Special Olympians ski at southeast region winter games last month

Special Olympians ski to victory

By JENNIFER JONES
Staff Writer

The 1990 Alabama Special Olympics Ski Team recently returned from a successful trip to the Southeast Region Winter Games in Boone, N.C.

This year's team consisted of 19 athletes from around the state. The athletes along with their coaches began their training Dec. 9, with a training workshop at Cloudmont Ski Resort in Mentone, Ala.

Under the guidance of the Cloudmont and Jacksonville Special Olympics staffs, the athletes took advantage of early cold weather and snow to learn the fundamentals of alpine (downhill and slalom) skiing and nordic (cross country) skiing.

The Alabama Special Olympics Winter Sports program is directed by Glenn Roswal of the JSU Department of Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

Several members of the JSU Special Olympics staff coordinated fund-raising efforts to make it possible for the Special Olympics athletes to participate on the team at

Coach Bill Burgess could be king

By TODD FRESHWATER
News Editor

Bill Burgess is doing more than coaching football.

Now he wants to be king.

Burgess is competing with other community members to be crowned king of the American Cancer Society's fifth annual Sock Hop.

The Hop is an event original to the Calhoun County area. Each year members of the community are approached to campaign for donations. The participant who raises the most money is then crowned king. There is also a queen category.

Each participant has a campaign manager. Burgess' manager is Shirley Kirkland. Kirkland is coordinating many of the events which will help generate money for Burgess. Some of these events include a roadblock in Oxford and a chance to win a gourmet meal for eight.

"We hope to raise around $25,000," said Sherry Blanton, publicity chairman for the Sock Hop. "Supporting Bill Burgess is a great way to say thank you for all he has done for the community."

The money each participant raises is used to further the work of the American Cancer Society. The primary goal of the Society is prevention. The money also goes toward research, education and events such as the Great American Smokeout. Other projects include literature distribution and support groups for people affected by cancer. The Society's efforts have made it one of the biggest organizations of its kind in the nation.

Freeman talks about 'Wall'

By JASON THOMPSON
Staff Reporter

While most of the world watched the opening of the Berlin Wall on television or simply read about it in the newspapers, one JSU student, Sigrun Freeman, experienced the historic event first hand.

Feb. 21, Freeman relayed her experiences to both faculty and students through a slide presentation and personal account of the wall's opening.

"It was truly amazing," Freeman said to her audience. "The feeling of new freedom was so strong. It was everywhere."

That feeling was especially strong for Freeman, who grew up in West Berlin. Except for a one-and-a-half year stay in England, where she attended college, Freeman lived in West Berlin from 1972 until 1987.

"My father was offered a job he couldn't refuse," she said. "Growing up in a walled-in city is much different than many people realize."

Freeman, whose family still lives in West Berlin, said she had already made plans to return home during Christmas when she heard the news of the wall's opening.

"I sat with a friend for hours in front of the television with tears rolling down my face," she said. "As I watched the emotions of the people I knew how they felt, because I felt the same way. It's good that I had already made plans to go home, because if I hadn't, I probably would have raided my bank account. I wanted to be in Berlin very bad."

Once her final exams were finished, Freeman left for Europe, arriving in Berlin Dec. 12. It was her first trip home in three years.

Like everyone else, Freeman and her family took part in the memorial chipping away of the wall.

"It wasn't that easy to chip," she said, passing a few souvenir pieces around, "but after all, I did have a lot of orders to fill."

Freeman also said many Germans have learned American ways very well.

"If you didn't have a hammer to use on the wall, that was okay," she said. "One industrious young man had hammers and chisels spread out on a blanket and for a very inflated price, you could buy the tools."

Freeman was born in Zimbabwe, Africa and later lived in Venezuela and Canada before moving to Berlin. It was there where she met and married her husband, a member of the U.S. Army, a little more than three years ago.

"That's how I ended up here, because of Fort McClellan," she said.

Freeman plans to join her husband, now stationed in Japan, once she graduates from JSU this spring with a bachelor's degree in social work.

During her three years at Jacksonville, Freeman has been very active. She is a member of Phi Eta Sigma, Omicron Delta Kappa and no expense. Special education students Tara Blanchard, Jennifer Jones, Barrie Ogletree, Tania Holland and Lee Ann Freeman approached businesses and organizations around the state and were successful in raising funds to sponsor all 19 athletes. On campus they received financial support from Alpha Xi Delta, the HPER Club and many JSU faculty.

The Special Olympics program provides JSU students with practical opportunities to develop organizational skills while serving area disabled children.

"It was a good experience seeing young people given a challenge and then responding to that challenge," said James Reynolds of HPER. "We all benefited from the trip."

Jan. 6 the team headed for North Carolina and the 1990 Southeast Region Winter Games.

The nordic team captured two silver medals and two bronze medals, while the alpine team earned a gold medal and several bronze medals in addition to many fourth and fifth place ribbons.

"(It was) the most enjoyable trip I have ever been on," said Blanchard. "I learned something new every minute. I can't wait until next year."

All of the Alabama athletes turned in exciting performances on the ski slopes. The performance of the day belonged to Michael McKinney of Talladega. McKinney, a member of the Alabama team at the 1989 International Special Olympics Games in Reno/Lake Tahoe recorded the third best time for all athletes in the top advanced group.

"It was the greatest experience of my life," said Jones. "Those athletes will lift your spirits and touch your heart when you see them come down the powder hill."

The team is already making plans for the 1991 games. If you are interested in being a part of the Alabama Special Olympics Ski program, which also includes an alpine coaches training school and a ski clinic and competition, contact Glenn Roswal, Department of HPER, 782-5518.

Burgess' fund-raising efforts should contact Kirkland at 435-2711. Any donations are appreciated and are tax deductible.

"I would like to see something started on campus to support Burgess," said Blanton. "We need to get behind him."

The Sock Hop will take place March 23. The event is open to the public and tickets can be purchased for $15. The Hop will feature entertainment by Chaz and The Drifters. There will also be a dance competition and ribbons awarded. For ticket information contact the American Cancer Society at 237-0162.

Salls renovation proceeding

By JASON THOMPSON
Staff Writer

Over the past few years, the list of renovated residence halls at JSU has grown at a steady rate. Within the next few months, that list will increase again once work is complete on Salls Hall.

Salls, which has served as the athletic dormitory since its construction in 1967, has been in need of repair for some time, according to Jerry Cole, athletic director.

"Salls Hall became somewhat of an eyesore almost overnight," he said. "After passing some of the other dorms and Self Hall, once you got down to our end, things didn't look as good."

The renovation of Salls, which began around the middle of January, will include basic repairs, such as a new roof and cosmetic work on the outside. In addition, a new porch and canopy will be constructed. The interior is also receiving a face-lift, with individual rooms getting new tiles and fresh paint. A remodeling of the downstairs area is also planned.

"We're going to develop study rooms and meeting rooms where the old training table used to be," Cole said. "We haven't used a training table there this year, so we

Students clean up area

By ERIC G. MACKEY

Several students will soon be involved in a project designed to help clean up the area surrounding Jacksonville. At 9 a.m. Saturday, students and faculty will meet at the Jacksonville Wal-Mart to start picking up trash along Highway 21. The project goes two miles south toward Anniston.

The project, headed by students and faculty, is designed to encourage Jacksonville residents and students to help clean up all of Jacksonville and to keep it clean. Their motto is "Civic Pride is Alive at

JSU."

"If we can make one more person aware of the ongoing litter problem of their community, then we've served a purpose," said Becky Gray, student organizer.

Gray had the idea after driving to the University every day from Anniston up Pelham Road.

Gray and Jane Barnes, a faculty member in the Center for Individualized Instruction, organized the campaign. Several other people have contributed to planning the project.

The group has received the endorsement of Mayor John Nisbet and is being sponsored by Wal-Mart and Winn Dixie. These businesses are donating materials and refreshments.

Gray said she hopes all students who possibly can will come out to help.

3 smart ways to help pay for college.

Here's how the Army Reserve Alternate Training Program can help you pay for college.

If qualified, the Montgomery GI Bill can provide you with up to $5,040 for current college expenses.

If you obtain a qualifying student loan, you can get it paid off at the rate of 15% per year or $500, whichever is greater — up to a maximum of $10,000. Selecting certain specialty training can result in a $20,000 maximum.

And here's how you can make even more part-time money while in college. Take Basic Training one summer. The next summer, complete skill training at an Army school. You'll earn over $1,250 for Basic and even more for skill training. Then you'll train with your Army Reserve unit near college, usually one weekend a month plus two weeks a year. You'll earn over $85 a weekend to start.

This could be the smartest way to get the money you need for college.

Stance more flash than substance

By MIKE LIVINGSTON
Staff Writer

Rather than worrying about satellites it would seem Gov. Guy Hunt would have better issues to worry about like tax reform, infant mortality or maybe running the state of Alabama.

Instead he is more concerned about satellite dishes that are able to receive what he considers to be obscene videos in our state. He is already taking an active roll in an action that is being taken by a Montgomery County grand jury.

Last week the grand jury returned indictments on 10 people and four corporations, including General Telephone and Electricity, of violating the state's anti-obscenity law.

While the grand jury may have a case, it seems to be ignoring the individuals who purchased the descramblers and sold the videos in the state.

This of course brings up a greater issue. Why is Hunt getting involved with this case? Do we not have a district attorney who will be handling this case and a jury that will look at the evidence?

It would seem Hunt is just looking for an issue he can take a stand on that will be a safe issue with the majority of voters in this state. This way he can jump on an issue without voter backlash.

Late last year Hunt was ready to jump on the abortion bandwagon until it dawned on him that many voters in the state are ready to invoke freedom of choice for women. Hunt doesn't seem willing to push what he preaches against now that this information has become available.

This issue is a much easier one to handle since not too many in this state have tried to fight the anti-obscenity law since it took effect last year.

One must wonder why he won't take a stand on tax reform. It could be that he might upset corporate landholders who would have to pay taxes on the land they control in this state.

Unlike the federal government, we could have tax reform and be able to fund all the programs the public wants us to support without any increases to individuals' own tax bills. Hunt has not been able to do this despite the fact most people in the state are aware of how unfair the tax structure is on most people in the state.

If his current stand fizzles one can be sure he will return to other non-issues like teacher bashing or Sunday beer sales in Birmingham.

For what it's worth

Goodbyes don't come easy

Oh, how I hate to say goodbye.

I've never been good at saying goodbye. Ever. I hate change, especially sudden, unexpected change.

I can still remember being upset when Nixon resigned. I was too young to have an opinion on him politically, but I knew this meant a change in leadership and a period, however short, of confusion.

I don't like confusion either. Things should progress at an even, orderly pace.

Educators call these personality characteristics "left-brained." My sister says I'm just plain picky. She thinks I just like having things done my way. When they aren't, I tend to become upset.

Maybe you're wondering what brought this on. I mean, it's just midterm, too early for me to have panic attacks about graduating. And since Ronald Reagan's Teflon personality seems to have rubbed off on George Bush (he is enjoying unprecedented popularity according to approval polls), he doesn't appear to be close to resigning.

But someone else almost resigned this week, someone very close to me upon whom I depend a great deal.

He is one of my section editors, and he got offered a shot at the "big time": a chance to walk into a professional paper as an editor, supervising three other employees.

Offers like that don't come along every day. Journalism is a tough field to break into, mainly because so many times you have to depend on who knows you and your work.

Reputation is a big part of getting a job, and it is hard sometimes to build a reputation at a paper the size of The Chanticleer. Since we don't have a circulation outside the campus, it's not easy to make a reputation -- at least not if you want it to be a favorable one.

I can't blame him for being tempted. I got a very lucrative offer last year from a newspaper I had been a correspondent for, and it took a lot of soul-searching to say no to a weekly salary, medical and dental insurance and so on. Even journalism pays well compared to work study.

Cyndi Owens
Editor

As I said, I can't blame him for thinking about leaving. But I sure am glad he decided to stay.

I know, I know, that sounds selfish. It sounds like I just didn't want to have to bother with training someone to replace him.

That's part of the reason I didn't offer my advice about what decision to make when he asked me. But secretly, in my heart, I was hoping he would say no. I honestly did not feel that everything he would have to give up would be outweighed by everything he would gain.

Since I had been in a similar situation, I thought back over all my reasons for staying and all the reasons I might have decided to go. I hoped he would weigh those same things against each other and decide, as I did, that education comes first.

And, of course, he did. He lived up to the faith I put in him and realized that the losses would overshadow the gains. Way to go, pal.

So, there you have it. Everything is wonderful in my little corner of the world once again. There will be no sudden change, at least not today. Things can progress at a normal pace, although I sometimes wonder what a "normal" pace is.

Professor offers salaries' data, demands for grads

By P.S. YEH

Professor of Engineering

Serving as an academic adviser for many years, some of the questions students and parents frequently ask me are: which area of study provides good job opportunity? What undergraduate degree can expect to receive a good starting salary?

Before a person goes to college and invests a lot of money and about four years of time in his or her education, these questions are fairly reasonable to ask and to clarify.

The College Placement Council, Inc., periodically publishes the results of its surveys on the job opportunities and salaries at the college level. The survey covers more than 400 career planning and placement offices of colleges and universities across the United States.

Table I shows the bachelor's degrees which receive the top 25 starting salaries, together with some selected areas of interest to our students (CPC Salary Survey, July 1989). The survey covered the period from Sept. 1, 1988, to June 5, 1989. The data included offers extended to students graduating between Sept. 1, 1988, and Aug. 31, 1989.

The table reveals the best combination is to have a high starting salaries as well as a large number of offers, such as chemical engineering, electrical engineering or mechanical engineering. Some degrees receive high salaries but low number of offers, such as nuclear engineering or actuarial science, which means these graduates will be harder, or take a longer time, to find a job.

On the other hand, graduates in accounting or marketing do not receive high salaries. However, there are plenty of openings for them, as represented by the large number of offers.

In deciding a major field of study, the future career opportunity of a degree is certainly one of the most important factors to be taken into account. However, there are some other factors to be considered, such as the interest and ability of a person, the guidance and advice of the parents and high school counselors, and the academic achievements of a person in high school.

If you have been doing well in the areas of science and mathematics, then by all means select a major in engineering, physics or mathematics. If you are more inclined to humanity and social sciences, then enter an area of study which you will feel comfortable, such as computer information systems, accounting, marketing or general business.

No matter which degree you pursue in a university, it requires your full attention, hard work, and unyielding determination to do your best.

Church should be ready for the return of Christ

By ALBERT FORD

Guest Columnist

The second coming: Christ will return for the church, which is referred to as the bride of Christ in the Bible.

Fact is everyone belongs to the church, regardless of lifestyle. There's one God, one Faith and one Baptism. The problem with us is that we are not willing to commit to the church. Maybe out of stubbornness or ignorance, many people refuse to.

First of all, we should understand what the church is. If you would conduct a survey, you would find a lot of people would associate it mostly with the building. On that thought I can say, "It's not the can, it's the contents" or what is inside that counts.

When we join the church, were not joining a building but a body, a living organism.

After we've realized what the church is, then we can move to higher ground like Paul. "I press toward the mark of the high calling," he said.

Now that we know what the church is, I will discuss the need for salvation to the church. Salvation is the entrance of the church through Jesus: "Behold, I stand at the door and knock: if any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me." When you have been inducted into the church, then comes the action, keeping God's commandments and abiding in his word. (John 8:31, 32)

Commentary

In addition, we also have hope in the "Body of Christ" that he'll return. Yes, one day, when this life is over our labor will be repaid through eternal life (Roman 6:23). The wages of sin is death, but the gift of God is eternal life. He's coming back for the bride (Eph. 5:25-27). That is our hope, "our confident expectation."

Jesus said he's building a better place for us, and we must join Jesus as a body (the church), not several pieces or denominations.

When this life is over, our hope will be fulfilled. For instance, no one would be motivated about going to college if they thought they would never finish. Our hope is to attend college, complete our requirements and graduate. Therefore, we can move to higher ground, which was our purpose for attending college to begin with. Therefore our hope will be fulfilled not only by graduating, but also applying what we've learned to work life, family life or whatever the case may be.

Now, as a Christian here on earth, our training comes through the Bible, which gives us a glimpse of what to expect in Heaven. When Jesus returns, not only will our expectations be fulfilled but also our hope.

God Bless J-S-You!

Letter to the editor

Reader penalizes intramural refs

Dear Editor,

There is a problem within the intramural sports system which I and many others feel must be corrected.

The quality of some of the referees leaves much to be desired. Referees are supposed to be impartial and knowledgeable about the sport they're calling. It is blatantly obvious that some of the referees are not.

I realize they must do this in order to get credit for a class but I believe there should be a faculty member present to watch and correct these people when they do make mistakes. It is one thing to pass a test, it is another to do the job.

Some of the referees go to extremes while others let their whistles hang loosely around their necks. Sometimes the referees are rude for no apparent reason. A person from one team may converse with them but if someone from the other team says one word to him the referee will give him a technical foul. I have seen this happen more than once.

Also, referees should not be able to participate. The reasons are obvious. Referees are supposed to be fair and impartial, while it is clear some are not. I realize they are human and are prone to error, but not that much.

This letter was not written by a sore loser. My team had a winning record, but it is hard to beat the other team and the referees.

'Ecstasy' becoming drug of choice on campuses

By TERRI CHEATWOOD
Staff Writer

College life is filled with activities: clubs, sports, friendships, relationships and parties. However, some of the activities lend themselves to the dark side.

Drug use is very much a part of the dark side, not just of big city college life but also life here at JSU. Not only are crack and LSD being used around campus, there is a new drug called "Ecstasy" making its mark.

Also known as "X", "XYC", "Adam" and "MDM", Ecstasy is a new drug growing in usage among college students and white collar workers. Ecstasy, known scientifically as 3,4-methylenedioxymethamphetamine, is a hybrid between amphetamines and LSD. It was developed in Germany in 1914 as an appetite suppressant. The drug disappeared but resurfaced in the 1970s as a psychotherapeutic drug, and, according to "Psychology Today," by 1985 had become a recreational drug associated with a distinct type of music and dancing called "acid house" that originated on the Spanish island of Ibiza. It later spread to Texas where students used it to dance all night.

A few months ago, the Drug Enforcement Agency reclassified MDMA to merit its position on Schedule 1, the DEA's most restrictive classification that disallows recreational as well as medical use. In 1985, some prominent psychologists had tried to make MDMA legal, but the DEA obtained a court order making MDMA illegal again.

The effects of the drug are varied. Most users report a feeling of euphoria and an awareness of the feelings of others. They also experienced jaw-clenching and teeth-grinding. The drug also causes users to have a hangover on the second day. In subsequent days, some users report drowsiness, muscle aches and difficulty concentrating.

The biological effects of the drug are still being debated. Some tests have shown a toxic reaction in the brain, especially in the connective enzyme serotonin. Serotonin allows messages to be received in the brain and also seems to have a role in regulating moods. This evidence, however, is inconclusive.

In the March 27, 1987, issue of the "Journal of the American Medical Association," five deaths were investigated. In each case, MDMA played a role, so with each use the user takes his or her chances.

Locally, MDMA use is growing. According to Joe Martin, head of the drug task force in Calhoun County, officers have many suspects and have made at least one arrest in the county recently in a MDMA-related incident. Martin said the drug seems to be coming from California through Birmingham.

The drug comes in a tart-like gelatin or loose powder. Dosage is 100 milligrams, and the price ranges from $5 in California to $25 to $40 here.

The jury is still out on MDMA, but the risks seem to outweigh the benefits. People with asthma and heart problems run a very high possibility of immediate death after taking MDMA. Even healthy persons could suffer permanent brain damage.

Dean getting most out of life

By KATRINA MINTZ
Staff Writer

"My very first job was delivering the 'Saturday Evening Post' and the 'Woman's Home Journal' to homes in Miami, Fla."

It almost seems an appropriate job for a young boy who would become the dean of the College of Communication and Fine Arts at JSU.

Dan Marsengill finished at Florida State University in 1971 with a doctorate of music. The students and faculty here know him as Dean of the College of Communication and Fine Arts.

Other than the duties of his administrative position, which are to serve as middle management between the departments of music, drama, art and communication, he has a wide field of interests.

In his office in Self Hall, many photographs are scattered about the room. They tell the story of the man. The smiling faces of his wife, four children and four grandchildren brighten the room.

On each wall of his office and in the lobby, where secretary Pat Miller greets visitors, hang beautiful pictures of nature, each taken by Marsengill. Twilight silhouettes of a sail boat on a lake in Maine, a small white church in a country setting in Canada and the beautiful Little River Canyon in Alabama let the visitor know right away Marsengill is a well-traveled nature enthusiast.

'I enjoy working with students, and it's exciting to be a part of student's lives, at this phase of their lives.'

-Dan Marsengill

Marsengill's field is music. He is a vocalist and has given recitals here. He is a music director at First United Church in Anniston and has been involved in church music for 30 years. He teaches private classes: opera literature and solo literature. He sings at conventions and weddings and recently sang in Gunterville for the Eagle Awareness Week.

"My most recent attribution," he said with a laugh, referring to the event mentioned above. "I'll sing for anyone who wants me to sing."

Besides being a deep-rooted family man, church music director, teacher, vocalist and photographer, Marsengill takes his job seriously. He enjoys the time spent at JSU and with his students.

"I enjoy working with students, and it's exciting to be a part of student's lives, at this phase of their lives," he said. "They come in right out of high school, most never having been away from home, and theoretically when they leave they are ready to go on to graduate studies or into the world."

Marsengill tries to understand the student and help him in the learning and growing process.

"Their viewpoints and their attitudes change drastically from the time they come as high school seniors until they become college seniors," he said. "It's exciting to be a part of their process."

He believes people should strive to do better and never become stationary. "I learn so much as I go along every year, regardless of the hat I'm wearing," he said.

While it is true Marsengill does wear many hats, there is proof that he, just like everyone else, feels stress at times. This proof takes the form of a large white punching bag labeled "Stress Release" which stands in the middle of his office floor.

It's surprising one man can do so much and be equally successful at each and maintain a wonderful attitude toward people and life.

"I enjoy all that I do," he said with a smile.

Student finds there is life after diving

By ANGIE JOHNSON
Campus Life Writer

Chris Caldwell, director of Crow Hall, was a competitive diver up until a few years ago.

Caldwell had been diving since he was nine-years old. A car accident changed that. At the time of the accident, he had been on the diving team at Clemson University for about a year. "I had been diving since I was nine, but I had been diving at Clemson only seven months," he said.

Why did he choose Clemson? "It was really a change of pace for me," he said. "I had grown up in the Carolinas and I knew about Clemson's reputation. All of my friends were going to Auburn or Alabama, but I decided to attend Clemson when the chance came around."

After he could no longer dive at Clemson, Chris came to JSU. "My parents said that I could attend any school I wanted," he said. "But they would pay for Jacksonville State."

At JSU, Chris has been very busy. He has been a residence hall director nearly three years. He also is included in many other activities that fill the time that used to be spent on diving. "I lift weights, ride my bicycle and try to do other things to stay physically fit," he said.

Caldwell was also a cheerleader at JSU for a couple of years. "My cheerleading years were rewarding, but those days are behind me now," he said.

Along with everything else, Chris is a member of Kappa Alpha fraternity and is active in intramural sports. "I really enjoy a fast, action-packed game or two- of four-man volleyball," he said.

Caldwell holds no grudges in not being able to pursue diving any more. He has realized now there is more to do than just dive. "I have passed my peak in diving," he said. "I'm too smart not to do some of the things I have tried in the past."

Diving is a sport Chris loved at one time. "It is a very graceful, flowing sport," Chris said. He also said confidence is a key factor. "You must rely on your own ability and talent, so you have to have a great deal of confidence in yourself."

Even though he is active at JSU, he still thinks about diving. "When a dive feels good, it usually is good," he said. "And when you stop diving you remember that feeling quite often."

Bonnie Raitt proves to be big hit at annual Grammy Awards

J. MATTHEW BROOKS
Campus Life Editor

Singer Bonnie Raitt finally had the icing on her cake. After 20 years as a singer, Raitt had an audience for her work, but little recognition in the national music scene. Fame will be something she has to get used to now.

At the 32nd Annual Grammy Awards in Los Angeles, Raitt picked up four Grammy awards, including Album of the Year. She also picked up Grammys for Pop Vocal, Female and Rock Vocal, Female for her single "Nick of Time." Raitt's fourth Grammy was shared with John Lee Hooker for the song "I'm in the Mood" on his album "The Healer."

"I'm overwhelmed," Raitt told the Associated Press. "I'm so honored I can barely stand it."

Perhaps the biggest surprise of the awards was the virtual snubbing of pop's newest star, Paula Abdul. Abdul failed to win a Grammy for her best-selling album or any of her hits.

'I'm overwhelmed . . . I'm so honored I can barely stand it.'

--Bonnie Raitt

A listing of some of the winners follows:

Record of the Year: "Wind Beneath My Wings," Bette Midler.

Album of the Year: "Nick of Time," Bonnie Raitt.

3 smart ways to help pay for college.

Here's how the Army Reserve Alternate Training Program can help you pay for college.

If qualified, the Montgomery GI Bill can provide you with up to $5,040 for current college expenses.

If you obtain a qualifying student loan, you can get it paid off at the rate of 15% per year or $500, whichever is greater — up to a maximum of $10,000. Selecting certain specialty training can result in a $20,000 maximum.

And here's how you can make even more part-time money while in college. Take Basic Training one summer. The next summer, complete skill training at an Army school. You'll earn over $1,250 for Basic and even more for skill training. Then you'll train with your Army Reserve unit near college, usually one weekend a month plus two weeks a year. You'll earn over $85 a weekend to start.

This could be the smartest way to get the money you need for college.

Think about it. Then think about us. Then call us today:

Carpenter gets awards

By SONJA CHAMBERS
Staff Writer

JSU's own Selina Carpenter has been recognized as an outstanding student as well as a great athlete.

Carpenter has received several awards for her athletic and academic achievements. In her sophomore year Carpenter made All-Gulf South Conference, All-Tournament and Defensive Player of the Year. Last year she made All-GSC and All-Tournament and was Co-MVP for the GSC.

She received the GSC All-Academic Award last week. "I'm very excited about it," said Carpenter.

"I came to JSU because it was close to home," she said. "I knew most of the previous players, and it has a good volleyball program."

Carpenter is from Pleasant Valley and is a junior majoring in biology with a GPA of 3.0. "When I'm not playing volleyball, I'm studying, and I don't have much of a social life," Carpenter said.

Carpenter likes the competition of volleyball, the relationship she and the team have and the outstanding relationship with Coach Janice Slay.

PHI MU

We had a blast last weekend at our Riverboat formal. Kelly Rice and the social committee did an excellent job.

Feb. 22 we had a "generic" mixer with ATO. We all had a really great time, as usual. Congratulations to Kelly Rice and Steve on being lavaliered.

Monday was Think Pink Day. It also started out a very special week for the following initiates: Emily O'Barr, Tonya Mitchell, Michelle Plyar, Benja Godfrey, Laurie Smith, Tonya Smith, Tonya Shamblyn, Lisa Sangilantonio, Susan Efrid, Kelly Davidson and Kim Brewton. Congratulations. Soon you will be sisters.

AAA

The Afro-American Association would like to apologize for the misunderstanding over the Halloween Candy Gram last semester.

We need your support to be instrumental in representing black students. As a result of this support, we need your participation in the functions that we have. For instance, the AAA Pageant will take place March 1, and we will take a trip to tour the King Center with the Sociology Club March 6. For more information, contact Linda Shelton at 782-5781 ext. 4474 or Pearl Williams-Springer at 782-5289.

KAPPA SIGMA

Congratulations to James Glover and Tammy Shipman on being lavaliered.

Our Pledge of the Week is Scott Place.

Last Thursday's Purple Passion Party turned out to be a big success. Tonight is our Boxer Rebellion Mixer with Zeta Tau Alpha.

We also wish Phil Attinger the best on his SGA campaign.

YOUNG DEMOCRATS

The Young Democrats Club will meet at 2:30 March 8 in 333 Martin Hall. The club is reorganizing and the meeting is open to any interested students.

Interested people should contact Jerry Smith at 782-5650.

PHI MU ALPHA

This is going to be a very busy weekend. The Miss JSU Pageant is Saturday. We have 15 contestants. Good luck to them all.

A recital will be given by Perry Duffie and Bill DeJournett at 8 p.m. in the Performance Center in Mason Hall.

Two little sisters have recitals this week also. Barbara Baker's will be at 3 p.m. Sunday and Kim Butler's will be at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.

KAPPA ALPHA

Old South week is set for April 4-8. Committee members are working hard to finalize all plans. A band party and a weekend trip are planned.

SIGMA PHI EPSILON

Congratulations to Jeff Groves on his engagement to Delta Zeta's Jackie Derrick.

Our Pledge of the Week is Noel Tobias. Noel did a great job building our new parking lot. Congratulations also to Patrick Beiderman for coming in second as Pledge of the Week.

Special thanks to ZTA for a great mixer.

ALPHA XI DELTA

We would like to thank everyone for supporting our Creative Crime Seminar last Thursday. We hope it was helpful to all.

Last week Tami Shipman was lavaliered to Kappa Sigma James Glover, Zan Edmonds was chosen as Sister of the Week, and Dyvonia Hubbard, Rachael Brothers and Johnna Bryant were chosen as peer counselors for Orientation '90. Congratulations to you all.

ALPHA OMICRON PI

Congratulations to Shanna Barnwell, Lisa Brooks, Tara Ellison, Christie Franklin, Melissa Johnson, Windy Lawrence, Christine Smart and Tonya Spurlin. All of them received bids this week. Welcome to AOPi.

Our picnic basket fund-raiser will be from 3-5 p.m. March 7 on the Quad. If it rains, we will move into the cafeteria. Come out and bid on a basket and eat with us.

We enjoyed our "Love Stinks" mixer with Sigma Phi Epsilon.

Carpenter

"One of my favorite games was this year when we beat UNA at UNA, and we also beat them at JSU," Carpenter says. "One of my worst games was in the beginning of the GSC tournament when we were defeated by Troy. It was a big let down.

"Another one of my worst games was when we were defeated by Livingston at JSU when we had previously won all home games," said Carpenter.

"Selina is a good player because of her determination," Slay said. "She is a real fighter, and she hates to lose. She will go to any length to make sure her team is successful.

She is a great athlete as an individual, but she really shines as a team.

"We are honored that the conference recognized what a good defensive and offensive setter Selina is.

Selina is a powerful 5-3 setter, and it is a high honor to be recognized as one," said Slay.

"She is the quarterback of our team, and without her we don't function. The running offense centers around Selina, the backbone of the team, and she lives up to it well," said Slay.

JSU takes conference lead with big win

By RODNEY PARKS
Sports Editor

Saturday Mississippi College and JSU met in a very important match-up in the Gulf South Conference. Almost everytime these two schools have met this season a lot has been on the line in the game.

First, JSU traveled to Mississippi College during the football regular season and won the game 23-3. With the win the team went on to win the GSC. Next, JSU and the Choctaws meet for the football national championship and Mississippi College claimed the 3-0 victory.

Earlier this season Coach Bill Jones took his basketball team to Clinton, Miss., and fell out of the lead in the GSC when Mississippi College defeated the Gamecocks 81-77.

Saturday JSU returned the favor as it knocked Mississippi College out of the lead in the conference with a 96-92 win.

In the first half of this game JSU jumped out to a quick 11-4 lead when Robert Lee Sanders hit a short jumper. This was a lead JSU would never give up, but it was also a lead that was in jeopardy at all times.

Each time JSU would build its lead Mississippi College would make a run to cut the Gamecocks' lead back down.

JSU built an eight-point lead at 19-11 with 15:35 left in the half. Then the 6,500 JSU fans watched Mississippi College outscore JSU to pull within one at 21-20.

Over the next eight minutes JSU played a very good, fast-paced game as it outran the Choctaws to open up a 38-30 lead. Mississippi College then showed why they share the GSC lead, as they closed within four points of the Gamecocks at 43-39 at the 2:42 mark.

JSU was able to build an 11-point halftime lead, 52-41, added to by Cliff Dixon's fastbreak lay-up at the buzzer.

The Gamecocks controlled the first nine minutes of the second half as JSU had a 76-60 lead with 10:50 left in the game.

Mississippi College then decided to make a game of it as the Choctaws scored 11-straight points, led by the inside play of Thomas Matthews, who scored 37 points for the Choctaws in the game.

"I told our players that Matthews is a great player and unless we can get him into foul trouble we were going to have trouble with him all night long," Jones said. "We hoped we could get him (Matthews) tired, but they did a good job of giving him some rest so he stayed fresh most of the game."

After Mississippi College closed JSU's lead to five at 76-71, JSU got its break going again and opened the lead to 90-81 with 2:30 left.

The Choctaws then went on a 9-2 run to close within two of the Gamecocks. Part of the reason for the comeback was key missed free-throws by JSU.

"Once we had the nine-point lead we wanted to cut a little time off the clock, but the bad part of that was that when we got fouled we didn't make the free-throws," Jones said. "This give them (Mississippi College) a chance to get back in it."

Four clutch free-throws by Charles Hale in the final 16 seconds iced the victory for JSU.

"I was proud of our players for showing some poise in the end of the game," Jones said.

JSU was led on the night by Robert Lee Sanders with 37 points. Charles Burkette and Cliff Dixon had 14 and Pat Madden added 13.

Lady Gamecocks seem to be back on track

By RODNEY PARKS
Sports Editor

The Lady Gamecocks finished out their regular-season home schedule in good form as they defeated the Mississippi College Lady Choctaws 95-83. This was the third time JSU has defeated Mississippi College this season.

This was the final home game for three Lady Gamecock seniors, Luchy Cabrera, Sue Imm and Mary Ann Tribble. Cabrera and Imm have both been members on the team for four years. Tribble has been a member for two seasons.

The game started out close as there were three ties at the beginning of the game. With the score tied at 8-8 JSU outscored the Lady Choctaws to take a 20-12 lead with 13:45 left in the first half, JSU was able to build this lead because of a new offense it used in the game.

"We were running our new offense in the first half, called our three post offense," said Coach Richard Mathis. "In this offense we play three of our big women at once and post two of the three up and when we got this offense working is when we built the lead."

JSU had a 53-43 halftime lead, but the key to the victory was the first nine minutes of the second half as the Lady Gamecocks only allowed Mississippi College to score 10 points.

"I told the women at halftime that even though we had a lead we had given up 43 points and I didn't feel we could score as many points on the second half so we had to play better defense," Mathis said. "I told our post players they were going to have to do a better job on their post players and that's what we did."

Because of the outstanding defense JSU was able to build its lead to 74-53 with 10:40 left in the game.

This was too big a lead for the Lady Choctaws to overcome as JSU moved on to the victory.

With the victory the Lady Gamecocks finished the year with a 10-1 record at home. JSU has only lost two home games total in the past two seasons.

JSU was led on the night by Tribble with 22 points and eight rebounds. Tracy Linton scored 18, Dana and Jana Bright both chipped in with 11 each and Messia Parker added 10.

Cabrera scored nine points in her final home game and Imm finished with eight.

Gamecocks start baseball season in fine form

By RODNEY PARKS
Sports Editor

JSU used the long ball to win its second game of the year as the Gamecocks defeated Berry College 11-6.

The Gamecocks hit six homeruns in this contest, two by outfielder Merritt Bowden.

JSU trailed in the first inning of the game 2-0 when Scott Sprick hit a two-run homer to tie the contest. The Gamecocks then took the lead when Randy Belyeu hit a grand slam to put the Gamecocks ahead to stay.

Todd Altaffer was the winning pitcher for JSU. Altaffer pitched four innings, giving up two runs on only three hits.

JSU 11
Southern Tech 3

The baseball team ran its season record to 3-0 with a 11-3 victory at Southern Tech.

JSU pounded out 19 hits in this game. "We seem to be coming around at the plate," said head coach Rudy Abbott. "We didn't hit a thing for about four weeks in the pre-season, and we didn't hit the ball that well opening day. But the last two times out our guys seem to be seeing the ball well."

JSU trailed Southern Tech 3-2 in the sixth inning, but the Gamecocks were able to score eight runs in the final three innings to power their way to the victory.

The Gamecocks were led in the game by outfielder Merritt Bowden who had four hits on the day, including two doubles and an RBI.

The winning pitcher for JSU was

David Strain, 2-0, who allowed only two singles, walked two and struck out five in four innings of work.

JSU 7
Montevallo 0

JSU moved its season record to a perfect 4-0 with a 7-0 shutout of Montevallo Saturday.

The game was played in very windy conditions, and play was stopped a few times because of the winds blowing the dirt from the infield up.

Through all the wind JSU's Craig

Holman pitched a near-perfect game as the Gamecock right-hander pitched seven innings, giving up no runs on four hits and striking out eight.

The offense was provided for Abbott's team by Brian Roberts, Eric Peterson and Todd Mixon, who all hit a homerun each for the Gamecocks.

JSU scored two runs in the first inning and that was enough as the Gamecock pitchers shutout the Montevallo hitters on only five hits.
