HUD approves $950,000 for dorm renovations

By JANA MOON

Jacksonville State University has been awarded $950,000 in a low interest, long-term loan for energy conservation according to U. S. Sen. Donald Stewart.

The loan will be paid back over a 40-year period and will come from Title IV money from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

According to Charles Rowe, vice-president for Financial Affairs, Jacksonville State University has not been officially notified from HUD.

Rowe said that the money will be used for renovations of Daugette, Abercrombie, Pannell, Glazner, Logan, Patterson, Luttrell, Weatherly, Rowan, Crow, Dixon, Curtis and Sally dormitories. The renovations will include better insulation in the walls, ceilings, roofs and windows, and better electrical circuits in order to conserve energy.

The amount of money saved for energy will pay back the loan. Jacksonville State had to prove to HUD that the renovations would save at least the amount of the loan in 40 years.

Originally, JSU had requested an additional million for the construction of a new dormitory, but apparently that was not approved by HUD.

New system planned for financial aid

By JANA MOON

Due to the new pre-registration system, financial aid will have to be turned in and processed much earlier than before.

Students requesting financial aid need to have all their paper work in by Nov. 1 for the spring semester. In fact, the Basic Educational Opportunity Grant (BEOG) needs to have been processed by Nov. 1. Allow at least six weeks for the BEOG to be processed. Students who plan on requesting the Federally Insured Student Loan Program need to apply at least one month before bills are due which is Jan. 2. Students who were awarded a BEOG or any other financial aid for the entire 1979-80 school year need not re-apply for the spring semester.

Students need to send in Need Analysis forms now. Work-study and campus jobs will not be affected by pre-registration.

According to Larry Smith, director of Financial Aid, the new pre-registration system is that students will get financial aid checks earlier, hopefully, the day after classes begin.

If the student has not received his financial aid letter by the time of regular registration, he should wait until open registration to register unless he is able to pay and can wait to be reimbursed.

Students will go ahead and register for decals for their cars during the spring pre-registration and pick up their decals the beginning of fall.

Fist fight results in stabbing

A fist fight between two male students in the Student Commons Pool Room Friday afternoon, October 5, resulted in a third student's being stabbed. The combatants, both students, began to fight and were soon joined by a fellow classmate who had taken sides.

Another student, choosing the opposite side, decided to join the fray. This apparently was a mistake, for he was stabbed twice in the back by one of the brawlers.

Once the fight was ended, the third student, who had tried to help, had to be taken to the Emergency Room of the Jacksonville Hospital where he was treated and released.

Campus police asked that no names be released inasmuch as they are still investigating the incident.

Homecoming ‘79 brings JSU’s first annual bed race

By N. KARLOVICH-SMITH
JSU’s taste of moonlight “badness” will take place Tuesday, Oct. 30, at 8 p.m., when beds each adorned with two JSU women and pushed by three JSU men will speed down the designated race route near the Pete Mathews Coliseum. The five-member teams will compete for first, second, and third-place finishing prizes of $75, $50, and $35. A trophy will be awarded to the most original entry. Co-sponsored by the Homecoming Committee and Circle K, the event is open to any organization or individual. Entry blanks and a $5 entrance fee need to be turned in to the SGA Office in the Student Commons Building by 4 p.m., Oct. 23. According to Darrell Craven, Homecoming Committee chairperson, the event was planned as a result of the good response to a similar event witnessed by President Gus Pantazis.

By JANA MOON
During the Student Government Association (SGA) meeting Monday, Oct. 8, the senators passed a motion allocating $37,505 for the homecoming concert on Tuesday, Oct. 30.

Atlanta Rhythm Section (ARS) and Hotel are the bands for the concert. The SGA will spend $11,000 for ARS, $15,000 for Hotel and $7,500 for production costs.

In other action, Jason Williams proposed a motion to allocate $700 for a stereo system in the Gamecock Cafeteria. The motion passed.

President Gus Pantazis reported that he and Dr. Adelaide Cherry discussed the Interclub Council and decided to set up a Board of Directors on Oct. 26. Dr. Cherry also suggested an orientation for all organizations during Freshmen Orientation in fall and spring and the provision be written into the constitution requiring all organizations to approve all events through the SGA. This would help to coordinate activities on campus.

The SGA also discussed the possibility of a legal service on campus and a bike-rental program.

It was announced that the two-day boxing tournament will be held during spring semester. Class rings will be sold the first Wednesday of every month on the second floor of the Student Commons Building and in the SGA office every school day. The Gamecock Cafeteria will have a Halloween dress-up contest on Oct. 31.

What will happen to Abercrombie & Pannell Hall?

Jacksonville State University, along with five other Alabama universities, is in the process of trying to save money. The Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has awarded Jacksonville State $950,000 for rehabilitating existing dormitories according to U. S. Sen. Donald Stewart. The University of Montevallo received $1,189,000; Tuskegee received $950,000; the University of Alabama in Huntsville received $2,735,000; Troy State University received $767,000; and Alabama A&M received $1,189,000.

The renovation of old dormitories and the construction of new dormitories will help to ease the overcrowding. The University of Alabama at Huntsville's dormitories could easily be converted into male or female residences. JSU has awarded Jacksonville State $2,735,000; and Alabama A&M received $1,189,000. These three million dollars will be used for the building of new dormitories at the universities. Another three million dollars was requested for the building of new dormitories according to U. S. Sen. Abercrombie & Pannell, Glazner, Logan, Patesen, Lutrell, Weatherly, Rowan, Crow, Dixen, Curtis and Salis will lower the power bill considerably.

The administration is trying, but it seems like they just can't get any help. They have got to get a low interest loan on the average of $50,000 for one month. The renovation of the dormitories at the University of Montevallo will take 4 years of labor and $2,735,000; Tuskegee received $950,000; the University of Alabama in Huntsville received $2,735,000; Troy State University received $767,000; and Alabama A&M received $1,189,000.

The renovation is desperately needed due to the fact that a monthly power bill for JSU on the average runs $50,000 for one month. The renovation of the dormitories at the University of Montevallo will take 4 years of labor and $2,735,000; Tuskegee received $950,000; the University of Alabama in Huntsville received $2,735,000; Troy State University received $767,000; and Alabama A&M received $1,189,000.

The fall classic

By MIKE MOON

There is something about the first of October that makes it one of the nicest times of the year. Not the coming of cool weather, or the beauty of the turning leaves, or football, and certainly not elections, but the coming of the fall classic.

Now is the time that Americans truly turn to the national past time as the two best teams in baseball meet in anticipation of the usual outstanding halftime. This has resulted in many a disgruntled student who chose to forego popcorn and Coke in anticipation of the usual outstanding halftime.

One will recall that, with the revitalized Paul Snow Stadium, the student section was moved to the visitor's side, which put the visitors and the with reserve seats on the home side, which meant that the side with the press box was actually the visitors' side. The students are where the visitors usually sit, thus making it look like, to an outsider, that the visitors are cheering for the uh, home team.

Or, so it would seem.

The point is if a student does not buy a reserved seat and at with the visitors, he has not to listen to "used" sound, because the visitors sitting on the home side use it before it bounces off the stands and back to the uh, student section.

Dr. David Walters, the band director, was approached about the situation. He explained that over the years, halftime shows have changed somewhat. "We used to do a lot of diamonds and things," he said, motioning his hands accordingly. "But that split up the sound. Now we play to one side." When asked why the Southerners don't face the students, he responded, "Sometimes we have to face the pressbox, because we may want to tape the band. And, I figured that the students get to see us there on Thursday nights at the pep rallies.

Apparently, news of the disgruntled students was exactly that—news to Dr. Walters. "I'm in touch with my Indians here," he said fatherly, "but I don't hear a lot from the other students."

Then he added, "I don't think it would hurt to do a show to the students. We just may consider that."

The homecoming halftime will, of course, have to face the press box.

So that leaves this Saturday's game with Newberry as the only chance the students will have to hear the Southerners' first hand. This is an awful lot to ask when one realizes how much choreography is involved with a 300 member band.

But even if the change isn't witnessed this year, one lesson has been learned. Results can be obtained through constructive criticism. If those in authority are sensitive to legitimate complaints.

"We aren't afraid to try new things out," Dr. Walters boasted. "That's why we are so far ahead of the times."
Dear Editor,

I am responding to the controversial "hot letter," written by an American on The Chanticleer's Oct. 2, 1979 edition. The highly tinted letter, written by one of the students, has a heavy impact on those of us of the "rare breed" indeed! On a scale of 1 to 10, I give that letter a for accuracy, a 2 for style and a 10 for energy. I am 31 years old, and I've never seen a "rare breed" before, since all types of breeds constitute our very government and social orders.

As for accuracy, we know the Black race want no recognition "given" to us by anyone. Recognition comes with those endeavors of our political leaders, whether at the time of the event or later in history. They, our leaders, fought for and are still fighting for our basic rights. Y'all got to us by God, and the constitution, not for recognition or even for the sake of history.

The injustice that followed was deplorable to say the least. I can still remember the Union Days of 1979, when the Black students were denied a place in the festivities. The Union Days were a fantastic group of Black musicians. Also, I am quite sure there are quite a few Black musicians on campus who excel in what they do. But the very things you criticize are part of our culture as a people. As a people we have many inventions that include social inventions such as jazz that evolved into rock, dances designed from percussion instruments, and the latest craze, "Disco dancing." Other big bands such as LSGU, Grambling State, Florida A&M, Howard University, USC, and UCLA all play jazz-inspired music. Maybe that's a possible solution.

Dear Editor,

On Sunday afternoon, if you're like the International House, you're likely to see lots of cars and many very dressed-up people. The Student American Far Eastern Association tried, to no avail, to help but they didn't have the dough. On Oct. 24, I agree with you; there's not enough participation in the AAA, but the Student Government seemed to combine the injustice of their actions and inactions.

The Marching Southerners are a fantastic group of Black musicians. Also, I am quite sure there are quite a few Black musicians on campus who excel in what they do. But the very things you criticize are part of our culture as a people. As a people we have many inventions that include social inventions such as jazz that evolved into rock, dances designed from percussion instruments, and the latest craze, "Disco dancing." JSU student receives top score on MCAT

By SHARON DAVIS

"One of my major goals is to be happy. I want to be satisfied in my job and in my family." These are the words of a friendly, vivacious, red-headed senior known to friends as Cindy. CindyWallace was raised in the country near Jasper, Alabama, and is from a family of coal miners. This past spring, she scored 9.5, the top score, on the MCAT exam. This is an all day test required before applying to Medical School.

In order to achieve this high score, she began reviewing basic science and math a few months ahead with solid studying the week prior to the test.

Anyone interested in going into medicine and dentistry should contact Dr. Fred Gant at Martin Hall.

$11,250 to be given in photo contest

Amateur photographers are eligible to compete for up to $1,500 in Nikon photographic equipment, first prize in the 5th Annual Nikon - Nutshell Photo Contest for students and faculty.

A total of 149 prizes worth $11,250 in value will be awarded in the 5th Annual Nikon - Nutshell Photo Contest now underway on college campuses for students and faculty.

The contest is sponsored jointly by Nikon cameras and Nutshell magazine—a network of educational publications distributed annually to more than one million college students.

"The purpose of the Nikon - Nutshell Photo Contest is to encourage photographers to express themselves creatively through photographs," stated Myron Charness, director of Public Relations for Nikon. "For this reason, the contest is open to faculty as well as students. There is no contest theme, no restriction on the number of photos entered, and any type of still camera may be used in the contest."

Last year's winners represented more than 150 different college, university and high school campuses.

First place winners in each of the two categories (black and white and color) will receive $1,500 in Nikon equipment. Runners-up will each win $1,000 in equipment, and third place winners receive $750 in equipment. The same top prizes will be awarded in the faculty competition which is judged separately from the student contest.

Contest entry blanks are available at participating local Nikon photo dealers or by writing Anne Littlefield, Nikon - Nutshell Photo Contest, So Market St., Knoxville, Tenn., 37902.

What is a man who five years ago dreamed of teaching and coaching in high school doing at JSU? "Teaching criminal justice courses and learning about the local area," says Bob Bohm, the new criminology instructor for the College of Criminal Justice.

Bob Bohm, new criminology instructor

Born and reared in Missouri, Bob Bohm's experiences range from correctional counseling at a county prison to the management and ownership of a pinball emporium in Kansas City, Mo.

Bohm, who attended undergraduate school at the University of Missouri and the University of Texas at Austin, will receive his PhD from Florida State University. He is now completing his dissertation which deals with theoretical perspectives viewing crime sources from economic and political viewpoints.

When asked why he entered this field, he stated, "Although I have compassion for victims of crime, I've always been interested in why and how people tick. I was disturbed by the way people are treated institutionally. Our methods of dealing with criminal offenders have not really changed in the last two hundred years. Hopefully, practical knowledge will help those with problems."

"My avocation merges with my vocation," said Bohm, when asked what he liked to do in his spare time. Evidently, from the abundance of reading materials in his office, he likes to read professional journals.

A "sports freak," he stated his present allegiance is to the Royals, a Kansas City baseball team, which he hopes would win the western division of the American league.

Bohm, who is presently teaching Introduction to Criminal Justice and Counseling Techniques in Corrections, encouraged all students concerned about crime as a social problem to take introductory courses and find out what they can do professionally or personally.

"I am a humanist. Life is worth living, and some ways of living are better for some people than others. I miss the beach in Florida, but I like the outdoors, and Cheaha is beautiful. I plan to see more of the local area," said Bohm.

The new criminal justice instructor's immediate family members seem to mirror his interest in people. His mother, a housewife, and his father, an attorney and brigadier general in the Judge Advocate Division of the U.S. Army Reserves, live in Kansas City, Mo. His brother, Rick, is a lawyer in New York, and his sister, Lori, is working on a degree in social work.

Those of you interested in the field of criminal justice may benefit from visiting Bob in his office, room 329, Brewer Hall.

Oct. 18 is the beginning of a new year for the Knox Concert Series. The series of pop tunes and classical numbers is in its 8th year in mortality scores of Bach and Chopin. Such artists as Philippe Entremont and Roberta Petri will be featured this year. Tickets are on sale now at Lou's on the square in Jacksonville.
Hamrick's, a local independent, and the nearest store to the university campus, had the second lowest total of $13.51. Hamrick's prices on the two meat items checked, ground beef and hot dogs, were both 30 cents per pound cheaper than the next lowest store.

Piggly Wiggly, a chain store, located south of the square past Hardee's, had the lowest total price of $13.21. Second highest in meat prices, Piggly Wiggly was low on bread items, spaghetti and milk.

Super Valu just down Pelham from Piggly Wiggly had the highest total of $13.30. Super Valu lost ground by being 50 cents higher than any other store on a five pound bag of potatoes. Super Valu was low on most canned items.

Winn Dixie, located in Pelham Plaza, is the store located the greatest distance from campus. Coming in third with a $13.73 total, Winn Dixie's best price was for frozen pizza, being 16 cents lower than any other store on a basic 12" pizza.

Despite the price differences for individual items at the various stores, shopping all four for specials is not advisable. The slow and heavy traffic driving through town eats up quite a bit of $1 per gallon gasoline. Moreover, government studies show that this type of shopping rarely pays anywhere and rising fuel costs increase the advantage of shopping at the store nearest to the shopper's home.

Students desiring to live in the same dormitory who missed making reservations in the dormitory may make remaining reservations at the Housing Office, 4th Floor Student Commons Building on November 2 and November 5.

IMPORTANT—It is extremely important that you make your Spring reservations during the time allotted in your dormitory or during the make-up times on either November 2 or November 5.

Other JSU students who will be on the program in the BCM flag football team are the defending champions.

Other JSU students who will be on the program in include DCM President Debbie Lewis and Christine Max, a minister's daughter, who will be interviewed.

Alabama shale may yield oil

By JERRY HARRIS
Post-Herald Correspondent

ANNISTON—An Anniston-based company believes that millions of barrels of crude petroleum may be extracted from shale deposits in North Alabama and northwest Georgia.

Eastern shale has traditionally been a poor candidate for oil production because of its low oil yield in conventional refining processes. But by using innovative techniques, oil reserves "in more than 250,000 square miles of eastern shale" could be tapped, said Terry Tucker, research analyst for Woodstock Mineral Co., a company that has been involved in the extraction of shale oil.

Woodstock, owned by W. Mel Alexander of Lonaconda, Calif., "may own as much as a billion tons of Devonian shale" in DeKalb and adjoining counties, Tucker said.

Tucker said company officials believe their hydrocracking process could be more profitable than conventional methods because eastern shale contains uranium, natural gas and up to 200 other byproducts that might be extracted along with the oil.

He said shale in DeKalb County contains several million pounds of uranium.

Tucker said that at the University of Alabama, explained the hydrocracking process of obtaining crude petroleum from shale oil. He said that when eastern shale is heated to 600 degrees, part of the carbonaceous material it contains is released as crude oil. "To get the rest of the material, we have to add hydrogen at high temperatures, which converts the remaining material to liquid hydrocarbons or a crude petroleum product."

He said at this point the material is a low-grade crude at which must be refined. In July, the company and the University of Alabama requested more than 500,000 from the U.S. Department of Energy requesting to test their findings.

Working on the research project proposal were Ramaswamy, Dr. H. Shafi Mahn and associates. Research professor in UA's mineral institute, and Dr. Marvin W. McKinley, professor of chemical and metallurgical engineering.

"The picture is not a real bright one yet, but it could be. It's one of the resources in the eastern part of the country that should be looked at to provide gaseous and liquid fuel to augment our overall energy resources," Ramaswamy said.

"Right now the project depends on approval by DOE," Tucker said. If approval is given, a pilot plant could begin operating as early as 1984, Tucker said.

Alexander said, "Northeastern Alabama has the water supply to shale processing, which the western states do not have. Alabama also has abundant transportation facilities, which would further reduce costs to the consuming public."

Tucker said the research project would consist of two phases. The first would emphasize maximum recovery of shale oil by hydrocracking. The second would involve continuous pilot plant processing, using the methods tested by UA.

"If federal and state governments and the American people in general support our Devonian shale and coal synthetic fuels research project, I am confident the United States can become energy independent within a few short years and reassert its rightful position of leadership in the world," Tucker said.

"There are three primary ridges in the DeKalb County valley region, north of Fort Payne. Those who live on the ridge, called the Big Ridge on topographic maps, have no Devonian shale beneath them to our knowledge," Tucker said.

"But, people living on the little ridges might be living close to shale outcrops. I detected the shale with a geiger counter. I believe there's enough uranium in the shale to justify further research."

"Obviously, if we don't get a grant, these government funds will probably be sent to western states, for shale development, where the federal government owns about 80 percent of the leased shale properties."

"Oil companies are developing shale in the West. Therefore, if we have the land developed and windfall profits taxes, the money will be returned to the oil companies for their own shale extraction processes rather than to free enterprise in eastern states where we might develop an even more economical source of oil and other energy values," Tucker said.

Devonian shale in the Appalachian and Middle regions is in many cases with existing acreage as coal. "So coal and shale could be processed together in areas where mines have existed or are now located."

Tucker said the environmental impact would be minimal.

Mineral rights in the Fort Payne area were acquired by Woodstock Iron Co. between 1887 and 1989 from 30 to 50 individuals.

Tucker said the original company ownership was diverted in 1977 when Alexander and others purchased the company and its mineral rights from its original owners. The present owners are declaring an annual dividend.
“Right now the project depends on approval by DOE.” If approval is given, a pilot plant could begin operating to justify further research. I believe there is enough uranium in the ‘I’urner of Scarborough of Anniston. Carl Rampacek, director of the Mineral Resources, said the original conveyance included 22,000 acres.

Milsap changes style

By RANDY GRAVETTE

I can see through the latest released album by Ronnie Milsap, Images, that he is a man of many images. In his latest release you get the best of country music, as you would naturally expect from the talented Milsap, but you also see a new Milsap with a style that has appealed to people that enjoy rock and disco. He makes you want to get up with his hit Get It Up. You feel like going out dancing when he gets down with Hi-Heel Sneakers. He can really keep you feeling good with Just Because It Feels Good.

As I sit listening to Images, I find it to be a very enjoyable album and on the scale of 1 to 10, I would rate the latest release of Ronnie Milsap an 8.

This movie makes about as much sense as its title. There was more action in the disaster than Larry Nee gave away two free movie passes than in the movie itself.

"Circle of Iron" was a weak attempt to promote the concept of self-confidence and mind-over-matter techniques as a means of conquering all obstacles in one's life. It hardly accomplished this. Mind-over-matter demonstrated in 'Circle of Iron'

By CHUCK McCARTY

This movie wasn't much good. This movie had no decent scenes. The plot was lousy and the sequence of scenes did not coincide. All in all it was a flop that should have been shelved many moons ago! This was the first bad film this year reviewed by this critic and I certainly hope it will be the last.

‘Guys and Dolls’

By RANDY GRAVETTE

While waiting backstage Tuesday the cast seemed somewhat nervous because it was opening night for the College of Music and Fine Arts production of Guys and Dolls. We heard the call of 15 minutes the nervousness grew. Then the call of 10 minutes came and I felt a lump in my throat as the nervousness became unbearable. The next call I heard was “Places?” By this time it was time to get ready to go out on stage. I swallowed hard and thought of myself as I was worth it. Was it worth all of the time and hard work we had all gone through? I decided to ask some of the other cast members how they felt about it. The response I received was great.

Lori Tate said, “Sure! I hate to see it end. I’ve had such a good time. All the people have been fantastic. It’ll do it again, and again, and again. It’s worth almost any price (time, energy, etc.) I have to pay.”

When I approached Scott Chandler he had this to say, “In time you have to make a decision as to what comes first—theatre is a career for me and I’ve learned that it’s going to have to have top priority. I’m in Southern and between classes you just make your future first—that’s performing for me—everything else comes second.”

Holly Brock simply said, “I came to Jax State. Working with that many talented young people had to benefit me in more ways than I can count. I met several interesting people that I can only hope that I will get the chance to work with again. Seeing that many entertainers combining their talents to create one successful show as “Guys and Dolls” has turned out to be one of the most satisfying feelings one can experience. Especially anyone involved in the production. Dr’s everything work. The Cast, Crew, Orchestra, and the audience; especially the audience made the show more than worth my while. I’d do it again tomorrow if I had the chance. Thanks to everyone who supported the show.”

When I asked Johnny Ray Self about it, he thought long and hard before he gave me his answer. “I was definitely worth it—every minute of it. The show has been one of the most fun and educational events that I enjoy to work with.”

Last year at JSU there was a big controversy over the parking situation. The commuters wanted more parking space but the resident students didn't want their frisbee fields paved over. The arguments were endless and sometimes the whole letters column in the Chanticleer would be packed with the written word of students voicing their opinions, arguments, and beefs. The letters were many and most of them were the same protest over and over.

This year it seems that the popular topic to debate is the security policies of the campus police concerning the dormitories. Since the arrest of four guys for being in the women's dorms after visiting hours it seems that everyone has formed their theories, and they are vociferously about campus dorm security. Some of the statements that this writer has heard range from abolishment of visiting hours in women's dorms to the establishment of coed dorms. Some of these ideas have been heard from experience in dorms, others have been heard from persons that are walking examples of the need for more birth control. Nevertheless, I feel that a Superman - It's breathtaking.

Superman-The Movie is the most entertaining fantasy adventure film to come along in a long time. Even at the beginning, when the big 'S' flashes across the screen accompanied by John Williams' perfect Superman music, you get excited, and it lasts.

Mario Puzo's screenplay follows the comic book Superman explicitly. From the dramatic explosion of the planet Krypton to the villain Lex Luther, humorously portrayed by Gene Hackman, the movie traces Superman's history and adventures just as you remembered it, in big, magnificent scenes.

Christopher Reeve is bear a striking resemblance to the classic comicbook Superman, his manner, style, and his ability to pull off the light satire that went along with the film. The masterpiece that it is. Reeve is even attractive as the mild-mannered Clark Kent.

Margot Kidder filled the role of the modern day Lois Lane quite nicely. Kidder's Lois Lane is ambitious, talented, and cute. She falls for Superman as any woman would, but with a "liberated" sassy style.

The movie is one flawless science fiction adventure films of the decade. It's entertaining, it's breathtaking, it's exciting, it's fun. Superman - The Movie makes you feel like a child again, you may even

In Saturday's loss

Gamecocks stalled four times in final minutes of game

The Jax State Gamecocks took a 21-13 loss to Austin Peay here Saturday in an otherwise almost statistically tied game. The Austin Peay Governors kept the game from being a wide open offensive game with a tough defense that stopped the Gamecocks within the 25 yard line six times.

"They used the same offensive sets we had here," said Coach Jim Fuller. "I cautioned our team about that before the game."

Watson Brown, the Austin Peay head coach, was the offensive coordinator here at Jax State back in 1977 when the Gamecocks finished second in the nation in Division II national championships. There's no wonder that game plan was almost the same.

The first score in the game came when quarterback Mike Watts dropped back to pass but could find no receivers open. He tucked the ball in and ran it into the end zone. Rocky Riddle was good on the PAT and the score stood 7-0.

The Red Bandits stopped the Governors on the next set of downs after the kick-off, but when the Gamecocks took over, Terry Stephens fumbled an Ed Lett handoff and the Governors recovered on the JSU 26.

Five plays later Austin Peay quarterback, Steve Brewer, passed to tight end Andy McCollum for the TD. The PAT was good and the score stood at 14-7.

The Gamecocks were within the 25 yard line four times in the second half but could only pick up three points on another Riddle field goal to make the score 21-13.

The Gamecocks took the lead with 6:37 left in the half when Brewer ran around left end for nine years and the TD. The PAT was good and the score stood at 14-7.

Jax State game right back and drove 64 yards in 13 plays but were stalled at the goal line and had to settle for a Riddle field goal. The score at half time stood at 14-10.

Austin Peay put seven more points on the board on their first possession in the second half. The Governors took 12 plays and used up 7 1/2 minutes for the TD. The PAT was good and the score stood at 21-10.

The Gamecocks fumbled once and threw one interception, but the offensive effort was not that bad according to offensive coordinator Jack White.

"I'm not picked up because we lost," White said, "but I'm not discouraged either. Our offense is improving and we are where we ought to be. We were close to our goal of 400 yards this week."

JSU gained a total of 373 yards. Austin Peay had a total of 326 yards offense.

"It was a lack of concentration," White said. "When we got close, they just seemed to play better and harder. They should be complimented for that."

The loss dropped Jax State's record to 2-3.

This coming weekend the Gamecocks will be at home again against Newberry College out of South Carolina. Kick-off is at 7:30 p.m.

Gamecock offense on the move
Derrick Whitely
leads receivers

Willie Tullis of Troy State jumped from fifth to first place in total offense in the latest statistics released through the offices of GSC Commissioner Jim McCullough.

Tullis, who has amassed 772 yards in total offense, is averaging 144.4 yards a game to displace Calvin Howard, who has been the leader throughout the season. Mississippi College's Calvin Howard held onto the league lead in rushing, averaging 256.6 yards each game.

Another new leader in the GSC statistics is quarterback Eddie Robinof of Troy State, who is the leading passer with a rating of 130.2; while Derrick Whitely of Jacksonville State still leads in pass receiving, hauling in 2.7 passes per game.

Punter Mike Quinn of Troy improved his league leading average to 41.2 yards per kick. Virgil Seay also of Troy State and A. W. Clark of Mississippi College are also on top of the punting average of 37.4 yards per game.

Training in Korean and Okinawan Karate is now being offered in Jacksonville. Classes are being conducted by two instructors: Glen Cole, a junior from Newark, N. J., and Clark Seay, a second Huntsville. Seay holds a 28.3 kick return department.

Keith Rowell of Mississippi College still leads the GSC in punt returns. Missouri's number one in NCAA Division II rushing statistics, leads the GSC in rushing with a 2.338 yard mark. The Choctaws also lead in total offense, averaging 37.6 yards per game.

Fast charging Troy State leads the GSC in passing defense (89.6), passing offense (118.4), and scoring defense (25.8).

Classes are being formed now, and are being conducted on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Classes are on a first come, first served basis. Results: 435-3894 after 5:30 p.m.

Jax State Gymnasts eye winning season

By KATHY SHEEHY

Our championship gymnastics teams here at JSU have been in the gym for a little over a month now, and they're progressing at an almost unbelievable rate. Watching them is like watching an afternoon of Wide World of Sports. They're that good.

"We've taken a step into the big league this year," commented Robert Dillard, coach of the women's team. His group will be competing in Division I, and eleven of the opposing teams on the schedule are in the national top twenty.

As for the men, the season could be just as promising. Working under a new coach, Mr. Steve Sonham from LSU, this dynamic squad has the dedication and leadership necessary to produce an impressive seasonal record. Though it will be somewhat of a "building year", the men have high, yet obtainable, goals, and Coach Sonham feels that as the season closes in March they...

than we've ever had," Coach Dillard said, "and we've also got the best team as far as talent in the history of Jacksonville State.

This talent is enhanced by team captain and All-American Susan Puckett, the reigning Regional champion and a two time participant in Nationals, Leslie Hill and Lynn Bruce who also made last year's All-Region team, freshman Julie Garrett who was number one in the Southeast region in her division last year and finished fourth in the eastern U.S. with a second place on Uneven Bars, and Denise Balk, a bander student from Centenary College, the team which finished first in Division II.

These women, along with the remaining returnees and freshmen comprise one of the highest skilled gymnastics teams in the country. With the aid of Coach Dillard, assistant coach Rick Walton, choreographer Becky Vedel, and pianist Mike King, they are destined to increase their potential and maintain their reputation as leading artists... the men have long, yet ostensible, goals, and Coach Bonham feels that as the season closes in March they "will do extremely well at the NAIA National Championships."

The women will begin the year by packing their bags and heading west to meet with Oral Roberts University in Tulsa, Oklahoma on November 27 followed two days later by a competition with Oklahoma State University in Stillwater. They'll then fly on to Springfield, Missouri for a six way meet on December 1 with number five ranked Southwest Missouri, Kansas University, the University of Illinois, L.S.U., and Colorado State.

The first home meet for the girls will be on Saturday, January 5 as they take on the University of Kentucky here in Stephenson Gymnasium.

Some other highlights from this year's lineup include the University of Florida, coached by Earline Weaver, a former coach for our U.S.A. national team at the Pan-American games and several other teams which feature Elite level performances.

On Friday, January 18, Jacksonville will host an "historical event"; the second annual Mid-South Invitational Gymnastics Meet in Pete Mathews Coliseum. Last year's All-Around winner, JSU's own Susan Baik, will be back to defend her title against girls from the University of North Carolina, Ohio State; the University of Colorado, which Debbie Wilcox, a 1976 Olympian, is a member; and the University of Florida which includes Ann Wood who is currently ranked number two in the AIAW.

With such a rigorous, intense schedule lying ahead and a 1-0-1 record behind them, the Jacksonville girls have within them the depth and strength to lead themselves through another championship year and conclude by placing in the top five in the country at the AIAW National Championship in Baton Rouge next April.

"We've got more leadership this year among the girls and pianist above all, they are assured of increasing their potential and heighten their reputation as leading artists in the world of this beautiful sport."

The 1979-80 season is filled with a great deal of expectation for the JSU men's gymnastics team in that their schedule, like the women's, contains several high ranked teams along with a chance to obtain a prominent national rating.

Excluding the National Championships in March, the high point of the season will come on January 26 as they try their skills against the University of Georgia, which has long been known to be their most trying rival.

The competition will be a dual meet with the JSU and University of Georgia men's teams and will be held in Pete Mathews Coliseum.

Steve Bonham, the men's coach, announced that the team is "responding very enthusiastically to training" thus far this season, and with the emphasis presently on "building a stronger base", he expects the season's outcome to be a very positive one.

Following the opening meet with the Univ. of Georgia, the men will take on North Carolina State on February 1, proceeded by competitions with Memphis State and David Lipscomb, ending the year with the NAIA National Championships in Billings, Montana.

The team's All-American, Mark Lee, has returned along with several other distinguished gymnasts, and with the aid of the newer members will prove this squad to be one of the nation's finest.

The JSU student body will have the opportunity to view these exceptional teams in action at their annual intrasquad meet which is to be held in Stephenson Gymnasium on Tuesday, November 6 at 7:00 pm. Admission is free to everyone, and a capacity crowd is expected to attend.
