Kappa Sig party attracts big crowd and police

By MIKE LIVINGSTON
News Writer

A recent party at the Kappa Sigma House which attracted over 1,000 people resulted in complaints from residents that live around the Greek house.

According to Lee Thomas, Assistant Director of Student Activities, the Kappa Sigma brothers had taken steps to keep the party from getting out of control but they were not successful. "Around 10:30 p.m. a lot more people showed up at the party than they could handle and the fence they were using was trampled on and the brothers could no longer restrict access to the party," said Thomas.

"When you have only 60 brothers and 1,000 people it is hard to control what is going on," added Thomas.

The fraternity provided free taxi service, checked IDs and had fenced in their yard to limit access to the party.

According to several students at the party, everyone was well behaved. Most of the trouble occurred when non-students started to arrive at the house after 10:30 p.m.

Jacksonville Police Chief Tommy Thompson said he was at the party and left around 10:30 p.m.

"There was around 700 people when I left and the real problems didn't start until later when more people arrived," said Thompson.

Thompson also explained that Kappa Sigma violated the city noise ordinance after 11:00 p.m. The band had already stopped playing.

Uline suffers injuries in tractor accident

By SHEILA LYNCH
News Writer

Learning can be a painful experience. Carol Uline, a professor in the department of education lived that maxim Sept. 2.

Uline was bushhogging part of her 28-acre farm in Cedar Springs when the Ford tractor she was test-driving ran over her, breaking her right ankle and the femur in her left thigh.

Uline left the tractor in neutral while she walked to open the fence gate for her neighbor Joel Prickett. Just as she reached the gate, Prickett shouted to her that the tractor was moving. Uline, trying to prevent the tractor from damaging her fence, raced toward the machine and tried to leap on it.

Before she could jump on the tractor, a wheel caught her right ankle and pulled her under the huge tires. One of the tractor tires ran over her left thigh, breaking the femur, before she could roll out of the way. Prickett reacted quickly and raced to his home and told his wife to call 911.

The tractor went through the fence and hit a power pole causing the lines to break. "It was like the Fourth of July. There were sparks everywhere," Uline said. "The impact of the tractor hitting the pole almost ripped the power lines out of my house."

Uline was taken to Jacksonville

Carol Uline

Hospital and underwent surgery on her broken leg. Her ankle was set in a cast. Despite the pain, Uline seemed to be in good spirits last week. Her hospital room was filled with plants, flowers, balloons and cards. Many were from concerned students and faculty members.

"Everybody has been just marvelous. My major concern was my classes. My department head, Stan Easton, said teachers volunteered to cover my classes along with their own full loads," she said.

Judy Berry, Marsha Zenanko, Selinda Yohe and Mary Williams are filling in during Uline's absence.

Uline was looking forward to her release from the hospital. She will be bedridden for at least six weeks. "I have always been very active and prided myself on being independent."

President talks about campus issues

By SHANE McGRUFF
News Editor

Harold J. McGee sits at the helm of a university in transition.

Expanding enrollment, changing academic standards, and an ever more visible push by alumni to move the athletic program to Division I, are just a few of the challenges for JSU's president in the 1990-91 academic year.

McGee acknowledges that JSU's enrollment has grown significantly since the mid-eighties but he doesn't feel that the expansion is out of hand. "There really is no great potential for overgrowth out there," McGee said. "The high school graduating classes are shrinking. Our concern now is holding enrollment at the 8,000 student level."

JSU's student population has grown from about 6,300 in 1985-86 to approximately 8,400 this year. McGee said the administration's plan for growth includes an additional 100 to 200 students per year until the year 2000. He said that much of the growth anticipated would come from graduate students, transfers, and part-time students.

The athletic program, like the student body, has made significant strides in the last five years. JSU has what is arguably the best program in division two athletics. Now, many alumni and students alike are calling for a move to Division I. Several schools in the Gulf South Conference, including JSU's arch-rival Troy State University, are making the move to the "big leagues" of college athletics.

McGee's answer to the Division I question is simple and direct. "I don't see a Division I program (here)."

McGee said that an alumni committee is studying the issue, and will make a report later this year. He said that eventually the board of trustees will decide on the proposal. McGee said money is the holdup. "My feeling is that any plan coming from the alumni group won't contain the financial resources to make the move. We don't use any state funds for the athletic program and there just isn't enough revenue potential to make division one sports sustaining," he said. McGee said that football is the only sport that might benefit from a move up the ladder. The football program could compete with schools in I-AA. There is no such division in other sports. That would mean JSU would compete with schools twice its size in basketball, volleyball, and all the other sports.

The basketball team, McGee said, would have to wait eight years to play in the NCAA Division I tournament if the program were to move up. "As good as the basketball program is,

Landlord unhappy with student tenants

By DAWN SHELL
News Writer

It's only the fourth week of the fall semester and some students are already in trouble—not with grades—with their landlords.

Gena Holcomb, manager of Jackson Trace Apartments, has received over 30 complaints over the past few days concerning noise, parking and trash. Holcomb said that police have been called to handle parties that got out of control and tow trucks have been employed to remove cars that were parked in tenants' zones.

Holcomb said that some students "feel the need to show off to their friends" in the apartment complexes. She said that she would like to see an arbitration board between students and landlords which would put someone from the University between the two to act as a mediator.

Ray Creel, the associate director of residence life, said problems arising in on-campus housing are handled immediately by hall directors. Creel put some of the blame for off-campus problems on the landlords. "Absentee landlords contribute to the problem," said Creel. "Here on campus we try to handle problems on the lowest level—at conception. In doing this, 90 percent of our problems are alleviated."

Creel said the job of handling disputes in off-campus housing should be settled by the students and landlords.

Not everyone off-campus has problems with their student tenants. Donald Golden, a realtor for Gold Key Realty, said that his organization "has never had to evict any students" and that they have never heard any complaints from people living around a house rented by a student.

Lack of funding kills co-op program

By SHANNON COOPER
News writer

JSU's Cooperative Education Department will not receive a grant from the federal government for the 1990-91 school year.

Due to the instability of government grants from year to year, the co-op program at JSU is almost obsolete.

Marvin Jenkins, college placement director, said that a full-time position to oversee the program is impossible because the amount of funding fluctuates so much annually. One year, the grant could be enough to finance a program director and the next, allotted funds would dwindle and the position would be eradicated.

Jenkins went on to describe the process of applying for and receiving the grant. Every school with a federal interest in their co-op programs must apply annually for the funds. The applications go before a panel that will evaluate the cooperative needs for each institution.

An internal budget is currently the only support of the program. The planning and placement department receives funds annually, but graduate job-placement and part-time job placement needs have priority over cooperative needs.

Jenkins said that the order of ranking was reasonable, but he hopes that would we be willing to give that up. Basically the basketball team would lie dormant until the 1998-99 season," he said.

Academic standards, like sports, have sparked debate around the JSU campus. Many students and faculty would like to see standards for admission. McGee said that the open-admission question is out of the University's hands at the moment.

McGee said JSU is under a consent decree with the federal courts to keep open door admission. The court order stems from a lawsuit against the state of Alabama by the historically black colleges of Alabama and other interested parties. The situation is not permanent. But McGee said that even when the University regains its options it will probably opt against a tough, test-based admission policy.

"The University was placed here in the 1800's to serve the Appalachian region. We've historically done business with first-generation high school graduates and first generation college attendants and that mission should not change," he said.

McGee indicated that he would not support ACT requirements as an admission standard. "I would have some real qualms about relying too much on test scores. Test scores tend to relate to economics. If you live in a better neighborhood, you have better test scores... We've always had a very strong individualized instruction program here. We can take you where we find you and carry you well beyond your wildest dreams."

McGee encouraged students to take advantage of JSU's resources. "You need to use the counselors, the advisors, the tutors. Don't just wander around in the dark. Ask for help."

The Chief said his officers had problems with people urinating on trees and telling them "where to go" when they were trying to check ID's in the Brewer Hall parking lot.

Despite the problems some were having with the police, Thomas felt the police acted leniently towards people who had open containers in their cars.

"The fraternity has been issued a warrant and it was served to the Presi-

Co-op program

funds for better co-op program will soon be granted since the program keeps not only students, but the university as a whole in constant contact with industries. When the program is in full swing, companies including BellSouth, the Anniston Ordinance, and Gadsden Steel support it. Students often continue their careers with these companies after graduation, making the program more inviting

Eric Mackey, a senator for the student government association, said that the co-op program has been suffering for the past two years. "If students resume an interest in the co-op program, the the university should consider reinstating it. I would certainly support looking into this matter is students would show an interest to the SGA," Mackey said.

Cooperative studies are meant to serve students with opportunities for professional advancement, not as supplements to college tuition. Jenkins said that he refers many students to Pearl Williams, the coordinator of part-time, off-campus employment, because their needs lie with her.

Though students often mistake the co-op program for part-time employment, Jenkins agreed that the need for more organized and productive program was a legitimate one.

Co-ed dorms could be possibility at JSU

Co-ed dorms may soon be a reality for JSU students.

JSU president, Harold J. McGee said last week that the new Logan and Patterson dorms are open to several housing options.

"I guess everything is open for discussion, that (co-ed dorms) has been looked in before. In fact we have one of the oldest ones in the state on the campus now...the International House," said McGee.

McGee said the dorms would be open for students in the spring and were ahead of construction schedules designed to reach that goal. He added that the dorms could be used as conferece centers in the summer.

Byron Studdard, vice-president of the SGA, said he hoped students would get involved in the decision making process concerning the new dorms.

Studdard indicated that one of the new dorms might be used as a study-dorm. He said the study dorm would have extended study hours and quiet times.

Guy Hunt balks

Recently, Paul Hubbart challenged Gov. Guy Hunt to a debate on television and Hunt turned him down flat, saying that opponents come up with such ideas out of desperation.

Was that really the reason?

Could it be that Hunt really knows that in the four years he has been in office, he hasn't accomplished much of anything short of being the first Republican governor since the Reconstruction.

It is often said about Hunt that no one really dislikes him for anything he has done while in office. Actually he really hasn't done enough to notice save touring the state making speeches. Who could forget his last appearance here where the JSU administration called off classes so students would go hear him.

Maybe Hunt should debate Hubbart. At least we'll know then if he is really a governor or just another guy who gets a state check.

Making progress

Authorities in Gainesville, Fla, have narrowed the field of suspects down to eight in the murders of five University of Florida students in August.

At the top of the list is an 18-year-old college freshman who claims to have multiple personalities. Last weekend, he sent FBI agents on a wild goose chase through a wooded lot where he claimed to have gone on "reconnaissance missions."

Authorities are hoping to eliminate more suspects this week.

Meanwhile, the Gainesville killer is thought to also be responsible for the murder of a University of Alabama graduate in May.

Let's hope the authorities have the right guy.

Atlanta Gold

The Olympic Committee announced Tuesday that the 1996 Summer Olympic Games will be held in Atlanta, and the entire city celebrated with fireworks and parties.

Not quite so happy were the people in Athens, Greece, who were passed up. The 1996 will mark the 100th year of the Games; the first were held in Athens.

Atlanta will be only the third U.S. city to host the Summer Games.

A journey into the future

By RUTH HUGHES
Editor in Chief

Come with me now into the unknown, a place where dreams may, or may not, come true.

Close your minds for a minute, push all of your worries away. Forget about that Accounting test tomorrow, just relax.

Have you ever wondered what the future will be like? Let me paint a picture for you.

You are sitting on the porch of your home, rocking the time away with your spouse. The kids are playing with friends out in the yard and the cat is napping on the front steps.

Later, you go inside for supper. As your family sits down to the table, plates of carrots, broccoli, potatoes and a roast steam. You are thankful for the food that you have, knowing that not everyone is so fortunate.

After dinner, the kids start on their homework and you read a book.

The next morning, your life starts all over again, with the kids going off to school and you going off to work.

As you ride to work, you look at the many beautiful scenes that you pass and thank God that it is still there for you to see.

It seems very nice doesn't it? We would all like to think the future will be so harmonious and beautiful.

Well, I hate to tell you this, but unless we make some drastic changes, none of us will be able to enjoy this kind of life.

Why?

Because the majority of Americans still don't recycle. We are wasting our precious natural resources and the only way we can slow down the destruction is to reuse what we have already destroyed.

Paper, glass, aluminum can all be recycled. Materials can be carried to the Anniston Wal-Mart, where once a month recyclers come to pick up materials.

It has been said that if the destruction of forests does not slow down, in 70 years we will no longer have the forest land we have today.

Another reason. The divorce rate in this country is still growing. Families are still being torn apart by people who should never have married in the first place. Isn't it about time we all take a deep look at ourselves and try and make peace with ourselves and then start looking for the person to marry?

Isn't it about time we all try and grow up first?

And, what about TV? I know probably half of you gasped at that, but really, when was the last time you read something without the TV on? When was the last time you read a newspaper, cover to cover? In fact, when was the last time you actually read your homework assignments.

Back in the heyday of newspapers and magazines, before TV, the literacy rate in the U.S. was about 90 percent. Today it is around 70 percent. Why? Because we watch TV instead of read.

I, personally hope that the picture I painted can come true. I hope that I can raise my children in a world full of love and beauty.

What about you?

Your turn . . .

An open letter to students from a prospective landlord

Dear Students,

Some of you are away from home for the very first time and are so free. But at what cost? When you are maligned and held at bay because you are a college student, what exactly brought that on?

You just moved here from Crossville, Albertville, Atlanta, Mentone, etc., how could anyone know about you and your habits? Your parents are indignant, advising prospective landlords of your trustworthiness and saying "How dare they!" How do landlords know so much about you? Experience.

For example: Beer cans on the ground, trash all over, bugs, parking problems, loudness, parties, guest control.

When you were home, you were treated as a child, so you usually acted as one. Now, you say you are an adult, out on your own and you can do as you please. At whose expense? Whose?! I'll tell you.

The next college student, the new transfer, the new freshman, the frat brother, the sorority sister (who tries to rent an apartment after you).

When your guests have so little respect for you, a friend, that you feel timid in telling them where to park or to please not throw trash around, how much of a friend are they anyway?

Deposits will keep going up, rents will keep going up, towing trucks will keep getting paid (for moving your cars.) Police will continue to be called due to male guests urinating in public. The City will protest the unnecessary mess at the dumpsters and all the beer cans that spill out. All these costs and number of complaints will keep going up, just because when you left home you forgot one piece of luggage you considered excess—common courtesy.

I can not imagine how I would react as a parent if I received a call because my son was arrested for indecent exposure, or because my daughter was asked to relocate because of the number of loud parties and her guests getting out of hand. Or handling towing charges because one of my kids without thinking, not being rude or anything, parked in an assigned parking spot and had a car towed away.

I wonder how much pride we have in ourselves as individuals when we can ride just a few miles down the road and become completely different individuals?

This past summer some members of a fraternity moved out of more than one apartment. It took over 30 days to re-do one—18 another. Normal turnover for apartments is two to five days.

There are some good examples. Members of another fraternity in three apartments had their place so clean that all I had to do was paint. That fraternity will always be welcome here.

Girls are not immune. Some of those guys left the apartments cleaner than the girls.

One parent was so angry at the charges made against the security deposit, she felt her daughter had been mistreated just because she was a college student. What I didn't tell her was the number of registered complaints over loud parties. I didn't tell the parent because I like to deal with each tenant as a person.

My complaints do not come from my "adult" tenants, but also from the students with early morning classes. So, it is not "them against us." It is a world of prejudice built up over years and years of rudeness, thoughtlessness and neglect.

I, as a property manager, want to state I am here first for my company and second for my tenants—all of them—not just a select few.

And if I cannot help my tenants realize the importance of controlling themselves and that this is their home.

It is not just an apartment, it is your home, signed lease and everything for a year, so its your safety zone and I will insure your right to such.

Marriage not an easy experience

Dear Editor,

I am writing in response to the article "Do couples give lame excuses for not marrying?" I was offended by this article because I have been happily engaged for two years. The reason we have not married is because we are both in college. I think this article was written in poor taste by the features editor. Who is she to judge what is a good excuse and what is a "lame" excuse.

I would also like to tell her that marriage is more than a good sex life and "feeling your heart burst when you hear your beloved's name." With marriage comes the bills, rent, and any other obstacles you may come across during your lifetime together. I am afraid her idea of a wedded bliss is a sad misconception, because along with a bliss comes a lot of hard work. There is more to marriage than just playing house.

I wonder if this young woman has taken her own advice and "leaped into the unknown." I'd like to ask her in five years if she still feels the same.

'Hull High' is real low

By TIM LOCKETTE
Columnist

One of this season's hot new TV shows is "Hull High", a teeny-bopper musical aimed at the youth market. Masterpiece Theater it ain't. The first episode features a sequence in which a pretty, young teacher is seen gyrating coitally in her (or somebody's) underwear to the strains of "Soft and Round as a Peach" - a song about her posterior. Conservatives are hopping mad. This is watered-down porn, they say, and shouldn't be on the air.

I'm inclined to agree. When are the young people of this country going to stand up to the networks and say that we don't want any of their watered-down porn? I want REAL porn, or none at all. Anything worth doing is worth doing right.

I used to be a big fan of Van Halen and Ratt videos, so I've seen more hyperhormonal pedagogues than you can shake a principal's paddle at. I can tell you, "Hull High" is no big deal. The "authority-figure, strip-tease" motif is as staple of pop culture, and as old as "beach blanket bingo". It's not even very exciting anymore. But, Tipper Gore-types think shows like this cause rampant crime, teen pregnancy, acne, and whatnot. This line of reasoning has always bothered me. Do you really think anybody's going to go out wilding because of "Hull High"?

"Hull High" should be taken off the air because it's a complete waste of time. Watching "clean" porn is like buying a whole hog without any meat on it. What's the point? People shouldn't waste their time on this worthless piece of filth when they can switch and watch genuine grade-A filth or turn to public television. A television show should either be exciting or educational. "Hull High" is no Shakespeare festival, and my prurient interests are both more prurient and more interesting.

It's a shame that our younger sisters and brothers are allowing NBC to pump immature sex fantasies into their heads. It couldn't be healthy, after all, these are the folks who gave us Alf and the Smurfs. When we were their age, we concocted our own disgusting fantasies, and I'm sure we had more fun. Let's get this smut off the screen and into the minds of American teens where it belongs!

Gamecocks continue domination over Braves

By RODNEY PARKS
Sports Editor

JSU's home opening football game had all the elements for success—great weather, a crowd of over 15,000 fans and an opponent that had never defeated the Gamecocks in 12 tries.

Coach Bill Burgess' team took advantage of the great conditions to overpower a spirited West Georgia team, 44-9.

The first eight minutes of the game gave West Georgia fans something to cheer about. The Braves played very well and took a 3-0 lead on the strength of a 27-yard Matt Stone field goal.

Burgess felt this lead was well earned by the Braves.

"I think West Georgia deserves a lot of credit in this game," Burgess said. "West Georgia had a good game plan and their players played hard till the end of the game."

This spirited play continued during the first quarter as the Braves stopped JSU on its next position and had a chance to build on its lead.

At this point the JSU defense set the stage for the rest of the game as they held the Braves and forced them to punt the ball.

"There was a point in that game where they (West Georgia) had a chance to go up 10-0 and if that happened then it would have been a whole different situation," Burgess said. "Our players went in and stopped that drive and got the ball back."

After the defense stopped the Braves, JSU received the ball on its own five-yard line. The Gamecocks slowly gained the momentum back as they drove 95 yards in five plays with Terrence Bowens breaking a 47-yard run take the lead, 7-3.

"I feel our guys deserve a lot of credit for getting the lead back and getting the game under control," Burgess said.

JSU continued the ball control offense as it took its next drive 77 yards in 10 plays and scored when David Gullede carried the ball over from five yards out to give JSU a 14-3 lead.

JSU continued to build its lead in the first half as back-up quarterback Cecil Blount carried the ball over from five yards out and Slade Stinnett hit a 42-yard field goal.

Despite the two touchdown lead at half time Burgess knew West Georgia still felt they were in the game.

"We told our offensive team (at half time) that they just had to continue to run what we had run, we just had to do it better," Burgess said. "Defensively we needed to go out and play out techniques. There were times in the ball game we did not play our techniques well."

New runner fills an old position for Gamecocks

By JAY ENNIS
Sports Writer

In the wishbone offense that Coach Bill Burgess runs, the fullback is a very important element to the running attack. Gamecock fans have gotten use to the fullback carrying the ball for that important yard needed for the first down or touchdown.

Last season Roy Carpenter and Brian Stevenson carried the ball from the fullback position for Burgess. This season Burgess has a new fullback to call on. His name is Terrence Bowens.

When you speak to Bowens the first thing you will notice is his quiet confidence. He dedicates his concentration to the football field each Saturday, with fantastic results.

In the season opener against Alabama A&M, Bowens rushed for 150 yards in 15 carries. The soft spoken Bowens credited this success to his offensive line.

"The holes were there and I just ran through them. It was just a matter of executing the plays," said Bowens.

Bowens came to JSU from Sprayberry High School in Marietta, Ga. He explains that there were two main reasons why he chose to be a Gamecock.

"It was important to my mother that I attend a fine academic school and I wanted to play football with a winning program, so Jacksonville was a natural choice," said Bowens.

Being mentally prepared is the most important part of Bowens game.

"You just have to be confident in your assignments," Bowens said.

Thus far in his college career, Bowens has not been tackled for a negative yard.

"I don't really think about things like that, I just run the football and try to make good things happen," Bowens said. "Before a game, I kind of like to be alone and listen to the radio. It doesn't matter what kind of tunes, it's just a way for me to get mentally prepared."

When he's not on the field, Bowens enjoys fishing, basketball and travel. Although he has not yet declared a major, Bowens hopes to get into a sports related field after graduation.

"There has been some talk about starting a sports medicine program, if they do I believe that will be my major," said Bowens.

Golf team plays well in opening tournament

By JAY ENNIS
Sports Writer

The Gamecock golf team finished fourth overall in the Charles Coody West Texas Invitational Golf Tournament with a score of 593.

JSU competed with 15 other teams at the event, held September 10-11 at the Fair Way Oaks Country Club in Abilene, Texas.

This was the second straight year that JSU had attended this tournament to open the season.

The first day of competition saw two Gamecocks turning in even-par 72 rounds, senior Gary Wigington and Wallace/Dothan transfer Mike Lindsey.

"Gary showed great concentration and discipline. Mid-way through the first nine holes, he was four over, but he pulled his game together well," said Coach James Hobbs.

Jeff Jordan, Jack Napier and Steven Saunders each turned in 76 rounds to complete the team total 296 for day one.

"This was Saunders first college tournament and I was pleasantly surprised with his consistent play," said Hobbs.

Day two saw Wigington improving to a one-under-par 71 performance, which gave him 143 score for the tournament. That mark was good enough to place him in a tie for second-place overall. Lindsey turned in a 74, Jordan and Saunders each had rounds of 76 and Napier finished with an 80.

The team total of 593 was 13 strokes better than last year's season score on the same course.

"We got some great experience against Division II and Division I schools, I'm pleased with our results and I suspect that we will do very well this season," said Hobbs. "We have more depth on our team than I could have hoped for."

The team's next tournament will shut out the Braves in the second half and the offense placed 20 points on the board.

In the second half JSU was able to play it's second-team players most of the time.

JSU scored three times in the second half. The first of these scores came in the third quarter when Bowens scored his second touchdown of the night on a 10-yard carry.

In the fourth quarter JSU's third-string quarterback Nickey Edmondson scored two touchdowns, both on one-yard runs.

In the game all three JSU quarterbacks were able to play and score. This is something Blount feels will help the Gamecocks this season.

"The playing time and experience is going to help us in the long run," Blount said. "A lot of schools will only play one quarterback the entire game no matter what but here Coach Man (Charlie Maniscalco) has a system where he wants all of us to play."

Stinnett had an outstanding night kicking for JSU, going 5-for-5 on be the October 1-2 Tri-State Classic in Pickwick Dam, Tenn. This will be the Gamecocks first opportunity to compete against the other Gulf South Conference teams.

extra point attempts.

JSU was led in rushing by Bowens with 70 yards, he was followed by Gullede with 68 yards.

The JSU defense held West Georgia to only 92 yards rushing in the game.

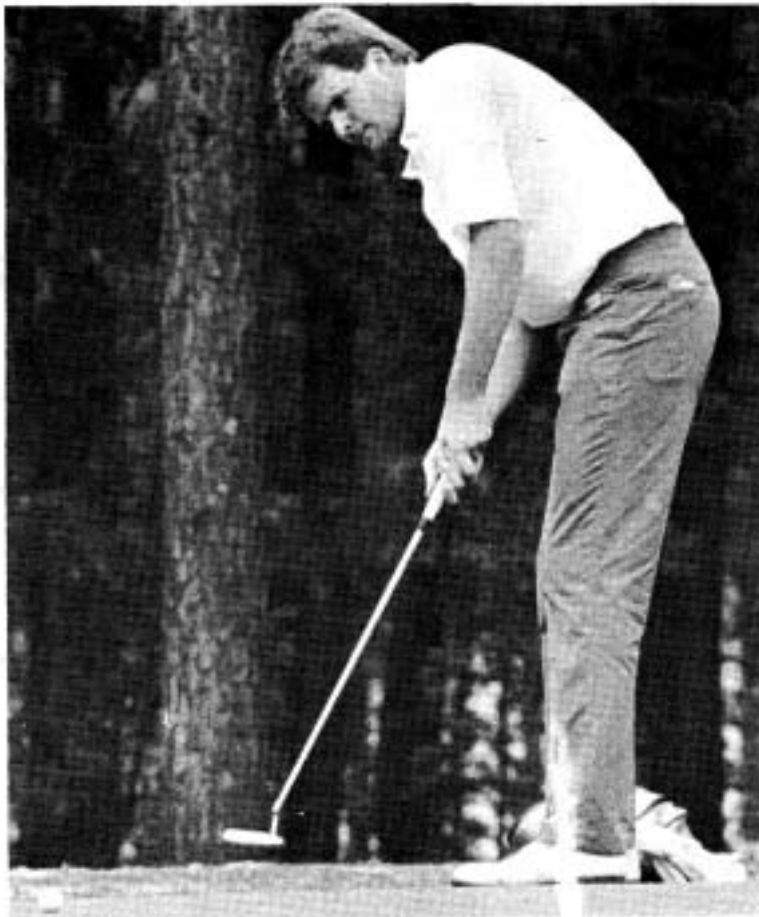

The win was JSU's 16th consecutive win at home. The Gamecocks have claimed 13 straight regular season games and have won 26 of their last 29 games overall.

With the win, Burgess now has a 38-17-3 record at JSU.

The Gamecocks will now prepare to travel to Valdosta State this weekend. This is a game Burgess feels will be very tough.

"Valdosta will be the biggest challenge we've had this year," Burgess said. "We've got a long road trip, they're one of the best teams in our conference and its going to be a big challenge for us. If you are going to challenge for the conference championship, then you have to win on the road."

JSU leads the overall series with Valdosta State 6-2. The kickoff Saturday is set for 12 p.m. at Martin Stadium in Valdosta.

JSU hits the road for important match-up

By RODNEY PARKS
Sports Editor

If a team keeps a regular schedule of opponents each season, before long one of the games in the season becomes a turning point in the season.

Back in the '70's the late Paul "Bear" Bryant said that he used the Tennessee game as a turning point or a way to judge his team during that season.

This turning point game on JSU's schedule over the last four years has been Valdosta State.

In 1986 Coach Bill Burgess' team traveled to Valdosta with a 2-1 record. A win in Valdosta could have lead JSU to an outstanding season but the Gamecocks came home with a close 29-25 loss. JSU finished the '86 season with only a 5-4-1 record.

The biggest loss in this turning point game came in 1987 when JSU entered the game with a perfect 3-0 record. Undefeated and playing at home the Gamecocks were favored to win this game, but the day belonged to Valdosta, as the Blazers rolled to a 27-10 win over the Gamecocks.

After the loss JSU finished the '87 season again with a 5-4-1 record.

Things changed for Gamecock fans during the '88 season as JSU traveled to Valdosta with a perfect 3-0 record and came home with a 4-0 record as the Gamecocks claimed a road victory over the Blazers 31-21.

Burgess' team finished the '88 season with a 10-2 mark and made a trip to the NCAA playoffs.

Again in the '89 season JSU entered the Valdosta State game with a perfect 3-0 record. JSU was highly ranked and heavy favorites in this game but it was much closer than Gamecocks fans wanted, as JSU escaped with a 17-15 win.

Rodney Parks
Sports Editor

After the win, the Gamecocks finished the regular season virtually untested as they became the first team to finish the regular season in the GSC with a perfect 10-0 record.

This season the Gamecocks once again enter the contest undefeated at 2-0 and once again this game will mean a lot to JSU's success this season.

This will be a tough test for Burgess' team not only because of the long road trip but is also the Blazers home opener for the season.

Valdosta State has played very well this season, losing a heart-breaker at Georgia Southern 17-10 and the defeating UT-Martin 28-14 on the road.

The Blazers are led this season by quarterback Tye Cottle who completed 56% of his passes last season for 1677 yards. Valdosta State also has a strong ground game led by Ramon Allen who rushed for 846 a season ago.

JSU leads the overall series with Valdosta State 6-2. The widest margin of victory in the series was JSU's 43-11 win in 1983. The longest winning streak in the series is four, by JSU from 1982-85.

If you are planning to go to the game in Valdosta Saturday you need to leave early because it's set for a 12 p.m. kickoff. The game will be played in Martin Stadium that holds 12,000.

In other sporting news from JSU, attendance looks to up again this season for JSU as 15,000 fans watched JSU's home opener in football.

Many other sports are getting underway at JSU, fall golf and tennis are beginning play this month.

Golf Coach James Hobbs was very pleased with his teams fourth place finish in it's opening tournament.

Coach Steve Bailey's men's and women's tennis teams should be strong again this year. Look for a tennis preview in next week's Chanticleer.

Also the JSU rifle and volleyball teams have started this month. Coach Janice Slay's volleyball team will be in Columbus, Miss., this weekend competing in the Mississippi University for Women Tournament.

The volleyball teams next home match will be Tuesday when the Lady Gamecocks host UA-Huntsville.

All home matches for the volleyball team this season will be played at Mathews Coliseum beginning at 7 p.m.

Till next time, see you on the sidelines.....

Rifle team aims for another outstanding season

By JAY ENNIS
Sports Writer

One of the least known of the varsity sports at JSU is the Shooting Team.

At mid-season last year, they were ranked 14th in the nation. This season they are in hot pursuit of the national title.

The team used to be considered an R.O.T.C. dominated sport, but this year there are no team members in the military organization. This years team captain is female Criminal Justice major, Kelley Wolery.

Wolery got into the sport at an early age.

"My dad was a competition marksman with a shooting club in Washington State," said Wolery. "I had a junior division and that's how I got into it. I got into a lot of little competitions at first and did pretty well, so the club sent me to a training camp in Oregon. From there, I was sent to the Olympic training center in Colorado Springs for specialized training, and then I advanced to Jacksonville.

"People outside the shooting world don't realize that there are scholarships awarded to marksmen, but thank goodness there are," said Wolery.

This year's 11-member squad is coached by Sgt. Gerald DeBoy.

"My job is mostly organizational in nature, the team members work hard at their skills," said DeBoy.

General competitions consist of members shooting a .22 caliber rifle from three different positions; standing, kneeling and prone. They take forty shots from each position at a distance of 50 feet. Shooters are awarded 10 points for a bulls eye for a total potential perfect score of 1200 points.

The teams first competition will be at the Rowe Hall shooting gallery on October 19th at 7:00 pm against the University of North Alabama.

RU486 questioned

By TONYA MORRISON
Features Editor

Amid the ever-present controversy over abortion, a new hat has been thrown into the ring.

RU 486, or the "abortion pill", has been under scrupulous investigation, by scientists, pro-life activists, pro-choice activists, and even the public in general for some time now.

Although not available as of yet in the United States, RU 486 has been successfully tested in France, Scandinavia and England by over 50,000 women. Concerned about the effects that the pill could have on its users, American doctors have been very hesitant to distribute it in this country.

But, in 1986, an independent study was conducted at the University of Southern California. Several women showed up to try the pill that they'd heard so much about. The results were, in one woman's words, "I felt fine, I kept waiting for something bad to happen, but nothing did." The only complaint was that of minor cramps.

Supporters of RU 486 say that the pill is necessary in today's single society, with more and more people moving in together pre-marriage. They claim that it is not only less taxing physically than the usual abortion process, but also less stressing mentally as well because it is a faster, gentler process.

Opposers say that the pill would be more of a hindrance than a help by giving already careless people an excuse to continue to make mistakes. Sort of like giving a mistake an instant eraser, they claim. It would be giving them a reason to be as laissez-faire as they please, and, they argue, life is not something to play around with in that way.

Opposers are ardent in their quest to keep the pill unavailable in the here in the United States.

If, in the near future, RU 486 does become available to American women, the outcome could resemble the diet pill rage that has been going on for years now. The popularity of RU 486 will lie in its ability to provide nearly guilt-free sex.

Patrick Swayze stars in "Ghost"

"Ghost" brings back romance

By CRAIG HOWARD

*A review

During a season where Arnold Schwarzenegger, Bruce Willis, Eddie Murphy, Tom Cruise, and Warren Beatty were supposed to rule the movie theaters, the surprise boy of the summer was Patrick Swayze. Along with the help a little help from Demi Moore and Whoopie Goldberg, "Ghost" was the biggest hit of the summer. While no movie this year came close to the boffo box office business of last summer's "Batman", "Ghost" was this year's movie to see.

It is considered a surprise hit because it wasn't heavily advertised, and in a summer where bloodshed was all over the screen, love did conquer all. Movie studios had high hopes that people would pay for action but the big bucks went to back to the basics, romance. In the past, love was considered passe, but it is once again in the forefront thanks to "Ghost."

The movie stars Swayze as an Fleetwood Mac's woes continue. As reported in Rockline last week, Mick Fleetwood has written a kiss-and-tell book about life behind the scenes with Fleetwood Mac. Fleetwood gave many details on personal subjects like who slept with who and who snorted what. At press time, there has been no official reasons given, but key members Christine McVie and Stevie Nicks have left the band indefinitely. It seems Mick's book, "Fleetwood; My Life and Adventures in Fleetwood Mac," has spelled the end of the group.

Bob Geldof's latest album has some old influences. Geldof said that the album, called "The Vegetarians of Love," is a reaction to things he's heard on the radio, but doesn't like. He quotes, "Basically 'house music' and New Kids on the Block." He says he doesn't care if the album doesn't have a commercial feel: "For every three million people who love Bon Jovi, there are a quarter of a million who can't stand it." Geldof's latest LP features mostly acoustic music, with accordion, violin, tin whistle, mandolin, and ukelele thrown in for good measure.

If you're fond of collecting box sets, then you should know that Atlantic Records will release one you're sure to cherish. Look for a career retrospective box set from Led Zeppelin, featuring 54 songs, including two previously unreleased tracks, "Travelin' Riverside Blues" and "White Summer/Black Mountain Side." Robert Plant, Jimmy Page and John Paul Jones were instrumental in the project, taking time out from their busy schedules to select songs and be actively involved in remastering.

When you've been around as long as Robert Plant has, you get your way. Plant has chosen Atlanta based rockers the Black Crowes to replace Allannah Myles as the opening act for the second leg of his "Manic Nervana" U. S. tour. The Crowes had been opening for Heart on their "Brigade" tour, but according to Plant, "I wanted my new favorite band to tour with me."

If you thought Tina Turner was "The Best", think again! The Best is the latest supergroup to form, featuring Joe Walsh, John Entwistle, Jeff "Skunk" Baxter, Simon Phillips, Keith Emerson, and singer Terry Reid. They're currently making recording, and possibly touring plans.

Classic hard rockers Deep Purple are currently putting the finishing touches on an album due out in the fall with Joe Lynn Turner as lead vocalist. Considering Deep Purple's lineup of Richie Blackmore, Roger Glover, and now Turner, the band should be called Rainbow, the band those three were in before Deep Purple reunited in the '80s.

On the concert front, tickets are still available for Billy Idol/Faith No More on Oct. 6 in Atlanta. New rockers Terrell, whose members hail from Albertville (yes, Alabama) and Albany, Georgia, will rock Brothers on October 4, after an interview with 92J. ELO will be in concert, also on 92J, as part of their Westwood One Radio Network "In Concert" series on Friday, Sept. 21 at 8:00 p.m.

"Guys can, but girls can't"

By THERESA MASKEW

Mr. Doug Singleton on his recent appointment to the office of president of the Delta Chi fraternity. We would also like to thank Mr. Rick Scott for his great efforts as former president. We would like to congratulate Mr. Rusty Berger in his appointment to Treasurer. Way to go guys!

We would like to invite everyone to come out to the new house on Parents Day, September 29th, for the official ribbon cutting and dedication ceremony.

Everyone has lied at least once in their life and everyone has cheated, it's human nature. But why is it that a male can get away with a list of sexual experiences, but a female can't?

So many walls have crashed over the years when it comes to women's lib. One wall that remains, however, is the wall between a man and a woman's sexuality. Women can vote, get degrees, work away from home and think for themselves, but when they do find their way "to the top", they are accused of sleeping their way into the position.

Madonna is thought to be trashy when she grabs herself, but men do it all the time in public. Who's to say who's trashy?

It's not only men who judge women's sexuality, but women, also. As one male JSU student put it, "A guy can use a girl, but a girl can't use a guy."

At a party, a guy can look across the room and recognize a one-night stand, share his experience with her with his chums, and the girl becomes an instant tramp. If the girl was to share the experience, she would not be considered a quarterback who scored, but the touch-down itself.

The injustice is of male bonding is intellectually inferior and beneath contempt. It's felt that a lady doesn't talk at all, but gentlemen can talk in mixed company (that's studs and bookworms).

The shame that a girl feels publicly when the fact that she's been with more than one guy gets out can't be explained. It is nobody's business but her own, and the sexual experience should be between the two that were involved. Forget ex-lovers, ex-boyfriends or ex-girlfriends. The fact is that they are no longer a part of your life, whether you choose or they do.

It's nobody's business but your own what you do with your life. Because, what you do stays with you years after you've parted ways with what's her or what's his name. If you choose to have sex, you have to be aware that you may be subject to campus gossip or disease (STDs). Embarrassed by the invasion of your privacy, you must continue.

The double standard of society expresses that it's manly for a guy to get laid, but cheap for a girl to. God sees men and women through the same eyes, so why can't we see each other the same way?

investment broker who dies in what first looks like an accident, but instead of going to heaven, he is stuck on earth unseen by anyone. He soon realizes that his death wasn't an accident and that the killer may be after his girlfriend (Moore). The only other person that hears him is Whoopie Goldberg. With her help he tries to discover the truth surrounding his death and save the love of his life in the process.

"Ghost" earned over $100 million in less than six weeks and recently surpassed "Total Recall" as the biggest hit of the summer. The impact "Ghost" has had on the public and most importantly, in Hollywood, can be seen this fall and winter, when more movies featuring love, couples and romance take over the silver screen. Instead of arms being ripped off or people being stabbed in the eye with icicles, everybody can sit back, relax, and watch hearts and flowers. To quote an old song, "isn't it romantic."

Southern boys return home

By Tonya Morrison
Features Editor

"On the Wings of Dirty Angels" is the name of Terrell's debut album. Terrell, a mixture of down-home southern boys and immense talent, have hit the music scene with an album that terrell, the lead singer of the band and Albertville native, says will, "Get into people's faces."

terrell was going to attend Auburn "to be an architect or a commercial artist," but, while standing in line to register realized that music was the only thing he'd ever be truly happy with. He left the line and moved to Nashville. There, he met Hawk, and the two became instant friends. But, after a foiled attempt to form a band, the two parted ways. Hawk became a commercial deejay and engineer, but terrell hung on to his musical dream and continued to write and sing his own songs.

A change of vocal style brought new confidence for terrell, and he and Hawk reunited in Los Angeles. Hawk says that, "Before, in Nashville, his voice didn't attack you the way it does these days. Now, it's right up there and you have to deal with it." The two decided to try their hand at band-forming once more and yanked Jim Phillips, the lead guitarist of the band, from the band he was playing with at the time.

A short time later, Doug Przybocki, drummer of Terrell, made the move from Las Vegas lounge lizard to Los Angeles rocker and united with terrell, Hawk, and Jim the day after arriving in L.A..

And the last to join the band,

Morad, a native of Greenville, North Carolina, had just gotten fed up with jobs involving "pig parts and tobacco," and decided to go to L.A. and do what he wanted to do, play bass.

With all members there to stay, Terrell scheduled gigs and recorded a demo. The band was an overnight success.

Red Rooster Pub closes this month

By CATHY ABERNATHY
Features Writer

The Red Rooster Pub and Deli will be closing September 29, and is using the opportunity to go out with a blast, complete with an auction early that Saturday morning (around 10 or 11 a.m.). Mike Stephenson and his band, X L R 8, will be playing later after the football game against Valdosta State. This month's calender of events at the Pub is chock-full, and will give everyone a last look at this piece of Jacksonville history. A few lucky people will take some of that history home with them after the auction on Parents Day.
