Description and Treatment of the Fever

Prognosis

The fever has repeatedly disgraced the halls of Congress and the Senate.

They have attacked the feelings of the members, and the use of their language, upon matters of fact.

These are the words that should be used to describe the fever that has been in Congress.

They refer to the situation of the country in regard to the war.

The fever has been described as a "malady that pervades the body, and that is characterized by a general debility and languor."

foreign brought to think seriously on the true state of the Union, have not, of course, an equal share in the deliberations of the House of Representatives. The great mass of the people are not aware of the danger to which the country is exposed, and the necessity for action. There is a feeling among the people that if they do nothing, and adopt a course of inaction, they will be plundered and destroyed. They are determined to resist any attempt to deprive them of the rights which they consider essential to their existence.

The great and broad question is, what are the measures necessary to be adopted to prevent the destruction of the country? The only course which can be pursued is a naval and military resistance. But this requires a large amount of money, which can only be raised by a tax on the people. The tax must be levied in a manner that will not cause dissatisfaction among the people. The tax must be levied on all classes of property, and not on any particular class.

The people are determined to resist any attempt to deprive them of their rights. They are willing to make any sacrifice to prevent the destruction of the country. They are prepared to resist any attempt to deprive them of the rights which they consider essential to their existence.

THE REPUBLICAN.

JACKSONVILLE, AUG. 17. 1863.

In the negotiations of the Congress of the States of the Union, a bill has been introduced which is calculated to deprive the people of the right of rejecting any measure, no matter how beneficial it may be, unless they are satisfied with it. This bill is known as the "Repeal of the six per cent. tax." It is a measure which has been long advocated by the people of this country, and which is now being actively promoted by the Congress of the States of the Union.

The bill provides for the repeal of the six per cent. tax, and its substitution by a tax of two per cent. on all property taxable under the laws of the United States. The revenue from this tax is to be used for the support of public schools.

The bill has been passed by both houses of the Congress of the States of the Union, and is now awaiting the signature of the President of the United States.

Commission and Deputy Postmaster.

In the United States Post Office.

The following is an extract from a letter received this morning from the late Indian murderers in Alabama.

The writer expresses a desire to be heard in person, and states that he has not been visited by any agent of the government within the last two years.

He asks that he may be permitted to return to Georgia, and that he may be allowed to go to the United States to secure the release of his son, who is now a prisoner in the stockade at a military post.

He further states that he has no property, and that he is willing to return to Georgia on the condition that his son shall be released from the military post.

He concludes by expressing his readiness to return to Georgia, and to make whatever sacrifice may be necessary to secure the release of his son.

The following is an extract from a letter received from a friend of the late Indian murderers in Alabama.

He states that he has been in communication with the friends of the late Indian murderers, and that he has learned from them that they are ready to make whatever sacrifice may be necessary to secure the release of their friends.

He further states that he has written to the Governor of Georgia, and that he has received a reply, in which the Governor expresses a desire to make a personal examination of the case, and that he will do so as soon as possible.

The Governor further states that he has instructed the Commissioner of Indian Affairs to make all necessary arrangements for the personal examination of the case, and that he will do so as soon as possible.

The Governor concludes by expressing his readiness to make a personal examination of the case, and that he will do so as soon as possible.

INDEPENDENT TRUST.

The arguments employed by the different opponents of this measure have been very many and very various. Some have said that the measure is unnecessary, that the government is already well enough established. Others have said that it is necessary, because the government is not well enough established yet. Some have said that it will be good for the country, that it will make the government more strong. Others have said that it is not good for the country, that it will make the government more weak.

The question, however, is not whether the government is well established or not, but whether it is necessary to establish it further. The question is not whether the government is strong or not, but whether it is necessary to make it stronger.

The government is already well established, but it is not well enough established to be fully strong. It is necessary to establish it further, to make it stronger. The government is not strong, but it is necessary to make it stronger.

THE REPUBLICAN.

JACKSONIAN REPUBLICAN.

Raleigh, August 25th.

THE RESULT.

Our return to the state. We have heard from the Senatorial, District of Bun-county, and from the House of Representatives, that the new state has been established, and that the new government is in full operation.

The state of Massachusetts is in full operation. The state of New York is in full operation. The state of New Hampshire is in full operation.

Thus, we see, the new state has been established, and the new government is in full operation.

THE REPUBLICAN.
