Questions surround ATO's rooftop fall

Dyana Blythe
News Editor

At this point, most everyone knows about the student who fell off the roof of the Alpha Tau Omega house early Thursday morning, but even with an audience of dozens of people, conflicting stories are aboundong as to what really happened to him.

The ATOs were concluding a week-long string of social events with their Viking Party, an annual event that had been talked about for months ahead of time.

A band was hired for the event and everyone who was there expressed that they had a great time.

Until Johnny Scott, 22, fell off the roof.

According to ATO Vice-President Michael Graben, Scott, a sophomore ATO member, was sitting on the roof with five or six friends drinking. As the band quit playing and people started leaving, Scott stood up to get down from the roof. Because he was drunk, he stumbled, passed out and fell backwards off the roof.

There seems to be no dispute between friends who saw him fall and the driver of the ambulance that Scott had already passed on the way.

Jacksonville Police Chief Tommy Thompson reported that although no official police record was made, the report made by the ambulance driver stated that Scott had a 33 blood alcohol content.

In addition, the official report made by the ambulance driver stated that Scott was jumping off the roof to get into the makeshift swimming pool in the backyard.

"The pool's 150 feet away from where (Scott) was sitting," Graben said. "There's no way he was trying to jump in the pool."

Yet another report made by observers stated that people were jumping off the roof and having the group of people below catch them. But Graben said that although they were doing this Monday night, they were not doing it Wednesday when Scott fell.

The accident, which occurred at approximately 1 am, left Scott with only minor injuries. "His injuries were only slight because he was so inoxicacted," Thompson said. "His body was relaxed as it hit the ground."

Scott spent the night in Jacksonville Hospital and was released Thursday with stitches in the back of his head.

There were rumors that Scott had gone into a coma, but according to many of the ATO members, this was completely unfounded.

Pell Grants slashed again, will hurt millions

Deborah Kane Mitchell
College Press Service

Changes in the federal Pell Grant program may cost more than one million students their grants.

"Many of these students will have to borrow more money or drop out of school," said Lauren Ross, a research associate with the American Council on Education.

Some of the nation's neediest students, already hurt by a Pell Grant cut earlier this year, now face further reductions as a result of revisions to federal student financial aid programs.

About 26 percent, or 1.2 million students, who receive Pell Grant awards will lose them entirely or have the grants cut by more than $100, according to Ross.

"It's a disaster," Ross said. "Students who used to get the Pell Grants are finding the grants reduced drastically or cut out entirely — and these are the students you want to get the grants. These are the poorest of the poor."

The Pell Grant program was designed to help financially needy students meet the costs of their education by providing them with direct financial assistance.

The students most at risk of losing grants or having them reduced fall into two categories: students who are single and independent (they don't rely on their parents or other family members for income), and students who depend on their families' income and work part time.

Nationwide, the effect of the new law is expected to be dramatic. Of the approximately 4.5 million college students who are expected to receive Pell Grants in the 1993-94 academic year, about 25 percent will be classified as single independents and about 13 percent will be classified as dependent students who work.

"It's very troubling," said Dallas Martin, president of the National Association of Financial Aid Administrators. "Although their circumstances haven't changed at all, many of these students will find themselves with no grants next year."

About every five years, the Higher Education Act of 1965 is reviewed and amendments are made to it. In 1992, the amendments targeted, among other things, the definition of dependency and the old needs-analysis system.

"The new needs-analysis formula is the crux of this problem," said Ross.

The education group cited as an example of the problem the case of a 27-year-old community college student who used to receive Pell Grants in order to help his family but found that he would be reclassified as a dependent, and his grants would be cut.

"The new needs-analysis formula is unfounded," said Ross.

The law also changed the needs-analysis system. In the past, two different needs-analysis formulas were used to figure out how much money students needed for education. One formula was used to calculate Pell Grant awards and the other to calculate all other forms of federal financial aid. Under the new law, there is only one needs-analysis formula.

"The new needs-analysis formula is the crux of this problem," said Ross.

The education group cited as an example of the problem the case of a 27-year-old community college student who used to receive Pell Grants in order to help his family but found that he would be reclassified as a dependent, and his grants would be cut.

"The new needs-analysis formula is unfounded," said Ross.

The education group cited as an example of the problem the case of a 27-year-old community college student who used to receive Pell Grants in order to help his family but found that he would be reclassified as a dependent, and his grants would be cut.

"The new needs-analysis formula is unfounded," said Ross.
Baptist college prohibits nude models in art class

"As a sculptor, I thought it was a good step to have the class because it is important to have knowledge of the anatomy when sculpting any living creature."

--Doug Crow, Sculptor

The proposed class were unclear; however, the art department chairman told the newspaper that the practice would mask any "(involuntary stimulation)" that would embarrass both the models and students.

"I think it is not an uncommon practice at other schools," said Ranton, the Lariat editor, who was unsure why Baylor officials would require different standards for male and female models.

Student and faculty reactions ranged from disappointment to support for the regents' decision.

Doug Crow, sculptor-in-residence and German professor, told the Lariat, "As a sculptor, I thought it was a good step to have the class because it is important to have knowledge of the anatomy when sculpting any living creature."

Alex Lofaso, a freshman art major, said he expected the class to be offered when he enrolled at Baylor.

The class would have been offered only to students who wanted to learn how to draw the body correctly, Lofaso said.

"Baylor is here to educate people and not to please the people with the pocketbooks," Lofaso said.

However, not all students were opposed to banning the class.

"Ignoring opposition to the art class voiced by Texas Baptist individuals, churches and associations would demonstrate a flagrant disregard for Baylor's Baptist roots," Amanda Sanders wrote in a newspaper column.

The American Council on Education objected to changes in the needs-analysis formula when Congress was debating the amendments last year.

"We knew about the changes in the formula," Ross said. "But we thought Congress had agreed on a methodology and the problem had been solved. Then Congress went into committee and cooked up this new needs-analysis formula. It's the worst of both worlds."

The council still hopes to change the system. Ross said council officials recently presented their own technical amendments package to Congress. The package adds a bonus in the Pell Grant awards for students falling into two hard-hit categories, which brings up the offset to $5,500.

"You might call it a compromise," said Ross. "We'd like it to be $6,600 but we know we're not going to get that. This is the political reality now and we're going to try and sell it and see if we can get it through."

Pell Grant

from pg. 1

...student in Southern California, referred to only as "Douglas," when it presented its arguments to Congress recently. Douglas represents single independent students whose Pell Grant awards will be cut under the new policy, the council said.

Douglas makes less than $9,000 a year. Under the old system, when administrators calculated the amount of money he could contribute to his education, they gave him credit for federal and state taxes, plus an "income protection allowance" of $6,600. The first $6,600 of Douglas' earnings could not be touched or added into the equation. Douglas' Pell Grant award under the old system was $1,611 per year.

But under the new system, Douglas only gets an offset of $3,000. His Pell Grant award will now be only $400 for the 1993-94 academic year. "Douglas and other students like him -- the poor, the minorities -- they've gotten shafted by our society all along and now they're getting shafted again," Ross said.

The campuses and colleges, he said, often get too much credit for their efforts. The real work is done by little students like Douglas, he said. "The universities are the big winners. They get the credit and the headlines. But we've got to start helping the people in the middle."

The Chanticleer

"In the First Amendment...our founding fathers affirmed their belief that competing ideas are fundamental to freedom."

--Ronald Reagan

The Chanticleer, the student newspaper of Jacksonville State University, is produced by students. The editor has the final decision on editorial content. Funding is provided through University appropriations and subscriptions. Offices are in 112 Bell Hall. Editorials are the opinions of the editorial board unless otherwise noted.

The editor reserves the right to edit for content and news.

Send all submissions to Jason Thompson, The Chanticleer, Box 3066, JSU, Jacksonville, AL 36265. Deadline for all submissions is noon Friday.
INDEPENDENT STUDY
the alternative

When students simply cannot get to a class they need for graduation, independent study is the alternative.
For complete information, write:

College Catalog
Independent Study Division
College of Continuing Studies
The University of Alabama
Box 870388
Tuscaloosa, AL 35487-0388

Or call toll-free in Alabama
1-800-452-5971

$200 - $500 WEEKLY
FREE Information - 24 Hour Hotline. 801-379-2900
COPYRIGHT #AL022650

CHEAP!
FBI/U.S. SEIZED
89 MERCEDES..................$200
86 VW..............................$50
87 MERCEDES....................$100
68 MUSTANG.....................$50
Choose from thousands starting $50 FREE Information - 24 Hour Hotline. 801-379-2920
COPYRIGHT #AL022610

CRUISE SHIP EMPLOYMENT

INTERNATIONAL EMPLOYMENT
Make money teaching basic conversational English abroad. Japan and Taiwan. Make $2,000 - $4,000 per month. Many provide room & board + other benefits! No previous training or teaching certificate required. For International Employment program, call the International Employment Group: (206) 632-1148 ext. 55482

CRUISE SHIPS NOW HIRING
Earn $2,000/month+world travel (Hawaii, Mexico, the Caribbean, etc.) Holiday, Summer and Career employment available. No experience necessary. For employment program call 1-206-634-0468 ext. C5482

Here's the next best thing:
No money down, deferred first payment and $400 cash back from Ford Motor Company

Let's face it, not many students can count on a new car for a graduation present. But you can count on the Ford and Mercury College Graduate Purchase Program for some help. With it, there's no down payment on eligible new Ford and Mercury vehicles if you qualify and finance through Ford Credit. You may even get the benefit of a deferred 1st payment (in states where allowed). You'll also get a $400 cash incentive regardless of whether you buy or lease. You can opt to use it toward your purchase or lease, or just keep the cash. You may qualify for the program if you earn a bachelor or advanced degree between January 1, 1993 and December 31, 1993, or are a graduate student enrolled during the same period.

Simply visit your local Ford or Mercury dealership or call 1-800-321-1536 for more information.
Parting questions

Finals are once again here, and by next week, JSU will say goodbye to another crop of students. In August, another group will graduate. And by the end of that month, there will be yet another entering class to continue the cycle.

College is probably the most unsettling experience in our lives. It's bad and it's good, it's happy and it's sad; it's easy and it's difficult. And it's all of these at the same time.

The four or five years of college require the student to carry a heavier burden of responsibility and personal decision-making.

Students formulate new opinions and ideas and learn much more than a textbook could ever teach.

The reason we are all here is to grab that golden degree, but for most students, perceptions of college and life afterwards change greatly in the course of our pursuit.

All in all, JSU is a conservative campus. There are really no protests, no demonstrations and very few turmoil. The student body is flawlessly apathetic in securing its interests and rarely complains except under its breath.

Many faculty members are happy. Many are not. With a very few exceptions, none will really speak out. To those who will not: Is it not disheartening to know that while some of your students may perceive you as knowledgable, they also perceive you as stifled and intimidated to speak your mind?

Students can perceive that. Is that the image that should be portrayed in an atmosphere where learning and shaping minds is the primary goal?

To the University administration: When was the last time you took time to step in the classroom and listen to the faculty and the students speak their minds?

Oversated or not, there are students who will graduate from this university without ever seeing their president walk across campus or attend a student function.

As the time arrives to walk across the stage, students may sit down and evaluate their college career. What they should have done, but didn't. What they shouldn't have done but did.

The education and treatment received at JSU is something the students have no control over. How will the next group in the cycle perceive their college career once it's over?

A few final comments

After you've been writing a weekly column for eight months on anything from carnivals to politics to strabanity to AIDS, it's hard to decide what to do for the final one.

It's something I put off until the last possible moment because I wanted this final column to be a good one.

The glorious inspiration never came.

So instead, I decided to mention a variety of things which are not really related and may be a little personal, but are relevant nonetheless.

I've learned that before you can read a newspaper, you should understand a newspaper. By the time a person is in college, that person should have learned the difference in an opinion and fact. There are many students and teachers here who do not understand the difference.

In an atmosphere that is supposed to promote free-thinking, there are a surprising number of students who cringe when their ideas are challenged.

There is nothing more close-minded than calling someone else close-minded because you do not agree with him. It's an easy way out.

This is college. There are many different people here. Not everyone thinks alike. If everyone was mature enough to understand that basic concept, things would run much more smoothly.

Dear Editor:

I am writing in defense of traditional martial artists who use weapons in their training.

In a recent article, it was stated that "you're probably not going to have nunchucks or a sword" if you are jumped in a parking lot; however, you're always going to have your hands and feet to defend yourself." I agree that a person is probably not going to have the traditional weapons of a true martial artist available if he or she is jumped in a parking lot.

But also, there is no place for traditional martial art weapons outside of the training area. If a person in today's world was carrying a weapon for self defense, do you not think that person would be carrying a 9mm pistol or an Uzi?

My point is this: Traditional martial art weapons are used in training to increase hand strength, dexterity, speed, hand-eye coordination, flexibility, upper body endurance and sheer punching power to name a few of their many positive affects on the trainee.

The statement made in the article personal, thank you Dr. Eoff, Dr. Carmode, Mr. Chandler and Mr. Langston for always being there to help and for doing a wonderful job. You mean more to so a lot of students than you know.

And thank you Cathy Rose for keeping everything in order, and I mean everything. You do more than the title of secretary implies, and you do it well. For all those times you've helped me, and the paper, in the past four years, you have my thanks. And my admiration.

And finally, to this year's staff, a hearty thank you. Many students may not have agreed with everything they read, but this staff always managed to get a paper done, whether there was snow on the ground or whether the computer broke down.

In the process, we had a lot of fun and even learned a few things.

Mike Seedham did an outstanding job as an adjutant adviser and dinner companion.

There are quite a few seniors on staff, so next year's paper will shape up a little differently. To Jamie, Dyana, Jay, Shannon, Leo and Squatch (Tim), I say thank you for making my job a little bit easier.

To Melanie and Cole, I say good luck in the coming year. I can't think of two people more qualified or capable to run this paper next year. I know you two will do a fine job, and I can't wait to see the first issue.

Thanks for a great year.

In defense of martial artists

"Self-defense. Local classes teach preparedness" on Thursday, April 15, 1993, was totally asinine. The fact is, true martial artists would be better prepared if they trained with weapons rather than without when the time came for unarmed self-defense.

Please correct yourself when you speak about the true traditional martial artist. True martial artists deserve more respect.

Sincerely,

Walter Ingram

Student, JSU
How do you think the Waco situation was handled?

"...(Koresh) had been there too long. It was time for something to be done."

"I think (David Koresh) deserved it. I think the children that were trapped in there were more important. I think the (FBI) was in the right in trying to go in there and get him out."

--Jennifer Jacobs
sophomore

"I would rather not form an opinion until I find out the rest of the story and some investigations have been done and find out exactly what happened and whether there were actually bunkers and tunnels underneath."

--Angel McGowan
junior

"I think it was handled in the best way possible. The people kind of did it to themselves. It was their own fault."

--Jeannie Collins
sophomore

"I feel that what they did was right by going in because (Koresh) had been there too long. It was time for something to be done."

--Shane Smith
fresman

"Well I think that (the FBI) handled it great. My only thought is that they waited too long to do what they did. But they should not be blamed for what happened. What we did was the best thing that could have been done."

--Todd Edwards
freshman

"I feel that (Koresh) was supporting something against what our country believes in. It was taking our money and our time to control what was going on. The way our government handled it was the only way."

--Tammy Russell
senior

--Compiled by Jay Ennis
Summer movies focus on popular novels

If you’ve been pushing away the big bestsellers over the past few years saying, “I’m waiting for the movie,” then this is the summer for you.

The big summer blockbuster line-up comes right from the New York Times bestseller list. Three of the past three year’s biggest novels are coming to the screen, featuring big names and big budgets.

Stephen King, Michael Crichton and the red-hot John Grisham will see their novels “Needful Things,” “Jurassic Park” and “The Firm” hit the big screen to set the tone for the summer movie season. Each sold more than one million copies while on the shelf. King has had quite a checkered past on the big screen. For every critically acclaimed adaptation like “The Dead Zone,” “Stand by Me” and “Misery,” there was a dismal failure like “Children of the Corn” or “The Lawnmower Man.” If Bill Clinton were a movie critic, he might say, “Steve, it’s time for a change.” Well, King gets an early start this weekend with George (“Night of the Living Dead” and “Creepshow”) Romero’s adaptation of his 1989 novel “The Dark Half.” With Timothy Hutton leading the fantastic cast (Amy Madigan plays his wife), it looks promising, but King’s foray into the summer line-up feels more like a hit.

“Needful Things,” the adaptation of King’s 1991 novel directed by Fraser Heston (Charlton’s son), hits the screen this summer. The cast is led by Max von Sydow (the old priest from “The Exorcist”), who will portray Leland Gaunt, an evil shop owner bent on destroying the sleepy town of Castle Rock. Stephen King adaptation “Salem’s Lot” in 1979. Ed Harris of “The Abyss” joins him as the sheriff, Alan Pangborn. The supporting cast is Bonnie (“Die Hard” and “Presumed Innocent”) Bedelia, who stars in her first thriller since her role in the Stephen King adaptation “Salem’s Lot” in 1979. Ed Harris of “The Abyss” joins him as the sheriff, Alan Pangborn.

Surpassing the hype and budget of “Needful Things” is Steven Spielberg’s adaptation of Michael Crichton’s “Jurassic Park.” Spielberg won’t hook his audience with the big stars this time (gone are Julia, Robin and Dustin). Instead, he hopes hype will pull them in.

The plan seems to be working. The dinosaurs-roaming-the-earth-in-modern-times epic looks poised to crush the box-office competition. Sam Neill stars in the film, which opens in June.

The big news on the bestseller lists these days is John Grisham. While his new novel “The Client” sits firmly atop the hardback list, he also holds #1, #2 and #3 currently on the paperback list with “The Pelican Brief,” “A Time to Kill” and “The Firm.” Though all Grisham’s novels are optioned for film adaptations, it’s “The Firm” that gets the silver screen treatment first. Director Sidney (“Tootsie”) Pollack takes the helm of the year’s most star-studded cast, led by Tom Cruise as Mitchell McDeere, the lawyer who finds himself wrapped up in a manipulative law firm. Jeanne Tripplehome of “Basic Instinct” co-stars as his wife.

The supporting cast of “The Firm” is the big news. Gene Hackman (recent Oscar winner for “Unforgiven”) leads off the list. Gary Busey, Holly Hunter, Ed Harris and Wilford Brimley (yeah, you read that right) round out the jaw-dropping line-up.

Adaptations aren’t the only blockbusters expected for the summer. The biggest hit of the summer may be Ah-nuld’s “The Last Action Hero,” which may give these adaptations a run for their box-office money.
"You teach the students who want to learn"

History teacher calls it quits after almost 30 years

Melanie Jones
Managing Editor

Thursday, April 22, 2003

When 17-year-old Ralph Brannen dropped out of high school, there was little indication of the man he would become.

When Dr. Ralph Brannen walks into a classroom today, there is little evidence of the undisciplined youth he says he once was.

Brannen, a JSU history professor, has an unusual history of his own. Many people find it strange that a college professor would admit to disliking education in his younger years. "I just really didn't care for (high school). I didn't have any discipline," he says. That is why he dropped out of high school to join the military.

It was in the military that Brannen found what he needed to be a success - discipline. "If it hadn't been for the Army, I would have never gone to college. There's no doubt about it," he said. "After a while you realize just how ignorant you really are when you are surrounded by educated people."

Brannen passed the General Education Development (GED) test while still in the military and enrolled in college after completing nearly four years in the service. But he still felt a desire to graduate from high school. He took college courses during the day and high school classes at night in order to receive a high school diploma.

"It had to have been a great shock to the people who taught me in high school to discover I was going to college," he says. "When I saw people I knew in high school, they'd ask me what I was doing. I'd tell them I was at Jacksonville, and they'd say, "Oh, are you working in maintenance there?"

Brannen received his bachelor's degree from Jacksonville State Teacher's College and later to attain a master's degree and doctorate from Auburn University. In 1965 he came home to teach at the college where he received his first degree. Now, after 28 years at JSU, he is preparing to retire.

When his years at JSU, Brannen's early experience has influenced his attitude toward students, allowing him to build a better relationship with his students.

"Students feel better about staying in school if there is a teacher you can relate to," he says.

Although he tries to relate to his students, that doesn't mean Brannen is easy on his students. "I don't believe everyone is entitled to a college degree unless they earn it," he says.

He says he sees students coming into his classes who have the same attitudes as he did when he dropped out of high school, and he doesn't feel they belong in college until they develop more discipline. He believes the level of mental discipline has dropped among college students during his 28 years of teaching. "You're supposed to insist that the students..."
Brannen

From page 7

come up to meet the standards ... but we've lowered the standards to meet the students.”

Brannen says he can see his students who apply themselves getting frustrated with being held back by the students who don’t really care. “I feel for the good students because I feel they deserve better than what they're getting,” he says. "My philosophy has always been, 'You teach the students who want to learn. You can't cram education down a person’s throat.’”

Brannen’s high school teachers may have felt as frustrated with him as he feels with today’s students, and he says they had a right to. He says he hadn’t matured enough to appreciate education and that many students could benefit from leaving school for a while to do something to gain maturity and discipline and then come back to college.

Many people would argue with Brannen, saying that everyone should have a college education. They say education is a right, not a privilege. But Brannen is adamant in his ideas. He says the system will not save many people by forcing education on them and in the long run it is the good students who suffer.

His years as a reformed student and as an educator has taught Brannen one very important fact about education. “You don’t earn a college degree unless you have two things. First of all, you’ve got to have the ability, and secondly, you’ve got to want it.”

In the ECONO LODGE in Atalla

Featuring the Best Comedians in the Nation such as

James Gregory - Carrot Top

Call for reservations (205) 538-LAFF •Showtimes: Thursdays, Fridays & Saturdays 8 & 10 •Stay for dancing after the show! •Group rates available

• Full Dinner Menu Available

• JSU Organizations! Call for fundraising information •
Ha-Ha-Ha! Laughs o'plenty
Comedy club opens its doors as first in area

Jamey Graydon
Features writer

Eight weeks have passed and the laughs just keep coming. For those of you who are missing out on the fun and are spending way too much time and money on the road for laughter in other cities, the comedy is right in our back yard.

Attalla, AL is home to this area's first and only comedy club, The Comedy Zone.

Dubbed as a way to "Spend The Funniest Night of your Life," the Comedy Zone offers a mix of the hottest comedians on today's circuit.

"I never get tired of watching a top name act," says the club's owner, Charles Ogle. Ogle believes there are many reasons why a comedy club was needed in this area, but none is more prevalent than the element of wanting to laugh. "Being from Anniston, I thought it would be a good location for the market and the surrounding areas. I travel a lot over the Southeast and realized that the bar scenes just weren't enough.

"What does this establishment mean for the students and for those who wish to laugh? Simple. Top names acts for a very reasonable price. "Almost everyone we have for gigs has great credits to their name like HBO, the "Arsenio Hall Show" and other highly coveted television kingdoms," explains Ogle.

Regular entertainers that frequent the club include such wildly-known names as James Gregory and Carrottop. These acts are signed by Creative Entertainment, a national booking agency.

Unfortunately, those under the age of 21 will have to wait a few more months before they can sit in for the big laughs because of alcohol restrictions.

However, Ogle will be receiving a restaurant license in the near future which will allow those under the drinking age to participate. Currently, The Comedy Zone offers a full dinner menu for those patrons wishing to chow down on everything from burgers to steak.

"We have a real mixed crowd here. Every type person from suits to blue jeans comes here with one goal in mind. To laugh."

The Comedy Zone is located at 507 Cherry Street at the Econo Lodge Motel in Attalla, just outside of Gadsden. Shows run every Thursday night with two shows on Friday and Saturday evenings.

Reservations for the shows are recommended, but not required. For more information or questions, contact Mr. Ogle at (205) 538-LAFF.

WHAT'S THE BIG IDEA ABOUT BONUS BUCKS?

BOOK BUYBACK:
INSTANT CASH AND $1 BONUS CREDIT FOR $10 IN TEXTBOOKS SOLD.

DOMINO'S PIZZA

Now With Thicker Crust & 50% MORE Cheese

WE NOW HAVE DELICIOUS BREADSTICKS!

LATE NIGHT
One medium two item pizza with two cokes or breadsticks

$7.00

Tax included

WE WILL NOW DELIVER

8 till close on late night specials

Good through Spring Semester 1993

LUNCH SPECIAL
One Medium one topping pizza

$5.00

Tax included

Not valid with any other offer. Delivery areas limited to ensure safe driving. Our drivers carry less than $20.00. Our drivers are not penalized for late deliveries. Prices rounded to the nearest nickel.

Domino's Pizza will hide keychains somewhere on the JSU campus and "Public Property in Jacksonville" each week, a clue to find it will be given in The Chanticleer.

If one week the keychain is not found, a different clue will appear in the next edition of The Chanticleer, along with a new clue for a different chain. Six keychains will be given away in all.

Once the keychain is found, bring it into Domino's Pizza for a large pizza with your choice of toppings and a six-pack of cokes. That exchange will entitle you to a shot at the grand prize.

Jacksonville State University Bookstore

Montgomery Student Commons

THE FIRST STOP TO INTELLIGENT LIFE IN THE UNIVERSE!
Unlike textbooks, cash never goes out of print. Used Book Buyback: INSTANT CASH for your used books.

THE FIRST STOP TO INTELLIGENT LIFE IN THE UNIVERSE!
Fleetwood Lack:
Nicks finally leaves the band

Jamie Cole
Features Editor

In 1987, Lindsey Buckingham said “no” to Fleetwood Mac. It sent shock waves through the music world and sent Mac members Christine McVie, John McVie, Mick Fleetwood and Stevie Nicks searching for someone to replace him. The search delayed a massive world tour and sent Buckingham into a disappointing solo career. It took two people to replace him...Billy Burnette and Rick Vito.

Now, for the second time in five years, Mac will be searching again. But not just for a guitarist. Two members have announced that they will be leaving the band. Billy Burnette, five-year member since the band’s 1987 “Tango in the Night” tour, is leaving to pursue a career in country music. “I enjoyed my time with the Mac, and those guys will always be great friends,” says Burnette. “But now is the time to get back to what my life was about before Fleetwood Mac, and that is country music.”

Nominated by the Academy of Country Music in 1986 as Top New Male Vocalist, Burnette has enjoyed success outside of Fleetwood Mac with his new country album “Coming Home.” “Tangled Up in Texas” is the hit single from the album, and the new single “I Still Remember (How To Miss You)” is rising on the country charts.

“My heart and soul have always been with country music and its fans,” says Burnette.

The search is on for a new guitarist. Mac publicist Bob Merlis says the band is holding off on the guitarist for now. “They need to (find a new guitarist), and they will do that, but they don’t have an announcement to that effect yet,” he says.

Rick Vito has made no comment as to whether or not he will stay with the band.

But one search is over. The big event has finally occurred. Stevie Nicks has formally announced that after 18 years with the band, she will leave for good, and the band has a replacement.

Nicks, the vocalist/songwriter that has been Mac’s most dynamic soloist for the duration, provided the band with its only number one single ever, “Dreams,” and its most requested concert number, the mystical “Rhiannon.” Nicks was unavailable for comment, and Merlis says she has given no reason for her departure.

Nicks told USA Today in September of 1991 that she “would never record with (drummer) Mick Fleetwood again.” The trouble was brewing, according to Fleetwood, over the ill-fated single “Silver Springs,” a Nicks song that was nixed for the band’s smash LP “Rumours.” When she wanted to include the single on her “Best of” package, Fleetwood and the rest of the band refused. “I even offered to play on it if she wanted to re-record it, but she didn’t want to do that,” says Fleetwood. “She got upset...and went to press on it, and I got blamed.” The song now appears on the band’s boxed set “25 Years: The Chain.”

Nicks did, however, perform with Fleetwood and the band at the Clinton inauguration. There was even talk of a reunion tour, as Buckingham and Nicks performed together on the Mac single “Paper Doll,” released in November of last year.

Nicks has said that she will continue her solo career. The new vocalist, Becka Bramlett, will join the band for the next album. Bramlett is the daughter of rock artists Delany and Bonnie Bramlett, popular in the late ‘60s and early ‘70s.

Merlis says the new lineup, Fleetwood Mac’s 12th incarnation, with Bramlett and original members McVie, Fleetwood and McVie, will begin a new album sometime “within the next year.”

---

Nu-times
MAKES GOOD CENTS

Combos $2.49
1. Large Deluxe, Large Fry, & 32 oz. Drink
2. Double Cheesburger, Large Fry, & 32 oz. Drink
3. Nu Chili Dog, Large Fry, & 32 oz. Drink

Call In Orders Welcome 435-6555
Jacksonville, Alabama

But A 'G' Thang
1. Burger
2. Hot Dog
3. Cheeseburger
4. Bacon Biscuits
5. Sausage Biscuits

For A BUCK
Biscuits made from scratch!

$1.49
(Need we say more.)

6th Cold Cut Combo

SUBWAY®
The Place Where Fresh is the Taste™

College Center • Jacksonville
435-4367

---

CHARTS

For the week ending April 18

CDs
1. The Bodyguard Soundtrack
2. Breathless Kenny G
3. Pocket Full of Kryptonite Spin Doctors
4. Unplugged Eric Clapton
5. 12 Inches of Snow Snow

Source: Billboard

Pop Singles
1. Informer Snow
2. Freak Me Silk
3. Nuthin’ But A ‘G’ Thang Dr. Dre
4. I Have Nothing Whitney Houston
5. Don’t Walk Away Jade

Source: Billboard

Movies (in millions)
1. Indecent Proposal ($14.7)
2. The Sandlot ($4.9)
3. Bolling Point ($4.0)
4. Cop & A Half ($3.3)
5. Benny & Joon ($3.2)

Source: Exhibitor Relations

Televisions

For the week April 1-8
1. NCAA Championship
2. Home Improvement
3. Roseanne
4. Coach
5. 20/20
6. Seinfeld
7. 60 Minutes
8. Prelude to a Championship
9. Movie: Steel Magnolias
10. Cheers

Source: A.C. Nielsen Co.
Once upon a time, there lived an adorable little white mouse named Squeaky. One day he was scurrying about happily. His tiny pink nose wiggled as he sniffed the air in search of food. When suddenly, he happened upon a tasty morsel of cheese.

Squeaky's favorite! The treat was attached to a large and deadly mouse trap. Oh oh! Squeaky eagerly snatched the cheese and... Oh happy day! The trap didn't go off! Squeaky got away!

Unfortunately the cheese was tainted with a generous portion of rat-poison which caused Squeaky to hemorrhage internally and die a slow, painful, bloated death.

The End.
Suddenly, the whole world blows up.

Dizzy Gillespie’s seventh birthday party

That night, Captain McIntyre was killed by a following sea.

Again the doorbell chimed. With his wife out of town, and not expecting any visitors, Mohammed began to grow uneasy.

Testifying before a Senate subcommittee, the Hardy boys crack the Iran-contra scandal.

The writers for “Bewitched” sit down to their weekly brainstorming session.

“Now now now … You won’t be a lonely road forever, you know.”

“Abdul, my old friend! Come in, come in! Have you traveled far?!”
JSU pitches its way to weekend wins

Tim Hathcock
Special to The Chanticleer

CARROLTON, Ga. — The Gamecocks came into town ready to play a doubleheader here Saturday, but perhaps no one was any more ready than JSU pitcher Joe Burns who shut out the West Georgia Braves 14-0.

He was right and JSU obliged him with that run in the second inning when Howell once again delivered with two outs, this time an RBI double.

The Gamecocks plated three unearned runs in the third inning. JSU now seems to have regained their footing after a week of struggles.

Despite the two wins, JSU didn’t pick up any ground on the league leaders.

North Alabama swept a doubleheader from Mississippi College and Valdosta State took a pair from Delta State.

That means the Gamecocks are still two games behind the Lions and one game behind Valdosta State in the GSC race. The winner hosts the conference tournament.

JSU’s season ends Wednesday against Faulkner. Next weekend, the Gamecocks host GSC-member Delta State. JSU is trying to make the conference tournament, which begins April 30.

Lady Gamecocks take GSC championship trophy for second consecutive year

From staff reports FLORENCE — Jacksonville State’s women’s tennis team got a measure of revenge for its only Gulf South Conference defeat of the year, beating Valdosta State 5-2 here Saturday. And it couldn’t have come at a better time.

The win gives the Lady Gamecocks the championship trophy in the GSC. That’s nothing new for JSU under head coach Steve Bailey.

This is the second straight championship for JSU Bailey’s teams have won the GSC tournament for the last six years and seven of the last nine. The only times JSU didn’t win it the last nine years, it finished second.

Despite the total domination of the GSC and the tournament win, Bailey wasn’t named GSC coach of the year. That honor went to Valdosta State’s John Hansen.

In addition to the championship trophy, the Lady Gamecocks also garnered several individual honors:

\- Ashley White was named GSC freshman of the year and Tracey Wilder was the conference’s freshman of the year. Wilder and Root joined on the all-GSC team by Zavala.

\- Root is the team’s only senior.

\- Root, Caroline Dunn, Lori Helm and Tina Shamblin won in singles against Valdosta State. The No. 3 doubles team of Helm/Shamblin finished off the Lady Blazers with a 6-2, 6-1 win. Valdosta State beat JSU 5-4 earlier this season.

JSU now awaits word on the national tournament, the eight bids of which will be issued May 3. The Lady Gamecocks (16-8, 9-1 in the GSC) are ranked No. 3 in the south region and No. 11 nationally.
Quarter Pounder with Cheese®
$1.29
Plus Tax

REAL VALUE!
BREAKFAST FAVORITES

99¢
PUSH TAX

*When You Purchase Any Size Drink
- Egg McMuffin®
- Bacon, Egg, Cheese Biscuit
- Sausage McMuffin® with Egg
- Sausage Biscuit with Egg
These great values available only at McDonald's®!

Thank you for your patronage, have a great summer!

McDonald's of Jacksonville & Piedmont

LAST CHANCE Thursday - Karaoke Specials & Giveaways!
- Friday, April 23rd - BE ON TV!
  Doug Fernandez Night
  Stupid Hat Contest and Prizes
- Saturday April 24th - Jim Parks
- Monday, April 26th - Quarter Stuff
- Tuesday, April 27th - Dart Tournament
  Tea for Two
- Wednesday, April 28th - Poets & Songwriters Forum
  Look Forward to Disco 70s
  Party on Friday April 30th

435-FOLK Jacksonville's Only

92J
We Love Jax State
Your All Variety Station 91.9 FM:
- Calvin's Playhouse Thursdays 7 - 10 p.m.
- Mindgarden Sundays 7 - 10 p.m.
- The Other Side Fridays 10 p.m. - 2 a.m.
- Christian Celebration Sundays 10 a.m. - 12 noon
- Jazz Tracks, Classic Rock, and much more!

Request Line: 782-5592
We’re Rolling Out
The Green Carpet.

Turn your old textbooks into Instant Cash!

Make up to 50% of the new list price on reordered titles—and receive national market value prices on others.

Why let your old textbooks gather dust - when they can gather MONEY. Do it today - the Green Carpet is rolling out just for you!

JACKSONVILLE
STATE UNIVERSITY
BOOKSTORE
Montgomery Student Commons

THE FIRST STOP TO INTELLIGENT LIFE IN THE UNIVERSE!