Spring Break trouble for Gamecocks

No vacancy

Jacksonville State University's Athletic Director Tom Seitz.

By Erik Green
Sports Editor

The search has come to an end. Jacksonville State University's President Bill Meehan announced last Friday his choice for JSU's third fulltime athletic director. Former Jacksonville University (Jacksonville, Fla.) Athletic Director Tom Seitz was chosen to fill the JSU AD position left vacant after Joe Davidson resigned in January.

"What I'm trying to do now is meet with all the head coaches and staff," Seitz said in an interview on Tuesday. "We're trying to have a period of assessment or evaluation to find out exactly where we stand."

His first step after accepting the position was to begin determining the needs and priorities of the athletic department as a whole, Seitz said.

"(We have) to develop a vision and a game plan for the program based on what our needs are, then we can move forward," Seitz said. "It's important to have everyone on the same page."

Seitz accepted the position at JSU after eight years at JU.

During his tenure at JU, Seitz played a part in improving athletic facilities and he doubled the number of athletic staff members and number of athletes participating in sports. Under his leadership, JU added seven new sports, including football. More teams participated in NCAA championships than any time in school history. He organized and formed the JU Athletic Foundation, which tripled athletic contributions to the university.

"Tom is the best AD we have ever had in the history of JU athletics," said JU trustee Tom Donahoo in a press release issued after Seitz's resignation. "More has been accomplished under his tenure than any other time."

"I had been at Jacksonville University for eight years and I was looking for a new challenge and opportunity," Seitz said. "I realized that although there are challenges here, that also creates an opportunity. I have always been in situations where we looked to build a direction or a program that can excel at a higher level. I think that opportunity

North Carolina's safety reputation model for other colleges

By Daryl Lang and Erin R. Wengert
Knight-Ridder Tribune

A 1996 fraternity fire that killed five University of North Carolina students on graduation day also left a legacy of change in safety measures for student housing. New fire-prevention policies — including mandated sprinkler systems in fraternity houses — have given North Carolina a safety reputation that has become a model for other college campuses.

Pennsylvania's legislators and fire officials are investigating ways to lessen the financial impact of installing sprinkler systems in student residences, an issue brought to the forefront by recent fatal fires at New Jersey's Seton Hall University and at Bloomsburg University.

"Sprinklers are expensive, but what's the cost of a life?" asked David Felice, chief fire inspector for the Centre Region Code Administration.

Rep. Michael McGeehan, D-Philadelphia, said last week that he plans to propose legislation to put sprinklers in university residence halls. An early draft of the bill calls for a $75 million loan program to help universities install sprinkler systems in all dorms within five years.

"We're cognizant of the fact that it will cost an enormous amount of money," McGeehan said, adding that the bill could grow in scope — perhaps to include off-campus housing like fraternities—as he gathers more information.

McGeehan plans to be at Penn State on April 3 for a presentation on fire safety sponsored by the Masons of Pennsylvania, Acacia Fraternity and the Interfraternity Council.

Locally, state Rep. Lynn Herman, R-Philipsburg, contacted McGeehan to express interest in co-signing the fire safety bill. Herman said he plans to meet with Centre Region fire officials this week to discuss steps to make student housing safer.

Though the Centre Region Code Administration encourages fraternities to install sprinkler systems, only nine of Penn State's 52 fraternity houses have them. "The chances of life loss in a structure that has sprinklers is significantly lower," said exists here...I think we can have something special here."

The mission of the university, Seitz said, is to remember past accomplishments, but to move on to the future.

"We're proud of the past history here," Seitz said. "Now we really need to focus on the future and bring this program to a Division I level and be successful at that level."

Possibilities are limitless for JSU, according to Seitz, and his goal is to remain optimistic about the future of Gamecock athletics.

"The glass can be either half empty or half full," Seitz said. "I look at it from being half full and we're going to try and make it full."

One of his biggest goals, Seitz said, is to get students involved in athletic events.

"Support the program and come to the games," Seitz said. "That's the biggest thing. We will make sure students are aware of the activities on campus and try to get it where coming to the games is the thing to do."

"I think the thing we have going for us is we're a Division I program, we're a state school, but we're not so big where you're going to become a number in a classroom," Seitz said. "You're going to get the individualized attention here and still be able to compete at the top level."

The first major decision Seitz has to make is hiring JSU's new basketball coach.

"That's one of the things on the front burner," Seitz said. "I've been really pleased with the response, as far as the interest from applicants. I think that's a credit to what Mark Turgeon had done and also what the potential is here. We're trying to move as quickly as the system allows to get somebody on board, obviously the sooner the better. We're trying to move as quickly as possible in filling that spot."

Before his time at JU, Seitz was the Executive Director of the Palm Beach County Sports Authority, Inc. He also worked at Rollins College as Associate Athletic Director. He was an assistant basketball coach at Oglethorpe University, his alma mater, and served as an assistant at Baptist College at Charleston.

Seitz received a degree in Business Administration from Oglethorpe in 1980, before receiving a Masters in Business Administration from the Citadel in 1982.

Seitz is married and has two children. His daughter Taylor is 10 and his son Brad is seven.

North Carolina leader in fire safety, colleges take heed

Shawn Kauffman, a fire inspector for the Centre Region Code Administration and assistant chief of the Alpha Fire Company.

In the state Senate, lawmakers passed a resolution this month to study the feasibility of installing sprinkler systems in high-rise buildings, including college dorms. The U.S. Senate is considering at least two bills concerning college fire safety. One, the College Fire Prevention Act, proposes $500 million in grants over five years to install sprinklers in dorms.

Another bill, the Fire Safe Dorm Act of 2000, would require colleges to produce statistics about the number of dorm fires, similar to the way they are presently required to report crimes. None of these programs are as intense as the efforts at UNC-Chapel Hill, however. There, the town council required all Chapel Hill fraternities to have sprinkler systems by August 2001; half of them already do.

The University of North Carolina earmarked $38 million for fire safety improvements on campus, including sprinklers, according to their Web site. The state gave $1 million. In addition, health and safety officials at the university train someone at each fraternity and sorority house to serve as fire marshal. As an extra bonus, the Office of Greek Affairs awards fraternities $100 if they pass safety inspections with no violations.

Walt Wisedlang, Centre Region fire marshal, said he hopes to see similar improvements in State College. "I think there's a wave starting here," Wise said. "Hopefully we can make some change without hurting anybody."

BFA Graphic Design

Row Bowden

The artwork ranges from CD jackets, book covers, package design, Web design, photography and painting.

Some of the students are unclear as to what the future holds for them but they have dreams. "I plan to work in the web design field," said Roy Bowden. "I plan on owning my own studio and do wedding photography," said Jill Brothers.

Others were a little more general. "I just want a job," said Jamie Pickle. "By the way all my artwork is for sale."

Still some have a higher calling. "I am going into seminary," said Nate Penland who plans on attending Southwestern, in Fort Worth. "I'll go wherever God leads me," said Adrienne Martin.

If you are interested in seeing some of the talent here at JSU stop by the Hammond Hall Gallery, Monday through Friday, 8:00 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., and catch a glimpse of some graduating artists before they're gone.

Separation of Church and State: Where do we draw the line?

By Christopher Lauer

This past spring break, eight JSU students from the Chi Alpha Organization (Church of Christ) went to the Whiteriver Indian Reservation in Arizona. The intention of this trip, according to participating missionary Shon Cornett in an interview with The Chanticleer, was to "go door to door spreading the gospel" and "to teach children about the gospel of Jesus." The 'mission' trip was partially funded by Jacksonville STATE University's Student Government Association.

Upon learning this, my questions and concerns quickly mounted:

1. Those poor Native Americans—haven't they suffered enough at the hands of the overbearing, religious white man? Can't those missionaries stand to let Apache and Hopi Indians keep what is left of their original spirituality? Maybe the Apache and Hopi should be teaching the Christians about love, respect and honesty.

2. Spread the gospel of Jesus Christ? Yeah, just in case they've never heard of Jesus way out there in Arizona.

3. What is the SGA of a State funded institution doing allocating money to a religious group? Is this legal? What is, or whatever happened to, 'the separation of Church and State'?

It was concern #3 that interested me the most, because it was closer, something tangible, something I could effect and something that effected me. So like any curious person searching for answers in this New Age of Enlightenment, I surfed the net.

I came across a Supreme Court ruling that was made, oddly enough, on March 22 of this year. The Supreme Court upheld the University of Wisconsin's student-fee system that was being used to finance campus groups engaging in political speech deemed objectionable by fellow students. Some of the groups receiving funds from the Student Government Association of the University of Wisconsin were the Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual and Transgender Center and the International Socialist Organization.

The Supreme Court upheld the right of the University of Wisconsin to continue funding these controversial groups as long as the SGA and the university remained "viewpoint neutral" and as long as the groups engaged in political and ideological expression.

Now back to JSU. Was the SGA "viewpoint neutral" in their decision to help finance this mission trip? Would they just have quickly given money to eight atheists picketing outside Judge Roy Moore's courthouse? Besides that, the money given to the SGA by the university should be used, as I understand, to benefit the students of JSU, the university and the community of Jacksonville. So besides helping to finance a fun-filled spring break getaway for 8 JSU students, what did that money do for the rest of the students? What did the money do for the university? What did the money do for the community? Did the money even help to convert the Christian godless Apache and Hopi Indians? Is spreading the gospel a burden to be carried by Jacksonville State University?

Every answer I found just gave birth to more questions. Every Supreme Court document I filed through had to be deciphered with dictionary-in-hand. Finally, with deadlines closing in and weight restrictions holding me to brevity, I realized I wouldn't be able to answer all these questions on my own, nor was it up to me to answer them.

Woman sentenced in strange viola saga

CHICAGO - A woman who stole a rare Italian viola from a junk dealer, conspired to have him murdered and later married him, has been sentenced to two years in federal prison. Wednesday's sentence ended a strange saga that went awry when Quintella Benson and her co-conspirator hired an undercover FBI agent masquerading as a professional killer to bump off Boisie Watson. Benson, 35, admitted stealing a 274-year-old Dom Nicolo Amati viola that Watson had bought at a flea market and giving it to Robert Heiss, who took it to a dealer for appraisal. The dealer recognized it as property of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra and called police. Benson and Watson have since reconciled and are now married.

Punishment by country music

ALEXANDRIA, La. - Henry Nelson Jr., 20, and Jon Driggers, 26, pleaded guilty to violating Rapides Parish's ordinance prohibiting "loud and offensive noise" by playing loud music in their cars. They were fined, given a suspended jail sentence and probation - and ordered to attend a three-hour "music appreciation" session. "I thought if they had to listen to stuff they hate, it would teach them to respect other people's rights," state District Judge Tom Yeager said. So he made them listen to country music, which they said they hated.

Firefighters have to cut their manes

ORLANDO, Fla. - The city's 27 female firefighters are criticizing an order to cut their hair, saying it harkens back to the days when women were not welcome in the fire department. Fire Chief Charlie Walker, who took office in November, issued the order, saying he was enforcing existing policy and would not allow firefighters to merely pin their hair up. The head of the city's labor relations bureau said the rules - that female firefighters' hair cannot extend more than 4 inches below the collar and men's hair cannot extend below the collar - were made for appearance and safety reasons.

Gamecocks struggle during Spring Break

By Erik Green
Sports Editor

After a big win against Alabama A&M on March 22, the JSU baseball team lost both games of a series with Troy State and went 1-of-3 with Campbell during Spring Break.

In the first game against Troy on the 24th, the Gamecocks had five errors and allowed nine runs in their 9-5 loss to the Trojans.

JSU's Jason Nunn started things off by scoring the Gamecocks first run in the first inning. The Gamecocks held the single run lead until the third inning when TSU's Brandon Holmes scored on a single by Casey Smith.

The Gamecocks regained the lead in the bottom half of the third inning, and added an additional pair of runs. Troy mounted a comeback in the fifth inning and tied the game at 3-3.

In the sixth inning, things began to come unglued for the Gamecocks. Two of the five Gamecock errors came in the sixth and TSU took advantage of them. The Trojans added three more runs before the JSU defenders could end the charge. Troy got their final three runs in the eighth inning.

Mike Helms, Joel Stapleton, and Andy Keith led the Gamecocks with a pair of hits each.

JSU pitcher Bill White was the losing pitcher, his first loss of the season.

In game two of the three-game series, former Pleasant Valley High School standout Cale Wright pitched a complete game shutout for the Trojans. The Trojans scored their eight runs in the last four innings of the game, one in the fifth inning, two in the sixth inning and five runs in the seventh inning.

JSU's Joey Shiflett was the losing pitcher for the Gamecocks.

In game three, the Trojans started strong by scoring three runs in the second inning, but the Gamecocks countered in the bottom half of the third inning, tying the game at 3-3.

TSU came back and scored two runs in the fourth inning and one in the sixth to clinch the third Trojan victory of the weekend.

After the series with Troy, the Gamecocks traveled to Sewell-Thomas Stadium on the campus of the University of Alabama and defeated the Crimson Tide 8-5. Jason Moser led the Gamecocks with three hits and one RBI in the win. JSU's Brandon Culp was the winning pitcher.

Following the win against Alabama, the Gamecocks hosted Campbell in a double header last Friday night.

Shiflett was the winning pitcher in the first game of the series, striking out 10 batters and giving up only four hits. The Gamecocks edged the Camels 4-2.

The Gamecocks scored their first two runs in the second inning on a Brandon Stripling double. The final two Gamecock runs came in the third and fifth innings. The Gamecock defense held Campbell scoreless until the ninth inning. Both of the Camels' runs came during their last at bat.

In game two, the Camels bounced back and beat the Gamecocks 7-1. Jeff Huff and Jeff Davis each had a pair of hits for the Camels in the win. Campbell's Corey Byrd allowed only one hit and struck out five JSU batters. JSU's White received his second loss of the season. JSU's Helms had two of the Gamecocks three hits in the game.

On Saturday, the Gamecocks lost game three of the three game series with the Camels 6-4.

Five of the six runs scored by Campbell were unearned and were the result of five JSU errors.

The Gamecocks held on until the eighth inning when Campbell scored two runs to break the 4-4 tie.

The Gamecocks fell to 19-16 overall and 2-7 in the Trans America Athletic Conference.

The Gamecocks are on the road against Florida Atlantic on Friday.

Tennessee Tech claims Banister Classic

From JSU Sports Information

With the conditions ripe for good rounds, Tennessee Tech took advantage, claiming the 2000 Chris Banister Classic, at the par 72 Silver Lakes Golf Course on March 21 by firing a 317 as a team.

After a tough first day, where the conditions were far from ideal, the course lightened up its wrath. As the temperature rose, the scores went lower. In all, there were 10 rounds in the 70's as opposed to just one in the first round. Troy State posted the low round of the day, firing a team total of 313 to finish in second place, two shots back at 648.

In the individual competition, Aroha Fanning of Jacksonville University came from behind, firing the best round of the tournament, a two-over par 74 to claim medalist honors, with a two day total of 154 (10-over par). Fanning closed out the tournament on a tear by shooting even par on her last nine holes. Marie Mattfolk of Jacksonville State took second place, one shot back at 156 (11-over par), after shooting a 77.

Jacksonville State, which posted a 317 in the final round and finished with a 651 total, took fourth place. Maria Borjesson helped lead the Lady Gamecocks, finishing in a tie for 11th after shooting an 83 for a 165 (21-over par) total. Kathy Johnson rebounded from a tough first round to fire a 77 to finish in a tie for 17th with teammate Marieeve Dion, who shot an 83 to finish at 164 (24-over par). Angie Green rounded out the Lady Gamecocks lineup, shooting an 80 to put her in a tie for 23rd at 169 (25-over par).

Lady Gamecocks sweep Stetson

By Erik Green
Sports Editor

Lauren Buck and Christine Tucker led the JSU softball team in sweeping conference foe Stetson on March 25. The Lady Gamecocks won game one 7-2 and game two 7-5.

Buck went 6-for-8 with a homerun and Tucker had a grand slam in the double header.

In game one of the double header, Stetson jumped out to a 2-0 head start at its first at bat. The Hatters would not score another run.

In the third inning, JSU's Toni Duncan stole home to put the Lady Gamecocks on the board. Later in the inning, a single by Buck scored Tucker to tie the game.

The Lady Gamecocks struck again on their next at bat. Duncan came to the plate and sent a shot over the right field wall for a solo homerun, her first of the year.

The Lady Gamecock offense stayed quiet until the sixth inning. Julie Boland started the offensive charge for the Lady Gamers, by hitting a single that scored Duncan, who was waiting on third. Tanya Carter came to the plate and reached first base after a fielding error, sending Boland and Tucker home to add two more runs. Buck came to the plate and hit a single, driving in Carter. The Lady Gamecocks held on to win 7-2.

Jill Wilcoxson was the winning pitcher for the Lady Gamecocks. Wilcoxson (11-6) pitched seven full innings and gave up two runs off seven hits.

In game two, Buck and Tucker struck again to lead the Lady Gamecocks to a 7-5 win in the nightcap.

Duncan started things off for the Lady Gamecocks in the second inning by reaching first on a fielder's choice, scoring Stacy Smith.

The Lady Gamecocks held on to their 1-0 lead until the fourth inning when Tucker added four extra runs to the margin by slapping a grand slam.

Stetson got on the board in the bottom half of the fourth inning when Wendy Smith drove in Katie Harrigan to put the Hatters within four.

In the fifth inning, Buck came to the plate and hit her fifth home run of the season to put the Lady Gamecocks up by five runs.

The Lady Gamers scored their final run in the top of the seventh inning when Meghan Maskel's fly-out scored sent Buck home from third.

In the bottom of the seventh, Stetson scored three runs on a Harrigan homerun. The Lady Gamecocks were able to hold off the Hatter charge and won the game 7-5.

Meadow McWhorter was the winning pitcher for the Lady Gamecocks. Buck came in to pitch in the seventh inning and picked up her first save of the season.

The Lady Gamecocks host in-state rival Troy State today. The game begins at 3:00 p.m. at University Field.
