Apathy: who cares?

By LYNN LEPINE,
NEWS EDITOR

The Apathy Syndrome. It sounds like the name of a low-budget disaster movie, but in reality it is the number one problem on college campuses across the nation. Apathy is defined in the American Heritage Dictionary as "a lack of interest in things. Indifference." Symptoms include a bland, pasty expression around the eyes and mouth, and compulsive shrugging of the shoulders.

Is apathy on the increase? If so, what causes this dreaded affliction? Some say it's the lack of a common issue to bring the students together. In the 1960's, college students had just such an issue: Vietnam. Student activists banded together to protest. These were people who had a common cause, but as one JSU professor put it, "The student activists were only a very small fraction of the total college populations. There were a lot of students who were in and out of things, but only a comparative few were constantly in action." Here we have that small minority of 'doers' on the college campus. The greater majority consists of people who don't really care until an issue affects them directly. For instance, if half the students lost their work-study jobs next semester, apathy would virtually disappear among those who had recently become unemployed.

One JSU instructor feels that today's apathy stems from several causes. To begin with, the increased availability of drugs and alcohol makes it easier to ignore more important things. It has become more prestigious to go out and party than to stay home and study. Happy hour at a local

Fee charged to rush

By SUSIE IRWIN

A $10 fee will be charged to students interested in rushing fraternities for the first time this semester, said Dwight Smith, president of the Interfraternity Council. The decision was made to charge the fee to lessen the financial burden on the fraternities during rush week, Smith said. The action could also result in a smaller number of students participating therefore creating a more "elite" group, he added.

The fees will go to the IFC and the fraternities.

Upon registration, the student is required to pay the rush fee and will in turn receive an IFC rush card which will serve as an invitation to a selected fraternity. The IFC will send the names of those registered to the fraternity and only those persons will be allowed to take advantage of rush week.

Registration for rush ends Monday, Feb. 8.

Five bills pass SGA

By LYNN LEPINE

"A light at the end of the tunnel" can be seen concerning the JSU weight room. A bill sponsored by Senators Pat Barber, Tony Lundy, and Efram Clark was passed at Monday night's SGA meeting. The bill recommended that the SGA allot $1000 for the refurbishing of the weight room and that the sum be matched by the administration. SGA president Bill Morris feels that the success of the bill hinges on whether or not the P.E. department can come up with a viable security system to protect the new equipment.

Another bill proposed by Pat Barber recommended that an elevator or some other form of access to the upper floors of Bibb Graves Hall be installed for the handicapped.

Students evaluate Jacksonville State

During the second week in February, 1,150 students will be evaluating their university in the areas of student services, student activities, library, physical facilities, maintenance-housekeeping, general University requirements, registration procedures, Advisement, University and student publications and classroom experiences. These students from 46 sections representing a core sample of freshmen to seniors will determine their degree of satisfaction with J.S.U. and thereby fulfill a major role in the University's Self-Study. These evaluations are taken seriously and will determine the status of J.S.U.'s accreditation over the next ten years. The accreditation of a university establishes the value of that institution's degrees in the academic and career marketplace.

J.S.U.'s students have always lent serious and constructive criticism to the government of their university and with that fact in mind the administration and faculty anxiously await your response in this self study.

TRUTH

TRUTH to appear at JSU

A concert appearance by TRUTH at Jacksonville State University is set for Tuesday, February 9, at Leon Cole Auditorium.

The concert will begin at 7:30 p.m. and is open to the public. General admission will be $3.00 per person. Now in their eleventh year and after more than a million miles on the road, TRUTH is known nationwide for their high-energy performances and musical excellence as reflected in the group's nomination for a Grammy award.

TRUTH has recorded 22 albums, appeared in two movies, toured 13 countries and worked with such personalities as Pat and Debby Boone and the Boone Girls, B.J. Thomas, Paul Harvey, Dion, several Miss Americas and many others.

TRUTH is a seven member vocal group backed up by their eight member band. Each concert is geared to the entire family and lasts about 90 minutes.

TRUTH often travels to as many as six states in a single week, more than 100,000 miles each year and gives more college and church concerts each year than anyone else in the gospel music field.

Students can appeal traffic tickets

By SUSIE IRWIN

Students have the right to appeal traffic tickets, given to them by the JSU campus police, in traffic court held weekly and operated by the Student Government Association.

To a panel of three SGA members, the ticket holders are given the chance to show reason why the ticket is believed to be unjustified.

Tony Lundy, chairman of the court, said the panel acts as "both judge and jury" in all cases. The panel consists of Lundy, Michele Hefferly and Kevin Collins. A campus policeman is present at all times but has no voice in the proceedings.

Someone wishing to appeal a traffic ticket must first apply at the station and then await the next session of traffic court, which is held every Thursday night at the campus police station.

Each person meets individually with the panel. The session begins with a statement of why he or she feels the ticket is unjustified. The panel asks questions and then the appellant is excused briefly while the panel discusses the case. A final decision is made on a two to

Reaganomics

In case you missed it. . .

By LYNN LEPINE,
NEWS EDITOR

President Reagan's televised State of the Union Address proved to be the most stirring speech of its kind in many years. In case you missed the speech and are still wondering where our nation is going in the coming year, here are some major points of interest.

1) The Reagan administration's economic policy will be based on four fundamental principles:

- a. Continued reduction of gov't. spending
- b. Continued individual tax cuts
- c. Removal of unnecessary federal regulations
- d. A stable dollar

2) Federal expenditure will be greatest in the areas of defense, and a reliable safety net of social programs for contributors and the needy.

3) The federal gov't. will return $47 billion dollars worth of programs and funds to the state and local gov'ts. to cut down on the pervasiveness of the federal gov't.

4) "Raising taxes will not balance the budget. . . I will not ask you (the Congress) to balance the budget on the backs of the American taxpayer."

5) The food stamp program will be turned over to the states along with funds in order to bring the program closer to its beneficiaries. This should cut down on fraud.

6) Entitlement programs (e.g. welfare, food stamps) will save $63 billion dollars over the next four years without affecting Social Security.

7) "Basic laws that gave equal rights must be preserved and, if necessary, strengthened." Reagan advocates a 10 year extension of the Civil Rights Act of 1965.

8) America will not conduct "business as usual" with the forces of oppression (Polish military-Soviet regime).

9) "We intend to keep the peace. We also intend to keep our freedom."

Six Flags seeks summer help

By LYNN LEPINE,
NEWS EDITOR

If you're looking for summer employment, the Land of Screams and Dreams may be just the place for you. Six Flags Over Georgia, one of the state's largest employers of young people, has approximately 2000 positions available to high school and college-age students.

The 331-acre amusement park offers a variety of positions ranging from operating one of the many rides to staffing the popular shows and attractions. To qualify for a job, you must have a friendly attitude, a sense of responsibility, and a smile.

Besides the obvious financial benefits, a summer job at Six Flags offers independence and a chance to meet new people. An employee social-activities program includes softball games, trips to other parks, and more, all in an effort to bring the employees together and to establish a supportive atmosphere.

This season begins March 6th and the park will be introducing a new and exciting attraction called Thunder River.

Applications for employment will be accepted from 9:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., Monday through Saturday. Applications must be made in person at the Six Flags Personnel Office, I-20 and Six Flags Road.

Care for a rewarding summer?

By HAROLD DEAN

It was great! It was a time of growing and giving. I loved it! My summer was fantastic. The previous statements are replies by student summer missionaries to the question "How was your summer?" Last year the Jacksonville State Baptist Campus Ministry was second in the nation of Baptist Student Unions sending out students to serve as summer missionaries who worked in many different areas of Christian service.

Students are appointed to various locations throughout the United States. Last year two students from Jacksonville served in Hawaii, 3 students served in Pennsylvania and many others served in states such as Kansas, Virginia, New York, Florida and Illinois (just to name a few).

During the summer, students learn to become "flexible" and adapt to many situations. Some summer missionaries live in homes of pastors or church members, while others live in apartments, trailers or houses. The type of work a student summer missionary does often varies with each position as well as throughout the course of the summer. Some summer missionaries are called upon to exhibit such skills as playing the piano, painting (churches, houses, etc.), leading Backyard Bible Clubs, surveying, singing, witnessing, preaching, hiking and working with both teen-agers and the elderly. The list goes on and on.

The term of service for summer missions is 10 weeks. Summer missionaries do receive pay for their work during the summer. Although the amount of pay is somewhat small for 10 weeks of work, the "fringe benefits" include pleasant, fond memories to be cherished forever and knowing you have touched someone's life and being touched in return. Missions is not always easy work but it is rewarding. Students who have previously served as summer missionaries will tell you they wouldn't trade one vote. Further questions are sometimes necessary in order to reach a decision.

If the appeal is denied and the ticket holder is found guilty, he or she must not only pay the ticket but is also responsible for $1 court cost.

In reaching a decision, the panel considers the time, place and nature of the ticket along with the person's (See TICKETS, page 4) their summer missions experience for the world.

If anyone is interested in the possibility of serving in a summer missions capacity, they are welcome to drop by the BCM and talk with the interim campus minister, Miss Barbara Vann or BCM president, Dawne Williams. Former summer missionaries would also be more than happy to share their experiences with those interested. Yet don't delay in finding out about summer missions and picking up an application. The Home Mission Board has a deadline after which it will not accept applications. A rewarding summer is in store for those who take this opportunity!

'Chariots of Fire'
is promising

Produced by David Puttnam ("Midnight Express") and directed by the award-winning British documentary filmmaker Hugh Hudson, "Chariots of Fire" is the story of Eric Liddell and Harold Abrahams, two sprinters who compete for Britain in the 1924 Olympic Games, held in Paris, France.

An Enigma Production for Allied Stars, the film concerns itself with the background, lives and motivation of these men, culminating in their respective Olympic events.

It is not unusual for film producers to read omnivorously in the hope of running across a story in some obscure source that might translate well to the screen. It is unlikely, however, that anyone but Puttnam would have received inspiration thumbing through the pages of a factual reference text entitled "The Official History of the Olympics," the only book he could find to browse through in a newly-rented Los Angeles home.

As the idea for "Chariots Of Fire" began to take shape in his mind, Puttnam chose Colin Welland, whose film credits include "Straw Dogs" and "Yanks" to create a screenplay about two young men vying for glory against heavy odds and with vastly differing motivations.

In "Chariots Of Fire," the two leading roles are played by actors making their screen debuts - Ben Cross and Ian Charleson. Memorable roles are also portrayed by Nick Farrell, Nigel Havers, Daniel Gerroll, Alice Krige and Cheryl Campbell.

But the film also contains characterizations by such fine actors as Sir John Gielgud, Ian Holm and Lindsay Anderson (temporarily forsaking the director ranks) as well as brief but telling appearances by Dennis Christopher and Brad Davis.

Director Hudson sees "Chariots Of Fire" as a story of personal endeavor, a relationship between characters. "The film is a very human story about growing up and achieving something against the difficulties that everyone has in their youth."

The choice of values is the key to the dramatic development of "Chariots Of Fire," challenging the two main characters in their pursuit of victory. Their decisions invest the film with what director Hudson refers to as a wonderful sense of purpose.

Editorials

Nobody's tool

If you've never written an article to make somebody on this campus mad, or if you've never stood in my shoes and listened to all the bulloney ideas of what a student newspaper is all about, you probably won't be interested, but I'm gonna tell you anyway.

According to our dear, often-referred to but seldom read Constitution (of the Communications Board—JSU), "It shall be the role of the student media to report the news and to provide an outlet for campus opinion (Editors note: not administrative opinion) and creative effort."

A local administrator recently informed us we should promote good relations and understanding between the students and administration.

To quote a fellow "journalist", Rod Blackmon of the LSU Daily Reveille, "There are a lot of things difficult to understand about the University, and I happen to be sitting in the middle of one of those confusing situations. From this hot seat in the basement of Coates Hall" (Student Commons in my case), "I'm expected to be radical because I'm a student, entertaining because I'm a writer, informative because I'm a journalist and careful because there are a lot of people waiting for our mistakes. . .

"...First, we are looked upon as inexperienced students by an administration that claims this is a student publication belonging to the students. Then, we are criticized, censored and embarrassed because we don't perform up to the professional standards of the administrators."

We will promote good relations and understanding between the students and administration, and we do, when it's there.

BUT we are not a tool of the administration, to be used in promoting only the good of JSU. This school is far from being perfect, and we're here to point out what's bad too, and hope that something gets done about it.

Yes, we need teacher evaluation

By MARIA T. PALMER

As a student, I can see many problems with our teachers and teaching procedures that may never come to the attention of department heads or deans without a formal teacher evaluation. For example, most students would never complain about a teacher being too easy, but it really is a problem.

Last semester, while the students taking one section of a XX 221 course sweated throughout the semester, the students in another section of the same course, under a different teacher, were told they would not have to come back to class after Thanksgiving if they were satisfied with the grade they had so far. They wouldn't cover anything new, she said. Unbelievably, (or should I say, sadly believably?) nobody complained. That teacher was getting paid for a job she didn't accomplish, but even worse than that, she failed to prepare a group of students for a task they will have to perform. . .and when other JSU graduates apply for work, the employer will say, "Well, the last kid from JSU didn't seem to be very well prepared. . ."

Too many teachers waste time in class discussing "fun" things such as their kids' baseball club. But students reason, "The less he covers in class, the less will be in the test—" Again, nobody complains.

Other teachers make special allowances which benefit neither the individual nor the class. One of my friends in education recently graduated after five years of struggling through courses at JSU and the upper division at Gadsden. True, he had had many disadvantages in life. True, he had it rough and we all felt sorry for him, but those teachers who gave him the grades out of compassion, curved them, or whatever, certified a partially illiterate person to represent JSU. The sad thing is (if his class performance was any indication of what is to be expected) that he will probably get fired the first time his principal sits through one of his history lectures. And the college of education has one of the highest standards of any college at JSU!

We need to demand that all our faculty members teach all the material the course is supposed to cover; we need to demand that they test the students fairly and that they set minimum standards and observe them faithfully. We need teacher evaluation.

Yes, we desperately need to evaluate our teachers. Not to "get rid of" those that we dislike for personal reasons, but to raise the standards of this University and to make our degrees mean more.

Some teachers may resent being subjected to an evaluation. I know it is uncomfortable, and that no system can be completely fair, but I submit to you that any system is better than nothing. If a teacher is working hard and performing his-her job well by preparing the students, he-she can only benefit from a control system.

There are many professionally-prepared teacher-evaluation questionnaires and systems. As a student, I would like to suggest some points on which teachers should be evaluated: punctuality, teaching methods, grading, testing, field knowledge and overall attitude. The completed evaluation forms could be used by department committees to suggest improvements or by higher authorities when the situation so required.

The teacher evaluation form which I would like to see students using would read something like this:

- Punctuality
Always shows up on time
Always ends class on time
Reasonably punctual
Always comes in late
Makes students late for next class
- Teaching Methods
Only lectures
Uses visual aids
Encourages student participation
Doesn't encourage student participation
- Grading
Easy A
You work for your grade
You suffer for your grade
You get what you deserve
Grade doesn't bear relationship to work
- Testing
Essay tests
Problems to solve
Multiple choice
Combination
Tests on material we covered in class
Poorly designed and inaccurate tests
Doesn't cover material for tests
- Teacher's Overall Attitude
Very concerned and willing to help
Interested in students and helpful
Can be understanding if he-she tries
Very impersonal
Hates students
- Field Knowledge
Knows more than just facts
Knows his-her subject thoroughly
Generally knows what he-she is talking about
Has a faint idea
Seems to fake his-her way through statement of explanation. The panel agreed that the traffic court is "lenient" in most cases. At the beginning of each appeals from persons who feel they have been unduly reprimanded in traffic situations.

From 'Somewhere in Time' to the classroom JSU professor is former costume designer

By KIM WHITEHEAD

The scenario was set at the magnificent Grand Hotel on Michigan's picturesque Mackinac Island and while actors Christopher Reeve and Jane Seymour pursued each other through time, JSU's Douglas Stetz, working as tailor on the set, chased costumed characters "to see that they were all together."

What had started as a summer vacation ended with a phone call when the Northern Michigan University graduate was asked to join the cast of "Somewhere in Time" on the island, where Stetz tailored costumes that were part of an entourage that later received an Oscar nomination.

Now, as the newly created Adjunct Professor of Theatre Design at Jacksonville State University, Stetz is bringing his experience to the campus' growing Drama Department.

His most recent involvement with film came when he worked as a costumer for the TV series

"Breaking Away." Taped in Athens, Ga., where Stetz was doing graduate work at the University of Georgia, the series involves scenes such as the one that required the story's protagonist to attend the opera—a scene that certainly demanded the costumer's expertise.

A native of Michigan, Stetz's initial interest was in fashion design but he "somehow managed to get disillusioned with it" and eventually received a degree in music from UNM. However, his attraction to design dominated and he found himself serving a two-year internship as a designer at his alma mater while he "tried to decide what to do with my life."

Upon the nearing completion of his time in that position, Stetz interviewed with New York well-knowns like Brooks Van Horne and applied for the University of Georgia's graduate school after realizing that their "entire design faculty" met his needs.

It was soon after, just following his summer stint with "Somewhere in Time," that Stetz had to make a tough decision.

"I found myself sitting on the side of a road in Ohio trying to decide if I should head north to a possible job in New York, west to an offer in Los Angeles, or south to school. After about 20 minutes, I headed for Georgia," he recalled.

Stetz claims that "my heart rules my life" and in December of '81, he received a phone call, traveled to Jacksonville, and was promptly given a job.

"I was packing to go home and rest when I got the call, so my vacation was spent preparing for the new position and I was in Jacksonville two weeks later," he said.

"The town's small and that's kind of hard to get used to," Stetz continued, "but, so far, it's fine." Main concerns for him currently rest with his cat and her new kittens and, of course, with adjusting to a new university system.

The JSU Drama Department, under the direction of Carlton Ward and Wayne Claeren, is beginning preparations for its upcoming spring production of "An Italian Straw Hat," for which Stetz is already busy conducting the construction of costumes.

A veteran of summer stock, Stetz himself has performed in 30 roles, been responsible for scene design, and knows "something about everything in theatre." At the present, he is sharing his experienced artistry with students as he does "not very traditional teaching" in costume design, stagecraft, and student theatre.

"I think that the facilities we have here are nice and we're ready for our program to really start growing," he said.

As for the future, Stetz commented, "It's JSU for a while, though I would like to pursue the cutting profession in New York. It won't be for the Broadway stage, though, because it's too commercial."

He said jokingly of his profession, "Your beginnings in this field are great—they ask you if you have ever sewed before and if your answer is yes, they handcuff you to a sewing machine for four years."

And, indeed, even if

Douglas Stetz's career had such a humble genesis, the years following have wrought for him a list of credentials worth renown.

Apathy

beer joint is a good reason to skip your homework and the next morning's hangover is a great reason to skip your morning Lit class.

Changing times have also changed the nation's young people. There are so many more social decisions to be made in this decade (drugs, pre-marital sex, alcohol, etc.). Perhaps today's college student doesn't have the time to get involved in campus politics.

What about apathy in the class room? Some students seem to think that the attendance quota requires rather than allows the student to be absent 25 percent of the time. There are those who don't pay attention in class, don't ask questions when they're puzzled, don't study and then blame the instructor when they barely pass with a D. Some university instructors feel that this lack of motivation carries over from high school. When high school teachers don't require participation and push the student to fulfill his or her potential, that student falls into a cycle of disinterest that is hard to break.

Is apathy rampant here at JSU? To take a look at this question, we may contrast the poor voter turn-out at the last Homecoming election with the record number of donors at the fall blood drive.

If there had not been competition among organizations at the blood drive would it have turned out as poorly as the election?

Students complain about the food, the administration, and the dorms, but no one wants to get involved with the organizations that are the mechanisms of change in a university. Nobody wants to expend the effort.

Apathy: Are you guilty?

The extras you learn in college

Carla Wheeler
Feature Writer

Think back to when you were a senior in high school, looking at a Jax State catalog. You thought that everything you could possibly learn in college was neatly listed on those pages. Three weeks after you got here, you discovered otherwise.

The average John or Jane learns about 90 percent more out of class than they do in class. Professors pound certain things into your head, depending on your major. Education majors learn how to type a lesson plan. Psychology majors learn Maslow's hierarchy of needs. English majors learn to quote Burns and Wordsworth. History majors learn about every war that was ever fought. We all learn little bits and pieces about different subjects, in the hopes of becoming well-rounded.

There are just a few more things we manage to pick up along the way, though. Mom and the high school counselor never warned us about them, either. See if any of these ring a bell with you—INSTALLING TELEPHONES—If you start getting phones when you are a freshman, you will have installed and cut off a phone about eight times. By the time you get your diploma, you will be on a first-name basis with the frizzy-haired woman at the Phone Center Store.

REGISTERING FOR CLASS—“Registration” should be one of the words you can't say on television. By your last semester, you will have finally figured out the least painful method of registration. I am all set to graduate in April, and last December I discovered the secret to ten-minute registration. Get in touch with me if you want in on it.

EATING AT HARDEE'S—If you are here the full four years, you will have consumed approximately 50 steak biscuits, 125 hamburgers, and 10,000 colas. Hardee's, Inc., is very enthusiastic about this fact. They are becoming upset, however, at the news that the average student consumes .45 red burritos daily.

WAITING AT THE LIGHT—By graduation, you will have spent the equivalent of one week waiting at the red light in front of Boozers. The same goes for the one in front of Hardee's. You could grow old driving in this town.

EATING LATE-NIGHT CHICKEN—This activity drew to a sharp halt when you-know-where ceased to be open around the clock. Missed by all, the funeral was held at “the germ”, and mourners grieved over cold greasy pizzas in their dorm rooms.

YAWNING IN CLASS—I estimate that from 10 to 15 percent of all those attending class daily are unconscious.

David Baugh, former director of the Career Placement Center said it best—“The mind can retain only what the rear end can withstand.”

BEING FRATTY—Though this rule doesn't apply to all, it does apply to some. Good ol' boys from everywhere learn to sing obscene songs off-key, joke with each other about strange parts of their initiation, get girls in their rooms with lines like, “You wanna see my aquarium?”, do strange things in fast food places (flat hamburger pickles stick nicely to windows), reel drunkenly off the front porch into the bushes, and dance while lying on the floor. The classic frat thrill here is getting twelve guys in one car and driving out to “Heartbeat Bridge”, wherever that is.

BEING FREAKY—Doesn't require any real skill. It only requires a taste for hard rock and an intense hatred of all frats, and most everyone else. Freaks have a grand total of four friends during their entire stay at college, and take pride in Not Getting Involved. They are into things like marijuana and not bathing.

MAINTAINING AN APARTMENT—Only for the stout-hearted. Move in, and the fun begins. One of the roommates' check bounces. The water-heater ceases to function. The fireplace catches the rug on fire. The pipes burst during cold weather. If someone tries to repossess your car, move back into the dorms.

There are thousands more, but space is limited. I would suggest getting all that you can out of college, because there will come a time when students won't be allowed to have checking accounts.

Prentice Polk to speak February 24 on campus

Prentice Polk's ambition was to be an artist, yet with a camera he became one of the South's most outstanding photographers. For most of his 82 years, Mr. Polk has captured the South and its history on film. Polk's work was exhibited at the Corcoran Gallery in Washington, D.C. and is presently on national tour. During his 51 year association with Tuskegee Institute, Mr. Polk photographed Eleanor Roosevelt, W.C. Handy, Will Rogers, George Washington Carver, and other historical figures. Some of his best known works are of subjects picked from the crowds passing on the street after he spied them from his studio. Polk is working some of his 300 photographs of Carver into a photographic history. He is also planning a collection of what he calls “the vanishing Negro”, the proud but gentle farm folk indigenous to the Tuskegee area and the South.

The Afro American Association, Art Department, and Sociology Club of Jacksonville State University are pleased to join in announcing that Mr. Polk will speak on our campus February 24th at 7:30 p.m. at the Roundhouse. An exhibit of his work will be on display February 24 through March 1 at Hammond Hall Gallery on campus. The gallery is open from 2:00 p.m. till 4:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. Everyone interested is welcome to visit the exhibit and hear Mr. Polk's presentation.

Mr. Polk is a vital link with the history of the South. He has offered us an opportunity to see the past through the lens of his camera. His work portrays the history of blacks in the south, as well as the history of photography. He will speak of his images of changes that have come with time. Mr. Polk will also have some slides of George Washington Carver, along with some interesting facts about Carver's work that are relatively unknown. We are sure that this is one event that you will not want to miss.

Backbeat

By Jon Hughes

Although I am not in the habit of reading other people's mail, and such practices are no less than a federal offense, this letter fell into my hands quite by accident. I share it now with posterity.

Dear Prudence,

What goes on? I heard it through the grapevine, you've been cheatin'. Baby, that's backatcha. Breakin' up is hard to do; honey don't. I want you back, back in my arms again. I can't get no satisfaction without you in my life. You're my soul and inspiration. Everyday, all I have to do is dream I got you, babe. You really got a hold on me all day and all of the night. Tell me why it's all over now?

Do you want to know a secret? Since you've been gone, everybody's trying to be my baby. I love only you. Until you come back to me, that's what I'm gonna do. Hey, little girl, believe it or not I only have eyes for you. Still, I'll be in trouble if I can't have you. I've been lonely too long.

Ooh, baby, baby, let's get it on. Think about me so into you. Imagine the way I feel, tonight...down in the boondocks. Let me love you once; then you can tell me goodbye. I wanna be your lover, tower of strength.

teen angel, candy man, bad boy, brown-eyed handsome man, dancin' fool. . . I only want to be with you. This guy's in love with you, sweetheart. I can't help myself, sugar pie, honey bunch.

My world is empty without you. Since I don't have you, slow dancin' don't turn me on. My heart is an open book. It keeps right on hurting. I call your name in the still of the night. I want you, I need you, I love you. Baby come back.

Someday, we'll be together. We'll sing in the sunshine, just the two of us. . . Just you and me, babe, we can work it out. You are the sunshine of my life. With a little luck, tonight's the night.

Call me.

Dedicated to the one I love,
Johnny Angel
P.S. I love you.

(Note: Try to identify the artists who sang the songs in this rock and roll love letter. I didn't cheat; the entire thing is made up of official song titles that were chart hits. Good luck.)

ALPHA TAU OMEGA

By JIM STUMP

We the brothers of Alpha Tau Omega wish to thank all those who participated in our spring 82 rush. Although spring rush isn't quite as spectacular as fall rush, we were quite pleased with the turnout. We had a great time meeting and entertaining all those who joined us during rush week. Those still interested in becoming an ATO feel free to stop by the ATO house anytime. Wildcat rush lasts until Feb. 8th.

Congratulations Randy Fortenberry for being selected brother of the month, way to go Randy! Our little sister of the week last week was Kelli Loper, and this weeks is Annette Cosmos. The brothers wish to thank all the little sisters who helped get things ready for rush, we appreciate it.

Our basketball team tips off Thursday night against Delta Chi at 7:30. This promises to be a great game.

Good luck Taus! The Tom Warriors also have a game this week, good luck fans!

ATO would like to announce an open party tonight at 8:30 at the ATO House, and everyone is welcome. ATO, the only way to go!

DELTA CHI NEWS

By IVAN L. MILLS

Delta Chi would like to thank everybody that came by our house during rush. We hope that all fraternities had a successful rush, as did we.

We would like to congratulate the Chi basketball team for their fine play this past weekend. We hope our team, behind the leadership of Mike Inman and Jeff Martin, can win tonight against ATO.

Delta Chi is proud to announce the initiation of one of Jacksonville's finest businessmen. Gene Sutley was initiated into the brotherhood on Jan. 10 of this year. Congratulations also go out to two of our Chi Delphia, Tara Bennett and Tambrin Radcliffe. Tara was lavaliered to Steve Bond of Houston, Tx. Tambrin recently announced her engagement to John Free, a fine young businessman from Georgia.

The brothers of Delta Chi would like to take this opportunity to publicly thank all of our Chi Delphia for the terrific job they have been doing this semester.

Although rush week has ended, we would like to remind the young men on campus that wildcat rush is still open. We still invite all young men to come by our house anytime and EXPLORE DELTA CHI!!!

KAPPA ALPHA REPORT

By PHIL SISK

The Delta Phi Chapter of the Kappa Alpha Order is raffling away a Technics turntable at $1 per ticket. This is a great chance for someone to pick up a valuable turntable for only $1.

KA is looking forward to the mixer Friday night with Delta Zeta. The theme is "Cartoon Comic Strip Characters". Social Chairman, Brother Chuck Rogers, has everyone fixed up.

Regular rush is over and KA has several fine young men as new pledges. Wildcat rush is underway and anyone interested in the Kappa Alpha Order is invited to come by the house anytime. Just ask any brother about the great feeling to be a part of KA.

KAPPA SIGMA REPORT

By KENT BAGWELL

The brothers of Kappa Sigma are very pleased with spring rush this year and we are proud of our new pledges. We expect a great deal from these super sharp guys and we are sure they will each fulfill their potentials as Kappa Sigma Pledges.

Wildcat Rush is now in full swing and we are still looking for more young men interested in fraternities. We invite you to come by our house anytime, get to know us, and maybe you can begin to realize a little of what Kappa Sigma is about.

This past Wednesday night the Little Sisters and Big-Brothers had our annual skating party. It was great fun for everyone who attended especially the party afterwards at the house. Thank you Little Sisters for a wonderful evening.

Basketball season is going superbly this year and the Sigs are playing fantastic. We are now 2-0 and looking forward to continuing success. Excellent job team, we're behind you all the way.

PI KAPPA

PI REPORT

By R.L. FOSTER

The brothers of Pi Kappa Phi would like to thank everyone who came through rush. We enjoyed having you visit, and invite you to drop by the house at any time.

Remember wildcat rush doesn't end until February 15.

Our chapter would like to welcome Doug Lesley into our brotherhood. Doug was initiated at Samford University and has recently transferred here to JSU. We feel that Doug will be a real asset to our fraternity.

Tuesday nights at 8:30 a Bible Study will be held at the house. Everyone is welcome.

Our basketball team opened it's season with a victory over a tough Delta Chi squad, this past Sunday. We face Omega Psi Phi Thursday night at 8:30 at Stephenson Gym.

We are very proud of our little sister program. The little sisters of the Star and Lamp play a very important part in our fraternity as a whole. We would like to congratulate our new little sisters: Joy Biles, Penny Brackett, Kelli Clemons, Kelly Conlon, Debbie Douglas, Kim Friddle, Kathy Galloway, Cindy Anna Lee, Elaine Momon, Lisa Patterson, Jill Peoples, Pam Piper, Colleen Radcliff, Tracy Thompson, and Karen Watford.

SIGMA NU

By JOHN VALDES, JR.

The brothers of Sigma Nu would like to thank all the people who went through fraternity rush this past week. Even though this semester's rush was different from those previously held, we still had a great turn out. Special thanks go to Gus Edwards and Steve Sheffield for making spring rush a success.

We would like to recognize and commend EN brother Byron Chandler. Through his initiative and hard work EN was able to raise over $3,000 for Cerebral Palsy with our Rock-a-thon. This is the largest amount our chapter has raised since our founding. We would like to continue our philanthropic efforts with our annual Easter Egg Hunt for children. Plans are now under way for making it a success also.

Last Monday, EN suffered a defeat in basketball by a very well-coached KE team. Congratulations to the brothers of KE on a well earned victory. Also, preparations for a winning softball season are under way. Both the brothers and little sisters are hard at work and anxious to begin playing.

The little sisters of EN are also in the process of planning their annual Valentine's Day Party for the brothers and guests the thirteenth of February. We the brothers of EN, would like to thank all the little sisters for their hard work on this project, as well as during rush. We would especially like to thank Donna & Lynda Fearly, Lori Patterson, Karen Ford and Jean Valdes for their special efforts.

Congratulations are extended to our newly elected officers. They are: Treasurer-Tim Worthy; Asst. Treasurer-Tony Taylor; Lil Sis Co-ordinator-Troi Hayes; and Pledge Marshall-Pat Sharon. We have confidence in their ability and feel they are well suited for their respective offices.

In closing, we the brothers of Sigma Nu, would like to urge any person still interested in fraternity rush, to visit the house. Wild cat rush registration is until Feb. 8, so until next week walk in the way of honor, follow a Sigma Nu.

DELTA ZETA

By VICKIE STEPHENS

Good Luck Angela Evans and Michelle Nix. Thursday February 4th these girls will be contestants in the Miss Northeast Alabama Pageant. We know you will do well. Everyone come and support all the contestants.

Sunday night the Delta Zetas invaded Pizza Hut. Each sister with the highest grade point from last semester was treated to a pizza dinner. Thanks go to Regina Norris scholarship chairman for this yummy idea.

Angela Evans was elected activities chairman and fundraising chairman. Congratulations Angela.

Wednesday night Big Sis-little Sis was held. Tammy Hinds and Penny Bunton got big sisters at this special time.

Thank you Big Brother David Brandon for coaching the Delta Zeta basketball team. Our first game was last Wednesday and we won by forfeit. Thursday night our team will play again.

Also thanks to Linda McAnnally our faculty advisor for an informative standards presentation last week. Linda came and talked to us about Financial Aid. Thanks again Linda.

PHI MU

By CYNTHIA BROWN

The Kappa Sigma chapter of Phi Mu would like to extend a warm welcome to our new pledges Dana McMillan and Allison Bowen. They received open bids to pledge Phi Mu last week and we're very proud to have them both! We would also like to announce the engagements of sisters Jill Morrow to Robbie Stephenson and Wendy Wood to Charlie Owens. Congratulations!!!

The Phi Mu's are looking forward to the Miss Northeast Alabama Pageant that's being held tonight at the Leon Cole Auditorium. Angie Stepp is representing Phi Mu and we would like to wish her the best of luck!! Afterwards, the Phi Mu's shall be celebrating at the Panhellenic Beer Bust at Strangers.

The JSU Gamecock Basketball team will be playing Miles College Saturday night at the coliseum. Let's all be sure to go out and cheer on these hard working athletes!!

The Phi Mu's are proud to announce that pledge Cynthia Brown made the Dean's List with a GPA of 2.6. Keep up the good work, Cindy!

Everyone looks forward to the annual publication of the Mimosa and the editor, Phi Mu Mandy Bates, has announced that the annual is finished and on its way to the press. We're proud of the great job Mandy's done and can't wait to see this year's Mimosa!

Well, that's the news, so until next week, remember: Phi Mu the greatest girls at JSU!!

ZETA TAU

ALPHA REPORT

By CHERYL LESTER

Zeta Tau Alpha is proud to announce we have eight new pledges following an informal rush party which was held last Wednesday night. The sisters wish a warm welcome to the following girls: Cindy Alexander, Cedartown, Ga.; Penny Brackett, Marietta, Ga.; Terri Cambell, Gadsden; Sandy Jacoby, Clarkston, Ga.; Michelle Leipert, Birmingham; Tammy Morris, Glencoe; Denise Myers, Birmingham; and Debra Oglesby, Talledega.

Plans are in the making for the White Violet Formal to be held in New Orleans. We are planning to ride on buses down there. The formal will be held on Saturday night in our ballroom and a band will play.

Pledge of the week is Kim Stanford and member of the week is Stacie Sams. The "smartie pants" award this week goes to Debbie Seales who has been studying extra hard this week. Congratulations to all our sisters and pledges who have recently become initiated little sisters of fraternities.

Congratulations also Pam Piper who is the new vice president of the little sisters for Pi Kappa Phi.

Zeta has three new senior sponsors of ROTC. Congratulations to Amanda Smith, Laura Kent, and Suzie Smith.

ROTC scholarship is one of the best available

"The Army ROTC scholarship is one of the best scholarships available anywhere today," said Colonel Archie A. Rider, Professor of Military Science at JSU.

Scholarships sponsored by the Army at Jax State and other colleges across the country provide the quality student with educational assistance which includes tuition, textbooks, laboratory fees and similar expenses. To make it even better, Army ROTC contributes up to $1,000 a year in living expenses for each year the scholarship is in effect.

The scholarship really takes the financial pressure off the shoulders of both the students and their parents. Furthermore, it frees students from having to work on a part-time job and provides them the opportunity to concentrate on their studies.

The two and three year scholarships available to JSU students are awarded on the basis of merit. Additionally, students must meet certain academic, physical, and leadership standards. The student's field of study can be in almost any area. Presently, nursing and engineering students are highly sought. Others include persons majoring in biology, chemistry, geology, physics, and mathematics.

"We are very proud of JSU scholarship winners," remarked Colonel Rider. "They have been an asset to the University and the Army ROTC program at Jax State."

Valuable job experience is insured for scholarship recipients in the active Army, Army Reserve, or National Guard when they graduate.

With the promise of outstanding financial assistance and a good job upon graduation, the Army ROTC scholarship is an attractive offer.

"In todays tight money market, with the price of college education going out of sight, this can be a tremendous help," said Colonel Rider. "In fact, it can often make the difference between a student attending or not attending college."

For the student who thinks he or she might be interested in a few years of military service following graduation, it is important to understand scholarship application procedures and criteria used for selection of past scholarship winners. Most winners last year had a "B" average or above in academics, and had demonstrated leadership capabilities by involvement in school activities such as clubs, athletics, fraternities, sororities, or civic activities. Interested students who meet this criteria can obtain more information about the Army ROTC scholarship program by calling JSU's Military Science Department at extension 601 or by visiting Rowe Hall and discussing this program with an Army Officer.

● For all you folks that complained about the frigid condition of the pool, complain no more. The heating element has been fixed for over a week so the water should be feeling just right.

● The latest word from the coliseum regarding the weightroom is that there are 1,291½ pounds of barbell weights. That might sound like enough until one realized that as many as 25 people show up at about 3:30 Monday through Thursday to workout. That averages to approximately 50 pounds per person - not enough to workout with. But the universal machine is in fair shape with all but one of its stations operational.

● The JSU track team will be competing in the Southern Indoor Championship on February 13 and 14. The meet is being held in Garrett Coliseum in Montgomery.

Coco Collins, an outstanding hurdler, is Jacksonville's best chance for representation at the nationals.

The team will also be traveling to Middle Tennessee State University for its last indoor meet before starting the outdoor season.

● How 'bout that touch of spring last week! It's too bad we have to wait a few months for the real thing. I'm tired of the cold.

● "Nice job" to the person who launched the paper aircraft from a third floor window in Martin Hall. Of course, it didn't do much for the anti-litter effort; but I guess there's always a price for greatness. I wonder if it was a frustrated math student or a bored professor.

Athens shooters put loss on Jax State

Athens used balanced scoring and a tough zone defense to take a 74-64 victory over Jacksonville State University Thursday night.

Athens, now 12-4, forced 22 Gamecock turnovers and kept JSU's defense off stride with a balanced offensive attack. Four Athens players hit in double figures.

Mike Sanderson and Steve Hedden paced the Bears with 13 points each, while William Beck and Kenny Lawrence tallied 12 each. The four helped Athens break the game open down the stretch, hitting all over the floor in the last five minutes.

"We just never seemed to get over the hump to take the lead," said JSU's Bill Jones, whose Gamecocks trailed only 57-54 when the Bears started their scoring spree late in the game. "Several times during the course of the game we cut the score to one point and had the ball, only to lose it on three charging calls and two walking calls.

"I feel that if we would have just taken the lead, we could have forced the temp of the game our way. As it was, we had to constantly make adjustments in our game to offset their style of play."

Freddie Benford led Jacksonville in scoring with 15 points. Earl Warren and Doug Creel had 10 each.

Jacksonville falls to 7-8.

Jax looks good, beats Delta State

Practice makes perfect and coach Bill Jones' Gamecocks have been practicing a lot.

Although the team wasn't absolutely perfect against Delta last Saturday night it wasn't far from it. And Jones was pleased with the 93-75 victory.

"We needed to go out and have a good basketball game tonight. Nothing picture perfect, but play with enthusiasm and generate some things offensively," said Jones after the win, which was the start of a long, conference home stand as the Gamecocks play eight of their next nine games at home.

"AND I THINK our guys did that. We attacked the areas of weakness that we found in Delta's defense and that was a key to the game."

The win gave the Jacksonville team an 8-8 overall record and improves the Gamecocks conference mark to 4-3. Delta State dropped to 13-4 overall and 5-2 in the GSC.

The Gamecocks played with a maturity and confidence that had been missing most of the season, but which has become more evident in recent games. With Delta State packing things tight inside with a 2-3 zone, the Gamecocks worked patiently and finding the open man for the good shot.

A big key in the Gamecock win was the play of the bench. Jeff McKibbin, a freshman from Toronto, Canada, was forced into the game early when starter David Carnegie picked up three fouls. McKibbin played extremely well, making big contributions to JSU's first half lead.

UTM downs Gamecocks, 68 - 62

Rocky Wilkinson puts up shot

JSU vs UTM turned out to be another heart-stopper last week as Gamecock guard Doug Creel hit a tying basket with just three seconds remaining to send the contest into overtime.

But opportunistic UTM sank seven free throws in the last 88 seconds to down the Gamecocks 68-62.

The Pacers, who improved their GSC mark to 4-2 jumped out to an early lead in the first minute of overtime and Jacksonville State never recovered.

"I HAVE TO be proud of this team's effort on this road trip," Gamecock head coach Bill Jones said. "In the overtime period, we had a chance to take the lead and dictate the flow, but could not get the ball to drop. The game could have gone either way.

"Our team really played hard against perhaps the most talented team in the league, and as long as we do that and continue to improve, we are going to do all right."

Jacksonville State, which took a close 79-78 decision over North Alabama Saturday night in Florence, travels to Athens College Thursday night to complete a three-game road trip. The Gamecocks are back home Saturday, playing host to Delta State.

LARRY BROOKS, the Pacers' 6-9, 235 center, had 24 points and 14 rebounds to lead Tennessee-Martin, whose record is now 12-7. Gus Rudolph added 15 points and Mitch Stentford 13 for the Pacers.

Leading the JSU scoring was Freddy

Benford, with 19 points. Creel had 16 and freshman Robert Guyton added 11.

The Gamecocks were 25 of 51 from the floor, for a 49 percent mark, while Tennessee-Martin shot 45.7 on a 27-of-59 performance. The Pacers were 14 of 19 from the free-throw line, compared with JSU's 12-of-18 showing.

But in the rebound department, Tennessee-Martin dominated with a 38-27 advantage.

Bret Jones passes to Henry Hart

Delta

"WHEN WE GOT in foul trouble early, I think it changed our style of play a little bit," Jones said. "Jeff McKibbon came off the bench and played an excellent game, as did Sylvester Grace. I think both of those guys played well." McKibbon tossed in nine points and pulled down nine rebounds while Grace also scored nine points and grabbed seven missed shots.

Jones also picked out another sub for praise, freshman guard Earl Warren.

"Earl makes some mistakes sometimes but they are hustling mistakes," the Gamecock coach said. "We sure don't want to do anything to slow down his playing." Warren had 12 points.

"I think Doug Creel and Anthony Robbins, along with Robert Guyton, went out and just played as hard as they could play and just really got after it," Jones said. "With the way we've pounded them with the early schedule and wore them down, it's a credit to them that they can come out with as much fight as they have."

THE GAME WAS very close from the start, with the lead changing hands with each bucket for most of the first 10 minutes.

Delta State's Robert Tanner hit a jumper with 7:09 left in the half to give the Statesmen a 24-23 lead, the visitor's last lead for the night.

A three-point play on the next possession by JSU's Freddy Benford, who led the Gamecocks with 15 points in the game, gave the Gamecocks a 26-24 advantage.

And when Guyton scored a bucket from the inside the next time down, the Gamecocks held a four-point lead.

It was here, Jones would later say, that the Gamecocks took charge of the contest. Delta State had been content to play its 2-3 defense until this point in the game.

BUT WITH JSU holding a lead and playing with great patience, the Statesmen went to a trapping, 1-3-1 zone. The zone trap, however, spread the visitors all over the court.

JSU used this to its advantage, gradually pulling away to an 11-point, 44-33 advantage by halftime.

In the second half, JSU continued to control the tempo, turning back repeated surges by the Statesmen with scoring spurts of its own. The Gamecocks played man-to-man defense for a large portion of the second half, a tactic that seemed to frustrate the Delta State offense.

Jacksonville built up a 19-point, 84-65 margin with 2:15 left on a field goal by Benford, then rested the starters for the remainder of the game as the victory was no longer in doubt.

Creel followed Benford with 13 points for Jacksonville, with Carnegie getting 11 points.

An easy way to get dizzy

Can you imagine running twelve laps around an inside track just to go a mile? The girls indoor track team has just started their indoor season and it consists of running around in a lot of circles - FAST! The girls went up to Murfreesboro, Tennessee to compete in their first indoor meet together and finished out 3rd overall. This may not sound great but when you consider that the first and second place teams in the 8 school meet had about 25 people each compared to JSU's eight, third place sounds great!

In our field events we had Coco Collins returning in the high jump. She placed third overall by jumping 5 feet 4 inches. This year JSU has recruited a talented freshman from Florida, Callie Thurman. Callie placed third in the long jump and set a new school record by jumping 17'8½". Callie and Coco not only compete in field events but are strong in the sprints. They proved this in the 60 yard hurdles. In the semifinals they both ranked in the top eight which qualified them for the finals. In the finals, Coco placed third and Callie finished not far behind in fifth place.

One of the strong points the lady Gamecocks team has is the middle distance runners - Yvette Spillman, Denise Coholich, and Lorrie Silvers. All three girls ran in the 880 yard run. Denise won the event with an astounding time of 2:23.6. Yvette placed 4th with a time of 2:29. She is in her last year of competition. Lorrie, a new transfer from Auburn and a new member of the JSU team, placed sixth with a time of 2:41.

Our distance team is smaller compared to the rest. It consists of Sharon White and Cheri Williams, both competed in cross country in the Fall. Cheri won the two mile with a time of 11:44.4 and Sharon, a runner from New Jersey, placed fifth, which helped with the total team score.

There are only two relay teams. The 2 mile relay, where each girl runs ½ mile and the 1 mile relay, where each girl runs ¼ mile. The two mile relay which consists of Spillman, Silvers, Coholich, and Williams placed second next to Middle Tennessee. The one mile relay finished fourth and that team consisted of Callie Thurman, Becky Threatt, Yvette Spillman, and Denise Coholich.

Congratulations to these girls and Good Luck in your meets coming up.
