SEPTEMBER
AN APPRENTICE

Tuesday, Sept. 14, 1848

We are happy to announce that the week's work of the apprentice at the office of our firm has been completed without any accidents or incidents of any kind. The apprentice has shown a great improvement in his skill and workmanship during the past week, and we are confident that he will continue to make steady progress in his trade.

COTTON

The cotton market has remained fairly stable this week, with prices holding steady around the previous week's levels. There has been a slight increase in demand for higher quality cotton, but overall supply remains abundant. The current prices range from $0.90 to $1.10 per pound, depending on the quality and production region.

The number of apprentices increased again this week, with a total of 34 new apprentices starting their training programs. This brings the total number of apprentices to 120, well above the previous record of 100.

The number of registered customers has also increased, with 45 new customers registering this week. This brings the total number of registered customers to 450, an increase of 20% from last week.

The number of apprentices graduated this week was 5, bringing the total number of graduated apprentices to 10. The remaining apprentices will continue their training programs for another 6 weeks.

The statement of Mr. Clay, made at this juncture, was the signal for a general appeal to the friends of the Union. He said that the time had come for the people of the United States to remember that, in the present crisis, there was no room for “epitomies.” He added that the question before the country was whether the Union was to be preserved or dissolved, and that the Union must be preserved. He concluded by calling upon the people to vote for the presidential ticket of the Whig party.

The speech of Mr. Clay was received with great applause by the audience, and was followed by a long series of speeches by other Whig candidates, who urged the support of the Whig party and the preservation of the Union.

The meeting adjourned at 10 o'clock, after a long and interesting discussion. The Whig party was very greatly strengthened by this meeting, and was well prepared for the contest of the election.
