Faculty promotion decisions made

By SUSIE IRWIN,
News Editor

For the first time in 13 years, JSU will promote five associate professors to full professors this year, Dr. James Reaves, Vice-President of Academic Affairs, said Monday.

The Council of Deans has decided to promote five, of the 38 faculty members applying, to full professorships in April. The council also appointed a "task force," representing "all constituent groups of the faculty, to "review options that may broaden the basis on which promotions are made."

The faculty member meeting the University requirements for professorship first submits their portfolio to the department head of their college. Then the department heads and Deans of the college decide on the nominees from that particular college. This is the initial screening which is done entirely at the college level.

The portfolios are then given to the council for review. Selecting five persons, the Council of Deans then sends those five portfolios to Dr. Reaves. Dr. Reaves will review the selections, then recommend the nominees to President Montgomery who makes the promotions to full professor.

According to Dr. Reaves, the council decided to resume the promotion process only after several meetings. Their plan is to begin the process on a small scale then to innovate and improve through experience.

One of the main concerns of the Council of Deans was to have faculty input in the promotion process, Dr. Reaves said. The council believes the initial screening should be done on the college-department level.

To the question of why only five promotions will be made, Dr. Reaves said that since the program had not been tested "we do not want to make a large number of promotions this year and possibly pre-empt the (See FACULTY, Page 2)

Four students arrested on burglary charge

By LYNN LePINE,
News Editor

Four JSU students have been arrested in connection with burglaries perpetrated at Bibb-Graves and Ayers Halls. Approximately $2000 in merchandise including two biology lab skeletons, a microscope, and miscellaneous office supplies were recovered at the time of the arrests. Police Chief David Nichols informed the Chanticleer that the four have been charged with third degree burglary.

In an unrelated incident, a suspect has been arrested and charged with the theft of a 1966 Mustang. The vehicle was stolen from the parking lot of Patterson Hall last Friday. The suspect was arrested Saturday and charged with first degree theft. The automobile has not been recovered and the matter is still under investigation.

G. Gordon Liddy comes to Jax State

By SUSIE IRWIN,
News Editor

"I broke the law. I took a risk and I lost, but then I accepted my punishment. I went to prison," said G. Gordon Liddy to a group of Omaha college students, during one of his many college lectures.

Liddy maintained that Watergate was an act of political espionage which both parties have always conducted and chances are continue today.

G. Gordon Liddy, the mastermind of the 1972 Watergate break-in will speak to JSU students on Wednesday, Feb. 17, in TMB at 8 p.m.

Called the "sphinx of Watergate" because of his refusal for six years to explain his role in the ill-fated break-in at the Democratic National Committee Headquarters, Liddy now travels campus to campus, spreading his own version of history and his own philosophy of power.

Dr. Joe Reed chastises black students

By MARIA T. PALMER

Dr. Joe Reed was the Afro-American Association's special guest to open the activities in celebration of Black History Month. A radical leader since the 60's, Reed is not only a brilliant lawyer, but also the associate executive secretary of the influential Alabama Education Association (AEA), a member of the city council of Montgomery, and a nationally recognized minority leader.

Dr. Reed didn't use any notes; he didn't need them. His message was spontaneous. He challenged the handful of black students, hardly a representative number of the 900 plus enrolled in JSU, to act out their citizenship and demonstrate their pride in their race and common suffering. When the small group was unable to sing through "Lift Every Voice and Sing" (known as the black national anthem), Reed's frustration seemed to start gushing out. "Where are your brothers and sisters?" he asked, "I wouldn't care if they weren't here, if they were in the library studying. But they ain't," he emphasized. "How many of you are registered voters?" Reed questioned. When only a couple of hands went up, his anger rose. Reed named each black fraternity and sorority on campus, "I know them because I'm a fraternity man myself," he explained. "How many have voter-registration drives?" he asked. A seemingly

Job outlook

By LYNN LePINE
News Editor

If you hope to be graduating within this decade, this article is for you. The first of a three part series on the job outlook for the 80's, this piece will take a look at the opportunities in education and corrections.

In the area of education, job prospects are expected to go from bad to worse. According to Careerism, a newsletter focused on job opportunities, annual openings for teachers are down by a total of 3 percent. The following figures show the percentage of growth or decline in yearly openings.

Preschool, kindergarten	18
Elementary School	16
Adult Ed. Teachers	12
College and University	-14
Secondary School	-26

Of the three positive figures, only Elementary education has shown an increase in the growth rate of annual openings, from 9 to 16 percent. The growth rate for preschool and kindergarten jobs has declined substantially from the last projection. The 12 percent figure for Adult Education is a big drop from 33 percent. The dismal percentages for high school and post-secondary openings are overall views of the situations there. There are, however, more jobs to be had in the maths and sciences than in English and history. Openings in physical education continue to be hard to find.

Opportunities in the field of Special Education will be good in the coming years, although the supply - demand equilibrium will soon be reached. As the different specialties in the field are given more definite outlines in the school system, demand will again slightly exceed supply.

According to Careerism, there are some more unconventional areas in education where the demand for teachers is expected to be larger. With a background in Word Processing and Transcriber Machine skills, one could help fulfill the demand for teachers of secretarial skills. People are also needed to teach Health Care. This would involve the training of dental hygienists and assistants, nurses, dieticians, etc. There is also some demand for people to teach the newer liberal arts careers like political science and sociology.

If you are an education major, work hard at distinguishing yourself from the competition because with the wide variety of graduates to choose from, school systems can now afford to hire only the best.

Corrections majors take heart. Although you may not find yourself "in the money" with the average salary at $10,000 a year, you will probably find yourself with a job. Indications are that employment potential in this field will be good through 1985 in all states other than AK, ID, MA, and WV. In these states opportunities are merely stable.

In this part of the country the demand for parole and probation officers is not as great as that for prison guards and inspectors. In the related area of security, it is possible that some communities will be replacing their police departments with private security guards. This has pushed the growth rate of openings in this field to 49 percent.

For those who find positions as corrections officers, there is some chance for advancement to supervisory positions.

Graduates with majors in Corrections may find it necessary to move to another are in order to find a desirable position.

Part 2 of this series on the Job Outlook for the 80's will cover opportunities in health careers, computer science, advertising and commercial art.

National Nurses' Honor Society at JSU

By LYNN BUNT

Professional organizations are important in every professional field. It is rewarding and significant to be around others who are in your own chosen profession. A nurses' national honor society, Sigma Theta Tau, provides such an opportunity for nurses and nursing students.

Nurses must have a bachelor degree, show outstanding nursing ability, and display community leadership in order to be invited into Sigma Theta Tau. Student nurses must have completed one-half of their nursing courses. This means a student must be either a last semester Jr. or a Sr. Student nurses must also have a 2.0 grade point average and be recommended.

Sigma Theta Tau encourages its members to participate in the "continuing education presentations". In these presentations, members and also community leaders share their experience and knowledge. Students are urged to share any of their own research information and knowledge.

The developments for a JSU chapter began in the fall of 1977. The first members were inducted in May 1978. Notification of their chapter arrived in November 1981. The charter induction is scheduled for May 8, 1982.

Elections for vice-president, counselor, and treasurer are upcoming. Each officer serves a two-year term. Candidated will be announced in February and will be elected in April. They will be inducted in May 1982.

If you are interested in becoming a Sigma Theta Tau member, you need to fill out an application. Applications may be obtained by seeing Mrs. Camp, Ms. Nancy Jones and Ms. Brenda Harvey at the Lurleen B. Wallace nursing building. Applications must be turned in by February 25, 1982. Transfer students are welcome.

Liddy

Mr. Liddy has been labeled fearless to the point of fanatical. In his lectures, he admits candidly that he once considered assassinating columnist Jack Anderson over supposed intelligence breaches and how in his childhood, he once baked and ate a rat and strapped himself to a tree to overcome his fears.

Born in New York City in 1930, Mr. Liddy earned a bachelor of science degree from Fordham College and a doctor of law from Fordham Law School, where he was a member of the Law Review.

Serving two years as an Army officer and five as a Special Agent of the FBI, Liddy became at age 29, the youngest man ever to serve as a Bureau supervisor in the staff of J. Edgar Hoover.

In Manhattan, he practiced international law, served as a prosecutor and made an unsuccessful bid for a congressional position. After returning to Washington, he served as a Special Assistant to the Secretary of the Treasury and its Enforcement Legislative Council before becoming Staff Assistant to the President in the first Nixon Administration.

During this period, Liddy served in the special investigative unit "ODESSA", later known as the "Plumbers", then became General Council to the Committee to Re-elect the President, from which he directed the Watergate break-in.

To college students across the country, who were no more than nine or ten at the time of the Watergate hearings, Liddy argues the twisted misconceptions of reality in the world today.

According to Liddy, the world is "a bad neighborhood at 2:30 in the morning and if you're a little old lady out walking, then the least that will happen is your purse will be stolen."

"But if you're a lineman from the Alabama football team," Liddy continued, "with a club in one hand and a submachine gun in the other, then nobody's going to mess with you."

"And the United States," he concluded, "is becoming the little old lady."

G. Gordon Liddy is a controversial man. But he is gaining respect.

On Wednesday, Feb. 17, Mr. Liddy's autobiography, WILL, will be on sale in Jack Hopper cafeteria from 3:00 to 5:30 p.m. Mr. Liddy will also be signing autographs during this time.

Faculty

number of promotions in the future."

"We see this year as an evolutionary step," Dr. Reaves said.

In a recent Faculty Senate meeting, Dr. John Van Cleave submitted a resolution, which was passed by the Senate, asking the council to suspend action until a "mutually acceptable selection system" was established.

In reference to the Faculty Senate resolution, Dr. Reaves said that the council had decided that waiting for "an acceptable system" would only delay the program.

Dr. Reaves argues that one reason no promotions have recently been made is because of the difficulty in reaching a system which is "mutually acceptable" to all parties.

"We've taken the position that being a full professor is more than just longevity," Dr. Reaves said.

Dr. Reaves said he compliments the council for their "integrity, concern, courage and their attempts to move the University in a positive direction."

Reed

embarrassed audience laughed. "Instead, they're wasting time partying. . . Every fraternity and sorority ought to have to be registered voters."

But Joe Reed doesn't think voting is enough. He urged the students to write their congressmen to extend the 1964 civil rights act; he urged them to fight against the anti-black, anti-poor policies of the "plastic cowboy" (Reagan).

Reed also touched on some of the major concerns of black communities. "I'm deeply disturbed about black folks killing each other. . . If we don't destroy crime, crime will destroy us."

Then Reed became personal again. He vividly personified "Mr. Discrimination" for the audience. A more dangerous and tricky character than "Mr. Segregation," he warned. "Mr. Discrimination is all smiles, he'll say 'We're glad to have you, Mr. Jones,' but he still won't give you a job 'cause you're still a nigger." (Audience claps).

After an appeal for affirmative action, Reed urged the students once more to get "inside the stadium" and watch the ballgame, not from a knot-hole, but from the bleachers.

"We've been asleep," he said firmly. "We have to speak up."

Undoubtedly, when Reed speaks about the struggles of the black people he speaks from experience. After Korea, he was one of the original members of Martin Luther King, Jr.'s sit-ins and a pioneer of the civil-rights struggle. Dr. Reed has been fighting ever since. Recently (1978), he was one of the 13 black leaders who appealed to Pres. Carter and had the first black appointed to a federal court. . .

But Joe Reed didn't come to Jacksonville to brag (In fact, he minimized the importance of his accomplishments in light of what still needs to be done). Dr. Joe Reed didn't drive three hours to Jacksonville on a rainy night for the glory nor for the money.

Joe Reed is a man with a cause and he's willing to make sacrifices of time and effort to further it. Unfortunately, this is something that few students, black or white, understand.

Phi Eta Sigma Invites Applications for Membership

Students interested in joining Phi Eta Sigma ( Freshman Honor Society) should contact the office of the Dean of College of Humanities and Social Sciences Ext. 649. Membership Requirements Are:

1. For students who were freshmen during Fall term, 1981, a 2.5 GPA based on a class load of at least 12 semester hours, or;
2. For students who completed their freshman year (32 semester hours) during Spring, Mini, or Summer terms of 1981, a GPA of at least 2.5 for the first 32 semester hours.

Dean Smith's office will assist interested students in determining if they are eligible for membership.

Deadline for applications is February 25th.

Oldies but goodies group

The oldies but goodies. That's us, a new group just formed on campus for re-entry students. After an initial get-together of 15 re-entry students a steering committee was formed and the date for the next meeting set for February 16 at 3:30 p.m. at Hammond Hall.

The reasons for re-entering the academic world are many, some of which are the enjoyment of a continuing education while others may be exploring new careers. For many, college is a new adventure while others may be finishing a degree or pursuing graduate work.

The re-entry student isn't a new breed but one whose numbers are larger than ever before. Today an average of one out of every three college students is over the age of 25.

Because they are older their responsibilities and personal goals tend to be different from those of the typical college age student. The re-entry student group hopes to provide a source of enjoyment and support during their college career.

Why not hobble to Hammond Hall on February 16 at 3:30 p.m. and join them. Please bring any and all suggestions as to what the group can do to help enrich your college career as a re-entry student.

For more information contact Dr. Thomas, History Dept.; Dr. Whartenby, Economics Dept. or Dr. McDade, Psychology Dept.

Maintenance department deserves recognition

By LYNN LePINE

This university employs 54 people who, with little recognition and no applause, go daily about the business of keeping JSU from crumbling to the ground. It is quite unspectacular, this job of maintenance, but without these people we would freeze in February and sizzle in September. There would be no hot showers, no neatly trimmed lawns, and every circuit, switch, and wire that keeps the power humming would fall rapidly into decay.

The man who keeps our Maintenance Department running smoothly is Jim McArthur, University Engineer for nine years. Mr. McArthur feels that Maintenance is an important part of the university as a whole. Besides providing certain direct services to the students such as helping with dead car batteries and supplying water hoses for car washes (they don't grow on trees, you know) Maintenance employs nine crews whose work benefits all.

A forthcoming project for the Maintenance people will be approximately $3.7 million worth of renovation and construction. This will be paid for by the Public School and College Authority with bond issue money.

As a helpful hint, Mr. McArthur added that people come by the dorms every day to pick up work orders, but that complaints can also be called in. Student feedback is important, so if you need something fixed, help by letting Maintenance know. They'll be glad to do what they can to solve the problem.

But Rebecca Suzanne Howell, 26, was gone.

There were signs of a possible struggle. Her boyfriend had been working not a block away at one of the local nightspots. A search party was formed there Saturday to look for her. Another, consisting of about 200 people, mostly employees from Federal Mogul Distribution Center, where Miss Howell worked, joined in to help. State troopers had given up the search, for a while, because waters were too high after last weeks rain to go on.

We can already look back and learn from this experience. Jacksonville's a small town, but even small towns aren't safe between twelve-thirty and two o'clock in the morning.

You are responsible

By SUSIE IRWIN

Every JSU student should realize the importance of taking responsibility—for themselves.

Living under the conditions in which we do today, the true meaning of the word "safe" is virtually unknown. It is not a pleasant thought, but the reality of the situation was revealed to every JSU student last week.

Recent improvements in campus security are for the protection of the students. The additional lighting in formerly dark parking areas will in no doubt make the areas safer.

Also, for the first time this school year, the campus police have enlisted the aid of student patrolmen, to help in patrolling the campus at night. Their purpose is to suggest and maintain order therefore perhaps curtailing any wrong doing.

Some students might argue that the constant sight of uniforms create a rigid, strict atmosphere in which to spend their college days. However, the campus is safer, and that is the important thing.

But we cannot stop there. Student safety begins with the student.

For those students living on campus, the risks are obvious. Many young people may take unnecessary advantage of the freedom of living away from home, in an apartment or a dormitory room, but remember, since there is no one to answer to, there might be no one there should you call for help. So the responsibility lies within yourself.

The answer is to take no unnecessary risks, like walking alone at night, parking in dark places, allowing doors to go unlocked and especially, going places and not telling anyone where you are going or when you will return.

Remember, you cannot isolate yourself with precautions, but you can make yourself less vulnerable.

Commuting students have the problem of traveling the highways, sometimes alone at night, and the demand for caution is great. Sharing rides and letting others know your schedule will make your commuting safer.

Everyone on campus, the administration, faculty and the University employees, all have to guard against any unknown danger to their safety.

Remember, it is not cowardice to be concerned about your own life—just sensible. And no matter how concerned others are about your welfare, the campus police, your family or your friends, you are the only one you can rely on should a threatening situation arise.

Value yourself and your safety, and encourage others to do the same.

The purpose of Black History Month is explained

By L. N. SHARP, JR.

Dr. Carter G. Woodson was convinced that unless black peoples' history was told; they (it) would become a negligible factor in the world. So in 1915, he founded the Association for the Study of Black Life and History. He saw the need for a special time each year to call attention to his peoples' contributions to the history and culture of this country and the world. Thus, Black Week came about beginning the second Sunday in February. The objective being to select the week which would include both February 12 (the birthdate of Abraham Lincoln) and February 14 (the birthdate of Frederick

Guestitorial

Douglas, the great liberator for black people). However, as you now know the entire month of February has been designated Black History Month.

Black History Month is the one time of year when African Americans reflect and give thanks to God for never losing their humanity in spite of the inhumane treatment exercised against them as a people by racist individuals and governments throughout American society and in many parts of the mother land (Africa).

African American people, poor people, and white people must remember that freedom and justice remains a vision in the minds of us all.

Black History Month is the vehicle by which white and black Americans can join together in building better racial understanding especially in areas where false generalizations and stereotypes have been developed to separate people rather than to unite them.

Black Americans will soon look upon Black History Month as a thing of the past. Our history shall become a vital part in school curriculum for both black and white children...just as European history, which is taught 365 days per year in every segment of American society.

Letters to the editor

Dear Editor:
Many of we college students take courses simply because it is a requirement levied by the College, and eke out a "passing" grade. We barely come away with any of the knowledge that is imparted by the instructor, and even less of that from the other students.

Through life's journey my pause at JSU has been a brief one, but I would like to express my gratitude to each and everyone of my instructors for the knowledge they imparted to me. Especially I would like to thank the following: Mrs. Hilda Norton, who guided me through the frightening experience of English 102 and provided the basis to communicate via the written word; Dr. Ron Whetstone, who gave me the direction and confidence to survive Biology 101, and prepared me for the second half of the course; Last but not least, Dr. Mickey Starling, who provided an insight and respect for the law; both Constitutional and Criminal. Lastly, thanks to all of my classmates who shared the anxieties of the exams and the sigh of relief at their completion, for each of you contributed to my educational experience.

Dan Barben
Class of '82'

Dear Editor,

We, concerned residents of an unnamed dormitory, have on occasion confronted massive unsanitary conditions upon using the dormitory bathroom facilities.

For example, the excessively degenerating conditions of the sinks, brought on by the hair cutting practices of a few inconsiderate residents. Granted, this practice harms no one when sufficiently cleaned, but disregarded hair clippings tend to cluster and degenerate collecting human secretions and generally can become a breeding ground for biological problems. This is not the lone problem. I, as a user, cannot comprehend this problem in flushing a urinal after use. This action, seemingly requires only a minimal amount of actual physical exertion. I cannot see a resulting heart attack from such an action.

There are a few more concerns, but the general point has been made. Practicing a little hygiene never hurt anyone. Besides, showing a little consideration for your fellow human being is always a nice rule to follow, it can't hurt!

Bits-n-Pieces

Young Republicans meet

A meeting of the Young Republicans will be held Monday Feb. 15 at 3:00 in Room 333 Mah. Anyone interested and all members are urged to attend.

Membership extended

The JSU Circle of Omicron Delta Kappa is currently accepting applications to be considered for membership. Juniors and seniors are eligible. Also eligible are graduate students, alumni, faculty and administration members.

Omicron Delta Kappa is a national Leadership society which recognizes students who maintain a high academic standing while participating in various campus activities.

The JSU Circle of Omicron Delta Kappa has been very active this year.

Faculty advisor is Dr. Christopher Horsfield in the Mathematics Department of Martin Hall. The deadline for applications is Tuesday, February 16.

ODK meets

Omicron Delta Kappa will meet at 5:15 on February 16 in the Gold Room of Bibb Graves Hall. Dr. Ron White will be the featured speaker. Members attending should bring any ODK applications they have collected with them. The applications will be screened at the meeting to be held on Thursday, Feb. 18 at 3:15, also in Bibb Graves.

Phi Beta Lambda hosts speaker

Phi Beta Lambda Business Fraternity will have a meeting February 17 at 5:00 p.m. in Room 218 of Merrill Building. Our speaker will be a corporate interviewer from Atlanta, Georgia and he will be speaking on "What an interviewer looks for during an interview". All members are encouraged to attend and new members are welcome.

Flying club needs pilots

A new organization will be forming for all interested students. The JSU Flying Club is now looking for pilots and non-pilots. Call 435-2165 for more information.

The JSU Snow and Water Ski Club is now forming and looking for all interested students. Skiers of all skill levels welcome. Trips to be planned and fun for all. Call 435-2165 for more information.

Ceramic workshop

The Jacksonville State University Art Department and the Friends of the Arts will co-sponsor an exciting ceramic workshop with Sandra Blain, professor at the University of Tennessee, Knoxville and the Director of the Arrowmont School of Arts and Crafts in Gatlinburg. Sandra Blain has exhibited her work in the Southeast. Most recently she was one of four Americans invited to exhibit in the Museum of Decorative Arts in Belgium. She exhibited in the Contemporary Baskets Invitational in Rochester, New York this past year.

An exhibit of her most recent work, basket forms in clay, is on display until February 20th. The workshop has been rescheduled for Saturday, February 20th from 9:00 a.m. - 2:00 p.m. The workshop will focus on the development of basket forms in clay.

For information about the exhibit or workshop please contact Dr. Emilie E. Burn, Head, Department of Art, Jacksonville State University, 435-9820 or Peg Caffee, president, Friends of the Arts.

The public is cordially invited to a continental breakfast preceding the workshop at 8:30 a.m.

The regular gallery hours are 2-4 p.m. Monday through Friday, or by appointment.

Upon having a headache

Maria Palmer
Living Editor

It occurred to me, upon realizing I had not written my column, just how many times I have not had a headache. Unfortunately, it has taken this pounding feeling inside my skull to make me feel that not having a headache is indeed a blessing.

If you're wondering what it feels like, I can satisfy your curiosity in minute detail. See, for four days now, I've been trying to study for Dr. Rose's exam. Many times I've had to close my notes in despair and resorted to walking up and down the living room analyzing the symptoms and trying to apply yoga to my aching head.

Anyway, back to what it feels like. First, it feels as if my sinuses were filled with lead or some even heavier stuffing-up material. My brain feels swollen (can't be from excessive use, I assure you) and my eyes hurt—especially when a bright light (such as our 25 watt lamp) shines into them.

As regards to noise, not even David and his harp could comfort me. For now, .01 decibels is my maximum tolerance (at .02, or a fly landing nearby) I become dangerous.

Do you get the picture? Ah! You won't be able to tell what this has done to my handwriting, 'cause this article will be typed, but with my vision blurred and my coordination shot. I can't tell between my "b's" and "t's" myself.

By now, you should feel sorry for me. I do.

But, everything has a positive side. I've learned a lot from this past three miserable days. 1) Yoga doesn't work. 2) Transcendental meditation doesn't work. 3) Standing on your head makes things much worse. 4) If you take 8 different pills you're sure to end up sick. 5) It's not your boyfriend's fault, and screaming makes you feel worse and him less compassionate. 6) It is a pain trying to be funny at my own expense. 7) It must be a wonderful thing not to have a headache.

I imagine my last point would apply to stomach ache toothache or any other unpleasant physical condition (although, objectively, I can assure you none can be so terrible as a pounding headache). So if you don't have an ache, if your vision is not blurred, if your senses are not responding with an increased sensitivity which makes you hit the roof when a door is opened, consider yourself fortunate.

Good health is a delicate, undeserved (!) blessing. If you are healthy, enjoy yourself, but please be considerate of us less fortunate creatures: don't honk, wear rubber-soled shoes, speak softly and don't tell us we look awful. I've been known to turn violent.

Dean, Pass appointed summer missionaries

By KIM WHITEHEAD

He spent his '81 summer in rural Lawrenceville, a village in upstate New York with less than 200 citizens. Working out of a church building that had been bought for $600.00 after being "closed due to lack of interest," Harold Dean served as a summer missionary through the Alabama Baptist Student Union.

Dean is one of two Jacksonville State University students and fifty collegians from around the state who were recently appointed to spend ten weeks of the upcoming summer working through a number of ministries in places across the country and abroad.

Serving as BSU-sponsored summer missionary for the third consecutive year, the junior majoring in sociology and drama will be spending his 1982 term in Baltimore, Maryland, while junior Avis Pass will be working in the Pennsylvania capital of Harrisburg through inner-city and Christian social ministries.

Dean will be touring inner-city areas with the Good Time Wagon, an entertainment facility that brings activities like puppet shows, games, and stories to kids in the parks and neighborhoods where they live. "I am looking forward to this summer because it will be a different type of work than I have done before and it will be a good experience," he said.

Dean plans to enter the field of Christian missions.

Pass is a nursing major who plans to take up a public health career and she remembered, "We were sitting there at the appointment service when they called out my name. I just sat there and Harold kind of nudged me and said, 'Hey, that means you've been appointed.' I was so excited."

"In the back of my mind, missions has always been special to me," she continued.

According to Dean, who serves as Chairman of Missions Enlistment for the Baptist Campus Ministry, 32 JSU students were appointed through either the Baptist Student Union or the Southern Baptist Convention's Home Mission Board last year. The deadline for applying for the program through the latter has not passed yet and the search is still on for students on campus who feel that their talents could be utilized through this ministry, Dean said.

"It's a very worthwhile experience to those who are willing to spend their summer serving God and sharing Him with others," he commented.

Kent crowned Miss Northeast Alabama

By LYNN BUNT

The twelfth annual "Miss Northeast Alabama Scholarship Pageant" was held in the Leone Cole auditorium on Thursday night, February 4. Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia Fraternity sponsored the exciting event. Miss Teresa Cheatham (former Miss Alabama) was the Mistress of ceremonies.

Thirteen young women competed for the title. Among the thirteen were Kim Deerman, Kim Dismukes, Angela Evans, Susannah Gaines, Robin Hammond, Laura Kent, Rhonda Kiser, AngellaAngelle Landaiche, Annas Lee, Michelle Nix, Lisa Reaves, Sandra Spellman and Angela Stepp. The contest consisted of competition in the four categories of evening gown, swimsuit, talent, and personal interview.

After all the points had been counted and all was quiet, the famous "drumroll" was heard. Angela Stepp, a 20-year old Jr. at J.S.U., was named 2nd alternate. She was awarded a beautiful bouquet of flowers. Angelle Landaiche, an avid music fan, was named 1st alternate. She was awarded a one-semester tuition scholarship to J.S.U. and a bouquet of flowers. Miss Laura Kent was crowned the new Miss Northeast Alabama. Along with the crown and flowers, Miss Kent also won a 2-semester scholarship to J.S.U., a tuition scholarship to Southern Fashion Institute of Birmingham, a modeling scholarship to Macy's school of visual poise, membership to Nautilus Health Club, and a photography setting. Miss Kent also won the talent award with a medley from "My Fair Lady". For this she received a silver Revere bowl and a $100.00 cash scholarship.

Laura Kent is no newcomer to this pageant. In 1980, she won the title of 2nd alternate in the Miss Northeast Alabama Scholarship Pageant. She was 1st alternate under the 1981 Miss Northeast Alabama, Amanda Smith.

She has been a student at J.S.U. for 3 years and is a member of Zeta Tau Alpha. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. James E. Kent.

Miss Kent will go on to the Miss Alabama Pageant in June. Hopefully, she will go from there to Atlantic City and the Miss America Pageant. Congratulatory and Good Luck to you, Miss Kent.

Drama department announces cast for 'An Italian Straw Hat'

The cast for JSU's spring production, "An Italian Straw Hat" is preparing to open Feb. 24 at 8 p.m.

The action of the play, a French farce written in the 19th Century, focuses on a wild chase for a special hat in the city of Paris. This comic search for the elusive hat creates havoc at an elegant dinner party, complicates a romantic interlude, intensifies a rocky marriage, and interrupts marital bliss.

This type of play continues to be popular due to its humor, rapid pace and lively dialogue. True to form, this French farce also has a large cast—25 JSU students.

Featured are Toby Crawford as Fadinard, Steve Webb as Nonancourt, Scott Whorton as Beupherthuis, Byron Cole as Emile, Michelle Nix as Helene and Laura West as Anais.

Also performing are Jeff Scott as Vezinet, Tom Hall as Tardiveau, Scott Floyd as Bobin, Mike Kelly as Felix, Stact McCain as Achille, Linda Townsend as the Baroness, Alison Andrews as Clara, Lori Tate as Virginie, Paige Smith as Clothilde, Eric Wishner as the Corporal and Barry Stanfield as the servant of the Baroness.

Members of the wedding party and guests of the Baroness include Donna Anthony, Valery Hurst, Amy Uhl, Ronda Nevels, Debbie Smith, Kim Cosper, Lisa Coffey, Bobby Upton, Dennis Shears, David Davis and Glenn Rivers.

Guardsmen are Jim Porch and Richard Gallagher.

The play will be presented Feb. 24-27 at 8 p.m. nightly at the Ernest Stone Performing Arts Center. Reservations can be obtained by calling 435-9838 between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays. The box office will open Feb. 15.

Admission is $2 for students and $3 for non-students.

Backbeat By Jon Hughes

What is this phenomenon called "beach music"?

Perhaps you've heard mention of what is affectionately known as beach music and of "shagging" to the beach beat. Lest I mislead you, the beach beat has nothing to do with the Beach Boys, Jan and Dean, surfboards, GTO's, or even southern California. On the contrary, you'll be delighted to learn that beach music is a product of our south.

It began in the Carolinas, on the resort beaches, in pavilion juke boxes. The beach was common ground for everyone — they came, they played, they danced as their favorite records became part of the memory. And they took these memories, this music, away with them. Though they went West and North, it remained in their minds — "the Sound of the South". And it remains today as fresh and joy evoking as it was then.

It is music that pulses like blood at low tide, sways and shakes with easy energy. You have to realize that beach music has always been a southern name for what has been known world-wide as rhythm and blues. And though it embraces a variety of styles, sounds, and hybrids of music, it still relates directly to songs of R&B influence.

How would you know the beach beat if you heard it? Here are a few examples which might serve as a guide:

Anything by the Drifters ("Under the Boardwalk")

Anything by the Dominoes ("Sixty-Minute Man")

Sam and Dave ("Soul Man")

Coasters ("Searchin'")

Archie Bell and the Drells ("Tighten Up")

Chairman of the Board ("Give Me Just a Little More Time")

Bruce Channel ("Hey Baby")

And these are only a few that are very well known. There are scores of others.

R&B has been neglected pretty much by black and white audiences alike. Only a few obscure collectors and esoteric publications praise and catalogue its important place in rock history. R&B was the music Elvis grew up on; his first recordings were greatly R&B remakes. ("Hound Dog", "Good Rockin' Tonight", et.al.) And Paul, John, and George (the writing Beatles) each point to early R&B, Motown, and James Brown recordings as inspiration. After all, maybe as Junior Wells said, "It's all soul."

Shag on.

KDE alive and working

Kappa Delta Epsilon is alive and working this semester. Our first meeting for the spring semester was January 27. The guest speaker was Dr. Olander from the Center for Individualized Training. Dr. Olander gave the members of KDE an overview of the program, and then took everyone to the center to get a first hand look at how the program worked. This was a unique experience for the KDE members and we hope to help Dr. Olander and his staff make the program even more successful.

Kappa Delta Epsilon's next meeting will be Tuesday, February 16 at 3:30 in room 311 of Ramona Woods Building. This will be a working meeting to prepare for the Atlanta Convention in March. We would like to see all KDE members at this meeting.

NEED A CHANGE IN YOUR SUMMER JOB?

Does your summer job improve your resume? Do you work with hundreds of people your own age? Does the possibility of moving into management exist in your summer job? Does your summer job offer you a social life as well as tuition money?

If you can't say yes to all of these questions, then see what Six Flags has to offer you. Six Flags is highly respected in the business community, and makes an excellent resume reference. Six Flags employs over 2,500 students every season, and helps these students earn tuition. Over 80% of Six Flags Over Georgia's management team began their career in one of the summer positions. Six Flags helps to create a relaxing social life for it's employees. Interested?

Six Flags is currently taking applications for the 1982 season. The Personnel Office is open Monday through Saturday 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. A personal interview is required when applying.

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

We the brothers of the Eta Theta Chapter of Alpha Tau Omega would like to thank all those who came by for our open party last Thursday. We hope that everyone had a great time. Everybody be sure and go to Strangers tonight because we are sponsoring an open party and the band will be "Cruisamatic". Come by and party with us tonight.

Our basketball team has been doing very good but lost a heartbreaker this past week to Delta Chi. They play again this week and it promises to be a very good game. The Spartan Warriors have had a perfect season so far 0-3 and have been having the most fun of all. Both of our teams have a loyal following of fans who root for the Taus and laugh with the Warriors.

Everybody make sure you start hitting those books now so that the midterm exams don't come as a big surprise.

The brothers congratulate Chris Bowman for doing such a good job around the house. Also, congratulations go to Ross Henry for exemplifying leadership and to Donna Bishop for being selected little sister of the week. ATO the only way to go.

DELTA CHI NEWS By IVAN L. MILLS

Delta Chi would like to welcome our new pledges into associate membership. We have eight young men who we think can help us out a lot.

We would like to thank everybody who attended our western last Thursday and remind all the young women on campus that tonight is the last night for little sister rush at Delta Chi.

We would like to congratulate our basketball team on their fine play last week. They are playing great and it showed by beating a tough ATO team. Spiriting last week's team to victory were Frank Wester and John Sexton. Delta Chi would like to recognize Wayne Rice for being on the cover of "Frontiersmen" magazine.

As always we are offering an open invitation to interested men on campus to come by anytime. Wildcat rush is open until February 19. We also invite the young women on campus to come by tonight for little sister rush.

KAPPA ALPHA REPORT By PHIL SISK

Fantastic is the best word to describe the mixer last Friday night with Delta Zeta. The theme was cartoon characters. Some of the characters attending were Dennis the Menace, Pig Pen, Underdog, and Snoopy. Thanks Delta Zeta for a great mixer.

Formal rush is over and the Delta Phi chapter of the Kappa Alpha order has 7 new pledges. These are all outstanding young men. Wildcat rush is underway and anyone who is interested in finding out more about Kappa Alpha is invited to come by the house anytime.

Greek week is coming on fast and Kappa Alpha is looking forward to competing with the other fraternities for the Greek Week Trophy.

The KA Rebels are still raffling away a $200 turntable for just $1 a ticket. If you are interested in this great chance just contact any pledge, little sister or brother.

KAPPA SIGMA REPORT By KENT BAGWELL

The Lambda Gamma Chapter of the Kappa Sigma fraternity this week has been characterized by the wonderful feeling that Valentine's Day brings to most of us here at Jacksonville State. To exemplify the excitement of Valentine's, Kappa Sigma had its annual Valentines Bash for the brothers and little sisters. The event was the most successful of any Valentines party ever before, so this past Wednesday night was another one for the Sigs.

Starduster initiation for Kappa Sigma little sisters will be held Monday night at 9:30, Feb. 15. This a great honor for these girls and for us. We cherish all our little sisters and we are especially proud of our Stardusters.

Kappa Sigma will be raffling off a keg of beer to be given away Saturday, Feb. 20, at the Troy State basketball game. The winner will be announced during halftime. Brothers, Stardusters, and pledges will be selling tickets.

Our formal is finally set for April 16 and 17. We will be traveling to Destin, Florida for a weekend of fun in the sun. We are looking forward to it with great eagerness.

PIKAPPA PIREPORT By R.L. FOSTER

The brothers of the Delta Epsilon chapter of Pi Kappa Phi were honored with a recent visit from our field secretary, Steve Popikas.

Steve's thoughts and ideas on various aspects of fraternity were greatly appreciated.

Thursday night Feb. 11 we will have another infamous roof-raising open party. Everyone is invited to attend; so come prepared.

After a well fought battle, Pi Kapp lost a thriller to Omega Psi Phi last Thursday 40 to 38. We fully intend to redeem ourselves this Sunday against ATO.

Spring rush produced a quality group of men for Pi Kapp. We are very proud of these fellows and expect great things from them. They are: Kerry Nabors, Glenn Diafacoma, David Carnes, Mike Gibson, Mike Burkhalter, Shannon Benton, Carl Haywood and John Bremmer.

SIGMA NU By JOHN VALDES, JR.

We the brothers of Sigma

Nu would like to congratulate the new pledges for this semester and would like to thank everyone for dropping by the house during our wildcat parties. We would also like to congratulate three new brothers into the Legion of Honor. They are: Bob Pitts, Butch Ferguson and John Valdes Sr.

The little sisters are in final preparations for their annual Valentine's Day Party which will be held this Saturday for the brothers and dates. So far everything has been kept secret so it will be a real surprise. The little sisters are also planning a fund raising project and we hope everyone will help support them.

In sports, Sigma Nu was inactive last week, but we'll soon be on the courts again looking for a victory; and how 'bout them Gamecocks.

We hope everyone will show up for their last seven games and cheer them on to the No. 1 spot in the conference. So until next week, walk in the way of honor, follow a Sigma Nu.

Sorority News

ALPHA XI DELTA

By JANICE THOMAS

The sisters of Alpha Xi Delta would like to welcome our new pledges to our wonderful sisterhood. The new pledges are: Debbie Douglas, Rome, Ga.; Suzan Davis, Anniston; Carol King, Ft. Payne; Kerry Perry, Cullman; Kim Walker, Birmingham; Teresa Tidmore, Section. We are all very proud of these pledges and we know they will be a big asset to our sorority.

Alpha Xis have also chosen seven new Big Brothers this semester. They are Vernon Colette, Burt Grisham, Bart Grisham, Howard Ayers, Vance McNeal, Bull Kay, and Wyoman McClendon. We are so happy to have them as part of Alpha Xi. Two very important officers were overlooked in the list of new officers. They were Lisa Glenn, Membership Chairman and Joan Williams, historian.

Thanks go out to Lisa Glenn for making our Spring Rush party a huge success. We appreciate her dedication.

Last week's sister of the week was Kathy Owen and this week's was Lisa Glenn.

Congratulations to both.

The sisterhood retreat was a lot of fun this weekend. Alpha Xis would like to thank Shelia Brownlow for the use of her house on Lake Weiss. It was great.

Lisa Reaves did a great job in the Miss Northeast Alabama pageant.

Happy Valentine's Day!

DELTA ZETA

By VICKIE STEPHENS

The sisters of the Lambda Gamma Chapter of Delta Zeta would like to announce and welcome nine new pledges to our sisterhood. They are: Jackie Butler, Tyrra Embry, Amy Hubbard, Martha Hudson, Anita Reed, Vickie Sanford, Lori Silvers, Janet Young and Cathy Dempsey.

Thank you Kappa Alpha! Friday Feb. 5, Delta Zeta and KA had a pledge swap and mixer. The theme was Cartoon Characters. There were many original and unusual costumes and a great time was had by all.

Congratulations to the winner and contestants of the Miss Northeast Alabama Pageant. Also thanks to the brothers of Phi Mu Alpha, it was a very well organized and entertaining pageant.

Wed. Feb. 10 was Delta Z's first open party at "Strangers".

Also the Delta Zetas are once again selling "Hickies" for Valentine's Day. They are on sale in front of Jack Hopper Cafe. So buy one or two for your sweetie and have it delivered Free on campus.

PHI MU

By MICHELE HEFFERLY

This past week the Phi Mu's had an enlightening Chapter Development Program. Jax State campus police officer, Pearle Williams, cued the Phi Mu's on the art of self-defense for women. We'd like to thank Linda Paradise for coordinating this activity and, hey Perle, you're a jewel!!!

The Phi Mu IM basketball team coached by Marissa Stanley has been having a challenging schedule so far and we'd like to wish them luck throughout the remainder of the season. Super job girls, we're behind you all the way!

Sincere congratulations go out to Wendy Armistead and JSU football standout Calvin Rackley who were recently engaged. Best wishes to both of you! We'd also like to extend congratulations to Tara Atkinson who was chosen Pledge of the Week. We're proud of you.

Every year the Phi Mu's choose a Big Brother of the Year and we're proud to announce this year's recipient is Calvin Rackley. We appreciate all you've done for Phi Mu, Calvin!

The excitement is mounting as the Phi Mu's count down the final hours remaining before the departure to Atlanta for our Rose Carnation Ball. This special Valentine's Day weekend promises to be an extravaganza we'll all remember!!

Until next week, remember: Phi Mu the greatest girls at J.S.U.!

ZETA TAU ALPHA REPORT By CHERYL LESTER

The Zeta sisters congratulate sister Laura Kent who won the title of Miss Northeast Alabama 1982 last Thursday night. She was crowned by the reigning queen for 1981-Amanda Smith, who is also a sister of Zeta Tau Alpha. Laura received the talent award in the pageant also. She was first runner up and talent winner in the pageant last year. Zeta Tau Alpha wishes Laura the best of luck in the Miss Alabama Pageant which will be held in May.

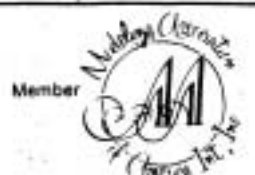

Monday began "Zeta Week" which is our biannual event that takes place before initiation. The initiation service will follow this weekend. There are 23 girls going through initiation. On Sunday we are having a sisterhood banquet at the Golden Corral after church service.

Member of the week last week was membership chairman Nan Jones for all her hard work towards our successful informal rush. Pledge of the week was Lisa Patterson. "Smartie Pants" award went to Stacey Bristow.

Zeta wishes you all a Happy Valentine's Day (thanks Mike) and hope you are planning to spend it with your favorite valentine!

How can you reap over $250 worth of benefits in the form of food and fun for just $5? The JSU ROTC sponsors have come up with a way. It's a booklet of coupons that are redeemable at many local restaurants and recreation spots.

JSU downs Miles

Bill Jones Gamecocks couldn't miss last Saturday night as they put another win under their belts by downing the Miles College Golden Bears in Pete Matthews Coliseum.

JACKSONVILLE SHOT a blistering 75 percent from the field in the first half to race to a 50-33 lead, and then coasted the rest of the way to a 101-85 win.

"We went out on the floor tonight with some question about whether we'd be mentally ready to play or not," said Jones, who had worried about the Gamecocks possibly looking past the non-conference opponent in the middle of the Gulf South Conference schedule. "I think our players answered that. I know it gets old with me saying this all the time, but I'm proud of the way we went to the floor and played hard and aggressive — especially our man-to-man defense."

Despite the hot shooting, Jones felt the Gamecocks' defense in the first half was the most important factor.

With Miles scoring constantly in the early stages of play, Jacksonville shifted from their customary zone defense into a man-to-man, a move which seemed to change the complexion of the game.

"I think we turned the game around with 12 or 13 minutes to go in the game by changing defenses," Jones said. "We played as well as we have played in the man. We helped each other out

A few of the recreational coupons are for activities like skating, bowling, and miniature golf.

Even a photography studio is par-

You can spend a night out eating and having fun for what it would have cost you ten years ago. And even better than that, by just using two or three of the coupons, the booklet pays for itself!

A limited number of the valuable booklets will be on sale around campus by the ROTC sponsors and the advanced course cadets. Get one while you can; they won't last long!

The proceeds will be used to support the annual Military Ball in April.

Watson jumps for JSU

Tim Strickland

Sports Editor

Traveling at speeds up to seventy miles per hour, he jumps into the air and doesn't come down until he's traveled well over a hundred feet.

He's Robert "Bobby" Watson, Jax State's one man ski team.

Bobby represents the University in collegiate meets around the southeast. He competes with other schools such as Alabama, Auburn, and Georgia. But Bobby's situation differs greatly from his competitors' in that the other collegiate teams have financial backing from their schools while Bobby makes his own way. But it doesn't seem to bother him.

"The people in the athletic department explained to me that since the larger schools like Alabama and Auburn make such big profits on their athletics, they can afford to support a ski team. Jacksonville, on the other hand, just doesn't have the funds to field a ski team."

When he was only three years old, Bobby's parents strapped skis on his feet and took him for a ride behind their boat. Bobby fell in love with skiing, and the affair is still going strong.

"I could ski before I could swim," Bobby recalled.

Dr. Don Brascho, owner of Logan Martin Marine on Logan Martin, recognized Bobby's talents when he was just fourteen. Since then, he has progressed to the men's one expert division.

Bobby is known throughout the southeast for his outstanding talents in the slalom and jumping portions of competition. He doesn't participate in the trick skiing because "it takes up too much time". However, he does occasionally put on barefoot skiing exhibitions.

Some of Bobby's more recent tournament winnings are: 2nd place jump in the Robbin's Lake open in Montgomery; 4th place in the jump at the Daytona Open in Daytona Beach, FL; 5th place in the slalom at the AL State Championships; and 1st place in both the slalom and the jump in the Riverside Open at Logan Martin.

Bobby was disappointed last year when he qualified for the 1981 Southern Regionals but was unable to compete because of torn ligaments in his foot.

"This year I will go!" Bobby exclaimed with confidence.

Training for Bobby Watson is year round. Weightlifting and running are stressed in the winter months to maintain strength and endurance. But nothing can replace the time spent practicing.

Bobby spends an average of five hours a day actually on the skis. His most valuable experience is gained each spring when he travels to Orlando, FL to train with the world famous skiers, Karin and Carl Roberge.

The extensive training pays off in competition. For instance, Bobby has increased his jumping distance to 141 feet from the 5'6" ramp. The world record is 179 feet. When Bobby attains a jump of 152 feet he will be allowed to jump from the 6' ramp, a day he looks forward to with eagerness.

"It's unbelievable how much distance you gain by jumping from the 6' ramp instead of the 5'6" ramp," said Bobby.

The ski jumper is pulled by a boat traveling at the max 35 mph. But good skiers can hit the ramp doing about 70 mph by using a counter cut. A counter cut is executed by getting wide from the boat and pulling toward the ramp.

"You must be set when you hit the ramp so that you can kick off to obtain maximum distance," said Bobby. "Timing is crucial when you jump."

Traveling at 70 mph and jumping from a ramp sounds dangerous.

"It can be rough," agreed Bobby, "especially on the ribs and knees. In competition, a skier tends to take risks to try to win."

Safety equipment is used to reduce the risk of serious injury. The skier wears a helmet, a jump suit (heavy wet suit), an arm sling, knee braces, a floatation vest, and calf high binders. The equipment must be inspected before the skier can compete.

But even with all the safety equipment, accidents do occur. For instance, Bobby has broken four pairs of skis in the last four years, had a few ropes break, and has lost a ski in the middle of a jump. A few of these happenings resulted in nasty falls. For many of us, one hard fall would be enough to convince us to quit. But not Bobby Watson!

"I plan on staying with it as long as I can," he remarked.

For outstanding skiers, there is money to be made—not so much from the skiing itself, but through endorsements for ski related companies. Bobby realizes that with his vast knowledge of the ski game and a degree in marketing, his future looks bright.

But for the present, he will continue to compete. This spring, for instance, he is entered in the War Eagle Open in Auburn, The Crimson Tide Open in Tuscaloosa, and the Bulldog Invitational in Georgia. Bobby will also be doing an exhibition performance at the Iron Man Water Ski Classic, a major skiing tournament held at East Lake in Birmingham. With a little luck, he may even be part of the competition.

Since Bobby Watson, JSU's one man ski team, receives such little recognition for the risks he takes in the name of the school, I think you'll agree with me that he should be thanked.

"Hey Bobby! THANKS and GOOD LUCK!"

Bobby and his friend Brad Brascho—who skis for the University of Alabama—will be teaching recreational and competition skiing (to include barefoot) this summer at Logan Martin. Interested persons can call Bobby at 435-8515 or 338-3496.

Jax wins a slow one

Mississippi College controlled the ball for most of the game last Monday night. But that did the Choctaws little good on the scoreboard as the Gamecocks won the slow-paced contest 52-41.

"IT WAS THE kind of game that is hard to play in," said Jacksonville State coach Bill Jones "A team which takes as much time and patience on their shots as Mississippi College does puts a lot of pressure on you every time you come down court.

"I think it's a credit to them — they're doing what they feel they have to do and they did a good job of it tonight."

The Choctaws' game plan worked most of the way. Mississippi College was within two points of JSU with only four minutes left.

The win pushed Jacksonville to 5-3 in the GSC and 8-7 overall.

The Choctaws' offensive plan was simple: get the ball to All-GSC forward Anthony Hicks. Almost every pattern Mississippi College ran was designed to get the ball to the 6-foot-6 strong man inside of a seldom-miss 15-foot range.

But Jacksonville kept the conference's scoring leader under wraps. Although Hicks got his 17-point per game average, the Gamecock defense shut him down late in the game when the Choctaws needed the points most.

Anthony Robbins, Doug Creel and Sylvester Grace did a good job guarding Hicks, especially Grace in the second half.

"Hicks is a tremendous offensive player, anybody out there could see that," Jones said. "I think Sylvester Grace came out in the second half and did a good job keeping him off the board. Hicks hurt us throughout the ball game, although I think we did a good job on him. He kept them in the game for most of the way."

FOR MOST OF the game, Jacksonville's offense was freshman Robert Guyton. The 6-5 forward from Birmingham's Jackson-Olin High School worked the baseline well, especially in the first half when few others were clicking offensively.

"In our offense, we work off of picks down low on the baseline," Guyton said after the game. "I just worked around low, got the picks and had some easy shots." Guyton picked up 12 first-half points, better than half of the Gamecocks' 23 first-half points. Although guarded front and back in the second half, Guyton still managed to lead the Gamecocks with a game-high 20 points.

The visiting Choctaws set the pace early in the game. Four minutes had elapsed before the Gamecocks scored their first bucket and 14 minutes had expired before Jacksonville reached double figures.

With Hicks scoring well early and JSU slow getting started, Mississippi College led during most of the first half before a short jumper by Guyton tied the score at 16-all with only three minutes left in the first half.

After Grace and Hicks swapped buckets to leave the score knotted at 18, guard Earl Warren made a three-point play on a good move inside to give the Gamecocks a 21-18 lead. Jacksonville went on to a 23-20 halftime lead.

THE SECOND HALF began as the first half did, with Mississippi College again patiently controlling the tempo. The lead swapped hands several times in the first ten minutes before a basket by Freddy Benford at the 5:40 mark gave JSU a 37-34 advantage. The Gamecocks never trailed again.

Two bombs from the corner by the East

Limestone sophomore, wrapped around a pair of fantastic buckets by Guyton — one, a behind-the-backboard scoop shot off the glass, and the other, a one-hand stuff shot that had the crowd of 1,500 cheering wildly — pushed the Gamecocks up by 12 before settling for the final 11-point margin.

Benford followed Guyton's 20-point night with 12 points of his own. Teamate Doug Creel tallied nine.

Hicks' 17 points led the Choctaws. Sam Lee tossed in eight points, while Carlos Ford and Ricky Stone each got six.

Wrestlers have three standouts

The Mid South Wrestling Tournament was hosted by the University of the South in Sewanee, Tennessee.

JSU wrestling did well in the tournament. Coach Guy Foster cited three of the team members—Gary Erwin, Scott Dennis, and Frank Hovey—as standouts.

Other schools represented at the meet were: Tenn Tech, U of South, Ga. Tech, Carson Newman, E. Tenn State, S.C. State, and Furman.

Collegiate wrestling fans around the country know the name "Gary Erwin". Erwin is from Gardendale, AL. He made his biggest mark in wrestling by placing 2nd in the NCAA last year. Erwin has continued to grab attention by recently winning the 1982 Mid-South Championship in the 105lb class.

Scott Dennis from Atlanta, GA. wrestles in the 134lb class. Dennis upset three time Mid-South Champion Allen Webb of Tennessee Tech 16-6 to win the Mid-South Championship in his weight class.

Frank Hovey, who took second in last year's Southern Regionals, placed second in the 1982 Mid-South Championships. Hovey is a veteran wrestler from Chamblee, GA.

Basketball girls smash A & M

By TIM STRICKLAND

JSU's Lady Gamecocks sunk their spurs into rival Alabama A&M last week to down the Bulldogs 85-76.

Coach Steve Bailey was happy about the win.

"We played a good ballgame. I was especially pleased with the performance of Karen Mitchell. It was the best game she's played since she's been here."

Mitchell had four steals, twelve assists, and scored four points.

Betty Fykes also played a good game. She led the team in scoring with 22 and in rebounding with 12.

Carol Bishop was second in scoring for the Gamecocks with 20. Tonya Gober and Jill Daniel had 15 points each to round out the team's balanced scoring.

The girls' defense was outstanding—but then it had to be. A&M's Michelle Byas, the nation's leading scorer in collegiate women's basketball, was held to 30 points while her team mate Carolyn Brown, who is 10th nationally in rebounding, didn't score at all.

The ladies, now 3-2 in the conference, play a very important game this Saturday at 5:00 against UNA, the present leader in the Northern Conference with a 4-1 record. If JSU wins the game they will be tied with UNA for the conference lead.

The team that finishes first in the Northern Conference will get a bye in first round for the state tournament while the second place team will play the No. 3 team from the Southern Conference.

Mabrey is eligible to play

Tony Mabrey, a transfer guard from UAB who was picked up by JSU last year, finally became eligible to play for the Gamecocks just a few weeks ago under NCAA transfer rules.

But Mabrey had only played a few minutes in his first game when he was stricken with pain below his right knee. When he attempted to play in the next game, the result was the same.

JSU coach Bill Jones expects the NCAA to grant Mabrey a hardship redshirt, giving the junior a new start next season with his full Jacksonville eligibility intact.

Mabrey's injury remains a mystery, however. It was first feared to be a knee injury, but doctors said that wasn't the problem. The four doctors who have examined Mabrey have yet to diagnose the injury.

Jones was counting on Mabrey to step in and give JSU an offensive lift. And Mabrey is the type of player who could have done it.

But for Tony Mabrey, it's wait until next year. . .

Jones says his Gamecocks, nine of whom are new to the program this season, are "getting better everytime out." But this hasn't been an easy year for Jones.

"It's been the kind of season that could give you pneumonia," he says, because that's exactly what it has done to him.

After two consecutive seasons of winning over 20 games, JSU stands at 9-8 with seven regular-season games left. Jacksonville only lost eight games last year, seven games the year before and eight games the year before that.

But there seems to be some real reason for optimism, if not for this season, at least for next year. The play of freshmen Earl Warren, a heady point guard, and Robert Guyton, has been impressive at times.

Jones is still hoping his Gamecocks will wind up atop the Gulf South Conference standings, but any real chance at GSC honors seemingly should be based on the league tournament at the end of the season.

Jones opposed the tournament last year, and still does in principle. But the JSU coach is now welcoming the tournament and what amounts to a second chance with his young team.

Miles

well. I know we scored 101 points, but defensively, we turned the game around in the middle of the first half with the man-to-man defense."

FRESHMAN ROBERT Guyton continued to perform with the poise and maturity of a veteran, hitting 13 of 15 shots from the field and three of four from the foul line to finish with a game-high 29 points for the Gamecocks.

Guyton was one of many players which caught the eye of Jones during the night.

"Robert Guyton is a real player to watch in the future, but I think he's exciting to watch right now, too," Jones said of the 6-foot-5 forward from Birmingham's Jackson-Olin High. "If Robert continues to work and make the same type of improvement I've seen him make since he walked on this campus, I think the sky's the limit for him.

I think we have some other young players, too, that's done well for us. Earl Warren, Jeff McKibbin, Rocky Wilkinson and Bret Jones came in and didn't let anything slip," Jones added. "Earl comes in and makes things happen — sometimes good and sometimes not so good. But it's always as hard as he can go and as long as he does it that way, I don't have any problems."

Guards Freddy Benford and Doug Creel also continued to play solidly for Jacksonville. Benford followed Guyton with 16 points, his seventh straight game in double figures, while Creel played a steady floor game while scoring 12 points and handing out six assists.

ANTHONY ROBBINS tossed 10 points while fellow starter David Carnegie and Sylvester Grace both got nine.

Miles played a fast-paced, run-and-gun brand of basketball and didn't waste anytime putting things in motion. With guard Donald Scott hitting from long range early, Miles managed to keep the game close.

After the first 7½ minutes the score was tied at 16-all. But from that point on the Gamecock's were red-hot.

A Benford jumper with 12:03 left in the half put the Gamecocks ahead 18-16 and Jacksonville never trailed again.

Over the next 10 minutes the Gamecocks couldn't miss, with Benford and Creel filling it up from the outside and Guyton having his own way with things on the inside.

(Photo by Mike Roberts)

By the five-minute mark, Jacksonville held a 38-26 advantage and, when Guyton put a rebound in the bucket with five seconds left in the half, the Gamecocks were on top by 17 points.

Guyton ravaged the Golden Bears for 16 points in the first half while Creel and Benford both totaled 10 points to stake the home team to the big halftime lead.

WITH JONES playing mostly substitutes in the second half, Miles was able to cut JSU's lead to only 11 points at 61-50 with 12 minutes left in the game. But the Gamecocks answered with a 15-9 scoring advantage over the next two minutes to put an end to the uprising.

Anthony Farley, who had entered the game ranked fourth in the nation in rebounding with 14.6 per game average, managed only eight against Jacksonville while scoring a team-high 23 points. Scott followed with 18 points, 12 in the first half, while Kenneth Henry added 17.

The Gamecocks go on the road for the last time in the regular season Monday, when Jacksonville visits GSC-leader Livingston. The Tigers lost their first conference game of the year Saturday night to Troy, 70-69.

3 graduate from volleyball team

By LIZETTE HONEYCUTT

Stern, serious, honest, these words are used to describe Jan Nicotra, one of this year's three graduating volleyball players. Though small, Jan is also described as a strong aggressive and dedicated player.

Jan came to JSU from Marietta, Ga. with a good volleyball background which she attained while in high school. She walked on her freshman year. Barbara Wilson recalls being impressed with her quickness and ability to read the other team and respond.

For the team Jan has been an aggressive player with a strong desire to win. She always gave her best all the time and could not understand why everyone else couldn't give their best all the time, coach Creel remembered.

Jan is an accounting major at JSU, and as most of you would suppose, for the last two years you'd always see Jan with a book in her hand. "Jan has done well in both levels (academic and athletic)," Coach Dreel comments, "she's very dedicated, she'll study with flashlights when we traveled."

"It has taught me how to budget my time," Jan comments on accounting vs. athletics.

Healthy, wholesome and confident these words would best describe Tammy Snider, the blonde front row player on the volleyball team.

Tammy just became acquainted with volleyball during high school at White Plains, Ala. She remembers that the program was just getting started. During this time, Tammy had no designs on college volleyball, she didn't even have designs on college!

She came to JSU and attended tryouts, "there were already ten on the team, Tammy recalls. The tryouts were so physical that everyone dropped out, of the two slots that were left, Tammy had one of them. From here it was by no means easy going. Tammy's knowledge of volleyball at that time was very restricted. Barbara Wilson recalls that Tammy had to begin with the basics and improve to even compete for a position. This she did, and succeeded.

On the court, Tammy is an aggressive team player, who gives the impression of meanness. On this, she says that, "you just have to try to let them know that you're not afraid."

Coach Creel describes Tammy as aggressive, if it means that "she's not afraid to sweat to accomplish what she thinks is important." "Tammy was a player who wound up an athlete."

Blonde, blue-eyed and comfortable are good words to describe Nan Jones. Comfortable because that is how you feel when talking with her.

Nan is also described as the social chairman of this year's volleyball team. Why? In answer, she is also described by Coach Creel as compassionate, good with people and tender hearted.

By the same token Nan is also a tough competitor at the court; capable and consistent.

Nan described this season as her best. Her opinion is supported by that of Coach Creel. "Nan improved 50 percent, because Nan wanted it."

Nan was introduced to volleyball during high school at her native Montevallo. She first came to the attention of Barbara Wilson during state tournaments held here at JSU. Wilson was impressed with her setting abilities and attitude. Nan was promptly recruited.

Nan will be graduating this year with a physical education major and a minor in special education. With her experience as social chairman she should do well in both fields.

Coach Creel describes the graduating seniors as part of an eager group. "They were second in the state when I came but they weren't satisfied."

For coach Creel they've proved the backbone of this year's team. Pulling together in tight spots and giving whatever necessary to insure success.

The three have a good friendship and in it a unique relationship; they provided leadership in the extremes- for being aloof yet aggressive and outspoken, Nan consistent yet reserved and understanding and Tammy determined yet down to earth.

Coach Creel attributes much of their success to their unity. Barbara Wilson says goodbye to the last members of the team that had to make their place in Jax State's athletics.

Having met the three seniors the saying remains uncontested in my books; that is, athletics builds character. Or does character build the athletics.

JSU hosts special olympics

Jacksonville State University Dept. of HPER has had the honor of hosting the annual Jacksonville Area Special Olympic games. This year's Special Olympics began with a Coaches Training Conference which was held on Sat. Jan 30, 1982 at Pete Mathews Coliseum. There were 114 people who attended.

On Feb. 5 and 6 JSU hosted the Jacksonville Area Basketball Tournament. In this area, emphasis on basketball has grown. Last year's tournament consisted of 7 teams and this year the team enrollment doubled.

A second basketball tournament will be held on March 19 and 20 here at Jacksonville State. This will be the North State Tournament. Another date to remember is Thursday, April 8, 1982 when the Area Games will take place.

Thanks to those of you who donated time and effort and helped make the Training Conference and Area Tournament a success.

Jax fails to get in title race

The Gamecocks started the game against Livingston with fire in their eyes, and for most of the night it looked like they would upset the Livingston Tigers. But when the final horn sounded, JSU found itself on the losing end 65-59.

The loss dropped Jacksonville, 10-9 overall and 5-4 in the conference, three games behind Livingston, now 14-8 and 8-1 in the league.

JSU coach Bill Jones did manage to find a bright spot or two despite the loss.

"I think our players went out and played exceptionally hard," Jones said. "At one point in the first half we led 22-11 and had things going our way. We carried the game to them and did a good job with our man-to-man defense, holding Livingston to 30 percent for the game."

A telling statistic for the Tigers was foul shooting, where they knocked in 31 of 33.

Jones also felt the crowd was a big factor. Although Livingston's Pruitt Hall seats only 1,500 the fans are less than four feet from the action and are very vocal.

"I think the crowd helped them down the stretch. When we had the lead and could have put them away, their fans wouldn't let them quit," Jones said.

Jacksonville was also hurt by the effects of a flu-like illness suffered by freshman Robert Guyton in the first half. The illness limited his play in the second half. After tallying nine points before halftime, Guyton went scoreless in the final period.

After scoring the first point of the game on a foul shot, Livingston scored only one basket from the field for the next seven minutes while Jacksonville ran out to an 11-point lead early.

Anthony Robbins led Jacksonville with 19 points and 10 rebounds. Doug Creel scored 11 points before fouling out with 5 minutes to go.

Terry led Livingston with 25 points, while Cotchery added 19 and Walker 10.
