KA’s denied in appeal bid

By MIKE DOUGLASS and CYNDI OWENS
Chanticleer Senior Editors

The SGA Judicial Court met on September 8 to hear an appeal of the University decision to suspend the Delta Phi chapter of Kappa Alpha Order for two semesters. In a unanimous decision the court reduced the suspension to one semester followed by one semester of probation.

The suspension was imposed as a result of violations at the end of the Spring 1987 semester of Articles 1 and 4 of the Regulations Governing Student Conduct.

Last semester, after a rash of tree and shrub thefts in Jacksonville, police received a report that one of the stolen trees had been spotted outside the Kappa Alpha Fraternity house located on Pelham Rd. After a positive identification of the tree, police searched the house with the consent of KA Vice-President Brady Howton. Upon completion of the search, police confiscated a number of trees and shrubs, some of which were later identified as the stolen property, according to Officer Randy Lee of the Jacksonville Police Department. On April 30 the fraternity was charged with 6 counts of misdemeanor theft.

Although the case is technically open, the KA’s were exonerated by the legal system and are facing no criminal charges.

“We’re having problems understanding why the University is pressing the issue when we were exonerated in the legal system,” KA President Steve LaFollette said.

While the KA’s deny any wrongdoing, they do not deny that the trees and shrubs found on their property did not belong to them. In their defense, the KA’s maintained that the trees and shrubs had been stolen and left at the house by unknown persons, possibly disgruntled former pledges. They alleged that the still active pledges, upon finding the plants, unknowingly planted them, thinking that they were KA property.

“Kappa Alpha isn’t denying that those plants were not ours, but the city of Jacksonville had no case against us. If they had a case, why didn’t they arrest the guilty parties?” LaFollette said.

The court maintained that although the fraternity was exonerated, the SGA’s suspension still stands. (See KA, Page 2)

Lack of activities prompt SGA action

By GROVER KITCHENS

For more years than most faculty or any students can remember, Jax State has had a problem, that of being a suitcase college. Every weekend brings an exodus of biblical proportions by students fleeing the college scene to go home for the weekend.

This year something is being done about the lack of activities that have sent students home to find fun on the weekends. The S.G.A. has already sponsored a host of exciting activities for the first stay at Jax State weekend and many more are planned for the rest of the year.

With the coming of a new administration many felt that steps of change would follow, but the increase of the entertainment budget was more than many expected. Von-da Barbour, in her second year as SGA president, worked, traveled, and did research on a paper she later presented to Dr. McGee. During this process and in her paper she proved that schools not only the same size, but also smaller than Jax State received more entertainment monies than this university in past years.

Originally the SGA received $20,000 for the entertainment budget, but after Dr. McGee studied Barbour’s report he agreed that entertainment deserved a $50,000 increase to create a $70,000 total for this year’s entertainment budget.

Barbour and the SGA have three major goals for this school year: 1) To increase the budget so there could be more activities, 2) Put more stress on student activities than in past years, and 3) Brainstorm with different entertainers.

Carmode and Roberts receive new positions

Two major positions in the communications department have been filled for the coming year. Dr. Ralph Carmode was named head of the communications department and James Roberts was named the new advisor of the Chanticleer.

Carmode received his undergraduate degree from the University of North Carolina and his Master’s degree from Brigham Young University. He also holds a Ph.D in speech communication from Penn State. Carmode’s ultimate goal is to receive national accreditation for his program.

Campus crimes continue despite summer break

By MIKE DOUGLASS
Chanticleer Senior Editor
Campus crime continued to flourish throughout the summer according to University Police Chief Dr. David Nichols.

Over the summer there were reports of eight crimes against persons, including three assaults and five harassment charges. There were 31 property crimes including two burglaries and 11 thefts.

Nichols remains optimistic about the coming school year although he has some reservations.

"The national crime rate is up and my research has shown that our crime rate parallels the national crime rate," he said.

(KA operated by the legal system, the severity of the charges warranted the punishment they received.

This brings great discredit to JSU and KA. It's not the image we want portrayed to the citizens and two burglary and 11 thefts. Fourteen crimes against public order were also reported.

Nichols feels that the large freshman enrollment will contribute more to a traffic problem than a crime problem.

"We changed some of the traffic flow. We've added a new lot over at Sen Hall. We also made some recommendations to a task force that we hope will be implemented," Nichols said.

community at large," Dr. Donald Schmitz, Dean of Student Affairs said.

"I understand the embarrassment the University feels. Our reputation in the 11 years we've been here has been flawless. We'll be more than happy to offer restitution to the people involved, either monetarily or through labor," LaFollette said.

Before you choose a long distance service, take a close look.

You may be thinking about choosing one of the newer carriers over AT&T in order to save money. Think again.

Since January 2987, AT&T's rates have dropped more than 15% for direct-dialed out-of-state calls. So they're lower than you probably realize. For information or specific rates, you can call us at 1 800 222-0300.

And AT&T offers clear long distance connections, operator assistance, 24-hour customer service, and immediate credit for wrong numbers. Plus, you can use AT&T to call from anywhere to anywhere, all over the United States and to over 250 countries.

You might be surprised at how good a value AT&T really is. So before you choose a long distance company, pick up the phone.

the best of a liberal arts background with communication skills. We want to give students the best preparation possible for working in the mass media," Carnem said.

Roberts holds an undergraduate degree from JSU and a Master's degree in English and Fine Arts from Columbia University. He has been a communication consultant for 20 years and is currently a copy editor at the Anniston Star.

"I want to see the paper be responsible to the needs of students, faculty and staff with excellence in reporting and writing. I'd like it to be written with grace and good humor, integrity, honesty and all that good stuff," Roberts said.
James Reaves retires after twenty-one years

By MIKE DOUGLASS
Chanticleer Senior Editor

After 21 years of service to his alma mater, Dr. James Reaves, Vice-President for academic affairs at JSU, will retire on December 31. Throughout his career, Reaves has watched JSU change in many ways. He cites broadening class schedules as being among the most significant changes.

"If you were to compare the course offerings in 1967 with the course offerings in 1987, you would note that JSU is like two different institutions. We had one Master's degree program when I came here and less than 100 students in that program. Today, the graduate program is virtually like a new program and there is no comparison to the choices that undergraduates can make," Reaves said.

New snack bar opens to replace Hardee's

By DARREN DOUGHTIT
Chanticleer Staff Writer

When the urge for a "Big Deluxe" hits you this semester, you'll have to go further than the Theron Montgomery building. A Hardee's franchise no longer occupies the Student Commons building, a snack bar operated under the auspices of the Marriott Educational Services, a major food service corporation, was selected by a panel of students and faculty to pick up where Hardee's left off.

The snack bar, managed by Linda Brock, made its grand opening last Thursday. Brock said she had nightmares about the opening, but at the end of the first day of business she had nothing about which to be disappointed. The snack bar was "really busy," even though it hadn't been officially presented to the students by way of advertisements. Most of the opening day's business for the snack bar was the result of word-of-mouth. Some first reactions to the snack bar and the food were, "I didn't know the place was there!"..."the food is pretty good!"..."it's something different!"

Brock, who served as office manager of the campus cafeteria for thirteen years, is confident that the snack bar can meet the needs of the students better than other franchises that bid for the job.

All the customary items are on the snack bar's menu, but in addition it offers yogurt, pies, and various types of scones among other things. When the cafeteria is not offering what the meal ticket holders have appetites for, they have the option to use their meal tickets at the snack bar. Students will also have the luxury of watching their favorite soap opera on television while eating lunch. For the video game freaks, the snack bar offers a mini-arcade, located right outside its doors.

Brock has planned special Monday night openings which will allow the sports-minded students to catch the Monday night football broadcast during an evening snack.

Some lucky student will get to name the snack bar in a contest which started Monday. The winner will receive one hundred dollars. "I think that since the snack bar is for the students, they should be the ones to name it," Brock said.

Brock contends the food will get better every day, and that the Cockpit will get its share of the student and faculty business in due time.

U. Rochester disenrolls student for working for a Kodak rival

Rochester, N.Y. - The University of Rochester, bowing to pressure from the Eastman Kodak Company “dis-enrolled” a student who worked for the Fuji Photo Film Company because he would have had shared business classes with Kodak employees.

Kodak, whose corporate headquarters are in Rochester, is one of the university’s largest corporate benefactors.

While campus officials said they kicked Tsuneo Sakai out of the classes to allow 91 some students to “share freely” ideas in the courses, critics of the decision say it seriously compromises Rochester’s autonomy, chills academic discussion, and makes an American campus into the conference room of a corporation.

“A university is not a place for secrecy,” contended Jonathan Knight of the American Association of University Professors, which monitors academic freedom at the nation’s colleges and universities.

“It’s an old story in American Education,” said Knight. “Wealthy, powerful benefactors bring pressure upon universities and colleges. It’s manifested in all sorts of ways, but I’ve never heard of a student who was accepted and then dismissed.”

Sakai, a Japanese student who worked for Fuji, Kodak’s main rival in the film and camera business, enrolled in Rochester’s William E. Simon Graduate School of Business and Administration earlier this year.

When Kodak officials learned Sakai planned to attend courses, they "persuaded the university to disenroll" him, said UR spokeswoman Jan Fitzpatrick.

Rochester then arranged for Sakai to attend the Massachusetts Institute of Technology this fall, she said.

Setting the pace

I wanted this, my first column of the year, to be something great and wonderful. Well, it’s not. Instead it is a column about my column—my little space in the world that I can call my very own.

In the past we’ve had people write us and get extremely nasty and upset because they felt the editor’s columns were too biased and opinionated. Hey, people, that’s what this space is for. This column provides the editor-in-chief a chance to express his or her own views on various subjects of interest. They are meant to be opinionated.

Steven Robinson
Editor-In-Chief

This fall I would like for students to read my column and come away with some type of reaction, either good or bad. Either way it’s fine with me, just as long as you, the students, at least take the time to read it. Sure, I’m no Lewis Grizzard with sarcastic wit or some great poet who uses oatmeal for ink, but I think I can at least write something readable and at least (I hope) slightly enlightening or entertaining.

If you feel something you read in this publication is wrong, don’t hesitate to let us know. Other than editorials and personal columns, this newspaper is here to present fact, not opinion, fiction or heresy. If there is a legitimate complaint about something printed in these pages, voice it. Don’t just sit there and mumble or criticize. Do something about it.

I am always open for suggestions. Let me know what topics interest you. Who knows, it might interest me enough to be the topic of discussion for the column.

Our staff, both old and new, is here to serve you. We want to keep you informed about what goes on around this campus. Any and all suggestions on how we may better serve you are welcome. Also, if you have a desire and the ability to write, come by and see us at The Chanticleer office. We could really use some good staff writers. It’s lots of fun and well worth the time and effort.

I’d like to welcome Mr. James Roberts to the staff of The Chanticleer. He will be serving as our advisor for this school year. I look forward to working with him in the future.

I hope this semester is a great one for each and every student here at Jacksonville State University. Good luck in class. I look forward to talking to you in the weeks to come.

Sorority rush yields new pledges

BY REBECCA FROST

Features Editor

An annual Jacksonvillle State ritual took place on the quad September 4 at 7:30 a.m. as eighty-eight coeds raced across campus to Sparkman Hall to meet their new sorority sisters.

This early morning tradition, better known as Squeal Day, capped off the August 31-September 4 rush. “I thought rush went very well. There were a lot of good girls going through and each sorority will be well represented. All the sororities cooperated well together and with the help of Angie Askew everything ran smoothly,” said Panheleneic President Julie Dubin.

To help the rushers become better accustomed with the rush experience and JSU, the Panheleneic Council along with delegates from each sorority live with the rushers during the week. During this time, strict regulations are placed upon rush counselors, sorority members, and rushers including no communication between girls going through rush and sorority members and curfews enforced every night.

This year’s Panheleneic officers are Julie Dubin, president; Angie Askew, vice-president; Eileen Lowder, treasurer; and Heidi Lammus, secretary. The rush counselors and delegates assisting were Anne Hubbard, Lorna Stewart, Starr Allen, Tammy Hamilton, Dana Boyd, Chen Proctor, Tracy Bennett, Polly Dun, Susan McFerrin, Rachel Ham, and Susie Odishoo.

College students turning to radical fashions

Campus fashions are changing radically this fall, but no one is sure if it means students are becoming as radical as their clothes.

"I don't know if it's a political statement," said Valerie Cartier of Minneapolis' Haute Stuff boutique, a shop popular among University of Minnesota students. "But it is a statement."

"It's the return of the 60's," asserted Larry Schatzman of the Unique Clothing Warehouse, a Greenwich Village store frequented by New York University students.

Whatever it is, America's college students are mellowing out their wardrobes this fall: tie-dyes, jeans and mini skirts are in, and the pressed, preppy look is out, various fashion observers agree.

"Even sorority girls aren't wearing very preppy clothes this fall," Cartier said. "They're not sitting at home and planning their outfits for an hour."

"When I was a freshman I really didn't fit in," recalled Tim Lum, a Boston College senior. "The campus was really into the preppy stuff, and I really felt out of place. I feel a lot more comfortable now. I could never wear those preppy things."

At NYU, students are "going crazy over acid-washed (pre-faded) jeans. And tie-dye has come back in a very big way. Leather jackets and pants are also popular, especially if they have a distressed look."

Another old style is returning. "Mini skirts are very big right now," explained Nancy Cooley of the Ritz, just off the University of Colorado campus. "Short skirts are hot."

Also big among college students are silk skirts and shirts, '60s pleated pants and slinky dresses.

"Women," Cartier added, "are wearing big hoop earrings, thick belts and chunky jewelry. Anyone who hung onto that stuff now has a real treasure."

Owners of stores or near campuses say things like Army surplus pants, Guatemalan wrist bands, oversized sweaters and jackets are selling quickly, while rich, traditional colors like plum and forest green are in.

Out are torn-neck T-shirts, turquoise and silver jewelry, stirrup pants, denim jeans, polka dots and big tune boxes.

Editor’s Note: Conner is a recent JSU graduate who participated in the Cooperative Education program.

Have you tried to secure a job in your field of study to help pay your tuition? It’s not as easy as getting a job in a fast-food restaurant. Few businesses are willing to hire students pursuing their bachelor’s degree. But there is a way - cooperative education (co-op). Perhaps the best way to summarize this program is “a unique chance to gain valuable experience.”

Co-op is a program whereby a student alternates a semester of work with a semester of study. The student attends classes full-time during the fall and spring semesters and attends classes full-time during the summer semester. One can get into the program once he attains sophomore classification. The first step in entering the co-op program is to meet with Vivian Garner in the Cooperative Education office. She will discuss interests and field of study and can comment on the companies participating in the program. One can fill out an application and possibly be interviewed and hired in a short period of time.

There are several benefits to this program and, like every other aspect of life, there are a few drawbacks. Co-op lets one get hands-on training and worthwhile experience in his field of study, gives him experience in dealing with people (including customers, co-workers and management personnel) and provides a source of income to help cover school costs. However, the program is not for students who want an easy, summer job. Employers foresee an investment on their part and look for a stable, hardworking and capable student who is willing to remain with the company for a length of time. Yet, some companies do not guarantee a permanent job upon graduation — but perhaps this can be seen ahead of time so that the student is prepared to search elsewhere during his final semester of school. And unless one is willing and capable of taking maximum course loads during study periods and also attending evening classes during work periods, a four-year college career will become a five- or six-year college career. However, the benefits of the program outweigh the drawbacks.

I spent five years in the program, working as a federal employee at Anniston Army Depot. The six years it took to earn my degree were well worth the time and effort. Congested traffic on JSU campus

By STEVEN ROBINSON
Editor-in-Chief

Daring in and out of entrances and exits becomes almost an artform. Learning to detect brake lights from a distance as they slowly vacate a parking space becomes mere instinct. Only when this future empty spot is close to the building does the adrenaline begin to flow. In such cases, a battle of speed and wit may develop between two or more students all vying for that one small rectangle of pavement. Only the strongest and fastest survive.

According to information received from University Police on traffic last year there are three major problems still facing students, faculty and administration:

- Dorm residents driving to and from classes, forcing commuters to fight for available spaces.
- Improper parking, e.g., failure to comply with campus rules and regulations. Parking in handicap zones, students in faculty parking spaces or vice versa, and parking on yellow curbs are a few examples. Students should refer to their JSU traffic parking regulations brochure. Copies may be picked up at the JSU university police station. It contains a list of “do’s and don’ts” and appropriate penalties for each.
- Failure to comply with traffic regulations. This includes speeding and careless driving practices.

Homecoming pageant tonight

By CYNDI OWENS
Chanticleer Senior Editor

Jacksonville State University’s annual Homecoming Pageant will be held tonight in Theron Montgomery Building’s third floor auditorium. The pageant begins at 7 p.m.

This year’s pageant is unique, both because of the move from Leone Cole to TMB, and because the pageant, like Homecoming, is themless.

Renovations on Leone Cole have closed that building, and the move leaves pageant organizers in the interesting and creative position of designing an event in the round.

SGA treasurer Dwight Burton explained that term by saying that the contestants will be on the floor instead of on the stage.

“The audience will be closer to the action. The only thing separating them from the contestants is the judges,” he stated.

The fact that Homecoming is not using a catch-phrase as a unifying factor created another special problem for the organizers. Decorations cannot be too flashy, in order to avoid taking away from the entertainment section.

Jenny Wilson of The Rabbit Hutch will provide the decorations and the floral arrangements. Plans for the contest developments include a background and bouquets of balloons, along with streamers.

Aside from these arrangements, judges must also be selected, and several criteria are used. “They are persons active in the community and usually in the public eye. They include people with backgrounds in entertainment, or those with interesting skills. They are not people chosen off the street,” said Rachel Jones, pageant coordinator.

The pageant judges will introduce the contestants to a field of ten, and then those will be voted on by the student body. The Homecoming Queen will be announced during halftime of the game.

“This should be a good pageant. Everything has been done so far in advance, that I think it will come together beautifully,” Burton said.

Parade to be bigger, better

By CYNDI OWENS
Chanticleer Senior Editor

Remember the song, “I love a parade!”

Well, this year’s Homecoming parade is shaping up to be one of the biggest and best in the history of JSU.

“It’s going to be spectacular. It is already bigger than last year’s parade, and new entries applications are coming in daily,” said Marv Hannah, Homecoming chairman.

The parade is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. on October 27 along Poshell Road, with line-up beginning at 8:30, and will end at Trustee Circle, and move into Graves Hall, according to Hannah.

Some of the scheduled participants for the parade include the Western Belles, Girl Scouts, Domino’s grill, Ronald McDonald, Boy Scouts, SMOKEY the Bear, Jacksonville Jaycees, Sheila Lindsey gymnasts, Kim Cook dancers, Pasha Vintage Auto Club, State Trooper motorcycles, and, of course, lots of bands, cheerleaders, and floats. “The Southerners will be there, and the parade will be saving the best for last,” she said.

Prizes for the float competition are $300 for first, $200 for second, and $100 for third place.

“We have received a great deal of help from the faculty and administration on organizing everything. We would especially like to thank Dr. McGee’s office for the support on the high school band competition and the pre-game show,” she added.

“Homecoming is designed this year to include something for everyone. There is no set theme, so participants have the freedom to come up with their own and be creative. We are trying to involve as many students, merchants, parents, faculty, and community members as possible.”

The deadline for entering the parade is September 18. Entries can be turned in to the SGA office, and must be turned in no later than 4 p.m.

JSU Theater ends busy summer

By CYNDI OWENS
Chanticleer Senior Editor

This summer proved to be an exciting and busy one for JSU theater.

Overall, it was quite successful. “The Philadelphia Story” was the first summer production, and usually takes a slow start, but turned out very well, and Dr. Wayne Pelham at 10 a.m. in front of Kitchen’s on the English Department at Jacksonville State University.

The dinner theater, known as “Taste of the Town,” featured the faculty, and new entry applications are coming in daily,” said Mary Hannah, Homecoming chairperson.

The parade is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. on October 27 along Poshell Road, with line-up beginning at 8:30, and will end at Trustee Circle, and move into Graves Hall, according to Hannah.

Some of the scheduled participants for the parade include the Western Belles, Girl Scouts, Domino’s grill, Ronald McDonald, Boy Scouts, SMOKEY the Bear, Jacksonville Jaycees, Sheila Lindsey gymnasts, Kim Cook dancers, Pasha Vintage Auto Club, State Trooper motorcycles, and, of course, lots of bands, cheerleaders, and floats. “The Southerners will be there, and the parade will be saving the best for last,” she said.

Prizes for the float competition are $300 for first, $200 for second, and $100 for third place.

“We have received a great deal of help from the faculty and administration on organizing everything. We would especially like to thank Dr. McGee’s office for the support on the high school band competition and the pre-game show,” she added.

“Homecoming is designed this year to include something for everyone. There is no set theme, so participants have the freedom to come up with their own and be creative. We are trying to involve as many students, merchants, parents, faculty, and community members as possible.”

The deadline for entering the parade is September 18. Entries can be turned in to the SGA office, and must be turned in no later than 4 p.m.

Section previews fall weekly features

By CYNDI OWENS
Chanticleer Senior Editor

There is, and has always been, much debate over which section of a newspaper is most important.

Some will say news, because that keeps us up-to-date. Others will say features or editorials, because they give us insight into our world. On college campuses, however, the answer may very well be the entertainment section.

A good entertainment section should cover as wide an area as possible. It should include current events, both Greek and non-Greek. It should cover campus and local events so that a reader who has kept interest of what goes on and when things are happening.

It should contain news, features, reviews, schedules, and input from sources other than the staff. In short, it should contain elements from other sections, yet maintain a sense of individuality.

From cooperation on everyon on campus, the Campus Life/Entertainment section of the Chanticleer can be done, and all of those things.

The following is a preview of weekly features in this section and how to get the most from them:

- CREATIONS This will focus on the creative talents of students, faculty, and staff. Submissions may include poetry and short stories, and for the first time, photographs and sketches.
- GEEKS OF THE WEEK This new feature will spotlight two Greek organizations weekly, with the emphasis placed on history, alluasum, and community spirit. The organizations will be selected at the discretion of the staff.
- EVENTS AHEAD In order to get a campus event published, please let us have at least two weeks in advance of the event. Every effort will be made to cover as many events as possible.

Material submitted for Club News or Campus Creations must be typed or neatly printed and must be turned in by 2 p.m. Wednesday to appear Thursday of the following week. We reserve the right to edit submitted material.

Sigma Nu

The brothers of the Iota Lambda chapter of Sigma Nu would like to welcome all students and faculty to JSU for the fall 1987 semester. Congratulations are to be extended to the newly elected Executive Committee of Sigma Nu. They are: Stephen Smedley, Commander; Bernie Moxley, Lt. Commander; Tracy Rainwater, Treasurer; Paul Tallent, Recorder; and Chris Casey, Pledge Marshall. Good luck to these brothers in their new positions.

The fall 1987 semester should prove to be fantastic and quite beneficial for the Nus under this new leadership. The brothers would like to remind all male students here at JSU that Fraternity Rush for the fall will be held on September 23, 24, and 25. Rush cards can be purchased for the IFC and will be required for admittance to the various fraternity houses.

The Nus have been extremely active this summer with various projects completed and other projects under way. The summer work began with the installation of a new roof on the fraternity house. The much needed roof was then followed by extensive yardwork. The latest addition to the Sigma Nu house is our new sun deck, which should provide years of enjoyment.

Presently under construction is the Sigma Nu "Snake Pit." This building, located on the Sigma Nu grounds directly behind the house, is being renovated into a brother's bar and party room. It should look good when completed and become a very useful addition to Sigma Nu here at JSU. The brothers are optimistic that the party room will be completed by the end of September.

Special thanks to all the brothers, pledges, and little sisters who donated their time and effort to make these summer projects a success.

On a final note, the brothers are proud to announce the achievement of the number one GPA among all fraternities at JSU for the second consecutive semester. The brothers received this honor in the fall of 1986 and again in the spring of 1987.

Accept the challenge... Sigma Nu in '87.

Pi Sigma Chi

The brothers of Pi Sigma Chi are happy to be back on campus and look forward to an exciting semester. Renovations on the house are almost completed and plans are underway for further additions to the 150 year old structure. Details on this semester's social calendar will appear in later issues of the newspaper.

Alpha Xi Delta

Anticipating a busy and exciting semester, the Alpha Xis are currently working very hard on making this the best year ever! With the excellent new pledge class of twenty-seven girls, Alpha Xi Delta has plans for their up-coming Social Hop party, Secret Set-Up party, and annual Christmas formal. Homecoming is not far away and the Nuzzles are expecting a fun-filled week at JSU! Also, a big congratulations and best wishes go out to each sorority for such a terrific rush! Many thanks to Panhellenic Counsel and especially Alpha Xi sister and Panhellenic president, Julie Durbin, for the outstanding job thus far this semester.

JSU downs Newberry

By JEFFERY ROBINSON

Chanticleer Senior Editor

Jacksonville State has long been a football team known for its high-powered offense. Some of JSU’s games have been such high scoring affairs that it appeared whoever had the ball last on offense had the best chance to win the game.

However, in the Gamecock’s season opening win over Newberry College, it was the defense that stole the show in the impressive 27-3 victory over the Indians. The “Red Bandit” defense put on a clinic that showed exactly how defense should be played.

This was the defense’s best showing since the 1983 season when JSU shutout West Georgia 34-0. Newberry was held to minus 2 yards rushing for the entire game as the defense completely shut down the Indian’s running game. The Newberry passing game accounted for all of their 167 yards total offense. JSU’s defense also had two blocked punts, three interceptions, and two fumble recoveries, all of which helped put the JSU offense in good field position.

JSU head football coach Bill Burgess said, “It was a great win, with no doubt, our finest defensive effort since we came here. Our defense made all of the big plays, and gave our offense every opportunity in the world. We still believe you can win football games 10-0, and the best way to do it is to have solid defense and a great kicking game.”

Jax State’s offense turned out only 180 total yards for the game, but some of that low total can be accounted for by the fact that the defense set the offense up with great field position in Newberry territory several times during the game. The rain and slippery grass on the field also seemed to hamper both teams’ offenses. Although this was not one of the offenses’ most impressive performances, Burgess feels that they will be able to move the ball down the field and score points.

Burgess commented, “How many times in the past two seasons has our offense not carried us? We’ve had to outscore people around here to win, but hopefully that won’t be the case this year. Our offense wasn’t clicking on all cylinders, but they’ll get better.”

Special teams and defensive play helped accounted for all of Jacksonville State’s 27 points.

JSU opened the scoring in the first quarter when Theo Watkins blocked a Davis Huey punt and the defense took over at the Newberry 19 yardline. After six plays, the offense could not punch the ball in the end zone. Ashley Kay then booted a 23-yard field goal with 4:11 left in the first quarter to give JSU a 3-0 lead.

Newberry’s next offensive possession was no better than the first. Quarterback Patrick Bellamy fumbled the ball on the Newberry 38, giving JSU great field position again. Jax State Segan R. Smith picked up the fumble and returned it 84 yards to the Newberry 3 with 14:39 left in the second quarter. The drive which was aided by a pass interference call and cased it in for a touchdown. Terry Thomas carried the ball in from 7 yards out with 14:03 left in the second quarter Kay’s successful PAT gave the Chanticleers a 10-0 lead.

The defense totally shut down Newberry in the fourth quarter as it continued to take advantage of the fourth quarter. Darrell Malone intercepted a Bellamy pass and returned it 83 yards to the Newberry 18 yard line. Kay scored on a six yard run with 10:36 left to add to JS’s lead. A 3:57 left in the fourth quarter, Ashley Kay booted another field goal, a 26-yarder, to give Jacksonville State its final margin of victory, 27-3.

The season opening win over Newberry was certainly exciting for the Gamecocks, but they have a major test coming up with their second opponent, Alabama A&M.

When commenting on Alabama A&M’s team, Coach Burgess said, “They are a typical Alabama A&M team. They have great speed and a lot of quality athletes. They get five receivers out on the pass pattern better than any team we’ll play. We’ll find out in a hurry just how much progress we’ve made.”

Burgess talks about 1987 Gamecock football team

By JEFFERY ROBINSON

Chanticleer Senior Editor

Jacksonville State head football coach Bill Burgess, now in his third year at JSU, has an optimistic outlook for his 1987 Gamecocks. The reason his optimism is easy to see. This year’s team has more experience in its returning player - players who, according to Burgess, have great attitudes - and they have also been picked to finish second in the Gulf South Conference.

According to Burgess, the team has really progressed well during summer practice.

“We’ve worked awfully hard. We ask our players to come in (for summer practice) in condition and ready to work. And as a team they did that. They came in on August 15 and had a test day. Since we’ve been here, it was the best team conditioning that has come in. We had more strength than we’ve had since we’ve been here, and really the agility and the running tests were better than they’ve been since we’ve been here. So, our players did exactly what we asked them to do,” Burgess said. According to the coach, most of the returning players came into such good condition that the coaching staff was able to improve them before the season. Burgess put an emphasis on teaching the players what they need to know and did not have to worry so much about getting them into condition.

“Practice has been good. Our players have tried to do everything we asked them to do. We feel really good about it,” he said.

At one point during the summer, it looked as if injuries might be a big problem for the team. However, these are not quite as serious as they were once thought to be. Burgess did point out two players who will probably be lost for the entire season due to injuries. Tommy Hudson, a redshirt freshman defensive end, and Jax Smith, a redshirt freshman linebacker, both have hurt knees. But, according to Burgess, these injuries could be much worse.

“Your know you’re not going to have them more than likely for the whole year. But, we’ll have to do what we can. And the injury that they had turned out that it wasn’t as bad as we thought it was going to be. By that, I mean they don’t have to have reconstructive knee surgery which is great because it so hard to come back from that surgery,” Burgess said. Burgess also mentioned some other players who have had injuries that will only prevent them from playing in a few games. Jeff Hill, who broke a hand, and John Tucker, who missed all of last season due to a car accident, both may be able to miss the first two games of the season.

The running backs, who were all knocked up at one time, now appear to be ready to play. Burgess Thomas missed a lot of work because he had a bruised knee, and yet he’s back now and seemingly his conditioning has picked up. We’ve got our true freshman in halfback Shawn Johnson that we’ve been trying to get a look at. He breaks a finger, then bruises a shoulder. So, he missed a lot of work, but he’s still out there getting those repetitions and trying to work,” Burgess said. “I guess, by and large, for as hard as we’ve worked and as much contact drills as we’ve run, we come out about as good as you could have hoped.”

One thing that should help the team this year is the fact that there are more players returning who have experience. Last year’s team was sometimes called the “Diaper Express”. Burgess feels that the team will be able to shake that identity this year.

“We’re still young. You know, a vet for us is a redshirt sophomore. Which is fine, they’re young, but then again they’ve been in a game.”

Those redshirt freshmen haven’t been in a game, but they are a year older than they were. I think it’s important to give those young guys a chance to get their feet on the ground.

“For the first time since we’ve been here, when we’re talking about veterans, we’re talking about more people than we are when we’re talking about signees. At one point here-the first couple of years-our signees outnumbered our vets. We’ve got more experience back right now for this club than we’ve had since we’ve been here,” Burgess said.

Each of the teams separate units (offense, defense, and special teams) have definite strengths and more experience returning. Burgess says that the offense will be more run-oriented this year.

“We will throw the football because you have to be able to do that in our league or at any college level. But, we will hopefully not throw as much as we did last year. One reason is we don’t have David (Cofey) (offense), Pat (White) and Steve (Patrick), we have two guys who can run the triple option. I see us running the triple option defense with some passing, but more of a controlled passing game than with David.

JSU shines in victory over Alabama A and M

By JEFFREY ROBINSON
Chanticleer Senior Editor

As the day began last Saturday, low, dark clouds and heavy rains made for miserable weather in which to play a football game. Fortunately, during the course of Jacksonville State’s game with Alabama A and M the rain stopped, the clouds broke, and the sun began to shine through. The sun wasn’t the only thing that began to shine. Jax State’s wishbone offense, which did not play to its full potential in the season opener against Newberry College, showed that it can indeed move the ball down the field-and move it well. Good offensive execution, along with another good performance by the solid Gamecock defense, led to a 26-13 win over he Bulldogs of Alabama A and M University.

Despite the inclement weather, a good crowd of 9,000 turned out at Paul Snow Memorial Stadium to back the Gamecocks.

The offensive line did an excellent job of moving Alabama A and M’s defensive front off the line of scrimmage, allowing JSU’s running backs to pick up long gains of yardage. According to Coach Bill Burgess, the offensive executed very well, especially during the first half.

The Gamecocks managed to jump out to an early lead on A and M and hold off a scrappy Bulldog team. It was like two ball games,” said Burgess.

Burgess pointed out that the team’s intensity was not quite as good in the second half. “In the first half, we played really hard. But there were points in the third quarter where we could have let the game slip away. I thought A and M played well. We had a chance to take them out of the ballgame, and they just wouldn’t quit. We couldn’t take them out. I thought our players played hard not to let that thing get away in the second half.”

It did not take the Gamecocks long to get on the board Saturday. On Alabama A and M’s very first play from scrimmage, JSU’s line backer Rodney Kinney intercepted quarterback Terrance Brown’s pass, giving Jax State great field position at the A and M 24. Only six plays later, Solomon Rivers carried the ball in from six yards out. Ashley Kay kicked the extra point, giving JSU a 7-0 lead only two minutes into the game.

The “Red Bandits” totally shut down Alabama A and M on its next two possessions, throwing A and M’s quarterback for losses on both drives. The Gamecocks got the ball on offense with 7:34 left in the first quarter and quickly took it down the field for a score. On first down from the Jax State 47, quarterback Pat White handed off to halfback Gary Conley who ran a couple of yards for a score.

The SGA will be sponsoring a bus service to the West Georgia game, game can sign up for the service at the SGA office on the fourth floor of Theron Montgomery Building. Tickets will be $2.00. The game begins at 6:00 P.M. CST, so the buses will leave from the parking lot in front of Theron Montgomery Building at APPROXIMATELY 3:00 pm.

According to SGA Vice-President Greg Harley, the idea for the bus service was proposed by Mary Hanah, a former SGA Vice-President. “One reason we decided to begin the bus service with West Georgia is that in my three years here, I’ve had the pleasure of watching JSU demolish West Georgia annually. I thought we could offer that service to some other people so that they could enjoy the fun,” said Harley.

Harley also added that if the bus service is a success, it will be offered for the game with North Alabama in Florence on Oct. 24, and the game at Troy State in Troy on Nov. 14. The SGA and the Chanticleer want to encourage all students to take advantage of the service and go support our Gamecocks.

Registration for the Fall 1987 Intramural Sports Program is already underway, with six individual and team sports to take place this fall.

Students enrolled at JSU, faculty members, full or part-time University employees, are eligible to participate in intramurals, said Mark Jones, director of intramural sports and recreation. However, a student who is currently on a varsity athletic roster or attempting to make a team roster is ineligible for that particular sport.

The Intramural Sports Program plays a vital role on campus, Jones said. It is designed to encourage free time recreation for JSU students, faculty and staff, increase interest in lifetime sports and challenge and stimulate the growth of the individual.

Team sports are divided into both independent and Greek conferences. The independent conference consists of residence hall divisions and an independent division. The team sports open for play this semester are golf, football, Co-Rec softball (teams comprised of both men and women), volleyball, soccer and 3 man basketball. The Fraternity schedule of sports events will include: golf, football, badminton, volleyball and basketball.

A slate of nine different individual and dual sports will be offered this fall. They include: golf, tennis, singles; tennis, mixed doubles; badminton, singles; badminton, mixed doubles; racquetball, singles; racquetball, mixed doubles; table tennis, doubles; and billiards.

Anyone interested in intramural sports can sign up in either the Intramural Office in Pete Mathews Coliseum or the Round House. Information on registration deadlines can be found elsewhere in The Chanticleer sports section. For further information, call the Intramural Office at ext. 5361.

Ohio to punish agents

(CPS)--Retailing for the loss of All-American receiver Chris Carter to his beloved Ohio State University football team, state legislator John P. Stozich has introduced a bill that would punish sports agents for getting college athletes in trouble.

The player is punished, the coach is punished, the school is punished but the agent responsible is not," said Stozich.

Carter--as well as players from three other schools--allegedly took money from sports agents Norby Walters and Lloyd Bloom, apparently for letting the agents represent them when the players eventually leave college and turn professional.

When allegations that Walters and Bloom paid them--a move that violates National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) rules for maintaining students, amateur status--arose, the schools suspended the athletes from further collegiate competition.

Many football coaches subsequently have banned all or most agents from their practice fields.

In Ohio, Stozich introduced what would be the nation's toughest law restricting the agents' activities and setting stringent penalties for "ruthless" and "disreputable" recruiters.

If enacted, the Stozich bill will regulate sports agent practices or licensing. The Ohio bill is more comprehensive, Stozich said.

Stozich added the NCAA's reaction to his bill was "very positive", as for Carter himself, Ohio State last week refused to review his case, thus dashing his hopes to play football for OSU this fall.
We've seen the signs. At football, basketball and baseball games, "Mom, send money!"

Now there's an easier way than begging. It's called the ALERT Network, and it involves over 400 automatic teller machines across Alabama. You'll probably find at least 3 or 4 ALERT ATMs on or near your campus.

Your folks can make a deposit in your hometown, and then if you need some extra cash for books, movies, food, whatever, you can go to an ATM displaying the ALERT Network logo and withdraw it. At practically any bank, savings & loan or credit union in Alabama. Or at any ATM in Florida displaying the HONOR* System logo.

So the next time you need money, don't ask Mom to send it, ask her to send you an ALERT card. And spare her the embarrassment of having her child beg on national television.

Think quick. Think ALERT.

"We've got to maintain intensity for four quarters. We cannot fumble the ball and get penalties. The thing we did best today was win the game. We're awfully proud of our players," said Burgess.
