to give my personal thanks to all who participated and the many visitors we expect to have at the show.

The exhibit is on display now and will close March 9. Hours of display are from 2:30-4:30 daily. Come and see the exhibit for the art work is outstanding.

Since the year 1965 the tower has not been manned due to insufficient funds, however the tower was built with state funds and donations.

Because of vandalism and insufficient funds, the tower will probably never be used again, nevertheless, air detection is now used whenever necessary. Forest ranger David Morris of the Anniston Forestry Commission advises climbing the tower at your own risk.

From gray sweats to white silks...

By PATTY JOHNSON

Think back, if you will, about five years ago. You are in a P. E. class, and it is time to go. There is a race to the locker room, a scrambling to get undressed, and a jamming of gym clothes into a locker. Those smelly gym yellow, take your pick. For some students, a warm-up rates higher than the old faded dungarees.

No longer are warm-up and sweat suits regarded exclusively for the exercise session. They are deemed proper attire for classes and

Watch watching

By SUSAN STEPHENSON

I have developed the art of secretly looking at a watch during class. Through years of experimentation I have perfected three techniques: 1) basic front arm stretch, 2) lap glance, and 3) reading sneak-a-look.

The first technique, the basic front arm stretch, is the simplest, most fool-proof technique. Begin by looking tired and fidgeting often. After setting the mood, interlock fingers and stretch arms forward, PALMS FACING OUT. The watch can easily be seen now, but be quick! Prolonging this position could lead to strained muscles and strange looks from your friends.

The second technique, the lap glance, is a favorite of my roommate. Unobtrusively lay your arm on the desktop or in your lap. Casually glance at your wrist and then lazily look back to the text.

Timing is the key in the third technique, reading sneak-a-look. This is valuable when the professor is lecturing or reading. Study first the professor and get a feel for her rhythm and rate of looking at the class while reading. At the beginning of what should be a long reading period, glance at your watch, but be careful. Professors are sometimes erratic.

Isn't sex

wonderful?

A classroom window is perhaps a teacher's greatest rival for student attention. With this realization in mind, the experienced teacher prepares well her classroom lecture, and wears the most flamboyant clothing imaginable.

Her dialogue may consist of such attention - getting phrases as "Let's cover one last thing," or perhaps even, "Isn't sex wonderful?" Many male teachers, who ride into class on their youthful egos, (and equipped with week-old ties and annual humor) have resorted to the exclamatory use of foul language to get the desired attentiveness. But all these methods are short-lived, and after the student passes a quick glance toward the instructor, all eyes move back toward the window and the daydreams beyond.

Perhaps the only feasible weapon to be used against the window, and its allies outside, is one that few teachers have dared to employ.

They close the curtains, if there are any.

This is an extreme measure, and could lead to room-wide sleeping. The dull colored walls in many of the classrooms have a "Somenex" effect on students, and unless the teacher is either tap dancing on her table top—or dying in the same place, heads will be dropping to the desk tops like birds full of bullets.

Just what is it that lures eyes through those tinted panes? Perhaps it is a tree. Even if no squirrels are putting on a show, a student can be assured that the tree will not ask them what an example of Early Romantic Literature would be. Or perhaps they are planning their route to the cafeteria, so as to be ready when they are dismissed.

Whatever the reason may be, one can be assured that the most effective instructor, regardless of speech capabilities—would be a transparent one.

locker. Those smelly gym clothes were lucky to hit the washing machine once a month!

Over a period of several years we have come from rancid gym clothes to silk warm-ups. Even the gray sweats tradition seems to have faded into white warm-ups—or green, or blue, or proper attire for classes and wearing around town. About the only place not invaded by the warm-up suit is the church pew.

Spring is trying to peek through the chills of winter. Will the warm-ups be extinct through the warmer seasons? No, they will only shrink into fancy little gym shorts with matching tops.

The stone of a million stories

By CHUCK AVERY

If you have ever entered the library using the parking lot entrance, chances are you have noticed a loose slab of stone just outside the right hand door. If this slab could talk, imagine some of the stories it could tell.

"I really don't know how long I have been here because when you are a stone, time doesn't account for much. But I can tell you quite a few stories about student life and some of the people at this university.

"Young couples have stood on me and kissed good-night while others have stomped on me and gotten into fights. I have seen smiling faces and others with tears. I can't count the cigarettes that have been dropped on me over the years.

"There was this one guy, who must have been high, that stopped and talked to me one night. I didn't say anything back because I didn't want him to think he was crazy, but it was kind of nice to have someone to talk to me anyway. He just told me about his girlfriend and the trouble they were having.

"On more than one occasion, I have heard students say that they were glad that their term paper was finished and now they were ready to go party. It even seemed as if some had been partying before they came to the library.

"Thousands of people have stepped on me, walked around me, jumped over me and even a few have sat down on me. Most have just completely ignored me, but the few that have taken the time to at least notice me I will always remember. Maybe, just maybe, they will remember, too."

Spring fever's here!

By KIM WEST

When that fever hits, everything and everybody goes wild. The usual fever makes you sick, but that "Spring Fever" makes you happy and carefree!

Spring fever has already hit all around us, and it is still February. Thank goodness for that spring fever!

Everything around us has come to life in everyway. The birds are singing in the trees, squirrels crawling around on the ground, new buds of life are coming out on the trees.

While nature is welcoming the Spring fever, so is man. People are planning trips for Spring break, guys are getting ready for baseball games, girls are jogging to prepare for the sunshine that soon should be looking our way.

When that urge strikes you, get out, and enjoy the sunshine and the nature that surrounds you. Just remember that Y-O-U have caught a case of that good ole' Spring Fever!

Remedy—Take all the sunshine you can get. Play and be lazy.

Spread your spring fever all around.

Looking for an apartment?

By ALLEN CLARK

Oh woe to the person that has to go through the hassle of moving during the semester. I've done it twice this year and it is really a super pain in the you-know-what.

I know that many students will be moving into apartments after the mandatory Freshman year in the dorms and I think you should know a few things before you go looking for a new place to stay.

- (1) Most important—Don't wait until August to start looking.
- (2) Be nice to the people renting or you might never find anything that you really want to live in for the three remaining years in school, except at thrown-together apartment.
- (3) Check or ask about pest control. With this type of climate the probability of roaches is high.
- (4) Shop around first and make sure you really like the house you pick and sometimes it's worth that little bit of extra gas to have a house (apartment) on the edge of town, but then again it's also good to be close to the school to save that little bit of money. You've got to know that before you move in.
- (5) Know whether or not you can afford the lifestyle and when you do find a place always pay your rent on time.

(6) Know that in the city of Jacksonville, the deposits are extremely high for students. Figure a total of approximately $280, that will include deposits on the apartment, telephone (plus installation which starts at $15.50 and goes up to well over $30), electricity, and some places you'll have to make a monthly payment for cablevision if you want to have a TV.

(7) Logically you will need renters insurance (approximately $85).

(8) If you can get one of those "good deals" on an unfurnished apartment, it might be a good idea to take it if you like it a lot; used furniture can be found that is reasonable and maybe somebody in the family, or a friend, has something extra at home they can give you.

(9) When you first move in, inspect EVERYTHING and make a list of all broken, wornout, dangerous (electrical, etc.), and extremely dirty items in the house (or apartment).

(10) Take good care of the house and everything you damage you fix yourself to save any problems.

If you can do all these things then you might successfully find a good house or apartment and enjoy your stay in it. It's also possible that your landlord might turn out to be a friend if you can take that first step towards a good relationship.

Behind closed doors

By LISHA BROWN

For months I have been intrigued with an old, solid, wooden door in room 304 on the third floor of Bibb Graves. I noticed it one day—closed-leading to nowhere. What in the heck is it for ?????!!!! I thought about it, ashamed to ask anyone for fear that the be correct, I became obsessed with the desire to open one of these doors, or all of them, to find out what in the world is in them. Finally, I had my chance. I had arrived to my English class early and nobody was in the room. I approached the door with caution. (Who up tests in. O. K. I'll buy it. Another said, "Well, maybe the architect couldn't think of anything else to do with that space." Naw!!! I couldn't believe any architect would do that. As I continued my search for the true purpose of those little rooms, I heard such things

Finally, to my despair, found that my original feelings were correct after all. The answer is so simple that it's stupid. Those rooms were merely passageway between classrooms year ago!!! I hang my head in shame.

about it, ashamed to ask anyone for fear that the answer was so overwhelmingly simple, and came to one conclusion—it had to be an ancient fire escape! Sounds good enough, right? There's a fire in the building, everybody runs to this classroom, opens the door and dives out. Better to have a few broken bones or a fractured skull than to be trapped in a burning building. Maybe with luck you could fling yourself out and catch onto a tree and climb down! This theory sounded sensible to me.

For a while, I was satisfied but eventually I noticed that every single room in Bibb Graves (or at least the ones I've had classes in) has a door that leads to nowhere!! Now what? Even though my fire escape theory could still in the room. I approached the door with caution. (Who knows? I might just fall out!) I opened it slowly with intense anticipation. What?!! I couldn't believe my eyes! Behind that door was a very tiny room, painted, with a window and even curtains! I guessed only five regularly sized people could cram themselves into that room—only one or two obese folk! A basketball player or a giant could fit into this room. The ceiling was very high.

I lost all concern about appearing stupid—I asked people, everywhere I saw, what the purpose of that neat little room is. I heard some rather bizarre ideas.

One person suggested that maybe these little rooms, capable of holding one desk, are for people to take make-rooms, I heard such things as:

- Places to hide,
- Observation rooms,
- Offices for midget teachers,
- Places to go to get extra points!! (HO, HO, HO!)
- Places to pile dirt (there is one room with nothing but dirt in it!)

People suggested these remarkably weird theories as casually as if they were sensible. I couldn't believe

Human Service Center to provide student placement

The Human Services Center at Jacksonville State University recently has become a member of the Voluntary Action Center (VAC) of Anniston. The Voluntary Action Center offers a process through which those individuals and groups who want to volunteer can find useful outlets for their talents and energies, and through which those agencies who need volunteers can find help. It is associated with the National Center for Voluntary Action and operates under the auspices of the United Way of Calhoun County.

VAC is now composed of 22 members including such agencies and organizations as Regional Medical Center, Association for Retarded Citizens, Head Start, Mental Health Center, and Senior Citizens groups, as well as such organizations as the Anniston Arts Council.

This is a wonderful opportunity for the Human Services Center to further provide students with internships and placements in our community that will provide long lasting and valuable experiences. A student interested in doing volunteer work in the community should call the Human Services Center at Ext. 397. The center is located in Stephenson Gymnasium and its staff include: Dr. Adelaide Cherry, director; Mary S. Patton, educational director; and Joy Jay, secretary-receptionist.

SGA typing service available

The SGA now has a typing service available for students. If you need typing services contact the SGA office. The SGA will contact a qualified typist who will type your papers, at the current cost of typing.

Service sponsored by the SGA. Call Ext. 246 and Ext. 328, or drop by the Student Commons Building, 4th Floor.

Hey, thanks again students! I can't tell you how good it makes me feel to see that you're beginning to get involved in school. We've gotten letters, phone calls, and people have been dropping by to let us know what they're thinking, how they feel about various campus issues. It's great. I've received letters from many of you telling me what you like to read, don't like to read, and what you would like to see in upcoming issues. This gives me an insight as to what goes to print each week. Plus, I love to read your letters.

troversy, some of the editorials (including my own) and in general, just observed JSU activity. At the end of the day, he told me, "You know, this school, if everyone worked together instead of against each other, could be one of the nation's top colleges in its class." I told him that our student body was a cooperative one, and also very responsive. I told him that the students work very well with the campus organizations, and vice-versa. But what he replied made me stop and think a moment. He said, "Yes, but do the campus organizations work very well with the other campus organizations, or do they spend their time defending themselves from criticisms launched at them from those same organizations?"

I had to be honest and tell him that I hadn't given it much thought, but that he was right about one thing: we certainly have the potential to be one of the leading schools in the nation (my Jax State patriotism was obviously showing by this time).

But I realized that organizations many times worry about other groups' work more than their own, this is human nature. Even some people that work for these various school organizations spend half their time childishy pot-shooting other school workers. You see, I have to give the other workers (in any organizations) the benefit of the doubt, the doubt being that perhaps they are as new at their job as I am mine. I figure that many of us are sort of "practicing" for similar work on the outside (that sort of sounds like I'm referring to a prison, even though I'm not, doesn't it?). For example, I read a student letter the other day strongly criticizing the personnel of the school radio station, WLJS-FM. Now I'm not getting down on Linda

Parker or anything like that. Miss Parker had some valid points. But those guys over there, just like the people that work for the SGA, JSU athletics, the Chanticleer, etc., etc., for the most part, are just learning and many of them do it for nothing . . . no pay, no recognition . . . nothing. So I have to allow for mistakes and shortcomings, because we're all going to make them sooner or later. We can't be as perfect as professional DJs, professional athletes, professional politicians, or anything like that. But I do believe this: those people are the best there is as far as college-level goes, and no school in the nation could possibly have the loyalty and dedication we enjoy from our workers.

The point is this: the campus organizations need to work with each other; the school would fail without them. And we can, if we just will. The Waylon Jennings concert proved that we could. Now that we have a little student support, the students are going to need some support soon. I propose a JSU Court of Appeals for Unsatisfactory Final Grades. What do you think?

I'm really glad student support is improving, though. It makes me feel good all over. I also appreciate your letters and interest in the paper. Now let's see about getting together and making JSU the school it can be. Who knows, maybe someday Jax State will be in the Ivy League. I noticed some ivy beginning to grow up the side of Bibb Graves just the other day . . .

Here's the answer!

Q: My friend tells me that Melissa Manchester, who does the song, "Don't Cry Out Loud," used to work with Paul Simon. Is this true?—Jim Gilroy, New Orleans, La.

A: Melissa Manchester never worked with Paul Simon on a professional basis, but she did study songwriting with him at New York University several years ago, when Simon was conducting classes there.

"Paul was a sympathetic and supportive figure," says Melissa. "He taught me that the important thing about performing or writing was to get one's authenticity, to express oneself in a way one considers true and special."

Less than a year later, she was singing as a solo act at a small club in New York and went on to become one of Bette Midler's backup singers, a job that got her to the stage of New York City's Carnegie Hall for the first time. Her stay there lasted only six months before she struck out on her own.

Melissa has written most of her own hit songs, including "Midnight Blue," but strangely enough, she didn't write her latest hit. "Don't Cry Out Loud" was penned by Peter Allen and Carole Bayer Sager, a longtime collaborator of Melissa's.

Q: I know this sounds strange but I've only recently become a fan of blues guitarist B. B. King. Can you tell me how long he's been recording? What was his first hit?—Timothy White, Seattle, Wash.

A: Although B. B. King is known best these days for contemporary hits like "To Know You Is To Love You" and "The Thrill Is Gone," he's been making records since 1949. His first hit, in 1951, was "3 O'Clock Blues."

King has always been popular with black audiences, but in the mid-1960s he was discovered by white rock audiences and served as an inspiration to such guitarists as Eric Clapton, Jimmy Page of Led Zeppelin and Mike Bloomfield. Many of his classic early blues performances were recorded on the Kent label before he moved to ABC Records.

Q: My local radio station plays a great Bruce Springsteen song called "Fever," and I'd really like to get a copy of it. The trouble is, I don't see the song on any of his albums. Is it a single? Where can I find it?—Lee Stone, Mobile.

A: "Fever" has proven to be one of Springsteen's more popular songs, and people often shout for it at his concerts. It doesn't appear on record, though. Springsteen and the E Street Band cut the song in the studio but never intended for it to be released. A tape of "Fever" slipped out to a radio station and it was only a matter of time before bootlegged tapes of the song were being played in several cities.

At first, the song wasn't even included in Springsteen's live set, but the popularity of the song was such that he now slips it in occasionally.

Cheryl Lynn not gonged

Cheryl Lynn's Success Story

To win The Gong Show, one of television's more bizarre shows, might be considered a dubious distinction. For Cheryl Lynn, it was the beginning of a career that has already seen her debut single sell over a million copies, with her album, "Got To Be Real" following close behind.

Cheryl won the Gong Show in September 1976, collecting the maximum possible 30 points from judges Rex Reed, Elke Sommer and J. P. Morgan. In view of Cheryl's current success, Rex Reed described her, with prescience, "singers with gold records can't do half as well as Cheryl Lynn." Some time later, Chuck Barris, producer and host of the show, wrote in a newspaper article that of the 4,000 acts he'd seen, Cheryl Lynn's was the all time great.

But for the lady in question, the praise and compliments were being taken with a grain of salt. "I'd actually done the show in June," explained Cheryl. "As far as I was concerned, didn't believe it," said the new star, "but they said they had record companies, producers, managers, agents. All I had to do was pick and choose."

Cheryl greeted the news of her success with a disbelief typical for her. Listening to the story of her life, it's quickly apparent that were it not for the constant prodding of one Delbert Langston, now her co-manager, Cheryl Lynn would have pursued a career as a speech clinician, working with children suffering from speech defects.

"I was brought up in the church, so my musical background is gospel, but music was just a hobby, nothing more," she said. "At high school and later in college, I was convinced that the only way I'd be successful was if I studied. Delbert was someone I knew from when I was a kid in school, and he was always pushing me.

"Before he started on me, I never believed that my voice was anything special," continued Cheryl. "He got me to join a little group he had in high school that lasted audition for The Gong Show with little enthusiasm.

"That guy—he really is a nice guy—he knows me so well," said Cheryl laughing. "Other people would have said, 'You can do it, you can win.' Delbert told me if I didn't get the 30 points, we were through. That's all I thought about, getting 30."

Describing their relationship as "close, very close," it's apparent that whatever Svengali overtones there might seem to be between Delbert and Cheryl, the relationship is based on love and caring. "It's funny, the way he's pushed me and watched out for me, I'd never have done half of what I've done if he hadn't," she said.

Or half of what is to come. The success of that debut single and album has meant a possible trip to Europe in the near future to promote her records there, television appearance, a second album to be recorded this spring and a tour later this year.

Once again, ROD STEWART stays on top of the bunch with the smash disco hit, "Do You Think I'm Sexy?" The POINTER SISTERS climb from last week's fourth spot to number two this week, while OLIVIA NEWTON-JOHN holds out at number three. GLORIA GAYNOR moves up one spot to fill the fourth space with "I Will Survive." Surprisingly, the VILLAGE PEOPLE dropped three spots, from number two to number five, their claim to fame of course being "YMCA." BEE GEES do it once again, after only three weeks on the charts. "Tragedy" moved from number 19 to number 5. CHIC'S "Le Freak" holds at eight, and BARRY MANILOW'S "Somewhere In The Night" freezes out the ninth spot.

Also, LEIF GARRETT makes no moves from the number ten spot. As a matter of fact, looking down the chart, many of the songs are not moving up or down. New entries include "Watch Out for Lucy" (ERIC CLAPTON), "Love Ballad" (GEORGE BENSON), "Roxanne" (POLICE), "This Is It" (DAN HARTMAN), and "Heartaches" (BTO).

In album action, nothing much happened. The BEE GEES have moved to the number two spot after only two weeks on the charts. (See, I told y'all that was a darn good LP.). GLORIA GAYNOR has finally entered the top ten in LPs with her new "Love Tracks" album after only weeks on the charts. Also, PINK FLOYD went from 193 to 192 after 247 weeks on the charts.

Horatio Gutierrez is in B'ham

Horatio Gutierrez, who is among the ranks of the world's great pianists, will perform with the Birmingham Symphony Orchestra on Thursday, March 8, and Friday, March 9. Under the direction of Amerigo Marino, both concerts will begin at 8 p.m. in the Birmingham - Jefferson Civic Center Concert Hall. Tickets for the concerts are available at the Birmingham Symphony Office (326-0100), located at 2114 1st Ave., N., Birmingham, 35203.

Born in Havana, Cuba, Horatio Gutierrez appeared as guest soloist with the Havana Symphony Orchestra at the age of 11. He moved to Los Angeles with his family in 1962, and in 1967 he became an American citizen. Gutierrez won first prize in the 1967 San Francisco Symphony auditions and received a silver medal at the Tchaikovsky Competition in Moscow; he was the only contestant to give special recitals in Moscow and Leningrad immediately following the competition.

In addition to his appearances on major American recital stages and with most of the leading orchestras, Horatio Gutierrez' tours of Europe, Israel, South America, and the USSR, have all been critically acclaimed and have brought immediate invitations to return.

On the program for the Birmingham Symphony performances March 8 and 9 will be "Im Sommerwind" by Webern and Scriabin's "Poem of Ecstasy." Concert No. 2 by Brahms will be played by Gutierrez and the Symphony.

A graduate of the Julliard School of Music, Gutierrez is married to Patricia Asher, also a pianist. The music critic of the Los Angeles Times wrote, "his name is Horatio Gutierrez. You won't forget it."

The following is a weekly service provided for the students so that he-she will know what the weekly movies shown at the Student Commons are all about. Titles can often be misleading, and some of the best movies on film have some boring - sounding names. So now you can decide what movies you want to see before you make the trip over there, and you won't have to try to make a pre-judgement as to the merit of the film on the basis of the title. You can't judge a film by its title any easier than you can judge a book by its cover.

DR. ZHIVAGO
Shown March 6

In his novel Dr. Zhivago, which earned him the Nobel Prize, Boris Pasternak wrote of his country and its violent years of revolution with love and great sorrow. In his magnificent film of the novel, director David Lean has flung onto the screen both the chaos and the compassion — the devastation of history's rush and its splintering effect on the people caught up in it. Novel and film are in reality an enormous disguised poem whose setting is the Russian Revolution against which a highly personal love story is told. Stars Omar Sharif, Julie Christie, and Rod Steiger. Rated PG.

RETURN OF THE DRAGON

The amazingly talented Bruce Lee has captured the attention of millions of people all over the world. He died at the age of 32 in July, 1973. The master is dead but his legend lives on. Bruce Lee is back in the fantastic all new adventures of the super hero in RETURN OF THE DRAGON. The adventure takes place in Rome, where Lee is a country bumpkin, his boyish grin hiding his deadly talents until forced into action. You see the battle of the Martial Arts Kings. Bruce Lee vs. Chuck Norris, seven times World Karate Champion. They meet in Rome's spectacular Coliseum and like gladiators of the past face each other in a fight to the death. Bruce Lee is still the respected King of Kung Fu and his own personal magic sets this film apart from the others. Directed by Bruce Lee, stars Bruce Lee and Chuck Norris. Rated R.

WHAT'S UP, DOC?
Shown March 8

An uproarious farce of unadulterated and sustained laughter, WHAT'S UP, DOC? is reminiscent of the screwball comedies of the '30s. Barbara Streisand is an eccentric girl with an encyclopedia mind and enough idiosyncracies to make your head swim. Ryan O'Neal is an absent-minded professor of musicology at a convention with a traveling case of primitive rocks. Together, they're dynamite. WHAT'S UP DOC? is a beautiful piece of movie story-telling. Director Peter Bogdanovich has delivered a G-rated nutty and romantic comedy in fond and meticulous tribute to the great screwball comedies of the Hollywood '30s. It's light, it's foolish . . . Stars Ryan O'Neal and Barbara Striesand. Rated G.

Season closing for ladies' basketball

By JEFF HUBBARD

Last November, JSU women's basketball Coach Ron Akers said his team would have to be twice as good as last year's to equal the 1977-78 team's 19-8 mark. Well, they may just be. The Lady Gamecocks concluded the 1978-79 regular season with 18-4 record. They repeated as champions of the Northern Division of the AIAW with a 9-1 record. After participating in the state tournament at Troy this past week, the Lady Gamecocks will host the AIAW Region 3 Tournament March 8-10.

The regular season started on a sour note when Shorter College rolled into Jacksonville and blasted Jax State 78-64. But that loss was only a prelude for 11 straight victories including triumphs over Troy State (twice), Talladega (twice), Stillman, West Georgia, Shorter, UAH, Judson, Livingston and Alabam A&M. The Lady Gamecocks stumbled twice after that, losing to Berry College and Tuskegee before regaining their winning form with victories over UNA, Alabama A&M, and Judson. Then came a disappointing road loss to UNA followed by four season-ending victories over tough Berry, UAH, Livingston and Stillman. Most impressive was a 109-43 romp over Livingston.

Some top individuals this season include: Felicia scorer with a 14.7 mean per game. She was an accurate shooter, hitting 50 percent from the field and 80 percent from the charity stripe.

Sophomore, Vickie Holmes from Canton, Ga., ran the show from her point guard position, dishing out 132 assists while averaging 12.0 points per game. Holmes was the team's best shooter, connecting on 60 percent of her shots. She led the team in steals with 74.

Freshman Willene Chatfield was the leading rebounder, averaging 9.5 missed shots per game. She also scored an 11.5 clip per game.

Coach Akers considered these players his "big three." But three players don't win basketball games. It takes the entire team. Players such as Kathy Burge, Mary Ellen Gill, Karen Mitchell, Sharon Armour, Ann Tillman, Cheryl Van Pelt, Jill Collins, Gail Umphery, Pat Price, and Theresa Davis always managed to come up with a key basket, free throw, rebound or steal to help the team to victory.

On March 8-10, JSU will host the AIAW Region 3 women's basketball tournament. This tournament will consist of the top two women's teams from Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi and Florida. The Jax State Lady Gamecocks

Season ends for men's basketball

Jax State's hopes for a berth in NCAA Division II playoffs were ended Feb. 24 when the Gamecocks lost to UNA for the second time this year, 86-74.

The Lions of UNA simply took it to the 'Cocks from the beginning on when they jumped out to a 12-2 lead in the first half and shot 61 percent from the field to Jax State's 48.6 percent.

High scorer for the Gamecocks was senior Bob Clements with 20 points and 12 rebounds. Dexter Coleman and Todd Smyly followed in the scoring with 10 points each, Tommy Bonds got eight, Larry Blair, also a senior put in a big 14 points, and Al Lankford and Ronald Towns had six each.

This was the last game of the season and Head Coach Bill Jones' comments on the game were somewhat to be expected.

"We have nothing to be ashamed of. Sometimes it's good enough and sometimes, it's not. I'm well pleased with this team but I'm not satisfied."

This was the last game of the season and also the last game for three seniors' college careers here at Jacksonville State. Those seniors are Robert Clements, Larry Blair and Bruce Sherrer.

Women's tennis team chalk up first home win

The Jacksonville State University women's tennis team opened their home tennis season with a 9-0 victory over Alabama A&M University.

The results of the match are as follows:

Number 1, Michelle Bland defeated Dew and Davis, 6-1, 6-2; Number 2, Aileen Finley (JSU), defeated Felecia King, 6-0, 6-1; Number 3, Schuyler Patterson (JSU), defeated Devonne Ford 7-5, 4-6, 6-2; Number 4 Vanessa Churchwell (JSU), defeated Lola Bryant, 6-2, 6-1; Number 5, Dianne Stewart (JSU), defeated Parisgene Marks, 6-1, 6-0; Number 6, Lori Howell (JSU), defeated Jacqueline Law, 6-1, 6-0.

In doubles, it was No. 1 Bland and Churchwell over Davis and Ford 6-4, 6-2; No. 2 Patterson and Finley overpowering Marks and Law 6-2, 6-2; and No. 3 Stewart and Howell defeating Bryant and King 6-2, 6-4.

courts at the conclusion in front of a small crowd of spectators. Our team won with an unblemished 10-0 record over Snead.

Winning in singles in order of their seeding were Terry Turner, Jackie Turner, Steve Machen (last week the paper said Nachen), Robert Marman, Dave West, Benji Spann and Dennis Bryant. The winning doubles teams also in order of seeds, were Machen-Marman, Spann-West and Taormina-Holliday (correction: an earlier issue had Toormado). Each match was won in straight sets. Jim Beam and Dennis Bryant of Jacksonville also played an exhibition doubles match.

Other matches played last week were Shorter College played here, and Auburn University, Montgomery, at Montgomery. Scores and details on those matches will be in the next Chanticleer.

We also have a new addition to the courts. We have a group of girls to chart the matches for scores and errors and winners. So far, this group consists of Laura Jackson, Mary Seeds, Beth Harvel, Janet Russell, Donna Nancarrow, Dana Lingerfelt, Linda Spitzer and Susan Chancellor. If you're a girl interested in helping, contact Coach Roswal or Jerry Giles for information. We could use several more since classes interfere with some of the matches.

The next match was against Huntingdon. We were enjoying a five to nothing match score lead when the event was called by rain. The winners that day were Turner, J. Turner, S. Machen, R. Marman by default, and Dave West, Benji Spann was tied 4-4 in the first set when the match was called. Of the matches played everyone won in straight sets except Dave West who beat his opponent 6-2 in the third set. Auburn at Montgomery was scheduled for Friday but called also because of rain. JSU announces two coaching changes Jacksonville State University announced a pair of coaching changes here Saturday.

Frank Vohun was hired as offensive line coach while Bill Shaw, defensive coordinator at Jax State, resigned to take a job as defensive line coach at a major college to be announced later.

Vohun, who coached two years at Eastern Kentucky before coming to Jax State, replaces Greg Mantooth as JSU's line coach. Mantooth resigned earlier along with Bobby Marcum (secondary) to join Watson Brown's staff at Austin Peay. Brown was JSU's offensive coordinator in 1976 and 1977 before being named coach at Austin Peay this past January.

The new staff will have Vohun joining another new coach, Jack White, on the offensive staff with Jerry Beach stepping up to head the defense in place of Shaw. Beach will continue to coach the linebackers and ends while Fuller will coach the defensive tackles and nose guards until a replacement is hired this summer. Dyer Carlisle, who coached the offensive backs last fall, will move to the secondary to replace Marcum.

"We wanted to hire Frank last year," head Coach Jim Fuller said in announcing the addition of Vohun to the staff, "but things didn't work out. We're happy to have him join our staff. Frank is noted as a fine recruiter."

Shaw, who headed up the Gamecocks' defensive unit the past two years, will be missed according to Fuller. "Bill came in last week and told me about a couple of offers from major colleges and decided to make a move. He did a great job for us and I want to wish him the best."

Vohun is married to the former Ellen DeVore and they have one son, Brent (2). Vohun, who played football at Florida State, coached three years at Valdosta High School before working as a graduate assistant at Florida State two years. He played offensive and defensive tackle at Florida State. He was a first lieutenant in the military for two years prior to starting his coaching career.

Lady gymnasts take Eastern Kentucky

By KATHY SHEEHY

On the afternoon of Saturday, Feb. 24, the JSU Women's Gymnastics Team competed with Eastern Kentucky University here on campus in the Stephenson Gymnasium.

EKU was known to have a strong team, and it was predicted that the final outcome of the competition would favor the winners by only a small margin. But this was not to be the case. Susan Puckett, Jacksonville's All-American, was back in action after missing two meets while recovering from an ankle sprain, and Cindy Frank, who has only recently begun to compete again since injuring her foot during the first half of the season, was there to perform her uneven bars and balance beam routines. This, along with the combined efforts of all the other excellent gymnasts on the JSU squad, helped lead the home team to a proud 130.35 to 124.20 victory.

Vaulting was dominated by Jacksonville, and freshmen Lynn Bruce and Linda Gordon placed first and second in the event with scores of 8.55 and 8.4. Each used a handspring with a full twist, and in each case the afterflight was so high that the vault seemed to linger in the air forever before finally returning to earth. Behne of Eastern Kentucky came in third with an 8.25, only a fraction ahead of JSU's Leslie Hill and Susan Puckett who tied for fourth with an 8.2. Jacksonville's Kathy Balk scored an 8.05 for fifth place.

Uneven parallel bars was the magic event of the day for Jacksonville. "The girls performed better on bars in this meet than they have all year," commented Coach Robert Dillard. One by one they approached the apparatus, and each time the results were the same; another near-perfect routine. No one scored below an 8.0, and the top three places went to members of the JSU team. Freshman Linda Gordon received the highest honors when the judges awarded her a well-deserved 8.75. Cindy Frank (8.65) and Leslie Hill (8.55) had the second and third place exercises with Behne of EKU coming in fourth. Jacksonville's Susan Puckett (8.4) was fifth, and Lynn Bruce had an 8.25 for sixth place.

After two events, Jacksonville led the meet with a score of 67.7, comfortably ahead of EKU's 62.8.

For several members of each team, the balance beam lived up to its reputation of being a difficult event as falls were numerous and the point range was generally lower. One of the chosen few who did manage to stay on was JSU freshman Lisa Santucci, the co-winner of the event. Spencer of EKU joined Lisa in scoring a 7.95, three tenths of a point ahead of Behne (EKU-7.65), the third place winner. Fourth, fifth and sixth all went to JSU gymnasts, Lynn Bruce (7.6), Cindy Frank (7.3), and Leslie Hill (7.25).

Jacksonville and Eastern Kentucky each had a few dynamic, well-choreographed floor exercise routines, and while Mike King, the JSU team's expert pianist, played their music, the Jacksonville women tumbled into two of the top three positions. Spencer of EKU had the highest score (8.45) just ahead of JSU's Susan Puckett (8.35). There was a tie for third between Leslie Hill (JSU-8.3) and Goode (EKU-8.3) with Miles and Behne, each from EKU, finishing fourth and fifth with scores of 8.2 and 8.05. One of Jacksonville's key performers, Linda Gordon, was injured during this event as she became the unlucky recipient of a sprained ankle during the first pass of her routine and was forced to conclude the exercise at that point thus eliminating her

Spring training begins at JSU

Jacksonville State University head football Coach Jim Fuller and his revamped coaching staff will attempt to plug eight holes in its offensive unit and six on defense when the Gamecocks kick off spring football drills here Monday afternoon.

Fuller and his staff will have 36 days to work in 20 practice dates this spring. Jax State expects to climax spring drills with its annual J-Night Game on April 7.

"Due to the fact that we have almost a new staff, we need more than 20 days to build a team," Fuller said when asked about the situation at a press conference Saturday, "but this is all the time we are allotted."

The revamped staff Fuller will direct this spring will have Fuller coaching the defensive line, Jerry Beach the ends and linebackers, and Dyer Carlisle the secondary on defense. Fuller hopes to hire a defensive line coach to replace Bill Shaw, who resigned this past week to take a position at a major university to be announced later. Carlisle coached the offensive backs last year. Beach will become JSU's new defensive coordinator. The offensive staff will have new coaches Frank Vohun, coaching the offensive line, and Jack White the offensive backs. White will also serve as offensive coordinator. Graduate assistants Larry Crowe and Johnny Hammett will assist with the receivers and offensive line respectively.

The biggest holes Fuller will have to fill are

JSU men gymnasts anticipate national win

By KATHY SHEEHY

In the NAIA, the Jacksonville State University men's gymnastics team is at the time of this writing ranked third in the United States, and it is with this rating that they entered the National Championships on March 2-3 in Stout, Wisc. Several team members were to be expected to place, if not win, in certain events.

Mark Lee, a JSU sophomore, began the competition with the record of having scored the highest All-Around total in the nation this year, and he, along with sophomore Jeff Robinson and junior Steve Martin, hold the position of having the top vaulting score. Senior Dave Hollowell has the chance to be one of the top three parallel bar men in the country. The results of this competition will appear in next week's Chanticleer.

On Feb. 17, the team traveled to Nashville for a dual meet with David Lipscomb College, the nation's number two team, and did an excellent job, having lost the competition by only one point. The final team scores were David Lipscomb 189.60, JSU 188.60.

Jacksonville dominated five of the six events by capturing two of the top three spots on each apparatus except the Rings.

JSU's Steve Martin won floor exercise with an 8.95 followed by James Del Rio (David Lipscomb-8.85) and Mark Lee (JSU-8.8).

Mark Lee's 7.35 won Pommel Horse and Jeff Robinson (JSU-7.3) came in second. DLC's David Frazier scored a 6.65 for third.

The David Lipscomb men led the scoring on rings as they occupied the top three positions. Tim Richards (9.0) was first, Kit Bunger (8.9) second, and John Dunn (8.85) third. Carl Bollinger was the high scorer in this event for Jacksonville and received an 8.35.

Vaulting may be classified as Jacksonville's best event for the men averaging a score of 9.1. DC's Tim Richards took first place with a 9.35 followed by Steve Martin (JSU-9.3) and Mark Lee (JSU-9.15).

On parallel bars, DLC's Ron Murray received the highest score of 8.85. Dave Hollowell, a very strong P-bar worker from JSU, placed second (8.4) and Mark Lee (JSU-8.05) was third.

Jacksonville's Steve Martin was awarded an 8.65 and first place on high bar, the last event of the evening. Kit Bunger (DLC-8.5) was second and JSU's Mark Lee (8.35) was third.

The All-Around results were as follows: first, Mark Lee (JSU-48.70); second, Kit Bunger (DLC-47.7); third, Richard Matthews (DLC-42.95); fourth, Ted Zeringue (JSU-42.75); fifth, Steve Martin (JSU-41.05); and sixth, Phil Wortman (JSU-40.10).

On Feb. 24, the JSU men's team competed in a tri-meet with Eastern Kentucky University and Memphis State University here in Stephenson Gym. Jacksonville (189.45) finished second to Memphis (196.95) and ahead of Kentucky (161.00).

Jeff Robinson (JSU-9.45) won the vaulting event with his milehigh handspring full. Second was MSU's Forrest Fix (9.25) and JSU's Carl Bollinger and Mark Lee tied for third with a 9.1. Carl used a handspring full vault and Mark used his piked Tsukahara.

Forrest Fix (9.0) won floor exercise ahead of Mark Lee (8.9) and third place co-winners Steve Martin (JSU) and Gary Wilson (MSU) each of whom scored 8.8.

Mark Lee (8.15) won Pommel Horse and Turasaki (MSU-7.25) was second. There was a tie for third between Gary Wilson and Jeff Robinson (7.1).

Jacksonville failed to place in the top three on rings as Memphis proved to be the more efficient team in this event. Gary Wilson (MSU-9.1) was first followed by Vall (8.8) and Fix (9.55). Watson was the highest scorer for ECU in this event with an 8.15, and Mark Lee's 7.95 led the JSU team.

Mark Lee won the parallel bars event with an 8.6 and MSU's David Lane (8.45) was second. There was a third place tie between Dave Hollowell (JSU) and Gary Wilson (MSU) as they each scored 8.35.

High bar was the only apparatus on which each of the three teams occupied a spot in the top three. MSU's Dick Mason (9.1) was first, Watson (8.65) of ECU second, and Steve Martin (8.5) came in third for JSU.

Mark Lee was the only person not from Memphis to place in the All-Around, and he won the competition with a 51.15 total. Gary Wilson and David Lane came in second and third with scores of 48.8 and 48.05.

where the Gamecocks lost the likes of quarterback Bobby Ray Green, running back Pat Clements (dropped out of school), tight end Butch Barker, split end Donald Young, guards Dale Adams and Marty Hanson, and center Johnny Hammett. Barker made All-America last year while Green and Young broke almost every passing combination record in the JSU fact book.

Key losses on defense include All-America Jesse Baker (tackle), Merrill Dillard (tackle), Bo Emerson (safety), defensive back Sherwin Sledge, and Tommy Macon (end).

"I'm really looking forward to spring training," Fuller said. "There is no way to solve all our problems this spring, but we're going to try. Our first two weeks will be devoted entirely to working with individuals and then, we hope to get into some team stuff."

Lady Gamecocks fourth in state

JSU-Troy, 51-79

JSU had their dominance over Troy State stopped in the 1979 AIAW State Tournament at Troy when the Lady Trojans handed the Lady Gamecocks a 79-51 thrashing.

TSU and JSU swapped baskets for the first eight minutes, then Troy went on a scoring spree, outscoring Jacksonville 35-12 to take a 49-27 halftime advantage.

Troy's scoring blast wasn't due to sloppy defense, but 63 percent shooting from the field and 93 percent from the free throw time. "We fouled entirely too much, but we didn't commit stupid fouls," said Coach Ron Akers. "They would drive the baseline and we had to foul them (Monroe and Jones) to stop a cheap basket taking the half 30-24. Defense was the key in the second half with Troy.

For the game, Troy hit 29 of 33 from the foul line while JSU hit four of eight at the stripe.

The loss dropped Jax State into the consolation bracket with a 19-5 mark heading into Saturday's game with Alabama State at 2 p.m. Karen Mitchell led JSU with 16 points and Felicia Kendrick added 12. Mitchell also pulled down 10 rebounds.

Alabama State 90
Jax State 77

Willene Chatfield's school record 36 points wasn't enough as JSU dropped their second straight game in the state tourney, 90-77 to the Alabama State Hornets.

The Lady Hornets jumped out to a 27-18 lead before JSU used a full count press to take a 50-41 lead at halftime.

An important factor in the game was foul shots where Bama State hit 13 of 14 in the first half and 20 of 26 in the second half to ice the win. That with a JSU offensive collapse sealed the ladies fate.

Willene Chatfield scored a school record 36 points, but it was offset by State's Willodean Harris and Alfreida Abernathy who had 34 and 18 respectively. Jacksonville opens up in AIAW Region 3 play March 7 here against Berry.

Don't forget the regional tournament for women's basketball March 7-10.

some team stuff.
 "We don't plan any major changes on offense or defense, but we are going to put a lot of emphasis on our running game, which was one of our big weaknesses last year."

chances for a place in the All-Around.

The All-Around totals were fairly close with Behne of EKV winning the meet by way of a final 32.45 point accumulation. There was a tie for second between JSU's Leslie Hill and Lynn Bruce, each with a 32.3, and JSU's Susan Puckett finished third (31.7).

JSU freshman sensation Susan Balk, the All-Around champion of the Mid-South Invitational, met one week earlier did not participate in this competition. She fell victim to an unfortunate traffic accident a few days before and is presently recuperating in an Anniston hospital. We here at the Chanticleer would like to join in wishing Susan a speedy recovery and are looking forward to seeing her back in action next season.

match was Snead State Junior College which we won 10-0. Alabama A&M faced us Wednesday only to lose 8-1 against our netmen. The only loss was a tough three set match to Dave West at No. 5 seed. Winners were Terry Turner (6-4 in the third set), Jackie Turner, Steve Machen, Robert Marman (in three sets) and Benji Spann in singles. All three doubles teams were winners: Turner-Turner, Machen-Marman and McClanahan-Spann.

We're looking forward to an exciting season and we'd really appreciate your support so come out and back up your team.

men and sophomores on the squad.

Top returnees include outfielders Ray Brock and Jerome Coleman. Brock, a punter for JSU's football team, won the GSC and national homer title last year with 15 as a freshman while Coleman, a freshman last year also, won the conference batting title with a .407 batting average.
