THE CHANTICLEER

The Student newspaper of Jacksonville State University since 1934

Volume 59, Issue 21
March 10, 2011

in THE NEWS

London Trip Open to JSU Community

By now you have heard the fantastic news that the JSU Marching Southerners will be leading the New Year’s Day Parade in London next year.

Don’t you want to be a part of this event? The trip has been opened up to everyone who wants to come and see the New Year in the United Kingdom. The trip dates are December 28-January 4 and the cost is $3,000 per person including air transportation from Atlanta, six night accommodations in London, breakfasts, and dinners.

By ED MOORE
STAFF WRITER

Hopeful SGA candidates spoke Monday night during the SGA debate. The three candidates are: Leonel Whaley, who is running for SGA President; Benjamin Pickett, who is running for SGA Vice President; and Anthony Jones, who is running for SGA Senator. Whaley said, “We have to turn from a suitcase college, to a college where people actually want to do things at,” declared Bryant Whaley, who is also running for SGA President.

SGA ELECTIONS
CANDIDATES SPEAK AT LEONE COLE

Student Senate. “I want to get as many votes as I possibly can.”

Benjamin Pickett, who is running for SGA President said, “I plan to accomplish the goals that I want to accomplish.”

Leonel Whaley, who is running for SGA President said, “I want to continue to do things that people want me to do.”

Anthony Jones, who is running for SGA Senator said, “I want to be a part of a group of students that want things done.”
and the cost is $3,000 per person including air transportation from Atlanta, six night accommodations in London, breakfast and dinners each night, two half day tours in London and one full day English countryside tour and more.

The first deposit of $500 per person is due by March 21 (deadline extended due to spring break) and final payment is due October 31. Reservations are being taken through the JSU Alumni Relations office. Call them today at 256-782-5405 or via email at kale@jsu.edu to reserve your seat!

Hopeful SGA candidates spoke Monday night at the Leone Cole Auditorium hoping to be the next elected representatives of the Jacksonville State University Student Body. A series of positions are up for campaigning such as Vice President of Organizational Affairs, Vice President of Student Activities, Vice President of Student Senate, and the highest-ranking position, the office of SGA President. “The campaign speeches were great,” said John Stubbs, who is running for Vice President of Student Activities. “I wish everybody the best of luck...” Hosted by Tyrone Smiley, former Vice president of Student Senate during the 2008-2009 academic year, the program gave the student body a chance to meet the candidates and hear them publicly announce their plans for office. This particular election period straddles just three weeks shy of the resignation of former SGA President Mr. Timothy K. Long.

All hopefuls shared their hopes and some promises they expect to fulfill to The Chanticleer.

“I feel like we have a strong campaign going throughout the campus,” expressed Tory Green, who is running for Vice President of Student Senate. “I want to get as many votes as I possibly can.”

Benjamin Puckett, who is running for SGA President, said, “I plan to accomplish that everybody knows what I stand for, the President of SGA has more power to influence things for change.”

“Now is the time to make things happen,” said Ariah Jackson, who is running for Vice President of Organizational Affairs.

Jason A. Sumner, who is the standing Vice President of Student Senate and is now campaigning for the office of Vice President of Organizational Affairs promised to effectively dedicate himself.

Nathan C. Andersen, who is running for Vice President of Student Activities, touched on the importance of student involvement and how it can change the atmosphere of a campus. “Where I come from, there’s student involvement in everything,” he stated. “It’s long past time to have that at JSU.”

“I will create events that students want to attend,” said Rodrique Finley, who is running for Vice President of Student Activities. During her speech, Finley also brought attention to the need for improved advertisement in regards to campus events.

“We have to turn from a suitcase college, to a college where people actually want to do things at,” declared Bryant Whaley, who is also running for SGA President.

Drew Hall, who is running for the office of Vice President of Student Activities, took a stand on increasing the school spirit throughout the JSU campus. “It’s time to take a little pride in this place,” he affirmed. “I have become a friend to a lot of people here. No, we’re never going to be Alabama or Auburn, and I’m okay with that. [But I still] want to see more school spirit.”

“Strong minded, total package, business as usual,” began Stubbs. “I hold the tools necessary to carry out the duties that this position requires. A vote for me is a vote for refreshing change.”

“God has not given me the spirit of fear,” declared Jade Scott, who is running for Vice President of Student Activities. “I’m not a politician, but I have a good heart. I pray you will put your faith in me...”

All candidates will have their first debate on March 21 with elections following on March 24.

The JSU printing system will receive some updates in the coming weeks. The school is re-doing the payment method by allowing students to add funds to their student ID’s via the Internet. The university says,

“The main change will involve how funds are added to student ID’s to pay for printing.”

Student will now be able to add funds to their cards by visiting a website and using a credit or debit card. This will replace the old “Cash to Card” machines previously spread throughout the campus.

“The old printing cards will not work in labs where the new system is installed,” JSU says. Some students were having trouble with using their ID’s with the machines. JSU said it was probably due to students having more than one ID or the card wasn’t readable.

“New cards can be obtained in the card office located on the main floor of the Therion Montgomery Building (TMB). There is no charge for replacement of a card that will not scan correctly. If you get the error “Bad Issue Number” the system is unable to verify that your ID card is the most recently issued card. Please go to the ID card office in TMB to request a replacement card.” Using the new system may be easier in some ways, but it is not flawless. One downside is that the new system only takes debit or credit cards. JSU said,

“Currently there is no method of using cash to fund your card. An option is to go to a local retailer and purchase a pre-paid debit card for use with the system.”

Students will be required to register with the see “Print,” Page 5

Men’s Golf Finishes 11th at USF
Jacksonville State posted a three-round total of 880 to tie for 11th place after Sunday’s final round of the USF Invitational, played at the par-72, Lake Jovita Golf & Country Club.

Photo by Steve Latham
Wacky, Tacky, but True!

Girls Wearing Bieber Shirts Get Suspended From School!

LOL!

Three high school girls from Yonkers High School in New York have been suspended for wearing shirts with "gang" writing all over them.

The shirts in question, however, were self-made Justin Bieber t-shirts that had the words "Bieber Krew" written on them.

So tuff!

Their high school principal allegedly called them in and suspended them from school for wearing t-shirts that were "inappropriate for school because they were gang-related."

One of the girl's parents responded, saying, "It's ridiculous. They're good kids who love Justin Bieber."

The school is denying the claims though, saying "Students at Yonkers High School..."

WTF?! Flight Attendant Puts Toddler In Overhead Compartment!

Recently, the Williamson Family was on flight from Fiji to Sydney with their 17-month-old son, Riley. According to reps from Virgin Blue, one of their flight attendants noticed the young boy playing a game of peek-a-boo with his father and decided to join in on the fun. In an act we assume was without the parent's permission, the flight attendant hoisted the boy into one of the overhead compartments and closed the latch. Outraged, mother Natalie Williamson started yelling at the steward to release her son, which he did under a matter of seconds.

Now, the steward has been fired and Natalie is telling sources that their whole family is traumatized by the incident.

One For All

"All for one, one for all, that is our device."

- Alexandre Dumas

By Logan Huggins
Staff Columnist

I went to a very small high school. My graduating class had 20 students. No, you read that right, 20 students. I graduated fifth in my class, which amusingly put me as the cut off for the top 25 percent. We were one of the bigger classes too. The class below us, the juniors, had ten in their class, eight guys and two girls. And you thought you had a hard time finding a prom date.

We had small classes, small sport teams, and more significantly, small social circles. After six long years in such an limited atmosphere, I had developed a longing urge to get out. I was a "big fish in a little pond," or so I thought.

Graduation came and went, and I was on my way to JSU. I remember even before classes started, I was signing up for as much as I could get my hands on. By the time classes did start, I had already filled out my application for Freshman Forum, joined a student bible study, helped the BCM hand out Popsicles to the Southerners during track camp, and was in a local production of "The Sound of Music." Oh yeah, I also took 18 hours of classes my first semester too.

My venture into active student life didn't stop there. Once school started, all of the aforementioned activities slowly intensified. I had transformed from "big fish in a small pond" to "fish swimming up a waterfall."

I had finally made it out of the narrow life of private school, and into the "real world." To me, I had just traded-in my swimming pool blue, 1973 AMC Gremlin for a new red-hot Corvette. I was pushing myself to the limits to see what I could do.

This lifestyle continued for several semesters. My self-developed sense of purpose emerged from how many endeavors I got into, and how much I accomplished.

Number 1) Know your priorities. Whether you're a genius or if ACE tutoring is your home away from home, always keep in mind the time you as a student will need for your classes, as well as, homework and study hours.

Number 2) Be realistic. When signing up for groups and activities, give yourselves plenty of breathing room. Fifteen minutes may be plenty of time to get from Ayers to Mason; but you'll need more than that for your lunch every day. You may be highly motivated, but everyone needs times for food, friends, and most definitely, yourself.

Number 3) Sleep is not a dirty word. It's hard to be an energized, super-student when you're so tired that you use your 500 page "Algebra for College Students" book as a Tempur-Pedic pillow. The "I'll sleep when I'm dead" approach got buried a long time ago. Make sure to get several, seven to eight, hours of sleep every night. If not that, remember the old fake iPhone ring tone, "Tired? There's a nap for that!"

Number 4) Don't be afraid to ask for help. Selfish pride and self-absorption can easily crop up when we're on our campaign of self-issued activities. Understand that others may help you.
The school is denying the claims though, saying "Students at Roosevelt High School were not banned from wearing shirts displaying the image of Justin Bieber, nor were they accused of being in a gang."

Hmmm, that's weird. Who is telling the truth??

Teenager Jailed

After Stabbing Someone For Making Fun Of Her Smelly Feet

A Washington State teenager has been sentenced to a year in prison after reportedly stabbing another teen who made fun of her "stinky feet."

Dallas Smith was apparently in a drunken rage when she stabbed 19-year-old Willy Simpson in his back with a knife. Dallas pleaded guilty to second-degree assault and was sentenced last week to a year and three months in prison.

Though in an unusual twist, the judge has ordered that Dallas work on a research paper exploring how binge drinking causes the steward to release her son, which he did under a matter of seconds.

Now, the steward has been fired and Natalie is telling sources that their whole family is traumatized by the ordeal. She insists that her son was locked in the compartment for up to 10 seconds in complete darkness and now is suffering from anxiety and withdrawal because of it. The airlines released an official apology to the family, as well as offered three free flights for the family to use. However, Natalie said she was too "shaken" to accept.

Now, we're not arguing that this guy didn't cross a line. He had no business handling a child that young without the parent's permission. With that said, the dude sounds like he was just trying to be friendly. Kids get fussy on planes. He was probably just trying to get the kid to laugh. Besides, if the parents were in view of this happening, then they were well within reach to stop him at any time before he put Riley in the overhead.

Honestly, they might be overreacting just a tad.

What do you think?

Complied by Kevin Brant courtesy Perez Hilton.com

Corrections From Last Week

In last week's article on the Arbor Day Celebration, it was incorrectly stated that the writer's club president, Myke Jackson introduced the poem contest winner. It was in fact the club's faculty advisor, Dr. Doug O'Keefe.

Last week, the article titled "Career Fair" it was stated that it was written by Caitlin Harris. The article was actually written by Tori Pope.

The Chanticleer is glad to set these records straight.

Calendar

March 11

Residence Halls will close for spring break at 6pm. They will reopen March 20th at 2pm.

March 22

JSU Baseball Vs. Auburn at home.
Gametime is 6:30 p.m. at Rudy Abbot Field

March 24

Call Of Duty Video game
Tournament Will Take place in Self Hall
Across from Dixon Hall
Sponsored By Public Relations Organization

Entry Fee is $8; $3 to watch it.
Food will be provided for Tournament Players

For more information email jgodwin@jsu.edu
JSU receives first doctoral program

By: ANDREW HOLDERFIELD
STAFF WRITER

In June 2010 JSU moved up in SACS accreditation from level 4 to level 5, allowing it to begin offering its first doctoral program in the fall semester of 2011.

After almost three years of submitting proposals, budgets, lesson plans and faculty lists to the Alabama Commission on Higher Education, the bureau that oversees post-secondary education within the state of Alabama, JSU has officially been approved by The Southern Association of Colleges and Schools (SACS) for advancement in accreditation and a test-run of its very first doctoral program.

“It takes a lot to get a program like that going,” said Dr. Louise Clark, associate dean of JSU. “They had to make sure the we would have all the we needed to make the program work, the library resources, the faculty, the coursework, all of those kinds of things.” But all of the hard work has finally paid off, as Emergency Management will begin offering its first doctoral program online starting in August 2011, according to Clark.

program we currently have has students enrolled from all over the country, as well as internationally. We are very proud to begin offering the next step to them.”

At the time of this article, there are no current plans in place to move other departments into doctoral programs just yet, due to intrastate competition between larger universities for funding of their doctoral programs making it harder for smaller universities to establish their own. But, undaunted by budgetary restrictions, the new accreditation is a huge step forward and will set the stage for future doctoral degree programs at JSU, when then time comes. Dr. Clark is optimistic for the future.

“There is a possibility that, with the addition of more programs like this, that we could move up to SACS accreditation level 6 and grow as not only an educational institution, but as a research facility, but that’ll be quite some time from now,” noting that it usually takes larger universities decades to achieve such accreditation.
I hope you know CPR cause you take my breath away!

Mo No Burgers for you. If you are caught with one MJ will come and get you.

it will cost you five dollars to get in. Don't look at me like that. PAY UP!!!

(ANY VIEWS OR OPINIONS EXPRESSED IN THE OPINION SECTION OF THE CHANTICLEER ARE THOSE OF THE INDIVIDUALS WRITING AND DO NOT NECESSARILY REPRESENT THE VIEWS OR OPINIONS OF THE CHANTICLEER, WLJS, OR JSU OR ANY OF ITS AFFILIATES OR EMPLOYEES.)

I can read your t-shirt in braille?

What has 142 teeth and holds back the incredible Hulk? My zipper.

In respond to March 3rd’s Good News: the test results were negative.) Bad news: You took the wrong test. Sorry, Please come back to the clinic for a follow up.

When you yawn you look like ELVIS.

Did you fall from heaven.....

LISTEN TO WLJS DAILY for your chance to WIN!!!

(256) 782-5592
(256) 782-5571

919fm.webs.com

THE CHANTICLEER

The Student newspaper of Jacksonville State University since 1934

Room 180 Self Hall, Jacksonville State University
Jacksonville, AL 36265

THE CHANTICLEER STAFF

Kevin Brant Co-Editor: kbrantassoc.editor@gmail.com
MJ Ortiz Co-Editor: mjnewsed@gmail.com
Boyace Pope A&E Editor: bpope.chantynews@gmail.com
Maurice Winsell Sports Editor: mauricewinsell@yahoo.com
Advertising: www.chantyads1@gmail.com

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR POLICY:

The Chanticleer welcomes letters to the editor. Letters for publication must be limited to 300 words and must be typed. Letters may be hand-delivered or sent through campus mail to our offices in Room 180, Self Hall, or to the mailing address. Letters may also be e-mailed to chantyeditorl@gmail.com.

The Chanticleer will not print letters which are libelous or defamatory.

Letters may be edited for style, brevity or clarity. The Chanticleer reserves the right to refuse publication of any submission. Letters must be received by noon on the Monday before the desired publication date.

There will be at least two weeks between publication of letters from the same person. Rebuttals will be published no later than two weeks after publication of the article, editorial or letter in question.
Alpha Omicron Pi: Hitting home runs for awareness

BY: ANGEL PARO
STAFF WRITER

Forty million people are affected by this illness; strike one. Over 294,000 are children, strike two. No one really knows much about it; perhaps we’ve struck out. Alpha Omicron Pi is making an attempt to hit a home-run by spreading the word about arthritis.

On March 3 Alpha Omicron Pi held their annual Strike out Arthritis softball tournament at Henry Farm Park to raise money for arthritis awareness. Tickets were $2 for patrons and $10 for teams.

Taylor Nicole, an AOP sister, stated the reason for choosing arthritis as their cause is: “The facts about arthritis are not well known and there are over 300,000 children diagnosed with juvenile arthritis. Also, mostly women and young girls are affected by this illness.”

The event had a surprisingly impressive turnout, with hundreds of students and fans coming to show their support for the cause. The event had ten teams of students, supporters and faculty anxiously waiting to be crowned this year’s champion - knowing that all proceeds, including winnings would be donated back to the fundraiser.

The goal was fun and spread information on Arthritis. It is safe to say that the goal is being accomplished; even with the writing of this article they wanted to insure the focus was not on them or the game but information.

The term “arthritis” encompasses more than 100 diseases and conditions that affect joints, the surrounding tissues and other connective tissues. Arthritis can cause mild to severe pain in the joints, as well as joint tenderness and swelling. Approximately 46 million Americans have some type of arthritis or related condition.

The various forms of arthritis and related conditions can affect anyone, no matter what your race, gender or age. However, it is especially important for women to be educated about these diseases since they affect women at a much higher rate than men. Sixty percent of all people who have arthritis are female, and several of the more common forms are more prevalent in women.

Osteoarthritis, also known as degenerative joint disease or OA, is the most common form of arthritis. Of the nearly 27 million Americans who have osteoarthritis approximately 16 million are women. Women usually develop OA after age 40. It causes damage to cartilage and bones, causing joint pain, swelling, stiffness and loss of function.

Fibromyalgia is a syndrome characterized by widespread musculoskeletal pain. It is associated with generalized muscular pain and fatigue, loss of sleep, stiffness and sometimes depression and/or anxiety. Fibromyalgia is a form of soft tissue or muscular rheumatism, which means no joint deformity occurs. An estimated 3.7 million Americans have fibromyalgia; the figure may actually be higher since some of its symptoms may be found in other conditions such as chronic fatigue syndrome (which is also more common in women).

Rheumatoid arthritis (RA) usually strikes women between the ages of 25 to 50, but can occur in children. RA is a systemic disease that can affect the entire body. An abnormality in the body’s immune system causes it to work improperly, leading to inflammation in the lining of the joints and other internal organs. Chronic inflammation can lead to deterioration, pain and limited movement. Approximately 1.3 million American adults have RA, with women outnumbering men 2.5-to-1.

Lupus (systemic lupus erythematosus) is an inflammatory disease that may affect the joints, skin, kidneys and other parts of the body. Almost 240,000 Americans -- 90 percent of whom are women -- have this arthritis-related condition. It usually affects women of childbearing age and is more common among African American women than Caucasian women. Some studies indicate that it may also be more common among Asian and Latino populations.

Osteoporosis is a disease whose name literally means “bone that is porous.” It causes bones to lose mass and become brittle, which can lead to rounded shoulders, loss of height and painful fractures. It affects approximately 28 million Americans; four of every five people affected are women. Postmenopausal women and those with small or thin frame, a family history of osteoporosis and habits such as smoking and drinking are at higher risk for osteoporosis. People who have inflammatory arthritis (such as RA) and who take glucocorticoid medications also have an increased risk of developing the disease.

To learn more about arthritis and arthritis related diseases please visit: www.arthritis.org
We see a lot of people wanting to join The Chanticleer and we want YOU to come pin our team as well. We meet every Monday night at 6:30 p.m. in room 180 of Self Hall.

For more information contact MJ at mjnewsed@gmail.com or Kevin at kbrantassoc.editor@gmail.com

Editor's Desk: (256) 782-5701.
News Desk: (256) 782-8192

Gas prices rise as spring break nears

Road-tripping for spring break may not be so cost-effective for University of Iowa students this year.

Gas prices have risen to more than $3.50 per gallon at some Iowa gas stations as political turmoil continues in countries such as Libya and Tunisia.

UI sophomore Jimmy Novak will travel to Daytona Beach, Fla. with 11 other friends in three cars after forgoing plane tickets because of last-minute plans. Novak estimates the group will spend roughly $400 per car on gas.

"It kind of sucks, but I want to go on this trip badly," the 20-year-old said. "I'll have to be careful with my money, and most of that is going toward gas, so I can just be there."

On Monday, Iowa State Gas Prices reported an 11.8-cent increase per gallon in retail gasoline prices over the past week — which keeps it below the national average of 12.6 cents per gallon.

But experts said it's still unusual for Iowa, which generally doesn't see sharp spikes and tends to have lower gas prices this time of year.

Whether the increases will stop is difficult to say. Experts said it's unlikely consumers will see any dramatic drops in the foreseeable future, and $3 per gallon will be the "new norm" for 2011.

"It's virtually impossible to determine if it's going to go up," said Gail Weinholzer, a director of public affairs at AAA Minnesota.

Black and White Cab company owner and driver Siham Elneil, 50, who sometimes stops at the pump more than twice a day, said the prices have taken their toll. The cost of gas cuts into drivers' income, she said, but some customers have begun tipping a little more in sympathy.

Elneil said she also hesitates taking customers on longer routes because of the cost.

"This is really affecting what we bring home every day," she said.

Weinholzer said Iowa gas prices currently average a $3.48 per gallon for regular. The state typically hovers around the national average, now at $3.51, she said.

Though political unrest in the Middle East over the past few months is a factor in increased gas prices, numerous UI professors said the direct effects aren't apparent — at least not yet.

"You usually think price is affected by current supply, but supply from the Middle East hasn't changed," said UI political-science Professor Vicki Hesli. "But people expect the supply to change in the future, and that's pushing up the price."

Whether the increase will continue depends on whether unrest spreads to other countries in the region, especially large oil-producing countries.

Hesli said some fear if states such as Egypt, which has less oil than many of its neighbors, can be affected by the political unrest, the movement could spread to larger dictatorships such as Saudi Arabia, which is the world's largest oil producers.

The present effects seen at local Iowa City gas stations are the result of a ripple effect, said UI urban and regional planning Professor John Fuller.

"The special thing about oil is we all buy gasoline — well, most of us do," said Fuller, who is also on the economics faculty. "Oil prices are embedded in just about everything."
Summer Reading Program

FROM NEWSWIRE

In Summer 2010, Jacksonville State University began a summer reading program in which all first-year students read a common book before classes began in the fall. Students discussed the assigned text and completed assignments based on the text through both their English 100 and 101 classes and their Freshman Orientation (LS 100 and LS 104) courses during the fall semester. Additionally, students participated in the C.O.C.K.Y. experience through the Department of University Housing, and Freshman Forum had the opportunity for book-related group discussions outside of the classroom.

Because of its initial success, JSU's Summer Reading Program will enter its second year with the 2011 reading selection, This I Believe, a collection of personal essays. Originally begun in the 1950s as a radio program by Edward R. Murrow, the This I Believe series is now a regular fixture on National Public Radio and has produced three books of essays. Each brief essay explains core beliefs written by people from all walks of life.

This fall, JSU students and faculty will lend their voices and beliefs to this enduring program. The This I Believe collection of essays will be read by all first year students and will be addressed in various facets of college life, from their English classes to their residence halls. In addition, faculty and students will write their own This I Believe essays to document share and discuss our own beliefs here at JSU.

Print continued from Page 1

ManageMyID service. There is a link to this site at the JSU website. They said,

"Visit this (http://www.jsu.edu/print) link for more information on how to register. This new system will take some getting used to, as with all new changes. The school also said that there is a small charge for each transfer you make on to your ID for printing.

"There is a $1.00 fee per funding transaction. This fee is to cover the fee charged back to JSU for use of the ManageMyID service." The new system will accept debit/credit cards from these companies: Visa, MasterCard, Discover, and American Express. Credit card security is a big deal these days, so will students have to keep a credit card on file? JSU says,

"You do not have to keep a credit card on file with MMID." Not having a credit card on file can be good. What if the system is charging more than it should or charging when it shouldn't?

"Click the "Help" button on your ManageMyID account portal and this will generate an e-mail to the JSU support account. Please provide a call back number in your message and a representative will get back with you in a timely manner," JSU said. The new website looks simple and easy to use. The university suggests that students go to http://www.jsu.edu/print to find out exactly how to use the new system. For those using the system as a guest, there are five-dollar guest cards available at the Houston Cole Library circulation desk.
take some getting used to, as with all new changes. The school also said that there is a small charge for each transfer you make on to your ID for printing.

"There is a $1.00 fee per funding transaction. This fee is to cover the fee charged back to JSU for use of the ManageMyID service." The new system will accept debit/credit cards. "You do not have to keep a credit card on file with MMID." Not having a credit card on file can be good. What if the system is charging more than it should or charging when it shouldn't?

"Click the "Help" button on your ManageMyID account portal and this will generate an e-mail to the JSU support account. Please provide

The Opening Reception will be on Thursday, March 3 from 4:30 to 7:30 p.m.
The exhibition will run through March 31, 2011
Gone after one

By JARED SIMPSON
SPORTS WRITER

After a one-year absence, Jacksonville State returned to postseason play in the 2011 Ohio Valley Conference Tournament as the No. 6 seed on Wednesday, March 2 against no. 7 seed Tennessee State Tigers at the Nashville Municipal Auditorium in Nashville, Tenn.

The Lady Gamecocks tried to shake off the poor performance from February. A month that saw them lose six of their last seven games.

JSU had all they could handle from the Lady Tigers as they found themselves down 31-15 at the half.

JSU would mount an explosive, offensive attack going on a 21-4 run to start the second half and took their first lead of the game with 11 minutes remaining.

Coach Annette Watts preached defense and the Lady Gamecocks responded by turning up the pressure and forcing mistakes from the Lady Tigers.

Brittany Wiley ended the night scoring 12 of her 14 points in the second half.

Brittany Manning led JSU with 17 points off the bench. Danielle Vaughn added 10 points and a career high five blocks and senior Danielle Beneby added nine points and six assists in all 40 minutes of action.

This was JSU first win in the OVC tournament since 2005.

JSU would then advanced to the quarterfinals and face Morehead State. In a game that mirrored much of the Tennessee State game, the Lady Gamecocks found themselves in reversal roles.

The Lady Gamecocks came out strong shooting 52 percent from the field and opening up to a 20-point lead in the first half to a score of 43-23 over the Eagles.

Destiny Lane’s double double in the first half with 13 points and 10 rebounds led the way for JSU.

However, it would be Morehead State who would put the defensive pressure on JSU in the second half forcing the Lady Gamecocks to 16 turnovers.

The Eagles would capitalize on JSU’s mistakes scoring 27 points off the turnovers Danielle Beneby and Destiny Lane.

“It’s like a dream”

By CAITLIN HARRIS
STAFF WRITER

After 53 years, Oval Jaynes is “looking forward to the next phase of his life”

JSU’s Athletic Director, Oval Jaynes, announced his retirement after three years.

Jaynes has been involved in college athletics as a player, coach and athletic director for 53 years now.

Back in 2008, Jaynes was working with a consulting company and during that time got to know President Meehan.

When the previous athletic director retired in the summer of 2008, Jaynes was approached to be a candidate for the newly available AD position.

He had retired in 2003, but accepted the JSU position because it stadium as his most important accomplishment while at JSU, as well as the reorganization and improvement of the athletic department itself.

Some favorite memories of his time here include the baseball team winning the OVC last year, his partnership with the Marching Southerners, the student athletes and coaches and the win at Ole Miss, which he said is “certainly one of the highlights of all time.”

Jaynes thinks the athletic department will continue to be successful in the coming years.

“Right now we’re trying to position ourselves to be the best we can be,” he said. “I hope that whoever comes in to my position as director will pick up where we left off and move to our next heights.”

“Very few people have an opportunity to live their dream,” he said. “I think sometimes I wake up and can’t believe I was able to do what I’ve done in my lifetime. It’s like a dream.”
The Eagles would capitalize on JSU's mistakes scoring 27 points off the turnovers. Danielle Beney and Destiny Lane shared the team's high with 17 points each. Brittany Wiley scored 13 points in the first half while Brittany Manning scored 12 points.

Morehead State outscored JSU 54-22 in the second half to bring the Gamecocks' season to a halt.

When the previous athletic director retired in the summer of 2008, Jaynes was approached to be a candidate for the newly available AD position. He had retired in 2003, but accepted the JSU position because it offered him a new challenge.

"I knew that the stadium was on the horizon," he said. "And having the opportunity to build another facility was a little bit of a challenge. I think that had as much to do with it as anything."

He counts the completion of the indoor season as one of the highlights of the past year. He says he thinks he'll always be involved with athletics but he's going to put out crazy numbers one game, I hadn't seen a live pitch since October," he said. "To go through the experience." With limited facilities, the team had to assess where they are and have the experience. "You'll definitely take the experience." said Barrett. Cunningham was then informed he would indeed start left field because of Hinske's calf strain. "It was awesome just being thrown in there," said Cunningham. While it was only a spring training game and most players envision themselves playing in October, Cunningham made the most of the experience. "You'll definitely take the opportunity when it gets thrown at you like that," he said.

The previous athletic director retired in the summer of 2008. Jaynes was approached to be a candidate for the newly available AD position. He had retired in 2003, but accepted the JSU position because it offered him a new challenge.

"I knew that the stadium was on the horizon," he said. "And having the opportunity to build another facility was a little bit of a challenge. I think that had as much to do with it as anything."

He counts the completion of the indoor season as one of the highlights of the past year. He says he thinks he'll always be involved with athletics but he's going to put out crazy numbers one game, I hadn't seen a live pitch since October," he said. "To go through the experience." With limited facilities, the team had to assess where they are and have the experience. "You'll definitely take the experience." said Barrett. Cunningham was then informed he would indeed start left field because of Hinske's calf strain. "It was awesome just being thrown in there," said Cunningham. While it was only a spring training game and most players envision themselves playing in October, Cunningham made the most of the experience. "You'll definitely take the opportunity when it gets thrown at you like that," he said.