Students organize HELPLine on campus

By TZENA GIBBS
Chanticleer Senior Editor

An organization of concerned students on campus have formed a professional referral service HELPLine in Room 128 of Rowan Hall.

Dr. Bascam Woodward, vice president of student affairs, and Dean Miriam Higginbotham, dean of housing, initially wanted a program for alcoholism on campus. Higginbotham contacted Dawn Davenport, executive for Prevention of Substance Abuse in Anniston, who arranged a meeting open to all students to discuss sex, drugs, parents, money and any other problems students encounter.

A massive turnout of students met with Davenport and Higginbotham on January 8 in the library and expressed their major concerns. Basically, the group decided that the University needed an organization to help give information to students for referrals to professional help, according to Audrey Phillips, a volunteer HELPLine worker.

Dean Higginbotham arranged for Room 128 of Rowan Hall to become the office. The room is equipped with one phone, two desks, and two chairs. Two people will be on duty at all times to man the phone from 5 to 10 p.m. After this time, all calls will be automatically transferred to whoever is on duty that night. At 8 a.m., all calls will be transferred back to Davenport at the Prevention Center.

"This is strictly a referral service, not a counseling service. Any problem that you can think of from not having money to eat or pay bills all the way to suicide," Higginbotham said.

Because the service is free to all students, the workers involved with HELP are all on a strictly volunteer basis. The majority of the professionals the callers are referred to are already paid by the state and others have volunteered to render free services and full cooperation. However, paid professionals will be made available, also.

"The students working with HELP are doing this strictly for the satisfaction," Phillips said.

The training sessions for the HELP volunteers began last week. Dr. Joe Howell, a psychologist from Family Practice in Anniston, and John Cosper from Crisis Line in Birmingham, are training the volunteers how to handle different crisis situations and the problems of the logistics involved. For instance, how to spot a crank call from a real crisis.

"If someone calls with a real problem, getting a recording won't (See HELPLINE, Page 3)

Social Work Conference held

The Sociology Department held its annual social work conference last Wednesday. During the event, Dr. Donald E. Williamson of the Alabama Department of Public Health addressed the audience about AIDS, and

State SADD rally held March 28 in coliseum

By CYNDI OWENS
Chanticleer Staff Writer

Friends don't let friends drive drunk.

That motto has become the battlecry for teenagers across the country, leading them in their fight to stop the leading killer of persons in their age group.

That motto also represents Students Against Driving Drunk (SADD), which held a statewide rally on campus March 28.

The rally, sponsored by the Weaver High School chapter of SADD, began with a meeting in Pete Matthews Coliseum. The crowd of approximately 1,000 students, parents and educators met the founder of SADD, Robert Anastas.

Anastas, a coach and educator from Boston, began educating parents and students about the dangers of driving drunk after two of his athletes were killed in alcohol-related accidents within a week of each other. One was 17, the other 19.

"He loved to live so much, he died from it," Anastas said of the 17-year-old.

Anastas founded the organization in 1981, and he gave the audience some startling statistics from that year.

"In drunk driving accidents, there was one person dying per hour (See SADD, Page 2)

AIDS

College students are at risk

JACKSONVILLE--The next great outbreak of AIDS will be on America's college campuses where students comprise the most sexually active group in the county, according to Dr. Donald E. Williamson, director of the Alabama Department of Public Health's division of disease control.

Addressing more than 150 persons gathered for Jacksonville State University's annual social work conference, Williamson said, "The only reason gay men in America got AIDS first was because, at the time AIDS was introduced in this country, they were the single most sexually active group in society."

"Gay men are no longer the most sexually active. College students are. There's nothing unique about the virus that attacks only gay men; it is simply another sexually transmitted disease. Your risk of getting it is simply a function of the number of people you have sexual intercourse with."

"The people who're going to spread AIDS are going to be on the football team, they're going to be cheerleaders, social workers--they're going to be doing all the things you and I do every day. They are people who look just like you and I, have no symptoms, and cannot be picked out. And there are from 1.5 million to 3 million of them," he said.

Williamson said people become infected with AIDS because they are not in long-term relationships, because they engage in sex with multiple partners, or receive contaminated blood either through transfusion or the sharing of needles when using drugs. He said a person cannot be sure he is not infected unless he has been monogamous for at least seven years and has not used IV drugs.

Deadline given for top positions of Chanticleer, Mimosa, 92J

The deadline for submitting applications for the editorships of campus publications and the directorship of the radio station is approaching. Those persons wishing to apply for the editorship of the Chanticleer and Mimosa should submit their credentials to their respective advisors by noon Friday, April 10. Those persons wishing to apply for the directorship of WLJS should submit their credentials to the respective advisors by noon Wednesday, April 15. Applicants must have at least a 1.0 grade point average.

The following information, quoted from the Communications Board constitution should be noted by those applying: "The Communications Board will screen, examine, and appoint the editors of student publications which includes the Chanticleer, Mimosa, and station manager of the radio station. Faculty advisors will examine all applicants for editorships and station manager."

Students applying must be enrolled for at least 12 hours to be eligible to be considered. Candidates must list their name, class standing, GPA, and related experiences on the applications.

The advisors are responsible for narrowing the number of applicants to two for each position. The Communications Board will vote for the editors and station manager from the two finalists, following the interviews.

All candidates must have at least one full year prior to graduation to be eligible for consideration. It is recommended that the candidates for the editor of the Chanticleer complete JN 303 preceding his or her appointment. The editor of the Mimosa must have successfully completed JN 304 before assuming office. The station manager must have successfully completed Radio Broadcasting 453.

Candidates will be tested and interviewed by the respective advisors and will go before the Communications Board on a date not yet scheduled.

when we started. Eighty-seven percent of kids were doing drugs before they got out of high school. There were 6,241 deaths in this age group (16-20)," he stated.

"I can't come in here and frighten you today ... If the problem lies with you, the solution lies with you," he said.

He pointed to some of the factors that contribute to the problem.

"Death has been camouflaged in two ways. First, there is a lack of communication between parents and teenagers. Second, there is the peer pressure you are under," he said.

The up side to all of this is that in 1985, the number of alcohol-related deaths had dropped to 2,130 - "a two-thirds drop across the country," he added.

He related an incident that happened when he was awarded special recognition at the White House.

"Nancy Reagan said, 'This is absolutely a miracle. How does it work?' I said, 'Fine, thank you.' I don't have the answer," he said.

The major element of the SADD program involves a "Contract For Life," a document that teenagers and parents sign. It is an agreement that if either party is in a situation where they have been drinking or must ride with someone who has been drinking, they will make arrangements for sober transportation home.

After Anastas spoke, the students were dismissed to lunch, and in the afternoon seminars were held in Martin Hall.

Harold Wilson and former president Gerald Ford Former Prime Minister to speak in TMB

Jacksonville--Former British Prime Minister Harold Wilson will speak on issues including racism in South Africa, the Russian threat, and arms control during a public lecture at Jacksonville State University on Monday, April 6, at 7:30 p.m. in Theron Montgomery Building Auditorium.

The theme of his address is "The View from Number 10 Downing Street." He will share stories of his experiences as prime minister.

Wilson served four terms as Prime Minister of Great Britain, longer than any other peacetime British prime minister. First elected to parliament in 1945, Sir Harold represented the same district in the House of Commons for 38 years until his retirement in May, 1983.

He was chosen by his peers as Labor Party leader in 1960, and in 1964 was elected Britain's youngest prime minister. In 1960, he lost the only election of his political career, but was returned to 10 Downing St. in the next election and remained there until his resignation in 1977.

His years as prime minister included such events as Britain's entry into the Common Market and European Economic Community, pacts with NATO, crises in Rhodesia and Northern Ireland, negotiations in the Nigerian Civil War, and world attention on the Vietnam conflict.

Born in 1916, Wilson graduated from Jesus College in Oxford, and at age 21 became a teacher of economics at Oxford's New College. His pre-Parliament career included years as top advisor to Winston Churchill and experience in various ministries. He gained initial recognition heading several delegations to Moscow to negotiate Soviet-British trade pacts.

Knighthood by Queen Elizabeth in 1977, Sir Harold's lectures recount his friendships and negotiations with a variety of figures, among them Charles DeGaulle, John Kennedy, Mao Tse-tung, Leonid Brezhnev, Richard Nixon, Josef Stalin, Lyndon Johnson, Winston Churchill, Gerald Ford, and Golda Meir.

get it. But having real live people to talk to who can tell them a place to go and sit down with a counselor and telling them this is the number, will you please call them? We're not trying to play God, but sometimes, people just need someone to talk to, they get lonesome," Higginbotham said.

No last names will be given so the confidentiality of it will be completely safe.

"Because the callers won't be face to face with the volunteer, they may feel freer to tell about the problem without worrying about anybody knowing who they are," Phillips said.

Anyone interested in becoming a part of the volunteer HELP line should contact Dean Higginbotham in her office.

"Just because we have already started training doesn't mean it's too late because we are taping all of the sessions to be used over and over again. The more volunteers we have, the better this organization will work," Higginbotham.

The number for the HELP line will be 231-J100.

"I am really so excited about this.

The students working are just salt of the earth people. If we can serve the students then the service should do nothing but grow," Higginbotham said.

"Roads to success"

Program provides tips on job hunting and interviewing

By REBECCA FROST
Chanticleer Staff Writer

In 1986, approximately one million students graduated from U.S. universities with a bachelor's degree. Added to the present total of 40 million already in the work force today, the task of finding the perfect job is very difficult.

On March 3 and 4 the New York team of Nancy Blacker, Carol Balthazar, and Frank Pictrucha presented a program at Merrill Hall entitled "Roads to Success." It was sponsored by the Plymouth Career Search Workshop and Business Week Careers magazine.

In order to be a successful interviewer, Blacker and Pictrucha stress that the potential employee should pay attention to small details concerning his attire, his resume, and his interviewing techniques, because the first ten minutes of the session are what the interviewer will remember most.

Before the actual interview, the prospective employee should do extensive research on the company or corporation that he is applying for.

"The three main sources for such research on campus are the campus career planning center (Career Development and Placement in Bibb Graves), the campus library, and through "networking" with school alumni, members of professional organizations and others who might 'know-someone-who-knows-someone'," Blacker said.

With the resume, the experts noted that statements and accomplishments should be written concisely in order for the employer to read quickly though them during the interview.

"If you can ask, 'so what?' after a resume statement, then it has no business on the resume; therefore, items of achievements or school (See PROGRAM, Page 5)

Symposium to celebrate birthday of Constitution

As part of the yearlong celebration of the two hundredth anniversary of the United States Constitution, the College of Humanities and Social Sciences is sponsoring a symposium on the Constitution. The symposium will be held on Tuesday, April 7, at 3:00 p.m., on the eleventh floor of Cole Library.

The panelists for the symposium are Dr. Daniel W. Hollis, Dr. Ronald Caldwell, and Dr. Mary Martha Thomas, all of the JSU department of history, and Dr. Lee Gilbert (Whartenby) of the JSU department of economics.

Dr. Hollis, whose paper is entitled, "The Commonwealthman, Religious Liberty and the U.S. Constitution," will explore the influence of an early group of Republicans in the 17th century known as the "Commonwealthmen." The "Commonwealthmen," as a result of their experiences in the English Civil War, were committed to religious liberty as well as to political liberty; their writings were among those from which the Founding Fathers gained many of their ideas and ideals.

Dr. Gilbert will discuss "The Economics of the Constitution," focusing on those economic factors which led to and influenced the writing of the Constitution, and the effectiveness of the Constitution as a framework for United States economic progress.

In his presentation entitled "The Influence of the U.S. Constitution on the French Revolution," Dr. Caldwell will emphasize that the Constitution as a framework for United States economic progress.

In his presentation entitled "The Influence of the U.S. Constitution of the French Revolution," Dr. Caldwell will emphasize that the Constitution had a world-wide impact, specifically on the French Revolution in its early stages.

Dr. Thomas, in her discussion of "Women and the Constitution," will point out that when the Founding Fathers met in Philadelphia in 1787, they were not concerned with the rights of women; the concept of natural rights, in that day, applied only to men. Abigail Adams' plea to her husband, John to "remember the ladies" fell on deaf ears. Only gradually, and with great effort, have women gained constitutional legal rights.

Dr. Peter Robinson, chairman of the JSU department of history, will be moderator. Audience discussion of the topics will be welcome. Refreshments will be served.

Sociology Club visits three mental hospitals

By REBECCA FROST
Chanticleer Staff Writer

On March 19, forty-six sociology and social work students visited Bryce Hospital, Taylor-Hardin Secure Medical Facility, and Partlowe Hospital, three mental institutions located in Tuscaloosa.

Each semester the sociology club plans a field trip for students to visit their future job scenes. In the past, JSU students have visited shelters for the homeless, the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta, Tutwiler

State Prison for Women, and Atlanta Couples Together (an organization for monogamous gay couples).

According to Dr. Hugh McCain, sociology professor and director of the trips, these excursions are designed for the students exposure to their career choice and the problems that are involved with the occupation.

Penny Stover, a junior from Ft. Payne, along with Melba Flowers, a sophomore from Section, AL, recounted their experiences at Partlowe, a hospital for the mentally retarded. According to Stover and Flowers, they were touched by a young male patient's recitation of the Lord's Prayer, making their trip worthwhile.

The group continued their trip with Taylor-Harding Secure Medical Facility, a new hospital for the criminally insane, housing 103 men and five women. Afterwards, the students toured Bryce Hospital where Fran Shaddix, a junior from Talledega, mentioned the geriatric clinic as her favorite and most rewarding part.

The Sociology Club sponsors the field trip each semester and encourages those students not majoring in sociology or social work to participate. For further information about next fall's program, contact the sociology department or Dr. Hugh McCain.

During minimester

Home Economics Department to offer film course

By CYNDI OWENS
Chanticleer Staff Writer

Want a fun, interesting course for minimester?

The home economics department is offering a course entitled, "Family Issues Through Film" during minimester, which will be taught by Sally Edwards.

"We will see at least two movies per week. They will show different family relationships through their problems. They will show divorce, death and grief, parent-child relationships, and relationships between older married couples," Edwards stated.

The classes are scheduled for Mondays and Wednesdays, 3-6 p.m., and Tuesdays and Thursdays, 3-5 p.m.

"The classes are set up that way so that films can be seen on Mondays and Wednesdays, and discussions of the films can be held on the other days. Also, students can work on their tans and then come to class late in the afternoon," Edwards said.

The purpose of the class is to give students a chance to find out about commitments and family relations. The grade for the course is determined by attendance and class participation.

The films tentatively scheduled for the course include, "Terms of Endearment," "On Golden Pond," "Ordinary People," "Kramer vs. Kramer," "I Never Sang for My Father," and "The Great Santini."

For more information on the class, see the summer schedule book or contact the home economics department.

Summer courses in marine biology available for JSU students

By ROY WILLIAMS
Chanticleer Senior Editor

Two courses in marine biology will be available to JSU students this summer, Dr. L. G. Sanford, advisor of the program, said.

The courses, offered at the Dauphin Island Sea Lab, located within 45 minutes of Mobile, offers something for everyone majoring in biology, he said.

"You don't have to be a diver or even a Cousteau fan to get needed credit in biology and enjoy it at the same time," Sanford said.

Summer offerings include biology core courses in the areas of ecology, invertebrate and vertebrate zoology, botany, geology, oceanology, and climatology. Each course emphasizes field work and cruises into the Gulf of Mexico, conducted aboard the research vessel A.E. Verrill.

Many professional biologists feel that an academic program can be made much more effective by including an off-campus field experience for undergraduate or graduate majors in biology.

"The Dauphin Island Sea Lab is a facility of our department (biology) and its resources are available to complement our program," Sanford said.

Dormitory and cafeteria services are provided on the campus at Dauphin Island and a variety of recreational opportunities are available.

Two separate five-week terms are being offered this summer, the first from June 15 to July 17, and the second from July 20 to August 21. Up to six semester hours credit may be earned during each term. For further information, contact: Dr. L. G. Sanford, 202 Ayers Hall, Department of Biology.

By ROY WILLIAMS
Chanticleer Senior Editor

Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity and the Alpha Sweethearts, in collaboration with the Masonic Order and O.E.S., presented their first annual Spring Fashion Show last Wednesday, March 25, featuring twenty-five JSU students. The theme of the program was "Starting a legacy by striving to do more."

"I think the fashion show was a success. It goes to show how much we (Greek organizations) can accomplish when we work together. We need more unity on this campus," Casey Holloway, president of Alpha Phi Alpha fraternity, said.

Serving as mistresses of ceremony were Millette Miller and Jacqueline Sommerville. The students modeled in the following six categories: casual wear, swimsuit, sportswear, winter wear, Sunday's best, and After Five wear.

Participating in the fashion show were the following students -- Robbie Barnes, Mark Romine, Zenobia Pettway, Elaina Riley, Cheryl Bevelle, Bridgett Eatmon, Lisa Nicole McCree, Tracie Lee, Tabitha Datcher, Monica Jones, Tara Cunningham, Juanita Austin, Yolanda Andrews, Chandra Gates, ToWanda Carr, Darlene Stanford, Monica Jones, Kim Pearson, Franscheska

Russell, Wanda Steward, Pamela Porter, Towanda Tolbert, Carla Foreman and Alisa Luvert.

Holloway said he would like to express his appreciation to all the students for their support.

"We just introduced our pledge line last Thursday night. They are as follows: 1) James Smoot, 2) Quintin Davis, 3) Tim Culver, 4) Michael Douglass, 5) Ted Bridges, 6) Jacques "Jock" Smith, and 7) Patrick Farmer. Reginald Richardson is serving as dean of pledges. I'd also like to invite everyone to our Spring Step Show on April 20," Holloway said.

offices held should explain the full duties surrounding each of these achievements. The resume should be gone over thoroughly for spelling, grammatical, and punctuation errors as this is very important," Pictrucha said.

To be successful interviewers, Blacker, Balthazar, and Pictrucha urged the job seeker follow the five P's with an interview: (1) be prompt; (2) be polite; (3) be professional; (4) be positive; (5) practice the interview with those who are familiar with the interviewing process.

"The initial interview should always be followed up by a thank-you letter and possibly a telephone call too, even if the job hunter has decided to decline the offer of employment or if he feels he has lost his chance for the job because of a poor interview. At any rate, the follow-up letter is essential," Balthazar said.

Although finding a job may be a borrowing experience, there are techniques to conquer the "dreaded interview," he said.

For more information on how to better one's job hunting skills, contact Dr. Sandra Fortenberry at the Career Development and Counseling Office in room 105 at Bibb Graves Hall. Landing the perfect job may seem impossible, but with a little help the Jacksonville State graduate could become a valuable product on the job market.

Something To Think About

Dorm rules are useless if left unenforced

Dorm life. It can be noisy. It can be fun. You can meet a lot of friends there. Someone once told me that living in the dorm is what you make it, because after all it is your home away from home.

If you've lived in the dorm, you can't really say you've experienced the real campus scene. Living at home and commuting or living in an apartment and coming on campus to mixers and parties do not make the college experience.

Although I currently live at the International House, which is almost like saying I live on the other side of the earth, I did experience living in the thick of things when, as a freshmen, I had a chance to live in Fitzpatrick Hall.

Vicky Wallace
Editor-in-Chief

That first semester was like a living hell. I found out all those horror stories I'd heard about the noise was true. It was too noisy. Extremely noisy at all times of night. So noisy, that I had to make the Houston Cole Library my study hall.

When you think about it, it doesn't make any sense. I mean to pay or rather have your parents pay approximately $300 (more or less) for you a room and you can't enjoy it because of individuals playing their stereos too loud, wild parties going on at 2 a.m., shaving cream on your door, and other irritating techniques that drive some of us out of the dorm into apartments, trailers and other living arrangements OFF campus.

The Housing office is on the right track by employing resident assistants (you know them as RAs) - two usually on each floor - to be the eyes and ears of the dorm director who can be several places at one time. These resident assistants have the power to warn us several times to turn our music down or that we are talking too loud and to write us up if we choose not to comply.

Each student living in a dormitory, is usually given the warning at the beginning of the semester that if he is written up three times, he is supposed to be asked to leave the dormitory.

Unfortunately, this is not the case most of the time. And I've witnessed this fact and heard other people say the same thing at all dorms over and over again. That same person with three to four incidents of reports who continues to come in the dorm drunk and disrupt the whole first floor is still there until the end of the semester infringing on the rights of others and making their dorm experience terrible.

As you will notice by reading the letter to the editor today, the letter from Todd Key and my column are on the same subject. This was done purposely, because Todd brought the problem to my attention and asked would I do a column on the problem of dorm rules not being enforced.

Here is a fact that should not be overlooked: People like Dean Miriam Higginbotham in the Housing office work hard to make dorm life as comfortable as they can, but I believe they need help from the administration in enforcing the muddified rules governing the students. It's like the question: If a tree falls in the forest and nobody is there to hear it, does it make a sound? Well is it a law if people can break it without fear of any type of punishment?

I'm with Mr. Key. After three incident reports the student should be removed from the dormitory completely and if the incident is

Who needs a mechanic on campus?

By CYNDI OWENS

Chanticleer Staff Writer

As promised, this is "Traffic Headaches. Part III: Is there a mechanic on campus?"

Ah, the readers say, those folks at The Chanticleer are really desperate for something to write about. After all, who needs a mechanic on campus?

Well, we all need some help once in a while. At some point, everyone is going to get into a jam. And if one is a female and commutes, it is a very emotional experience to get stranded on campus.

One female student reported an incident that happened to her. She drives an older model car with manual transmission (three on the column), and sometimes the gears hang. It is a simple matter to get them free, but it usually takes two people. She raised the hood of the car so as not to get a ticket, and hiked to the nearest phone to call a relative for help.

No answer.

After two hours, and many cars had passed, help finally arrived. To her amazement, as soon as her male relative arrived, three male students stopped and offered to help him

The point of all this is: If someone is stranded on campus and has their hood up, stop and ask if they need help, or to take them to the nearest phone. If it is getting late, offer to notify the campus police for them.

This may have already offended some women's libbers, and that was not the intent, but face the facts. Most females with car trouble need help, and if a male student would offer this help, it would prove that common courtesy is still alive and well. Even if the most help one can be is to call someone else to help, that would be greatly appreciated.

Letter to the editor

Enforced rules would improve dorm life

Dear Editor

"...after the third incident report you will be told to leave the dormitory." This is often the warning dorm residents hear at the beginning of each semester. This is a great rule but there is one problem with it--the rule does not exist at least not in the JSU Catalogue or the "JSU Rule for Dormitories."

Why is the rule not clearly stated? Well, it is my opinion that JSU administration wants to reserve the right to rule each "three incident report person" on an individual basis. The problem with this is that it leaves too much leeway for personal interpretation. JSU has, in my opinion, an excessive number of 2, 3, and even 4 time incident report recipients. My point is simple, with many problem-causing students, the administration needs to have tough, enforceable rules--not individual interpretation.

My suggestion to correct the problem is this: Have in writing a "Three Incident Report Rule", which eliminates students from the dorm system completely upon their third incident report. Moreover, there should be the stipulation that, depending upon the severity of the incident, a student could be eliminated on the first report if necessary. JSU is weak when it comes to dorm violators; when the administration does not enforce its warnings, it essentially takes away all power to enforce rules from the RAs and Dorm Directors leaving them open to unnecessary abuse and hassle. This is our current dormitory situation. Administration, make and enforce dormitory rules. Remember this is our home--not yours.

Sincerely,

Todd E. Key

Special thanks to Sam Wright, Ronnie Daniel and Johnny Daniel for building the barbeque pit that will be used during Indian Party. They worked all day to construct the pit and the brothers really appreciate their hard work. It will allow the Chis to have a few week-end cookouts during the semester.

The yard sale was a huge success. The first ever Delta Chi yard sale was March 21 with Danny Kelly, the committee chairman, in charge. The city of Jacksonville really came out to support the sale and all profits went toward the housing fund. They are planning another sale in the near future.

Congratulations to all the winners in Greek Week. Greek Week is for all Greeks to participate in and all represented their groups to the greatest extreme. "I believe this year's Greek Week has shown the best participation since I have been here," said Bill Selton. Even though not everyone placed in their event, all persons were winners. Greek Week really stresses the Greek System and during this time emotions are high and the feeling of being a Greek is at its peak.

This year's Indian Party will be the responsibility of Rick Lyles. Rick is head of this year's Indian Party. The cost for the Horseshoe Tournament is $6 per team with a cash prize for first and second place finishers. The total cost for the two day blow-out will be $12 or $5 for Friday and $7 for Saturday. If anyone is interested in attending the party, contact a Delta Chi brother or call the Delta Chi house at 435-5183.

Pi Kappa Phi

The brothers of Pi Kappa Phi would like to congratulate everyone who competed in Greek Week this year. This makes the third straight year Pi Kapps have won Greek Week.

Luau preparations began last weekend. This year's luau promises to be the best ever. Sunny Beaches and the Individuals will be performing. The date is set for April 17 and 18. Brother Brad Powell is in charge of organizing this event.

This year's softball team has not had a chance yet to play because of rain and Greek Week, but all of the players are anxious and very optimistic about this year's team.

severe enough, one incident report should be sufficient. The rules should be clearly written so individual interpretation will not be necessary.

I've come to appreciate the value of dorm directors and RAs because their job is not easy. And some students like to make their job even harder.

If we would get behind our dorm directors and RAs in enforcing these rules, maybe the dorms would start filling to such a capacity that the Housing office would have to turn people down. A fact that stuck with me in my political science class: The administrative branch has a legislative function, that is, to MAKE and ENFORCE rules.

I'm afraid if dormitory rules don't start being enforced that at the rate we're going, dorm life will be the troublemaker's paradise and the freshman's nightmare where survival of the fittest will be the only rule.

Dr. Gilbert named department head

By STEVEN ROBINSON
Chanticleer Senior Editor

Dr. Jerry Gilbert has been appointed acting head of the political science department after the retirement of past department head Dr. Jackson W. Selman. He was appointed to the position last September by the Dr. James E. Wade, dean of the College of Humanities and Social Sciences.

Gilbert will serve as acting department head until the University begins the search for a replacement for the position.

"Right now there is no actual search going on. At some point there will be a search, but as of now there is no search due to the freeze on filling (faculty) vacancies," he said.

Gilbert's job involves many responsibilities ranging from budgetary requirements to student advisement.

"My position involves being budget manager and scheduling and coordinating various activities. My primary role is that of advising students, although I am not the only one in the department who does that," Gilbert said.

Handling both a full class load and the duties of department head have become time-consuming, Gilbert said.

"I don't have any real spare time anymore," he said.

Gilbert said he was given a class load reduction when he was appointed to the position but due to faculty vacancies had to add more classes to his schedule.

Making the political science department more visible to the students is one of Gilbert's top priorities as well as exploring job options for political science graduates.

"We want to make students more aware of career options in political science other than just law school and politics. We also want to get students more involved and interested in political science organizations," Gilbert said.

He discussed such careers as civil service jobs, working for political office holders, foreign service jobs and broadcast media positions.

"A lot of media people are political science majors. I would like to work with the communications department to offer a major in political science with a minor in communications or vice versa," Gilbert said.

He also mentioned that a political science club is now in the planning stages and that significant curriculum changes are in the works for the department as a whole. Students will be given more freedom of choice in their class selection, he said. This has not been finalized, he added, but committee reports on the subject have been submitted for consideration.

Gilbert has taught political science at Jacksonville State since 1971. He also taught at Texarkana College, as well as serving as a graduate teaching assistant at Texas Tech University.

Gilbert and his wife, Shelia, have two sons. They enjoy working on their farm where they raise cattle.

"I was raised on a farm in Texas. I guess I still have farming in my blood," Gilbert concluded.

Bennett recently honored for her acting abilities

Bennett

By ELAINE BEAIRD
Chanticleer Staff Writer

Tara Bennett was recently honored for her acting abilities after she was nominated for the Irene Ryan Award in February. The nomination gave Bennett the chance to compete in regional performing competitions for an acting scholarship.

The scholarship was named in honor of Irene Ryan who portrayed Granny on the hit television series "The Beverly Hillbillies."

In trying out for the nomination at the state festival, Bennett and another former Jacksonville State student, Lisa Waugh, performed part of "Late August", a play presented here on campus last semester.

Bennett was selected to represent the Southern region in the competition held on February 17 and 18 in Knoxville, Tenn. This was her first nomination and one of the highest honors she has ever received for her acting talents.

"The biggest thrill was just being nominated. We did well but didn't win. The judges were favorable though," Bennett said.

The chance to compete gave her a sense of accomplishment and boosted her self-confidence, she said.

"Musicals are the most fun. You get hooked."

"I came away feeling I was on the right track. I could go into acting if that is what I wanted. They showed a lot of belief in my (acting) ability," she said.

Bennett is originally from Homewood, Al. She graduated from Jacksonville State with a bachelor's degree in education and psychology in December 1986 and came returned to JSU to become certified to teach special education.

She has already been cast in "Curse you, Jack Dalton," the next JSU production, as Bertha, the maid-turned-heroine.

"This is unusual for me. I usually get the dirty blonde parts," Bennett said.

She received professional credit this past fall by performing in the campus production of "Black Warrior" which was done by a professional cast and crew with the exception of Bennett and Lee Pope, who are both JSU students. The directors told her that she possessed much talent, but needed training.

"I feel that acting is a gift from God. I do it for the glory of Jesus Christ," she said.

Bennett has performed many different roles in various shows, but says that musicals are by far her favorites.

"Musicals are the most fun. You get hooked," she said.

Still, Bennett enjoys acting out a wide variety of roles.

"Doing different characters is a release. It's fun to be someone else for a while," she said.

After leaving Jacksonville State, Bennett plans to teach school, although she says she will continue to train for acting. She expects to move to Atlanta and enroll in acting classes there.

"Although I'll always be acting, right now it's something I am doing on the side," Bennett said.

Student's sex play banned by Alabama officials

Tuscaloosa (CPS)--University of Alabama officials last week decided not to let a student produce his controversial play on campus, and, in reply, the student sued them one day later.

Meanwhile, one student group demonstrated in favor of banning the play-called "Babylon Hotel"-while another demonstrated to equate the banning to censorship.

University of Alabama officials say it is an issue of how they use their facilities and of nudity. The playwright says it is an issue only because some nude scenes feature black and white actors together.

"Given (UA's) historical perspective, it will find the interracial sex scenes offensive," said graduate student and playwright Walter Alves.

"The issue is how the university chooses to use its facilities," said Vice President of Academic Affairs Roger Sayers.

He added Alabama is not obligated to provide a stage for any play, just as it is not required to publish all the manuscripts submitted to campus journals.

Other campuses restrict the arts, too. Last week, Notre Dame suspended a student news magazine for publishing a story and a photo about how Notre Dame had forced a campus literary magazine to drop an erotic art print from its pages a few months ago.

The student activities office said the art print of an embracing couple was inappropriate and that the Scholastic, the student magazine, had violated policy.

At Alabama, Edward Still, Alves' attorney, maintains Alabama's "agents" based their decision on what they believed to be the content of the play. In addition, Still plans to argue University of Alabama officials' "unlimited discretion" in allocating facilities needs limits.

"There's been a long line of cases where judges determine that, for example, a police chief has too much power in deciding to permit parades," Still said.

School officials and attorneys said it was their policy not to comment on "pending litigation."

Earlier, Arts and Sciences Dean Richard Peck had said some members of the community would have been offended by the play, which Alves says he contracted to produce on campus for credit.

Alves maintains the university's objections are more racist than provincial, noting Alabama has allowed x-rated films on campus and stage productions of "Equus" and "Extremities", both of which include sexually explicit material.

"There has been nudity on the University of Alabama stage before. They even gave away a date with 'Deep Throat' star Linda Lovelace in the seventies," he said.

Alves says his play has artistic

Coors has major trouble brewing at Harvard College

(CPS)--The generally dormant nationwide campus boycott of Coors beer flared again briefly last week as William K. Coors, chairman of the Adolph Coors Brewing Co., spoke at Harvard.

Demonstrators, accusing the brewery's politically conservative management of race and sex bias in hiring, union busting and funding Nicaraguan contras, picketed Coors' February 21 speech to Harvard's Conservative Club.

While protest leaders--who represented a wide array of groups like the Democratic Socialists of America, Harvard's South African Solidarity Committee, the Harvard-Radcliffe Gay and Lesbian Alliance, the Committee on Central America and several campus workers unions--claim 200 to 250 demonstrators were there, Coors officials counted only 50 to 75.

"The demonstration was small. It was a very peaceful protest. Participants walked in a circle with banners and some were chanting," Marjorie Heffron, associate director of Harvard's news service, said.

The company has long been a target on many campuses.

Since 1968, as many as 50 colleges have voted to ban Coors products from their campuses, first to object to company officials efforts to suppress leftist student groups and, in recent years, to protest company labor policies.

"I don't think we can put Coors out of business. But we can keep him from running the kind of business he wants," Domenic Bozzotto, a spokesman for Harvard's unionized food workers, admitted during the demonstration.

"If people drink Coors beer, it's because they don't know. You don't have to be a radical to find the Coors attitude toward blacks offensive," Kris Rondeau, director of the Harvard Union for Technical and Clerical Workers.

Rondeau referred to a 1984 William Coors comment that implied blacks lacked "intellectual capacity." Coors maintains the comment was quoted out of context by the media.

Coors' labor woes began in 1977, when brewery workers struck to protest what they considered oppressive labor and hiring practices. The strike was never settled, and striking employees were replaced by nonunion workers.

Since then, the AFL-CIO has urged a boycott of all Coors products. The company remains nonunion by choice of the employees, claims Coors spokeswoman Cary Baird.

"Unions have a purpose, but if management looks after the needs of employees, you don't need the third party representation. We always deal with our employees openly," Baird said.

Baird also denies the company uses such controversial practices as employee strip searches and lie detector tests.

"Can you imagine anyone in the 1980's sitting still for a strip search?" she asked.

"Such criticisms are unsubstantiated, untrue charges, based on lies and innuendos. It is just too bad the charges get so much press on campuses in new distribution areas," she added.

New fashion designs awarded

New York--Recognizing that a creative interpretation on Industrial and Occupational Apparel could be on the cutting edge of fashion, Celanese Textile Fibers challenged the senior menswear design and marketing students at Fashion Institute of Technology. A group of these students were invited to choose from a large grouping of basic workwear garments and with them, create their own style.

"Fashion is moving in a new direction. Young people no longer follow the fashion dictates blindly. Rather, they look for inspiration from many sources and interpret them freely. Our 'Weekend Works' competition was designed with just this in mind. And to add some extra excitement, Celanese invited five editors from trend-setting magazines as well as the style producer of MTV to judge the competition," said Jim Siewart, menswear fashion director at Celanese.

The judging for the best designs was held February 5 at a reception at Celanese House. The garments were reviewed and considered by Patty Niemi of Elle, Patricia O'Brien of Gentleman's Quarterly, Alisa Belletini of MTV, Laurie Schechter of Rolling Stone, Nancy Hessel of Seventeen and Kathleen McGillavray of Vogue. The winners are to be announced at an industry event to be held later this week. Prizes for the most creative designs will be awarded at that time.

Participating manufacturers, whose garments are of Celanese Fortrel polyester, include Angelica, Barco, Best Manufacturing, Big Ben by Wrangler, Big Mac, Big Yank, Fashion Seal, SettoWear, Uniforms to You, Wall Industries and Williamson Dickie.

"One of the strengths of F.I.T. is having students involved in 'real world' projects such as this one. Additionally, Celanese gave them a "no holds barred" creative opportunity which was judged by fashion editors," stated Jack Hyde, consulting head of the menswear design and marketing department of F.I.T.

The winner of the Celanese Creative Design Award was Tim

Reukauf of Spencerport, NY with his creative interpretation of a nurse's uniform. Titled "Balenciaga Goes to the Hospital," this otherwise basic candystriper of Fortrel is updated with a fluffy pouf. Tim dyed the classic nurses blazer a cotton candy pink and created all of the accessories from thrift-shop buttons and beads. Both garments from Fashion Seal--easy to make, easy to afford and fun to wear.

Also in the hospital mode, the outfit on the right, was created by Bari Schlosser of Amityville, NY. Starting with a surgical gown and pant from Best Hospital Supply, Schlosser dyed everything black and silk-screened a repeat of skulls-and-bones. Various fabric patches added color and texture to the jacket lapels and the pant legs. The perfect coordinating accessory--a necklace of spray-painted chicken bones.

merit and that the sexual scenes are necessary to it.

"'Babylon Motel' involves a fourteen-year-old half-black boy and his attempt to keep his thirteen-year-old white half-sister off the streets, out of the hands of his mother's pimp. He is having a tender, loving incestuous relationship with his sister," Alves explained.

Alves' suit seeks to force Alabama to let him stage the play, but the production may get even broader distribution in the future.

Alves reports he is making a movie version of "Babylon Motel," using one hundred students in the cast and crew.

He hopes to show the film in the same auditorium from which his play was banned.

Moreover, the local publicity generated by the incident has been invaluable to him, he added. Some movies distributors, the Los Angeles Times and People Magazine contacted him as the drama surrounding his drama reached a climax last week.

Alves adds he is "actually talking to a couple of people in California about producing the work."

Mother

By GARY NEWMAN
"Mother"

Like a born loser, I was born with one purpose, known only to God. Mother I hear you calling a small child. . . Buggs, you say. . . a red headed freckle face scoundral in a little boy's way, he tosses his head in a playful, lonely way as he talks to his football too big for this one.

Mother, I hear your beautiful voice, your love for me. With a love more than God could have ever meant for one child alone, he runs to her arms, tears in his eyes, reflecting a lonely, depressing life to come, unknown to all concerned.

He comes home from his first meeting with you and his teacher. You know this lad is growing to be a man in his own special way, different from the rest. He acts his way through life, never being the real playful little boy he was meant to be. Always afraid of hurting someone he loves, he is hurt time and time again, called a Mama's boy, a good child, even a deceiving brat. Yes, he now knows himself, life will be lonely.

Times he walked alone, talked to himself and filed away all chances for happiness deep within his heart. Living on memories of life as it was, not knowing this, for his short life to live, was the way it was planned for him.

You nurse him through life, laugh with him when in his haste to get to the prom, he slips and falls only to return to his feet covered from head to foot with red clay. You cry with him as he loses his first love to another, knowing there will be more to come. You nursed him when he was sick, and wiped his forehead the night of his first bad car wreck. Though bloody, scarred and broken, he puts his arms around you with great love no man has ever known. You watch as he plays his last few years of football, talks of girls and sports cars. Only a part of growing up, you say, no not for this one. Why you ask? Because every boy at this age feels he has everything to live for, and all the world to conquer.

He seems happy, but from where in the dark of the night when all others have turned in do these tears fall? A lonely little boy wishing for what he can never even dream of having again. He pretends to be happy, a man of the world, a man he was meant to be. You see him as a bright, sunny spot in everyone's life, not knowing his heart is bursting from grief.

You think back now on the nights you got wet watching him play football in the rain and growing ever so angry yet worried as the hours drag by from his appointed time to return home from that date. You see tears, scares, smiles, pain and love in this little guy as he grows. You think back to the day he went off to play soldier, not knowing how lonely every passing hour of his life

Speck of life examined

By TZENA GIBBS
Chanticleer Senior Editor

As I clean out the outside utility room sink, a minute speck scurries across the counter and hides behind a sponge. I take my magnifying glass from the bottom drawer, move the sponge and examine the "speck" underneath the magnifying glass.

The "speck" is a tiny, tiny spider, perfect in every detail. Its body is divided into two parts, a united head and thorax, called the cephalothorax, and the abdomen.

Attached to the head is a stong pair of fangs or chelicerae. Behind them is a pair of pedipalpi, often spined, used for grasping. Next I see four pair of walking legs. The swollen round abdomen is joined to the cephalothorax by a narrow waist and comes to a sharp point at the end.

The abdomen of this little creature bears spinning organs. The openings to the breathing organs, the anal opening and the reproductive pores are on the under side on the abdomen.

The spider's eyes are on top of its head. Because its sense of sight is poor, it cannot see an object as big as I am. However, a spider's sense of touch is very strongly developed and although it does not smell or hear in the same way that many other animals do, it can sense that I am present.

What a miracle of life. The living creature is the size of a calcium deposit in my little fingernail, yet it is complete in every detail and capable of performing all of its instinctual rituals. The tiny spider is programmed like a micro-chip computer.

This little spider is a survivor. Soon after it emerges from its mother's silken egg sac, it is possessed by a strange wanderlust. The brave creature trails a dragline thread wherever it goes covering the counter with silken lines.

I consider how helpless human babies are after birth. A baby would not survive out on its own like this baby spider does. What force inspires this little creature to live? Can it be that the forces of nature alone give it the desire to live?

God was prejudiced when he designed the little spider. It is born knowing everything it needs to know about how to survive and is ready to take on the world.

Humans, on the other hand, are born with memories erased, forgetting everything they may have learned before they came to earth.

Maybe humans, too, are "programmed" before they are born, to know exactly what course they will take and what dragline trail they will leave behind. The helpless state in which we arrive in this cruel world makes it impossible to use any previous knowledge we may have had, and by the time we can use it, the knowledge has long since been forgotten or suppressed in the back of our souls.

The little spider and I are both two miracles of God. Both of our bodies are complete and take care of themselves internally involuntarily. The spider has nothing to learn in this world, but it does not have a brain.

I came into this world not knowing so God gave me a brain to figure things out. I envy the spider who has no reason to ask questions. Its existence on earth is just as important as mine. It holds its significant link in the food chain, ensuring that all species of life will continue to prosper.

And what is my significance? Do I have a link or a purpose in this life? Maybe the spider has more of a reason to exist than I do.

Man tears down nature and destroys thousands of minute lives to build his selfish worlds. The lives destroyed cannot comprehend the force destroying them. A spider accepts its death as part of life.

How could I be so arrogant to think that I am the ultimate form of life? The spider might think so because it cannot perceive anything else. Maybe I might think so be-

Bakkers involved in campus funding

JAX STATE --- The Chanticleer has uncovered that the funds for Hugh Merrill Hall came from the PTL Club, formerly led by Jim and Tammy Faye Bakker. Many students have wondered why the steeple was put on top of the church-like structure but now the truth has been uncovered.

One faculty member, who wishes to remain anonymous, sells Tammy Faye cosmetics and says that secret funding for "The Merrill Project" came from the PTL Club. The eventual hope was that the building would become a meeting place for the wealthy and simple-minded and provide a start for the planned ski resort for preschoolers called Bakker's Winter Wee-treat. This ski resort would be erected where the present fire tower is now. It would try to create a Christian atmosphere for preschool ski experts in the one million and up income range.

Also in the future plans was one of the now-famous Tammy Faye Drugstores which offer the complete line of Jim and Tammy Faye products. The most famous product is, of course, the Tammy Faye cosmetic line but there are many other products available such as Jim's Sure-Stick Hairspray, Tammy's Tranquillizers and the complete line of Jim's Mistress, the new lingerie line introduced last week.

The stores are elaborately decorated with pink carpet, crystal chandeliers and feature a large mosaic of Tammy Faye's face with water fountains flowing out of each eve.

These plans were shattered two weeks ago when Jerry Falwell became commander-in-chief of the PTL ministry. The future of the ski resort as well as many other projects state-wide may suffer from the Falwell takeover.

Rumor is that Falwell will cut all of the PTL pet projects and seriously redesign the future expenditures of that organization.

Many Alabamians are up in arms because of the change in leadership.

"I feel as if I were left out in the cold to die!" said Verna Ottwell of Franklin Junction.

"They promised me a job, and I mean to have it!" exclaimed Ozward Gorsnitch of Grovers Corners.

The opinion of most of the future employees was summed up in the statement made by Prunellie Warefield of Grinders Fork.

"I hope he (Falwell) gets hit by a manure truck since he is so full of it!" she yelled.

Why are these followers of the Bakker's so mad? The reason is not the absence of the duo from daily television, but the loss of future jobs. Some of these jobs were to be in Tammy Faye's Drugstores and the planned ski resort, but most were to come from the planned amusement park, racetrack and casino. The amusement park was to be located ironically also in Jacksonville at Germania Springs. The park was to be called Six Chapters over Calhoun County and would feature such rides as the Moses Wave

The Bakker's new retirement home

Pool and Jeremiah's Free Jump. In the way of restaurants the offerings would have included Eve's Apple Fritters and Other Pastries and The Pharoh's Deep Fried Frog Legs and Other Middle Eastern Favorites.

To compete with the new Birmingham Turf Club the Bakkers had planned to open a racetrack in Atlanta to be named Jezebel's Jump and feature the new horse racing championship called the Dis-cipleship Derby.

The most important of all the projects seems to have been the investment of Atlantic City boardwalk property to erect the Christian Casino which would provide "Gambling in a Christian atmosphere."

All proceeds from these gambling establishments would be used for religious puposes. These actions would include the building of Christian amusement parks in New Delhi, Bangladesh, Calcutta and Opp, Alabama.

These future job opportunities and future tax dollars have been noticed by Governor Guy Hunt and he has petitioned the PTL council to go ahead with their plans. These efforts would make Jacksonville grow like never before and provide many part-time student jobs. As for Merrill Hall, anyone interested in buying Tammy Faye cosmetics please stand in the lobby of the building and shout HALLELUJAH!

Birds "drop" in yesterday for brief but messy visit

By YOR SMAILLIW
Cantbeclear Junior Editor

Jacksonville State University had a look of total chaos yesterday evening, after a deadly cloud of black birds converged on campus, dropping eggs and defecating on hundreds of surprised students.

The flock of birds, which according to eyewitnesses numbered in the thousands, attacked the campus around noon, a time when student traffic is at its busiest.

"It was horrible," said Joe Blow, a junior biology major from Crossville. "I was on my way to class, and felt something wet dripping from the sky. I thought it was rain at first, then I saw the birds. Luckily, I had my umbrella with me."

Others were not so lucky. Sue Blue, a fashion major from Robinsville, Ga., says she had a brand new dress totally ruined when she was trapped on the Quad by the onslaught of the birds. The surprise attack also sent dozens of other students scattering for cover.

According to University spokesman Jay Ray, the black birds are believed to have come from Florida, possibly returning northward for the spring. Though the attack lasted for only a few minutes, it had a lasting effect, he said.

"Not one building on campus was spared. And it seems as if the birds deliberately went after the most expensive cars," Ray said.

Ray said that the University will know what to do, in case a fresh wave of birds attack.

"Next time, we'll call the Alabama National Guard and use the little critters for target practice," Ray said.

Mudsucker honored for his talents

By NEVETS NOSNIBOR
Cantbeclear Junior Editor

Asa B. A. Mudsucker was recently selected as regional cowchip eating champion after reportedly eating two hundred and thirty-five of the "processed" delights. Although thrilled to have won, Mudsucker was unavailable for comment after the event due to a strange sickness in the abdominal cavity which sent him screaming into the men's room at Joe's Gas and Grill (eat there and get gas).

Mudsucker's mother, Maudine Mudsucker, was extremely excited about her son's win.

"I ain't never in mah entahr life seen mah baby do so good. I really ain't surprised though 'cause he's always had a hankerin' fer chips of all kinds," she said.

A graduate of Podunk High school and Wassamatta U., Mudsucker is presently employed by Jose's Dare Do Hair where he is working as brush and blow director.

While in college, Mudsucker was a member of I Pheita Thi fraternity and was a big brother to I Tappa Keg sorority.

Maudine Mudsucker stated that her son's long range goals are to settle down with a nice woman and hopefully cut his addictive habit down to two cowchips per day. She added that Mudsucker is presently seeking professional help for his strange love for "processed" food.

A celebration party has been scheduled in Mudsucker's honor, although at press time he was still locked in the restroom making strange animal noises.

Movie sure to please

The new movie release for April 1 is sure to be an interesting experience for movie-goers everywhere. Entitled, "The Beaver Takes Bridgeport," it is the story of that ever-popular hero, the Beav, and his much sought-after triumph over death, taxes, re-runs, and spinoffs.

The plot involves Beaver's exploits in the fictitious town of Bridgeport, where years of being America's oldest child star finally drive him over the brink. As the film opens, we see him in a dirty hotel room, gorging himself on Moonpies and YoofHoos. In this demented state, he departs on a crime spree.

He enlists the aid of a band of roughians, the leader of whom is brilliantly portrayed by singer Donny Osmond. The gang, in a plot masterminded by the Beav, breaks up the Ladies Auxiliary Garden Party and Fashion Show by appearing in Saran Wrap and tissue paper roses.

The gang moves on around the city, funding themselves by knocking over book stores, then winds up involved in a rumble with an all-female gang of roughs, lead by Princess Diana, in her American film debut.

After their stay at General Hospital to be patched up, Beaver's gang is once again set on the straight and narrow by an Indian priestess, portrayed by Dr. Ruth Westheimer.

The cast of tens is comprised mostly by newcomers to the wide screen. Princess Diana and Dr. Ruth are both spectacular. Their costumes are appropriately done, with Diana appearing in leather from head to toe and Dr. Ruth appearing in feathers from head to toe.

Other cast members include John Forsythe, Michael J. Fox, Pee Wee Herman, and George Burns appearing as male gang members, and Cybil Shephard, Meredith Baxter-Birney, Kim Basinger, and Meryl Streep as female gang members.

Cher puts in a wonderful performance as the chairperson of the Ladies Auxiliary. And, as always, Jessica Lange was spectacular as the Beaver's mother, even though she had only a minor role.

'Curse You, Jack Dalton' begins run tonight

CYNDI OWENS

Chanticleer Staff Writer

Today the drama department begins its next production, entitled, "Curse You, Jack Dalton."

The show is unique in many ways. First of all, the set is built from lumber from an old house.

"We are using lumber from a house that is about 120 to 140 years old, and it is just beautiful. It has been donated to the department. Joe Read of Read Building Supply made the donation. It was his wife's grandmother's old house," Carlton Ward said.

David Keefer, the set designer, described the set as a "stage on a stage." The set is a combination western bar and dance hall, and has a stage.

"The way they did shows was to book touring drama troops to put on a show. But before the show, they would have local talent come in and do an olio, which was the predecessor to vaudeville. The first half of the play is the olio taking place in the bar. The second act is going to be the melodrama," Keefer explained.

Alice Morton, director and costumer, further explained what an olio is and what function it serves.

"Olios can be made of anything you want. There will be lots of songs, a few jokes, a few dances, a poetry recitation, and a can-can. There will be songs of that particular period, and music of the 1960's and 1970's. It's a stewpot, and you can throw in anything you have around. The olio is basically to warm up the audience and entertain them before the melodrama," Morton said.

Dennis Poss, one of the performers in the olio, explained his part.

"I am doing one of the few so-called 'serious' roles. It is serious, but yet it will be humorous. I will be giving a tear-jerking recitation. I will also be in the chorus of several songs," Poss stated.

Lee Pope, who was last seen in "H.M.S. Pinafore," has several roles in this production.

"I am stage manager. In the olio, I sing one song and I am understudying ... for one of my favorite Judy Garland songs, and on Saturday night I sing that part," Pope explained.

Another thing that is outstanding about the show is that it is going to be done as an old-fashioned melodrama would have been done in the past.

"We are trying to do it as historically accurate as possible," Ward stated.

"The cowboys and gamblers are going to be sitting watching the show, so they are going to be cheering the good guy and hissing at the bad guy. We'd like the audience to get involved. We are trying to get them as involved in the show as possible," Keefer said.

"Every show we do is very different from the last one. That is the fun part of this set. It is so adaptable. It is very different from the last show," Keefer concluded.

England wins Sigma Tau Delta's short story writing contest

England

By TZENA GIBBS
Chanticleer Senior Editor

Vincent England, a senior graduating with honors, is the winner of Sigma Tau Delta's short story writing contest with his entry entitled "Scale." England is obtaining a degree in political science with a minor in business and technical writing. He was awarded a $25 cash prize.

Originally from Alabama, England moved around during his school years and graduated from high school in Missouri. Upon graduation from high school, he enlisted in the navy for four years. After attending Northeast Missouri State University, he transferred to JSU three years ago. England has been married for almost two years, and he and his wife, Margo, have one daughter, Rachel.

England's story is about a young boy going through a very awkward stage in his life because he is overweight. England has delightfully written the story in first person from the boy's point of view. The observations and comments made reflect the humorous frankness of adolescents. The details leading up to the main event are very well thought through.

England said the idea for the story was the result of an event that happened when he was just 6 or 7 years old.

"It was quite an experience," England said.

England and some of his friends had gone with his mother to visit her friend. They walked down the neighborhood sidewalks and his mother went inside.

"We got into her friend's car and I was the driver. I pulled the gear not knowing and we started rolling down the hill. Then we were on our way," England said.

According to England, the story is "heavily padded with fiction for fiction's sake."

England became interested in writing in the summer of 1985 because that was one thing he could not do.

"The reason I decided to write was because I didn't know how, and when I don't know how to do something, I take it as a personal challenge. I try to learn until I've constructed a formula of how to do something right," he said.

England spent that entire summer teaching himself to write. He read all about writing and began keeping a journal while he was still working.

"I saw the need to express myself because I'm a loner, and with writing, I found a source of expression, a highly private form of expression, but it gets the job done," he said.

When England was notified that he won the contest, he was very excited.

"With a contest, of course, when you enter one you don't expect to win. Well, I don't any way. So when I found out, I was very surprised and flattered - with flattered being the controlling word," England said.

England plans to continue writing and wants to take it more seriously.

"I think that taking things more seriously is something I've learned to do since the Navy," England said.

He said he intends to break into short story writing and develop into a novelist. However, he said that he will only do this as a hobby outside of his military career. As far as the future, England has high goals.

"I see myself as a career officer in addition to being a published author. I want to break into being a novelist after I get my writing down pat," he said.

England is a second lieutenant in the army in Military Intelligence and after graduation will start school in Ft. Huachuca, Arizona, for the Officer Basic Course with emphasis in Military Intelligence.

England sees his wife as the motivating factor in his writing.

"Margo is a highly motivational factor in my writing. She encourages me with it and also edits it. She is very smart and is a very good writer with a sharp eye. She also pushes me and she really encouraged me to be in the contest," England said.

With so many other career alternatives, England chose to major in political science because on a personal level, England describes himself as the kind of person who looks for underlying motives, reasons, and the causal effects from a deeper level. He feels that politics gives him that understanding of the motives of different actions and the psychological reasons.

"Writing also gives you that understanding. I think that people are as different as the different shapes of the trees. I don't stereotype or label people but try to understand them and sympathize with them. I don't ridicule or pre-judge," England said.

He believes the key to understanding anyone is to first understand yourself.

"I do a lot of introspection. Writing is a type of therapy, a bringing out of myself. You put a little bit of yourself into every piece you write personality-wise, and every piece is an individual, just as the trees, and just as people," he said.

England believes differences are important in life.

"I like differences. I think the more differences there are, the more variety there is and the more interesting life is. Observing people, their actions and situations, helps you to understand yourself. Writing is the outcome of observations, ultimately," England said.

In addition to being an Honor's Graduate, England is secretary of Sigma Tau Delta, a JSU Who's Who, and a military graduate honoree.

"The confidence that I have as an individual in a broader sense is definitely attributed to my parents. More specifically, other than my wife and my daughter, I want to thank JSU and the English department for their cooperation and their help," England concluded.

Beam's 'Pastoral' takes first place in contest

Beam

By TZENA GIBBS
Chanticleer Senior Editor

Alan Beam, a sophomore majoring in math with a minor in creative writing, is the winner of Sigma Tau Delta's poetry contest with his entry entitled "Pastoral."

Only in his second semester at JSU, Beam took accelerated college courses in high school and CLEP'd the majority of his freshman curriculum. He graduated from Clay County High School in Ashland.

Beam got the idea for his poem sitting on the front porch of his grandmother's house.

"When I was younger, I used to go out and stay with my grandmother while my parents worked and during the summer I would sit on the front porch and look out over the field. Someone would usually be plowing or working in the field, but now, my grandparents are getting older, and nobody takes care of the field anymore," Beam said.

Beam said he made some observations about what he had seen and wrote the poem.

"I miss the country, I guess. For years, I had planned to leave the South as soon as I could. But the more I travel, the more I miss the beauty of the country in the South," Beam said.

Beam has always been interested in writing and began telling stories to entertain his friends as a little boy.

"I always told stories. I have a wild imagination so I would make up stories and tell my friends," Beam said.

He became interested in poetry and said he has had really good teachers who have helped him and encouraged him with his writing.

Beam wrote on his high school newspaper staff and his senior year in high school he instigated a literary magazine in his high school to "give people in school the opportunity to display their talent."

Beam enjoys reading everything and, as he puts it, "anything I can get my hands on, but especially poetry and short fiction. I get more out of fiction."

Beam definitely intends to keep writing. His plans are to transfer to the University of Alabama next fall and change his major to International Relations-English with a minor in creative writing.

"It would be very nice to pursue a career in writing, but I guess it's not very practical. I have this great dream of maybe being a playwright on Broadway, but I'll probably end up being a businessman in a three-piece suit carrying a briefcase," Beam said.

Beam says he has not had as much time to write as he would like.

"I have so many ideas running around in my head and sometimes they find their way on paper and sometimes they don't," Beam said.

Beam considers himself a shy person and finds that writing lets him express his inner-most feelings more freely.

Beam has had several poems and stories published before. During high school, he made an entry to the University of Alabama Bridge Magazine, "a collection of writings of rural life."

In his poem, Beam says he misses those long, hot summer days in the country at his grandmother's house.

"I miss the twilight, the quiet. I plan to spend two weeks in the country this summer. I just can't live without it.

How does he feel about winning? "I was pretty thrilled. As a matter of fact, I jumped up and down. I really didn't expect to win anything," Beam said.

Beam was awarded a $25 cash prize.

Extras bring energetic rock-n-roll to Brother's

By C. A. ABERNATHY
Chanticleer Staff Writer

The Extras were back at Brother's with their energetic youthful brand of rock-n-roll. The music varies from "Hard Day's Night" and "You Can't Do That" by the Beatles, "All The Day, All The Night" by the Kinks, "Devil With A Blue Dress On" by Mitch Ryder, "Don't Get Me Wrong" by the Pretenders, "Pride (In The Name Of Love)" by U2, "Behind The Wall Of Sleep" by the Smithereens, and "Coming Up Close" a beautiful ballad by Til Tuesday. A moderate, but lively crowd cheered the band on, sang and danced to their favorite songs.

The band started in Auburn three years ago and Billy Gallant (formerly with Revolver) re-joined the

Mask and Wig comedy night

By CYNDI OWENS
Chanticleer Staff Writer

The Mask and Wig Drama Club is sponsoring "Amateur Comedy Night" April 2, 9 and 16 at Katz in Jacksonville.

"The competitions on April 2 and 9 will be for the preliminaries. First place winners on those nights will each receive $25. First, second and third place finishers from each night will return for the final competition on April 16, with the winner receiving $50," Eric Key, president of the club, said.

The competition will begin between 10-10:30 p.m. Judges will likely be members of the faculty.

Original material is preferred. Material may either be presented as a monologue, or groups may present skits. Groups are limited to five members.

Applications are available at Katz, or may be picked up in room 339 Stone Center. Entry fees for the competition are $3 per person or $5 for a group.

group in January. Many of the members have been playing around 10 years and expect to release an original single in a month or so. The Extras' song list includes several of their own songs: "I Wanna Be The One," "Jealousy," and "All Over Town". Band members include: Alice Bargeron, lead vocals, (some keyboards, guitar and bass); Chip Snow, bass, vocals; Billy Gallant, lead guitar, vocals; Lee Bargeron, keyboards, vocals, and some guitar; and Sam Wilson, drums. The crew is Steve Oliver, on sound and his brother Mike Oliver on lights.

If you caught their show in January, you had the chance to hear the final show with Barry Reid on lead guitar. His brother Jimmy Reid, on vocals, along with Jimmy Grevas on bass, were guest players on an awesome rendition of "I Will Follow" by U2. Both Jimmy Reid and Jimmy Grevas are with an area band called Beat Feet. The audience loved it.

Alice Bargeron's powerful vocals soar on "Over The Hills And Far Away" by Led Zeppelin, "Roxanne" by the Police, "Precious" by the Pretenders, Cheap Trick's "Dream Police"; and are complimented by Lee's crisp, vocal harmony on "It's Your Birthday" by the Beatles, "Radio Free Europe" and "Superman" by R.E.M. Lee Bargeron's crystal clear vocals, are spotlighted on songs by Cheap Trick, "Ain't That A Shame", "Ticket To Ride" by the Beatles, "Brown Sugar" by the Rolling Stones, "Suffragate City" by David Bowie, "This Time" by INXS, and "Blister In The Sun" by Modern English.

Chips Snow's take-charge, no-nonsense vocals were a crowd pleaser on "Keep Your Hands To Yourself" a lean, rocking song by the Georgia Satellites, "I'm Not Your Steppin' Stone" by the Monkees, "Don't Change", "Wild Thing", "Should I Stay Or Should I Go", and "What I Like About You" by the Romantics. All the band is featured during a medley of 60's songs, which includes songs by the Monkees, "Somebody" by Jefferson Airplane, the Beatles, and "She's Just A Woman" by Led Zeppelin. Sam Wilson plays the driving beat that backs this well-liked area band.

Strong vocal harmony, a hard-driving beat, energetic stage presence, and an incredible variety of songs are only part of the audience appeal. What has won a lot of fans for the band is their dedication; and the smooth, but powerful playing of their lead guitarist, Billy Gallant. He returned to The Extras when

Alpha Phi Alpha

The brothers of Alpha Phi Alpha are planning a trip to Knoxville, Tennessee, on March 27. The brothers will be attending an annual regional convention, which is scheduled to last throughout the weekend.

Congratulations go out to Casey Holloway, who will be graduating this spring. Holloway plans to go into the field of investigation. Other congratulations are extended to Reginald Richardson, who will be getting married during the month of June.

The little sisters of Alpha Phi Alpha recently presented a fashion show to raise money for the trip to Tennessee. The fashion show was also a service project with canned goods being collected at the door.

Other events scheduled at a later date include a scavenger hunt and several car washes. The dates of these events will be posted.

Zeta Delta Phi

The Ladies of Essence of Zeta Delta Phi Sorority, Inc. would like to thank all of the Greek organizations that participated in their very first April Fool's Toga party held in the Leon Cole Auditorium last night. Five dinners from Cecil's, a Beastie Boys cassette tape, Janet Jackson's single, "Let's Wait A While", Jody Watley's single, "I'm Looking For a New Love" and a large pizza, key-chain and cups from Domino's were given away. The Zetas would like to thank Domino's, Cecil's and Walmart, Inc. for sponsoring the prizes.

Congratulations are in order for Renata Prater who is pledging this semester. The Big Sisters would like to encourage her to stick with it, because it will be worth it.

Tabitha Datcher and Tracie Lee recently participated in a spring fashion show sponsored by the Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity and the Alpha Sweethearts and the Masonic Order.

The Zetas will be extremely busy next month with all kinds of projects to help raise money for Muscular Dystrophy. The dates of these projects will be in next week's issue.

Delta Zeta

Happy Birthday to Delta Zeta! On Thursday, March 26, 1987, the Lambda Gamma chapter here at Jacksonville State turned ten years old.

A rush party was held in the basement of Fitzpatrick on Wednesday, March 25, for any girls interested in finding out about Delta Zeta and it was a great turnout. Thanks to everyone who came to the party and to those Dee Zees who worked so hard on the preparations of food, decorations, and the skit. It was a great job!

Congratulations to Angie Hilsenbeck, Jenny Wright, April Dillard and Jenny Southerland. These girls are going to be initiated into the sisterhood of Delta Zeta in April.

To all the fraternities that participated in Greek Week last week, congratulations! Everyone looked great.

The Tahiti Sweetie Tenth Anniversary party and Kilarney Rose Formal held last weekend were fantastic. With all the DZ's bringing a date and a friend to Friday night's party, everyone had a great time dancing and getting to know each other. Saturday night's formal lasted into the wee hours and everyone enjoyed a great steak dinner and a delightful evening.

Phi Mu

The sisters of Phi Mu held their first annual sisterhood retreat last weekend at Sandestin Beach Resort in Destin, Florida. Their bus left Sparkman at 3 p.m. and they arrived in Destin at 9 p.m. The girls went to Harbor Docks after arriving to eat and dance to the band. After a long day on the beach, the Phi Mu traveled down C30-A outlet to the world renowned Seaside Beach and community. After another day of sun on Sunday, the girls returned safely home. Phi Mu would like to thank Jamie Masters for planning and organizing the retreat.

Last Wednesday night, the Phi Mus and the Sigma Chis had a White Wedding mixer. After four couples were unofficially married by Rev. Randy Vice, a punk rock reception was held at the house and the two groups rocked all night.

Phi Mu and Pi Kappa Phi are getting together tonight for their fourth annual Toga mixer.

Congratulations to Michele Molpus and Chem Proctor who are Pi Kapp little sisters of the month.

Congratulations to Jamie Masters and Tzena Gibbs who were named Outstanding Young Women of America for 1986.

Julie Bolton has been very busy planning the upcoming closed weekend April 10-12. The Phi Mu will paint their hall and begin tryouts and practice for fall rush. Also, plans will be made for the new decor of their chapter room.

On Sunday night, April 12, Mrs. Shirley Reed, chapter advisor, is having an honorary dinner for Phi Mu's graduating seniors.

Phi Mu is also looking forward to their mixer with Kappa Alpha on April 16.

Alpha Xi Delta

The sisters of Alpha Xi Delta and their dates enjoyed a fun-filled evening at the Rose Cotillion Formal. The band "Newboys" provided excellent entertainment and everyone had a great time. Various awards were presented, and Scarlett Mayhall was chosen as sister of the year.

On Thursday before Spring Break, Alpha Xi and Sigma Chi teamed up for an autograph mixer. The Fuzzies had a great time and we are looking forward to working with Sigma Chi in the years to come. Thanks for a great mixer!

Congratulations to Pledge of the Week Beth Pruitt. Pledge of the Week for March 16 was LeeAnn Freeman.

Alpha XI is excited about the mixer with the men of Delta Chi tonight. Everyone is looking forward to a great time. Several sisters from the Epsilon Pi chapter will be attending the province convention in Atlanta this weekend. Good luck to all!

Sigma Nu

The brothers, pledges, and little sisters of Iota Lambda chapter have recently returned to Jacksonville after their formal in Lexington, Virginia. The festivities began on Thursday, March 19, with a warm-up party until midnight. The party continued on a bus until Friday when they arrived in Lexington. Upon their return, everyone told of the great time they had at the birthplace of Sigma Nu.

Greek Week began last week and everyone had a great time in the competitions. Greek Week ended with a massive party at the National Guard Armory in Jacksonville with the band Tomboy providing the entertainment.

The Nus are gearing up their community projects in a big way. On Tuesday, March 24, the brothers participated in a square dance with some local Girl Scouts with everyone having a good time learning to square dance.

On April 4, the brothers will be holding a road block to raise money for charity. Later in April, the Sigma Nus will be hosting an Easter Egg Hunt for local area children. The date of this event will be forthcoming.

The Triad Party is coming up in about a week. The Nus hope that everyone has been preparing for the arrival of this event. This party should prove to be the event of the century for Jacksonville, and with any luck, this town is going to rock like it has never rocked before!

The Triad . . . it is almost here!

Pi Sigma Chi

The brothers and little sisters of Pi Sigma Chi are looking forward to Spring Fling 1987, April 3-5 at Ft. Walton Beach, Florida. Everyone is very excited about the trip and looking forward to sharing the weekend together.

Congratulations to all the winners of Greek Week events. The week was fun and provided a chance for a little friendly competition among the fraternities.

The brothers are anxiously awaiting their upcoming mixer with the sisters of Zeta Tau Alpha. The theme is "Surprise Mixer" and is sure to be a blast!

Zeta Tau Alpha

The sisters of ZTA would like to thank the men of Pi Kappa Phi for the wonderful mixer last Thursday night in which the theme was Jungle II. Also, the ladies send out a special thanks to KA for the great Country Club mixer last Tuesday night.

Next week, the ZTA's are getting together for a Beach Party mixer with the brothers of Delta Chi.

Next weekend is the big weekend the Zeta's have been waiting for all year. They are having their White Violet Formal with a weekend celebration. The Swinging Richards will be performing to entertain the girls and their dates for the formal.

Friday night, the ZTA's will be having a formal dinner and banquet at the Carriage House Inn in Anniston. On Saturday night, they will go to Solid Gold here in town for a dance and party with The Swinging Richards.

Congratulations to Missy Smith who is Social Bunny of the Week, Karen Hunt who is member of the week and to Brooke Kent who is pledge of the week.

Gamecocks take two from Hawks

By THOMAS BALLENGER
Chanticleer Senior Editor

The Gamecocks of Coach Rudy Abbott got back on the winning track last Friday, as JSU swept a doubleheader from visiting Shorter College, winning game one 7-5 and taking the nightcap by the score of 4-2.

In the opener, the Gamecocks bolted out of the gate quickly. Leadoff hitter Jim Karanassos hit the first pitch over the right centerfield wall for a solo homer. Second hitter Jon Underwood duplicated Karanassos' homer by taking Shorter pitcher Shane Pendley's fourth delivery home deep to right for a 2-0 Gamecock lead.

Shorter notched a run in the second, on a mammoth solo homer by catcher Dave Vincent. Still, JSU led 2-1.

Shorter took a 4-2 lead in the third inning, as Gamecock starter Mark Eskins was touched up by the Hawks. Baron Baker led off by striking out, but the ball eluded catcher Marty Lovrich, and by the time Lovrich recovered, Baron had beaten the throw. A walk and two wild pitches put Hawks on the corners, with no one out. The next four Shorter hitters each singled up the middle, and when the inning was over, the Hawks had a 4-2 lead.

JSU reclaimed the lead in the bottom of the third. Jon Underwood singled with one out, and advanced to second on a walk to Stewart Lee. Craig Daniels then ripped a double over third, scoring Underwood, and sending Lee to third. Larry Doyle's single scored Lee, and sent Daniels to third. With two out, second baseman Harold Ragsdale singled in Daniels, but he was caught in a rundown between first and second. Still, it was a good inning for JSU, and after three innings, Jax State led 5-4.

Eskins settled down, and appeared to be breezing to a complete game win, but he could not make it through the seventh frame. After retiring the first hitter, Eskins hit Shorter's ninth hitter, bringing the top of the Hawk order up with the tying run on first base. A walk to the Shorter leadoff man brought Steve Bennett to the plate with the tying run at second base. Bennett then lined a single to center, scoring the runner, and tying up the game. Eskins hit another batter, loading the bases, before Coach Abbott brought in Joe Loria to end the Shorter rally. Loria threw two pitches, and induced Shorter's cleanup hitter to hit into a double play.

Going into the bottom of the seventh, the score was tied at 5-5.

After one out, Jim Karanassos singled to start the seventh inning heroics. After a strikeout of Jon Underwood, Hawk hurler Pendley faced JSU slugger Stewart Lee with the game on the line. After working the count to 2-0, Lee hit a towering two-run homer to leftcenter winning the game for Loria and the Gamecocks.

The win raised Loria's record to 1-1.

The hitting stars of game one were Jon Underwood and Jim Karanassos, each who contributed two hits.

Game two saw the Hawks break out to an early 1-0 lead. In the third inning, Shorter scored once, after a double by Kip Connally, to take the advantage.

The Gamecocks scored four times in the fourth, as two Hawk miscues paved the way to the runs. Larry Doyle led off with a walk, and advanced to second after a single by Ryan Griffith. Second baseman Harold Ragsdale then singled. With no outs, JSU had the bases loaded. Catcher Ed Tredway grounded out, forcing Ragsdale but scoring Doyle. Shortstop Robert Lane then lifted a sacrifice fly to right, which scored Griffith. With two outs, Jim Karanassos stroked an RBI single, scoring Tredway. After four innings of play, JSU led 4-1.

Shorter cut the deficit to 4-2 as Steve Turrentine led off the fifth with a solo homer, which was the last time the Hawks would score.

Gamecock starter Todd Jones showed masterful control in picking up the complete game victory. Jones, who is only a freshman, struck out eight, and only allowed four hits in his seven inning performance.

Three Gamecocks collected two hits in the game, Karanassos, Griffith, and Ragsdale.

The sweep of Shorter raised the Gamecocks record to 16-4 overall.

JSU's next games will be Saturday as they play host to the defending Division II champs, Troy State. The first game of the twinbill will begin at 2 p.m. Sunday, the Gamecocks host Columbus College for a 1:30 p.m. single game.

The new Gamecock complex will be built on the intramural fields, which will enable coliseum parking to be utilized by baseball fans.

The new complex will have a field for baseball, dressing rooms for the players, a covered grandstand, restroom and food facilities, and a field for the women's softball program, which begins next year.

However, all of the building may not be finished in time for next

"We will play at the new site next season, but that is not to say that everything will be finished by next year. I think that we will complete the building in stages, which might possibly take 3-4 years to finish. My idea is to finish the playing surface and the dugouts, and perhaps use temporary seats for the next season. Permanent seats, as well as the dressing facilities could be added later," Cole said.

Rifle team ends year

By THOMAS BALLENGER

The rifle team of Jacksonville State completed their 1987 campaign this past weekend, hosting the 1987 Gamecock Invitational.

In the top division, the defending NCAA champs, Murray State, walked off with the top prize. The all-woman team scored 2297 points, easily outdistancing the second place finisher, Tennessee - Martin, by 62 points. Tennessee - Tech finished third, and the host Jax State Gamecocks came in fourth.

JSU scored 2203 points, and was led by Sandy Nelson. "Nelson, a senior from Anniston, scored a career-best 561 points to lead JSU." Sandy did well. It was her last match, and she shot a personal best," said team coach Captain Boyd Collins.

Nelson's score placed her 10th overall in the individual competition.

Steve Chew compiled a score of 557, and finished 12th out of 70 shooters. Steve Gary shot for a total of 544, which placed him 16th in the meet. Jason Pyle scored 541 points, and placed nineteenth in the meet.

Other Gamecock shooters include Pete Martin, 527 (28th place), Tim

Ward 512 (33rd place) and Noel Johnson, 427 (56th place).

Murray State's Deena Weigger took home all of the individual honors at the meet. Weigger totaled 587 points, which was only four points shy of the national record. Weigger scored a perfect 200 in the prone shooting category, and added 188 points in the standing shoot, and 199 in the kneeling event.

The Gamecocks fourth place finish was accomplished in a division of 14 schools.

In the second division, North Alabama won the team title with a score of 2095. Tuskegee won the final college division with a total of 1845 points. In the high school division, Athens High School, of Athens, Alabama, scored 2085 points, to claim the top spot.

Collins, who is leaving JSU at the end of the school year, was awarded "Coach of the Year" by his fellow coaches at the awards banquet. Collins is being transferred to Leavenworth, Kansas.

The JSU rifle team finishes the 1987 season with a record of 82-31. Two shooters, Steve Gary and Steve Chew, were named All - Gulf South Conference for their accomplishments this season

Women win three, men lose five matches

By THOMAS BALLENGER
Chanticleer Senior Editor

The Jax State tennis teams have been busy in the past week and a half with the women winning three of five contests, but their male counterparts were not as fortunate after losing all five matches.

The Lady Gamecocks started off by hosting Tennessee - Martin. JSU led 4-2 going into doubles action, but bad weather prevented the match from being completed. Winning singles matches for the ladies were Natalie Heynysh, Lea Clayton, Jamie Masters, and Kim Hamels.

Next up was the North Alabama Invitational. The Lady Gamecocks opened by losing a tough match to the Lady Lions of UNA, 5-4. Phyllis Priest White claimed her match at number one, winning a three set encounter by the score of 7-6 in the deciding set. Jamie Masters was the other JSU singles winner, as she won 6-2, 6-3. Going into the doubles fray, JSU had to sweep to win the match. However, that was not to be.

The top team of White and Sheri Circle won 5-7, 6-4, 7-6, and the third team of Masters and Kim Hamels also won, 6-4, 6-3. But, the second team could not pull through, as UNA claimed the overall win.

JSU stormed back the following day to blast the Lady Statesmen of Delta State, 8-1. White won her singles match 6-1, 6-0. Sheri Circle triumphed at number two by the totals of 6-3, 7-5. Lea Clayton won 6-1, 6-2. Jamie Masters eased by her opponent 6-3, 6-1. And Kim Hamels won by the count of 6-1, 6-0. Each Lady Gamecock doubles team won as the ladies clearly dominated Delta State.

Next, the JSU women bombed the ladies from Freed - Hardeman by the score of 7-2. White led the way with a 6-1, 6-3 singles win. Circle, Clayton, Masters, and Hamels won their singles matches as the Lady Gamecocks clinched the match win in the singles competition.

In doubles, the top team of White and Circle won 6-2, 6-4. Also, the second tandem of Natalie Heynysh and Clayton posted a 6-3, 6-4, victory.

Division I school Samford was next for the Lady Gamecocks, and they responded with a 7-2 win over the Birmingham school.

White opened play with a 6-0, 6-2 win at the top singles position. JSU could win neither of the next two spots, but number four seed Lea Clayton ended the Samford run with a 6-4, 6-4 win. Bottom two players, Jamie Masters and Tara Downs each posted wins for JSU.

Jax State swept the doubles action, as the team of Masters and Heynysh led the way with a 6-0, 6-2, domination of their opponents.

The men's tennis team did not fare as well as the women as the Gamecocks lost all five of their matches.

The UNA Lions provided opposition for JSU, and the Jaxmen dropped a tough 5-4 decision to them. UNA won the first two singles spots, but JSU won the final four positions. Greg Harrier won at number three by the scores of 7-6, 5-7, 6-4. Keith Nix triumphed at number four by the count of 5-7, 7-6, 6-4. Number five player Les Abbott kept the JSU roll going by winning 7-5, 6-4. Finally, Bob McCluskey won at the last singles spot, by the scores of 3-6, 7-6, 6-4. JSU led 4-2 going into doubles, and only had to win one more match to clinch the win over UNA. But, it did not turn out that way.

The top team of Jim Ragan and Nix lost 7-5, 7-5. The pairing of McCluskey and Chris Crump

New baseball field on horizon

The Jacksonville State baseball program will receive a big boost next year with the construction of a new field.

"Yes, it is our intention to play baseball at the new field next year," JSU athletic director Jerry Cole said.

University Field, the current home of Jax State baseball, has served the program well since

All-Around Sports

The makings of a GSC title team are being built this spring

Saturday morning the Gamecocks of Bill Burgess had their second scrimmage of the spring, and if the offensive performance of a few individuals is any indication, the Gamecocks will be tough to handle in 1987.

Thomas Ballenger
Sports Editor

Quarterbacks Pat White and Steve Patrick performed well, and this one-two punch should allow Offensive Coordinator Charlie Maniscalco to keep opposing defenses guessing this fall.

Several other players had good performances. Backs Terry Thomas, Solomon Rivers, Brian Stevenson, and Greg Dragg each ran the ball well. Third-team quarterback Cecil Blount, a redshirt freshman, also looked good in several instances.

Offensive guard Joe Billingsley, a rising junior who is also a returning All-American, is one player who goes all out every time he is on the field. No matter what the play, Joe is consistently down the field blocking his man. Joe has incredible strength, especially in his legs. No JSU player has ever been selected a three-time All-American, but don't be surprised if Joe Billingsley is the first.

A defensive player who showed his intensity Saturday was backup linebacker Darryl Holliday. Holliday, who was moved from fullback this spring, is still learning his new position, but he nevertheless placed several good hits on a few ball carriers.

Defensively, the Gamecocks still have a problem with the big play, but don't forget that the defenders, even though many played extensively last year, are still very young. The Gamecock stop troops will improve as they gain experience.

From the looks of things, the 1987 Jacksonville State football season could be a great one.

Congratulations to two members of the JSU rifle team. Steve Chew and Steve Gary were each named to the All-GSC rifle team. Chew is a junior from New Jersey, and Gary is a freshman from Texas. Congratulations again to both of these fine Gamecock marksmen.

The baseball Gamecocks swept three games from Shorter College this past weekend, winning two home games Friday, and capturing a road win Saturday. JSU seems to be breaking out of its slump, and it could not come at a better time. Saturday afternoon, the Troy State Trojans come to town for a twinbill. TSU, the defending GSC as well as Division II champs, will provide a big test for Rudy Abbott's men. The Gamecocks are 4-0 in GSC play, and a sweep of Troy would go along way in securing a berth in the GSC playoffs.

Freshman hurler Todd Jones is emerging as the potential ace of the Gamecock staff. Jones has a record of 2-0, and an ERA under 2.00. He has also struck out 37 men in only 23 innings.

A word of warning for the Troy pitching staff, don't throw Stewart Lee too many good pitches. As Shorter College found out this weekend, Lee will hurt you if he gets his pitch.

Coach Bill Jones and his staff are busy recruiting, and Jones hopes to sign five or six players during the April signing period. With the addition of a smooth shooting second guard, the Gamecocks could have a very good team next year.

Remember the Troy State Trojans are coming to town Saturday afternoon for a twinbill at University Field. Go out and support the Gamecocks against our evil, vile enemy. Remember, WHUP TROY!

Gamecock back Terry Thomas plows through the middle of the defense Burgess pleased with scrimmage

If Saturday's second scrimmage of the spring is any indication, Jacksonville State University head football coach Bill Burgess may once again have the luxury of having two outstanding quarterbacks to call on this season.

Senior quarterback Pat White and sophomore Steve Patrick were particularly impressive here Saturday. And although White led the White team to a 24-12 victory over the Red, he did not have all the fun. In addition to gaining 75 yards rushing on 13 carries, Patrick, a Pinson Valley native, completed three of four passes for 29 yards, including a 28-yarder to freshman halfback Ralph Johnson that set up one score.

White, a Bessemer native, gained 32 yards on 10 carries and hit on 5 of 10 passes for 115 yards.

"The good things today were the lack of penalties and the play of our quarterbacks. Pat White did an excellent job of running our offense, and Steve Patrick improved greatly today," Burgess said.

But while the quarterbacks gained Burgess' praise, the Jax State defense did not. White, Patrick and the rest of the Jax State offense rolled up 412 yards rushing and another 179 passing.

"Defensively, we fell into the same trap we have the past two seasons. We played well in spurts, but then we gave up the big play. We have to do a better job defensively, especially on third-and-long," he said.

The White team scored on a two-yard run from White, a Terry Thomas one-yard run, a 31-yard field goal from Ashley Kay, and another two-yard run from Thomas.

Patrick directed the Red team to a score, that on a Johnson two-yard run, while third-team quarterback Cecil Blount hit wide-out Darrell Sanders from 19 yards out for the other red touchdown.

Sophomore fullback Brian Stevenson led all rushers with 84 yards on 12 carries, including a 42-yarder, followed by Patrick with 75 on 13, freshman Greg Dragg with 59 on 9, and Thomas with 40 on 10 carries.

Ronnie Oliver, Kevin Blue, and Johnson each hauled in two passes.

"This was the first time this spring that we let our kickers perform under game situations. Overall, our kicking game was ragged. I thought Ashley Kay did a good job, but we have to improve our kicking game if we are going to be a better team," Burgess said.

Burgess also singled out Thomas and offensive guard Joe Billingsley.

"Overall, the effort was good. We had a good day to work, and we learned a bit about going when we're tired. The effort is there and I expect us to get better," Burgess concluded.

Tennis

dropped a 6-3, 6-2 decision. The final doubles team of Abbott and Harley fell to UNA, 6-2, 6-1. A golden opportunity for a win had gotten away.

Another tough loss befell the Gamecocks next as they lost again by the score 5-4, this time to West Georgia. Second seed Chris Crump started things well for JSU, as he won his match 7-6, 6-2. Greg Harley followed with a 4-6, 6-4, 6-1 victory. The only other singles win was recorded by Bob McCluskey, as the freshman won 7-5, 6-4.

Doubles again proved to be the Gamecocks downfall, as the top two JSU teams could not record wins. (See TENNIS, Page 23)

Tech beats Gamecocks again

By THOMAS BALLENGER
Chanticleer Senior Editor

The Gamecocks of Jacksonville State traveled to Marietta, Ga., last week for a baseball game with Southern Tech, but the trip proved fruitless as the Hornets defeated Jax State, 12-6, in a non-conference contest.

Southern Tech opened up a 2-0 lead in the home half of the second inning. After JSU starter Steve Marriam retired the first two batters in the second, errors by the Gamecocks gave the Hornets a scoring opportunity. Consecutive errors by Gamecock shortstop Harold Ragsdale and third baseman Stewart Lee, put two Tech players on base. Marriam allowed singles to the next two hitters, and Southern Tech had a 2-0 advantage.

JSU stormed back to score four runs in the next frame. Designated hitter Ryan Griffith led off with a single, and Ed Tredway, the Gamecock catcher, followed with a hit of his own. After a double play erased one runner, Jon Underwood singled in Griffith with JSU's first run. Craig Caldwell was the next hitter, and the rightfielder also garnered a single. Big hitters Stewart Lee and Craig Daniels then stroked back-to-back doubles, as the Gamecocks took a 4-2 lead.

The Jax State lead did not hold up long however. In the bottom of the fourth, the Techsters scored three times, again aided by a Gamecock miscue. Three hits and the second error of the game committed by Ragsdale, allowed the Hornets to score three runs and reclaim the lead.

Jacksonville State took a 6-5 lead in the top of the fifth inning. With one out, Caldwell and Lee hit back to back singles, and Daniels followed with a double that scored both Caldwell and Lee. The Gamecocks had a chance to increase their lead, but with the base loaded, Ed Tredway grounded out to first to end the inning. After four and a half innings of play, JSU led 6-5.

Southern Tech proved to be anything but hospitable hosts in the bottom half of the fifth, as the Hornets scored six runs. Marriam surrendered three singles, a double, and a triple before being relieved by Mark Eskins. Eskins worked out of more trouble, but the damage had been done. Tech led 11-6 after five innings.

Tech added an insurance run in the sixth, as the Hornets turned a walk, a stolen base, and a single into their final run. The home team led by the score of 12-6, after six complete frames.

JSU went down meekly in both the seventh and eighth innings, but a Tech error helped the Gamecocks in the ninth. Underwood led off with a walk, and on a subsequent error by the rightfielder after a putout, advanced to second. Lee singled Underwood to third, and Daniels followed with a single which scored the seventh JSU run of the day. Firstbaseman Larry Doyle then doubled, scoring Lee and sending Daniels to third. With one out, the Gamecocks were still alive. However, the comeback hopes of JSU faded as Robert Lane struck out, and Ryan Griffith flew out to left.

Southern Tech had beaten the Gamecocks 12-6, and had dropped JSU's overall record to 14-4.

Starter Steve Marriam was roughed up for 10 runs and 10 hits in his four plus innings of work. Mark Eskins pitched one plus inning, allowing two runs on two hits. Joe Loria finished up by holding Tech scoreless over the final two innings.

Craig Caldwell was a perfect three-for-three on the day. Stewart Lee went four-for-five, knocking in one run. Craig Daniels had three hits, two of them doubles, and collected three RBI's.

Jax State's next games will be Saturday, as they host defending Division II national champ Troy State for a twinbill. The first game will begin at 2:00. Sunday, Columbus College comes to town for a 1:30 contest. Columbus was the runnerup to Troy State for last year's NCAA title.

Shorter loss avenged by 10 runs

By THOMAS BALLENGER
Chanticleer Senior Editor

The Gamecocks of Jax State avenged an earlier loss and defeated the Shorter Hawks by the score of 14-4, Saturday afternoon at Rome, Georgia.

Shorter, which saw its record fall to 18-8, was the team that ended JSU's season opening 13-game winning streak, so the Gamecock triumph was especially sweet.

The Hawks grabbed an early 3-0 first-inning lead, as JSU starter Dwan Gregg surrendered a single, double, and a base on balls.

JSU came back with five runs in the top of the second inning, to assume a lead that was never relinquished. Stewart Lee hit a solo homer, his 14th of the season, to highlight the Gamecock uprising. Harold Ragsdale, the JSU second baseman, also homered in the frame.

Shorter scored a single run in the bottom of the second, as shortstop Scott Parrish singled in leadoff man Kip Connally.

Ed Tredaway connected for a three-run homer in the Gamecock third inning, scoring Lee and designated hitter Ryan Griffith. After three innings, JSU led by the score of 8-4.

In the fifth, the Jaxmen scored two runs, pushing the count to 10-4. Griffith led off the inning with a walk, and shortstop Robert Lane followed with a two-run homer.

JSU expanded its lead to 11-4 in the eighth, as firstbaseman Larry Doyle collected an RBI after his single scored Jon Underwood, who had doubled, from second base.

The win pushed JSU's record to 17-4, and gave the Gamecocks a 3-2 advantage in games played with Shorter.

Jax State hosts defending Division II national champ Troy State Saturday for a 1:00 twinbill. Sunday, Columbus College travels to Jacksonville for a 1:30 single game.

Tennis

The third pairing of Abbott and Harley won a three-set match, 4-6, 6-4, 6-3.

Troy State was the next opponent. Against Troy, the doubles matches were played first, and for a change the Gamecocks won all three contests. The top team of Ragan and Nix won 6-2, 6-3. Second seeded Crump and McCluskey posted a 6-4, 4-6, 6-2 victory. And the third team of Abbott and Harley also won, by the scores of 6-4, 2-6, 6-4.

The Gamecocks needed only two wins in the next six matches to defeat Troy. However, the Trojans had another thing in mind.

TSU swept all six singles contests, but the Gamecocks did not go without a fight. Jim Ragan, Chris Crump, and Les Abbott each lost in straight sets, but the other three matches went three-sets.

Keith Nix lost a three-set match 1-6, 6-4, 6-1, as did Bob McCluskey, as he fell 6-3, 3-6, 6-3. Number three player Greg Harley played a fine match, but he lost 1-6, 6-4, 6-7. Once again the Gamecocks had come close, but still they were defeated.

Valdosta State, the defending conference champion, waxed the Jaxmen by the score of 7-2. The lone JSU points came in singles. Number three man Greg Harley continued his fine play by winning 6-2, 6-4.

Number six player Bob McCluskey collected the other JSU point, as he won 7-5, 4-6, 6-3.

Once again, the 5-4 jinx hit the Gamecocks, as the team lost another heartbreaker, this time to Samford. Jim Ragan started things off for JSU with a 6-2, 6-7, 6-0 win at number one singles. Samford collected the next three singles spots. Each match went three sets, but the Bulldogs were too tough. Les Abbott won at number five, 0-6, 6-4, 6-4, and final seed Bob McCluskey also triumphed scoring 6-4, 3-6, 6-3. The match was tied at 3-3 entering doubles play.

The third team of Harley - Abbott won a third set tiebreaker and claimed a 2-6, 6-4, 7-6 win. But, Samford won the other two matches, and took the match 5-4.

The Lady Gamecocks are now 6-8 on the season, while the men are 5-11-1. The JSU women host West Georgia today at 3 p.m.

This weekend they participate in the GSC Invitational, which will be held at JSU. Monday, the Lady Gamecocks travel to play Berry College. The men also travel to Berry next Monday, and they will also take part in the Shorter Hawk Invitational, which opens play next Wednesday.
