IMPORTANT FROM CANADA.

In the northern part of this month, we have had some interesting news from Canada. The arrival of a schooner from that country has brought us the following particulars:

The port of Quebec has issued a proclamation declaring that all persons who shall attempt to land within the limits of the city and district of Quebec, shall be arrested and conveyed to the nearest fort or other place of safety. This proclamation has been issued in consequence of the alarm which has been caused by the appearance of a large number of Indians, who are said to be on the warpath.

Another recent order of the Governor-General of Canada, has directed that all persons who shall attempt to leave the city of Montreal, shall be arrested and conveyed to the nearest fort or other place of safety. This order has been issued in consequence of the alarm which has been caused by the appearance of a large number of Indians, who are said to be on the warpath.

The Governor-General of Canada has also directed that all persons who shall attempt to land within the limits of the city and district of Quebec, shall be arrested and conveyed to the nearest fort or other place of safety. This order has been issued in consequence of the alarm which has been caused by the appearance of a large number of Indians, who are said to be on the warpath.

TEXAS.

We have received intelligence from Houston Telegraph on the 26th May, and The People's Gazette on the 27th May, and yesterday's St. Louis Advertiser, that the government of Texas has issued a proclamation declaring that all persons who shall attempt to leave the city of Houston, shall be arrested and conveyed to the nearest fort or other place of safety. This proclamation has been issued in consequence of the alarm which has been caused by the appearance of a large number of Indians, who are said to be on the warpath.

Another recent order of the Governor of Texas, has directed that all persons who shall attempt to leave the city of Galveston, shall be arrested and conveyed to the nearest fort or other place of safety. This order has been issued in consequence of the alarm which has been caused by the appearance of a large number of Indians, who are said to be on the warpath.

The Governor of Texas has also directed that all persons who shall attempt to leave the city of Brownsville, shall be arrested and conveyed to the nearest fort or other place of safety. This order has been issued in consequence of the alarm which has been caused by the appearance of a large number of Indians, who are said to be on the warpath.

LOSS OF THE PULASKI.

Another awful and heart-rending catastrophe has occurred in the Pacific Mail Steamship Pulaski. On the 4th June, the ship was lost, with all her crew and passengers. The loss is estimated at $200,000. The Pulaski was on her way from Charleston, South Carolina, to San Francisco, California, and was making her way through the treacherous waters of the Pacific Ocean. The ship was encountered by a heavy sea, which overtook her and caused her to founder. The passengers and crew were saved by the timely assistance of the bark E. S. Smith, which was in the vicinity at the time.

THE AMERICAN IRON GREY-MARE.

The American Iron Grey-Mare, one of the finest horses of the world, is now making a circuit of the United States. He has already visited New York, Philadelphia, and Baltimore, and is now making his way to the West. The horse is a fine specimen of the breed, and is said to be capable of carrying a weight of 500 pounds.

THE EAGLE HOTEL.

The Eagle Hotel, on the corner of Main and Market Streets, is now open for business. The hotel is designed to accommodate the wants of the business man, and is said to be one of the finest in the city.
THE HAUNTED GRAMMAR.

We speak today of a system of education which prevails in some of the States of the Union. It is known as the "Grammar System," and is said to have been originated by a certain Dr. W. H. Grant, who was once a professor of mathematics at Harvard University. The system is said to have been adopted by the State of Massachusetts, and is now in universal use throughout the country.

The system is based on the principle that the study of grammar is of the utmost importance to the student, and that all other subjects should be taught in this manner. It is said to have been developed by a certain Dr. W. H. Grant, who was once a professor of mathematics at Harvard University.

The system is said to have been adopted by the State of Massachusetts, and is now in universal use throughout the country.

OLIVER OAKWOOD.

However, a certain poor widow, one Emily, had spent too much of her money in buying a new dress. To avoid the expense of washing the new frock, she had let it go to pieces, and was reduced to wearing a patched one. She was very uncomfortable, but had no alternative. The thought of the new frock kept her awake at night, and she determined to make it as comfortable as possible.

In the meantime, a young man named John, who had been abroad for some time, had returned. He had brought with him a collection of books and a fine new dress. Emily saw him, and was struck with his elegance. She determined to ask him to call at her house, and to present him with a dress.

The young man was much pleased with the offer, and accepted it. He was also surprised to find the dress so well made, and thanked Emily for her kindness.

EMILY.

Thank you, John, for your kindness. I am glad to see you back again.

JOHN.

Thank you, Emily. I am glad to see you also. I have brought you some books and a new dress, if you will accept them.

EMILY.

Oh, John, how kind of you! I accept them both with pleasure.

JOHN.

I am glad to see that you are happy. I will call on you again soon.

EMILY.

I will be glad to see you. Good-bye, John.

The young man walked away, and Emily was left alone. She was very happy, and thought of the new dress and the books which she had received.

NEW YORK, June 18.

FROM THE FRONTIER.

General Custer's defeat was reported last week, and remained a few days in the newspapers, but it was not until Saturday that the full extent of the disaster was spread abroad. The reports which came from the field were most alarming, and the official dispatches, when they finally arrived, were but a confirmation of the worst. The news was received with the greatest excitement on both sides of the Atlantic.

Governor Mury, as the Washington correspondent of the New York Times, in a dispatch to the Boston Evening Transcript, says:

"General Custer was in command of the 7th Michigan, which is one of the best regiments in the service. He was accompanied by Captain Dohr, of the 7th Michigan, and his staff. The regiment was armed with the new model rifle, and was in perfect condition. The battle was fought on the banks of the Yellowstone River, and was the result of a surprise attack by the Sioux and Cheyenne, who were greatly superior in numbers.

"The result was a complete disaster. The regiment was surrounded and cut off from all means of escape. The general's body was found on the battlefield, and the regiment was not seen again.

"The reports of the loss are yet to be confirmed. It is believed that the regiment was completely annihilated. The general's body was found with a bullet in the head, and it is believed that he made a gallant attempt to escape, but was overcome by the numbers of the enemy. The loss is a heavy one, and the country is in mourning for the fall of its brave leader."
The Prince called for France on the 26th, from New York, in the frigate, D’Artagnan, on which he is a Lieutenant.

KING PHILIP.

This distinguished personage, the Seminole (says the N. O. True American) espied the metropolis of Arkansas, and after a tedious journey of four thousand miles, the King Philibos, known as Philibos, King of the Seminoles, arrived at New Orleans, having been visited by him, and was escorted with all due ceremonies.

The King Philibos is a very ancient and powerful chief, and is considered as one of the most important persons in the Indian country. He is a great orator, and is known for his eloquence in the council of the Seminoles.

IMMENSE CREATION.

Some astronomers have computed that there are about a hundred thousand stars in the universe. The fixed stars, however, are so distant that they cannot be counted, and it is believed that there are at least a million stars in the universe.

The Prince of Lusignan, in his Journelles, gives an account of the discovery of a new world by the Italian navigator, Amerigo Vespucci. He says that Vespucci, in the year 1497, discovered a new continent, which he called America, and which he believed to be the island of the people of the same name.

CELEBRATION OF THE PASSING OF JULY, 1859.

According to the custom of the day, the citizens of Concordia held a grand celebration on the occasion of passing the month of July. The day was observed with great festivity and rejoicing, and was spent in various amusements and entertainments, which were enjoyed by all present. The principal feature of the celebration was a grand parade, which was formed in the streets of the town, and was accompanied by a band of music. The procession moved through the streets, and was followed by the citizens, who were all highly pleased with the display. The celebration was concluded with a grand banquet, at which the guests were entertained in the best manner.

INDEPENDENT TREASURY BILL.

The Independent Treasury Bill, which has been the subject of much discussion and controversy, has been defeated in the Senate. The bill was introduced by Mr. G. F. SMITH, and was opposed by a large majority of the members of the Senate. The bill was then referred to a committee of the whole House, and was reported favorably. The bill was then presented to the Senate, where it was again debated, and was defeated by a large majority of the members.

STATE OF THE UNION.

The President of the United States, in his annual message to Congress, has presented a statement of the condition of the country, and has made some important recommendations. The President has stated that the condition of the country is sound and prosperous, and that the government is in a state of efficiency. He has recommended the establishment of a national bank, and has also recommended the creation of a new system of internal improvements.

A PROPOSITION FOR THE ENCOURAGEMENT OF PRODUCTIONS.

The publisher of the American Journal of Agriculture, in his recent number, has published a proposition for the encouragement of productions. The proposition is as follows: 'That the government should establish a system of internal improvements, and that the government should also establish a system of national banking.' The proposition is well conceived, and is likely to be adopted by the government.

THE IMPORTANT NEWS OF THE NATION.

At midnight, from the Rambler, the news reached Boston. The Emperor Napoleon, at the head of his army, had landed in his native land. The news was too sudden and unexpected for the authorities to know how to act. The people were in a state of consternation and alarm. The Emperor, who had been in France, was now called upon to take up his residence at the Tuileries, where he had lived for many years. The news spread rapidly throughout the country, and the people were divided in their opinion as to the best course of action. Some were in favor of resistance, while others were willing to submit to the will of the Emperor. The situation was critical, and the people were anxiously awaiting the outcome of the matter. The Emperor was soon back in Paris, where he was received with great enthusiasm. The people of the country were novamente grateful to him for his efforts to restore peace and order to the nation.
