Armed to rock

38 Special will appear at the Coliseum on November 16 at 8:00 p.m. Opening for the Jacksonville, Florida based group will be the Artimus Pyle Band. Tickets are $5.00 for students (1 student ticket per valid I.D.) and $7.00 for the public. Tickets are on sale at the SGA office and at area music stores.

Freshmen offered honors classes

By SUSIE IRWIN

The English and History departments will offer honors classes to second semester freshmen next spring.

Honors classes are a relatively new concept on the Jacksonville campus and will be made available to students where interest is expressed said Bill Meehan, Assistant to the Vice-President for Academic Affairs.

According to Dr. Clyde Cox, English department head, the honors classes will be "more sophisticated" in comparison to the regular sections offered.

Entrance into English 102 honors class requires an ACT score of 22 or better, and-or recommendations of an English 101 teacher.

Necessary qualifications for History 202 include an ACT score of 22 or better, a 2.5 overall GPA on hours attempted and a grade of B or better in History 201.

Dr. Pat Wingo will teach the history honors class and Dr. Anne Johnson will teach the English. The times and meeting places of these honors classes can be found in their respective department in the spring schedule booklet.

ODK initiates new members

By LYNN LePINE

JSU's Chapter of Omicron Delta Kappa, a national scholastic and leadership organization initiated 27 new members last week, bringing their total membership to 48.

Present at the initiation ceremony was Dr. Dan Beman, national vice-president of ODK.

Dr. Montgomery was also on hand at the event. He took the opportunity to welcome the new members and to remind them that ODK is a leadership organization. Montgomery encouraged all members to continue to set their goals high and wished them a successful association with the organization.

Mrs. Vi Wilkerson, executive secretary to Mr. Charles Rowe, vice-president of Financial Affairs, was initiated into ODK as an honorary member. Mrs. Wilkerson has worked with the organization since its formation on this campus, and she felt honored to have been selected for membership. "ODK is a worthwhile organization," remarked Wilkerson "It's quite an honor for an individual to be selected for membership."

Members are selected through applications made to ODK president Mary Hannah. Applications will again be offered in the spring semester.

Committee to investigate class elections

By SUSIE IRWIN
Associate Editor

Two resolutions were passed by the SGA Monday night, one concerning visitation hours in the dormitories and the other concerning the class favorite and class beauty elections.

SGA business manager Phil Sisk and Senator Dodie Coleman co-authored and co-sponsored a resolution to provide for an 'ad hoc' committee of seven members, appointed by the SGA president, to investigate the elections of class favorite and class beauty.

On Nov. 22 the committee will present a list of alternatives and-or "feasible recommendations" to the student senate. If 51 percent of the senate agree with findings of the committee, those findings will be adopted as the policy of the SGA.

Sisk supported the resolution by stating that every year the elections are controversial and the general feeling of the SGA has been "to let it slide till next year." He added that he would not like this SGA to be remembered in that way.

Another resolution was passed which advocates changing the visiting hours in the mens and womens dorms. This bill was authored by Sen. Renee Lupe and sponsored by the Senate dorm committee.

The visiting hours suggested in the resolution are for the womens dorms, Monday and Wednesday from 6:00 p.m. to 10:00 p.m., Friday and Saturday from noon to 1:00 a.m. and Sunday from noon until 11:00 p.m.

For the mens dorms the visiting hour suggestions were on Tuesday and Thursday from 6:00 p.m. to 10:00 p.m., Friday and Saturday from noon until 1:00 a.m. and Sunday from noon until 11:00 p.m.

U-Haul heisted

By SUSIE IRWIN
Associate Editor

Could JSU's production of "Death of a Salesman" been a success in competition without the scenery and costumes? Dr. Wayne Claeren and his group of student thespians almost found out this past weekend.

According to Dr. Claeren, a U-Haul truck containing the play's stage, costumes and other props, was "professionally" taken on the group's first night in Tuscaloosa. It was locked and parked in the area outside the motel where the players were staying.

Through an ironic twist of fate the truck was abandoned near a U-Haul station in Birmingham, discovered and soon traced to the Jacksonville troupe. After a short trip to recover the truck, the group found that tools used to construct the scenes were the only items missing.

Blood drive successful; ATO donates 111 pints

The ICC sponsored blood drive collected a total of 456 pints of blood for the American Red Cross recently on campus.

Many organizations were given awards in appreciation for their efforts during the drive. ATO had the largest number of donors collecting 111 pints and were given a plaque for their hard work and dedication.

Certificates were also given to other groups divided into the categories of social, service-religious, and professional. Those organizations were BCM contributing 25 pints, ROTC collecting 58 pints and Delta Zeta with 26 pints.

Coed wins in male dominated area

Jacksonville State University freshman Conda Shiflett may have become the first female in the nation to win the 4-H Club's National Electric Energy Award.

Miss Shiflett will travel to Chicago this month to collect $1,000 in prize money after winning the prestigious award over male competitors from 49 states with a project on microwave ovens.

Miss Conda Shiflett. . . .
First female National Electric Energy winner

"I don't think the guys will like it one bit when they find out a girl beat them," she said.

Miss Shiflett's project consists of a 15 minute oral presentation on how the ovens work, what type of utensils can be used, and how to operate the devices safely.

During the presentation, she demonstrates how to operate an oven by preparing a dip.

The project was completed during her senior year at Pepperell High School in Rome, Ga.

After winning regional contests in her state, Miss Shiflett in August became the first female to ever win the Georgia state 4-H prize of a full year's tuition at the college of her choice.

Although she has already been chosen as the national winner, she will travel to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago Nov. 27 - Dec. 3 to receive the award.

Miss Shiflett said she conducted several hours of research before completing her project. Her research included visiting a Georgia technical college to gather information about the electronic aspects of the ovens and questioning her mother, Joann, about "practical information." She also consulted University of Georgia extension agent Barbara Carter.

Miss Shiflett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Shiflett of Rome, Ga., is a home economics major at Jacksonville State, where she will begin using her tuition scholarship next year. She hopes to work as a home demonstration agent after graduation.

Upon learning of her selection, Miss Shiflett was told by 4-H officials that she may have also become the first female to ever win the national electric energy prize.

"They're checking on it to find out for sure. If it's true, I hope the guys don't mind too much."

Brooks named Alumni Director

By SUSIE IRWIN

Jacksonville State University has a new alumni director who is actually a '54 graduate of Jacksonville, Mr. Buford "Pete" Brooks.

"To improve the Alumni Association's effort in support of JSU" said Brooks describing his one major objective concerning the office. He intends to accomplish this feat through "basic organization, planning and action."

On Monday, the Alumni Office moved into the Alumni House located directly across Pelham Road from the Montgomery Building.

It is Brooks' plan to make the Alumni Office more sensitive and responsive to the Alumni. As director, he will coordinate the obtaining of gifts and other contributions from alumni, plan and implement special events such as homecoming, receptions, and alumni day, publish the alumni magazine, bulletins and other information, serve as secretary of the Association, as well as performing many other responsibilities.

Brooks retired February 1, 1982 from a military career that spanned 28 years of service.

He was stationed at Fort Bragg, N. C., and Korea as a battery commander, and he has served as ROTC instructor at the University of Miami, Fla. He is a former staff officer for Command Group in Europe, battalion commander in West Germany, personnel staff officer in Vietnam and staff officer at the Department of the Army in Washington, D. C.

Brooks has received the Legion of Merit, the Joint Service Commendation Medal and the Army Commendation Medal with two oak leaf clusters. At the time of his retirement, Brooks held the rank of colonel.

Kappa Alphas excel in civic oriented projects

By SCOTT BUTLER

When one thinks of a fraternity or sorority they usually automatically think of parties, rush, drinking and intramural sports. What many people don't see are the good things these organizations do for others in our community. Many sororities go to retirement homes and orphanages, and all fraternities contribute each year to a chosen philanthropy.

Recently the K.A.'s have completed three community projects - the Jacksonville First Baptist Church, the Jacksonville Elementary School, and St. Lukes Episcopal Church each received assistance in cleaning and renovating.

We urge all Greek organizations to keep up the good work and stay involved, not only within our campus but the community at large.

Kappa Alpha at work

Locke discusses relationship of city police to campus

By ANDY JONES

A series of interviews is to be conducted with officials on campus and in the surrounding area in an effort to offer useful information, often hard to obtain, to the student body.

The first interview was conducted with Chief Paul Locke of the Jacksonville Police Department.

Chanticleer: What is the most common violation seen with JSU students?

Locke: Speeding would be our most frequent violation followed by offenses like running stop signs and traffic lights.

Chanticleer: What are the fines for these?

Locke: Speeding is a set fine of $20.00 plus $19.00 for court cost. This is a standard fine unless high speeding occurred. We don't always write citations. Our officers look at the road conditions, traffic, and the presence of children. Failure to stop at a red light or stop sign is a $10.00 fine plus $19.00 court cost.

Chanticleer: Do your cars have radar equipment?

Locke: Yes. Usually at least one car is equipped with a radar device.

Chanticleer: How is a D.U.I. (driving under the influence) arrest made?

Locke: When an officer feels like a person has had enough to drink, the subject is taken to our station for testing. This is done with a machine called a PHOTO-ELECTRIC INTOXIMETER. In Alabama a 1.0 percent on the meter is legal grounds to be charged with D.U.I. A .06-.10 percent is called "the grey area", and it is the officer's discretion whether to charge the subject or not. For example, if the officer finds drugs in the subject's possession and his actions reflect usage.

Chanticleer: What are the fines and penalties of D.U.I.?

Locke: To start, the state fine is $200.00. Then the city court cost fee of $19.00. This must be paid as a bond for release. If found guilty, you must attend a "Drunk Driving School" for about three weeks. There is a cost for this school you must pay.

Chanticleer: What is the city's jurisdiction on the campus?

Locke: The JSU campus is in the city limits so we have full jurisdiction. The same is true about your campus police. They can write a citation anywhere in the city.

Chanticleer: Where are the "high accident areas" around campus?

Locke: Mountain Avenue and Pelham, the intersection at the Delta Chi house is our worst. Next would probably be the area behind the Kappa Sigma house. There are a lot of stop signs back there people don't use and accidents occur.

Chanticleer: What about fraternities? Are they a problem?

Locke: We do get a few nuisance calls at the houses. Loud stereos or noises are the usual calls. But on a whole less than 50 percent of our calls involve fraternities. More calls about disturbances occur at houses or apartments rented by students where residents are living close together. In general, I have no complaint about them. They get involved in civic projects that people do not hear about, that we appreciate. I also think they straighten up some freshmen who get out of line.

Chanticleer: What is the latest on the noise ordinance?

Locke: The city council has not passed any ordinance yet and we do not have a meter. The Saturday night of Homecoming I went around to several locations with a meter we borrowed and no problems were registered.

Chanticleer: Do you see many controlled substance (drugs) violations around campus?

Locke: We average 5-6 arrests per month. These involve marijuana, cocaine and we still see Quaaludes.

Chanticleer: What is the quickest way to get in touch with the city Police or Fire Departments?

Locke: Just by dialing 911, you will get either our Police or Fire dispatcher, whichever answers first. That number rings at both and they can both dispatch.

Announcements

Jax Danz performs

Members of Jax Danz loosen up to the way out music of the JSU percussion ensemble. The two groups will merge on November 15th to perform in the Ernest Stone Center for Performing Arts. The concert will begin at 8:00 p.m. and admission is free.

Applications available for scholarship

Applications for the Linly Heflin Scholarship are available in the Financial Aid Office.

The scholarship is open to all Alabama females who are single, possess academic proficiency and who do not belong to a social sorority.

Deadline to apply for the scholarship is January 1, 1983. Personal interviews are to be held with each applicant in Birmingham on Saturday, February 26.

"The Linly Heflin organization has provided many scholarships to our students over the years and I highly recommend anyone meeting their requirements to apply for this assistance," said Larry Smith, financial aid director. Smith said the scholarships range from $750 to $1200 per year and are renewable.

Latest models on display at Computer Fair

Jacksonville State University will sponsor a Computer Fair featuring the latest models of small business and personal computers Friday, November 12, 8 a.m. - 10 p.m., third floor of Theron Montgomery Building on campus.

Approximately 15 companies will be represented in the "hands-on" showing of hardware, according to Dr. Parker Granger, chairman of JSU's Small Business Development Center.

Equipment will be demonstrated by such manufacturers as Apple, Radio Shack, IBM, and xerox. There is no admission charge.

Troy State and JSU . . . Saturday Night . . . Be There . . . Aloha.

Career seminar planned

The Psychology Club is sponsoring a career seminar on Monday, Nov. 15 at 7:30 p.m. in room 114, Ayers Hall.

The seminar will include Dr. Gary Yunker who will speak on career opportunities in industrial and organizational psychology. Dr. Steve Bitgood will discuss child, clinical, and instructional psychology and their career opportunities.

Bederman to show early west

Some of the earliest landscapes ever painted of the American west will be shown by noted geographer Sanford Bederman during a slide show and lecture November 17 at 7:30 p.m. in the College of Nursing auditorium on campus.

Bederman, professor of geography and professor of urban life at Georgia State, will show slides of paintings, sketches, maps, and artistic interpretations of the American west as it was seen during the early 1800's.

Points Of View

Office shutdowns: Is JSU 'out to lunch'?

A strange phenomenon has long been existing on the campus of JSU. For some foreign, uncomprehensible reason, at precisely 12:00, all Jacksonville personnel disappear, abandoning busy offices for that daily human practice called lunch.

I agree whole-heartedly in this practice as I too am human but for the average college student (I also fit this description) this "office shut-down" can have serious side effects. There is, of course, the inconvenience, sometimes long lines which often results in irritable and rude students.

There are few if any offices which have less than two or three persons working in them so why not make time off for their daily requirement in shifts. In this way, the office would remain open all through the day and even allow those persons working in the office to make necessary visits to other offices, which might otherwise be done during office hours or not at all.

Susie Irwin

With registration coming up, offices remaining open during lunch should be considered because that extra hour could provide shorter lines which would no doubt please students who must register in the more popular colleges on campus.

Changing the office hours for many key departments would not be a major media event. It would simply necessitate a highly responsible, administrative decision.

Besides, why should taking care of regular student business called for during the academic season such as paying a bill or registering for a dorm be comparable to getting a taxi in Mexico City during the siesta?

Editor's Note:

This editorial was prompted by the fact that the JSU switchboard was erroneously deferring calls to the Chanticleer office during the lunch hour. The Chanticleer office is open through lunch.

Hill clarifies points made in Saga article

Dear Editor,

Although Saga appreciated the opportunity to have our meal program explained in the Nov. 4th issue of the Chanticleer, I must take exception to a number of comments contained in the article.

Meal rates range from an average of $1.52 per meal to $2.40 per meal rather than the $2.40 per meal for all plans as stated in the article.

Saga does not utilize "instant" foods, but rather relies on limited convenience food type items in some menued items. These are very limited and all basic food production is from "scratch". A budget is not a determining factor in the choice or types of vegetables we use. Shoppers know that one can purchase fresh vegetables at less cost than canned or frozen. The majority of vegetables used in the Dining Hall are frozen and are used in lieu of fresh because of the time and personnel necessary to do strictly fresh vegetables.

Saga does not receive nor use commodities. Commodity is a common term used when referring to government surplus food items used in many school systems throughout the U.S. We are not eligible for and do not use any such commodities.

The comment concerning menus sounds as if students may have to wait days before a favorite entree is served and that "tasty" menus are few and far between. The comment I made noted the food variety offered at each meal, including the salad and soup bars and our deli line, should provide students a likeable choice at every meal.

I know the intent of the article was to inform students about the make-up of Saga's program at JSU. It becomes quite easy in such interviews to misinterpret comments unintentionally. I appreciate the effort of the writers to provide this type of information to our student body and only wish to clarify some of the comments made concerning our fine program.

Sincerely,
Eric Hill
Food Service Director

Instructor feels students should take pride in beauty of campus

Dear Editor:

I felt a great deal of pride as I sat in the stadium on October 16, watching our great football team play and listening and watching to our wonderful band and ballerinas perform with their usual excellent rating.

I was just as thrilled as the students when it was announced that Oct. 16 had been set aside as Student Appreciation Day at J.S.U. because I feel that our group of students really deserve this honor.

During the eight years of my employment at Jacksonville State University, I have really been impressed with the majority of the student body here.

Each day in my classroom I teach students whom I know have pride in themselves. They try hard and are concerned about their grades.

I go to other functions on campus and I see students who have class. In art, music, drama, as well as athletic events, I see students who are truly dedicated to their areas of specialization.

With students of this caliber, I cannot understand how we can have such a problem with litter on campus. I get so discouraged when I walk across a parking lot or a vacant playing field and find enough cans and bottles to fill a grocery bag; or when I find signs and other type of paper trash in every direction. This is very distracting to our beautiful campus.

I really feel that we should take the same pride in our campus as we do in our cars, our living quarters, our clothes and our bodies. So come on gang. Show your spirit! Show your pride! Help us keep our campus beautiful so that we will be proud to show it off to our friends and relatives. Sometimes the class of people is judged by their surroundings. Let's make an effort to show people that we truly care and that we are in a class by ourselves.

Thanks.

Student Mail Center: convenience or nuisance?

Dear Editor:

When I picked up next semester's schedule from Bibb Graves Hall, I found it contained a rather disturbing memorandum. This anxiety-causing note's purpose was to inform us, the "dear students" of JSU, that our mail would no longer be delivered to our dorms.

"As a convenience to you, the University is constructing a student Mail Center on the fourth floor of the Montgomery building," it stated. Convenience to me? This is a convenience? Oh, I see: it's easier for me to walk the mile between my dorm and TMB and suffer frostbite in the winter and heat stroke in the spring than it is to walk the eleven and a half feet from the desk in my room to the door. Of course, one must consider the fact that the chances of lower back injury suffered from bending over to pick up the letter on the floor will be greatly reduced.

What is this, some kind of joke? Let's face the underlying facts behind this 'service.' I cannot help but wonder if the dorm directors and the R.A.'s, wherever they've been this semester, are not partially behind this new mail center business. Could it be possible that these seldom seen when needed people do not have the time or the desire to deliver the mail to our rooms? Secondly, whoever is behind this fiendish plot is obviously very naive. Anyone with an I.Q. above a hundred could deduce that these mailboxes, no matter how many security guards are on the scene, will be broken into and otherwise vandalized.

No doubt there will be a small fee for the replacement of lost keys.

Concerned over a convenience,
John Stathelson

PAT

Pat and Bert ask. . .

If you've seen this man, call 555 . . .

BERT

Let's get a few things straight right now. First, we really didn't write last week's letter. Second, and this is for you, Marlowe, we don't get paid, so if you've got any fancy ideas about copping our job, forget 'em. Third, please write again. We need all the clues we can get to find out who you really are, and by the way, we're already looking.

What's in a name? Sam Marlowe. A name for a Real Man. You probably can't even pronounce "quiche", but Sam, you need to straighten a few things out. Everyone knows you don't call it a "Roscoe". Roscoe is a name for wimpy intellectual nerd who dribbles white wine down his chin while watching Phil Donahue interview Alan Alda about the E.R.A. Any private dick worth his retainer knows his piece is a "heater", especially if it's larger than .38 caliber and has a barrel longer than Streisand's nose. So Mike Hammer's into EST now, huh? Well, at least he's not caught up in some hip 80's Rolling Stone mentality. Christ, could you imagine Warhol with a gun and a license? What a joke.

Oh, and Sam, be careful about which stoolie you trust. We knew Nick when he used to beg for quarters outside his cousin Rick's cafe. And as for his blind bit, if you believed that we need to talk turkey about some beachfront property in fabulous Jacksonville, AL. Yeah, Rick's aunt didn't raise any fools, or any blind kids, for that matter.

We cornered Nick just the other day, waxing Rick's DeSoto behind the Cafe. Nice ride, that DeSoto. No matter how long it stays parked at a yellow curb, the local yokel rent-a-cops won't touch it. Everybody who's anybody on the street recognizes Rick's wheels. With the well worn orange plaid upholstery and an inflatable party doll loud ornament, it's hard to miss. And you make $50 a day?

"Hey Nick, who's the new local talent we've been hearing about?" Nick was as silent as an empty .38. A couple of tokens later and Nick was singing a new tune. Yeah, Nick works cheap. Lucky for us. With the price of good booze, dames, and meals at all night diners going up every day, we have to draw the line somewhere.

"I don't have his name fellas, but you can bet it's not Sam Marlowe," Nick muttered. "Sam bought it in '52 in Chicago from a concrete shoe salesman. He slipped me a fin and I had to say something."

We understood. For five bucks we'd sell our moms, especially if Domino's was having a 3.99 special.

"What'd he look like?" we asked.

"Well guys, you know my eyes aint so good," he began. A token cured his myopia real quick. "But I can tell you he had the Accounting 391 textbook with him. I couldn't describe him. Ya seen one accounting teacher ya seen 'em all.

We gave Nick an affectionate pat on the back as we left. When he'd picked up his false teeth off the ground he said "Thanks for the business guys." Yeah, no sweat Nick. Like life, tokens are cheap in this city.

We beat it over to the Business school. Our last shot was to shake down the Dean in hopes of a break. After donning our Khakis and calculators, we entered, muttering phrases like "cost efficiency" and "product over-run". We sauntered into the Dean's office and stopped short. The secretary was a bombshell. She was gorgeous, with a mouth like a red gash. We immediately thought of leaving our wives and children. And we're not even married.

"May I help you," she said in a voice that sounded like a cat rubbing against your leg.

"Please do," we countered. Behind every man is not just a woman, but a secretary. If anybody knew the score around this office, it'd be this dame, not the stuffed shirt behind the inner door. "We're looking for a guy. The kind of man who props his feet on his desk a lot, squints until his eyes bleed, and has that beaten down, world-weary, disillusioned kind of look. He probably spouts old movie cliches and looks for any excuse to do his Bogie imitation. The kind of guy who wears his trench coat so much you

BEGIN YOUR FUTURE AS AN OFFICER.

Many college courses prepare you for a job in management. Sooner or later. But successfully completing Army ROTC will place you in a management job right after graduation.

It's definitely not a trainee job. You could be accountable for millions of dollars worth of equipment. And responsible for many of the Army's top technicians.

You might find yourself supervising a staff of computer programmers in Heidelberg. Missile technicians in Korea. Or satellite trackers in Samoa.

To qualify, you take a few hours of ROTC classes weekly, along with the subjects in your major. You'll receive financial assistance — $100 a month, up to $1000 a year — in your last two years. And you might even qualify for a scholarship.

For more information on what could be the most important planning decision you'll ever make, see your Professor of Military Science. Or write to: Army ROTC, P.O. Box 9000, Clifton, New Jersey 07015.

Dr. Rock

By R. Stacy McCain

Pat and Bert think they get letters! Last week, I casually mentioned that I preferred the music of Led Zeppelin to that of Rush. I returned to my room to find that a note had been slid under my door, threatening my very life. Which just goes to show you how seriously some people take their music.

People who take their music very seriously are called fanatics, fans for short. It has occurred to me that one can often tell what type of music a person prefers by how they dress, act, and speak. So, in order to help JSU's students tell one fan from another, the Chanticleer is proud to present Dr. Rock's 1982 Guide to Music Enthusiasts:

Disco Fans - - Discoites, having abandoned the shiny-shirt-and-stretch-slacks look of 1978, now wear double-breasted shirts with skinny ties and striped Spandex pants. They are known to begin tapping their feet at the mere mention of Earth, Wind & Fire. Their conversations often take on the following pattern: "What's your sign?" "I can't hear you, the music's too loud!" "I said I bet you're a Scorpio!" "It's a quarter past twelve!" "Oh, Aquarius, huh?" Maybe disco fans should be required to learn sign language.

Classical Fans - First of all, people who like this music can't stand any other type of sound, so the first clue that someone enjoys Rachmaninoff, Tchaikovsky, and all those other guys with funny names is that they say things like, "Turn that crap down!" and "How can you LISTEN to that garbage???" Obviously, music appreciation classes don't teach the finer points of such artists as Humble Pie and The Dead Kennedys, so one must simply endure the ravings of these poor, underprivileged children.

Punk Rockers - The most misunderstood group of fans, due mainly to the fact that so many poseurs exist. First of all, punks DON'T go to college — they either drop out of high school or go to art school. Secondly, a REAL punk wouldn't be caught dead listening to the Go-go's or Men At Work—they listen to stuff like the Ramones, Fear, and BowWowWow. Finally, PUNKS DONT SMILE—a blank, vacant stare is the most popular punk expression, but others also enjoy widespread usage, such as the Elvisoid-heavy-lidded-sneer, the I-find-you-SO-disgusting-sowl, and the I-eat-preppies-for-breakfast-smirk.

Heavy Metal Freaks - I know this group well, as I was a card-carrying Metalloid for most of my high-school days, which is where most of these types are to be found. Requisite metal wardrobe items include bell-bottom slacks, Van Halen belt buckles, and at least one "Disco Sucks" T-shirt. Hairstyles range from the I-wish-I-was-Steve-Perry, long, lank look to the Stuck-my-finger-in-a-light-socket, Lou Gramm look. Speech patterns are usually slurred by constant drug use, but what can be understood usually sounds something like this: "Like, uh, oh Wow, man. . . I'm, like, soooo blitzed, man. . . it's like, . . . where's the door, man?"

Jazzboes - These cats hang around Mason Hall, arguing with the Classical squares. They are too cool for words, and take great pleasure in saying such things as, "Well, he's not bad, but nobody's really played sax since Bird died." They are never seen without their sunglasses, and like to wear sport coats with leather patches on the sleeves. Most of all, they revel in putting down rock 'n' roll, blissfully unaware that, thirty or forty years ago, their music was also dismissed by "serious musicians" as loud, unintelligible garbage.

Country Music Buffs - The most easily-recognized type of fan, country enthusiasts wear cowboy hats, yoke-front shirts with pearlized snaps, large leather belts with huge turquoise buckles, and the inescapable boots in which they hope to be buried. Most of the men (and some of the women) dip snuff or chew tobacco, and engage in such activities as two-stepping, buck-dancing, riding the bull, and crying in their beer whenever they hear Ol' George sing "If Drinkin' Don't Kill me, Her Memory Will". The most recognizable characteristic of a country fan, however, is his speech: "Why hell, Mary Lou, if'n I'd-a known you was married, I'd-a never ast you to go to the Honeymoon Lodge with me, but seein' as how I had to shoot your husband when he caught us, I reckon we'd better mosy on over to the jusice O' th' peace an' tie th' knot."

All country music fans own guns, which they keep in the rack in the back of their four-wheel-drive truck.

Why on earth is it called 'The Chanticleer'?

As we have received several queries as to why this newspaper is called the Chanticleer, we have decided to let someone else do the explaining.

In an editorial reprinted from the very first issue of the Chanticleer, the editor tells why the paper is named after, of all things, a chicken.

A letter from the 1966 editor

Yes, this is your paper, the old COLLEGIAN. The new name, CHANTICLEER, is the noble idea of Alvis Tidwell, the drawing on the masthead is an offering from your humble servant.

Some of the other names suggested were the Gamecock (the name of USC's paper), the Southerner (the name of Southern Union's paper), the J-View (discarded because of its general lack of everything called desirable), the Cock-Eye, the Cock-Tale, ad obscenum.

Chanticleer, the rooster in "The Nun's Priest's Tale" of Chaucer's CANTERBURY TALES, came to Chaucer from an old French fable. Chanticleer, which is an accepted English word for rooster, is derived from Old French, which is, in turn, derived from the Latin CANTARE, to sing, and CLARUS, clear.

Other spellings of the new name are Chauntecleer, and Chante-Cler. Chanticleer was chosen as the "most" English and the most pronounceable (chan'ti-kler).

The only drawback we could find in using the name of Chanticleer is that he is a character in a beast fable written in mock heroic poetry. Human dignity suffers when the beasts in a fable assume human behavior patterns - this is bad. But what is worse is the elevated language, or rhetoric, which is used to accentuate the pettiness of actions, not of men, but of barnyard animals masquerading as men. But, "We are the Gamecocks and we couldn't be prouder. . ."

The most desirable action is probably to "accentuate the positive," however we believe it does man good to sometimes see himself and all his absurdities. The CHANTICLEER will endeavor to be a mirror which will reflect the progressive actions of the students in a positive manner. But mirrors are not selective. They reflect the absurdities, as well as good characteristics.

A paraphrase of one interesting passage of the "Nun's Priest's Tale" is as follows. A poor widow had a rooster named Chanticleer. She kept him in a yard enclosed with sticks and a dry moat. But from his enclosure, Chanticleer crowed, and, in all the land, there did not exist his peer when it came to crowing. His voice was merrier than the church organ that played on Mass-days, and his crowing was more reliable than the best timepieces in the land.

Shot at regional competition looks good for drama dept.

By SHERRE WATERS

Last weekend, the JSU Drama Department took "Death of a Salesman" to Tuscaloosa for State competition. There were seven plays from schools within the state. Dr. Claeren said, "All were good productions, ours could be considered with the best of them."

The two critics of the shows served as adjudicators and will make recommendations to the American Theatre Association.

"The judges spent a lot of time helping us on our characters" Shelton Brown, an actor in the play said. They said it was, "an intelligent production, a wise choice for a show and could travel easily." At the end, most of the audience was in tears.

If notified in December that "Salesman" won the state competition, the play will travel to the regionals in Abbeyville, South Carolina.

Exercise improves health

Do you put off EXERCISE as you do studying? Well, it will have the same effects on you as studying does on your grades. If you don't study your body maintain a better fight against common colds this winter and even diseases like cardiovascular problems. Oxygen rich arteriosclerosis (hardening of the arteries).

What can you do? Swimming, available at the coliseum, is one of the best overall exercises. It involves using your body and gives the heart a workout. Racquetball, handball and tennis at the coliseum give the legs a workout. Then the weight room on the bottom floor will work specific parts of your body at a time. In the weight room you will find several barbells, with free weights, squat bar, incline bench, curl bench, assorted universal exercises and a leg life machine. Now is the best time to take advantage of this free facility because it tends to get very hot in there during the warmer months.

Jogging is great for the cardiovascular system and lightening up the legs. A track is open to students at the coliseum or just hit the roads. Pacing is the key to this.

Two things are important when exercising. First, your diet is just as important. Your body will not look good no matter how much exercise you do if you eat poorly. Second, is the schedule of your exercising. An occasional workout is hard on your body and you could set yourself up for a heart attack. Exercise is to condition your body, not attack it. Slowly get into shape and then maintain a regular pattern of physical exercise. Many students have set a three day a week routine. For instance Monday, Wednesday and Friday. Also, don't get into a "set routine". This will only work out the same parts over and over, and you might be neglecting some.

Don't give in and say, "I'll start next week." Plan your schedule with a friend and jog, play tennis or lift some weights. It will pay off, and you will look and feel better.

enough, your grades will not be good enough. If you don't exercise enough, you will not look as good as you wish.

College life has a lot of problems: exams, lack of sleep, stress, frustration, dorm life and often, poor nutrition. All of these are a detriment to your health. We worry, study late, eat quickly and party a lot.

Too many people say, "I wish I looked like him or her." You know you need to start exercising, and you want to, but you give in and do something else.

Regular exercise can help blood from good nutrition and exercise will contain more antibodies to combat infections. A strong heart is not as likely to have problems as a weak heart caused from obesity.

Exercise stimulates and strengthens your heart by increasing the force of contractions of the heart during your workout. This is why most people who work out regularly have a "strong pulse". This stronger force of blood circulation helps to keep your arteries and vessels clear and prevent or slow down diseases like Relaxation no. But it sure is a great way to beat out frustrations. Jax State's intramural activities offer students a great way to get out of the dorm, get good exercise and meet other students.

Students discover how to. . .

Beat the dorm room blues

By LIZ HOWLE

What happens when the walls begin to close in and there is no light at the end of the tunnel of homework?

That's when students make a mad plunge for the door. Once safe outside the confines of their room they ponder what the next step will be.

They pull from their pockets a list of sanity break activities. "Let's see . . . swimming, movies, bird-watching, swinging, wading in the creek, tree climbing . . ."

I MISSED IT?! Duff Manners exclaimed unbelievably. Ping Pong, competitive yet fun can be played at several locations on campus.

Serving the ball sure beats serving sentence in the room with those textbooks.

GOTTA GET THAT FINANCE OFF MY MIND.

Many students ride their bicycles as a means of transportation. However, to others bicycling is a great way to get school off the mind. Wind against the face and beautiful scenery have a way of pushing unpleasant thoughts out of one's mind.

SHOOT THEM AWAY. Many students escape to the campus "pool hall" when they need a break. All thoughts of school leave as total concentration is put in the game.

THE FEVER. Why are video games so popular with students? Perhaps they lure us from the humdrum reality world of school to an exciting fantasy world.

Department attends conference

By GIL SANDERS

Thursday, November 4, a group comprised of mostly Sociology and Social Work students departed for Tuskegee Alabama for the Alabama-Mississippi Social Work Conference. Their purpose was to gather information about the status of social programs and also to provide input on how they felt their chosen profession, social work, could be best utilized in today's somewhat conservative atmosphere. As a member of this group I'm proud to say that our group was one of the best, if not the best, represented schools attending the conference. This was not an easy feat when you realize that schools such as Alabama, Auburn, Troy State, Delta State and many other universities of these calibers were also present. But we're proud to say, Jacksonville held its own in the face of all this competition.

First of all, our faculty held its own. Mark

Fagan, Social Work instructor here, was the Alabama Chairperson of the conference and also the Chairman of the workshop given. He was accompanied by Dr. Rodney Friery, Dept. Head of the Sociology Dept., and also by Mrs. Becky Turner, Social Work instructor, who is a favorite of Sociology and Social Work students.

Secondly, the students from Jax State held their own in the workshop set aside for "students only." Some of our females actually turned the entire tide of the Conference with their suggestions and comments.

Thirdly, our faculty along with our students held their own at Jason's, a discoteque owned by one of the members of the group, The Commodores. They literally turned the place out. In conclusion, if you were not there you missed a great time, but if you were there I'm sure you felt just as proud of Jax State students as I did!

ATO

By JIM STUMP

The brothers of Alpha Tau Omega held their first annual Little Sister Appreciation Toga Party last Thursday night. It was a real blast! Our new little sisters are Gina Alexander, Donna Ammons, Shelly Bjorb, Kelli Bridges, Debbie Byrum, Cindy Calvert, Erika Cleveland, Lynn Cottingham, Kelly Crocker, Melanie Duncan, Carol Ellison, Susan Faust, Ginger Freeman, Lisa Fuller, Donna Gay, Wendy Gibbons, Tammy Hamilton, Bouvier Harmon, Teri Hinds, Amy Holland, Jane Ann Holland, Cindy Hyatt, Lynn Johnson, Robin Killough, Donna Leach, Maureen Maloney, Selina Martin, Susan Morgan, Susan Murphy, Crystal Nowlin, Misty Pruet, Kim Roe, Lori Ross, Angela Ross, Tami Salter, Missy Sanderson, Bess Scott, Suzanne Sewell, Robbie Sims, Amber Smart, Lisa Smith, Vickie Smitherman, Lisa Stafford, Tanya Thomas, Kim Walker, Sandy Willis, Dawn Wright. It's great to have all of you! Our brother of the month is Keith Holdbrooks, and our pledges of the week are Eric Isbell and Tim Reynolds. Congratulations to all three of you.

Due to the length of this article, the blood drive results and chicken list will appear next week.

ATO, the only way to go!

Sigma Nu

By JOHN VALDÈS JR.

The brothers of Sigma Nu would like to thank the Phi Mu's for a mixer we had last Thursday night, and who ever thought up the theme "Boxer Rebellion" should have his-her head examined. Everybody showed up in their boxer shorts of all assortments of colors and styles. Once again we would like to thank Phi Mu for a great time.

Congratulations go out to one of our little sisters, Sherri Williams, in that she is going to the finals in Division II for track sometime in the near future. We're all pulling for you, Sherri!

This past weekend some of the officers of Iota Lambda Chapter of EN went to Birmingham for a regional workshop with other chapters from Alabama and Auburn. We feel that this workshop will really give us a boost. We learned a lot from the other chapters and how they function.

The raffle for the tuition of your choice ($350) is really going well. You still have a chance to get your ticket because it will be given away at the JSU-UNA pep rally. A donation of $1 is all that is needed and the ticket can be purchased from any Sigma Nu member.

So until next week walk in the way of Honor. . . follow a Sigma Nu.

Kappa Alpha

By STEVE MARTIN

The rebels recorded the second win of the season last week over Sigma Nu. This win put them in the playoffs. Their first game will be against Kappa Sigma in our third win after this game. Go rebels!

The brothers of the month for October this year are Steve Nelson and Dale Richmond. Both of these gentlemen performed excellently during homecoming week. They were placed in charge over all of the KA festivities, and we feel that they did a fine job. Great going guys!

Now that the week after homecoming is over and most tests are past, let's all get fired up for these two upcoming home games. As everyone should know, Troy is Jax State's rival and has been for years. So when these games roll around, we'd like to see some of that die-hard Gamecock spirit projecting from the stands.

We recently had some brothers lavaliered to some cute ladies. These couples were Scott Butler and Cherri Nelson, Greg Middlebrook and Julie Hoffman, Petie Maddox and Fran Harris, and Wayne Blakerby and Pam Barentime.

Congratulations guys! You're with them for a while! Good luck! Hang in there. Hello.

By JANA TOLBERT

Alpha Xi Delta congratulates Deborah Wilson, Miss Homecoming 1982, and our very own Kathleen Cunningham for being selected 1st alternate. We're proud of you Kathleen!

The annual "Soc-Hop" was a blast as usual! Thanks Vicki Toedte for making it better than ever.

Parents Day was Sunday and it was a great success! Thanks go out to Leah Bumpious and Terri Hayes for their hard work in organizing this annual event.

Pi Kappa Phi

Wednesday started our annual Sadie Hawkins activities with the little sisters. Last night's party and today's amazing knee football game highlight the event.

Speaking of little sisters, Karen Watford is our little sister of the month. She's always been one of our most active members, and we're proud of her.

Kappa Sigma

By GEOFFREY TYRONE HILL

The big football team completed an undefeated season and we would like to commend all the Greeks for their good sportsmanship. The big team wrapped up the season with a win over Delta Chi Fraternity, 27-0. Congratulations are in order for all those who participated on the field and in the stand.

Last week Kappa Sigma celebrated one of its many memorable parties, Big Brother-Little Brother; everyone had a wild time.

Zeta Tau Alpha

By WENDY FEAD

A huge success is the best way to describe the fun had by all at the Champagne Ball last Friday evening! And it was all due to the hard work of sister Suzanne Hawkins. You did a wonderful job, Suzanne! Thanks!

We also had a great time Tuesday night with the Sigma Nus. Everyone looked very Roman in their togas and wreaths of ivy. Thanks, guys!

Our scholarship chairman, Julie Semones, is really getting the Zetas fired up! A schedule party was held Monday night to help our pledges plan their Until next week.

"If you can imagine it, you can achieve it.

If you can dream it, you can become it."

Be the best. A Delta Zeta.

On the other end, Stevie Jones is our brother of the month. He's done a fine job helping us obtain jerseys, football uniforms, etc. and we're glad to honor him. Wayne Hicks has been doing a good job also and is our pledge of the week.

Good luck to the Gamecocks, Whup Troy!

All of our pledges deserve to be recognized but Brent Heard, pledge of the week, has great leadership potential and maintains one of the highest scholastic averages of the pledge class. Brother Douglas Cronkite captured the cross country title for the Gulf South Conference. We are all proud of Doug and the other Sigs on the team, Rodney Hardin and Yvette Spillman.

This weekend the JSU football team plays Troy at home, and there will be a party at the big house afterwards.

schedules for the spring. We all enjoyed the popcorn and coke and the social hour.

Some future events for the Zetas are the Skating Party, Parents Day (Dec. 3) and our own Christmas Party-Senior Night.

Kelly Lawrence was named pledge of the week and Suzanne Hawkins was selected member of the week at last week's meeting. Congrats, Ladies!

The Zetas want to wish the Gamecocks luck against Troy this Saturday. Go Gamecocks! Whup Troy!

Congratulations to alum Lori Tidwell on her engagement to Jon Barefield.

held this Friday at 8 p.m. The party is open so everyone is encouraged to come and join in the fun. This party, like the Jax State - Troy State game, is a tradition of the student body at JSU. Come be a part of the tradition at the 14th Annual Delta Chi Casino Party Friday night.

Phi Mu

By CYNTHIA BROWN

Last Thursday night's mixer with Sigma Nu turned out to be a rebellious affair. Everyone was decked out in Boxer Shorts and the fun filled evening was quite leg revealing. We had a great time, guys, thanks!

Tuesday, to highlight our weekly meeting, we held an alumni-active Phi Mu mixer. It was quite a success and everyone got to meet a lot of new people. Our alumni are very special to us, and we hope they will feel free to participate in everything we do.

Last week's pledge of the week was Judi Bates and this week's is Sonja Downing. They have both been excellent Phi's - Congrats girls!

That's all for now, but Phi Mu wants to say just one more thing: WHUP TROY!

Psychology club

The Psychology Club has re-organized for the 1982-83 school year. At the last meeting, officers were elected. They are as follows: Mike Hall-president, Janet Gentry-vice-president, Nita Washington-secretary, Ed Underwood-treasurer, and Rick Lundy-ombudsman. The faculty advisor is Dr. Don Patterson.

The Psychology Club meets on Wednesdays at 5 p.m. in room 15, Ayers Hall. The club is open to all interested persons, regardless of their major. The goals of the club are to promote interest in psychology and its related fields.

Computer science club

We would like to thank all that contributed to our Halloween Party. Thank-you for making it a "Great" Success!!

There are still Mattel Intellivision tickets for those who haven't received theirs. Money from donations should be turned in to Cathi Roberts between 2-4 p.m. on Thursdays in the 3rd floor lounge of Bibb Graves. If you cannot be there at that time, contact Cathi (between 4:30 - 5:30 p.m. MWF in the CRT Labs of Bibb Graves) to make other arrangements! A prize will be given for the most tickets sold!!

We are looking for volunteers to host the Computer Fair. If you find you have some time to contribute on Friday, Nov. 12, please contact Linda Adair for more information.

A final thank-you is in order to those that constructed our Homecoming Yard Display. We may not have won a prize, but we placed as far as the Computer Science Club is concerned!!

Our club is proud and honored to announce that Mr. Stephen Kirkermier from South Central Bell will speak with us on Tuesday, Nov. 23, at 4:30 p.m. (3rd Floor of Bibb Graves) concerning job opportunities and the attributes South Central Bell is looking for in prospective employees. All are welcome!!

A last reminder, the club meetings are held on the 2nd and 4th Tuesdays of the month at 4:30 p.m. on the 3rd floor of Bibb Graves. Plus Mattel Intellivision tickets are still available! The drawing will be December 2nd. (Location to be announced).

Teachers describe model student

By LYNN LePINE

In this, the fourth and last part of the student - teacher survey, we will take a look at what teachers enjoy most about students. These are the things that make teaching worthwhile.

The question asked of 25 teachers was, "What do you like to find in a student?" The answers given ranged from visible attributes like alertness to intangible qualities such as a student's attitude. Following are the six most common replies to the survey question.

1. Nearly all the teachers surveyed mentioned that they enjoy an alert and attentive student, a student who will participate in class discussions. They say that students who contribute in class help the teacher keep the flow of the lesson. Also, a student who appears to be interested makes the teacher feel his or her lecture is successful as a learning experience.

2. Many teachers say they enjoy students who exhibit an intellectual curiosity. They feel it is helpful when such students ask relevant questions, because there are usually others in the class who have the same questions.

3. Instructors say it is a joy to find students who are "hungry for knowledge" and serious about college. They like to see students who aren't here just to have a good time, but who really want to get an education. Teachers say this brings out the best in them.

4. Teachers say they like to see a student progress in his or her studies. Even more satisfying than the straight 'A' student, say instructors, is the student whose grades show steady improvement throughout the semester.

5. Instructors say they enjoy a student with a good and timely sense of humor. They feel this serves to lighten the classroom atmosphere and makes lectures more interesting.

6. Teachers say they respect the dedication of students who devote time to outside activities such as the Mimosa, special olympics, and the radio station, instead of just going to class.

Govatos addresses writers

Freshmen ask

Just what is 'a Troy'?

By R. STACY McCAIN

Whup Troy! The cry is heard throughout the campus. I'm sure some freshmen and transfer students are wondering just WHO, in fact, this "Troy" is. And why we all get so fired up about "whupping" them. I will try to explain.

When I came here as a freshman many years ago, I also was confused about this "Whup Troy" business. Finally, I summoned up enough courage to approach a Marching Southerner, who had such a bumper sticker plastered to his trombone case. "What," I asked, "is a 'Troy', and why would anybody want to whup one?" Eyeing me with a mixture of disdain and pity, he summed up the situation quickly.

"You must be a freshman," he said.

When I nodded sheepishly, he took on a somewhat paternal aspect and proceeded to explain to me the nature of that most ignoble institution. Troy, he said, has been founded by the Yankees shortly after the Civil War, in order to teach newly - arrived Northerners such subjects as Carpetbagging 101 and Advanced Scallywagging. Their Political Science program, he informed me, had been founded by Karl Marx, and its first graduate had been Joseph Stalin. Adolph Hitler, I was told, had done graduate work there, choosing as his thesis topic, "Baby - burning: The New Warfare of the 20th Century?" The Ayatollah Khomeini, he said, was on the board of trustees and Idi Amin made frequent contributions to their development fund.

"To make a long story short," he concluded, "if the Devil himself and a Troy alumnus (not that the two weren't synonymous) were running for President, well I'd be darned if I'd vote for the Trojan—even if the Devil was the Republican candidate."

He then spat on the ground and walked away. It was obvious—Whupping Troy was much more than a mere school tradition, it was a solemn duty and a patriotic responsibility. So remember, freshman, when you wonder what all the commotion is about—a victory for Jax State is a victory for baseball, Mom's apple pie, and the American way.

figure he probably sleeps in it. Generally, the kind of guy who walks around with a look on his face that says he's longing for an old Ford and a good mystery novel."

"That could be any of the professors," she said. "If you spent all day with business students, you'd have a distant look on your face too."

We weren't gonna wrap this one up by deadline. No name would be splashed across the page, with a copy of the guy's mug right there out in the open. Not this week. But we're not giving up. We'll find you Marlowe, and when we do, you better have some answers. Like, isn't Gonzo a character on the Muppets. Sure the CEO could end up DOA, but what the hell is the CEO? Wasn't "Muckraker" a James Bond flick? And if Tom Waite really understands, why'd he dump a great dame like Ricky Lee Jones. Better keep your eyes glued to the rear-view mirror of your clunker Sam cause until we know all the answers, we'll be hot on your trail. Pleasant dreams, and remember, when you least expect us, expect us.

Respectfully (sort of anyway),

The Weatherly Wonders

The Weatherly Wonders are a tradition in the women's intramural football league. Formed in 1980, the team is now in its third season, and has two successive championships to its credit.

In 1980, the Wonders met BCM in the championship and won the game 21-8. Last year, the team capped off an undefeated season with a victory over the Starlets in the title match.

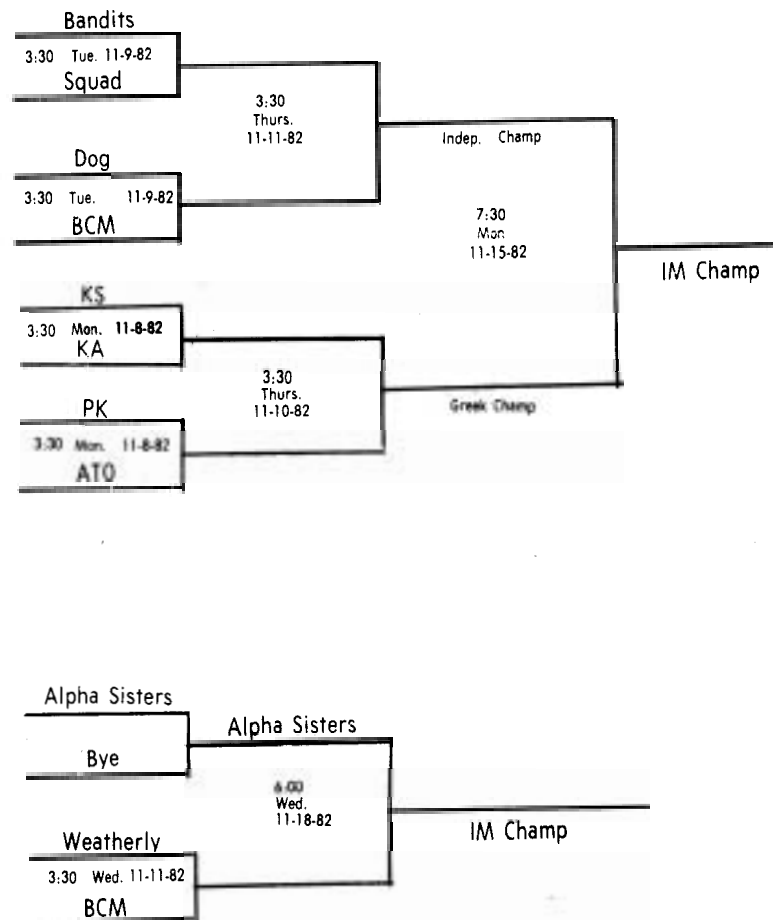

With a record of 2 and 1, the Wonders are confident that they can maintain their title for the third consecutive season. The team hopes to meet the Alpha Little Sisters in the championship game to be played Wednesday night in Paul Snow Stadium.

'Cocks prepare to 'Whup Troy'

By BRUCE TINKER

Whup Troy! Whup Troy! That's the battle cry you have probably been hearing all week. Only homecoming surpasses Troy week for excitement and anticipation. This game will mark the end of a strange season for Troy. After a losing streak of 11 games, extending back to last year, Troy has totally dominated UT-Martin and Livingston, outscoring these opponents 99-10. Remember Livingston? Earlier in the year, they were ranked number 2 in the nation.

So how do you defeat such an unpredictable team? Coach Fuller said the Gamecocks would prepare as if Troy were unbeaten. During their last two victories, every part of the Troy attack ran like clockwork. The defense blocked a punt in both games and racked up 7 interceptions while covering 4 fumbles to continually give the ball back to the offense.

Comparisons of yearly statistics don't really tell the story. Troy has changed so radically in the past two weeks that you can just about throw those numbers out the window. One of Troy's best weapons has been the spirit and emotion displayed by the team and fans. The Trojans will be rolling into Jacksonville like gangbusters.

But the Gamecocks will be ready. Ed Lett's record speaks for itself. The backs and receivers have only been getting stronger each week. This balanced attack makes it easier for the offensive line to do its usual great job. The offense is averaging 36.1 points and 428 yards per game. Greg Lowery is averaging 44.5 yards on his punts.

The "Red Bandit" defense has covered 11 fumbles. Also, 11 different Jaxmen have intercepted passes this season led by Quintin Stevenson with 3. The return of Simon Shepard and the possible return of Kenny Stokes will make the defense even stronger. The defense was one reason why JSU went undefeated on the road this year.

In last year's game, Jacksonville had to come from behind to win. Down 24-10 in the third quarter, the Gamecocks came roaring back to win 31-24. This game was not a one-of-a-kind. The Troy game is close almost every year, and Coach Charlie Bradshaw is sure to have the Trojans geared-up for another cock fight.

The rivalry of the Troy game doesn't end when the clock runs out. If at all possible, you should stick around after the game for "the battle of the bands." Every year the Marching Southerners and the Troy band do musical battle across the stands. The Southerners look forward to this meeting all year.

Saturday, November 13 at 7 p.m. the place to be is Paul Snow Memorial Stadium. The Gamecocks, the cheerleaders, the Southerners, the ballerinas, everybody will be there and everybody will be excited. To keep JSU in the national race, to stay in contention for the conference championship, and to WHUP TROY again, everybody needs to get excited, get wild, get crazy and get behind those Gamecocks.

Women's basketball team works with 'All-Academic'

By LYNN LePINE

Twenty-two year old senior Doug Creel has added something new to his list of extracurriculars this semester: The Jax State Women's Basketball team. A former JSU basketball player and a P.E. major who will graduate in December, Creel was offered

Doug Creel

Creel seems to have taken well to his new role and has been working the team hard in preparation for their November 18th opener against Berry College. The Lady Gamecocks practice between two and two and a half hours 5 or 6 days a week. Before the season begins, the team will play three practice games, one against Southern Union and two against Gadsden State.

Since the Lady Gamecocks are not a tall team, with junior Jill Stewart topping the list at 6'1", Creel plans to use a press-and-run strategy to emphasize the team's quickness. "We want pressure from our defense and a running game from our offense," Creel explains, "We want to pick up the tempo and keep the opposition off balance."

According to Creel, his goal is to get every girl to play with as much intensity as she can. "With that and team work," Creel says, "We'll win games."

The Lady Gamecocks are optimistic about the coming season. "We are all very excited about this year," says senior Sue Carroll, who has been with the team since 1979, "Coach Creel is doing an excellent job and the team really respects him. It helps to have a coach who has 'been there' himself."

Creel admitted he was surprised at the determination of some of the girls. "They really hustle," he remarked. "A lot of the players are very dedicated and they have a real desire to win."

Lady Gamecocks gather 'round as former 'All-Academic' Doug Creel gives notes on the day's workout.

the job last spring. Because Creel is still a student, his position can have no official title, but while Steve Bailey remains supervisor, Creel does most of the actual coaching of the Lady Gamecocks.

Volleyball season has ups, downs

By MIKE LIVINGSTON

Friday Nov. 5 the JSU Women's Volleyball team played UNA here at Pete Mathews. UNA won the first game 15-11, but the Lady Gamecocks came back to win the 2nd game by the identical score of 15-11. In game 3 JSU took an 8-1 lead but UNA came back to tie the game at 8-8 and went on to win 15-11. The Lady Gamecocks fell apart in game 4 and UNA won easily 15-4. The volleyball game was much more fun to watch than some of this season's football games, and it was too bad that JSU sports fans have limited themselves to football and basketball games.

The game went much like the season for the Lady Gamecocks who have been up and down all season. With 2 weeks of regular season competition left the record is 21 & 14. The competition overall has been rather tough this year.

Coach Creel has felt that the team has had some outstanding individual play but in volleyball, individual play is not the key to a good volleyball team. However, the Lady Gamecocks do have a winning record and will finish the season with Huntington College on Monday Nov. 8 and West Georgia and UAB Tues. the 9th. The team will travel to rival Troy St. the 13th for final conference matches with Troy and Livingston. The GSC Tournament will be Nov. 19-20 at UNA. If the JSU Ladies win the tournament they will proceed to the Regionals of NCCA Division II.
